When two people are in love, it seems like the magical spark between them is going to last forever. Unfortunately, more often than not, with the dampening effects of everyday pressures and stresses, the love is eroded and eventually burns out. Burnout is not caused by individual pathology or inadequacy, and it is not caused by major dramatic events. It is caused by a buildup of petty annoyances, minor dissatisfactions, and a gradual increase in boredom. How can this insidious process of love's erosion be prevented? How can a couple in love keep the romantic spark alive?

Participants will be encouraged to find their own romantic schemata and to rekindle the romantic images they shared at the beginning of their relationships. This workshop is recommended especially for couples committed to keeping the spark alive in their relationships and for marriage and family counselors. It may also be helpful for individuals who are trying to figure out what went wrong in a relationship that burned out. $270

The Psychology of Spiritual Essence: An Introduction

Hameed Ali

Hameed Ali writes: "This is a workshop for individuals who have done a lot of emotional and growth work and are beginning to feel the pangs of hunger for something deeper and more fundamental. This existential discontent is the longing of the heart for what will truly fulfill it, the Essence of who we are. Essence is our true being; it is pure consciousness, concentrated and distilled life.

"I will use the Diamond Approach, a teaching created in our time, for our time. This method is a precise, psychological way of working with longing and discontent, taking it to its original root—the underlying sense of lack and emptiness. This emptiness manifests itself according to the individual and becomes the door to a specific aspect of Essence: awareness, will, love, compassion, strength, joy, etc.,—whatever was lacking—and which becomes the door to the more fundamental and ultimate realm of being.

"I will use conceptual presentation, interpersonal exercises, meditation, and personal emotional work. In such a short time we can only get a taste of who we are, but a taste of the eternal, using understandable and available methodology, can go a long way in terms of activating this sleeping potential of ours."

Recommended reading: Hameed Ali, The Elixir of Enlightenment, Essence, The Void, and The Diamond Heart. $270

Week of August 9–14

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $530

Advanced Massage Intensive

George King & Dianne Miller Lesty

For workshop description see June 12-14. $530

Transpersonal Psychology: Perspectives On Growth and Self-Exploration

Christina & Stanislav Grof

For workshop description see July 26-31. $530

Weekend of August 14–16

Reprinting: A Growth Process

Hector Prestera

How does one become un-stuck from imprinted experiences and more fully realize inner power? Through various approaches including body reading, light trance work, and anchoring (Erickson), participants can explore how powerful the unconscious is in keeping old behavioral patterns locked in, and may open new doors toward growth and freedom. New models of behavior may then become available.

The workshop will feature individual and group processes, including body release approaches.

Recommended reading: Hector Prestera and Ron Kurtz, The Body Reveals (Harper & Row). $270

Ashtanga Yoga

Deborah Anne Medow

"The body is a boat which carries the soul in the ocean of the world. If it is not strong or it has a hole, then it can't cross the ocean. So the first duty is to fix the boat."—Baba Hari Dass

This weekend workshop will utilize the methods of the ancient system of ashtanga yoga in "fixing the leaky boat." Throughout this weekend a cleansing diet and various integrated sessions will be combined to encourage workshop participants to develop a solid basis for further development of the physical, mental, and spiritual aspects of yoga practice. Topics covered will include yoga theory, yoga purification and breathing exercises, and meditation, with particular emphasis on asanas (postures). $270

The Rubenfeld Synergy® Method

Ilana Rubenfeld

This is a workshop for professionals and others to explore and analyze how they use themselves—both professionally and in their personal relationships. It will provide an exciting introduction to the Rubenfeld Synergy Method, a healing system that combines touch, gentle body movement, visualization, humor, music, gestalt, and verbal and nonverbal intervention to increase effectiveness in the process of self-healing.

Ilana Rubenfeld will help participants develop efficient use of the bodymind and unblock energy by releasing emotions and memories stored in the body. She will show how to shield and ground the self in the face of difficult situations with clients and others. Sessions will include experiential and theoretical components and one-to-one demonstrations. Each participant will have an opportunity to process his/her experience. Participation in this workshop will fulfill one of the requirements for acceptance into the Rubenfeld Synergy training program. $270

Exploring the World of Lucid Dreaming

Stephen LaBerge

Lucid dreaming means dreaming while knowing we are dreaming. The wakeful consciousness of this extraordinary state allows us to respond flexibly and creatively to the flow of dream experience, giving us a unique opportunity to control our dreams. This control allows us the freedom to explore a remarkable range of possibilities, from indulging our wildest fantasies to following our highest spiritual aspirations.

For most of us, lucid dreams are as rare as the waking peak experiences to which they are analogous. This need not be so, as the skill of lucid dreaming can be developed. Participants will be exposed to the latest scientific research and a wide variety of uses to which the world of lucid dreaming can be put, including self-exploration, creative problem-solving, healing, adventure, and perhaps most important, a way of self-integration leading to the transpersonal realms.

The scope of the workshop will extend beyond the dream state to discussions and demonstrations of the nature of consciousness and how we construct our perceptual worlds. This workshop is intended for avid dreamers and people seriously interested in self-explorations and the development of consciousness.

Recommended reading: Stephen LaBerge, Lucid Dreaming (Ballantine). $270

Week of August 16–21

Food for Health

Jane Miletich

The purpose of this workshop is to experiment with new ways of cooking that eliminate certain foods and add other, more healthful ones. It will be a week of lowering cholesterol and fat intake through the preparation of nutritious and tasty meals without the use of processed foods, meat, dairy products, oils, or salt.

Participants will spend time in the kitchen learning methods for juicing, cooking grains, legumes, nuts, seeds, and sprouts, and preparing soups and raw salads. The foods to be used will include various fresh herbs and produce picked from the Esalen garden and farm or bought from local organic farmers. $530

Creating Musical Theater

Stephen Book & Nancy Kaye Lunney

Join us for a week of creating original musical theater as writer, lighting technician, actor, designer, or stage manager. Using Spolin theater games, we will develop an improvisational process which will involve us in creating an original musical theater performance piece presented to the Esalen community on the final evening.

Stephen Book is an off-Broadway/international/regional theater director and teacher. He was a longtime faculty member of the Juilliard School and is now at USC and heads his own professional studio in Hollywood. Nancy Kaye Lunney has been an accompanist and vocal coach to entertainers in the theater, movies, and television, and currently leads workshops in singing gestalt at Esalen. (For that workshop description see May 15-17.) $530

Healing the Broken Heart: The Art of Effective Bonding

George Kohlrieser

From cradle to grave, life involves a changing script of "affectional bonds." These bonds are different from dependency and essential for growth, health, and happiness. Attachment theory is a way to conceptualize the tendency of humans (and other mammals) to make strong affectional bonds with particular others, a way to explain many forms of physical, emotional, and spiritual distress including emotional detachment, depression, and burnout. Life energy is connected to the quality and depth of emotional contact. This experiential workshop will focus on the patterns of forming, maintaining, breaking, and renewing affectional bonds. Methods include guided affective imagery, emotional release, group process, and intense bonding work to understand, create, and celebrate positive emotional attachments. $530

The Art of Self-Care: Who Heals the Healer? Who Helps the Helper?

Ilana Rubenfeld

Does helping others leave you drained at the end of the day?

Do you need an appointment to help take care of yourself?

Who helps the health professional?

In this seminar, the leader will draw on her background with the Alexander method, Feldenkrais®, and gestalt to help participants explore and analyze how they use themselves in their practice.

This approach can help participants unblock their own energy and shield and ground themselves in the face of difficult situations with clients, learning to be with, rather than for their client. Using nourishment and humor, participants will learn about self-care, a critical need for health professionals. Participation in this workshop will fulfill one of the requirements for acceptance into the Rubenfeld Synergy® training program.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 8. $530

Weekend of August 21–23

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $270

The Dancing Path

Gabrielle Roth

"Be open, be available, be exposed, be skinless! Skinless? Dance around your bones."
—Wallace Stegner

The dancing path is the road to yourself, to all that you are meant to be. It is the journey from inertia to ecstasy, from body to spirit. It is the way of the warrior.

Dance is a dialogue between spirit and flesh, a tool for awakening and attuning to the rhythms of life, and a catalyst for release of the feelings and attitudes that imprison the human spirit.

One way to still your mind is to move your body. An effective way to set your feelings in motion is to move your body. The best way to move your body is to dance—your dance, the dance only you can do. $270

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff
Coordinated by Steven Harper

Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. With this natural reserve as the primary teacher, participants will walk into the Los Padres National Forest. They will draw on various traditions, developing the quality of their awareness and opening to the natural world. Week-long workshops will venture out on five hikes (4-10 miles in length) and weekend workshops will take two hikes (3-6 miles in length). Using Esalen as base camp, the group will explore different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each day-hike will begin after breakfast and will conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. Participants will practice basic outdoor skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts. They will be taught enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after these outings. More information will be sent upon registration. $270

Imagery in Healing

Jeanne Achterberg & Frank Lawlis

Recent scientific evidence points to "the image" as the conscious gateway to physical control and as a reflector of bodily change. The focus of this workshop will be the training of the inherent power of the imagination in its healing capacity. Ancient healing wisdom, modern technology, good science, and the terrain of the spirit will be intertwined. The potential for self and transpersonal healing will be explored through the use of sound, guided imagery, meditation, and other techniques to empower the psyche.

There will be opportunities to discuss the relevance of these practices to modern medicine as well as the novel ways they are being integrated into health care settings by the workshop leaders. Experience with persons having catastrophic disease, including arthritis, cancer, diabetes, chronic pain, and autoimmune and immune disorders may be shared.

This workshop will be addressed to those studying and working in the helping professions and to the interested health consumer.

Recommended reading: Jeanne Achterberg, Imagery in Healing: Shamanism and Modern Medicine; Michael and Nancy Samuels, Seeing with the Mind's Eye.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 8. $270

Week of August 23–28

Mirrors

Gabrielle Roth

"I never dreamed of being Shakespeare or Goethe, and I never expected to hold the great mirror of truth up before the world; I dreamed only of being a little pocket mirror, . . . one that reflects small blemishes, and some great beauties, when held close enough to the heart."—Peter Altenberg

This ritual theater lab, a marriage of art and healing, is a way to "know thyself" in intense, honest, creative explorations of the psyche, its patterns, cycles, and movements. The unique theater and dance processes developed by Gabrielle Roth encourage you to probe your own life experience and to share and dramatize your insights in movement and performance. $530

N.L.P., Hypnosis, and Reichian Body Work

David Silverstein & Yvonne Ginsberg

This workshop will allow individuals to explore their process using Reichian body work, neurolinguistic programming (N.L.P.), and hypnosis. Each person will have opportunities to work individually as well as in group. By loosening the body armor through Reichian work, participants may become more receptive to exploring their emotions and their unconscious. Hypnosis will be used to help participants experience and re-experience fantasies, dreams, and unfinished situations. N.L.P. offers the possibility of changing beliefs and criteria that keep one's life limited to familiar patterns. Throughout the workshop there will be gentle encouragement to realize that experience is within one's means to define and create. In bringing together these approaches to human development, the workshop leaders wish to create an environment which respects each individual's natural growth process. $530

Transitions

Elliot Aronson & Gabriele Thomson

Disorganization is a natural part of transition and facilitates reorganization. People are almost constantly in a state of transition—whether it be getting married, beginning a new career, becoming a parent, letting go of a relationship, or moving on to the next stage in the life cycle. These changes can be exciting and, at the same time, can evoke a loss of internal balance. The result can be lack of self-esteem, loss of identity, confusion, and doubts about one's own perceptions. New thoughts and ideas are fragile at these times of change and need protection and nurturance.

The goal of this workshop is to gain a perspective on the process of making transitions. Through didactic presentations and group discussions, individuals will have an opportunity to understand the emotional stresses involved in their personal transitions. $530

Still Point, Turning Point: A Light and Gentle Approach to Mind, Heart, and Body

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

"Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful."—Xenophon

People, like plants, need special attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what they've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness. The courage to let go of self-defeating patterns from the past, the willingness to master fresh skills and create new dreams for the future: these are the turning points that nourish and sustain human beings.

In this workshop, the participants will come together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in themselves. They will create a community whose aim is to explore and move through individual turning points in a climate of trust, goodwill, and authenticity. The program will be structured to include intensive individual work, using practices from gestalt, psychosynthesis, and bioenergetics, as well as creative movement, music, guided imagery, group rituals, and celebrations. $530

Weekend of August 28–30

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $270

Couples' Workshop

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

For workshop description see June 14-19. $270

Reversing Heart Disease: A Model for Personal Transformation

Dean Ornish

Illness can serve as a catalyst for personal transformation and growth, motivating us to ask, "Why did I get sick? What are the causes?" With coronary heart disease (CHD)—the #1 cause of death in this country—lifestyle seems to be the primary factor. What we eat, how we respond to stress, and other aspects of our lifestyles are powerful determinants of health and disease. And because the technology for measuring coronary heart disease is so advanced, CHD is an excellent model for measuring the power of lifestyle changes to help heal—and prevent—heart disease.

For the past ten years, Dean Ornish, a physician, has directed three research studies demonstrating, for the first time, that a comprehensive lifestyle change program (yoga, meditation, low fat vegetarian diet, smoking cessation, exercise, and psychological support) can produce extraordinary improvements in people with CHD. This workshop will combine lectures reviewing the research data and explaining why lifestyle affects the heart, plus experiential training in the lifestyle program.

Recommended reading: Dean Ornish, Stress, Diet, and Your Heart.

C.E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 8. $270

Asylum: Responsible Psychiatric Alternatives

Leon Redler

Although no strangers to mental suffering, we're often wide of the mark in locating its source, realizing its nature, and knowing how to respond in ways both salutory and effective, thus missing precious opportunities for well-being. "Psychiatry," etymologically, points to healing of disturbances in the flow of the breath of life, or spirit, or mind, within and between us. But the psychiatric response to people in mental distress is seldom in accord with the etymological roots which could inform its principles and practices.

This workshop is intended for colleagues and students in the mental health and related professions, non-professionals with direct experience of mental distress, and anyone seriously concerned with our society's ability to respond, or lack of it, in these matters.

We will inquire into what constitutes therapeutic community, asylum, refuge, dwelling, autorhythmia, attentive care, and responsibility, and discuss the possibilities and problems of reviewing and reforming services in our own communities.

Implicit here is an exploration of primarily non-intrusive, non-transgressive ways of being with and responding carefully and effectively to people. The implications go beyond the issues of mental suffering and involve all of us who would strip away what interferes with discovering our way home, where the heart is, where ease and happiness begin.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 8. $270

The Re-emergence of the Goddess: A Major Paradigm Shift

Elinor Gadon

A new consciousness is growing among women and men, an awareness of the deep connectedness and relationship of all life—a healing of the split between culture and nature, mind and body, male and female, life and death. The Goddess has emerged as metaphor and symbol for the transformation of our culture into a truly humanistic one. A feminine consciousness valuing insight, intuition, feeling, and emotion is replacing the dominant masculine one of hierarchy, competitiveness, and aggression.

The roots of modern Goddess consciousness are in the feminist movement, where she has served well both as role model for women's empowerment and as catalyst for re-imaging the divine in patriarchal Judaism and Christianity. She has been a muse to artists and poets. Women's bodies and human sexuality are being re-sacralized in the spirit of the Great Goddess, and with this awareness comes the understanding of eros, the erotic, as the life force, the source of creativity and joy and human connection.

Gaia, the Earth Goddess, has given her name to the new hypothesis which sees our planet, Earth, as a living, self-generating organism. Goddess politics are Green, the grassroots movement which stands for earth wisdom, deep ecology, economic decentralization, and non-violence. Goddess healing is holistic, acknowledging the power of the esoteric. The new spirituality is one of immanence—the Goddess within both women and men.

We will explore the role and meaning of the Goddess in past cultures and living tradition, using the visual arts to identify symbols and images which have shaped our world view. Through dialogue and ritual we will connect the emerging new values to the participant's life experience, initiating personal transformation. $270

Week of August 30–September 4

Five Days with Janet Zuckerman

For workshop description see June 14-19. $530

A Gentle Unfolding

Daniel Bianchetta

This seminar will focus on the integration of body, mind, and spirit through intuition, energy awareness, massage, meditation, movement, gestalt, and play. Using these tools and gentle risk-taking can help in opening to one's own aliveness and ability to be more at home with oneself. Participants will explore practical and portable ways of nourishing and trusting the inherent wisdom of the self. $530

Charts of the Brain, Journeys of the Spirit

William Roll

Modern science and parapsychology are revealing a matrix which connects people with each other, with their physical environment, and with persons who are no longer living. The exercises in this workshop will help participants enter this matrix and move to a wider spiritual awareness. Procedures to develop psychic intimacy, such as the energy dance, psi scanning, psychic readings, psi sessions ("seances"), psychometry, and psychic healing will help participants experience each other and the world around them with a fresh, joyful, and healing consciousness.

Participants will explore the meaning of out-of-body and near-death experiences, channeling, and precognitive dreaming. The evidence for survival after death from apparitions of the dead, mediumistic communications, and rebirth memories will be discussed. $530

The Sacred Mask Experience

Elisa Lodge Schiffman

"Marvel at the ingenuity in which divinity hides itself in order to find itself." — Alan Watts

Masks are magic! The elemental power of sacred masks to liberate and transport us has all but disappeared from our cultural heritage. Drawing our initial inspiration from a large international collection of masks, we will re-establish our connection to this ancient artistic tradition, one of the oldest forms of catharsis and healing.

Through mask-making, ritual theater, trance journeys, primal sound, and movement work, we will enter a world that will carry us to the further reaches of our imagination and to what is revealed behind the masks — the beauty and truth of our essential nature. Together, we will create rituals that grow out of sacred practice, opening us to more vital and novel dimensions of expressive behavior not ordinarily permitted in our daily lives. Local musicians from Big Sur will be used to orchestrate and ground the powerful energies that emerge. $530

August 30–September 6

Psychosynthesis: A Seven-Day Workshop for Professionals

Harry Sloan

For workshop description see July 19-26. $800

Weekend of September 4–6

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman

For workshop description see June 19-21. $270

Joyce Rogers Lyke

The Future of the Body: The Esalen Institute Study of Exceptional Functioning

Michael Murphy, Steve Donovan, Margaret Livingston & Keith Thompson

In his novel, Jacob Atabet, Michael Murphy speculated that a next stage of human development might involve the power to alter the physical body at will. He is developing this idea more thoroughly in a book, The Future of the Body, and through the Esalen Institute Study of Exceptional Functioning, organized in 1976 to compile and analyze a broad range of scientific, speculative, and anecdotal literature on bodily transformation. Murphy will discuss some of the major ideas of his current book, and Donovan, Livingston, and Thompson will present results to date of the Esalen Institute Study of Exceptional Functioning. (Note: Michael Murphy will be present for the Friday and Saturday evening sessions only.)

Recommended reading: Michael Murphy, Jacob Atabet and The Psychic Side of Sports. $270

Psychic Vision and the Creative Experience

Nancy Azara

Nancy Azara writes: "Know and expand your psychic vision and explore the magical power and healing properties inherent in art-making. Using meditation and other exercises, you can open creative channels, find your visual language, bring vivid images to consciousness, and paint and draw these experiences."

Participants can focus light and color through the body, practice reading auras, experience laying on of hands, identify and clarify important influences in their lives, and own their personal power.

They are asked to bring to the workshop whatever they like of the following: acrylic or watercolor paint, collage materials, pastels, oil crayons, scissors, glue, and about 25 sheets or the equivalent in pads of good quality drawing paper (no newsprint). Size 11"×14" is ideal. $270

Building Community: A Learning Circle

Wade Hudson

This workshop will explore how ordinary people can use ideas and methods developed at Esalen to strengthen a sense of community in their daily lives—whether it be in the workplace, family, church, political organization, or neighborhood.

Simple, easily-learned concepts will be presented, and the participants will be invited to analyze how they might adopt these structures to build stronger communities back home. Methods employed may include: relaxation techniques, meditation, physical exercise, massage, group process, music, movement, role-playing debates, open seat, support groups. Ideas explored may include: self-regulation / mutual support; leadership / democracy; liberty / socialization; cooperation / competition; materialism / spirituality; political action / personal growth.

The workshop leader will discuss his own work in a low-income, multi-cultural neighborhood in San Francisco, the Tenderloin, where he lives in a cooperative residential hotel and volunteers at a community self-help center.

For those who are interested and able, a follow-up evaluation meeting will be held in San Francisco four weeks following the workshop. $270

Week of September 6–11

Childhood Sexual Abuse: A Workshop for Survivors

Jessica Moore Britt

To guard against the hurts, fears, and confusion that sexual invasion of a child's physical and psychic boundaries can create, the child often abandons the place of conflict—the body. This may be reflected in tension patterns, numbness, or oversensitivity. Gently, during this week together, participants will move toward reintegrating their bodies with their selves, with particular attention to body image, sexual experience, intimacy, and parenting.

Within the natural healing environment of Big Sur, participants will use gestalt practice, Reichian breath work, movement, and touch to re-enter their private world of memories and feelings. They will gain a deeper understanding of boundaries, betrayal, responsibility, and aloneness. Focus will be on perception of oneself physically, sexually, emotionally, and spiritually, and how this affects relationship with others. Through the supportive group atmosphere, participants may discover that it is safe once again to embody beauty, life, and love. $530

Ways to Change: A Jungian Experience

John Nicholas

"Meaninglessness inhibits the fullness of life and can, therefore, be equated with illness; meaningfulness makes a great many things endurable, perhaps everything."—C.G. Jung

We discover ourselves through relationships—with others and within and beyond ourselves—transcending the ordinary boundaries of time and space. The focus of this workshop will be the most central aspect of all transpersonal work: change. The basic concepts of C.G. Jung will be applied to practical problem-solving and conflict resolution of everyday issues and relationships. Participants will have the opportunity to discover, explore, and confront unconscious complexes that inhibit the fullness of life and block creativity. There will be time for individual work with dreams, active imagination, symbolic drawing and painting, storytelling, guided imagery, and journals. The week will be a voyage of discovery.

Recommended reading: C.G. Jung, Man and His Symbols and Memories, Dreams, Reflections; June Singer, Boundaries of the Soul; Robert Johnson, Inner Work; Anthony Storr, The Essential Jung. $530

September 6–13

The Painting Experience

Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

It is rare for most people to use painting for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to paint purely for the process of exploration, not for the result.

The purpose of this workshop is to provide a setting to explore the self through painting—to discover in form and color a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to emotional and spiritual expression. Participants are given the support and stimulation to develop a natural way of painting based directly upon feeling.

The work takes place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, along with a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. The workshop may be of interest to persons involved in a wide variety of disciplines including art, education, counseling, and meditative practices. No prior experience in painting is necessary.

For further information about this workshop write: The Painting Experience Studio, 509 Noriega Street, San Francisco, CA 94122. (415) 564-8515.

$800 (plus $25 materials fee paid directly to the leaders).

Educating the Genius Within—The Feldenkrais® Method

Harriet Goslins

"By my body's actions . . . teach my mind."
—Shakespeare

The habitual way a person sits, stands, or moves reflects patterns that are "wired-in" to the nervous system. This information can be erased or changed. By re-educating the brain / muscle connection, restrictions in movement are freed, freeing also the lifetime habits that have organized around that movement.

Awareness Through Movement® methods are a relearning of the ease and fluidity that was taken for granted as a child and lost somewhere along the way. Physical injury, emotional trauma, or ongoing stress all evoke a protective response from the body. These patterns, necessary at the time, remain when no longer needed, outside of awareness, and continue to cause discomfort and unnecessary limitation. Freeing them results in relief of chronic pain or tightness, a more restful sleep, and a higher energy level. By changing muscular holding patterns, the entire protective posture is altered, deeply affecting the body's habitual defense system. Thus, new movement possibilities mean new self-image possibilities.

This workshop is for those who are physically active and fit and want to increase their skills while learning to reduce risk of injury, for the sedentary or those dealing with after-effects of injuries, and for the average person who feels chronically tired and stressed and wants to learn how to take better care of his / her neck, shoulders, and back, to improve his / her posture and breathing, and to live and move with more flexibility and comfort.

Recommended reading: Moshe Feldenkrais, Awareness Through Movement. $800

Weekend of September 11–13

The Gentle Art of Becoming—Together A Workshop for Couples

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see May 1-3.

$270 per participant

Experiencing Your Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

For workshop description see July 12-17. $270

September 11–November 6

The Modern Warrior: A Certification Program in Leonard Energy Training

Jack Cirie, George Leonard & Annie Styron Leonard

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 39. $4240

Week of September 13–18

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Brita Ostrom & Staff

For workshop description see May 24-29. $530

Self-Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see June 7-12. $530

Adult Children of Alcoholic or Abusive Parents

Karen Paine-Gernée & Rick Paine

For workshop description see June 28-July 3. $530

The Hakomi Method

Ron Kurtz

Hakomi is a body-centered practice based on the principles of: mindfulness, unity, organicity, non-violence, mind-body holism. Hakomi incorporates non-doing as a major methodological principle and trusts in every individual's inner wisdom and power for self-healing.

Using the body as a rich source of information about the unconscious mind, hakomi can assist people in turning inward to those special states of consciousness where change takes place, to explore core beliefs which determine the quality of experience.

Hakomi work embraces the body-mind unity, supports the client's resistance, and encourages respect for and awareness of inner processes. This can be used by counselors, health practitioners, educators, body workers, and anyone invested in personal growth. This workshop also serves as a prerequisite for the formal hakomi certification process. $530

Weekend of September 18–20

The Power of Growth

Seymour Carter

For workshop description see May 15-17. $270

Weekend Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see July 17-19. $270

The Mastery of Daily Life: An Introduction to LET

George Leonard & Annie Styron Leonard

Leonard Energy Training (LET) is derived from the Eastern art of aikido as well as from Western psychology and physical theory. It is a comprehensive body of work that offers practical, alternative ways of dealing with life situations. It is not physically demanding. It does not aim at emotional catharsis. Most of the training involves simple, enjoyable movement exercises during which the body itself becomes a teacher. Participants will be offered an opportunity to practice such things as centering, relaxing under pressure, and dealing with the various stresses and conflicts of daily life.

This workshop will emphasize mastery, the mysterious process through which what is at first difficult becomes progressively easier and more pleasurable through practice. Participants will be invited to experience their own process in learning simple patterns of movement. They will have a chance to examine and transform this process, and to apply it to daily life.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse (Dutton), and Education and Ecstasy (North Atlantic Press). $270

Understanding the Light of Peace in the Shadow of War

Ofer Zur

This is a workshop for individuals to survey their personal, psychic, sexual, and international battlefields, to explore and attempt to heal their relationships with their personal and political enemies. The aim of this process is to shed light on the dynamics of peace and war in the international realm.

Through slide presentations, experiential work, and discussions (including the instructor's research), the following key issues will be addressed:

- One's intimate, personal enemies, past and present
- Exploring and mending loving relationships
- Fantasy and content analysis of war imagery in current media and war propaganda
- The co-evolution of culture, personality, psyche, and war
- Men and war: Is man the maker of war, or war the maker of man?
- Women and war: Victims or co-contributors?
- The myth of the warrior and the beautiful soul
- Aggression, violence, pornography, and war
- The enemy as feminine, or the feminizing of the enemy
- Coming to terms with the enemy within
- Life and living in the nuclear era
- Understanding that the light of peace is the healing process $270

Week of September 20–25

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $530

Intuition Practice

Helen Palmer

This seminar teaches the identification of personal intuition systems that can be accessed through internal focusing practices, or that may already be operating in unrecognized ways. These practices develop the ability to discriminate between personal thoughts, fantasies projected from personal thinking, and impressions received from situations outside the personal self. The psychic aspect of intuition rests on the ability to shift attention from the self to impressions perceived from outside the self. $530

Stillness Between Waves: Imagery In Motion

Keith Thompson & Gaetana

"Except for the point, the still point, there would be no dance, and there is only the dance."
—T.S. Eliot, "Four Quartets"

The mime master creates the illusion of covering ground while actually staying in one place, entrancing the audience into seeing "something that is not there." Similarly, individuals in hypnosis can "put on hold" their usual logical, reality-orienting faculties and become deeply absorbed in secondary, imaginative realities. This is a workshop about the translation of images into movement and movement into images; about the threshold between realms and modes; about exploring the mundus imaginalis, the imaginal world, said by the Sufis to mediate between the sensible and the intelligible worlds.

As in alchemy, where the transformation from lead to gold was understood to begin with dissolving and cooking the ore of iron, participants will be taught concentrated mime and imagery exercises geared to "deconstruct" or "de-form" fixed patterns of moving, thinking, and imagining. As the week progresses, processes from gestalt practice, insight meditation, and Jungian active imagination will be introduced to assist in exploring ways in which unfrozen mental and bodily "grammars" can be recombined to express the thought of the heart.

Participants will also receive instruction in various ways of walking across an area as effortlessly as on a cloud or through molasses, the use of chi or ki to increase the clarity and density of illusions, and imagery for centering and balance in sustaining difficult physical moves.

The workshop is designed especially for people who have a sense of humor and who don't draw a hard distinction between learning and play.

Recommended reading: Jean-Louis Barrault, Memories for Tomorrow (Houghton-Mifflin); Helen Caldwell, Michio Ito (University of California); Toshihiko Izutsu, The Interior and Exterior in Zen Buddhism (Spring). $530

Weekend of September 25–27

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $270

The Transformation of Inanna: A Ritual Journey

Starhawk

Some of the oldest written records of rebirth and renewal are the Sumerian myths of Inanna, Goddess of the date palm and the storehouse, patroness of love, who challenges her sister/ruler of the underworld, the Queen of death. In this workshop, through drumming, chanting, storytelling, and mask-making, the myth of Inanna will lead participants into the depths of the self and into the mythic dimensions of their own stories. Together they will enact the drama and create the rituals of their own transformations. This workshop is for women only.

Bring scissors, scraps of cloth, feathers, beads, shells, yarn, interesting small objects, favorite costumes, and power objects for the altar. $270

Understanding Men

Sam Keen

This seminar is for men and women who are looking for a new sense of what it means to be a man. It is an exploration and celebration of the essence of masculinity. These are some of the topics to be considered:

- Contemporary types and stereotypes of men
- Plastic heroes and real men
- What do men fear?
- How do men deal with women's anger?
- The rites and rights of manhood
- The warrior psyche
- Fathers, Mothers, and Sons
- Male friendship
- Work, jobs, professions, and the burden of economics
- Autonomy and the need for commitment
- Adventure: sexual and otherwise
- The wisdom and folly of the penis
- Meaning, purpose, and vocation: Who are men when they are not working, controlling, or fighting?
- The essential differences between men and women $270

Week of September 27–October 2

The Discipline of Harmony: Warrior Virtues Without War

Richard Strozzi Heckler

This seminar will examine the notions of aggression, initiation rites, courage, and risk-taking in the context of the warrior ideal. Does the discipline of harmony mean the taming of aggression? To live in peace do we also need to accept and understand violence? Is it possible to distinguish the warrior from war? Can the warrior virtues of courage, commitment, clarity, generosity, service, and skillful action be invoked without the catalyst of hostile fire?

These questions will be the starting point for a five-day workshop conducted in the warrior spirit of "life at stake." Exercises taken from aikido, along with introspection, sharing, and guided meditations will allow participants to experience the possibilities of embodying warrior virtues without war.

Recommended reading: Richard Strozzi Heckler, The Anatomy of Change (Shambhala) and Aikido and the New Warrior (North Atlantic Books); J. Glenn Gray, The Warriors (Harper & Row). $530

The Body as History

Lisbeth Marcher & Erik Jarlnaes

The workshop leaders are from Denmark, practitioners of a system of working with the body, of which Lisbeth Marcher is a founder. With their methods, by gauging the tonicity of a muscle and knowing when and how it came into play in our infant and childhood development, it is possible to "read" an amazingly precise psycho-history. In addition, specific issues that are contained in these muscles can be re-evoked.

This system also works with our undeveloped resources. These are the abilities that we have given up on, those that often correspond to feelings of resignation. As these resources are brought into play, our willingness to drop old, unfulfilling modes of protection is greatly encouraged. Participants can focus on body movement and energy and use these to bring about expression and integration of developmental stages.

This is an experiential workshop, with some time between sessions available to those wanting to learn more about this approach. $530

Leadership: Where it Begins

Steven Harper & David Chrislip

"The leader teaches more through being than through doing. The quality of one's silence conveys more than long speeches. Be still, follow your inner wisdom, you have to be still. . . . What do you feel?"—John Heider, The Tao of Leadership

This program is for individuals who want to enhance their leadership capacity. Frequently, this begins with discovering or reconnecting with the power of knowing one's true purpose, the source of vision and inspiration. The value of this intuitive connectiveness is a principle that the great visionary leaders have always understood.

The workshop leaders will integrate principles of leadership with the challenges offered by wilderness, providing participants opportunities to experiment with and receive immediate feedback on beliefs, behaviors, and styles of leadership which ennoble and empower self and others. They will draw from their work with leadership development programs in communities and corporations which use wilderness experience to explore new ways of leading.

Sessions will be both indoors and on day hikes into Big Sur's backcountry. (Evenings and most meals will be at Esalen.) The mountain setting will allow participants to experience what it means to be in tune with the natural world. Through reflection and discussion, they can integrate what they learn about themselves into their roles as leaders. $530

Lost Romantic Loves: Healing through Film

Francis Lu, Barbara White & Richard Irons

"Love must be told. Not so that it may be forgotten, but so it can be rewoven into the tapestry of the present."—George Vaillant, M.D.

This seminar will allow participants to remember their lost romantic loves and to further their own healing and self-renewal. Topics will include: the nature and quality of romantic love, the emotional consequences of lost love (including obsession, jealousy, anger, violence, and madness), and the healing processes (including letting go, grief, compassion, self-renewal, and revisioning new relationships).

Within a supportive group context, participants will view films which evoke these archetypal patterns of love, including loss and healing. Through inner reflection and dialogue, participants will reconnect their personal, psychological experiences with these archetypal, mythological realities.

Films to be shown include works directed by Woody Allen, Alfred Hitchcock, François Truffaut, and Jean Renoir, and films starring Humphrey Bogart, Greta Garbo, and Ingrid Bergman. In addition, poetry and classical music will be utilized.

The experiential nature of this workshop will be balanced with lecture and group discussion.

Recommended reading: John Welwood, Challenge of the Heart: Love, Sex, and Intimacy in Changing Times (Shambhala); Robin Norwood, Women Who Love Too Much, (Dell). $530

Weekend of October 2–4

A Special Weekend at Esalen

This weekend is open to all those who would like to spend time at Esalen, enjoying the grounds, the baths, and the community, without participating in a group. Massage and other work offered by individual practitioners will be available as usual. $160

Week of October 4–9

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see May 24-29. $530

The Virginia Satir System

John Banmen, Jane Gerber & Maria Gomori

Virginia Satir has pioneered unique approaches to improve family and professional communications and relationships. The overall goal of the Satir System is "becoming more fully human." This workshop will present the explicit change process, the use of Satir's vehicles, and an articulation of the transformational process. The group leaders will deepen the conceptual and experiential aspects of these processes and will provide hands-on training.

The workshop leaders have been senior trainers in the Avanta Network month-long process community since 1981 and have co-authored a book on the Satir System. $530

Endarkenment

Will Schutz & Ailish Mellard

Sometimes in our search for enlightenment we become humorless, and our search becomes tedious. Growth demands a respite from intensive struggle.

This workshop can provide a vehicle for the turn downward. We shall explore: how to establish and maintain meaningless relations; what to worry about while meditating; advanced covert blaming and inducing guilt in loved ones; how to become the most sympathetic victim/martyr in your social group; guilt without sex. This approach, similar to Feldenkrais' "live the disasters" and the "homeopathic principle" (Will Schutz, Body Fantasy), can be as valuable for attaining enlightenment as the direct route—and more fun. In addition, participants in this workshop will have opportunities to explore, play with, and celebrate the shadow—that which we usually hide. $530

Evolving the Relationship of Mind, Emotion, and the Body

Laura DeNuccio

"Your body is your thought in a form you can see."—Jonathan Livingston Seagull

"To keep the body in good health is a duty . . . otherwise we shall not be able to keep our mind strong and clear."—Buddha

Laura DeNuccio writes: "The focus of this workshop will be two-fold: to open and clear the personal self while developing and expanding the higher self.

"To be born with a 'precious human body,' as the Tibetans call it, is to be born with the perfect vehicle for obtaining realization or enlightenment. This vehicle is considered the body-temple, the housing in which the Divine dwells. Proper respect, attunement, and care is needed for transforming and perfecting this vehicle.

"Denied and repressed thoughts and feelings harbor in the body tissue. This unfinished business (grief, fear, resentment, etc.) can be addressed and released. Participants will use breath, sound, and movement to enter the soft inner tissue of their bodies, permeating and dissolving energetic and emotional blockages. These movement meditations are designed to enliven and activate the vitality of cells and tissue, as well as to quiet, still, and expand the mind. The sound meditations have the potential of moving the individual past the limitations of language, which can create openings for new thought and inspiration. Through this clearing, compassion, harmony, and peacefulness can be cultivated, qualities of being the participants can integrate into their daily lives upon returning home. The group will draw from Native American and African ritual, guided imagery, Reichian body work, gestalt practice, and various other meditative practices."

Recommended reading: Stephen Levine, Who Dies (Anchor Press/Doubleday); Fields, et. al, Chop Wood, Carry Water (Tarcher); Shirley Nicholson, Ancient Wisdom, Modern Insight (Theosophical Publishing House); Alice Bailey, Education in the New Age (Lucis Publishing Co.); Stanley Keleman, The Human Ground (Center Press). $530

Weekend of October 9–11

Reflections of Self: A Reichian/Gestalt Workshop

Jessica Moore Britt

This will be an introduction to intensive intrapsychic inquiry using Reichian breath work and gestalt practice. Reichian work utilizes breath and sound to energize and deepen the process of self-awareness by softening the body's patterns of physical tension and emotional holding. Gestalt practice is an awareness approach focusing on physical sensation, image, thought, and emotion. By emphasizing a person's experience in the present moment, gestalt moves toward developing a more conscious sense of self. In a supportive group atmosphere, participants will have the opportunity to explore thoughts and feelings formed by past experiences. With this exploration, the possibility is opened to respond in the present. $270

LET and the Samurai Game

George Leonard, Annie Styron Leonard & Jack Cirie

The Samurai Game, which was created by George Leonard, might be described as a deeply-engrossing simulation game during which participants have the opportunity to enter the state of consciousness of a medieval samurai, to live intensely in the moment, and to experience symbolic death and rebirth.

Participants will first practice the movement and centering exercises of LET (Leonard

Joyce Rogers Lyke

"Creating Musical Theater"

Energy Training: see Weekend of September 18-20). Then they will learn the rules of the game and begin to live as samurai. There will be ample opportunity for feedback and discussion of the lessons of the game.

The purpose of the Samurai Game is to step across a boundary into another way of life, and thus to see one's own life and habitual patterns of living with added clarity and poignancy. There will be a symbolic battle to the death through which participants will have a chance to experience the ultimate futility of war, and the value of every moment of existence.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse (Dutton). $270

Week of October 11-16

The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see May 3-8. $530

Action Theater

Ruth Zaporah

Ruth Zaporah developed Action Theater, a unique performance training process, so that her students could spontaneously create dramatic images from personal material. Participants learn to express this material improvisationally through dance, vocalization, and acting. The Action Theater process trains the student in the following aspects of performance:

- Awareness of the body and movement possibilities through time, space, and shape
- The development of a strong and viable voice
- The imaginative use of language to illuminate the inner mind of the actor
- The interface between body, voice, and language
- The ability to access material usually below the normal threshold of awareness
- The formal makings of clear, strong imagery
- The ability to create experience through clear perception and spontaneous response

This experiential workshop is designed for the novice, the explorer. Exercises of improvisation will be basic, addressing the skills listed above. Within each session there will be a physical and vocal warmup, ensemble and small group interactions, and improvisational presentations. And play. All play.

The moment of life, consciously performed, is art. $530

Performance Under Pressure

Neil Fiore

Extraordinary levels of creativity and achievement are experienced naturally by all of us at some time during our lives. On such occasions, energy for playful learning and efficient work seems limitless, hours pass like minutes, creative resources of the mind are tapped, exhilaration and inner peace are experienced, and the body is freed of anxiety.

Creative and successful people experience these "flow states" quite often, others only occasionally. But now as we approach an evolutionary advance in human consciousness—the harmonizing and synchronizing of the powers of the conscious and subconscious minds—we have the technologies to harness the "flow state" at will.

Cognitive psychology, neurolinguistic programming, and Ericksonian hypnosis will be used in this workshop to convey the skills necessary for working and playing in a more robust, stress-resistant, and creative way. The workshop leader will present specific skills and practical methods for rechanneling the energy of stress into creative problem resolution, rapid recuperation, and for the enjoyment of guilt-free recreation.

Goals of the workshop include the creation of personal safety, the enhancement of self-esteem and motivation, and the ability to work in a focused, stress-free manner. Those in challenging careers, under time pressure, in the creative fields, or coping with physical illness can benefit greatly by learning to harness these inner resources. $530

Weekend of October 16–18

A Weekend with Ram Dass $270

Week of October 18–23

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $530

The Nature of Movement: Aikido and Wilderness

Steven Harper & Wendy Palmer

In this week-long workshop, participants will work indoors with energy awareness and principles derived from aikido, and outdoors on short day-hikes into Big Sur's backcountry to explore the movement that nature inspires. Both aikido and hiking are moving meditations which, when done well, require one to be in harmony with the natural world. There will be an opportunity to take what is learned on the aikido mat out into the natural world and bring what is learned from nature onto the aikido mat. Participants can then begin to integrate what they learn from aikido and from nature into their lives.

All evenings and most meals will be at Esalen. Participants need not have previous experience in aikido or hiking. Come ready to move. $530

Weekend of October 23–25

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $270

Weekend Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see July 17-19. $270

Making Dances: Physical Expression and Creativity

Rhonda Martyn

This is a workshop for individuals to discover and expand their abilities to be physically, intellectually, and emotionally expressive through the process of making dances. Participants can expect a good physical workout, as well as a sense of accomplishment, community, and fun that comes from making and performing dances.

It will begin by exploring the basic elements of movement and the craft of choreography. Then, using games, exercises, improvisations, and rituals, participants can play with the creative process and their individual needs for physical and emotional expressiveness. A professional choreographer, the workshop leader will use participants as professional dancers—calling on their creativity and sensibilities to help in the process of building dances. She will also coach and assist participants in making their own studies and/or dances.

Making Dances is for people with no dance experience or with much dance experience. It is an opportunity to be both a dancer and a maker of dances. $270

Week of October 25–30

Ericksonian Hypnosis and Communication

Paul Carter

For workshop description see May 31-June 5. $530

Spiritual Healing: Laying On of Hands

Maria Lucia Holloman

This workshop will present practical methods of using the hands as instruments for physical and spiritual healing. The emphasis will be on intentionality and personal clarity as the fundamental tools in any healing art. Maria Lucia Holloman has studied with healers from Brazil, her native country, where laying on of hands is used effectively. She has also studied the art of cranial manipulation, which she combines with her healing work on a regular basis as a practitioner at Esalen. $530

October 25–November 6

Integrative Body Practice (IBP) Professional Training Program

Jack Rosenberg & Staff

This will be a twelve-day residential training program in IBP, taught by Jack Rosenberg, Deane and Andrea Juhan (anatomy and massage), and the staff of the Rosenberg-Rand Institute in Venice, California. IBP emphasizes breathing as a vehicle for the integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit. In IBP the body is seen as the foundation for psychological and transpersonal growth. Object relations developmental theory will be integrated with body work. This workshop is for licensed professionals and graduate students in related fields.

Recommended reading: Jack Rosenberg et.al., Body, Self, and Soul: Experiencing Integration (Humanics, 1985), and Total Orgasm (Bookworks, 1974).

For information write or call: Marjorie Rand, Rosenberg-Rand Institute, 1107 W. Washington Blvd., Venice, CA 90291, (213) 394-0147. $1330

Weekend of October 30–November 1

Growing Together into the Future

Terence McKenna & Kathleen Harrison McKenna

People, plants, and the planet are three dancers in search of syzygy in a performance about a future that cannot be postponed indefinitely. With rousing dialogue, we will explore the post-modern, pre-apocalypse dilemma, and the allies that the natural world has provided for the man or woman who is engaged in sailing the soul on the phosphorescent oceans of the imagination. Fractal time, self-empowerment through cultivation of shamanic attitude, and the implications of the psychedelic experience will be discussed. $270

The Modern Warrior: LET in Action

George Leonard & Jack Cirie

"A man or woman with outward courage dares to die; A man or woman with inward courage dares to live."—Lao Tzu

The Modern Warrior is not one who goes to war but rather one who exhibits integrity in every aspect of living, one who seeks to attain control then act with abandon. For the Modern Warrior, life is vivid, immediate, and joyful. He or she lives each day to the full, and is fulfilled in serving others. This workshop is based on the premise that to achieve peace in the world and harmony in daily life, it might well be necessary for men and women to reown the warrior ideal.

Through the movement exercises of LET (Leonard Energy Training: see Weekend of September 18-20) as well as through various new games, participants will be invited to get in touch with their own unacknowledged powers, and thus to discover the hidden warrior within. Guidance will be offered on how to apply the warrior ideal to daily life. This workshop will not be physically strenuous. All that is needed is a generous heart and a willingness to participate.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse (Dutton). $270

Work Study Program

The Work Study Program is for those who are interested in total immersion in the Esalen environment. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically. Only rarely is it restful. Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and cabins. Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs. No participants will be accepted as work scholars in Gazebo or the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments.

Most evenings and two intensive weekends are spent together as a group exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who will be with the group throughout the month, coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The program is usually divided into two sections each month: a general interest section which covers a variety of growth approaches, and a focused interest section which emphasizes one type of growth practice, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage or body work, etc. Participants in the focused programs must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program, assuming that they meet the standards of the Work Study Program.

Focused programs planned thus far for 1987-88 include:

April 26–May 24: Jessica Moore Britt and Elliot Sobel will offer a study of energy and pulsation using gestalt, awareness, Reichian breath work, Continuum movement and sound work, and the expressive arts.

May 24–June 21: Anne Nechama Simkin will conduct a program focused on gestalt, including some videotape sessions. Massage and movement work may be offered.

June 21–July 19: Mary Goldenson (Devarani) will facilitate an intensive month of letting go and moving on, using Reichian methods, Radix®, dance, imagery, gestalt, and meditation.

July 19–September 13: Seymour Carter will coordinate a two-month progam focusing on gestalt practice, with emphasis for, but not limited to, professionals.

September 13–October 11: See June 21-July 19.

October 11–December 6: Antioch Program. This track will include: Esalen massage, movement and emotions, sports and human development, group process, somatic theory. For more information, see "Esalen-Antioch Cooperation," page 5.

December 6–January 3, 1988: Phyllis Shankman will offer a focus on change and self-transformation through gestalt, movement, guided imagery, and whatever presents itself in the moment for attention.

January 3–February 28, 1988: Jessica Moore Britt and Joyce Rogers Lyke will focus on the relationships among mind / body / emotions and spirit, using gestalt, Reichian breath work, subtle body theory, journal writing, ritual, and self-remembering exercises.

In as much as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage and Rolfing®, are available at staff rates.

Accommodations are shared, with up to four people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff complex located 1½ miles north of Esalen.

A deposit of $350 in U.S. currency is required with your application. The cost of all 28-day Work Study Programs, except the three-month body work program, is $700 first month, $650 second month, $600 third month. Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second month or a third month depending on space available and community needs. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

NOTE: This application is not a registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is non-refundable, and may be transferred to other programs within one year of receipt. Please return this form with your deposit to:

Work Study Program, Esalen Institute,
Big Sur, CA 93920. Telephone: (408) 667-2335.

Available dates: April 26–May 24; May 24–June 21; June 21–July 19; July 19–August 16; August 16–September 13; September 13–October 11; October 11–November 8; November 8–December 6; December 6–January 3; January 3–February 28; February 28–March 27; March 27–April 24; April 24–May 22; May 22–June 19; etc.

Application to the Work Study Program

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ ZIP _____

Date of Birth _____ Occupation _____ Place of Employment _____

Daytime Telephone (_____) _____ Date of Application _____

Evening Telephone (_____) _____ Male ☐ Female ☐ Smoker ☐ Non-smoker ☐

I prefer the general interest program: yes ☐ no ☐ I prefer the focused program in: _____

Participants in the focused programs must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program.

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning on a Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: _____ to _____ 2nd: _____ to _____ 3rd: _____ to _____

Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. Please indicate your availability should an invitation be extended. (Not applicable to focused program applicants.) ☐ No extension ☐ One-month extension ☐ Two-month extension. Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs.

If you have emergency medical skills (M.D., E.M.T., or R.N.) and are willing to make those skills available during your stay, please check here. ☐

Please attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program. Include: applicable skills (gardening, kitchen, mechanical, etc.); medical difficulties which might affect your working in particular departments; previous Esalen workshops you have attended (please list program titles, group leaders, and dates). Note: Fluency in the English language is essential for participation in the program.

Special Programs

Joyce Rogers Lyke

May 3–29, 1987
The Mystical Quest, Attachment, and Addiction

Christina Grof, Stanislav Grof & Jacquelyn Small

This four-week interdisciplinary educational program is designed to explore the relationship between spirituality, addiction, and chemical dependency. It is especially relevant for professionals, students, and others interested in the fields of psychiatry, psychology, drug rehabilitation, religion, and philosophy. Participants and guest faculty will examine the nature of addictions and outline an approach combining traditional and transpersonal strategies as practiced by Jacquelyn Small and the Grofs.

Topics to be covered include:

1. Spiritual Quest, Attachment, and Addiction. Visiting teachers of Buddhism and Christian mysticism will explore with the group the nature of the transcendental impulse in human beings as it relates to the thesis of this seminar. Experts in the area of addiction propose that the twelve steps of Alcoholics Anonymous and transpersonal processes are a Western sadhana and context for spiritual awakening. Special attention will be paid to the promises and pitfalls of the spiritual path, the difference between spirituality and religion, the dynamics of attachment and non-attachment, the importance of service, and the relationship between mysticism and addiction.

2. Modern Insights into the Nature and Roots of Addiction. Modern psychological theories of addiction and chemical dependency will be examined. These include: Gregory Bateson's model based on systems theory and cybernetics, the birth trauma and prenatal factors, the Jungian understanding of archetypal dynamics, the mythological theme of the hero's journey, and the differences between ego integration and ego transcendence. The biological factors underlying chemical dependency and their interaction with the psychological and spiritual elements will also be discussed.

3. Transpersonal Psychology and Emerging Paradigm in Western Science. This will be a theoretical and experiential look at transpersonal psychology, the most recent movement in Western psychology that acknowledges and explores human spirituality with scientific principles and methods. The increasing convergence between modern consciousness research and the great mystical traditions and spiritual philosophies of the East will be compared to the revolutionary developments in other disciplines. This is the so-called "emerging paradigm."

4. Spiritual Emergency or Transpersonal Crisis. This aspect of the program will study observations from various disciplines that suggest that certain non-ordinary states of consciousness currently diagnosed and treated by traditional psychiatry as medical problems—mental diseases of unknown etiology—can be seen as difficult stages of spiritual development and evolutionary crises.

5. Self-Exploration and Group Process. This experimental educational format combines lecture with experiential and group processes. For this purpose, participants will use various forms of Buddhist meditation, controlled breathing, music and guided musical imagery, focused body work, mandala drawing, psychic/intuitive counseling and training, massage, etc. The coordinators, visiting guest faculty, and the Esalen staff will function as facilitators for participants throughout the workshop.

Please note that this is an educational program, not a therapeutic program. The Esalen Institute is not licensed or equipped as a treatment facility.

A limited number of partial working scholarships will be available on the basis of need. Address your application, along with a biographical letter, to: Christina Grof, "Re: May 1987 Month-long Program," Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920. $1960

June 26-28, 1987
The Biological, Psychological, and Cultural Body: Methods of Transformation

Don Johnson, Coordinator

For workshop description see June 26-28. $250

July 3-5, 1987
A Special Weekend Celebration with Babatunde Olatunji

with Ijalu Akanbe, Yao Tamakloe & Gordy Ryan

For workshop description see July 3-5. $200

September 11-November 6, 1987
The Modern Warrior: A Certification Program in Leonard Energy Training

Jack Cirie, George Leonard & Annie Styron Leonard

This will be an intensive, rigorous, eight-week program leading to possible certification as a Leonard Energy Trainer. Leonard Energy Training (LET) is a comprehensive practice inspired by the Eastern art of aikido and Western psychology. LET teaches alternative ways of dealing with daily life problems and offers the possibility of high-level functioning appropriate to the ideal of the modern peaceful warrior.

In addition to learning how to present LET exercises, the participants in this course will receive training in movement (aikido and aiki-sword), meditation forms, written and oral communication skills, emotional and spiritual experiences, and state of the art fitness work. The fitness training will be graduated to individual levels of readiness and will be comprehensive and holistic. Exercise and nutrition, as well as mental training, will be included.

This program differs from the usual campus model of education. At times, the atmosphere might seem to resemble that of the training schools of the Japanese samurai. Training days will run up to sixteen hours in length and will weave together mental, physical, psychological, and spiritual training. Throughout, the program emphasizes personal authority, integrity, paying attention, taking calculated risks, and being patient and disciplined. Success requires unusually high dedication and commitment.

The number of candidates is limited to a total of ten men and women. Although the eight-week program carries no guarantee of certification, experience has shown that it is a transformative experience in any case. If you complete this course, you will be qualified to lead LET workshops.

For further information, write to: Energy Training Institute, P.O. Box 609, Mill Valley, CA 94942. $4240

October 11-November 6, 1987
The Promethean Impulse: Creation, Creativity, and Spirituality

Christina & Stanislav Grof

This four-week interdisciplinary educational program is designed for professionals in the fields of psychiatry, psychology, psychotherapy, anthropology, religion, art, and philosophy who are interested in the relationship between spirituality and creativity. It will cover the following thematic areas:

1. Cosmic Consciousness, Creation, and Creativity. Visiting teachers representing various spiritual traditions of the world will explore with the group the great mystical systems and their understanding of the process of creation on the universal and individual level. Special attention will be paid to the creation myths of different cultures of the world.

2. The Promethean Impulse. Prominent representatives of art and science will share with participants how they see and personally experience the relationship between spirituality and the creative process. Films, slide shows, and music will be used to mediate a personal experience of the creative domain.

3. The Healing Potential of Art. The group will examine theoretically and experientially the use of art and creative expression in the process of healing and personal transformation. The techniques used will include painting, mandala drawing, dance, sculpting, and the Jungian sandplay developed by Dora Kalff. Participants should be prepared to actively explore their own creative sources for expression throughout the month.

4. Self-Exploration and Group Process. The seminars of this series use an experimental educational format that combines didactic sessions with experiential approaches, body work, and group process. The coordinators, Esalen staff, and visiting guest faculty will assist participants in an ongoing process of self-exploration and creative expression; this will involve controlled breathing, music and sound technology, focused body work, intuition training, gestalt practice, meditation, and group ritual. $2120

Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Esalen is now offering a California state-approved program. Upon successful completion of the three-month work scholar track, (see page 37), or four-week massage practitioner workshop, and after giving 30 additional massages elsewhere, graduates will receive their certificates. Each program provides at least 130 hours of instruction, supplemented by additional study in body-mind disciplines such as yoga, gestalt awareness work, and movement, fulfilling the state requirement.

Summer Program for Children

The summer program for children ages 8-12 will be in July and August. Each week will focus on a work program within the Esalen community and on a particular study, such as learning about the Big Sur environment, water safety, sports, or the arts (music, dance, drama, painting). For further information, contact Lia Thompson, Esalen Institute. $250 per week

Future Programs

Next year we will be continuing our winter studies program (February-April) in addition to our regular programming. We will offer more long-term courses, some of which will be suitable for professional training, including: Sustaining Integration: Body, Self, and Soul with Jack Rosenberg; Continuum Movement: An Approach to Deep Bodily Awareness with Emilie Conrad-Da'oud and Susan Harper; Certification in Clinical Hypnosis with Eli Jaxon-Bear; the Massage Practitioner Certification Program with the Esalen Massage Practitioners; and Gestalt Practice with the Esalen Gestalt Staff.

Dates will be announced in the September 1987-February 1988 catalog. For more information, contact the Esalen Program Office.

January 24–February 5, 1988
Advanced Training in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner

Shamanism is the most ancient system known for using the mind, heart, and spirit to heal oneself and others and to solve the problems of daily living. This two-week intensive course emphasizes the universal methods of classic, core shamanism, such as shamanic journeying, and their practical application to contemporary life. This is the most advanced training currently offered by Michael Harner in the United States or Europe.

Course prerequisite: a previous workshop with Michael Harner or an authorized faculty member of the Center for Shamanic Studies, either at Esalen or elsewhere. Such a workshop will be offered at Esalen immediately prior to this program.

For more information and to apply, please contact Michael Harner, Center for Shamanic Studies, P.O. Box 673—Belden Station, Norwalk, CT 06852; (203) 454-2827. Early application is recommended.

Wilderness Programs

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop, we require the following deposit:

1-3 days	$50
4-7 days	$100
Over 8 days	$200

The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your nonrefundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your deposit is forfeited.

May 1–9
Big Sur Wilderness Journey . . . from Esalen to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center

Steven Harper & Joyce Rogers Lyke

Nature can provide opportunities to stretch one's limits and explore one's inner wilderness. By living in a natural environment it is possible to expand one's sense of self and depth of being.

The group will spend a day and a night at Esalen, leaving the next morning to hike through the Ventana wilderness. Participants will travel "light," with instruction in minimum impact camping, ecology, and the geography and cultural history of the area.

Wilderness will be a mirror and primary teacher as the group lives simply and in direct contact with nature. Participants will explore their inner world of dreams, feelings, and sensations as they emerge, using gestalt awareness practice and group process. Taking inspiration from natural and native purification practices, they will create a time of cleansing and contemplation, culminating in a 24-hour period alone. The group will hike on to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center, deep in a rugged wilderness valley with natural hot springs, for their last night together. There, meditation instruction will be available for those who wish it. Backpacking experience is not necessary, though participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity. More information will be sent upon registration. $495

August 1–8
A Gentle Trip in the High Sierra

Maurica Anderson & Walter Truett Anderson

During this seven-day workshop in wildflower season, the group will hike to a secluded mountain basin (10,000 feet) off the main trails in the John Muir Wilderness area on the western side of the High Sierra. MULES WILL CARRY IN ALL OF THE PERSONAL GEAR AND FOOD, enabling participants to have outrageously good food (fresh fruits and vegetables, frozen chicken and steaks). Participants need carry nothing but lunch, rain gear, and water on the hike in. The area is off the main trails and is filled with lakes, grassy meadows, wildflowers, and cold streams fed by the surrounding snow fields.

The group will camp by a rushing waterfall for six nights, taking short hikes to other beautiful areas, swimming daily in the crystal lakes, working with body awareness, massage, psychodrama, meditation, and gentle encounter. During the week, participants will put up a sauna, take some strenuous but optional side hikes, and have some time for doing nothing. They can concentrate on the sights and sounds and smells of the high country, on getting to know the mountains, one another, and themselves.

Mountaineering experience is not necessary and most people are in good enough shape for this trip, but participants should be capable of hiking uphill at altitudes up to 11,000 feet and must possess a good sense of humor. The hike in is seven miles with an altitude gain of 2,700 feet, but the pace will be leisurely, allowing the group to take all day to reach the high meadow campsite.

For a detailed information sheet, write or call Maurica Anderson, 1112 Curtis Street, Albany, CA 94706, (415) 526-5814. Participants will meet in the Sierra on August 1. The fee includes food, wine, permits, and pack mules in and out. $525

August 29–September 11
Path of the River: A Grand Canyon Journey

Steven Harper, Wendy Palmer & Arizona Raft Adventures Staff (AZRA)

The Grand Canyon and Colorado River provide a unique environment of dramatic variety, which is intimate and awesome, soft and demanding, yet always rewarding for those who are open to all it has to offer. On this 14-day white-water raft trip through the entire length of the Grand Canyon, participants can explore their openness to offerings of river, canyon, and natural world. The river is a teacher and primary metaphor. The group will draw from aikido, dance, energy awareness, movement, meditation, and gestalt to enhance their experience of this majestic wilderness area.

Travel will be in paddle and oar rafts. Instruction will be offered in basic aspects of river life such as paddling and minimum-impact river camping. There will be time to discuss the Canyon's ecology, geology, natural and cultural history; to hike and explore side canyons; to sit quietly and reflect. Finally, participants can integrate learnings from this trip into their lives.

River experience is not necessary, though participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity. Come ready to participate fully. The workshop begins at 7:00 AM August 29, in Flagstaff. AZRA will supply all the necessary river and rafting gear, food, and transportation between Flagstaff and the Canyon. Details and a personal equipment list will be sent upon registration. This is a unique opportunity, and space is limited.

Due to Esalen's special arrangement with AZRA, the following cancellation policy is in effect for this workshop: A $200 deposit per person will confirm your reservation. Balance is due 60 days prior to starting date. Payments are refundable if cancellation is received 60 days before the trip starting date. No refunds will be made after that time. $1490

Biographical Information

A

Jeanne Achterberg, p. 9, 28 — physiological psychologist and eminent leader in research and application of imagery for serious disease, is the author of Imagery in Healing: Shamanism and Modern Medicine.

Margot Adler, p. 11 — author of Drawing Down the Moon and reporter for National Public Radio, has been involved with Goddess and Pagan spiritual paths for fifteen years.

Stephen Aizenstat, p. 14 — clinical director of the Human Relations Institute, has conducted dream groups throughout the U.S. and recently completed a comprehensive research project on methods of dream analysis.

Ijalu Akanbe p. 21, 22, 39 — has danced with Olatunji for 22 years and is dance captain of the Drums of Passion Dancers.

Hameed Ali p. 26 — is the founder and director of the Ridhwan Work School in the U.S., the home of the Diamond Approach.

Maurica Anderson p. 40 — is studying the relationship between humor and mental health. She has led Esalen High Sierra wilderness trips for many years.

Walter Truett Anderson p. 40 — is author of The Upstart Spring and To Govern Evolution.

Anne Armstrong p. 22, 32 — has been doing transpersonal counseling for over 22 years and has trained professionals to use their own intuitive abilities.

Jim Armstrong, p. 22, 32 — a former engineer, is a lifelong student and teacher of esoteric studies.

Elliot Aronson, p. 8, 12, 28 — professor of psychology at UC Santa Cruz, is the author of 14 books on interpersonal relations, including The Social Animal, The Handbook of Social Psychology, and Burnout.

Angeles Arrien p. 17 — is an anthropologist and specialist in Basque mysticism. She teaches courses in cross-cultural approaches to healing, myths, and symbols.

Jim Asher p. 8, 17 — has been practicing cranial work since 1973. He is a Rolfing® teacher and an advanced Rolfer, certified by Ida Rolf.

Nancy Azara p. 30 — is a sculptor, painter, and psychic consultant specializing in the creative process. She is co-founder of the New York Feminist Art Institute (NYFAI) Women's Center for Learning.

B

Nancy Bacal, p. 12 — novelist, lyricist, filmmaker, screenwriter, has taught writing workshops for years. Student of meditation and aikido, her work includes the award-winning film, RAGA, starring Ravi Shankar.

John Banmen, p. 34 — author and researcher, is an associate professor at the University of British Columbia. He is Deputy Minister of Corrections and Rehabilitation Services, B.C., and an AAMFT approved supervisor.

Jamie Baraz p. 23 — has taught Vipassana (insight) meditation with Joseph Goldstein, Jack Kornfield, and Stephen Levine in the U.S. and Asia. He has led San Francisco area classes and retreats since 1977.

Daniel Bianchetta p. 29 — practices intuitive readings, shiatsu, and deep tissue work at Esalen. He is a teacher and student of Siddha yoga.

Charles Blakeney p. 16 — directs Berkeley Academy and advises the White House Domestic Policy council. He does research and training on moral insanity and moral misbehavior.

Ronnie Blakeney p. 16 — works with disturbed adolescents and consults the White House on welfare. She studies racial discordance, morality, identity, and emotional development.

Stephen Book, p. 27 — adjunct professor of acting at USC, co-designed, with Viola Spolin, and served as executive director of, the Spolin Theater Game Center.

Julie Bowden, p. 11 — co-author of Guide to Recovery and Genesis: A Spiritual Beginning, is a founding and current board member of the National Association for Children of Alcoholics.

Jessica Moore Britt p. 8, 31, 34, 37 — is a senior teacher of gestalt and Reichian work at Esalen. She is a member of the Ridhwan Work School, dedicated to understanding personality and essential development.

C

Anne Caple p. 22 — is a student of transpersonal psychology, technical writer, editor, and fiber artist.

John Caple p. 22 — is a career counselor, worklife advisor to business, and college professor.

Paul Carter, p. 16, 36 — co-founder and director of Meta-Education and Training Arts since 1976, leads workshops in the U.S. and Europe on Ericksonian hypnosis, creativity, and learning.

Seymour Carter, p. 13, 21, 32, 37 — longtime gestalt teacher at Esalen and in Europe, combines studies in sensory awareness, Zen Buddhism, aikido, and other body-oriented practices.

Michell Cassou p. 31 — is the founder of an original approach to painting designed to stimulate and unblock creativity. She is director of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.

David Chrislip, p. 33 — leadership consultant with Interaction Associates, is founder of Denver Community Leadership Forum and past director of programs for American Leadership Forum.

Jack Cirie p. 32, 34, 36, 39 — is a certified Leonard Energy Trainer, aikidoist, and fitness expert. He currently heads the Mind-Body-Team corporate programs for SportsMind Inc. in Seattle.

Price Cobbs, p. 22 — a physician, is co-author of Black Rage and The Jesus Bag and has developed a clinical model for changing attitudes and assumptions that arise from racial, ethnic, and cultural differences.

Stewart Cubley, p. 31 — artist and scientist, is co-founder with Michell Cassou of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.

Dale Cummings, p. 14 — certified Radix® teacher and counselor in private practice in West Los Angeles, is director of first-year training for the Radix Institute in Ojai.

D

Laura DeNuccio p. 20, 34 — is a certified Radix® teacher on Esalen's Gestalt Staff, with over 12 years of experience combining Reichian body work, vision work, movement, ritual, and meditation.

Steve Donovan p. 30 — has been involved with Esalen's Study of Exceptional Functioning since 1978.

Patrick Douce, p. 9, 19, 23 — a resident at Esalen since 1972, teaches ongoing classes in Feldenkrais Awareness Through Movement® and is available for individual sessions in Functional Integration®.

Joel Dweck p. 22 — is a Reichian therapist in private practice in Los Angeles, where he also directs the Core Contact training program.

Ken Dychtwald p. 24 — is a psychologist, gerontologist, lecturer, and author in the fields of aging, health promotion, and high performance behavior. He is president of Age Wave, Inc.

E

Diane Egli, p. 26 — violinist and member of the Suzuki Association of America, teaches violin privately and performs, and is a Gazebo teacher at Esalen.

Esalen Massage Practitioners p. 14, 17, 20, 22, 24, 32, 34, 36 — Char Brenner, Oliver Bailey, Robert Helm, Bill Liles, Deane Marson, Jaime Morton, Laurie Muller, Kathleen O'Shaughnesey, Laurie Schutz, Vicki Topp, and Attila Vaas.

Danielle Evans, p. 14 — a 3rd degree black belt in aikido, is the head female instructor of Model Mugging Women's Self Defense and has pioneered women's empowerment groups throughout the U.S.

F

Neil Fiore, p. 35 — a licensed psychologist practicing hypnosis, is working on the effects of stress and anxiety on performance and health.

Jerry Fletcher p. 18 — is president and founder of High Performance Dynamics, Inc., a management consulting and training company based in Richmond, California.

Kathleen Brown Fletcher p. 18 — is a trainer and consultant in organizational development, working in both the profit and non-profit sectors.

G

Elinor Gadon, p. 13, 29 — uses images and symbols from the visual arts and popular media for analysis of self in culture. She is the author of the forthcoming The Once and Future Goddess: A Symbol for Our Time.

Gaetana, p. 32 — director and instructor of Beyond Words, an experimental movement school in San Francisco, has an extensive background in mime, theater, and hypnosis.

Jane Gerber p. 34 — is the co-founder and vice president of Oasis Midwest Training Center and founding fellow and faculty member of the Gestalt Institute of Chicago. She is an AAMFT approved supervisor.

Yvonne Ginsberg, p. 28 — N.L.P. practitioner and Ericksonian hypnotist, has 10 years of intensive Vipassana meditation experience. She is in private practice in the Bay Area.

Mary Goldenson, (Devarani) p. 12, 25, 26, 37 — a chiropractor, certified Radix® teacher and doctoral candidate in clinical psychology, is in private practice in Los Angeles.

Maria Gomori p. 34 — is an assistant professor in the department of psychiatry at the University of Manitoba's medical school and a lecturer at the University of Winnipeg. She is an AAMFT approved supervisor.

Harriet Goslins p. 31 — is a Feldenkrais® practitioner and an Awareness Through Movement® teacher with a background in psychosynthesis and applied kinesiology.

Herbert Gravitz, p. 11 — psychologist, is a founding and current board member of the National Association for Children of Alcoholics. He co-authored Guide to Recovery and Genesis: A Spiritual Beginning.

Christina Grof p. 12, 24, 25, 26, 38, 39 — studied with Swami Muktananda and has a special interest in the relationship between mysticism and psychosis. She is founder of the Spiritual Emergency Network and co-author of Beyond Death.

Stanislav Grof, p. 12, 24, 25, 26, 38, 39 — a psychiatrist who has extensive experience in consciousness research with and without psychedelics, is author of Realms of the Human Unconscious, LSD Psychotherapy, and Beyond the Brain.

H

Anna Halprin ..... is artistic director of Tamalpa Institute in Kentfield, CA. She is the author of Movement Ritual and has been touring the world with "Circle the Earth," a planetary peace dance.
p. 26

Betsy Hand ..... has worked as a nurse, family counselor, group leader, manager, and consultant in the health care field for over 25 years.
p. 15, 22

Michael Harner, ... an anthropologist, has practiced shamanism for 26 years and has pioneered the return of shamanism to contemporary life. His books include The Way of the Shaman.
p. 16, 40

Steven Harper ..... teaches for Colorado Outward Bound and the National Outdoor Leadership School, coordinates Esalen Wilderness Programs, and is director of EARTHWAYS Wilderness Journeys.
p. 12, 14, 19, 28, 33, 36, 40

Susan Harper ..... teaches Continuum Dance Meditation workshops in Los Angeles and San Francisco, leads "Dance the River" trips on wild rivers, and has presented at the Joy-Spangler Asilomar Conference.
p. 19

Jane Harrington ..... holds a masters degree from Lone Mountain College and is a certified Rolf-movement teacher with extensive craniosacral experience.
p. 8, 17

Richard Strozzi Heckler, ... psychologist, has a 3rd degree black belt in aikido. He has trained such diverse groups as the Green Berets, emotionally disturbed children, Olympic athletes, and Standard Oil executives.
p. 13, 33

John Heider, ... a psychologist in private practice in Coconut Grove, Florida, is a group leader and teacher of group leaders. He was part of the Esalen Residential Program from 1967-71.
p. 13

Nick Herbert ..... is the author of Quantum Reality: Beyond the New Physics and is currently working on a book about time travel.
p. 25

Stephan Hoeller ..... is a leading exponent of the Gnostic movement today. He is director of the Gnostic Society and regionary bishop of Ecclesia Gnostica, both of Los Angeles.
p. 15

Jean Hollands ..... is president of Growth and Leadership Consultants in Mountain View, CA, and author of Silicon Syndrome: How to Survive a High Tech Relationship.
p. 23

Maria Lucia Holloman ..... has been a seminar leader since 1982, teaching in Brazil and the U.S.
p. 36

Wade Hudson ..... has been a community organizer in the San Francisco Bay Area since 1962. He currently is resident manager of the Aarti Cooperative Hotel.
p. 31

Terry Hunt, ... a licensed psychologist practicing bioenergetic analysis in Boston, directs a flotation tank center for amelioration of somatic and addictive disorders.
p. 21

Richard Irons ..... combines traditional Western medicine with music and color to promote healing. He has worked in Papua, New Guinea and Nepal, and currently practices in Helena, Montana.
p. 34

J

Erik Jarlnaes ..... is a Reichian practitioner, athlete, and journalist. He uses the Danish Bodynamic approach in working with the body and emotions.
p. 33

Eli Jaxon-Bear, ... former staff research associate in psychology at UCLA and past president of a Tibetan Buddhist meditation center, practices Ericksonian hypnosis and is a master practitioner of N.L.P.
p. 24

Don Johnson, ... author of Body and The Protean Body, is coordinator of the graduate studies program in somatic psychology and education at Antioch University in San Francisco.
p. 13, 20, 22, 39

K

Norman Katz ..... is director of the Milton Erickson Institute of Hypnosis and the Behavioral Sciences of New Mexico.
p. 21

Sam Keen ..... is a lecturer, consultant, and author of To a Dancing God, Faces of the Enemy, and other books on philosophy, theology, and psychology.
p. 33

Daria Khalighi, ... teacher and counselor, developed the Creative Process Method, integrating art and psychology to facilitate creative expression and growth. She is co-founder of Tamalpa Institute.
p. 12

George King, ... a massage practitioner for 26 years, specializes in massage of dancers and has toured with many companies.
p. 26

George Kohlrieser, ... a clinical psychologist with an international practice, researches and applies attachment and separation theory to relationships, psychosomatic illness, violence prevention, and hostage negotiations.
p. 27

Paul Krassner, ... co-founder of the Yippies and a stand-up comic since 1953, is author of Impolite Interviews and Tales of Tongue Fu, and editor of Lenny Bruce's autobiography.
p. 18

Ron Kurtz ..... is the founder and director of the Hakomi Institute. He is the author of Hakomi Therapy and co-author of The Body Reveals.
p. 32

L

Stephen LaBerge ..... is a scientist dedicated to the transformation of human consciousness. He teaches and does research at Stanford University on conscious or "lucid" dreaming.
p. 27

Benj Langdon, ... former coordinator of Experiencing Esalen: The Body, is currently exploring transformation through body practices.
p. 20

Sidney Lanier, p. 15 ... longtime friend of Esalen, with a wide experience in humanistic psychology and contemporary theater, is an associate of Stephan Hoeller at the Ecclesia Gnostica.

Frank Lawlis, p. 9, 28 ... professor of psychology and behavioral medicine, is co-director of two innovative pain clinics and co-author of several textbooks, including Bridges of the Bodymind.

Marc Lehrer p. 21 ... is director of Medical Hypnosis Seminars of San Francisco.

Dub Leigh p. 9, 21 ... was trained by Ida Rolf and Moshe Feldenkrais, and is currently studying with Tanouye Tenshin roshi at International Zen Dojo. He is the author of A Zen Approach to Bodytherapy.

George Leonard, p. 14, 22, 32, 34, 36, 39 ... author of Education and Ecstasy, The Ultimate Athlete, and The Silent Pulse, was a longtime senior editor of Look and is currently a contributing editor of Esquire.

Annie Styron Leonard p. 14, 32, 34, 39 ... is a founder of the Energy Training Institute in Mill Valley, California, and an aikido black belt.

Dianne Miller Lesty p. 26 ... has been a resident Esalen gestalt and Halprin movement facilitator and massage staff member since 1973.

Alan Lithman (Savitra), p. 13 ... an 18-year resident of Auroville who remained in India after his meeting with the Mother, is the author of Auroville: A Trust for the Earth.

Margaret Livingston, p. 30 ... director of Esalen's Study of Exceptional Functioning, is also a poet and a competitive runner.

Paul Lounsbury p. 21 ... has studied extensively with Milton Erickson and has conducted numerous training seminars on the use of hypnosis and strategic counseling. He is in private practice in New York.

Francis Lu p. 34 ... is an assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at UCSF, with a background in transpersonal psychology, film, and hypnosis.

Nancy Kaye Lunney, p. 13, 27 ... a gestalt practitioner at Esalen since 1977, is a vocal coach and accompanist for well-known professional entertainers. She is manager of programming and a trustee at Esalen.

Joyce Rogers Lyke p. 12, 37, 40 ... is a practitioner of gestalt and photographer for the Esalen Catalog.

M

Lisbeth Marcher p. 33 ... is the founder and developer of the Danish Bodynamic approach to working with the body and emotions.

Rhonda Martyn, p. 36 ... former artistic director of the San Francisco Moving Company, is an award-winning New York choreographer / dancer on the dance faculty of Princeton University.

Kathleen Harrison McKenna p. 36 ... is an artist, mother, and traveler through nature.

Terence McKenna p. 36 ... authored The Invisible Landscape and Psilocybin: Magic Mushroom Grower's Guide. He studied shamanism at UC Berkeley and has lived in tropical Asia and the Amazon.

Deborah Anne Medow, p. 12, 25, 27 ... Esalen group leader and body work practitioner since 1969, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, gestalt awareness, and related healing disciplines throughout the U.S. and Europe.

Ailish Mellard, p. 34 ... holistic health practitioner and body worker for 12 years, is currently organizational consultant for Will Schutz Associates, which teaches human potential concepts for various organizations.

Donald Michael, p. 11 ... professor emeritus of planning and public policy and professor of psychology, University of Michigan, is the author of On Learning to Plan and Planning to Learn.

Jane Miletich, p. 27 ... a longtime Big Sur resident and Esalen masseuse, is instructor of hatha yoga, t'ai chi, and transitional cleansing diets; student of midwifery, birth, and death; and bearer of ritual.

Marghe Mills p. 17 ... is co-author of Developmental Movement Therapy with Bonnie Cohen, certified Feldenkrais® teacher, faculty member, Dominican College, and in private practice in Marin County and San Francisco.

Arnold Mindell, p. 23 ... founder of the Institute for Process-oriented Psychology, is a Jungian training analyst and author of Dreambody, Working with the Dreaming Body, River's Way, and The Dreambody in Relationships.

Beverly Kitaen Morse p. 19, 29 ... is a marriage and family counselor in private practice in Santa Monica and a senior instructor at the Rosenberg-Rand Institute for Integrative Body Psychotherapy.

Arthur Munyer p. 25 ... is a teacher and practitioner on the Esalen massage crew and was one of the first faculty members at Gazebo school.

Michael Murphy p. 30 ... is co-founder of Esalen and founder of Esalen's Study of Exceptional Functioning. He is author of Golf in the Kingdom, Jacob Atabet, The Psychic Side of Sports, and An End to Ordinary History.

N

Claudio Naranjo, p. 20 ... theorist of growth disciplines and former resident at Esalen, introduced meditation as a component of gestalt practice.

O

P

R

S

John Nicholas, p. 31 — a graduate of the C.G. Jung Institute in Zurich, is a teacher, counselor, author, analyst, and international career management consultant.

Wes "Scoop" Nisker, p. 18 — considered the dean of the new radio journalism, is a newsman at KFOG, San Francisco, and the editor of the Inquiring Mind, the journal of the Vipassana Buddhist community.

Babatunde Olatunji, p. 21, 22, 39 — master percussionist from Nigeria, has performed internationally for over 30 years and is known for his album Drums of Passion. He is an authority on African religion.

Dean Ornish, p. 8, 9, 29 — physician and author, is Assistant Clinical Professor of Medicine at the UCSF School of Medicine and director of the Preventive Medicine Research Institute in San Francisco.

Brita Ostrom, p. 32 — a longtime Esalen massage practitioner, incorporates Trager℠ training with the personal energetic connection of the Esalen massage.

Rick Paine, p. 32 — psychologist, works with adult children of alcoholics and leads workshops for emerging men. He is on the faculty of The New York Open Center, Interface, and Spring Hill Institute.

Karen Paine-Gernée p. 21, 32 — leads groups for Adult Children of Alcoholics in Cambridge, Massachusetts. She is on the faculty of Omega Institute, The New York Open Center, Interface, and Spring Hill Institute.

Helen Palmer p. 32 — is a practicing clairvoyant. She directs the Center for the Investigation and Training of Intuition. Her teaching utilizes personality issues as access points to psychic perception and the inner life.

Wendy Palmer, p. 36, 40 — faculty member of the Center for the Investigation and Training of Intuition, 3rd degree black belt in aikido, is co-founder of the Tamalpais Aikido and International Movement Arts Center.

Ayala Pines, p. 26 — a social psychologist at UC Berkeley and a licensed psychologist in private practice, is co-author of Experiencing Social Psychology and Burnout: From Tedium to Personal Growth.

Hector Prestera, p. 27 — a physician, acupuncturist, Rolfer, certified neurolinguistic trainer, and practitioner of Ericksonian work, is in private practice in Monterey, California.

Christine Stewart Price p. 8 — is a teacher and ongoing student of gestalt practice. Her spiritual orientation fluctuates between evangelical Taoism and born-again Paganism. (Paganism: religion of the earth.)

Jill Purce p. 16 — is author of The Mystic Spiral. She investigated the mystical dimension of sound with Karlheinz Stockhausen, and the magical use of the voice and overtone chanting with Tibetan lamas.

Ram Dass p. 36 — is a psychologist and student of Eastern spiritual practices, especially those focusing on unveiling and cultivating the heart of compassion through service.

Leon Redler p. 9, 29 — is a London-based psychiatrist, and pioneer, with R.D. Laing and others, in developing alternative psychiatric strategies, including the provision of asylum for people in mental distress.

Linda Rice-Mandigo p. 22 — is a therapist in private practice in New York, and a practitioner of MAHIKARI-NO-WAZA.

Sogyal Rinpoche, p. 16 — Tibetan incarnate lama, scholar, and meditation master, was raised by Buddhist master Jamyang Khyentse Chokyi Lodro, and studied at Cambridge University.

William Roll, p. 29 — professor of parapsychology at West Georgia College and lay Zen monk with Dai Bosatsu Zendo, focuses on the development of methods for clinical parapsychology and spiritual awareness.

Nancy Rosanoff p. 25 — teaches energy strategies and creativity as a private counselor and business consultant. She is based in New York City.

Jack Rosenberg, p. 19, 29, 36 — a psychologist and director of the Rosenberg-Rand Institute of Integrative Body Psychotherapy in Venice, CA, is the author of the new book Body, Self, and Soul.

Gabrielle Roth p. 28 — is the creator of the Moving Center method of catalyzing natural movements. She lives on the East Coast, where she directs and performs with her own theater/dance company.

Ilana Rubenfeld, p. 9, 27 — pioneer of 25 years in the body/mind/spirit field and originator of the Rubenfeld Synergy Method®, is a certified teacher of Alexander Technique and Feldenkrais®, and is a gestalt therapist.

Anne Ruderman p. 22 — is a Reichian therapist in private practice in Los Angeles.

Gordy Ryan p. 21, 22, 39 — has roots in the Big Sur Primitive Jazz Society and has studied and performed with Olatunji for fifteen years.

David Schiffman, p. 11, 12, 17, 23, 26, 28, 31, 32, 35 — a longtime group leader at Esalen, is involved in developing full expression of mental, physical, and spiritual states of being.

Elisa Lodge Schiffman p. 11, 12, 13, 17, 23, 26, 28, 30, 31, 32, 35 — trained in structural integration with Ida Rolf and is an advanced teacher of Rolf-movement integration.

Will Schutz, p. 34 ... founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of The Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations, and author of Joy and Profound Simplicity.

Alan Schwartz, p. 25 ... longtime Esalen group leader, college professor, and gestaltist, is completing his book, Life Force—Death Force: The Final Struggle for Freedom.

Phyllis Shankman, p. 37 ... a licensed counselor in transition between Los Angeles and Big Sur, specializes in group process and is interested in self-acceptance and change.

Rupert Sheldrake p. 15 ... is a biologist and author of A New Science of Life and The Presence of the Past: Morphic Resonance and the Habits of Nature.

David Silverstein p. 28 ... works with hypnosis and is a neo-Reichian practitioner in private practice in Berkeley, California.

Anne Nechama Simkin p. 23, 37 ... trained in gestalt with Erv and Miriam Polster and Jim Simkin, and has conducted workshops internationally.

Harry Sloan, p. 24, 30 ... a 1969 Esalen resident fellow, former dentist, and playwright, worked with Roberto Assagioli, the founder of psychosynthesis, and is in private practice in San Francisco.

Jacquelyn Small, p. 12, 38 ... author of Becoming Naturally Therapeutic and Transformers, The Therapists of the Future, is recognized as a leader in the fields of addiction and human consciousness.

Fritz Smith p. 9, 19, 22 ... is a physician, cranial osteopath, certified acupuncturist, and founder of zero balancing. He is the author of Inner Bridges: A Guide to Energy Movement and Body Structure.

Gerald Smith p. 15, 22 ... is a psychologist in Belmont, California. He is author of Hidden Meanings and Couple Therapy.

Elliot Sobel p. 37 ... was the editor of New Sun Magazine and has done extensive research, as an author and performer, in the area of consciousness as it relates to the arts.

Gena Mayer Sorensen, p. 14 ... a marriage and family counselor, is in private practice in San Jose and San Francisco. She holds an adjunct certificate as a Radix® teacher.

Starhawk, p. 33 ... author, feminist, and peace activist, teaches at several Bay Area colleges and works with the Reclaiming collective, which offers workshops and rituals in the Old Religion of the Goddess.

Elizabeth Stratton, p. 24 ... a psychic healer and counselor in private practice in New York City, leads workshops in self-healing, psychic self-defense, and psychic development for health professionals.

T

Yao Tamakloe p. 21, 22, 39 ... studied African dance, music, and literature at the University of Ghana and at UCLA. He dances with the Drums of Passion.

Mary Tesoro p. 14 ... is a certified Leonard Energy Training instructor, writer, and aikido practitioner, whose work embraces issues of human health, potential, and peak performance.

Keith Thompson, p. 19, 30, 32 ... teacher of hypnosis and mental imagery, is currently writing a book about the Grimm Brothers' fairy tale Iron John.

Lia Thompson p. 12 ... has been a Gazebo teacher for six years. She is currently a co-ordinator of Experiencing Esalen: The Body and a member of the Gazebo workshop staff.

Gabriele Thomson p. 28 ... has conducted workshops for mental health professionals in Europe, Australia, and New Zealand. She supports individuals in healing childhood traumas and furthering spiritual development.

V

Frances Vaughan p. 17 ... is an author, psychologist, and consultant. Formerly president of the Association for Transpersonal Psychology, she is a pioneer in intuition research.

W

Barbara White p. 34 ... is a former executive director of the Association for Transpersonal Psychology and is currently a counselor and Feldenkrais® practitioner.

Nancy Winston p. 21 ... is a counselor in New York City who has studied with Milton Erickson and has taught and trained clinicians in the use of hypnosis and counseling throughout North America.

Z

Ruth Zapora, p. 35 ... performance artist and teacher, regularly presents her work throughout the U.S. and Europe. She is a current recipient of a National Endowment for the Arts Choreographer's Fellowship.

Jeffrey Zeig p. 19 ... is director of the Milton Erickson Foundation. His professional interest is how communication can be used to elicit and develop innate strengths.

Janet Zuckerman p. 18, 19, 29, 30 ... was an emotional release and group process teacher in residence at Esalen for 12 years. She currently has a private practice in San Francisco.

Ofer Zur p. 32 ... is a teacher, researcher, and writer in the area of the psychology of peace and war. He is on the faculty of the California Institute of Integral Studies in San Francisco.

The Media Center

Videotapes

The Esalen Media Center is offering for rental or purchase a selection of videotapes. This series consists of unedited single camera recordings of informal talks made at Esalen, along with a descriptive tape of Esalen itself..

1. Jack Kornfield, "On Meditation," November, 1984. A longtime student and teacher of vipassana meditation and Buddhism discusses these traditions with reference to his own experiences as a spiritual seeker in the Orient. (117 minutes)

2. Brother David Steindl-Rast, "God, Spirituality, and the Senses," November, 1984. A Benedictine monk and scholar discusses the spiritual journey and its relationship to mythology and transpersonal theory. (117 minutes)

3. Fritjof Capra, "Characteristics of Systems Thinking," June, 1985. The author of The Tao of Physics and The Turning Point discusses the evolution of scientific thinking, including current views and implications. (81 minutes)

4. Stanislav Grof, "The New Scientific Paradigm," June, 1985. An original member of the transpersonal psychology network and author on topics such as appropriate use of psycho-active substances, discusses his current view of consciousness. (117 minutes)

5. Rupert Sheldrake, "Morphic Resonance and The New Science of Life," June, 1985. A British geneticist relates his theories on biological and psychological development and discusses some empirical tests of these theories. (108 minutes)

6. Kenneth Ring, "The Near-Death Experience," June, 1985. The author of Life at Death and Heading Toward Omega discusses his research on the near-death experience and some of its implications for the future of the human race. (114 minutes)

7. Albert Hofmann, December, 1984. The discoverer of LSD talks to Stanislav Grof about his early experiences with this and other psycho-active drugs. He also discusses some of the social, political, and scientific consequences of LSD. (92 minutes)

8. Anne Armstrong and Elizabeth Stratton, December, 1984. Two long-time students, practitioners, and teachers of psychic work discuss with Nancy Knapp their practices and perspectives related to psychic counseling and healing. (56 minutes)

9. Terence McKenna, "Fractile Perspectives on the Millenium," August, 1985. The author of The Invisible Landscape gives his vision of the future, centering around the evolution of human consciousness. (72 minutes)

10. Jack Rosenberg, "One Hour and Twenty-Nine Minutes with Jack Rosenberg and Integrative Body Practice," September, 1985. The Venice, California, practitioner gives his view of personality development and some of the typical patterns of interaction in relationship. (89 minutes)

11. Esalen. This 18-minute videotape tells Esalen's story from its early history to the present. The visuals consist of 130 color slides featuring scenes of the Big Sur coast, Esalen's garden, grounds, and various workshops and activities.

Ordering Information

Each speaker program costs $55 to purchase, $25 to rent. The "Esalen" tape costs $35 to purchase, $15 to rent. To order any of these tapes, indicate: purchase or rental, program # and title, format (VHS or Beta). To your subtotal, add $5 shipping and handling. California residents add 6% tax for sales only. Include your name, address, and phone number. Please address your order (with a check payable to Esalen Institute) to the Esalen Media Center.

Friends of Esalen

We invite you to join us in our organization—the Friends of Esalen scholarship fund.

Friends of Esalen provides financial aid to people who are eager to attend our workshops but who cannot afford them.

We believe that one of our first priorities is to make our programs available on a broader basis. We have therefore decided to use membership contributions to fund such scholarships. Esalen will, in turn, match your contribution.

In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen, you will receive the Esalen Catalog for one year. We hope you feel your experience at Esalen was worth the sharing and that you will join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.

☐ I wish to become a Friend of Esalen and I enclose my check for the category marked.

☐ I wish to renew my membership in Friends of Esalen.

☐ One Year Student ..... $15 ☐ One Year Donor ..... $50 ☐ One Year Patron $500

☐ One Year Individual ..... $25 ☐ One Year Sponsor ..... $100 (Contributions are tax-deductible)

Name _____ Student Affiliation _____

Street _____ City _____

State _____ ZIP _____ Date _____

Please mail to: Friends of Esalen, Big Sur, CA 93920.

Audio Recordings

The Dolphin Tape Series

The human potential movement generates unusual events which produce unusual recordings. Each issue of the Esalen Catalog updates the Dolphin Tape list with new titles, including some from the Big Sur Recordings archives. Nearly all tapes are stereo from live events. Tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hrs.

Single-tape titles are $10 with prepayment (purchase orders add $1 per tape):

John Heider: The Tao of Leadership, 1986
Rupert Sheldrake: Trajectory to Armageddon—or Peace?, 1985
Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance and Memory, 1985
Rusty Schweickart: Global Unity: A View from Space, 1984
Fritjof Capra: Characteristics of Systems Thinking, 1985
Fritjof Capra: Ecological Vision, 1985
George Freibott: Nikola Tesla, The Inventor, 1984
Albert Hofmann: The Transmitter-Receiver Concept of Reality, 1984
Albert Hofmann: Interviewed by Stan Grof, 1984
Stanislav Grof: Principles of Holotropic Therapy, 1985
Joseph Campbell: The Hero's Journey (80th Year), 1984
Paul Rebillot: The Pluto Story: Journey into Madness, 1984
Janet Lederman: Gazebo—Alternative Education, 1984
Robert Anton Wilson: The I in the Triangle, 1984
Robert Anton Wilson: The Prism Lecture (Santa Cruz), 1982
Anna Halprin: Peace Meditation, 1983
Sogyal Rinpoche: Technologies of the Sacred, 1984
Julian Silverman: A Light-Hearted Course in Miracles, 1984
Jack Kornfield: Simplicity of Spiritual Practice, 1982
Reb Anderson: Entry Into Buddhist Meditation, 1984
Reb Anderson: Basic Points of Buddhist Meditation, 1984
Jule Eisenbud: Psi Experience in Psychotherapy, 1984
Jan Ehrenwald: Psi Experience and the Bergsonian Filter, 1984
Charles Tart: Our Fear of Psychic Abilities, 1984
Stanley Krippner: Multiple Personality Disorder, 1983
Paul Rebillot: Conflicts at the Ego Frontier, 1983
Sogyal Rinpoche: Interview on Death and Dying, 1982
Terence McKenna: Psilocybin and the Sands of Time, 1982
Dennis McKenna: Activity of Ayahuasca and Oo-Koey, 1984
Richard Yensen: The Use of LSD in Psychotherapy, 1984
Albert Hofmann: LSD and the Nature of Reality, 1978
Henry Munn: Mushrooms and Culture, 1977
Henry Munn: Fable of the Vision Drink, 1977
Robert Bly: The Six Powers of Poetry, 1983
Ram Dass: Yoga of Daily Life, 1970
Anne Armstrong: On Being a Psychic, 1971
Alan Watts: Divine Madness, 1968
Fritz Perls: Dream Theory and Demonstration, 1968
Carl Rogers: The Intensive Group, 1966
Abraham H. Maslow: Self-Actualization, 1966
Aldous Huxley: Visionary Experience, 1960

Two-tape titles are $18 with prepayment (purchase order price is $20):

Buckminster Fuller: (2) The Critical Path (Maui), 1983
Walt Anderson & Ted Roszak: (2) The Upstart Spring, 1984
Joseph Campbell & Sam Keen: (2) Dark Side of the Forest, 1985
David Steindl-Rast: (2) Healing Starts from the Heart, 1984
David Steindl-Rast: (2) Overview of the Christian Myths, 1984
Father Bede Griffiths: (2) Convergence of Religions, 1983
David Finkelstein: (2) Ancient, Medieval, and Classical Physics, 1984
Karl Pribram: (2) The Holographic Model Today, 1985
Ralph Metzner: (2) Varieties of Human Transformation, 1984
Kenneth Ring: (2) Near Death Experiences, 1985
Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human (Boston ATP Conference), 1979
Stanislav Grof: (2) Geometry of Psychopathology, 1984
Stan & Christina Grof: (2) Holonomic Consciousness Paradigm, 1982
Andrew Weil: (2) Use and Abuse of Beneficial Plants, 1982
Andrew Weil: (2) Interplay of Mind and Body Realities, 1982
Bob Schwartz: (2) Entrepreneurship & Human Potential, 1980
Charlotte Selver / Charles Brooks: (2) Sensory Awareness, 1980-1982
Angeles Arrien: (2) The Story of Basque Mysticism, 1982
Angeles Arrien: (2) The Egyptian Tarot, 1982
A Dramatic Presentation: (2) The Poetry of Robinson Jeffers, 1972
Ram Dass: (2) One Man's Journey to the East, 1968
Fritz Perls: (2) Neurosis, Psychosis, and Dreams, 1968
Joseph Campbell: (2) Myths of Alienation and Rapture, 1970
Joseph Chilton Pearce: (2) The Magical Child, 1975
Robert Bly: (2) Poetry East and West, 1983

Four-tape titles are $36 with prepayment (purchase order price is $40):

Father Bede Griffiths: (4) Return to the Center (The Ojai Series), 1983
David Steindl-Rast: (4) Mysticism as a Frontier Experience, 1985
Donald Keys: (4) Personal Growth and Social Change, 1982
Terence McKenna: (4) Psychedelics and a Free Society, 1984
Jack Kornfield: (4) Buddhist Meditation and Practice, 1981
Joseph Campbell: (4) Imagery in the Novels of James Joyce, 1968
Jack Rosenberg: (4) A New Understanding of Relationships, 1982
James Fadiman: (4) A Weekend of Stories, 1984
Rollo May: (4) The F. Scott Fitzgerald Myth and Your Own, 1982
Theodore Roszak: (4) The Unfinished Animal, 1982
Anne & Jim Armstrong: (4) A Psychic Training Program, 1981
Anne & Jim Armstrong: (4) Thoughts and Meditations, 1984

The Dolphin Vinyl Binder Tape Sets

(purchase order price add 10%)

Rupert Sheldrake: (6) Seminar on the Presence of the Past, 1985	$60
Robert Anton Wilson: (6) Seminar on the I in the Triangle, 1984	$60
Joseph Campbell: (6) Courtly Love and The Grail, 1983	$60
Robert Bly & Angeles Arrien: (6) Love in the Western World, 1984	$60
Entheogens: (6) The Spiritual Psychedelics (The Santa Barbara Conference), 1983	$60
Andrew Weil: (6) Integrated Consciousness and Health, 1976	$60
Fritz Perls: (6) The Perls Encounter: A Complete Weekend, 1968	$60
Ruthy Alon: (6) The Feldenkrais Method—Series I or Series II	$60
Moshe Feldenkrais: (6) Awareness Through Movement—Series I	$72
Jack Rosenberg: (8) Sustained Integration: Body, Self, and Soul, 1981	$72
Julian Silverman: Commentaries on A Course in Miracles, 1980	$72
Faces of the Enemy: (8) The San Francisco Symposium, 1983	$72
Buckminster Fuller: (8) The Pajaro Dunes Tapes, 1977	$80
Terence McKenna: (8) True Hallucinations: A Talking Book, 1984 (The Amazon Experience)	$80
Joseph Campbell: (10) World Mythology and The Individual Adventure, 1969	$88
Gregory Bateson: (12) The Informal Esalen Lectures 1975-1980 (Library Archives)	$98

Please add $2 to your complete order for handling and mailing ($4 if you wish priority mail). Add $2 for mailing each vinyl binder set. California residents include 6% tax.

Please mail your order with check payable to:
DOLPHIN TAPES, P.O. Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920.

Advertisement: Dolphin Tapes is a private company independent of Esalen.

Esalen Institute Reservations

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. In completing the form, please indicate the name, address, and telephone number of each person registering and clearly indicate the title of the workshop for which each person is reserving a place. A registration fee for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (See General Information, page 50.)

(Please Print)

Name _____ Sex M ☐ F ☐

Address _____

City, State _____ ZIP _____ Occupation _____

Telephone Number: Home: Area Code ( ) _____ Work: Area Code ( ) _____

Occasionally there are unexpected situations that require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you? _____. If you can't be reached, please call us before your scheduled arrival for final confirmation. Please indicate your second choice for a workshop, in case your first choice is canceled and we are unable to reach you.

(On additional paper please repeat the above information for every person in your party making a reservation. Mail to: Reservations, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.)

☐ Check if you want housing as a couple, shared bed ☐ Check if you smoke

Car Pooling: We encourage guests to car pool whenever possible. Please call Esalen 10 days to two weeks prior to your workshop for phone numbers of other guests from your area.

☐ Check if you do not want us to give out your number for the purposes of ride sharing.

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Please allow three weeks for scholarship processing. For further details, see Ways of Being at Esalen, page 9.

Bus Service: I want bus service from (check one):
☐ Monterey Greyhound Bus Station at approximately 3:45 PM ☐ Monterey Airport at approximately 4:00 PM
on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays & Sundays only)

The $25 per person charge is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the bus change after you submit this reservation, please notify us. The only departing bus service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM. Esalen bus service is not available at any time other than as listed.

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

We are unable to act as a banking service for our guests. Please bring adequate funds for your stay.

Name of Person Registering	Date(s)	Leader's Name/Title of Workshop	Deposit Enclosed

Total amount enclosed: $ _____

Please make checks payable to Esalen Institute, in U.S. currency only.

Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks.

Your reservation can be charged to:

☐ MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express

Card No. _____

Expiration Date _____

Authorizing Signature _____

All workshops require nonrefundable reservation fees. See page 50. The balance of program fees becomes payable at the time of check-in.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Our activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

General Information

Esalen lies 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco, situated directly over the Pacific with the Santa Lucia Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was once the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esselen.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute—By Reservation Only.

Fees and Reservations: In order to reserve a space in any workshop, we require the following reservation fees:

Weekend:	$50	Two-week:	$200
Five-day:	$100	Three-week:	$300
Seven-day:	$150	Month-long:	$400

Fees are payable in U.S. currency only. Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks. Balance of payment is due on arrival. These fees are not refundable but, with five days' notice, may be transferred to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year of receipt. Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is canceled and we are unable to reach you.

We are able to process mail reservations more effectively. If you are concerned about workshops being full or have any questions, you may make reservations by phone if you use your MasterCard, Visa, or American Express credit card number to charge your reservation fee.

Please mail all reservations to:
Reservations
Esalen Institute
Big Sur, CA 93920

Phone (408) 667-2335
Office Hours:
Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday 10 AM to 3 PM
Wednesday 10 AM to 12 Noon
Friday 10 AM to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8 PM

If there is no answer during our regular business hours, and the phone company confirms that our phones are out of order, please call our alternate number, (408) 372-8719, for recorded up-to-date workshop, road, and transportation information.

Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Rooms are shared by two or three workshop participants. Camping on the grounds is prohibited.

We do not want to discourage anyone from coming to Esalen because of financial reasons, so we offer the following options to help reduce the cost of attending a seminar.

Scholarships: Please see scholarship information on page 9.

Bunk Bed Rooms: Starting July 5, 1987, bunk bed rooms will be available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three other people. Please call for current rates. The number of these spaces is limited and they are reserved on a first come, first served basis.

Senior Citizens' Discounts: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $25, and $50 for a five-day workshop. Discounts are available only when you make your reservations. Please present proof of age when you register. Senior discounts are not available for Wilderness Programs or Work Scholar Programs.

Room and Board: Bed spaces not required for workshop participants are sometimes available for room and board. Accommodations are shared, and the rate is variable and subject to change. Please call for specific information. Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following day.

Private rooms are sometimes available at an additional charge over the regular room and board rate. Special family rates are also available. Please phone the office for additional information.

Ongoing Residence Program: Offered from October through May, the Ongoing Residential Program is designed for those who would like to live for a month in the Esalen environment and participate in an intensive workshop program. The minimum stay is 26 days (or four "weeks" and three weekends).

Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay. Weekend workshops are available at special prices. Some programs are canceled, so second choices are advised. Many community programs are also open to residents. The cost is $2120 per 26-day period.

Seminarians as Volunteers: Seminarians in residence at Esalen are requested to contribute several hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out. A staff member will appear at your first workshop meeting to schedule volunteers.

Accreditation: Beginning in the Fall of 1987, there will be a number of opportunities for Esalen resident scholars to gain credit with Antioch University toward a bachelor's degree or toward a master's degree in somatic psychology. Please refer to the article, "Esalen-Antioch Cooperation," in the Notes section. Many other formal educational institutions also recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Conferences at Esalen: It is now possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We schedule approximately a year in advance for large groups (up to 100). Smaller groups may be accommodated at shorter notice. Call the office, (408) 667-2335, for further information, or write to Brian Lyke, conference coordinator.

Car Pooling: We encourage guests to car pool whenever possible. Please call Esalen 10 days to two weeks prior to your workshop for phone numbers of other guests coming from your area.

Bus Service: On Fridays and Sundays we have bus service from the Monterey Greyhound station leaving approximately at 3:45 PM and from the Monterey Airport approximately at 4:00 PM. If you plan to use this service, please inform the Esalen office at least 24 hours prior to your arrival. The $25 one-way fee is payable to the Esalen office when you check in. Return reservations may be made at that time. The only departing bus service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM.

Check-in and Meals: Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with lunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Sunday and end with lunch on Friday. Check-out time is noon of departure day. Rooms become available at 4 PM; however, guests are welcome to arrive any time after lunch.

Esalen's flourishing organic garden provides the kitchen with many of its vegetables and herbs. Our breads and pastries are baked at Esalen.

Gazebo School: Requests for child care should be sent at least one month in advance to Gazebo, c/o Esalen Institute.

Health Services: We are unable to provide medical supervision or pharmaceutical supplies. If you are on a health-care program and you plan to spend several weeks at Esalen, please arrive prepared to administer to your health-care needs.

Illegal Drugs: In accordance with state and federal laws, the possession or use of illegal drugs on Esalen grounds is strictly prohibited.

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax-deductible.

The expenses of attending Esalen, including travel, are deductible for federal income tax purposes as an educational expense if incurred to maintain or improve professional or work skills. (See Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5.)

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Contact is the appreciation of differences.
—Fritz Perls

. . . and the recognition of similarities . . .
—Richard Price

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence.
Its activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

Esalen Institute
Big Sur
California 93920

DATED MATTER

25th

ANNIVERSARY

THE EARLY YEARS

THE ESALEN CATALOG

SEPTEMBER 1987–FEBRUARY 1988

CONTENTS

Volume XXVI, Number 3

Audio Recordings 63
Biographical Information 54–61
Conferences at Esalen 11
Esalen Seminars 12–46
Experiencing Esalen 10
Friends of Esalen 62
Future Programs 53
General Information 64–65
Gestalt Practice 10
Media Center 62
Medical Programs 10–11
Notes 4–9
Reservations Form 66
Scholarship Information 11
Special Programs 48–53
Ways of Being at Esalen 10–11
Wilderness Programs 53
Work Study Program and Application 46–47

Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920

Phone (408) 667-3000

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday
& Saturday 10 AM to 12 Noon; 1 PM to 3 PM
Wednesday 10 AM to 12 Noon
Friday 10 AM to 12 Noon; 1 PM to 5 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 5 PM

Catalog Editor: Susan Stone
Graphic Design: Barbara Adamson
Photograph Selection: Joyce Lyke

Consulting Editor: Nancy Kaye Lunney
Administrative Liaison: Nancy Knapp
Editorial Review: George Leonard

Esalen Board of Trustees:

Mark Dayton
Steve Donovan
Jack Downing
Victoria Elliot
Stanislav Grof
Bokara Legendre
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Michael Murphy
Christine Stewart Price
Marius Robinson
William Sechrest
Jeremy Tarcher

©1987 Esalen Institute
All Rights Reserved.

The Esalen Catalog is published tri-annually by the Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920. Subscription cost for one year is $10 for the United States, $12 for Canada and Mexico, $16 for Europe and South America, and $18 for all other countries. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available upon request.

In this catalog, marking Esalen's 25th anniversary, we remember several people among the many who shaped our central principles and activities. They were a memorable group, and they articulated powerful visions of human possibility. Aldous Huxley and Gerald Heard, for example, gave us insights and language about humanity's untapped potentials for creativity and goodness. Frederic Spiegelberg, Huston Smith, Alan Watts, and Suzuki roshi taught us about the liberating disciplines of the world religions. Gregory Bateson, Arnold Toynbee, Bucky Fuller, Willis Harman, and George Leonard showed us how individuals and societies form indivisible wholes. Abraham Maslow, Frank Barron, Carl Rogers, Rollo May, R.D. Laing, Jim Bugental, and B.F. Skinner placed psychology in a new context (though they disagreed about many aspects of it), reframing modern insights about human functioning to emphasize health and development rather than sickness and conflict. Fritz Perls, Virginia Satir, Alexander Lowen, and Will Schutz invented or synthesized major therapeutic approaches. Charlotte Selver, Ida Rolf, and Moshe Feldenkrais helped create a new somatic education. Paul Tillich, Sam Keen, and Bishop James Pike explored connections between Eastern thought, psychology, and the Christian tradition. And Joseph Campbell illuminated those myths and symbols that connect society, cosmos, and transcendent realities.

The complementary perspectives of these innovators inform Esalen's thinking and purposes today, while their differences stimulate creative disagreements among us, keep our horizons open, and push us toward further discoveries. We were fortunate to have such friends when we started, and we feel their presence now, just as close as ever.

ESALEN: THE EARLY YEARS

Courtesy Esalen Institute

The first Esalen staff, October, 1961. Kneeling, left to right: Michael Murphy waited tables and mowed lawns; Alice Sellers manned the front desk and dazzled the customers; Richard Price managed finances and washed dishes. Standing, left to right: Bob Nash repaired or built things; Bob Breckenridge cleaned rooms and provided philosophic support; Jim Sellers cooked.

SOME RECOLLECTIONS OF DICK PRICE

Our two founders are pictured here with their first staff in 1961. Michael Murphy recently talked about his partner:

Dick loved to make new trails along the coast. He was good at it because he was agile, quick, and sure-footed and because he didn't seem to care at all if he was bruised or scratched or sprained an ankle. (Which is why he won wrestling titles in high school and college.) For that reason he climbed into gorges or straight up cliffs that no one – to my knowledge – had ever explored. But it was hard to stay with him, especially when he went on a sudden tear, sliding down a rock-fall, or half-running down grades he hadn't seen before. He was an incredible risk-taker.

But he loved to explore new states of consciousness as much as he did breaking trails in Big Sur. His gestalt training, meditation, and other practices took him into more strange terrain than his hikes in the Los Padres forest.

Dick was awfully patient with people in his gestalt sessions, ready with Kleenex and that buoyant smile to encourage them through their tears and difficulties, and there was a gentle refinement about him when he touched their thoughts and feelings. But he was also one tough character, bouncing some of the roughest Big Sur heavies off the grounds when he had to. I'll never forget the night he took someone on in the lodge, rolling across the floor with him, over and over out the door, onto the deck and into the darkness – while the rest of us watched with horrified fascination. A few minutes later he came back inside with that sly grin of his, leaving the other guy outside to think things over.

Of course, for every person he had to kick out, he seemed to bring another in for shelter. Through the years, he was friend and protector to more outlaws and mountain men than anyone else on the coast.

During the first month we served guests, before the seminars had started, my mother cooked, while Dick and I washed dishes and waited tables. I talked to our guests a lot, and Dick gravitated more and more to the dishes. Then, after I cut off half a toe with a power mower, Dick said he was promoting me to the program department while he handled the business. For the next few years, he kept most of the records he needed on 3×5 cards in his back pocket.

In the early sixties, every day was an adventure, sometimes rewarding, sometimes not. Dick was marvelous to share difficulties and defeat with, and at times I thought he actually enjoyed our setbacks. Things that upset the rest of us, like a lousy seminar or a bad magazine article, often seemed humorous to him. He was as indifferent to failure as anyone I've ever met.

Dick set quite an example for us. In some ways, he is more encouraging to me now than ever. With the screens of our everyday interactions gone, his memory grows richer and richer.

FIRST VISIT TO ESALEN: FEBRUARY 1965

George Leonard and Michael Murphy met in San Francisco on February 2, 1965. As a senior editor for Look Magazine, Leonard had been working for five months on an article to be called "The Human Potential." Murphy and Leonard talked far into the night on Eastern philosophy, humanistic and behavioral psychology, brain research, the Civil Rights Movement, and other new developments of that vivid decade. Around two a.m., they pledged to work together to help bring about new directions in psychology and philosophy. Murphy invited Leonard and his wife, Lillie, to visit Esalen the next weekend. The following section is excerpted from George Leonard's forthcoming memoir of the Sixties, to be published by Summit Books in 1988.

The Coast Road! To the right, beyond seaward-sloping meadows of vivid green, the endless glittering inky-blue Pacific surged against dark and jagged rocks. To the left, the Santa Lucia Range cascaded up to nearly 5,000 feet, a rugged wilderness, a place of bobcat, mountain lion, and wild boar. As we moved southward, the space between ocean and mountains narrowed, and we could smell the chill freshness of the sea, the salty, iodine-tinged, nose-tingling redolence of kelp forests, tide pools, starfish, abalone.

Now there were few houses to be seen, or any other signs of human habitation. The Coast Road began to climb. We crossed one bridge, then another, and there in the distance was a magnificent sight: a graceful arch that would take us across a vertiginous gorge at the edge of the sea. Just before this bridge was a large yellow highway sign with bold black letters:

HILLS AND CURVES NEXT 63 MILES DANGEROUS IN BAD WEATHER
ROAD NOT PATROLLED AFTER DARK

I had driven past that sign before, but now it was somehow different. Officially, this was a business trip; it would go down on my expense account under "Human Potential story." I would interview Mike Murphy and others, and check out his institute. Some of what I found might go into my already oversized manuscript. And that might be all.

But I doubted it. My meeting with Murphy had been decisive, the taking of a pledge, a marriage of a sort. When I drove past the sign, I had a strange feeling that I was leaving a certain sureness and comfort behind. In a way I couldn't quite define, I was moving into outlaw country, into a new world where the old, familiar rules might not hold true, where wonderful and dangerous and unheard of things might happen, a world that was not patrolled after dark.

ESALEN: THE EARLY YEARS

Now the mountains pressed directly against the sea and the road wound upward along a mountainside, then curved down again, threading a narrow margin between mountain and ocean, sometimes swooping downward to trace the concave edge of an inlet. The road hypnotized us. We rarely saw another car. Now and then I had to swerve to miss a large rock that had tumbled down from the steep slopes to the left of the road. It was easy to imagine a landslide that would obliterate us, sweep us into the sea.

Then the road leveled and went inland a half-mile or so past the town of Big Sur, which wasn't a town at all, but only a few rustic stores and campgrounds sheltered beneath redwoods and eucalyptus trees. A long uphill stretch of road took us out to the edge of the coast again. Another twelve miles of hills and curves and many bridges, and we came to a sign – it would have been easy to miss it – announcing Esalen Institute. I turned sharply right and started down a steep driveway. There it was: a few buildings and a swimming pool lying on a plateau between the Coast Road and the Pacific. The pool was built on a deck that seemed to jut out over the edge of a cliff above the ocean. The buildings – a redwood lodge and a few cabins – might be taken for a rustic motel. At the bottom of the drive was a parking lot in which new model sedans took their places next to dusty old junk cars and trucks converted to makeshift campers.

We got out and wandered over toward what appeared to be an office. Lounging on the bench just outside were two tall, deeply tanned, rawboned, bearded men who might have been 19th century Western outlaws. I started to say hello, but there was a heavy silence around them that was impenetrable. Lillie and I went in the door and walked up to a counter. We stood there for what seemed a long time while two young women behind the

His belief that science and mysticism were complementary activities, his elucidation of the perennial philosophy, and his ideas about the human potential have informed our work for 25 years. Aldous Huxley, early 1962, in front of the Lodge.

Foto F. Florian Courtesy Christine Stewart Price

counter went about their business, completely ignoring us. Both were slim and suntanned. They had long hair and wore intricately-patterned blouses and floor-length skirts of rich colors. I noticed that neither of them was wearing a bra, something I had never before seen, something that struck me as both erotic and aggressive. When I announced that we were there at the invitation of Mike Murphy, they were unimpressed. They had no record of our reservations. They had no idea of where we were supposed to stay.

I was beginning to feel sweat breaking out on my forehead, when I sighted Mike Murphy out of the window. He had on a bright red cardigan sweater and was bounding through the parking lot with exuberant, long-legged strides. As he burst into the office, everything changed. Here again was the genial Stanford fraternity man with the sparkling eyes welcoming us as if we were the most important people who had ever come to his institute. He had arranged for us to stay at the house of a psychologist named Joe Adams just a couple of miles up the coast. But first he would show us around the property. And then there was lunch.

As we walked over to the pool, to the edge of the cliff, I began to realize just how isolated this place was. At the point of land where we stood, the Pacific Ocean stretched out beneath us on two sides. Looking to the left, southward down the coast, I could see other points of land jutting distantly out into the Pacific like the prows of enormous ships. Behind us were mountains rising to more mountains to a distant sunstruck peak. This small area of habitable land was entirely bounded by water and wilderness. I asked Mike about communications with the outside world. Television and all other microwave signals were totally blocked by the mountains. AM radio reception was poor. Newspapers could be received in the mail, but delivery was unreliable; not many people ordered papers or magazines. There were telephone lines, but they were likely to go down during the big winter storms. Landslides sometimes closed the highway, cutting Esalen off from the north or the south or both.

We walked down a sloping path to a lively stream that coursed down a canyon from the wilderness. We entered the canyon by ducking under some long-hanging branches and vines. It was a different world of veiled light and deep silence beneath towering redwoods. We went back out to where the creek plunged in a waterfall down to a rocky beach. We walked over giant boulders that must have been washed down from the canyon during the wildest of the storms.

Back in the lodge, lunch was already underway. The dining room was filled with an unlikely assortment of people. Mountain men and Old West characters mingled with bearded psychiatrists wearing thick glasses. And there were men in sweaters with women wearing make-up and high heels along with college students and a few people in sweat suits. Light poured in from large sea-fronting windows and gleamed off the polished surfaces of redwood tables. Long-skirted waitresses swept haughtily around the room bringing food and drink. Everybody

Paul Herbert

Abraham Maslow drove onto Esalen's grounds during the summer of 1962 looking for a room, only to find that this remote place was staffed by people reading his just-published Toward a Psychology of Being. He was received with enthusiasm and became one of Esalen's principal mentors until his death in 1970. More than anyone else, he built bridges between mainstream American psychology and the spiritual philosophies that have influenced Esalen's work.

ESALEN: THE EARLY YEARS

seemed to be talking at once. Lillie loved it. While waiting to be served, she struck up an enthusiastic conversation with the other people at the table, while I asked Mike questions and made notes on a legal-sized yellow pad.

The first seminars the institute had held had been didactic, but now more and more of them were "experiential." It was a new word for me. What it meant, Mike explained, was that the seminarians (those who came to the seminars) wouldn't just hear about or talk about something, but would actually experience it. Psychotherapist Robert Gerard, for example, would not only discuss psychosynthesis, a meta-Freudian theory and method developed by Italian psychologist Roberto Assagioli, but would also lead his seminarians in guided imagery and visualization exercises.

Then there was Fritz Perls. Mike pointed out a man sitting alone at a table near the door. With his bald head and pointed white beard, he could have been a Viennese psychiatrist or an Old Testament prophet. He saw us looking at him and fixed us with large, formidable eyes. We turned away. Fritz – that was what he insisted everyone call him – was the founder of gestalt therapy. He was seventy-two. He had known Freud and had worked with Wilhelm Reich. Just a few months earlier, he had decided to come live at Esalen. His sessions, Mike explained, were highly experiential. He believed that therapy could happen only in the here and now, and that endless analytical explorations of a person's past were not only a waste of time but a fraud. People at his seminars took turns in what Fritz called the "hot seat." Everything in Fritz's client's life would be brought into the present. The client would talk to and for his dead father, for example, who would be located in an empty chair. He would become aspects of his own life. If the client was an angry man, Fritz would insist that he exaggerate his anger. The sessions, Mike said, were spectacular. You could watch Fritz cutting to the core of a neurosis like a surgeon, sometimes in a matter of minutes.

I listened to all this as if I were a European of the age of exploration getting the first news of unimagined worlds. Everything Mike said had the shine of newness about it.

After finishing lunch and getting unpacked in Joe Adam's house, Lillie and I returned to the deck just outside the dining room for our first experiential session. Our teacher was a man named Bernie Gunther, and what he taught was called sensory awakening. Gunther wore tight pants and a tight T-shirt that showed off a weight-lifter's muscles. He spoke in a soft, gentle, hypnotic voice, asking us first of all to close our eyes and simply become aware of our surroundings: the sounds and smells, the feeling of the air on our skin.

Courtesy Esalen Institute

Gerald Heard, philosopher and mystic, cast a deep Irish spell with his accounts of people and events that revealed the secrets of human transformation. An afternoon with him in the summer of 1961 confirmed Esalen's two founders in their decision to start a seminar center. Here, he lectures in the Big House about evolutionary theory, ethology, LSD, St. Philip Neri, and related subjects.

We stood facing the sea. The day was cool but the low February sun was pleasantly warm on my face. The sound of the surf seemed to come from everywhere, rising, falling, circling from left to right and back again. Somewhere behind me and to the right I could hear the high, questioning chirp of a bird, and to the left, far away but almost painfully distinct, the measured notes of a flute. Gunther suggested we relax our bellies and our shoulders, and then again become aware of our surroundings. I felt him coming around behind me and putting his hands gently on my shoulders. There was a strange melting sensation and a feeling of tension draining away. My shoulders seemed to drop by an inch or two.

With my eyes remaining shut, I again opened my senses to what was around me. I took a deep breath, and there it was, that bewitching smell that would always be Esalen for me: the freshness of the sea, the camphor of eucalyptus buds, a faintly sulphurous odor rising from the hot springs, a trace of wild sage drifting down from the mountains – all of this tingling in my nostrils, tantalizing me with the promise of new experiences, a new life.

Gunther had us open our eyes. He showed us how to let our fingers bend at the joints. He asked us to tap the top of our heads with all five fingers, at first gently "using a lilting motion like rainfall," then more vigorously all over the top of the head, the back of the head, all around the ears, the side of the head, and the forehead. When we finished, he asked that we close our eyes and report what we felt.

"Well," I said, "your head feels bigger – "

"My head feels bigger," he interrupted.

The correction pulled me up short. "My head feels bigger," I said. "I'm more aware of it."

Gunther gave each of us a small flat polished stone. He asked that we hold it in our right hands, with eyes closed, and explore it fully with our fingers. Then we were merely to hold it in our right palm and feel its weight. After that, he had us open our eyes, put the stone down, extend both arms directly in front of us, and again close our eyes.

"What are you experiencing?" he asked.

I was surprised by what I felt. "Your right arm feels longer," I said.

"My right arm feels longer," he corrected me again.

Again I was caught up short. But this time, instead of simply going blank, I felt the sudden click of a new connection in my brain. My eyes flew open and I looked directly at Gunther. He laughed.

It was seemingly such a small thing – this shift in the case of the personal pronoun – trivial even. But for me it was significant. By the habitual use of "you" or "one," I had been avoiding responsibility for what I felt. I had been abstracting something that was personal and unique. I had been making unwarranted generalizations that were ultimately depersonalizing.

Gunther continued his exercises and my body relaxed, my senses seemed to expand. But my mind kept coming back to the question of "I" versus "you" or "one." Maybe the achievement of human potential involved not just the way we manipulated symbols and physical objects, but also the way we experienced the world. Our ability to abstract and generalize had obviously produced beautiful structures of order and understanding, and had gained us great power over nature. But could it go too far?

After dinner, we went to the hot baths. It was a rite of passage, and I looked forward to it with excitement and dread. If anybody knew anything about Esalen, they knew the baths were coeducational. In the climate of the times, it was this more than anything else that gave the place its aura of danger and sensuality. But as Mike, Lillie, and I took our clothes off in the poorly-lit, rather cold dressing room with its concrete floor, I felt anything but sensual. There were outdoor baths on either side. We went to the one on the right, the one still marked "Men."

We walked through a short passageway and out into an area that was partially roofed but entirely open on one side to the sea and the stars. My eyes were both eager and reluctant to register the scene that came within my field of vision. Wisps of steam danced in the light of two candles. Nude bodies, strange classical sculptures in male and female form, leaned against the railing, lounged on massage tables, or sat in the baths. Entering that area was crossing a boundary, one of those invisible lines that separate before from after. For me, it was not a boundary of sensuality but of vulnerability.

The three of us stepped into one of two large square tubs made of concrete blocks, into hot mineral water that at first took my breath away but soon became as softly warm and gently caressing as I had ever felt water to be. I stole glances at the bodies around me. It was a fantasy that mocked itself in the very act of coming true. It was utterly outrageous. It was completely ordinary.

I looked out into the night. The air was still, the sky incredibly clear. My eyes adjusted to the darkness. The stars were close and very bright. I stretched my legs out in the water and rested my head against the back of the bath. The nude bodies were there, but it was the endless depth of the night sky that held me. I became aware there was nothing, nothing at all, between me and the most distant galaxy. Right-side-up could be upside down; there was really no difference. Again I was overwhelmed by the sense of newness. I had come to a magical place on the edge of a continent, at the edge of history. The sound of the surf rose from the rocks below us; hot water murmured up from far beneath the earth. I knew my life would never again be the same.

Courtesy Michael Murphy

Frederic Spiegelberg, a celebrated professor of comparative religion at Stanford University, introduced Michael Murphy and Richard Price to Eastern philosophy, yoga, Sri Aurobindo, and other subjects that shaped their lives and work. Without his influence, they probably wouldn't have met nor been impelled to start Esalen.

WAYS OF BEING AT ESALEN

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from a visit to the hot springs on a week night to a long-term stay as a student or resident. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the various methods of personal growth and self-exploration that are available here. The Experiencing Esalen workshops, although not a prerequisite to taking any of the scheduled seminars, offer an introduction to practices such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, and meditation. From such a sampling, the participant can then choose those approaches he/she is most attracted to and pursue them in subsequent seminars.

Another way of being at Esalen, which allows a much greater involvement with the place and its community at a lower expense, is the Work Study Program, described more fully elsewhere in this section and on pages 46-47. For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more, there is an ongoing residence program. Other long-term programs include the "month-longs," which frequently involve didactic seminars or professional trainings as well as experiential workshops.

Some courses offer continuing education credit to physicians and nurses (see Medical Programs, pages 10-11, for current C.E. listings), and beginning in Fall 1987, academic credit toward a bachelor's or master's degree will be offered to Esalen resident scholars through the new Esalen-Antioch somatics program.

Occasionally, when beds aren't needed for seminarians, room and board is available. This gives visitors the opportunity to enjoy the grounds, the baths, massage, and good food without participating in a workshop. See General Information, pages 64-65.

In addition, there are other events which enrich life at Esalen. There are frequent forums in which writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights, there may be lectures, films, dance performances, choirs, or other forms of entertainment. Body work of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners. Private sessions are also available for various types of process work, including gestalt, neo-Reichian emotional release, vision improvement, singing gestalt, etc. Finally, there is a community workshop program which goes on daily and provides many opportunities for engaging in personal self-exploration or learning new approaches to human growth.

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff
Coordinated by Jessica Moore Britt

These workshops are designed for people who have not previously been to Esalen. Their emphasis is on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for the individual participant. These may include: sensory awareness, gestalt practice, group process, guided fantasy, meditation, massage. There is also time to explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Bantam).

Schedule:

October 2–4	$270
November 6–8	$270
December 18–20	$270
January 15–17	$270
February 12–14	$270

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff
Coordinated by Christine Stewart Price

"The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear –
And when used – is inexhaustible."
– Lao Tzu

"Gestalt is as old as the world."
– Fritz Perls

Gestalt practice is a form – nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental – evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. This form is similar to some Reichian work as well, in that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged.

The emphasis is *intra*personal rather than *inter*personal. It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment.

Although open seat work is the primary form of this practice, guided fantasy, breath meditations, and movement sessions may be included.

Each gestalt practice group will have a member of the Esalen gestalt staff as its primary leader. The name of this leader will be listed in the office three weeks in advance of the workshop. Please call if you want this information. Other leaders may be involved in some sessions.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim and In and Out the Garbage Pail; John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics, Ltd.).

Schedule:

September 20–25	$530
October 18–23	$530
December 11–13	$270
January 24–29	$530
February 21–26	$530

Medical Programs

Esalen Institute is a California state-approved provider of Continuing Education for health professionals. Only those programs specifically listed below offer continuing education credit. See workshop descriptions elsewhere in the catalog. The California Medical Association has granted Esalen Category I approval. Physicians attending approved courses may receive credit toward the California Medical Association Certificate in Continuing Education. The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of Continuing Education for registered nurses, provider number 01152.

Physicians

November 8–December 4
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis
Eli Jaxon-Bear
30 hours

Registered Nurses

October 25–30
Spiritual Healing: Laying On of Hands
Maria Lucia Holloman
30 hours

November 8–December 4
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis
Eli Jaxon-Bear
30 Hours

November 8–December 6
Massage Practitioner Certification Program
Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

November 13–15
Alternatives to Psychiatric Treatment: Philosophic Issues
Laurence Telles
10 hours

December 4–6
Service to the Dying: The Tibetan Buddhist Perspective
Sogyal Rinpoche
10 hours

December 4–6
Introduction to the World of Acupuncture
Ralph Alan Dale
10 hours

December 11–18
Beginning Training in Trager Psychophysical Integration and Mentastics℠
Deane Juhan
30 hours; C.E. credit is available through the Trager Institute.

December 20–25
The Body and Zen
Dub Leigh
30 hours

December 27–January 1
The Art of Self Care: Who Heals the Healer? Who Helps the Helper?
Ilana Rubenfeld
30 hours

January 3–8
Craniosacral System: Basic Workshop
Jim Asher & Jane Harrington
30 hours

January 17–22
Fighting Back from Trauma and Catastrophic Illness
Mariah Fenton Gladis
30 hours

January 22–24
Anatomy for Trager℠ Students: Part I
Deane Juhan
12 hours; C.E. credit is available through the Trager Institute.

February 26–March 25
Massage Practitioner Certification Program
Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

Work Study Program

The Work Study Program is an intensive work-oriented program for individuals who want to make a directed, personal commitment to self-exploration and growth and a contribution to the Esalen community. Participants can enroll in the general interest track, which gives an overview of several disciplines, or choose a more specific course of study from the focused track, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage. Information regarding special interest sections may be obtained by writing Bette Dingman, c/o Esalen. For a full description of the Work Study Program, please turn to pages 46-47.

Scholarship Information

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Allow at least three weeks for processing as we have many applications. If your application is approved, please make a reservation as soon as possible after receiving notice. Scholarship recipients may be asked to bring a sleeping bag to use during peak attendance periods. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

Conferences at Esalen

It is now possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We schedule approximately a year in advance for large groups (up to 100). Smaller groups may be accommodated at shorter notice. Call the office, (408) 667-3013, for further information.

Accreditation

Beginning in the Fall of 1987, there will be a number of opportunities for Esalen resident scholars to gain credit with Antioch University toward a bachelor's degree or toward a master's degree in somatic psychology. Many other formal educational institutions also recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

ESALEN SEMINARS

Jane English

This man, Gia-fu Feng, kept Esalen's books with an abacus by methods he had learned in Shanghai, taught t'ai chi, and electrified audiences with his ecstatic proclamations.

August 29–September 11

Path of the River: A Grand Canyon Journey

Steven Harper, Wendy Palmer & Arizona Raft Adventures Staff (AZRA)

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 53. $1490

Week of August 30–September 4

Five Days with Janet Zuckerman

This workshop continues Esalen's tradition of interpersonal and intrapersonal work on emotional process. It is based on these premises: that unfinished business is projected into current relationships, interfering with one's ability to be in the present, and that by emotional release one may cleanse the doors of perception. $530

A Gentle Unfolding

Daniel Bianchetta

This seminar will focus on the integration of body, mind, and spirit through intuition, energy awareness, massage, meditation, movement, gestalt, and play. Using these tools and gentle risk-taking can help in opening to one's own aliveness and ability to be more at home with oneself. Participants will explore practical and portable ways of nourishing and trusting the inherent wisdom of the self. $530

Charts of the Brain, Journeys of the Spirit

William Roll

Modern science and parapsychology are revealing a matrix which connects people with each other, with their physical environment, and with persons who are no longer living. The exercises in this workshop will help participants enter this matrix and move to a wider spiritual awareness. Procedures to develop psychic intimacy, such as the energy dance, psi scanning, psychic readings, psi sessions ("seances"), psychometry, and psychic healing will help participants experience each other and the world around them with a fresh, joyful, and healing consciousness.

Participants will explore the meaning of out-of-body and near-death experiences, channeling, and precognitive dreaming. The evidence for survival after death from apparitions of the dead, mediumistic communications, and rebirth memories will be discussed. $530

The Sacred Mask Experience

Elisa Lodge Schiffman

"Marvel at the ingenuity in which divinity hides itself in order to find itself." – Alan Watts

Masks are magic! The elemental power of sacred masks to liberate and transport us has all but disappeared from our cultural heritage. Drawing our initial inspiration from a large international collection of masks, we will re-establish our connection to this ancient artistic tradition, one of the oldest forms of catharsis and healing.

Through mask-making, ritual theater, trance journeys, primal sound, and movement work, we will enter a world that will carry us to the further reaches of our imagination and to what is revealed behind the masks – the beauty and truth of our essential nature. Together, we will create rituals that grow out of sacred practice, opening us to more vital and novel dimensions of expressive behavior not ordinarily permitted in our daily lives. Local musicians from Big Sur will be used to orchestrate and ground the powerful energies that emerge. $530

August 30–September 6

Psychosynthesis: A Seven-Day Workshop for Professionals

Harry Sloan

"Learn your techniques well and be prepared to let go of them when you touch the human soul." – Carl Jung

Many of us have experienced those moments in working with clients when we don't have the foggiest idea of what's going on. Often, to avoid the discomfort of confusion and not knowing, we hurriedly grasp for the familiar – a technique, map, or model. This can lead to the mechanical experience of "going through the motions" and using rote interventions. In those moments, if we can stretch for essence and truth instead of falling back on what's most familiar, dissonance might open to insight, with a decidedly different effect upon both client and guide – that ineffable sense of capturing the moment. The interventions that follow are dynamic, uniquely suited to the particular needs of the client. The heart of psychosynthesis is understanding the process of reaching for the essence within ourselves and our clients. This practice tends to develop our inherent wisdom and intuition, a context which transcends methodologies.

The format will combine individual work within the group setting along with seminars, group exercises, and practicum. This program will be useful not only to those who are interested in psychosynthesis, but also to anyone in the helping professions who wants to come into a more creative relationship with his/her discipline.

Psychosynthesis is a name for the conscious attempt to align and cooperate with the natural process of growth and integration. It recognizes that each human being is spiritual in essence and encourages the realization and expression of this essence, or Self, as fully as possible in personal and social existence. $800

Weekend of September 4–6

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman

For many people, feelings are something mysterious, something to keep to oneself, or something to think about. This workshop is about all the steps involved in learning to experience, respect, and honor one's feeling process in a way that can increase vitality and personal effectiveness. Participants may learn to separate feelings from thoughts, learn from their own body rhythms, learn to contact their own wisdom, and participate in the choice of expression or depression. $270

Psychic Vision and the Creative Experience

Nancy Azara

Nancy Azara writes: "Know and expand your psychic vision and explore the magical power and healing properties inherent in art-making. Using meditation and other exercises, you can open creative channels, find your visual language, bring vivid images to consciousness, and paint and draw these experiences."

Participants can focus light and color through the body, practice reading auras, experience laying on of hands, identify and clarify important influences in their lives, and own their personal power.

They are asked to bring to the workshop whatever they like of the following: acrylic or watercolor paint, collage materials, pastels, oil crayons, scissors, glue, and about 25 sheets or the equivalent in pads of good quality drawing paper (no newsprint). Size 11"×14" is ideal.

$270

The Future of the Body: The Esalen Institute Study of Exceptional Functioning

Michael Murphy, Steve Donovan, Margaret Livingston & Keith Thompson

In his novel, Jacob Atabet, Michael Murphy speculated that a next stage of human development might involve the power to alter the physical body at will. He is developing this idea more thoroughly in a book, The Future of the Body, and through the Esalen Institute Study of Exceptional Functioning, organized in 1976 to compile and analyze a broad range of scientific, speculative, and anecdotal literature on bodily transformation. Murphy will discuss some of the major ideas of his current book, and Donovan, Livingston, and Thompson will present results to date of the Esalen Institute Study of Exceptional Functioning. (Note: Michael Murphy will be present for the Friday and Saturday evening sessions only.)

Recommended reading: Michael Murphy, Jacob Atabet and The Psychic Side of Sports.

$270

Building Community: A Learning Circle

Wade Hudson

This workshop will explore how ordinary people can use ideas and methods developed at Esalen to strengthen a sense of community in their daily lives – whether it be in the workplace, family, church, political organization, or neighborhood.

Simple, easily-learned concepts will be presented, and the participants will be invited to analyze how they might adopt these structures to build stronger communities back home. Methods employed may include: relaxation, meditation, physical exercise, massage, group process, music, movement, role-playing debates, open seat, support groups. Ideas explored may include: self-regulation/mutual support; leadership/democracy; liberty/socialization; cooperation/competition; materialism/spirituality; political action/personal growth.

The workshop leader will discuss his own work in a low-income, multi-cultural neighborhood in San Francisco, the Tenderloin, where he lives in a cooperative residential hotel and volunteers at a community self-help center.

For those who are interested and able, a follow-up evaluation meeting will be held in San Francisco four weeks following the workshop.

$270

Week of September 6–11

Childhood Sexual Abuse: A Workshop for Survivors

Jessica Moore Britt

To guard against the hurts, fears, and confusion that sexual invasion of a child's physical and psychic boundaries can create, the child often abandons the place of conflict – the body. This may be reflected in tension patterns, numbness, or oversensitivity. Gently, during this week together, participants will move toward reintegrating their bodies with their selves, with particular attention to body image, sexual experience, intimacy, and parenting.

Within the natural healing environment of Big Sur, participants will use gestalt practice, Reichian breath work, movement, and touch to re-enter their private world of memories and feelings. They will gain a deeper understanding of boundaries, betrayal, responsibility, and aloneness. Focus will be on perception of oneself physically, sexually, emotionally, and spiritually, and how this affects relationship with others. Through the supportive group atmosphere, participants may discover that it is safe once again to embody beauty, life, and love.

$530

Ways to Change: A Jungian Experience

John Nicholas

"Meaninglessness inhibits the fullness of life and can, therefore, be equated with illness; meaningfulness makes a great many things endurable, perhaps everything." – C.G. Jung

We discover ourselves through relationships – with others and within and beyond ourselves – transcending the ordinary boundaries of time and space. The focus of this workshop will be the most central aspect of all transpersonal work: change. The basic concepts of C.G. Jung will be applied to practical problem-solving and conflict resolution of everyday issues and relationships. Participants will have the opportunity to discover, explore, and confront unconscious complexes that inhibit the fullness of life and block creativity. There will be time for individual work with dreams, active imagination, symbolic drawing and painting, storytelling, guided imagery, and journals. The week will be a voyage of discovery.

Recommended reading: C.G. Jung Man and His Symbols and Memories, Dreams, Reflections; June Singer, Boundaries of the Soul; Robert Johnson, Inner Work; Anthony Storr, The Essential Jung.

$530

September 6–13

Painting Experience with Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

It is rare for most people to use painting for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to paint purely for the process of exploration, not for the result.

The Lodge and cabins in 1962. As you can see, Selig Morgenrath hadn't planted trees and gardens yet.

Paul Herbert

The purpose of this workshop is to provide a setting to explore the self through painting – to discover in form and color a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to emotional and spiritual expression. Participants are given the support and stimulation to develop a natural way of painting based directly upon feeling.

The work takes place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, along with a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. The workshop may be of interest to persons involved in a wide variety of disciplines including art, education, counseling, and meditative practices. No prior experience in painting is necessary.

For further information about this workshop write: The Painting Experience Studio, 509 Noriega Street, San Francisco, CA 94122. (415) 564-8515.

$800 (plus $25 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Educating the Genius Within—The Feldenkrais® Method

Harriet Goslins

"By my body's actions . . . teach my mind."
– Shakespeare

The habitual way a person sits, stands, or moves reflects patterns that are "wired-in" to the nervous system. This information can be erased or changed. By re-educating the brain/muscle connection, restrictions in movement are freed, freeing also the lifetime habits that have organized around that movement.

Awareness Through Movement* methods are a relearning of the ease and fluidity that was taken for granted as a child and lost somewhere along the way. Physical injury, emotional trauma, or ongoing stress all evoke a protective response from the body. These patterns, necessary at the time, remain when no longer needed, outside of awareness, and continue to cause discomfort and unnecessary limitation. Freeing them results in relief of chronic pain or tightness, a more restful sleep, and a higher energy level. By changing muscular holding patterns, the entire protective posture is altered, deeply affecting the body's habitual defense system. Thus, new movement possibilities mean new self-image possibilities.

This workshop is for those who are physically active and fit and want to increase their skills while learning to reduce risk of injury; for the sedentary or those dealing with after-effects of injuries; and for the average person who feels chronically tired and stressed and wants to learn how to take better care of his/her neck, shoulders, and back, to improve his/her posture and breathing, and to live and move with more flexibility and comfort.

Recommended reading: Moshe Feldenkrais, Awareness Through Movement. $800

* The Feldenkrais Guild

Weekend of September 11–13

A Workshop for Couples with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

This workshop will focus on reawakening and developing positive, mutual supports that are at the root of satisfying couple relationships. The emphasis will be on creating clear and truthful expressions of loving and personal integrity. Participants will re-examine their beliefs and habits through the use of intuitional sensing, risk-taking structures, guided imagery, and gestalt awareness methods.

$270 per participant

Experiencing Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

This workshop is open to anyone interested in learning to recognize, trust, and use their psi abilities. The leaders will use exercises designed to aid participants in recognizing their perceptive styles and trusting the intuitive input they normally receive. Anne Armstrong will use her tracking abilities, acquired from over twenty years in this field, to assist participants in arriving at useful, accurate data.

One of the basic objectives of the workshop is to demystify the intuitive/psychic process and encourage participants to use it in all areas of their lives – personal, professional, and spiritual. The workshop will include personal psychic scans and practice on selected cases. $270

Courtesy Virginia Satir

Virginia Satir brought family therapy to Esalen in 1963, became Esalen's third trustee, and introduced us to others who have influenced us since. Since the early Esalen days, she has taken her theories and practices to more than 20 nations.

September 11–November 6

The Modern Warrior: A Certification Program in Leonard Energy Training

Jack Cirie, George Leonard & Annie Styron Leonard

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 48.

Week of September 13–18

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Brita Ostrom & Staff

Participants will be instructed in basic methods used in giving a pleasurable and beneficial full body massage. Fundamental elements of body work, such as breath awareness, grounding, movement, quality of touch, and stress reduction, will be introduced. This workshop is available to beginners as well as to those who wish to brush up on their massage skills. $530

Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

Each of us has unique capacities to feel and express tenderness and strength, anger and affection, autonomy and needfulness, as well as compassion, humor, and wisdom. The degree to which we allow the fullness and vibrance of each of these qualities determines how alive and gratified we are.

In this workshop participants will focus on how they diminish or affirm these essential qualities as they are expressed through their bodies, sexuality, creativity, relationship to power, friendships, and expectations. In an atmosphere of tenderness and support, participants will clarify the nature of who they are and how they can best take care of themselves, both at Esalen and on returning home. The workshop will be grounded in gestalt, group process, guided fantasy, massage, and bioenergetics. $530

The Hakomi Method

Ron Kurtz

Hakomi is a body-centered practice based on the principles of: mindfulness, unity, organicity, non-violence, mind-body holism. Hakomi incorporates non-doing as a major methodological principle and trusts in every individual's inner wisdom and power for self-healing.

Using the body as a rich source of information about the unconscious mind, hakomi can assist people in turning inward to those special states of consciousness where change takes place, to explore core beliefs which determine the quality of experience.

Hakomi work embraces the body-mind unity, supports the client's resistance, and encourages respect for and awareness of inner processes. This can be used by counselors, health practitioners, educators, body workers, and anyone invested in personal growth. This workshop also serves as a prerequisite for the formal hakomi certification process. $530

Adult Children of Alcoholic or Abusive Parents

Karen Paine-Gernee & Rick Paine

Learning the facts about growing up with alcoholism is a big relief. It is, however, just one of the steps that ACAs need to take. In order to recover from the effects of their childhoods, ACAs need to dedicate themselves to an on-going process of sharing, healing, and learning. The workshop leaders refer to the goal of recovery as "emotional sobriety," which they teach as a fourteen-point program. Participants will have the opportunity to develop some practical and personal methods of implementing long-lasting changes.

This workshop is for beginners or individuals who have already begun an exploration of ACA issues. It offers the opportunity to confront and heal painful childhood emotions, to examine and restructure deeply held beliefs, to learn some basic tools for taking care of oneself, to make strides in letting go of control and developing a sense of trust, and to foster a relationship with one's own spirituality.

Special attention will be paid to learning how to nurture and sustain satisfying and equal intimate relationships. Intimacy between independent adults requires being able to tolerate the ambiguity and sense of "not knowing" that was so terrifying as children in chaotic homes. Emotional sobriety means having a personal sense of balance and physical boundaries from which to find peace and a capacity for genuine sharing and pleasure. $530

Weekend of September 18–20

Weekend Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

Massage is a practical approach to stress relief and greater sensory awareness. This weekend workshop will provide instruction in basic methods used in giving a massage, with additional work on quality of touch, breath awareness, centering, and sensitive rapport between partners. $270

A Weekend with Seymour Carter

Everyone has unused capacities for further personal development. When these capacities are recognized and given attention, a natural force is released which, like a tide, can carry the individual to a higher level of ability and action. Fritz Perls taught how to recognize the force of avoided issues in dealing with blocked energies. When unfinished issues are confronted and assimilated, it is possible to feel potent and in charge of one's life.

In this workshop, participants can deal with these issues by examining the influence of the inner dialogue on thoughts and the nature of impasse, as well as tendencies within themselves toward psychological completion and well-being. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, Rolfing*, and aikido. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique. $270

Rolfing* is a service mark of the Rolf Institute.

Paul Herbert

Fritz Faiss, once a teacher at the Bauhaus, conducted month-long workshops in which painting became a vehicle for expanded perception. Like other artists who worked at Esalen during the 1960s, he made a strong link between art, contemplation, and transformative discipline.

The Mastery of Daily Life: An Introduction to LET

George Leonard & Annie Styron Leonard

Leonard Energy Training (LET) is derived from the Eastern art of aikido as well as from Western psychology and physical theory. It is a comprehensive body of work that offers practical, alternative ways of dealing with life situations. It is not physically demanding. It does not aim at emotional catharsis. Most of the training involves simple, enjoyable movement exercises during which the body itself becomes a teacher. Participants will be offered an opportunity to practice such things as centering, relaxing under pressure, and dealing with the various stresses and conflicts of daily life.

This workshop will emphasize mastery, the mysterious process through which what is at first difficult becomes progressively easier and more pleasurable through practice. Participants will be invited to experience their own process in learning simple patterns of movement. They will have a chance to examine and transform this process, and to apply it to daily life.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse (Dutton), and Education and Ecstasy (North Atlantic Books). $270

Understanding the Light of Peace in the Shadow of War

Ofer Zur

This is a workshop for individuals to survey their personal, psychic, sexual, and international battlefields, to explore and attempt to heal their relationships with their personal and political enemies. The aim of this process is to shed light on the dynamics of peace and war in the international realm.

Through slide presentations, experiential work, and discussions (including the instructor's research), the following key issues will be addressed:

* One's intimate, personal enemies, past and present
* Exploring and mending loving relationships
* Fantasy and content analysis of war imagery in current media and war propaganda

* The co-evolution of culture, personality, psyche, and war
* Men and war: Is man the maker of war, or war the maker of man?
* Women and war: Victims or co-contributors?
* The myth of the warrior and the beautiful soul
* Aggression, violence, pornography, and war
* The enemy as feminine, or the feminizing of the enemy
* Coming to terms with the enemy within
* Life and living in the nuclear era
* Understanding that the light of peace is the healing process $270

Week of September 20–25

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $530

Intuition Practice

Helen Palmer

This seminar teaches the identification of personal intuition systems that can be accessed through internal focusing practices, or that may already be operating in unrecognized ways. These practices develop the ability to discriminate between personal thoughts, fantasies projected from personal thinking, and impressions received from situations outside the personal self. The psychic aspect of intuition rests on the ability to shift attention from the self to impressions perceived from outside the self. $530

Stillness Between Waves: Imagery In Motion

Keith Thompson & Gaetana

"Except for the point, the still point, there would be no dance, and there is only the dance."
– T.S. Eliot, "Four Quartets"

The mime master creates the illusion of covering ground while actually staying in one place, entrancing the audience into seeing "something that is not there." Similarly, individuals in hypnosis can "put on hold" their usual logical, reality-orienting faculties and become deeply absorbed in secondary, imaginative realities. This is a workshop about the translation of images into movement and movement into images; about the threshold between realms and modes; about exploring the mundus imaginalis, the imaginal world, said by the Sufis to mediate between the sensible and the intelligible worlds.

As in alchemy, where the transformation from lead to gold was understood to begin with dissolving and cooking the ore of iron, participants will be taught concentrated mime and imagery exercises geared to "deconstruct" or "de-form" fixed patterns of moving, thinking, and imagining. As the week progresses, processes from gestalt practice, insight meditation, and Jungian active imagination will be introduced to assist in exploring ways in which unfrozen mental and bodily "grammars" can be recombined to express the thought of the heart.

Participants will also receive instruction in various ways of walking across an area as effortlessly as on a cloud or through molasses, the use of chi or ki to increase the clarity and density of illusions, and imagery for centering and balance in sustaining difficult physical moves.

The workshop is designed especially for people who have a sense of humor and who don't draw a hard distinction between learning and play.

Recommended reading: Jean-Louis Barrault, Memories for Tomorrow (Houghton-Mifflin); Helen Caldwell, Michio Ito (University of California); Toshihiko Izutsu, The Interior and Exterior in Zen Buddhism (Spring). $530

Weekend of September 25–27

The Transformation of Inanna: A Ritual Journey

Starhawk

Some of the oldest written records of rebirth and renewal are the Sumerian myths of Inanna, Goddess of the date palm and the storehouse, patroness of love, who challenges her sister/ruler of the underworld, the Queen of death. In this workshop, through drumming, chanting, storytelling, and mask-making, the myth of Inanna will lead participants into the depths of the self and into the mythic dimensions of their own stories. Together they will enact the drama and create the rituals of their own transformations. This workshop is for women only.

Bring scissors, scraps of cloth, feathers, beads, shells, yarn, interesting small objects, favorite costumes, and power objects for the altar. $270

Understanding Men

Sam Keen

This seminar is for men and women who are looking for a new sense of what it means to be a man. It is an exploration and celebration of the essence of masculinity. These are some of the topics to be considered:

* Contemporary types and stereotypes of men
* Plastic heroes and real men
* What do men fear?
* How do men deal with women's anger?
* The rites and rights of manhood
* The warrior psyche
* Fathers, Mothers, and Sons
* Male friendship
* Work, jobs, professions, and the burden of economics
* Autonomy and the need for commitment
* Adventure: sexual and otherwise
* The wisdom and folly of the penis
* Meaning, purpose, and vocation: Who are men when they are not working, controlling, or fighting?
* The essential differences between men and women $270

Week of September 27–October 2

The Discipline of Harmony: Warrior Virtues Without War

Richard Strozzi Heckler

This seminar will examine the notions of aggression, initiation rites, courage, and risk-taking in the context of the warrior ideal. Does the discipline of harmony mean the taming of aggression? To live in peace do we also need to accept and understand violence? Is it possible to distinguish the warrior from war? Can the warrior virtues of courage, commitment, clarity, generosity, service, and skillful action be invoked without the catalyst of hostile fire?

These questions will be the starting point for a five-day workshop conducted in the warrior spirit of "life at stake." Exercises taken from aikido, along with introspection, sharing, and guided meditations will allow participants to experience the possibilities of embodying warrior virtues without war.

Recommended reading: Richard Strozzi Heckler, The Anatomy of Change (Shambhala) and, editor, Aikido and the New Warrior (North Atlantic Books); J. Glenn Gray, The Warriors (Harper & Row). $530

The Body as History

Lisbeth Marcher & Erik Jarlnaes

The workshop leaders are from Denmark, practitioners of a system of working with the body, of which Lisbeth Marcher is a founder. With their methods, by gauging the tonicity of a muscle and knowing when and how it came into play in our infant and childhood development, it is possible to "read" an amazingly precise psycho-history. In addition, specific issues that are contained in these muscles can be re-evoked.

This system also works with our undeveloped resources. These are the abilities that we have given up on, those that often correspond to feelings of resignation. As these resources are brought into play, our willingness to drop old, unfulfilling modes of protection is greatly encouraged. Participants can focus on body movement and energy and use these to bring about expression and integration of developmental stages.

This is an experiential workshop, with some time between sessions available to those wanting to learn more about this approach. $530

Lost Romantic Loves: Healing through Film

Francis Lu, Barbara White & Richard Irons

"Love must be told. Not so that it may be forgotten, but so it can be rewoven into the tapestry of the present." – George Vaillant

This seminar will allow participants to remember their lost romantic loves and to further their own healing and self-renewal. Topics will include: the nature and quality of romantic love, the emotional consequences of lost love (including obsession, jealousy, anger, violence, and madness), and the healing processes (including letting go, grief, compassion, self-renewal, and revisioning new relationships).

Within a supportive group context, participants will view films which evoke these archetypal patterns of love, including loss and healing. Through inner reflection and dialogue, participants will reconnect their personal, psychological experiences with these archetypal, mythological realities.

Films to be shown include works directed by Woody Allen, Alfred Hitchcock, François Truffaut, and Jean Renoir, and films starring Humphrey Bogart, Greta Garbo, and Ingrid Bergman. In addition, poetry and classical music will be utilized.

The experiential nature of this workshop will be balanced with lecture and group discussion.

Recommended reading: John Welwood, Challenge of the Heart: Love, Sex, and Intimacy in Changing Times (Shambhala); Robin Norwood, Women Who Love Too Much (Dell). $530

Paul Herbert

Alan Watts, the greatest master of ritual at Esalen, prepares for a marriage while three celebrated astronauts of inner space—Edward Maupin, Steven Stroud, John Heider, and their commander, Will Schutz—look on.

Weekend of October 2–4

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $270

A Special Weekend at Esalen

This weekend is open to all those who would like to spend time at Esalen, enjoying the grounds, the baths, and the community, without participating in a group. Massage and other work offered by individual practitioners will be available as usual. $150

Week of October 4–9

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see September 13-18.

$530

The Virginia Satir System

John Banmen, Jane Gerber & Maria Gomori

Virginia Satir has pioneered unique approaches to improve family and professional communications and relationships. The overall goal of the Satir System is "becoming more fully human." This workshop will present the explicit change process, the use of Satir's vehicles, and an articulation of the transformational process. The group leaders will deepen the conceptual and experiential aspects of these processes and will provide hands-on training.

The workshop leaders have been senior trainers in the Avanta Network month-long process community since 1981 and have co-authored a book on the Satir System. $530

Endarkenment

Will Schutz & Ailish Melland

Sometimes in our search for enlightenment we become humorless, and our search becomes tedious. Growth demands a respite from intensive struggle.

This workshop can provide a vehicle for the turn downward. We shall explore: how to establish and maintain meaningless relations; what to worry about while meditating; advanced covert blaming and inducing guilt in loved ones; how to become the most sympathetic victim/martyr in your social group; guilt without sex. This approach, similar to Feldenkrais' "live the disasters" and the "homeopathic principle" (Will Schutz, Body Fantasy), can be as valuable for attaining enlightenment as the direct route – and more fun. In addition, participants in this workshop will have opportunities to explore, play with, and celebrate the shadow – that which we usually hide. $530

A Week with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

There is an emerging consciousness that is making itself felt and heard in those individuals who are searching to fulfill higher and deeper callings from within themselves. This workshop is for those individuals who sense the emergence of an evolutionary thrust from within or who are experiencing "divine discontent" with what is occurring in their lives at the present time. The focus will be on learning how to meet and accept what is being offered by life, exploring how to attend to the organic occurrences that life presents and continue moving forward.

Participants will experiment with co-creating an environment of trust, love, and acceptance in which to explore themselves as a living, unfolding process – physically, mentally, emotionally, sexually, and spiritually. They will view the body as the laboratory of life, as it is known in both Western and Eastern traditions that the microcosm of the body reflects the macrocosm of the world. Our body is where our view of the world comes from. If our body has become static, our view of the world will also be static.

Through the use of breath work, movement, and sound, aliveness and pulsation can be returned to the body, while unconscious thoughts and feelings which reside in the body tissue can be brought to life. Careful attention will then be given to the mental processes that shape the physical and emotional bodies, with special emphasis being given to personal issues that are ready to be explored. Practices will be taught that show how to work deeply with emotional/energetic holdings in the body which can open to our essential core self – the center of creativity, wisdom, joy, and healing within each of us.

Recommended reading: L[illegible]d Spangler, Emergence: The Rebirth of the Sacred (Delta/Merloyd Lawrence); Rodegast, Emmanuel's Book (Friends' Press); John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics Limited); Fields et al., Chop Wood, Carry Water (J.P. Tarcher); Alice Bailey, Education in the New Age (Lucis Publishing Co.).

$530

Weekend of October 9–11

Reflections of Self: A Reichian/Gestalt Workshop

Jessica Moore Britt

This will be an introduction to intensive intrapsychic inquiry using Reichian breath work and gestalt practice. Reichian work utilizes breath and sound to energize and deepen the process of self-awareness by softening the body's patterns of physical tension and emotional holding. Gestalt practice is an awareness approach focusing on physical sensation, image, thought, and emotion. By emphasizing a person's experience in the present moment, gestalt moves toward developing a more conscious sense of self. In a supportive group atmosphere, participants will have the opportunity to explore thoughts and feelings formed by past experiences. With this exploration, the possibility is opened to respond in the present. $270

Courtesy Charlotte Selver and Charles Brooks

Charlotte Selver, who introduced the work of somatics educator Elsa Gindler to America, with her husband and colleague, Charles Brooks, began teaching at Esalen in 1963.

LET and the Samurai Game

George Leonard, Annie Styron Leonard & Jack Cirie

The Samurai Game, which was created by George Leonard, might be described as a deeply-engrossing simulation game during which participants have the opportunity to enter the state of consciousness of a medieval samurai, to live intensely in the moment, and to experience symbolic death and rebirth.

Participants will first practice the movement and centering exercises of LET (Leonard Energy Training: see Weekend of September 18-20). Then they will learn the rules of the game and begin to live as samurai. There will be ample opportunity for feedback and discussion of the lessons of the game.

The purpose of the Samurai Game is to step across a boundary into another way of life, and thus to see one's own life and habitual patterns of living with added clarity and poignancy. There will be a symbolic battle to the death through which participants will have a chance to experience the ultimate futility of war and the value of every moment of existence.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse (Dutton). $270

Week of October 11–16

A Week with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

To make effective, creative choices requires courage, imagination, and the willingness to know one's heart and be true to the dreams that live inside it. Choosing this deeper wisdom can often involve the risk of breaking set – the choice to move against the powerful grain of old fears, habits, and the constant pressures of other people's expectations. To foster this spirit means contacting the elemental-instinctual parts of one's nature, befriending rather than suppressing or denying the sexuality and the power out of which initiative and enthusiasm spring.

Paul Herbert

Fritz Perls had invented gestalt therapy (with help from Laura Perls and Paul Goodman) in the late 1940s, but he developed a worldwide following while he lived at Esalen from 1964 until 1969. His ideas and methods have developed in many directions since his death in 1970, and they are still alive in Esalen's work today.

In this week participants will focus on how to develop those qualities that contribute to a more adventurous, resourceful, and buoyant way of living. In an atmosphere based on warmth and humor they will explore their capacity for mutual tenderness, respect, and honesty. Traditional psychological practices such as gestalt, bioenergetics, and psychosynthesis will be used for intensive individual work, as well as non-traditional innovative approaches in body work, kinesthetic retraining, music, and guided imagery. $530

Action Theater

Ruth Zaporah

Ruth Zaporah developed Action Theater, a unique performance training process, so that her students could spontaneously create dramatic images from personal material. Participants learn to express this material improvisationally through dance, vocalization, and acting. The Action Theater process trains the student in the following aspects of performance:

* Awareness of the body and movement possibilities through time, space, and shape
* The development of a strong and viable voice
* The imaginative use of language to illuminate the inner mind of the actor
* The interface between body, voice, and language
* The ability to access material usually below the normal threshold of awareness
* The formal makings of clear, strong imagery
* The ability to create experience through clear perception and spontaneous response

This experiential workshop is designed for the novice, the explorer. Exercises of improvisation will be basic, addressing the skills listed above. Within each session there will be a physical and vocal warmup, ensemble and small group interactions, and improvisational presentations. And play. All play.

The moment of life, consciously performed, is art. $530

Performance Under Pressure

Neil Fiore

Extraordinary levels of creativity and achievement are experienced naturally by all of us at some time during our lives. On such occasions, energy for playful learning and efficient work seems limitless, hours pass like minutes, creative resources of the mind are tapped, exhilaration and inner peace are experienced, and the body is freed of anxiety.

Creative and successful people experience these "flow states" quite often, others only occasionally. But now as we approach an evolutionary advance in human consciousness – the harmonizing and synchronizing of the powers of the conscious and subconscious minds – we have the technologies to harness the "flow state" at will.

Cognitive psychology, neurolinguistic programming, and Ericksonian hypnosis will be used in this workshop to convey the skills necessary for working and playing in a more robust, stress-resistant, and creative way. The workshop leader will present specific skills and practical methods for rechanneling the energy of stress into creative problem resolution, rapid recuperation, and for the enjoyment of guilt-free recreation.

Goals of the workshop include the creation of personal safety, the enhancement of self-esteem and motivation, and the ability to work in a focused, stress-free manner. Those in challenging careers, under time pressure, in the creative fields, or coping with physical illness can benefit greatly by learning to harness these inner resources. $530

October 11–November 6

The Promethean Impulse: Creation, Creativity, and Spirituality

Christina & Stanislav Grof

For workshop description see Special Programs, pages 48-49. $2120

Weekend of October 16–18

A Weekend with Ram Dass $270

Week of October 18–23

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $530

The Nature of Movement: Aikido and Wilderness

Steven Harper & Wendy Palmer

In this week-long workshop, participants will work indoors with energy awareness and principles derived from aikido, and outdoors on short day-hikes into Big Sur's backcountry to explore the movement that nature inspires. Both aikido and hiking are moving meditations which, when done well, require one to be in harmony with the natural world. There will be an opportunity to take what is learned on the aikido mat out into the natural world and bring what is learned from nature onto the aikido mat. Participants can then begin to integrate what they learn from aikido and from nature into their lives.

All evenings and most meals will be at Esalen. Participants need not have previous experience in aikido or hiking. Come ready to move. $530

Weekend of October 23–25

Growing Together into the Future

Terence McKenna & Kathleen Harrison McKenna

People, plants, and the planet are three dancers in search of syzygy in a performance about a future that cannot be postponed indefinitely. With rousing dialogue, we will explore the post-modern, pre-apocalypse dilemma and the allies that the natural world has provided for the man or woman who is engaged in sailing the soul on the phosphorescent oceans of the imagination. Fractal time, self-empowerment through cultivation of shamanic attitude, and the implications of the psychedelic experience will be discussed. $270

Making Dances: Physical Expression and Creativity

Rhonda Martyn

This is a workshop for individuals to discover and expand their abilities to be physically, intellectually, and emotionally expressive through the process of making dances. Participants can expect a good physical workout, as well as a sense of accomplishment, community, and fun that comes from making and performing dances.

It will begin by exploring the basic elements of movement and the craft of choreography. Then, using games, exercises, improvisations, and rituals, participants can play with the creative process and their individual needs for physical and emotional expressiveness. A professional choreographer, the workshop leader will use participants as professional dancers – calling on their creativity and sensibilities to help in the process of building dances. She will also coach and assist participants in making their own studies and/or dances.

Making Dances is for people with no dance experience or with much dance experience. It is an opportunity to be both a dancer and a maker of dances. $270

Week of October 25–30

Spiritual Healing: Laying On of Hands

Maria Lucia Holloman

This workshop will present practical methods of using the hands as instruments for physical and spiritual healing. The emphasis will be on intentionality and personal clarity as the fundamental tools in any healing art. Maria Lucia Holloman has studied with healers from Brazil, her native country, where laying on of hands is used effectively. She has also studied the art of cranial manipulation, which she combines with her healing work on a regular basis as a practitioner at Esalen.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 10-11. $530

Ericksonian Hypnosis and Communication

Paul Carter

"Wisdom is the intelligence of the system as a whole." – Gregory Bateson

"Your conscious mind is very intelligent, and your unconscious mind is a hell of a lot smarter." – M.H. Erickson

"We have an intelligence obtained from our wholeness that is far greater than we are ordinarily conscious of," Milton Erickson believed. Accessing and integrating this intelligence formed the basis of his hypnotic work.

This workshop is designed for those who work with people and would like experience with Ericksonian hypnosis, communication, and problem-solving. It will explore principles of this approach, including trance as a natural and necessary part of health, and will develop the idea that people and their communication and problem-solving are paradoxical.

Through guided exercises and demonstrations, participants will be taught the hypnotic use of metaphor in movement, sound, image, and story, as well as the hypnotic realities of age-regression, age-progression (traveling into futures), lucid dreaming, dissociation, and deep-trance identification (a process of deepening self-awareness through identification with different persons in and out of trance).

Additional exploration will include: the recognition and use of spontaneous trance states that commonly occur in the course of body work, acupuncture, movement and dance, sports, counseling, and everyday stress situations; the art of using all the system, including the bad, sick, crazy, and resistant parts; the value of humor, confusion, pattern interruption, and paradox in accessing unconscious creativity and resources; and an integrative approach to problem-solving and self-healing as described in Paul Carter's soon-to-be published book, The Parts Model.

Courtesy Christine Stewart Price

Moshe Feldenkrais and Ida Rolf, both inventors of somatic disciplines, found many new students at Esalen.

Recommended reading: Jay Haley, Uncommon Therapy (W.W. Norton & Co.); Jeffrey Zeig, editor, Ericksonian Approaches to Hypnosis and Psychotherapy (Brunner & Mazel). $530

October 25–November 6

Integrative Body Practice (IBP) Professional Training Program

Jack Rosenberg & Staff

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 49. $1330

Weekend of October 30–November 1

The Modern Warrior: LET in Action

George Leonard & Jack Cirie

"A man or woman with outward courage dares to die; A man or woman with inward courage dares to live." – Lao Tzu

The Modern Warrior is not one who goes to war but rather one who exhibits integrity in every aspect of living, one who seeks to attain control then act with abandon. For the Modern Warrior, life is vivid, immediate, and joyful. He or she lives each day to the full and is fulfilled in serving others. This workshop is based on the premise that to achieve peace in the world and harmony in daily life, it might well be necessary for men and women to reown the warrior ideal.

Through the movement exercises of LET (Leonard Energy Training: see Weekend of September 18-20) as well as through various new games, participants will be invited to get in touch with their own unacknowledged powers, and thus to discover the hidden warrior within. Guidance will be offered on how to apply the warrior ideal to daily life. This workshop will not be physically strenuous. All that is needed is a generous heart and a willingness to participate.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse (Dutton) and The Transformation (Tarcher). $270

Week of November 1–6

Soul-Making: A Jungian and a Somatics Approach

Joan Buresch & Don Johnson

Our dilemma in being human inheres in this: with our roots in a primal liquid and fleshy layer of impulse that finds inadequate expression in daily life, our spirits range beyond everyday time and space, and our personalities are sometimes pulled limb from limb. We make our soul while we struggle to synthesize opposites long held by the categories of masculine and feminine, spirit and flesh, thought and feeling, the personal and the social, body therapies and transpersonal psychologies.

That dilemma will be the focus of this workshop, during which participants will explore the confluence of the world of images (psyche's natural voice) and the world of peristalsis, breath, orgasm, muscular movements, and physical pain. The group will be concerned with the primal, with one's relation to violence, abuses, outrage. From there participants will go where they are led – into movement, sensory awareness, drawing, sculpting, speech, touch.

$530

Paul Herbert

Robert Gerard introduced Esalen to imagery work and Roberto Assagioli's psychosynthesis.

Weekend of November 6–8

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $270

Weekend Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see September 18-20.

$270

Week of November 8–13

Personal Challenges of the U.S.-Soviet Relationship

Stephen Rhinesmith

This workshop will explore a series of personal challenges faced by people working in U.S.-Soviet relations. Topics will include dichotomies such as human rights vs. cultural relativism, national security vs. bilateral dialogue, cooperation vs. competition, and posturing vs. problem-solving. Participants will examine the relationship of these topics to their own work, values, and belief systems.

Ambassador Rhinesmith's background as an international management consultant includes nine years as president of the AFS international student exchange program. He holds a doctorate in international management and cross-cultural relations. $530

Potential Growth and Change Using Gestalt

Anne Nechama Simkin

Gestalt practice is a noninterpretive, existentially-based system in which awareness of one's feelings in the present moment is the primary focus. Gestaltists believe that human beings are born with the innate capacity to cope with life, but that self-expression, growth, and self-acceptance are oftentimes suppressed. Most gestalt communications deal primarily with the immediate interactions of those present. Explanations, interpretation, and assumptions are discouraged. Concentrating on what is rather than on what could or should be encourages a person to take responsibility for one's own actions. By becoming aware of what is potentially nourishing and what is toxic, it is possible to learn to make choices and to achieve integration.

This workshop is for persons seeking new perspectives, growth, and change. Participants will share experiences, explore new ways of coping with ongoing situations, search for the existential messages of their dreams, and learn to communicate with each other and significant others. The content of the workshop will evolve out of the needs and wishes of the group members.

$530

November 8–December 4

Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

Eli Jaxon-Bear

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 49. $2120

November 8–December 6

Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 50. $2300

Weekend of November 13–15

Ancestral Journeys

Luisah Teish

Invoking the spirits of the ancestors through traditional Yoruba stories, rituals, and dance movements, Luisah Teish will introduce participants to the ancestral powers inherent in their ancient selves. The group will be invited to join in rituals for attunement with the spirits of the ancestors and to experience the power of dance movements traditionally used to induce trance states. The workshop leader will draw on her background as a priestess of Oshun in the Afro-American tradition of Yoruba/Lacumi.

Participants are asked to bring their ancient and child selves to this workshop. They are also asked to bring a candle of their favorite color and a stone they love and to be prepared to move! $270

Transitions

Elliot Aronson & Gabriele Thomson

Disorganization is a natural part of transition and facilitates reorganization. People are almost constantly in a state of transition – whether it be getting married, beginning a new career, becoming a parent, letting go of a relationship, or moving on to the next stage in the life cycle. These changes can be exciting and, at the same time, can evoke a loss of internal balance. The result can be loss of self-esteem, confusion about one's identity, and doubts about one's perceptions. New feelings and ideas are fragile during these periods of transition and require special nurturance.

The goal of this workshop is to gain perspective on the process of making transitions. Through guided fantasies, self-exploration, and didactic presentations, participants may develop ways of enhancing their understanding of themselves and increasing their overall effectiveness. $270

Alternatives to Psychiatric Treatment: Philosophic Issues

Lawrence Telles

Many communities offer alternatives to treatment in psychiatric hospitals – residential treatment, vocational and housing programs, self-help groups, social centers – for those who are in states of persistent or acute psychological distress. Such community-based programs tend to reduce the power difference between the helper and the helped. They rely on the healing capacity of the social context more than on individual psychotherapy or medical treatment.

There are epistemological and ontological views embedded in these alternative programs. They have roots that can be traced to historical views about the nature of the self and society and current issues in the philosophy of science.

This weekend's discussions will be most relevant to those who have participated in either conventional or alternative psychiatric treatment programs as clients, staff, administrators, or planners.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see pages 10-11. $270

©Bonnie Freer 1984

Moshe Feldenkrais joined his physics training, martial arts expertise, and study of human functioning to invent the Feldenkrais Method®. His first training program in America was held at Esalen.

Week of November 15–20

Presence

Elisa Lodge Schiffman

Elisa Lodge Schiffman writes: "Presence is a power that arises from a deep sense of self-worth and trust. It reflects a broadened vision and whole-hearted acceptance of the varied facets of being. It is a state of dynamic balance where there is no unnecessary strain of self-defeating awkwardness. One is at home in oneself and at ease with the world.

"During this week, participants can gain a deepened appreciation of the elements in themselves that contribute to this timeless state of fluidity and ease. They will have an opportunity to experiment and explore how their bodies' shapes and forms, emotional histories, and self-images are intimately intertwined. This growing awareness is the basic grounding from which the creative experience of presence can be known. Movement patterns, the ways we walk and breathe, also reveal how we inhibit or allow our personal power. As we become more comfortable with ourselves, we transform not only the way we might carry our head or make contact with another, but our whole way of being in the world."

This work is based on an approach woven from gestalt, psychosynthesis, Rolf-movement, and performance art. Video feedback will be used. $530

Weekend of November 20–22

High Tech and Human Values

Walter Truett Anderson & Theodore Roszak

The "information revolution" and the "biological revolution" are rapidly altering the landscape of human existence, creating new powers, new dangers, new possibilities of exploitation, new ways of being, new problems of governance. This workshop will look at these issues in depth and search for basic guidelines to the personal and political challenges they present. Discussions will seek to be informative and provocative but non-technical, emphasizing philosophical and humanistic questions such as: What contributions can the new high technologies offer in the exploration of human potentialities? What roles do artificial intelligence and genetic engineering have to play in our evolutionary future?

Recommended reading: Theodore Roszak, The Cult of Information: The Folklore of Computers and the True Art of Thinking (Pantheon Books); Walter Truett Anderson, To Govern Evolution: Further Adventures of the Political Animal (Harcourt, Brace, Jovanovich). $270

The Delight of Intimacy

Charlotte Selver & Charles Brooks

Much as we may wish to live in the present, we are often preoccupied with images and ideas of how it ought to be. Instead of responding to the situation at hand with the innumerable nerves, muscles, and interweavings of consciousness which are we, much of us is immobilized by early conditioning, acute emotional problems, or by habit, and much is held back until the inner board of review gives the OK.

But children and sages have a different way of functioning. For them the world flows into their consciousness as the air into their lungs, and their responses are organismic and direct, bypassing the evaluation center which is the educated mind of the adult. It is our lack of immediacy which is usually felt as tedium and which necessitates ever stronger stimuli in the search for joy, or self-disciplines in the search for peace. By giving up these preconceptions and gradually coming to follow our sense of reality, we begin to respond not to what should be but to what is, and the world catches fire for us.

This workshop will explore direct experience, which as it becomes clearer and stronger tends to burn away the mist of concepts and restrictions which our conditioning has interposed between ourselves and living. $270

Week of November 22–27

A Week with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

For workshop description see October 4-9. $530

A Special Week at Esalen

There will be limited space available at Esalen this week for those who would like to spend time enjoying the grounds, the baths, and the community, without participating in a group. Guests may stay for just part of the week, although priority will be given to those who sign up for the full five-day period. $300

November 22–29

Psychosynthesis: A Seven-Day Workshop for Professionals

Harry Sloan

For workshop description see August 30-September 6. $800

Weekend of November 27–29

A Special Weekend at Esalen

For those who wish to stay, this weekend is a continuation of the preceding week (for description see November 22-27) or is suitable for those who just have time to visit Esalen for a few days. Massage and other work offered by individual practitioners will be available. $150

Week of November 29–December 4

An Introduction to Continuum

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud writes: "A human being can be seen as a living process of many activities: neuro-electrical-chemical-muscular, feeling, thinking, remembering, dreaming, and much more than we'll ever know. We sweepingly refer to all of this as 'My Life.'

"These activities can also be described as movements. What we call 'a body' can be seen as movements that flow, combine, and stabilize into 'muscle' or 'spine' or 'eyes.' I see movement as what we are rather than as something we do.

"Our time together will be to enhance our sensitivity to movement, whether we're experiencing it as moving 'muscle' or moving 'thoughts,' whether we're involved in the softness of a breath or the play of language, whether we're meandering through skin or feeling the wonder of meaningfulness as it shapes and colors the moment. For me, 'life' and movement are one." $530

Change and Self-Esteem

Phyllis Shankman

Change is an ever-present aspect of living which must be accepted and used creatively if one is to sustain a healthy, interesting, and exciting life. Many individuals talk about wanting change while actively or passively resisting it. Self-esteem, which includes self-acceptance, self-appreciation, and self-confidence, is the aspect of self which enables one to confront resistance and fear and which increases the willingness to change and take risks.

This workshop includes a unique, in-depth process for finding and allowing self-acceptance and for creatively confronting opportunities for change and growth. Group activities include gestalt process work, discussion, massage, meditation, music, dance, art-imagery exercises, and whatever else happens spontaneously. $530

Weekend of December 4–6

A Weekend with Seymour Carter

For workshop description see September 18-20. $270

Diving Into the Deep: Dream Discovery

Joyce Frazee

Each night the Self disappears below the surface of the psyche, and what is remembered from the journey is a dream. In this workshop, participants will focus on the use of dreams for emotional and spiritual growth. They will have the opportunity to connect with alienated parts of themselves and with the dreamer in themselves and others.

Participants may experience the multidimensional aspects of a single dream, noticing the most immediate, pressing, unfinished business of their lives, and uncover personal symbols. By keeping a dream journal, participants may recognize that dreams come in series, presenting and exploring a continuing theme. Since many individuals forget dreams, exercises in dream recall will be offered. Participants will work with feelings using gestalt and bio-energetics. They will draw dream mandalas, which can be used for insight and healing. Methods of dream control and lucid dreaming will be discussed. $270

Service to the Dying:
The Tibetan Buddhist Perspective

Sogyal Rinpoche

Today, many of us are witnessing close friends and relatives confront life-threatening illness. Helping professionals are seeing increasing numbers of clients, and their intimate friends and relatives, face early death. They are called upon by situations for which they may not have had a lot of experience.

Drawing upon ancient Buddhist knowledge, as exemplified by the Tibetan Book of the Dead, this workshop will offer practical information for individuals in the health-care field as well as lay people who want to know how to give the most effective and compassionate care for the dying.

Questions that the group will address include: What is death from the Tibetan perspective? How can this perspective affect one's own life? What kind of guidance can be drawn from it and given to the dying and the intimate relatives of the dying?

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see pages 10-11. $270

Introduction to the World of Acupuncture

Ralph Alan Dale & Hendrina Ophey

This course will be both theoretical and practical and is designed for those involved in the healing arts. The principles and methods of acupuncture will be explained in traditional and scientific terms, including how acupuncture works, the polarity principle of yin and yang, the five phase theory and its application to physical and emotional problems, and the application of these theories to any aspect of life.

The routes of the main acupuncture channels and their points will be defined and located. Methods of stimulation that will be demonstrated and practiced in class include heat, ice, mechanical instrument, massage, needle, and electro-stimulation. An emphasis will be placed

Paul Herbert

From 1964 through the early 1970s, there were seven Joan Baez Folk Festivals at Esalen, named after their principal convener. Performing here, from left to right, are: Mimi Farina, Mama Cass, Judy Collins, Joan Baez, Arlo Guthrie, and Stephen Stills. Not pictured are Paul Simon, Art Garfunkel, the Chambers Brothers, Joni Mitchell, and other festival participants whose songs still move us.

Paul Herbert

The stage for each Festival was set on the deck beyond the swimming pool, in front of John Horler's magnificent banners. When Joan Baez asked the crowd to be still, you could hear her voice echo off the cliffs with 10-second reverberations. Neighbors at Anderson Creek, some five miles away, could hear her songs distinctly.

on acquiring a basic practical vocabulary of acu-points for first aid treatment of any part or system of the body.

Recommended reading: Ralph Alan Dale, Acupuncture with Your Fingers and Acupuncture in Physical Therapy.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see pages 10-11. $270

Week of December 6–11

Esalen will be closed to the public this week.

Weekend of December 11–13

Gestalt Practice:
An Introductory Weekend

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $270

A Workshop for Couples with
David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see September 11-13.
$270 per participant

Experiencing
Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

For workshop description see September 11-13.
$270

Boundaries of the Mind and Body

John Perry

In our daily activities of running, working, eating, and sleeping, we take our performance and sensations for granted. However, on special occasions, such as running a marathon, climbing a mountain, solving a puzzle, or meditating, we function at levels which are both exhilarating and unexplained. In the same manner, we may peak on one occasion but fall far below this on subsequent attempts.

A commonality to all of these maximal, and submaximal, efforts is the ability of the mind to adapt to the situation and act in an almost mysterious manner. We sometimes say that we are "psyched." Athletes break barriers that physiologists and physicists say are beyond the abilities of the human body. This workshop will "tour" the human body and explore the limits of current scientific knowledge and understanding. Participants will be invited to share and interpret their own experiences and thoughts. The group will also investigate human learning and emotions and explore whether it is possible to develop an artificially intelligent machine, or more specifically, a machine that is "human."

Recommended reading: Marvin Minsky, The Society of Mind; Rupert Sheldrake, A New Science of Life (J.P. Tarcher); D. Hofstadter and D. Dennett, The Mind's I (Bantam). $270

December 11–18

Beginning Training in Trager Psychophysical Integration and Mentastics℠

Deane Juhan

This is the first course in the Trager Professional Training, the necessary first step toward becoming a Trager practitioner. Participants will be instructed in Trager table work, receiving sessions from experienced practitioners as well as giving to and receiving from each other supervised sessions. There will also be instruction in Mentastics, the Trager method of self-manipulation, with which participants may learn to develop their own sensory skills and to take table work deeper for their clients.

This training is open to professionals in education, body work, holistic health care, counseling, psychology, medicine, physical therapy, chiropractic, sports, performing arts, and other disciplines which see movement as a primary means of learning.

Note: This is the first course in the Trager Professional Training. Detailed information about the continuing coursework will also be presented. Participants must become members of the Trager Institute in order to enroll, which includes a $50 membership fee in addition to the cost of the workshop.

For more information and to register, please contact the Trager Institute, 10 Old Mill Street, Mill Valley, CA 94941. (415) 388-2688.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see pages 10-11.

$800 (plus $50 membership fee paid directly to the Trager Institute)

Week of December 13–18

Painting Experience with Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

This workshop is open only to those people who have previously taken a Painting Experience workshop or class. For workshop description see September 6-13.

$530 (plus $20 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

A Look Within

Jessica Moore Britt

This will be a week for participants to attend to themselves in such a way that they begin to penetrate the layers of their conditioned patterns, allowing a truer perception and appreciation of who they are to emerge.

The focus of inquiry will be the relationship between the mind, body, and emotions and the subtle centers that make up, and therefore support, one's essential/spiritual nature.

The tools for exploration will be an interplay of East and West, including meditation, touch, gestalt awareness practice, Reichian breath work, and Sufi self-remembering exercises.

Recommended reading: A.H. Almaas, Diamond Heart (Diamond Books). $530

The Courage of Self-Expression

Elliot Sobel

"Life is either a daring adventure, or nothing."
– Helen Keller

It takes great courage to express the full power and vision of one's true self in this world. Most of us have unwittingly succumbed to a cultural conspiracy which subtly asks us to hide the vast mystery of our essential being; instead, we tend to be careful, polite, anonymous, and generally fearful, and we often take workshops in order to "get better."

This workshop is an experiment in creating a community which has as its underlying assumption a different premise: that each participant, in truth, is already healed, and therefore has a very vital and necessary contribution to make to the whole, one which requires daring and risk. Using the arts as vehicle and metaphor – through singing, dancing, writing, painting, and video – participants will be asked to confront themselves with the question, "Am I willing to be all that I am?"

In order to create a safe environment for this kind of work, a high level of commitment is required. The group will be housed together in a separate living unit and will be asked to spend the first three days of the workshop in "social silence." This relieves the pressure to converse and relate, and allows participants to sink deeply within. Paradoxically, they will also be asked to express themselves outwardly, through the arts. The ordinary and superficial interactions of the personality are thus bypassed in favor of a recollected intuition of the soul, revealed through art. The second half of the week will allow for the re-integration of the group into the rest of the Esalen community, with an exploration of the responsibility which automatically accompanies true expression of the self: to contribute our highest vision to the world outside. $530

Weekend of December 18–20

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $270

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Beliefs, fears, and emotions from the past can continue into present relationships and interfere with spontaneous feelings of trust, love, and joy. The goal of this workshop is to experience and let go of these defenses and to help create new ways to relate – in the moment – to ourselves, to our work, and to those we love.

The workshop includes periods of intense body work for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which are reflected in the body as armor and tension. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released, and positive feelings can be experienced more fully. By also using dream work, massage, dance, and group process, a new capacity for loving can emerge. $270

Body Rejuvenation:
A Weekend with Dub Leigh

The goal of this seminar is to start to rejuvenate the body, mind, and spirit. A fast way to do this is to work the body. Transform the old, hard, short, nonresilient tissue into soft, lengthy, bouncy tissue free from trauma, stress, and pain. You will then have changed the despondent, hopeless, negative, grouchy person into an enthusiastic, positive, upbeat one.

The recipe for how to begin to rejuvenate a body in one session will be demonstrated to the group and then experienced and performed by each participant.

This seminar is recommended for everyone. The older you are, the more stuff you have to work with. Class size is limited (two students per table). Bring a swimsuit – two-piece for women.

Recommended reading: William Leigh, A Zen Approach to Bodytherapy, From Rolf to Feldenkrais to Tanouye Roshi (University of Hawaii Press). $270

Guide to Recovery for Adult Children of Alcoholics and Other Adult Children of Trauma

Julie Bowden & Herbert Gravitz

The last decade has heralded a social movement identifying and recognizing the plight of over thirty million Americans raised in alcoholic homes. When it is realized that there are millions raised in family environments with other types of dysfunction (e.g., chronic mental or physical illness, holocaust survivors, compulsive workers, overeaters, or gamblers), it is possible to begin to see the source of the pain so evident in this society.

Some believe the stress or sadism in an alcoholic family is second only to the horrors of concentration camps or prisoner of war camps. Comparing growing up in an alcoholic family to growing up in a war zone, many believe the emotional atmosphere results in symptoms of post traumatic stress disorder, including flashbacks, psychic numbing, survivor guilt, alienation, and chronic shock. Acknowledging the effects of alcoholism increases our understanding of the healing process.

The workshop leaders have identified six stages that describe the transformational journey to recovery taken by children of alcoholics and other trauma. Step by step, in an atmosphere of safety and integrity, they will combine the dimensions of altered state work and spirituality. Participants will be invited to move through and beyond the trauma of yesterday – melting frozen tears, integrating eternal yesterdays, befriending the child within, and connecting to the higher purpose. $270

Week of December 20–25

Painting Experience with
Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

This workshop is open to anyone; no prior experience in painting is necessary. For workshop description see September 6-13.

$530 (plus $20 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Paul Herbert

At another Folk Festival: (in the middle foreground) Joan Baez, Selig Morgenrath, Mimi Farina, and Stanley Keleman. Several thousand people attended each of these events, many of them walking from parking places several miles away.

Awakening Inner Power

Deborah Anne Medow & Mary Tesoro

Operating from the assumption that one's innate energies lie largely untapped, this group will explore alternative means of gathering inner power. Leonard Energy Training, a comprehensive system offering tools to meet the problems, pressures, and pain of everyday life situations, will be combined with gestalt to provide a foundation for personal growth and change. Yoga and massage will be interwoven with elements of the martial art of aikido to increase the flow of vital energy through the body, mind, and spirit. $530

The Body and Zen

Dub Leigh

The goals of this seminar are twofold: 1) to use body work methods and principles for releasing tension, trauma, and toxins from connective tissue; and 2) to circulate the vital energy in an aligned body. The group will draw from Rolfing® (structure), Feldenkrais® (function), and Zen (energy), to obtain these goals.

This is a hands-on workshop. Participants will give and receive body work and will learn methods to recognize, work with, and relieve some types of chronic muscle pain. The class will be limited in size (two people per table). Participants are asked to bring a swimsuit – two-piece for women.

Recommended reading: William Leigh, A Zen Approach to Bodytherapy, From Rolf to Feldenkrais to Tanouye Roshi (University of Hawaii Press).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see pages 10-11. $530

Christmas Present

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

We've idealized birth in the Christmas story – the newborn child surrounded by adoring parents, singing angels, comforting animals; worshipped by the wise and the simple; welcomed into the world and loved for nothing that he does, but for simply being who he is. Many of us were not welcomed in that way, and at Christmastime our disillusionment peaks. Our despondency and regrets are based on unfulfilled ideals, promises, and fairy tales.

Paul Herbert

Ravi Shankar, smiling here with his student George Harrison, taught at the institute from time to time during the 1960s. Beatles Harrison and Ringo Starr had flown in with a helicopter to study with him at the time this picture was taken.

Using gestalt, guided fantasy, theater games, and rituals, we will seek to release ourselves from the excess baggage of past regrets and future expectations in order to return to the divine simplicity of our own present being. Out of that simplicity, we will create our own "Christmas present," a celebration in which each of us singly and all of us together can give ourselves our self for Christmas.

Participants are encouraged to stay for the weekend workshop, Christmas Present II. (For workshop description see December 25-27.) $530

Weekend of December 25–27

Christmas Present II

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

This is a continuation of the Christmas Present workshop. (For description see December 20-25). Since Christmas falls on Friday, people from the week are encouraged to stay for the weekend, and those who would like to join the Christmas celebration during the weekend are encouraged to come. We will have a huge weekend party – a party of our own creation – celebrating ourselves as human beings in the ever-unfolding path of our lives.

And if perchance there should be a moment of post-Christmas blues this soon after Christmas, we will work with that, and play with that, and give ourselves a chance to express everything that needs expression at this time of year. $270

Mobilizing Life Force

Alan Schwartz

Alan Schwartz writes: "Quite simply, life force is the combined movement of human physiology, feeling, spirit, and the action of the brain and central nervous system which we call thought. The cleaner the movement, the more strength a person has available. All of us, due to heredity, environment, and simple bad luck, spend much too much time holding or stratifying the life force. This keeps us from authenticity and impedes the decision-making process.

"This weekend will be an experiment – reaching down through stratified elements of personality to attempt to free the life force and enhance awareness and the decision-making process. The group will act as reality mirror, and each participant may request an energetic diagnosis as to how his/her life force presents itself."

For further information, read the leader's December 27-January 1 workshop description. $270

Forgiveness and Letting Go of Judgment

Elizabeth Stratton

Elizabeth Stratton writes: "The training of the Western mind, both spiritually and intellectually, is oriented toward judgment. We are taught to induce, deduce, analyze, dissect, defend, debate. We are taught to feel guilty, to get sick, to engage in self punishment and the punishment of others. We are encouraged to rebuke ourselves into perfection.

"We do not know the healing quality of true remorse, or how to let go of that which we should never have held onto in the first place – the real meaning of forgiveness. In studies of people who have died and come back to talk about it, the most unifying element of their experiences was the meeting with a Being of white light who stood by with unconditional love, no judgment, and humor as they watched their lives roll before them like movies. The only judge was the person watching his/her own life.

"This workshop will be experiential. You are invited to observe the judgmental prison of your own mind, to feel the cleansing power of remorse, and to allow your heart to open to the freedom and healing that comes from forgiving yourself and others." $270

Paul Herbert

William Irwin Thompson, the eloquent cultural historian, wrote a chapter about Esalen in his book At the Edge of History after attending a seminar with Alan Watts, also pictured here, in 1967. The banners behind them frame the setting for a Joan Baez Folk Festival.

Rubenfeld Synergy® Method

Ilana Rubenfeld

Emotions and memories are often stored in the body, resulting in energy blocks, tensions, and imbalances. Rubenfeld Synergy® method (blending gestalt, Alexander method, and Feldenkrais® exercises) can be used to contact, express, and work through these feelings. This method involves touch, gentle body movements, visualizations, humor, music, and gestalt. Its verbal and non-verbal interventions are designed to increase awareness of and effectiveness in the process of self-healing. The approach is gentle, responsive, pragmatic, and powerful.

Some areas to be covered include: discovering the powerful interdependence between emotions and dynamic posture, observing life attitudes that are reflected in non-verbal behavior, and discovering new life options and choices for change.

This workshop will provide opportunities both for practitioners and interested non-professionals. Sessions will include experiential and theoretical components and one-to-one demonstrations. Each participant will have an opportunity to process his/her experience.

Participation in this weekend will fulfill one of the requirements for acceptance into the Rubenfeld Synergy® training program. $270

Week of December 27–January 1

Food for Health

Jane Miletich

The purpose of this workshop is to experiment with new ways of eating that eliminate certain foods like meat, dairy, processed foods, oils, and salt, and add other, more healthful ones such as fresh juices, grains, legumes, nuts, seeds, sprouts, soups, and raw salads. The foods to be used will include various fresh herbs and produce picked from the Esalen garden and farm or bought from local organic distributors.

Participants may spend time in the kitchen learning methods of food preparation. Mineral and herbal baths, nature hikes, yoga, t'ai chi, massage, and dance will be introduced. All are optional – participants choose their own pace. $530

The Art of Self-Care: Who Heals the Healer? Who Helps the Helper?

Ilana Rubenfeld

This workshop is for health professionals and others who would like to use their body/mind more effectively. Ilana Rubenfeld will draw on her 25 years of background with the Alexander and Feldenkrais® methods and gestalt to help participants explore and analyze how they use themselves in their practice.

This approach can help participants unblock their own energy and shield and ground themselves in the face of difficult situations with clients, learning to be with, rather than for their client. Using nourishment and humor, participants will learn about self-care, a critical need for health professionals. Participation in this workshop will fulfill one of the requirements for acceptance into the Rubenfeld Synergy® training program.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see pages 10-11. $530

Dimensions of Psychic Healing

Elizabeth Stratton

Psychic healing bridges the physical and the spiritual. Touching as a healing act has been practiced through recorded history by practitioners of the sacred as well as the secular: healers, shamans, priests, doctors, and mothers.

In the past ten years, physics and modern medicine have come to an acknowledgement of the radically relational nature of our universe. Nothing and no one functions in a void.

Human emotions affect the functioning of the body, and illness is often an outgrowth of this mind-body link. Semi-dissociative states that are induced by prayer, meditation, and trance have been found to provide a fertile ground for healing to take place. It has been discovered that "multiple personalities" exhibit different states of health in each personality. The placebo effect has become one of the most respected and well-studied issues in healing today.

A psychic healer is one who can help connect the physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual levels of another person's being with healing intention through the use of touch. This workshop will explore, both didactically and experientially, the sacred and secular uses of touch, modern theories of disease formation and healing mechanisms, the use of psychic sight in healing, forgiveness as transformational cleansing, and the channeling of healing energy through the laying on of hands. $530

Using Risk to Effect Change

Alan Schwartz

Alan Schwartz writes: "This is a week for recognizing and stabilizing how we face change given today's social, economic, and environmental realities. This is a week for designing a growth pattern to provide more stable contact with the issues facing all of us the rest of the century.

"The human energy system represents a constantly changing personality dimension. Often neglected in the human energy system's movement toward maturity is the development of strength. We hear metaphors not only of physical strength, but strength of character and emotions and the spiritual and psychic strengths of perception. Lack of such strength

Paul Herbert

Carl Rogers at Esalen in 1965. Rogers founded client-centered therapy, pioneered encounter groups, conducted some of the world's finest psychotherapy research, and initiated bold attempts to engage opposing political factions in Ireland, South Africa, and elsewhere. In the year before his death, he conducted a series of encounter groups among Soviet educators, during which "glasnost" reigned triumphant. Though he didn't visit Esalen often, he influenced us in many ways, directly and indirectly, and left us an unforgettable example of many-sided creativity.

Paul Herbert

Carl Rogers having darshan of Mahesh Maharishi, the founder of Transcendental Meditation. Confrontations such as this made Esalen an unpredictable place in the 1960s.

development leads us to compensate in order to be able to function in our chosen worlds. Some compensations become psychosomatic problems: blame, denial, and indiscriminate sexual functioning. Power over self, people, and things is often a compensation for the strength that would allow us the experience of self, people, and things.

"Risk involves awareness of our individual compensations and sufficient trust of self and group process to experiment. This means rendering more alive the strength of our physiology, feelings, conceptual process, and psychic perceptiveness. The result can be clarity, stability, and a deeper awareness of self."

For further information, read the leader's December 25-27 workshop description. $530

Weekend of January 1–3

New Year's Renewal at Esalen

This will be a weekend for people to come and renew themselves in the tranquil and beautiful setting of Esalen. It will not be a structured program, although several ongoing classes in the various practices offered here will be available for guests to choose from. These may include: sessions in gestalt, movement, meditation, massage, day hikes, singing gestalt, aerobics, stretching, and yoga. The swimming pool and natural hot baths will be available as usual.

The food will be specially prepared, with an emphasis on a clean, healthy diet of fresh vegetables and grains. Much of the produce is picked daily from Esalen's own organic garden and farm.

The north side of the property will be reserved for silence in keeping with Joseph Goldstein's Vipassana Insight Meditation retreat.

Come and enjoy a weekend of inner reflection, physical movement, and personal renewal as the new year begins. $250

Vipassana Insight Meditation

Joseph Goldstein

Vipassana Insight Meditation is the basic meditation practice of the Buddha's teaching. It is a simple and direct investigation of the mind and body through the development of moment-to-moment concentrated awareness. As insight into the changing nature of phenomena deepens through personal meditative experience, one begins to accept with increasing balance and equanimity what the ancient Chinese called "the ten thousand joys and sorrows." This acceptance of the full range of life experience leads, in turn, to a more profound understanding of who we are, of the nature of suffering in ourselves and others, and of the possibility of genuine freedom in our lives.

This weekend of intensive meditation will provide a systematic introduction to the methods of practice for the beginning student and will help deepen the practice of those who are more experienced. It will include a full daily schedule of silent sitting and walking meditation. There will be daily instruction, evening talks, and small group discussions. Much of the weekend will be spent in silence, including during meals, which will be brought to the Big House so participants can preserve the retreat setting.

Note: In keeping with the Buddhist philosophy of service, Esalen and Joseph Goldstein have agreed to reduce their fees for this retreat. There will also be a limited number of sleeping bag scholarships: those participants will be charged $50 for the weekend. People interested in scholarships should write to the Esalen office for an application before signing up for the workshop. $250

Week of January 3–8

Intuition Practice

Helen Palmer

For workshop description see September 20-25. $530

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see December 18-20. $530

A Week with Paul Horn & Chungliang Al Huang

Paul Horn and Chungliang Al Huang will celebrate and share with us their joyous collaboration in nature, music, dance, t'ai chi, jazz, improvisation, meditation, and world travel experiences.

Recommended reading: Chungliang Al Huang, Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (E.P. Dutton; Tao Wetter-Sphinx Verlag, Basel) and Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Celestial Arts); Alan Watts with Chungliang Al Huang, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon).

Recommended listening: Paul Horn, Inside, Heart to Heart, The Magic of Findhorn, Jupiter 8, China, Travellers; Windham Hill, Collections.

$560

Craniosacral System: Basic Workshop

Jim Asher & Jane Harrington

This workshop will offer an opportunity to learn and practice gentle yet powerful skills to bring the craniosacral system into balance. The class will combine lectures and slides on functional anatomy of the membrane system and cerebrospinal fluid movement. There will be hands-on demonstrations of a variety of methods for tapping into bone and membrane motion, rhythm, amplitude quality, restriction, and interference. Demonstrations will be followed by supervised practice. Time will also be spent evoking and developing palpatory sensitivity and fine-tuning the quality of touch.

This workshop is for people with a strong interest in developing hands-on skills and for those already practicing body work or counseling. Much of the focus will be on the head, jaw, neck, pelvis, and diaphragm systems. Cranial work can be effective in shifting emotional holding patterns and draining accumulated stresses in the nervous system.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see pages 10-11. $530

The Buddha, The Goddess, and N.L.P.

Eli Jaxon-Bear

The Buddha is a model for compassionate emptiness, and the Goddess, as Earth Mother and Protector, is a model for passionate involvement in form. Neurolinguistic Programming, (N.L.P.), is a structure for understanding, modeling, and changing human behavior and consciousness.

Participants will use sitting, standing, and moving meditation from both the Zen and Tibetan Buddhist traditions as well as Buddhist psychology for modeling the perfected states: the Buddha and the Goddess already within us. This will include mantra and visualization as well as zazen and deep conscious stretching.

N.L.P. is an open-ended system for modeling human reality and for clearing the obscurations to our perfection. It can be used for leaving behind old baggage and focusing or polishing the filters of perception.

N.L.P. has been successfully used to model great healers, or counselors such as Milton Erickson, and leaders in sports and business. Set in the context of Buddhist psychology and practice, N.L.P. offers the choice to utilize gracefully the core issues of life as ally and teacher.

Recommended reading: Chogyam Trungpa, Shambhala (Shambhala); W. Evans-Wentz, Tibetan Book of the Great Liberation; Bandler and Grinder, Frogs Into Princes (Real People Press); M. Zimmer Bradley, Mists of Avalon (Knopf); Starhawk, Dreaming the Dark (Beacon Press). $530

Weekend of January 8–10

A Weekend with Paul Horn & Chungliang Al Huang

For workshop description see January 3-8.

$300

A Weekend with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Shiffman

The purpose of this workshop is to create a more positive and open-ended self-concept. Through the use of structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role-playing, fantasy, and group process methods, participants can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis is on searching out unique personality strengths, individual capacities, and latent powers as a means of achieving productive functioning.

$270

Focusing

John & Kris Amodeo

A basic intelligence exists within each of us – a body sense that knows the direction in which one's life needs to move. By contacting this "bodily felt sense," it is possible to discover what is not yet clear about an unresolved life situation or problem. Based on Eugene Gendlin's

Paul Herbert

Bernie Gunther, who started the Esalen massage program, talking to Rollo May in 1965. With Carl Rogers and Abraham Maslow, May was a principal founder of the humanistic psychology that influenced Esalen's work.

research of this innate sense, key factors in human change have been distilled and refined into a system of simple, experiential steps called "Focusing."

Focusing is a process which facilitates intimacy in primary relationships and friendships. Through learning to replace habitual self-criticisms with gentleness and caring toward the full range of one's feelings, one can glimpse the hidden wisdom contained within the subtle textures of these feelings. This can facilitate more meaningful communication.

During this weekend, the workshop leaders will present the Focusing steps and supervise participants as they work in pairs and small groups. This workshop is for those who want to use Focusing in their lives, as well as for health professionals who want to incorporate it into their work. $270

Courtesy George and Judith Brown

George Brown, pictured here, with his wife and colleague, Judith Brown, met the Ford Foundation's Mario Fantini at Esalen in 1967. From their meeting and a Ford Foundation grant came an Esalen project that joined affective and cognitive approaches to learning. It developed into the University of California, Santa Barbara's Department of Confluent Education, which has awarded some 50 doctorates and 100 master's degrees in education.

January 8–15

A Somatics Study Program for Health Professionals: First Module

Don Johnson & Judith Aston

For more information about this program, see Special Programs, pages 51-52. $800

Week of January 10–15

Adult Children of Alcoholic or Abusive Parents

Karen Paine-Gernée & Terry Hunt

For workshop description see September 13-18. $530

A Week with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see October 11-16. $530

Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (T'ai Chi Intensive)

Chungliang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

This workshop offers New Year renewal with the fundamentals of t'ai chi practice. Chungliang Al Huang will share the crystallization of his most essential learnings. He will lead participants in sunrise movement meditation, five-elements form, Chinese Qi Gong breathing, and life-force revitalization exercises with Taoist philosophical and aesthetic dialogues and discourses. Join the music, dancing, and celebration!

Recommended reading: Chungliang Al Huang, Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (E.P. Dutton) and Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Celestial Arts); Alan Watts with Chungliang Al Huang, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon). $530

Weekend of January 15–17

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $270

The Passionate Life

Sam Keen, Jay Ogilvy & Bob Solomon

Three philosophers will explore ways that passions and emotions play a role in defining the meanings of our lives. Bob Solomon's books, The Passions and Love, and Sam Keen's The Passionate Life, stretch the envelope of philosophy beyond its traditional restriction to disembodied ideas. This workshop will serve as both a progress report and, with participants' help, as a research tool in Esalen's Dialogues on Philosophy program. $270

Singing Gestalt

Nancy Kaye Lunney

Singing gestalt is singing about yourself, who you are, what you feel, who you'd like to be. Singing gestalt is about being yourself in front of other people without judging how well you sing. Singing gestalt is not about performance. It is about feeling and expressing.

If the idea of getting up and singing in front of other people terrifies you more than anything you can think of, this workshop is for you. If you love to sing in front of other people and want to stretch yourself further, this workshop is for you. If you've been too shy to try, this is your chance.

Some guided imagery and gestalt may be used. Accompaniment and lots of music are provided. Video feedback may be incorporated. But the workshop is really about you – singing. $270

A Workshop for ACAs and their Partners

Karen Paine-Gernée & Rick Paine

Being in a couple is a challenge, especially when one or both partners are suffering from the fear and distrust that come from having grown up with alcoholism and abuse. The workshop leaders have spent 10 years working on the issues that emerge for adult children of alcoholics (ACAs) and their partners in intimate relationships. Although the difficulties in the relationship cannot be attributed solely to the ACA, alerting both partners to the dynamics inherent in growing up with alcoholism and abuse does allow the couple to see the process of their relationship from a new and mutually agreed upon perspective.

A lot of the mystery clears up when the couple becomes aware of the results of: enabling, blaming, believing one's own assumption, and feeling responsible for it all. The ACA learns that this partner is not his or her drunken parent, and the non-ACA learns to take less personally the fear and anger that the ACA displays.

This workshop is intended for couples in which one or both partners have grown up with alcoholic or abusive parents. $270

Achieving Sustained High Performance

Jerry Fletcher & Kathleen Brown Fletcher

Everyone has had the experience of suddenly doing something much better than expected, yet until recently little has been understood about these high performance experiences. People assumed such times were lucky accidents. More significantly, even if they could perform at a high level for short times, they have assumed there was no way to sustain such performance without stress, fatigue, and eventual burnout.

After more than six years of careful research and testing, it is clear that these times of exceptional performance are not capricious. Each individual has a unique set of conditions under which he or she performs surprisingly well. Furthermore, once people learn their personal high performance patterns, they can deliberately create the conditions they need to sustain their own high performance behavior. They do not need to subject themselves to the strain of short peak periods of high output, followed by long recovery cycles.

This seminar presents a carefully developed process for individuals to learn what their high performance patterns are, and how to adjust the way they do things to fit the conditions under which they perform exceptionally well. This seminar is a program developed through years of work with experienced successful managers, executives, and professionals about how to go beyond competent performance in a way that can be sustained. $270

Week of January 17–22

The Hakomi Method

Ron Kurtz

For workshop description see September 13-18. $530

A Week with Seymour Carter

For workshop description see September 18-20. $530

Group Process

Will Schutz

This will be a practicum in group process, particularly useful for those working with people, including, but not limited to, executives working with staff. Participants will have the opportunity to observe, experience, and discuss group formation and development. Issues of inclusion, control, and openness will be dealt with in action and in theory. Group leadership will be modeled and discussed. Teaching methods include encounter and brief lectures. Truth-telling and simplicity will be emphasized.

Recommended reading: Will Schutz, Elements of Encounter (Irvington), The Truth Option (Ten Speed Press), and Profound Simplicity (Learning Concepts). $530

Fighting Back from Trauma and Catastrophic Illness

Mariah Fenton Gladis

In 1981 Mariah Fenton Gladis was diagnosed with Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis, a neurological disorder commonly known as Lou Gehrig's disease. She was given a 10% chance of surviving two years. This workshop is based on her personal battle and choice to follow a path that led her back to a state of health and well-being. It is also founded on her background as a longtime gestalt practitioner.

This workshop is designed for practitioners – nurses, counselors, clergy – who work with people who are experiencing some form of threat to their well-being, whether the cause be sudden loss, illness, divorce, or the disaster of accumulated personal disappointment. It will also be appropriate for people who are recovering from trauma.

Serious illness and personal crisis exist on simultaneous physical, emotional, and spiritual levels which profoundly affect a person's reaction to the trauma. In the reaction to crisis lies the possibility for triumph. This group will identify different reactions and how to structure a program for individuals that will maximize their own potential to heal and thrive.

Fighting Back will also focus on discovering and enhancing the participant's own strengths and styles of working with people. This workshop will be experiential and didactic, using a blend of individual and group gestalt work, body work, music, and personal metaphor.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see pages 10-11. $530

Weekend of January 22–24

Gestalt and Gurdjieff

Kathleen Riordan Speeth

All religious traditions stand trembling in front of the perennial questions. In their esoteric or practical form they demand that we know ourselves, uncondition ourselves, and master ourselves. How can we become impeccable? How do we find the creative balance between spontaneity and discipline, solitude and connection, responsibility and freedom, practicalities and visions?

The Gurdjieff Work synthesizes Eastern sacred technologies for the West. In this workshop

Courtesy Frank Barron

Frank Barron has influenced American psychology in many ways. He is our foremost researcher of creativity, a pioneer in the study of lives, and a founder of contemporary personality assessment. He showed us that psychological theory, practice, and research can be imaginatively joined by helping design Esalen's project on confluent education, shaping our first Residential Programs, introducing us to early biofeedback research, and sending us talented theoreticians and researchers.

Courtesy George Leonard

George Leonard, in 1965, delivering a speech in which he declared the end of history as we knew it. This was merely the first of many Esalen talks to follow in which no cliche, no standard truth, no shred of conventional wisdom was left unchallenged. In the Paradigm Wars of our day, no one has engaged the opposition more boldly, nor understood modern culture's dilemmas so well.

participants will make contact with the heart of the teaching, self-remembering. They will study themselves in terms of the relations of essence and personality, the role of character structure, the function of negative emotions, conscious labor, and intentional suffering.

Gestalt practice provides the ideal infrastructure for self study. The group will use it as moment by moment awareness training and as an interpersonal extension of meditation.

Recommended reading: Kathleen Riordan Speeth, The Gurdjieff Work (And/Or Press; Pocket Books). $270

Anatomy for Trager℠ Students: Part I

Deane Juhan

This seminar is a continuation of the professional training for students of Trager Psychophysical Integration and Mentastics℠. Participants will examine the anatomical structures of the body, and their kinesthetic relationships, with specific reference to how these structures and relationships are handled by the Trager approach.

Class time will be divided equally between slide presentations, lectures, and discussions concerning particular areas of the body, and review and practice of those aspects of a Trager session which correspond to the areas studied. Emphasis will be on clarifying the intent of the various hand positions and movements based upon an understanding of structure, function, and motor reflex.

This workshop, Part I, covers the first half of a Trager session – the front half of the body.

Since supervised Trager table work will be an integral part of the class, a beginning Trager training is a prerequisite for this course.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see pages 10-11. $270

The Paradoxical Perspective for Executive Leadership: An Introduction

Judith & George Brown

This workshop will combine an experiential approach with the exciting new theory of the paradoxical perspective for individual, group, and organizational relationships. It will include some of the latest work done at Yale, Wharton (where George Brown has served as consultant to the Department of Management), and the University of California, Santa Barbara, using reframing, multiple meanings, and paradox as a fresh approach to both maintenance and task functions for executives.

Participants will be introduced to the use of paradox as an alternative to the conventional conflict-resolution approach, to be utilized in personally and professionally productive ways. Many of the exercises are based on the principles and practices of gestalt. The workshop is intended to provide participants with a fresh way of conceptualizing organizational problems especially when working with personnel, along with an introduction to some hands-on approaches.

Ordinarily when encountering paradox, executives typically ignore or play down one aspect of a contradiction. Here, paradox will be seen as an opportunity for creative tension and providing increased alternatives for choices in the leadership role, when handled from a meta perspective. Suggestions for continuing development of this perspective after the workshop will be explored. $270

The Shamanic Journey, Power, and Healing

Michael Harner

Shamanism is an ancient human strategy for personal learning and for acting on that learning, especially for problem-solving, well-being, and healing. In this training workshop, the participants will be introduced to some of the basic methods the shaman (a type of medicine man or woman) uses to enter nonordinary reality in order to obtain knowledge, to answer personal questions, and to maximize his or her power to maintain personal health and to achieve life goals.

Particular emphasis will be on the shamanic journey, one of the visionary methods used by humankind to enter nonordinary reality and explore the hidden universe otherwise known mainly through myth and dream. Participants will be initiated into shamanic journeying, aided by traditional drumming and movement methods for experiencing the shamanic state of consciousness and for awakening dormant personal capabilities and connections with nature. Practices will include comparison of discoveries made on shamanic journeys by participants and work on personal problem-solving. Participants will be shown how the shamanic journey can be utilized to restore spiritual power and health, and how shamanism can be practically applied to contemporary daily life.

Participants are asked to bring rattles and drums if they have them, as well as a bandana, pen, and notebook, and to wear comfortable clothing. $270

Week of January 24–29

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $530

January 24–February 5

Advanced Training in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 50.

Paul Herbert

Though Esalen was primarily identified with humanistic psychology, B. F. Skinner, the celebrated advocate of behaviorism, led seminars for the institute in Big Sur and San Francisco. During the meeting pictured here, he said that Esalen would indeed have a place in Walden Two, though the institute's approaches were not scientific. Encounter groups, he said, worked like "dither" (a British term for shaking a machine until it works).

Weekend of January 29–31

Weekend Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see September 18-20. $270

Discovering the Monk Within Yourself

Brother David Steindl-Rast

The archetype of the monk fascinates men and women today, even some quite unlikely candidates for life in a monastery. Why? Thomas Merton, Brother David's late fellow monk and friend, called this fascination with the monk in each of us "a perennial instinct of the human heart."

This weekend will provide opportunities to sift out romantic notions of monastic life from solid challenges; to come to understand what the monk's quest is all about; to discover how one can tap the wellsprings of monastic mindfulness in any walk of life.

Brother David, a Benedictine monk for more than thirty years, has lived in Eastern as well as Western monasteries. He will draw on a variety of traditions to explore with participants how they can discover and nurture the monk within themselves. $270

Week of January 31–February 5

Transitions

Elliot Aronson & Gabriele Thomson

For workshop description see November 13-15. $530

Couples' Workshop

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

Most couples are reluctant to seek help in their relationships; instead, they wait, hoping that the relationship will improve. If couples approached medical help the same way they approach marriage counseling, many of them would only visit the doctor when they ought to be lining up the mortician.

Designed on a preventive model, this workshop will deal with the underlying structures and defenses in relationships before they surface as terminal problems. It will also examine the attitudes and beliefs about sexuality and how to make sex better.

Recommended reading: Jack Rosenberg, Total Orgasm and Body, Self, and Soul: Sustaining Integration. $530

A Workshop with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

"If a proper reverence for the sanctity of the earth and the diversity of its people is the secret of peace and survival, then the adventure of self-discovery stands before us as the most practical of pleasures." – Theodore Roszak, Person/Planet

In nature, one can observe the rhythms and patterns that occur in every aspect of life – from the pulsation of the cell, to the ebb and flow of the deepest emotions, to the movement and expansion of the universe itself. In this workshop, the natural world will be the group's teacher as they explore the "inner" terrain of their physical and emotional bodies and the "outer" terrain of Esalen and Big Sur. Participants may regain an intimate relationship with the natural pulsations and expressions of their bodies and their environment, physically, emotionally, mentally, and spiritually.

Participants will use Reichian gestalt awareness and breath work, sound, creative movement, and meditation to balance and transform energy blocks in the body. In addition, they will use music, dance, prayer, and ritual to express their relationship with the earth and each other.

No previous experience is needed, only a willingness to explore this adventure of spirit and discover a deepened sense of the interconnectedness that is inherent in all life-forms. Learning about our bodies, our natural instincts, and responses can lead us back to the ancient wisdom of the earth – returning us to our sacredness and wholeness.

This workshop is limited to 12 participants.

Recommended reading: Fields et al., Chop Wood, Carry Water (J.P. Tarcher); Shakti Gawain, Creative Visualization (Whatever Publishing); Peter Russell, The Global Brain (J.P. Tarcher); Ken Keyes, Jr., The Hundredth Monkey (Vision Books). $530

Paul Herbert

When Bucky Fuller led seminars at Esalen, his listeners formed a human centipede that moved with him in the dining room, on walks, and to his sleeping quarters. Their conversation never stopped. Though Bucky's primary authority arose from his grasp of modern technology, his life-affirming vision of human possibility made him one of our most beloved mentors.

Weekend of February 5–7

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see December 18-20. $270

Discovering Family Patterns

Judith Brown

Change in a family is generated by a change in the family system. Participants will expore their family interaction to discern the mysteries of how they create and maintain their family system. Special attention will be paid to contact and control, and to pain and healing. Participants may attend singly or with family members. $270

Introduction to Vipassana Meditation

Jamie Baraz

Vipassana (insight) meditation practice is a systematic examination of the mind/body process through calm and focused awareness. Learning to observe experience from a place of stillness enables one to relate to life without fear or clinging. One begins to accept pleasure and pain, fear and joy, with increasing equanimity and balance. Life is seen as a constantly changing process. Insight is the deepening experience of the process itself, free of interpretation, leading to wisdom and compassion.

This seminar is designed for those who have had no previous meditation experience, as well as for those who wish to deepen their practice. Meditation instruction, the philosophy behind the practice, group discussions, and actual practice periods will be offered. Special emphasis will be placed on how to integrate vipassana practice in daily life after the workshop is over.

Recommended reading: Joseph Goldstein, The Experience of Insight (Shambhala). $270

The Eleusinian Mysteries

Deena Metzger & Steven Kent

The rites of Demeter were practiced uninterrupted in Greece for two thousand years until 396 A.D. In a single nine-day initiation, the ancients received the vision which then sustained them through their lives and their deaths. In 1980, poet, novelist, and playwright Deena Metzger and theater director Steven Kent recovered these highly secret rites of the ancient world and reenacted the Eleusinian mysteries in Greece for the first time in 1500 years.

This workshop engages the disciplines of poetry, autobiography, theater, and psychology in a mythic reenactment of personal drama which has personal, political, and spiritual applications. Though a condensed version, this workshop combines the narrative map provided by the myth of Demeter, Persephone, and Hades with the original practices themselves. It reconciles ancient and contemporary wisdom to open the door into the inner world for the mysterious life-giving confrontation with the inner gods.

No prior knowledge of the myth nor special training or skills are required. Participants should bring writing materials. The workshop also provides the opportunity for men and women to articulate and record their personal archetypal drama. $270

The Legend of the Captured Alien Corpse

Keith Thompson

"In the simplest of terms, allegory says one thing and does another . . . (involving) two or more levels of meaning . . . (requiring) at least two attitudes of mind." – Angus Fletcher

Keith Thompson writes: "During the summer of 1947, when the acronym 'UFO' was just entering American lexicon, the Air Force issued a press release confirming that the 509th Bomb Group of the Eighth Air Force, Roswell (New Mexico) Army Field, had gained possession of the remnants of a crashed flying saucer. After this remarkable admission appeared in the San Francisco Chronicle, the Air Force changed its mind: the captured object was really a weather balloon and radar reflector.

"When several witnesses (including the rancher who discovered the debris) challenged this reversal, they were told by visitors claiming to be from the Air Force that they would do well not to contradict the authority of the U.S.

government. Many years later, in a letter recounting the observations of government officials alleged to have viewed the retrieved materials, missile guidance expert Dr. Robert Sarbacher wrote that 'materials reported to have come from flying saucer crashes were extremely light and very tough,' and that the 'people operating these machines were also very lightweight, sufficient to withstand the tremendous acceleration and deceleration associated with their machinery,' and that the aliens were 'constructed like certain insects we have on earth.'

"This workshop presents an opportunity to explore this tale as an allegory. Can we discover embedded parallels (archetypal, mytho-poetic, moral, spiritual, or other) to the socio-political storyline of The Legend of the Captured Alien Corpse? In addition to considering the story as social realism – albeit it fantastic social realism – might we also take it as an image of our many-dimensional love/hate encounter with The Other? How does our choice of enemies and scapegoats (the U.S.S.R. as Ronald Reagan's favorite 'evil empire') reflect our images of The Alien? And what about the human shadow itself – the Inner Otherness that so irritates us precisely because it is unknown, undeveloped, and 'more than a little too dark'?

"Along the way, let's also see what's required for working with our own life stories as allegories, for making connections between two or more levels that don't seem connected, but also seem very much connected. I'll open with a rich telling of The Legend of the Captured Alien Corpse, and then, the work is ours."

Recommended reading: George Orwell, Animal Farm; Jorge Luis Borges, Ficciones (Grove); Franz Kafka, The Metamorphosis.

Suggested viewing: John Sayle's film, The Brother from Another Planet. $270

Week of February 7–12

Five Days with Janet Zuckerman

For workshop description see August 30-September 4. $530

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see September 13-18. $530

Exploring the Christ Experience through Poetry and Myth

Brother David Steindl-Rast

The 17th century Christian mystic Angelus Silesius asks: "If Christ were born a thousand times in Bethlehem, yet not within you, what good would that be for you?" But access to the mystery of Christ within is blocked for many by the narrow, rigid language of the pulpit and Sunday School. Still, Christian tradition offers a wealth of sources waiting to be tapped, if only we learn again the language of poetry and myth.

This workshop will give participants: time to clear up deep-seated misunderstandings so that the resentments that spring from them can be healed; time and a perfect setting to delight in poetry; and an opportunity to let ancient myths touch them afresh.

Brother David has helped seekers on all five continents to rediscover the Christ within. He will draw on questions and comments of workshop participants and will provide quiet periods for guided experience. A new language for ancient wisdom can lead to a new experience of timeless mysteries. $530

Dream and Realization in the Creative Process: An Exploration with Filmed Images

Frank Barron, Faustin Bray & Brian Wallace

A great film, Fellini's 8½, will be used as a common visual framework for theorizing about, and personal involvement in, the role of dreams in creativity. Participants will take it as a starting point to make a crafted videotape of a collective dream emerging from the group itself.

The workshop will begin with a viewing of Fellini's masterpiece in the imagined company of C.G. Jung, as interpreted by Frank Barron. 8½ will be seen as a cinematic enactment of Jung's theory of the creative process and of individuation. Concepts such as mask, shadow, and anima will be elucidated. After viewing 8½, the group will form a company to write, act in, direct, compose music for, and produce a videotape of a dream.

Participants are invited to bring their imagination and any real props they fancy. This may include musical and video equipment, though nothing is required.

Suggested listening: Audio tape, Fellini, Yeats, and Jung Meet at the Movies, available for $7 from Sound Photosynthesis, 533 Charles Lane, Mill Valley, CA 94941. Also contact this address for more information.

$530 (plus $20 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Paul Herbert

Alexander Lowen, the founder of bioenergetic therapy, illuminates the muscular patterns of a trusting subject.

Weekend of February 12–14

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $270

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman

For workshop description see September 4-6. $270

Keeping a Good Relationship Alive

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

This weekend will focus on a major theme in keeping a good relationship alive. That is: being close and vulnerable yet also free to grow as a separate person.

Participants will spend part of the time with their partners, separate from other couples, in verbal and written experience that can add to their relationship in closeness, conflict resolution, and individuality.

Limited to 10 couples. $270 per participant

Morphology

Gerald Epstein

Morphology is an ancient study of the face and body – their forms, structures, proportions, features – and their relationship to health and disease. Linchpin of Western medical tradition from ancient times to the onset of the Age of Reason, morphology assumes a new dimension in Gerald Epstein's contemporary translation of its implications for diet, exercise, and interpersonal relationships. Based on the four temperaments known as Bilious, Sanguine, Lymphatic, and Nervous, this science allows people to individualize their life activities in accord with their unique natures, as registered on their faces and in their bodies.

This seminar will focus initially on the history of morphology and the rationale for its place in modern therapeutics. The fundamentals of morphologic diagnostic understanding will then be introduced, with practical applications and demonstrations so that each practitioner will be able to put them to use immediately in any context: medically, nutritionally, psychologically, and in applied body work.

Participants will practice with, and on, each other, defining the specifics of each person's diet, exercise, body work, and overall regimen to his or her individual temperament and personality as revealed by the face and body. $270

The Path of Transformation in Psychotherapy and Meditation

Daniel Brown

This workshop is designed for psychotherapists, practitioners of meditation, and those interested in the integration of the worlds of psychotherapy and spirituality. The workshop leader will present an integrated model for the path of transformation, a model for the development of emotional experience, the sense of self and others, and reality sense. This model of normal, pathological, and optimal human development is drawn from the fields of child development, clinical psychology, and the great Eastern traditions of meditation.

This workshop will show how the path of meditation unfolds and will present a vision of optimal human development. It will also help participants learn to assess and treat different types of problems (clinical symptoms and meditation crises) which occur at various points along the overall developmental continuum. The workshop will also address how psychotherapy can be used as a way to attain some of the necessary prerequisites for spiritual development and can assist with the problems that occur for the meditation practitioner and meditation teacher. It will also show how spiritual awareness can inform one's view of psychotherapy. Various experiential exercises and meditation practices will be used along with clinical case material. The workshop will be both experiential and didactic.

Much of the material in this workshop will be drawn from Daniel Brown's experience as a clinician and teacher, and from his 17 years of practicing meditation, translating meditation

Paul Herbert

In the Lodge, 1966: John Pierrakos and Alexander Lowen (seated to the right) working with Lois Delattre, a moving spirit at Esalen in the late 1960s.

texts from Sanskrit and Tibetan sources, and conducting scientific studies on deep meditation states and enlightenment on meditation masters in this country and in South Asia.

Recommended reading: Ken Wilbur, Jack Engler, and Daniel Brown, Transformations of Consciousness (Shambhala). $270

Week of February 14–19

Experiencing Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

For workshop description see September 11-13. $530

Acting is Doing

Stephen Book

The art of acting is, like life, the art of doing. Through "doing," we remove the restrictions, both inner and outer, which suppress the spontaneity of any human being. Upon release, this spontaneity shows itself as artistic creativeness.

This experiential workshop will reveal the various forms of "doing" available to the actor. Participants will learn the basics of improvisational acting, heighten and focus energy, increase communication skills, extend powers of observation and concentration, and discover new realities. This workshop is designed for the layperson. $530

A Workshop with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

"Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful." – Xenophon

People, like plants, need special attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what they've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness. The courage to let go of self-defeating patterns from the past, the willingness to master fresh skills and create new dreams for the future: these are the turning points that nourish and sustain human beings.

In this workshop, the participants will come together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in themselves. They will create a community whose aim is to explore and move through individual turning points in a climate of trust, goodwill, and authenticity. The program will be structured to include intensive individual work, using practices from gestalt, psychosynthesis, and bioenergetics, as well as creative movement, music, guided imagery, group rituals, and celebrations. $530

Understanding the Borderline and Narcissistic Personality

Burton Schaffner & Darlene Louise Beaver

In the last 15 to 20 years, the psychoanalytic community has published important research and theories concerning developmental issues about the borderline and narcissistic personalities. This valuable information has been directed toward the psychoanalyst working in a psychoanalytic mode. The material presented by Mahler, Masterson, Kohut, and others has far-reaching implications. It lends new understanding to developmental issues and helps clarify certain elements of personality formation as well as gives ways of working with these identifiable characteristics.

The workshop leaders will present the borderline and narcissistic personality theories in a way that will enable participants to gain a deeper understanding of themselves and others. They will clarify, simplify, and translate psychoanalytic language into concepts that can be understood by layperson and counselor alike. They will provide a functional base for the use of this material as well as supply written summaries of the work of Mahler, Masterson, and Kohut.

Participants will have the opportunity to use this material within the group setting in order to facilitate their own process and to learn how to use it in working with others. $530

Pleasure and Addiction: Causes, Consequences, and Treatments

Harvey Milkman, Stanley Sunderwirth & David Smith

Craving for ecstasy is about the compelling urge to feel wonderful. We spend much of our lives in relentless pursuit of fleeting moments of exalted delight. But the consequences of compulsive pleasure-seeking – whether through activities or use of substances – are often devastating. Whether your pleasure is meditation or mescaline, cocaine or cults, you are addicted if you cannot control when you start or stop an activity.

This interdisciplinary workshop is designed for the nonprofessional who seeks a mature understanding of what is now known about compulsive pleasure-seeking. What are the origins and symptoms of addiction? How are drug abuse and alcoholism related to other forms of problem dependency, social deviance, and mental illness? What methods of treatment and prevention have a reasonable probability of success?

Verbal information will be elucidated through artistic visual devices, thus enhancing conceptual understanding and learning retention. The workshop will feature both lecture and experiential formats designed to increase intellectual, social, and body-awareness skills.

Recommended reading: Harvey Milkman and Stanley Sunderwirth, Craving for Ecstasy: The Consciousness and Chemistry of Escape (Lexington Books). $530

Weekend of February 19–21

Weekend Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see September 18-20. $270

Sensory Awareness

Seymour Carter

Seymour Carter writes: "This workshop is based on my studies with Charlotte Selver, whose work is called Sensory Awareness. The method, meditative in its approach, explores the distinction between naturally spontaneous movement and movement which is imposed or forced. In an atmosphere of quiet attentiveness, we will explore our innate ability to respond as living organisms. Experimenting with seemingly simple activities, such as breathing, standing, walking, listening, and looking, we will learn how sensory perception can unfold when not inhibited by habits and expectations." $270

A Weekend with Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

Paul Rebillot writes: "Within each of us there lives a demon – our own personal critic – whose greatest joy comes from criticizing, denigrating, and destroying every experience we have. We're either too early or too late, too old or too young, too fat or too thin, and when we fall in love, we're never good enough.

"This demon, who commands us to be who we aren't in order to satisfy someone we can never satisfy, is the demon that we will seek to exorcise during this workshop.

"Why not take the chance of looking inside ourselves and finding the completeness of who we are, instead of trying to limit ourselves with who we think we should be and who we hope we are not? When we find the truth about ourselves, our natural response is to want and to work for the best that we can be.

"People in the helping professions who have experienced this form have found it adaptable and useful in their own work." $270

Experiencing Dream Work

Stephen Aizenstat

Dreams, as looking glass parables, provide a connection to the voices and images of the psyche. It is the leader's belief that dreams carry three voices: the collective unconscious, the world unconscious, and the personal unconscious. Dream images reflect aspects of any one of these dimensions and, on occasion, aspects of all three.

This seminar draws upon methods of dream interpretation from the dream healing centers in ancient Greece, Jungian psychology, gestalt, and systems theory, offering an approach to dream work which listens to the individual and collective psyche as well as the psyche in the world.

Working with their own dreams, participants will be shown methods of dream work associated with these three levels of the psyche. Common dream themes and symbols, nightmares, lucid dreaming, archetypal imagery, and the recurring dream will be discussed. Participants can realize the potential healing power of an interrelated body-mind-world approach and remember why in ancient times dreams were honored as the medicine of the soul. $270

Paul Herbert

Lama Govinda, pictured here with students at Esalen, introduced us to the culture, metaphysics, and practical wisdom of Tibet.

February 19–26

Psychosynthesis Training II

Harry Sloan

This is a follow-up program only for those people who have completed the seven-day or month-long Psychosynthesis Training at Esalen or the eight-day trainings Harry Sloan has led in San Francisco and throughout the country.

The format of this follow-up will be a blend of seminars, practicum, and guide process. Guide process is a form of supervision in which the workshop leader does in-depth process work with the guide right at the moment the guide feels he or she is getting stuck, confused, or lost while doing a session with a client. The participants will be both guides and clients for each other. $800

Week of February 21–26

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $530

Owning the Shadow

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

"We have seen the enemy and they is us." – Walt Kelly, Pogo

Paul Rebillot writes: "In my work I have come to realize that one of the most important and frequently avoided themes in people's lives is the ability to own the part of ourselves we don't like, the part Jung called the shadow. As a result, we become projectors of our own disowned energy. In this workshop, we will seek to discover within ourselves the bad guy we have been projecting onto and hating in others. Hopefully, by facing and communicating with this negative self, we can discover in our shadow not the enemy but the friend and challenger to growth of the heart and consciousness." $530

Touching the Unconscious with Your Hands: Rosen Bodywork

Marion Rosen & Mari Krieger

Rosen Method Bodywork is a relaxation process induced by gentle massage. Marion Rosen says, "The function of tension is to suppress emotions or experiences which could not be handled at an earlier time. Through this gentle body work, the barriers to awareness disappear and the person has greater access to his or her inner self. This process opens the possibility of healing."

Participants will have the opportunity to learn about the body through the Rosen Method's hands-on approach to body work. In this work, the practitioner helps the participant focus on subtle changes in the breathing as a guide to what is happening in his or her inner process. The deep emotional issues which may arise from this work can then be processed through gestalt awareness with the workshop leaders. In addition to intrapsychic work, time will be set aside for interpersonal/interactive work. $530

On Being a Man

David Schiffman, Danner Christensen & Dan Williams

Many men today have labored diligently to become softer, more receptive, and nurturing. They have sought to honor and embrace the emergence of the "feminine" principle in their own natures. For many, however, the right to celebrate and honor the so-called "masculine" aspect has become a thorny and difficult dilemma. Many qualities of maleness or masculinity have come to connote the most destructive and troublesome elements in human existence: war, environmental desecration, sexual oppression, and patriarchal abuse.

A man's sense of his own uniqueness and value is critical. During this week participants will examine those elements in their own natures which comprise the deeper dimensions of manhood, and how they might enhance the freedom to be men with simplicity, clarity, tenderness, strength, and dignity.

The workshop will explore the following questions:

* What does a man need to know and accept about his own nature to feel himself fully as a man?
* Can men come together to create an atmosphere of trust and good will, where the masculine aspects that they have in common can be honored and appreciated in the pleasure of each other's company?
* Are there ways that men can mark and celebrate the cycles that season them, their victories, and defeats? How might they reveal themselves emotionally without unnecessary shame or remorse?
* Can the "wild man" within be befriended and reliability and respectability still survive? Can fierceness and aggression be used constructively in realizing spiritual aspirations, intimate relationships, family and community concerns?

A variety of experiential processes will illuminate these and similar issues. Traditional initiation rituals and purification ceremonies using drumming, chanting, and a sweat lodge will be incorporated in this journey as well. $530

Paul Herbert

The muscular figure in the foreground is Stanley Keleman, philosopher, athlete, and pioneer of somatic education. In the background, Michael Murphy's character armor is being cracked (though not for good) by John Pierrakos, the co-founder of bioenergetic therapy.

Weekend of February 26–28

Experiencing Aikido

Annie Styron Leonard

To experience aikido is to feel both energized and relaxed, to be stronger and at the same time more gentle. To learn this sophisticated martial art takes many years, but some of its mysterious powers can be sampled over the course of this weekend.

Participants will practice enhancing the flow of vital energy through and around the body, relaxing under pressure, moving from the hara, or center, and extending inner force. They will be introduced to and have the chance to practice a few basic aikido moves and learn alternative, nonaggressive ways of dealing with attacks. This weekend is designed for those who simply wish to get in touch with and use their own latent powers as well as those who are planning to begin practicing a martial art. $270

Personal Mythology

Stanley Krippner & David Feinstein

Personal myths are the deep forces of the psyche that shape who we are, what we think, and what we do. Operating largely outside of conscious awareness, our personal myths nonetheless shape our journey through life, our place in society, and our relationship to the broader or spiritual context of existence.

Sunryu Suzuki roshi, with his dharma heir Richard Baker at Esalen in 1968. The Zen Center retreat at Tassajara, which they founded, is only nine miles away as the crow flies, and we have often shared students and guests.

Paul Herbert

Participants will be shown how to reach deeply into realms of unconscious mythological wisdom and to speak to the need to find the visions that nourish and inspire. Drawing upon a range of systems, including Jungian psychology, gestalt, psychosynthesis, and cognitive psychology, participants will be led through a sequence of experiences that can rework a problematic area of personal mythology. These experiences can be used again later to identify and work with other personal myths. Participants are asked to bring a notebook or personal journal and are encouraged to record their dreams prior to the workshop. $270

Ethical Discipline as a Healing Art, from Plato to the Present

Lewis Andrews

Modern science is on the verge of a transformation which may prove as important a turning point in the history of psychology and medicine as Einstein's relativity was to physics or DNA to biology. After nearly a century of refusing to acknowledge any possible connection between emotional health and traditional ethical values, increasing numbers of health practitioners are describing their patients' problems in ethical, moral, and spiritual terms. Combining historical anecdotes with group experiential exercises, one-on-one demonstrations, and a theoretical component, Lewis Andrews will outline the essence of this newly emerging "ethical approach."

In this workshop, participants will learn how modern psychology is rediscovering the common core values at the heart of all great moral traditions, how we are limited by our ignorance or misunderstanding of these values, how 20th century psychology and medicine have created the lingering and very damaging impression that ethical discipline is a form of repression (rather than liberation), how the subtle fine-tuning of our ethical attitudes can in fact radically improve our sense of well-being, how the power of our intuition is determined by the strength of our character.

Special emphasis will be placed on using ethical discipline to cope with feelings of depression, boredom, and frustration, as well as using these insights to help others.

Recommended reading: Lewis Andrews, To Thine Own Self Be True: The Rebirth of Values in the New Ethical Therapy (Doubleday). $270

February 26–March 25

Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 50. $2300

WORK STUDY PROGRAM

The Work Study Program is for those who are interested in total immersion in the Esalen environment. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically. Only rarely is it restful. Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and housekeeping. Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs. No participants will be accepted as work scholars in Gazebo or the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments.

Most evenings and two intensive weekends are spent together as a group exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who will be with the group throughout the month, coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The program is usually divided into two sections each month: a general interest section which covers a variety of growth approaches, and a focused interest section which emphasizes one type of growth practice, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage or body work, etc. Participants in the focused programs must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program, assuming that they meet the standards of the Work Study Program.

Focused programs planned thus far for 1987-88 include:

September 13–October 11: Mary Goldenson (Devarani) will facilitate an intensive month of letting go and moving on, using Reichian methods, Radix®, dance, imagery, gestalt, and meditation.

October 11–December 6: Antioch Program. This track will include: Esalen massage, movement and emotions, sports and human development, group process, and somatic theory.

November 8–December 6: Anne and Jim Armstrong.

December 6–January 3: Phyllis Shankman will offer a focus on change and self-transformation through gestalt, movement, guided imagery, and whatever presents itself in the moment for attention.

January 3–February 28: Jessica Britt and Joyce Lyke will focus on the body/spirit relationship using gestalt, Reichian breath work, Native American ritual, and Sufi self-remembering exercises.

February 28–March 27: Janet Zuckerman will focus on emotional release.

March 27–April 24: Paul Carter will lead a program integrating trance and whole/parts work, exploring the naturalistic development and uses of trance in all aspects of life.

April 24–May 22: Jessica Britt. For description see January 3-February 28; this workshop will also include movement and creativity.

May 22–June 19: Wolf Buentig's and Gertraud Eder-Buentig's group will study the body as the outward revealed life of the soul, and the soul as the inward perceived life of the body.

In as much as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage and Rolfing®, are available at staff rates.

Accommodations are shared, with up to four people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff complex located 1½ miles north of Esalen.

A deposit of $350 in U.S. currency is required with your application. The cost of all 28-day Work Study Programs, except the three-month body work program, is $700 first month, $650 second month, $600 third month. Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second month or a third month depending on space available and community needs. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

For more information contact Bette Dingman: (408) 667-3010.

Note: This application is not a registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is non-refundable, and may be transferred to other programs within one year of receipt. Please return this form with your deposit to:

Work Study Program, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

Available dates: August 16–September 13; September 13–October 11; October 11–November 8; November 8–December 6; December 6–January 3; January 3–February 28; February 28–March 27; March 27–April 24; April 24–May 22; May 22–June 19; June 19–July 17; July 17–August 14; August 14–September 11; September 11–October 9; etc.

Benj Langdon

The long-haired beauty is Janet Lederman. She is sharing a drollery with Gregory Bateson. When members of the Esalen staff began to have children, Janet created the Gazebo School for them.

APPLICATION TO THE WORK STUDY PROGRAM

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ ZIP _____

Date of Birth _____ Occupation _____ Place of Employment _____

Daytime Telephone (_____) _____ Date of Application _____

Evening Telephone (_____) _____ Male ☐ Female ☐ Smoker ☐ Non-smoker ☐

I prefer the general interest program: yes ☐ no ☐ I prefer the focused program in: _____

Participants in the focused programs must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program.

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning on a Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: _____ to _____ 2nd: _____ to _____ 3rd: _____ to _____

Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community.

Please indicate your availability should an invitation be extended. (Not applicable to focused program applicants.)
☐ No extension ☐ One-month extension ☐ Two-month extension. Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs.

If you have emergency medical skills (M.D., E.M.T., or R.N.) and are willing to make those skills available during your stay, please check here. ☐

Please attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program. Include: applicable skills (gardening, kitchen, mechanical, etc.); medical difficulties which might affect your working in particular departments; previous Esalen workshops you have attended (please list program titles, group leaders, and dates). Note: Fluency in the English language is essential for participation in the program.

SPECIAL PROGRAMS

September 11–November 6
The Modern Warrior:
A Certification Program
in Leonard Energy Training

Jack Cirie, George Leonard
& Annie Styron Leonard

This will be an intensive, rigorous, eight-week program leading to possible certification as a Leonard Energy Trainer. Leonard Energy Training (LET) is a comprehensive practice inspired by the Eastern art of aikido and Western psychology. LET teaches alternative ways of dealing with daily life problems and offers the possibility of high-level functioning appropriate to the ideal of the modern peaceful warrior.

In addition to learning how to present LET exercises, the participants in this course will receive training in movement (aikido and aikisword), meditation forms, written and oral communication skills, emotional and spiritual experiences, and state of the art fitness work. The fitness training will be graduated to individual levels of readiness and will be comprehensive and holistic. Exercise and nutrition, as well as mental training, will be included.

This program differs from the usual campus model of education. At times, the atmosphere might seem to resemble that of the training schools of the Japanese samurai. Training days will run up to sixteen hours in length and will weave together mental, physical, psychological, and spiritual training. Throughout, the program emphasizes personal authority, integrity, paying attention, taking calculated risks, and being patient and disciplined. Success requires unusually high dedication and commitment.

The number of candidates is limited to a total of ten men and women. Although the eight-week program carries no guarantee of certification, experience has shown that it is a transformative experience in any case. If you complete this course, you will be qualified to lead LET workshops.

For further information, write to: Energy Training Institute, P.O. Box 609, Mill Valley, CA 94942.

Courtesy Christine Stewart Price

Friends Richard Price and Julian Silverman, then Esalen's Big Sur director, designed a project at Agnews State Hospital to study non-drug treatments of schizophrenia.

October 11–November 6
The Promethean Impulse:
Creation, Creativity, and Spirituality

Christina & Stanislav Grof

This four-week interdisciplinary educational program is designed for professionals in the fields of psychiatry, psychology, psychotherapy, anthropology, religion, art, and philosophy who are interested in the relationship between spirituality and creativity. It will cover the following thematic areas:

1. Cosmic Consciousness, Creation, and Creativity. Visiting teachers representing various spiritual traditions of the world will explore with the group the great mystical systems and their understanding of the process of creation on the universal and individual level. Special attention will be paid to the creation myths of different cultures of the world.

2. The Promethean Impulse. Prominent representatives of art and science will share with participants how they see and personally experience the relationship between spirituality and the creative process. Films, slide shows, and music will be used to mediate a personal experience of the creative domain.

3. The Healing Potential of Art. The group will examine theoretically and experientially the use of art and creative expression in the process of healing and personal transformation. The techniques used will include painting, mandala drawing, dance, sculpting, and the Jungian sandplay developed by Dora Kalff. Participants should be prepared to actively explore their own creative sources for expression throughout the month.

4. Self-Exploration and Group Process. The seminars of this series use an experimental educational format that combines didactic sessions with experiential approaches, body work, and group process. The coordinators, Esalen staff, and visiting guest faculty will assist participants in an ongoing process of self-exploration and creative expression; this will involve controlled breathing, music and sound technology, focused body work, intuition training, gestalt practice, meditation, and group ritual. $2120

October 25–November 6
Integrative Body Practice (IBP)
Professional Training Program

Jack Rosenberg & Staff

This will be a twelve-day residential training program in IBP, taught by Jack Rosenberg, Deane and Andrea Juhan (anatomy and massage), and the staff of the Rosenberg-Rand Institute in Venice, California. IBP emphasizes breathing as a vehicle for the integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit. In IBP the body is seen as the foundation for psychological and transpersonal growth. Object relations developmental theory will be integrated with body work. This workshop is for licensed professionals and graduate students in related fields.

Recommended reading: Jack Rosenberg et al., Body, Self, and Soul: Experiencing Integration (Humanics), and Total Orgasm (Bookworks).

For information write or call: Marjorie Rand, Rosenberg-Rand Institute, 1107 W. Washington Blvd., Venice, CA 90291, (213) 394-0147.

$1330

November 8–December 4
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

Eli Jaxon-Bear

This course will synthesize neurolinguistics and Ericksonian hypnosis and will draw heavily from the pioneering work being done with the Enneagram of personality and Stanislav Grof's "cartography of inner space." While satisfying the hypnosis coursework requirements for the M.F.C.C. and complying with the California state requirement for hypnosis certification, participants will go beyond what is required and explore the realms of the unknown.

While the use of hypnosis in habit control and symptom removal will be covered, a primary focus will be on hypnosis as an emerging tool of spiritual emergence/emergency. Starting with the presupposition that we already live in trance and that the goal is waking up, the roots of personality structure and the filters of perception in the creation and transformation of reality will also be carefully explored.

Clinical applications depend upon the complete pacing of the client's reality. The structure of rapport, pacing/leading, and various hypnotic patterns of induction will be demonstrated and practiced along with a variety of clinical interventions, including reframing, change history, metaphors, and storytelling.

Paul Herbert

Stan Grof, John Perry, Claudio Naranjo, Julian Silverman, and John Lilly, all pictured here (from left to right), as well as R.D. Laing, Jack Downing, Maurice Rapaport, and Dick Price, set the stage for Esalen's schizophrenia treatment center at Agnews State Hospital during a number of conferences at Esalen during the late 1960s.

The group will watch videotapes of Erickson and other leading hypnotherapists. Participants will have daily practice with each other and the opportunity to be videotaped doing a hypnotic induction. Daily zazen and Taoist yoga will also be a part of this program.

Successful completion of this course and demonstrated proficiency will lead to certification in clinical hypnosis. Additional certification by the American Council of Hypnotist Examiners will be available for an additional fee.

Courtesy U.S. Senator S.I. Hayakawa

When he led his first Big Sur seminar, Senator (then "Don") Hayakawa was a famed semanticist, a noted collector of African art, a jazz expert, and a rousing program leader. He became even better known later, of course, first as president of San Francisco State University, then as United States senator.

Required reading: J. Haley, Uncommon Therapy (Norton) and Strategies of Psychotherapy (Grune & Stratton); Bandler and Grinder, Tranceformations (Real People Press), Frogs into Princes (Real People Press), and Reframing (Real People Press); S. Grof, Realms of the Human Unconscious (Dutton) and Beyond the Brain (State Univ. of N.Y.); Chogyam Trungpa, Shambhala (Shambhala); Evans-Wentz, The Tibetan Book of the Great Liberation (Oxford Univ. Press); P.D. Ouspensky, In Search of the Miraculous (Harcourt, Brace & World); C. Castaneda, Tales of Power (Simon & Schuster); Joseph Campbell, Myths to Live By (Bantam).

C.E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see pages 10-11.

$2120

November 8–December 6
February 26–March 25, 1988
Massage Practitioner
Certification Program

Esalen Massage Practitioners

This month-long program offers, at a professional level, intensive instruction in massage practice, movement, and self-care. The emphasis will be on developing basic massage skills through daily lecture-demonstrations, "hands-on" practice sessions using each other as models, illustrated anatomy classes, and instruction in the basic principles of alignment. Meditation and gestalt awareness sessions will be scheduled regularly throughout the program for deeper, more integrative learning.

Body work will be studied as a tool for optimal well-being and stress reduction, and as a valued aid to transpersonal growth. Workshop sessions will meet Sunday through Friday and on alternate weekends. Upon satisfactory completion of the program, and after giving 30 additional recorded massage sessions, a California state-approved certificate of completion will be issued. This is a professional program, with limited admission. Please request an application form when you make your reservation.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see pages 10-11. $2300

January 24–February 5,1988
Advanced Training in
Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner

Shamanism is the most ancient system known for using the mind, heart, and spirit to heal oneself and others and to solve the problems of daily living. This two-week intensive course emphasizes the universal methods of classic, core shamanism, such as shamanic journeying, and their practical application to contemporary life. This is the most advanced training currently offered by Michael Harner in the United States or Europe.

Course prerequisite: a previous workshop with Michael Harner or an authorized faculty member of the Center for Shamanic Studies, either at Esalen or elsewhere. Such a workshop will be offered at Esalen immediately prior to this program. (See Esalen Seminars, January 22-24.)

For more information and to apply, please contact Michael Harner, Center for Shamanic Studies, P.O. Box 673 – Belden Station, Norwalk, CT 06852; (203) 454-2827. Early application is recommended.

Invitational Conferences

In its continuing commitment to the fields of education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences, Esalen regularly sponsors invitational conferences that bring together experts who share their research and common points of inquiry. As host, Esalen covers room and board expenses for participants as a way of advancing these particular studies. These are invitational conferences only and are not open to the public.

The goal of these conferences is to engender the kind of creativity that comes from the collaborative work of people with similar interests but radically different approaches. We hope that the results will include expanded research projects, new writing, and more effective plans for the education of therapists. Currently scheduled programs and conference coordinators are listed below.

September 6–11: New Directions in Biological Research and Evolutionary Theory: David Deamer

September 27–October 2: New Frontiers in Human Health: Exploration and Application of Current Findings in Behavioral-Medical Research: Dulce Murphy

October 18–23: Gazebo Symposium on Early Childhood Education in the 90s: The Rite of Play: Janet Lederman

November 8–13: Spiritual Emergency Network

November 15–20: Sino-American Forum: Science, Technology, and Social Change: James Garrison

November 29–December 4: Community-Based Alternatives to Institutional Psychiatric Treatment: Laurence Telles

December 18–20: Dialogues on Philosophy at Esalen: Jay Ogilvy

January 17–22, 1988: World's Reality: Michael Hoffman

February 7–12, 1988: Esalen Seminar on the Nature of Reality: Nick Herbert

A Somatics Study Program for Health Professionals

Judith Aston, Charles Brooks & Charlotte Selver, Leonard & Bonnie Bainbridge Cohen, Emilie Conrad-Da'oud, Robert Hall & Don Johnson (coordinator)

This description is the unexpected collaborative result of a day-long meeting among the faculty of this program.

The original title for this project (as listed in previous Esalen catalogs) has been changed from "Training Program" to "Study Program." We all agreed that our interest is not in "training", by which we understand specific techniques for accomplishing predetermined results with people. There are many institutes and schools, including our own, where such trainings are available. What interests us is exploration, in the sense articulated by Charlotte Selver, of learning in a disciplined way "to be there for what is and for what one does," where "what is and what one does" might be:

* the precise way a man with bursitis who holds his right arm close to his side also has a characteristic sinking into his left hip and feels that he is stingy with his loved ones;
* the boredom which I feel while I am touching this person's back;
* the tears that form in this woman's eyes as I move her ankle, and the slight shift in her breathing;
* the way I react to the intensity of felt emotion;
* how I hold myself when in contact with another;
* the spontaneous images and metaphors a person uses when I am moving his leg;
* the subtle new movement in the spinal tissues of a quadriplegic woman as she allows herself to sense more.

We do not think of "study" or "exploration" as unstructured inquiry, but as a highly specific learning experience. What is common to the work that each of us has developed in our individual schools and trainings is our focus on refining the most basic aspects of work with the body, including:

* one's abilities to see, touch, listen, and move;
* an understanding of the development of body image;
* an examination of movement patterns and breath;
* the impact of gravity on the personality;
* how to notice the relationships among small bodily movements, feelings, images, thoughts, and memories;
* how these various aspects of the body are related to one's emotional life and to patterns of health and sickness;
* how to discern and facilitate the most subtle, often neglected, movements in the client towards self-healing.

Courtesy Will Schutz

Will Schutz, the most prolific synthesizer of new disciplines at Esalen, did not waste time. Here he keeps abreast of current events with the passion that made his work famous.

Judith Aston and Charles Brooks make the important clarification that our project is not based on a superficial eclecticism, an overview of the common elements in all our specific methods. Rather, it will be a movement of deepening what the students already know, of realizing their unique ways of perceiving reality.

Our earlier description said: "Participants can expect to be deeply challenged to explore their own emotional, social, spiritual, and physical histories and how those histories both limit their abilities to heal and stimulate their peculiar healing genius." Robert Hall and Emilie Conrad-Da'oud articulated our shared interest in working with students "who will not complain about going slowly." Charles Brooks spoke of the subversive quality of our work, our ability to undermine fixed ideas about perceiving and working with other people.

In that vein, we discussed at some length our common project to transform attitudes about "fixing" others. Charlotte Selver articulated our purpose as "not to improve, but to be open for what is." We all have developed methods which are based on the assumption that the most effective healing happens in that moment of what Robert Hall calls "bare attention", at the moment when I realize that my restrictions and fears are no longer necessary, that the self is, in Emilie Conrad-Da'oud's words, "movement whose primary motion is love."

Schedule

January 8–10: Don Johnson
January 10–15: Judith Aston

May 6–8: Don Johnson
May 8–13: Robert Hall

August 19–21: Don Johnson
August 21–26: Emilie Conrad-Da'oud

November 4–6: Don Johnson
November 6–11: Bonnie Bainbridge Cohen & Leonard Cohen

February, 1989 (week to be determined): Charlotte Selver & Charles Brooks

May, 1989: We are leaving this week open to allow the students and faculty some flexibility in inviting other faculty, in pursuing more work with one of the present faculty, or doing a combination of theory (e.g., psychoneuroimmunology) with practice.

September 22–October 1, 1989: Integrative seminar with all the faculty.

During the intervals between seminars, participants will be asked to document their clinical work in whatever media seem appropriate – notebooks, recordings, videocassettes, etc. We will provide opportunities for supervisory contacts with the faculty during these intervals. By the end of the program, the faculty and students will have generated a body of clinical research from the application of the work to specific kinds of problems among the students' patients and clients. We are presently pursuing several grant possibilities to develop this research.

Twenty people will be accepted for the program from applications received before October 1, 1987. Admission is restricted to people in the helping professions – nurses, social workers, physicians, psychotherapists, physical therapists, body workers, chiropractors, etc., and registered students in these areas. Only those who commit themselves to the whole program will be admitted to the individual seminars. Those selected will be asked to confirm their enrollment with a non-refundable deposit of $500 which will be applied to the cost of the final intensive.

To apply, please write a lengthy letter describing your background and experience in your profession, and indicate why you would like to be in our program. Send it to:

Don Johnson
Antioch University
650 Pine Street
San Francisco, CA 94108

Costs of the program are based on the usual fees for a 7-day Esalen workshop, for which you may consult the catalog. Fellowships are available for members of ethnic minorities. Undergraduate, graduate, and continuing education credits are available through Antioch University.

Esalen/Lan Ting Institute China Exchange

September 30-October 19, 1987, Esalen will collaborate with Lan Ting Institute, Wu Yi Mountain Scenic Reserve District, Fujian Province, China, to offer a third annual cultural arts study group led by Chungliang Al Huang. Participants will stay primarily in a traditional Taoist retreat area in the southern China province, and faculty will focus on Chinese arts and philosophy. Approximate tour price, based on double occupancy, including air fare, and subject to change, is $3800. An optional 12-day China cities tour extension from October 17-29, is also being offered, at a cost of $1650. There will be only approximately 32 participants, so to reserve a space, please send a letter of application and a check for $350, payable to Living Tao Foundation, Box 846, Urbana, IL 61801. Inquiries for further information may be directed to the same address.

Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Esalen is now offering a California state-approved program. Upon successful completion of the two-month work scholar track, (see pages 46-47), or four-week massage practitioner workshop, and after giving 30 additional massages elsewhere, graduates will receive their certificates. Each program provides at least 130 hours of instruction, supplemented by additional study in body-mind disciplines such as

Courtesy Stuart & Sukie Miller

Stuart and Sukie Miller started Esalen's Project on Humanistic Medicine, which introduced the medical profession to alternative healing approaches before the wellness or health promotion movements had started. Stuart also edited Esalen's publishing program, which produced 17 books by Maslow, Assagioli, George Brown, and others associated with us. With Michael Murphy, they went to Russia in 1971 to investigate Soviet work with hidden human reserves.

yoga, gestalt awareness work, and movement, fulfilling the state requirement.

Gazebo Internship Program

Openings are now available at the Gazebo School for a one-to-three month intensive internship in early childhood education with an emphasis on the development of physical, cognitive, and psychosocial skills. For an application, write to Bette Dingman, Gazebo Internship Program, Esalen Institute.

Healthspring Traveling Workshops

The Esalen massage teachers and their associates have created Healthspring, an independent organization devoted to extending their work into an outreach program. The workshops offer practices to stimulate physical and spiritual health and awareness within the body and can be designed to suit the needs of individual groups. The curriculum combines such approaches as massage, meditation, dance, neo-Reichian work, creative movement, gestalt, yoga, breath enhancement, anatomy, and other health-strengthening disciplines.

Healthspring will conduct workshops at locations outside of Esalen in your hometown or city. For more information on scheduling a Healthspring group in your community, write to: Healthspring Traveling Workshops, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

WILDERNESS PROGRAMS

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop, we require the following deposit:

1-3 days	$50
4-7 days	$100
Over 8 days	$200

The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your non-refundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your deposit is forfeited.

August 29–September 11
Path of the River:
A Grand Canyon Journey

Steven Harper, Wendy Palmer & Arizona Raft Adventures Staff (AZRA)

The Grand Canyon and Colorado River provide a unique environment of dramatic variety, which is intimate and awesome, soft and demanding, yet always rewarding for those who are open to all it has to offer. On this 14-day white-water raft trip through the entire length of the Grand Canyon, participants can explore their openness to offerings of river, canyon, and natural world. The river is a teacher and primary metaphor. The group will draw from aikido, dance, energy awareness, movement, meditation, and gestalt to enhance their experience of this majestic wilderness area.

Travel will be in paddle and oar rafts. Instruction will be offered in basic aspects of river life such as paddling and minimum-impact river camping. There will be time to discuss the Canyon's ecology, geology, natural and cultural history; to hike and explore side canyons; to sit quietly and reflect. Finally, participants can integrate learnings from this trip into their lives.

River experience is not necessary, though participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity. Come ready to participate fully. The workshop begins at 7:00 AM August 29, in Flagstaff. AZRA will supply all the necessary river and rafting gear, food, and transportation between Flagstaff and the Canyon. Details and a personal equipment list will be sent upon registration. This is a unique opportunity, and space is limited.

Due to Esalen's special arrangement with AZRA, the following cancellation policy is in effect for this workshop: A $200 deposit per person will confirm your reservation. Balance is due 60 days prior to starting date. Payments are refundable if cancellation is received 60 days before the trip starting date. No refunds will be made after that time. $1490

FUTURE PROGRAMS

February 28–March 4, 1988 (Introduction)
March 4–20, 1988 (Continuation)
Continuum Movement:
An Approach to Deep Bodily Awareness

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud & Susan Harper

Participants are welcome to attend either or both segments of this workshop.

Introduction: $530
Continuation: $1550

February 28–March 18, 1988
Sustaining Integration:
Body, Self, and Soul

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse $1725

February 28–March 18, 1988
Through the Eye of the Storm:
An Intensive for Recovering Adult Children of Alcoholic, Abusive, and Dysfunctional Homes

Karen Paine-Gernee & Terry Hunt $1725

April 3–22, 1988
Spiritual/Esoteric Practice:
The Key to Intuitive and Psychic Development

Anne & Jim Armstrong $1725

April 3–29, 1988
Gestalt Practice:
A Practicum for People in the Helping Professions

Coordinated by Christine Stewart Price

For a more complete workshop description write: Gestalt Practicum, Christine Price, c/o Esalen, Big Sur, CA 93920. $1600

April 22–29, 1988
The Enneagram: A Tool for Identifying and Developing Intuition

Helen Palmer $800

BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

A

Stephen Aizenstat,
clinical director of the Human Relations Institute, has conducted dream groups throughout the U.S. and recently completed a comprehensive research project on methods of dream analysis.
p. 44

John Amodeo
is co-author of Being Intimate, which describes how Focusing leads to greater intimacy. He is a counselor and contributing editor to Yoga Journal.
p. 35

Kris Amodeo
is a counseling intern in the San Francisco Bay Area. She co-authored Being Intimate and co-leads training groups and Focusing/meditation retreats.
p. 35

Walter Truett Anderson
is author of The Upstart Spring and To Govern Evolution.
p. 25

Lewis Andrews
is a Research Fellow at the Yale Divinity School and author of To Thine Own Self Be True: The Rebirth of Values in the New Ethical Therapy.
p. 46

Anne Armstrong
has been doing transpersonal counseling for over 22 years and has trained professionals to use their own intuitive abilities.
p. 16, 28, 43, 46, 53

Jim Armstrong,
a former engineer, is a lifelong student and teacher of esoteric studies.
p. 16, 28, 43, 46, 53

Elliot Aronson,
professor of psychology at UC Santa Cruz, is the author of 14 books on interpersonal relations, including The Social Animal, The Handbook of Social Psychology, and Burnout.
p. 25, 39

Jim Asher
has been practicing cranial work since 1973. He is a Rolfing® teacher and an advanced Rolfer, certified by Ida Rolf.
p. 11, 35

Judith Aston
is the creator of Aston-Patterning, which includes teaching through movement education, joint manipulation, deep tissue work, and the design of objects which support the body.
p. 36, 51

Nancy Azara
is a sculptor, painter, and psychic consultant specializing in the creative process. She is co-founder of the New York Feminist Art Institute (NYFAI) Women's Center for Learning.
p. 14

B

John Banmen,
author and researcher, is an associate professor at the University of British Columbia. He is Deputy Minister of Corrections and Rehabilitation Services, B.C., and an AAMFT approved supervisor.
p. 20

Jamie Baraz
has taught Vipassana (insight) meditation with Joseph Goldstein, Jack Kornfield, and Stephen Levine in the U.S. and Asia. He has led San Francisco area classes and retreats since 1977.
p. 40

Frank Barron
is a research psychologist at UC Berkeley and heads the Laboratory for the Psychological Study of Lives at UC Santa Cruz.
p. 41

Darlene Louise Beaver
has conducted workshops at conferences and growth centers. Her interest is in integrating in life-enhancing ways the different modalities she studies.
p. 43

Daniel Bianchetta
practices intuitive readings, shiatsu, and deep tissue work at Esalen. He is a teacher and student of Siddha yoga.
p. 13

Stephen Book,
head of the Stephen Book Workshop in Hollywood and adjunct professor of acting at USC, served as executive director of the Spolin Theater Game Center.
p. 43

Julie Bowden,
co-author of Guide to Recovery and Genesis: A Spiritual Beginning, is a founding and current board member of the National Association for Children of Alcoholics.
p. 30

Faustin Bray
is a musician, media artist, founder of Island School, and director of Sound Photosynthesis. She specializes in inspiration using yoga, fine arts, science, and travel.
p. 41

Jessica Moore Britt
is a senior teacher of gestalt and Reichian work at Esalen. She is a member of the Ridhwan Work School, dedicated to understanding personality and essential development.
p. 10, 14, 20, 29, 47

Charles Brooks,
author of Sensory Awareness, the Rediscovery of Experiencing, has been a teacher of sensory awareness since 1963, often in conjunction with Charlotte Selver.
p. 26, 51

Daniel Brown,
chief of psychology and director of behavioral medicine at Cambridge Hospital / Harvard Medical School, is co-author of Hypnotherapy and Hypnoanalysis and Hypnosis and Behavioral Medicine.
p. 42

George Brown,
graduate program leader in Confluent Education and Organizational Leadership at UC Santa Barbara, is author of The Neurotic Behavior of Organizations.
p. 38

Judith Brown
has been a gestalt practitioner and trainer for 20 years. Her most recent book is I Only Want What's Best for You.
p. 38, 40

Wolf Buentig,
founder of Germany's first growth center, ZIST, has been a group leader for 17 years, integrating psychoanalysis, encounter, bioenergetics, gestalt, and Ericksonian hypnosis.
p. 47

Joan Buresch
is a Jungian analyst in private practice, a training analyst, and president of the Inter-Regional Society of Jungian Analysts.
p. 24

C

Paul Carter,
co-founder and director of Meta-Education and Training Arts since 1976, leads workshops in the U.S. and Europe on Ericksonian hypnosis, creativity, and learning.
p. 23, 47

Paul Herbert

Life on the edge in the sixties.
(There are guard rails now.)

Seymour Carter,
longtime gestalt teacher at Esalen and in Europe, combines studies in sensory awareness, Zen Buddhism, aikido, and other body-oriented practices.
p. 17, 26, 37, 43

Michell Cassou
is the founder of an original approach to painting designed to stimulate and unblock creativity. She is director of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 14, 29, 30

Stanford Eugene Cates
is an ordained minister, gestalt facilitator, and Trager℠ bodyworker. He has worked with Paul Rebillot in the U.S. and Europe for seven years.
p. 31, 44

Danner Christensen
has been interested in becoming a man ever since he was born in 1950.
p. 45

Jack Cirie
is a certified Leonard Energy Trainer, aikidoist, and fitness expert. He currently heads the Mind-Body-Team corporate programs for SportsMind Inc. in Seattle.
p. 16, 21, 23, 48

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud
is the founder of Continuum. Her innovative approach to movement has enhanced the creativity of artists in many fields and has led to new insights into the healing process.
p. 26, 51, 53

Stewart Cubley,
artist and scientist, is co-founder with Michell Cassou of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 14, 29, 30

D

Ralph Alan Dale,
a researcher and author, teaches health professionals and conducts certification classes in acupuncture for various state boards.
p. 11, 27

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)
is a certified Radix® teacher on Esalen's Gestalt Staff, with over 12 years of experience combining Reichian body work, vision work, movement, ritual, and meditation.
p. 20, 26, 39

Steve Donovan
has been involved with Esalen's Study of Exceptional Functioning since 1978.
p. 14

E

Gertraud Eder-Buentig
has studied gestalt, bioenergetics, hakomi, and Anna Halprin's movement work and has been a movement group leader for five years.
p. 47

Gerald Epstein,
clinical professor of psychiatry at Mount Sinai Hospital, New York, combines imagination therapy and morphology in his medical practice.
p. 42

Esalen Massage Practitioners:
Char Brenner, Oliver Bailey, Robert Helm, Peggy Horan, George King, Dianne Miller Lesty, Bill Liles, Deane Marson, Laurie Muller, Arthur Munyer, Kathleen O'Shaughnesey, Laurie Schutz, Vicki Topp, and Attila Vaas.
p. 11, 17, 20, 24, 39, 41, 43, 46, 50

F

David Feinstein,
a psychologist, is director of Innersource in Ashland, Oregon, and has taught at Antioch College and the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine.
p. 45

Neil Fiore,
a licensed psychologist practicing hypnosis, is working on the effects of stress and anxiety on performance and health.
p. 22

Jerry Fletcher
is president and founder of High Performance Dynamics, Inc., a management consulting and training company based in San Anselmo, CA.
p. 37

Kathleen Brown Fletcher
is a trainer and consultant in organizational development, working in both the profit and non-profit sectors.
p. 37

Joyce Frazee,
gestalt and dream work practitioner in Vancouver, Canada, for 14 years, has training in Jungian dream analysis, bioenergetics, and group process.
p. 26

G

Gaetana,
director and instructor of Beyond Words, an experimental movement school in San Francisco, has an extensive background in mime, theater, and hypnosis.
p. 18

Jane Gerber
is the co-founder and vice president of Oasis Midwest Training Center and founding fellow and faculty member of the Gestalt Institute of Chicago. She is an AAMFT approved supervisor.
p. 20

Mariah Fenton Gladis,
a gestalt practitioner and trainer, founded and directed the Bucks County Institute for 12 years. She is currently co-director of the Pennsylvania Gestalt Institute.
p. 11, 37

Mary Goldenson (Devarani),
a chiropractor, certified Radix® teacher and doctoral candidate in clinical psychology, is in private practice in Los Angeles.
p. 29, 34, 40, 46

Joseph Goldstein,
one of the founders and guiding teachers of the Insight Meditation Society, is the author of The Experience of Insight and co-author of Seeking the Heart of Wisdom.
p. 34

Maria Gomori
is an assistant professor in the department of psychiatry at the University of Manitoba's medical school and a lecturer at the University of Winnipeg. She is an AAMFT approved supervisor.
p. 20

Harriet Goslins
is a Feldenkrais® practitioner and an Awareness Through Movement® teacher with a background in psychosynthesis and applied kinesiology.
p. 15

Herbert Gravitz,
psychologist, is a founding and current board member of the National Association for Children of Alcoholics. He co-authored Guide to Recovery and Genesis: A Spiritual Beginning.
p. 30

Christina Grof
studied with Swami Muktananda and has a special interest in the relationship between mysticism and psychosis. She is founder of the Spiritual Emergency Network and co-author of Beyond Death.
p. 22, 48

Stanislav Grof,
a psychiatrist who has extensive experience in consciousness research with and without psychedelics, is author of Realms of the Human Unconscious, LSD Psychotherapy, and Beyond the Brain.
p. 22, 48

H

Betsy Hand
is a counselor and organizational consultant. Her background includes training in nursing, family therapy, and organizational behavior.
p. 42

Michael Harner,
an anthropologist, has practiced shamanism for 26 years and has pioneered the return of shamanism to contemporary life. His books include The Way of the Shaman.
p. 38, 39, 50

Steven Harper
teaches for Colorado Outward Bound and the National Outdoor Leadership School, coordinates Esalen Wilderness Programs, and is director of EARTHWAYS Wilderness Journeys.
p.13, 22, 53

Jane Harrington
is a certified Rolfer and Rolf movement teacher with extensive craniosacral experience. She is in private practice in Boulder, CO.
p. 11, 35

Richard Strozzi Heckler,
psychologist, has a 3rd degree black belt in aikido. He has trained such diverse groups as the Green Berets, emotionally disturbed children, Olympic athletes, and Standard Oil executives.
p. 18

Maria Lucia Holloman
has been a seminar leader since 1982, teaching in Brazil and the U.S.
p. 11, 22

Paul Horn
is a flutist, jazz musician, creator of the Inside albums, philosopher, and teacher of meditation.
p. 35

Benj Langdon

Gregory Bateson encouraged the founders during their first innkeeping stint in 1961, led a seminar announced in the first Esalen brochure, was a supportive neighbor for 25 years, inspired many seminar leaders in their own work, and finished his long, immensely productive career at Esalen in the 1980s. His influence on psychotherapy, general systems theory, communication theory, and related subjects is so pervasive we tend to take it for granted now.

Chungliang Al Huang
is a t'ai chi dancer, artist-calligrapher, and philosophical entertainer. He is founder/president of Living Tao Foundation and director of the Lan Ting Institute, Wu Yi Mountain, China.
p. 35, 36

Wade Hudson
has been a community organizer in the San Francisco Bay Area since 1962. He currently is resident manager of the Aarti Cooperative Hotel.
p. 14

Terry Hunt,
a licensed psychologist practicing bioenergetic analysis in Boston, directs a flotation tank center for amelioration of somatic and addictive disorders.
p. 36, 53

I

Richard Irons
combines traditional Western medicine with music and color to promote healing. He has worked in Papua, New Guinea and Nepal, and currently practices in Helena, Montana.
p. 19

J

Erik Jarlnaes
is a Reichian practitioner, athlete, and journalist. He uses the Danish Bodynamic approach in working with the body and emotions.
p. 19

Kathleen Thormod Carr

Joseph Campbell has inspired us since his first seminars at Esalen in the early 1960s, and at 84 he produces more electricity in his audiences than ever. In the 25 years we have known him, his ideas have spread around the world and come back to us now through scholars and scientists he has influenced and in movies such as Star Wars.

Sam Keen led his first programs at Esalen as the sixties were ending, helping to start our program of theological reflection with the National Council of Churches, developing philosophic themes implicit in our non-cognitive work, and most recently, conducting symposia on the use of propaganda to dehumanize our enemies.

Eli Jaxon-Bear,
former staff research associate in psychology at UCLA and past president of a Tibetan Buddhist meditation center, practices Ericksonian hypnosis and is a master practitioner of N.L.P.
p. 11, 24, 35, 49

Don Johnson,
author of Body and The Protean Body, is coordinator of the graduate studies program in somatic psychology and education at Antioch University in San Francisco.
p. 24, 36, 51

Deane Juhan,
a member of the Esalen massage crew since 1974, is a certified Trager℠ instructor and the author of Job's Body: A Handbook for Body Work.
p. 11, 29, 38

K

Sam Keen
is the author of 10 books, including The Passionate Life and, most recently, Faces of the Enemy.
p. 18, 36

Steven Kent
regularly conducts ritual and performance intensives and has directed over 50 theatrical productions throughout the U.S., Canada, and Europe.
p. 40

Mari Krieger
is a counselor in full-time practice. She works with individuals, couples, groups, and organizations, and teaches at John F. Kennedy University.
p. 44

Stanley Krippner,
psychologist, researcher, and director of Saybrook Institute's Center for Consciousness Studies, authored/co-authored Human Possibilities, Realms of Healing, and Dream Telepathy.
p. 45

Ron Kurtz
is the founder and director of the Hakomi Institute. He is the author of Hakomi Therapy and co-author of The Body Reveals.
p. 16, 37

L

Dub Leigh,
longtime body work practitioner, was trained and certified by his friends Ida Rolf, Moshe Feldenkrais, and Tanouye roshi.
p. 11, 30, 31

Annie Styron Leonard
is a founder of the Energy Training Institute in Mill Valley, California, and an aikido black belt.
p. 16, 17, 21, 45, 48

George Leonard,
a 3rd degree black belt in aikido and the author of numerous books, was a longtime senior editor of Look and is currently a contributing editor of Esquire.
p. 16, 17, 21, 23, 48

Margaret Livingston, director of Esalen's Study of Exceptional Functioning, is also a poet and a competitive runner.
p. 14

Francis Lu
is an assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at UCSF, with a background in transpersonal psychology, film, and hypnosis.
p. 19

Nancy Kaye Lunney,
formerly a vocal coach and accompanist for well-known entertainers, is a gestalt practitioner, director of programming at Esalen, and guest faculty at Cornell University.
p. 36

Joyce Lyke
is a practitioner of gestalt and photographer for the Esalen Catalog.
p. 47

M

Lisbeth Marcher
is the founder and developer of the Danish Bodynamic approach to working with the body and emotions.
p. 19

Rhonda Martyn,
former artistic director of the San Francisco Moving Company, is an award-winning New York choreographer/dancer on the dance faculty of Princeton University.
p. 22

Kathleen Harrison McKenna
is an artist, mother, and traveler through nature.
p. 22

Terence McKenna
authored The Invisible Landscape and Psilocybin: Magic Mushroom Grower's Guide. He studied shamanism at UC Berkeley and has lived in tropical Asia and the Amazon.
p. 22

Deborah Anne Medow,
Esalen group leader and body work practitioner since 1969, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, gestalt awareness, and related healing disciplines throughout the U.S. and Europe.
p. 31

Ailish Mellard,
holistic health practitioner and body worker for 12 years, is currently organizational consultant for Will Schutz Associates, which teaches human potential concepts for various organizations.
p. 20

Deena Metzger
has pioneered the healing aspects of myth, storytelling, and creativity. Her books include The Woman Who Slept with Men to Take the War Out of Them and Tree.
p. 40

Jane Miletich,
a longtime Big Sur resident and Esalen masseuse, is an instructor of hatha yoga, t'ai chi, and transitional cleansing diets; a student of midwifery, birth, and death; and a bearer of ritual.
p. 32

Harvey Milkman
is a professor of psychology and director of the Center for Interdisciplinary Studies in Denver. He has researched and lectured on addiction in Africa, Asia, and South America.
p. 43

Beverly Kitaen Morse
is a marriage and family counselor in private practice in Santa Monica and a senior instructor at the Rosenberg-Rand Institute for Integrative Body Psychotherapy.
p. 39, 53

Michael Murphy
is co-founder of Esalen and founder of Esalen's Study of Exceptional Functioning. He is author of Golf in the Kingdom, Jacob Atabet, The Psychic Side of Sports, and An End to Ordinary History.
p. 14

N

John Nicholas,
a graduate of the C.G. Jung Institute in Zurich, is a teacher, counselor, author, analyst, and international career management consultant.
p. 14

O

Jay Ogilvy
is the author of Many Dimensional Man. He taught philosophy at Yale and Williams and is now directing Esalen's Dialogues on Philosophy program.
p. 36

Hendrina Ophey
is a director of Acu-Mart. She combines her skills as an aesthetician in cosmetic acupuncture.
p. 27

Brita Ostrom,
a longtime Esalen massage practitioner, incorporates Trager℠ training with the personal energetic connection of the Esalen massage.
p. 16

P

Rick Paine,
psychologist, works with adult children of alcoholics and leads workshops for emerging men. He is on the faculty of The New York Open Center, Interface, and Spring Hill Institute.
p. 16, 36

Karen Paine-Gernée
leads groups for adult children of alcoholics in Cambridge, Massachusetts. She is on the faculty of Omega Institute, The New York Open Center, Interface, and Spring Hill Institute.
p. 16, 36, 53

Helen Palmer
is a practicing clairvoyant. She directs the Center for the Investigation and Training of Intuition. Her teaching utilizes personality issues as access points to psychic perception and the inner life.
p. 18, 34, 53

Wendy Palmer,
faculty member of the Center for the Investigation and Training of Intuition, 3rd degree black belt in aikido, is co-founder of the Tamalpais Aikido and International Movement Arts Center.
p. 13, 22, 53

John Perry
teaches engineering at USC and does research and development in artificial intelligence for NASA.
p. 28

Christine Stewart Price
is a teacher and ongoing student of gestalt practice and other approaches to developing awareness.
p. 10, 53

R

Ram Dass
is a psychologist and student of Eastern spiritual practices, especially those focusing on unveiling and cultivating the heart of compassion through service.
p. 22

Paul Rebillot,
a group leader at Esalen for 15 years, combines gestalt methodology with theater and ritual. He divides his time between Europe and the U.S.
p. 31, 44

Stephen Rhinesmith,
ambassador, is coordinator of President Reagan's U.S.-Soviet Exchange Initiative with responsibility for facilitating cultural, educational, and people-to-people exchanges.
p. 24

Sogyal Rinpoche,
an incarnate lama, scholar, and meditation master from Tibet, prominent in the West, is an authority on the traditional knowledge of the Tibetan Book of the Dead.
p. 11, 27

William Roll,
professor of parapsychology at West Georgia College and lay Zen monk with Dai Bosatsu Zendo, focuses on the development of methods for clinical parapsychology and spiritual awareness.
p. 13

Marion Rosen
has done body work for the past 45 years and is the founder of the Rosen Method, which she teaches through the Rosen Institute.
p. 44

Jack Rosenberg,
a psychologist and director of the Rosenberg-Rand Institute of Integrative Body Psychotherapy in Venice, CA, is the author of the new book Body, Self, and Soul.
p. 23, 39, 49, 53

Theodore Roszak
teaches history and general studies at California State University, Hayward. He is the author of The Making of a Counter Culture and The Cult of Information.
p. 25

Ilana Rubenfeld,
pioneer of 25 years in the body/mind/spirit field and originator of the Rubenfeld Synergy Method®, is a certified teacher of Alexander Technique and Feldenkrais®, and is a gestalt therapist.
p. 11, 32, 33

S

Burton Schaffner
is in private practice in Los Angeles, has taught at UCLA, USC, and Pepperdine graduate school, and does post-graduate training of counselors.
p. 43

David Schiffman,
a longtime group leader at Esalen, is involved in developing full expression of mental, physical, and spiritual states of being.
p. 16, 21, 28, 35, 36, 43, 45

Elisa Lodge Schiffman
trained in structural integration with Ida Rolf and is an advanced teacher of Rolf movement integration.
p. 13, 16, 21, 25, 28, 35, 36, 43

Will Schutz,
founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of The Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations, and author of Joy and Profound Simplicity.
p. 20, 37

Alan Schwartz,
longtime Esalen group leader, college professor, and gestaltist, recently completed his book, Life Force – Death Force: The Final Struggle for Freedom.
p. 31, 33

Charlotte Selver,
student of Elsa Gindler, introduced Sensory Awareness to the U.S. and has been closely connected with Esalen and the San Francisco Zen Center since their beginnings.
p. 26, 51

Phyllis Shankman
is a licensed counselor in private practice in West Los Angeles. She has been leading groups at Esalen for over 10 years.
p. 26, 46

Anne Nechama Simkin
trained in gestalt with Erv and Miriam Polster and Jim Simkin, and has conducted workshops internationally.
p. 24

Harry Sloan,
a 1969 Esalen resident fellow, former dentist, and playwright, worked with Roberto Assagioli, the founder of psychosynthesis, and is in private practice in San Francisco.
p. 13, 26, 44

David Smith,
consultant and author, is founder and medical director of the Haight-Ashbury Free Medical Clinics and research director of the Merrit-Peralta Chemical Dependency Institute.
p. 43

Gerald Smith
is a psychologist in Belmont, California. He is author of Hidden Meanings and Couple Therapy.
p. 42

Elliot Sobel
was the editor of New Sun Magazine and has done extensive research, as an author and performer, in the area of consciousness as it relates to the arts.
p. 29

Bob Solomon
has taught philosophy at Harvard, Princeton, Michigan, and currently, Texas. He is the author of The Passions and Love.
p. 36

Kathleen Riordan Speeth
is a psychologist interested in Bach, Rilke, Renaissance humanism, mysticism, creativity, excellence, and human evolution. She edited The Essential Psychotherapies.
p. 37

Starhawk,
author, feminist, and peace activist, teaches at several Bay Area colleges and works with the Reclaiming collective, which offers workshops and rituals in the Old Religion of the Goddess.
p. 18

Brother David Steindl-Rast,
Benedictine monk, hermit, psychologist, and author, has lectured on all five continents. He is concerned with the spiritual challenges of our time.
p. 39, 41

Elizabeth Stratton,
a psychic healer and counselor in private practice in New York City, leads workshops in self-healing, psychic self-defense, and psychic development for health professionals.
p. 32, 33

Stanley Sunderwirth
has authored more than 50 scientific articles and has been the recipient of five Fulbright Awards for biochemistry. He is co-author of Craving for Ecstasy.
p. 43

T

Luisah Teish
is a priestess of Oshun in the Afro-American Yoruba tradition. She is a storyteller, author, spiritual counselor, and teacher of African and ritual dance.
p. 24

Lawrence Telles
has a doctorate in philosophy and is senior mental health program specialist, Santa Clara County, California.
p. 11, 25

Mary Tesoro
is a certified Leonard Energy Training instructor, writer, and aikido practitioner, whose work embraces issues of human health, potential, and peak performance.
p. 31

Keith Thompson,
director of Lifeline Productions in Mill Valley, CA, conducts videotaped life history interviews with family elders. He is a writer and teller / performer of stories.
p. 14, 18, 40

Gabriele Thomson
has conducted workshops for mental health professionals in Europe, Australia, and New Zealand. She supports individuals in healing childhood traumas and furthering spiritual development.
p. 25, 39

Courtesy Paul Herbert

Paul Herbert has chronicled more Esalen seminars than all other chroniclers combined, tape-recording them since the mid-1960s and photographing many of our teachers, staff, and seminarians.

W

Brian Wallace,
musician, composer, poet, and media artist noted for creating a dramatic environment, has performed for 20 years and is director of Intuit.
p. 41

Barbara White
is a former executive director of the Association for Transpersonal Psychology and is currently a counselor and Feldenkrais® practitioner.
p. 19

Dan Williams,
a Cherokee Indian and highly decorated Vietnam veteran, is a ceremonialist in the Native American tradition.
p. 45

Z

Ruth Zapora, performance artist and teacher, regularly presents her work throughout the U.S. and Europe. She is a current recipient of a National Endowment for the Arts Choreographer's Fellowship.
p. 21

Janet Zuckerman
was an emotional release and group process teacher in residence at Esalen for 12 years. She currently has a private practice in San Francisco.
p. 13, 41, 42

Ofer Zur
is a teacher, researcher, and writer in the area of the psychology of peace and war. He is on the faculty of the California Institute of Integral Studies in San Francisco.
p. 17

THE MEDIA CENTER

Videotapes

The Esalen Media Center is offering for rental or purchase a selection of videotapes. This series consists of unedited single camera recordings of informal talks made at Esalen, along with a descriptive tape of Esalen itself.

1. Jack Kornfield, On Meditation, November, 1986. A longtime student and teacher of vipassana meditation and Buddhism discusses these traditions with reference to his own experiences as a spiritual seeker in the Orient. (121 minutes)

2. Brother David Steindl-Rast, God, Spirituality, and the Senses, November, 1984. A Benedictine monk and scholar discusses the spiritual journey and its relationship to mythology and transpersonal theory. (117 minutes)

3. Fritjof Capra, Characteristics of Systems Thinking, June, 1985. The author of The Tao of Physics and The Turning Point discusses the evolution of scientific thinking, including current views and implications. (81 minutes)

4. Stanislav Grof, The New Scientific Paradigm, June, 1985. An original member of the transpersonal psychology network and author on topics such as appropriate use of psychoactive substances, discusses his current view of consciousness. (117 minutes)

5. Rupert Sheldrake, Morphic Resonance and The New Science of Life, June, 1985. A British geneticist relates his theories on biological and psychological development and discusses some empirical tests of these theories. (108 minutes)

6. Kenneth Ring, The Near-Death Experience, June, 1985. The author of Life at Death and Heading Toward Omega discusses his research on the near-death experience and some of its implications for the future of the human race. (114 minutes)

7. Albert Hofmann, December, 1984. The discoverer of LSD talks to Stanislav Grof about his early experiences with this and other psycho-active drugs. He also discusses some of the social, political, and scientific consequences of LSD. (92 minutes)

8. Anne Armstrong and Elizabeth Stratton, December, 1984. Two longtime students, practitioners, and teachers of psychic work discuss with Nancy Knapp their practices and perspectives related to psychic counseling and healing. (56 minutes)

9. Terence McKenna, Fractal Perspectives on the Millenium, August, 1985. The author of The Invisible Landscape gives his vision of the future, centering around the evolution of human consciousness. (72 minutes)

10. Jack Rosenberg, One Hour and Twenty-Nine Minutes with Jack Rosenberg and Integrative Body Practice, September, 1985. The Venice, California, practitioner gives his view of personality development and some of the typical patterns of interaction in relationship. (89 minutes)

11. Esalen. This 18-minute videotape tells Esalen's story from its early history to the present. The visuals consist of 130 color slides featuring scenes of the Big Sur coast, Esalen's garden, grounds, and various workshops and activities.

Ordering Information

Each speaker program costs $55 to purchase, $25 to rent. The Esalen tape costs $35 to purchase, $15 to rent. To order any of these tapes, indicate: purchase or rental (one week), program # and title, format (VHS or Beta). To your subtotal, add $5 shipping and handling. California residents add 6% tax for sales only. Include your name, address, and phone number. Please address your order (with a check payable to Esalen Institute) to the Esalen Media Center.

FRIENDS OF ESALEN

We invite you to join us in our organization—the Friends of Esalen scholarship fund.

Friends of Esalen provides financial aid to people who are eager to attend our workshops but who cannot afford them.

We believe that one of our first priorities is to make our programs available on a broader basis. We have therefore decided to use membership contributions to fund such scholarships. Esalen will, in turn, match your contribution.

In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen, you will receive the Esalen Catalog for one year. We hope you feel your experience at Esalen was worth the sharing and that you will join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.

☐ I wish to become a Friend of Esalen and I enclose my check for the category marked.

☐ I wish to renew my membership in Friends of Esalen.

☐ One Year Student $15
☐ One Year Individual $25
☐ One Year Donor $50
☐ One Year Sponsor $100
☐ One Year Patron $500
(Contributions are tax-deductible)

Name _____ Student Affiliation _____

Address _____ City _____

State _____ ZIP _____ Date _____

Please mail to: Friends of Esalen, Big Sur, CA 93920.

AUDIO RECORDINGS

The Dolphin Tape Series

Dolphin tapes, in celebration with Esalen of its first 25 years, delves deep into the Big Sur Recordings file for records of these early events at Esalen and elsewhere. Here are examples of: encounter, gestalt, sensory awareness, Rolfing®, Feldenkrais®, mysticism and madness, meditation and spirituality, sexual freedom and psychedelics, free speech and protest, consciousness change and paradigm shift, new physics, new reality, new philosophy, new purpose, more humanness, health, wholeness, wellness and a gradual influence on business and society. Nearly all recordings are stereo from live events. Tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hours.

Single-tape titles are $10:

Anne Armstrong: On Being a Psychic, 1971
Gregory Bateson: Metaphors and Butterflies, 1975
David Brower: Breaking the Species Barrier, 1971
Joseph Campbell: Freud, Jung and Kundalini Yoga, 1967
Fritjof Capra: Shifting Paradigms and Social Change, 1980
Barry Commoner: Human Meaning of Environmental Crisis, 1971
Baba Ram Dass: Yoga of Daily Life, 1970
Wilson Van Dusen: The Nature of Humanness, 1971
Big Sur Drums: The Sky Children, 1968
Fadiman/Hastings: Psychedelics and Paranormal Phenomena, 1971
David Finkelstein: A New Quantum Logic, 1976
Jack Gibb: The Emergent Group, 1966
Willis Harman: New Consciousness in a New Society, 1972
S. I. Hayakawa: Fully Functioning Personality, 1964
Nick Herbert: The Physics of Ordinary Awareness, 1975
Albert Hofmann: LSD and The Nature of Reality, 1978
Aldous Huxley: Human Potentialities, 1960
Aldous Huxley: Visionary Experience, 1960
Stanley Keleman: A Philosophy of Bioenergetics, 1970
Stanley Krippner: Communes, Telepathy and Dreams, 1971
Timothy Leary: American Culture (1945-1985), 1977
George Leonard: Ecstasy and Education, 1970
John C. Lilly: The Dolphin Experience, 1969
Richard Marsh: Beyond Games, 1966
Abraham Maslow: Self-Actualization, 1966
Abraham Maslow: Psychology of Religious Awareness, 1967
Rollo May: Violence and the Daimonic, 1970
Claudio Naranjo: Dante's Way to the Stars, 1968
Brendan O'Regan: Decision Making in the Global Village, 1979
Robert Ornstein: Sufis and Teaching Stories, 1971
Humphrey Osmond: Early Psychedelic History, 1976
Fritz Perls: Gestalt Therapy and How It Works, 1967-68
Fritz Perls: Dream Theory and Demonstration, 1966
John Weir Perry: Psychosis and Transformation, 1968
James Pike: Christ as a Revolutionary Figure, 1969
Carl Rogers: The Person of Tomorrow, 1970
Carl Rogers: My Philosophy and How It Grew, 1972
Ida Rolf: Structural Integration, 1971
Virginia Satir: Family Communication and Growth, 1967
Robert Schwartz: Consciousness Evolution and Business, 1979
Will Schutz: Principles and Philosophy of Open Encounter, 1970
Charlotte Selver: An Introduction to Sensory Awareness, 1968
Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance (Bombay), 1982
Huston Smith: No Wasted Journey, 1968
Russel Targ: Parapsychology and Physics, 1972
Charles Tart: On the Paranormal, 1971
John Vasconcellos: A Humanistic Approach to Politics, 1970
Alan Watts: Divine Madness, 1968
Andrew Weil: Psychoactive Drugs through Human History, 1983
Robert Anton Wilson: The Prism Lecture (Santa Cruz), 1982

Two-tape titles are $18:

AHP Panel: (2) The Black Experience, 1969
Anderson/Roszak: (2) The Upstart Spring (Esalen), 1984
Robert Bly: (2) An Evening at Esalen, 1982
Campbell/Keen: (2) The Dark Side of the Forest, 1985
Baba Ram Dass: (2) One Man's Journey to the East, 1969
Buckminster Fuller: (2) The Critical Path (Maui), 1982
Father Bede Griffiths: (2) Convergence of Religions, 1983
Stan & Christina Grof: (2) The Holonomic Consciousness Paradigm, 1982
Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human (Boston), 1979
Timothy Leary: (2) The Power of Imprinting, 1982
Abraham Maslow: (2) The Farther Reaches of Human Nature, 1968
Ralph Metzner: (2) Varieties of Human Transformation, 1984
Joseph Chilton Pearce: (2) The Magical Child, 1975
Karl Pribram: (2) The Holographic Model Today, 1985
Carl Rogers: (2) A Weekend at Esalen, 1983
Selver/Brooks: (2) Sensory Awareness, 1980-82
Brother David Steindl-Rast: (2) Healing Starts from the Heart, 1984
Andrew Weil: (2) Interplay of Mind and Body Realities, 1982
Lynn White & Alan Watts: (2) Ecological Crisis, 1971
Watts/Grof/Silverman: (2) The Science of Madness, 1968

Four-tape titles are $36:

James Fadiman: (4) A Weekend of Stories, 1984
Roland Fischer: (4) Creative, Psychotic and Ecstatic States, 1969
R. D. Laing: (4) Sanity, Madness, Blowout Center, 1967
Jack Kornfield: (4) Buddhist Meditation and Practice, 1981
Timothy Leary: (4) A Day with Timothy Leary, 1982
Rollo May: (4) Dimensions of Consciousness, 1966
Jack Rosenberg: (4) A New Understanding of Relationships, 1982
Theodore Roszak: (4) The Unfinished Animal, 1982
Colin Wilson: (4) Human Evolution and a New Psychology, 1968

The Dolphin Vinyl Binder Tape Sets:

Carl Rogers: (6) The Basic Encounter Group, 1967	$60
Fritz Perls: (6) The Perls Encounter: A Complete Weekend, 1968	$60
Abraham Maslow: (6) The Eupsychian Ethic, 1969	$60
John C. Lilly: (6) Ego, Self and Essence, 1971	$60
Andrew Weil: (6) Integrated Consciousness and Health, 1976	$60
UCSB Symposium: (6) Entheogens: The Spiritual Psychedelics, 1983	$60
Esalen Series: (8) Physics and Consciousness, 1975-76	$72
Esalen/UCB/Tarrytown Symposium: (8) Faces of the Enemy, 1983	$72
UCB Symposium: (8) The Sixties: Its Leaders and Legacy, 1987	$72
Virginia Satir: (10) Conjoint Family Therapy, 1968	$88
Joseph Campbell: (10) The World Mythology Series, 1969	$88
Esalen Series: (12) The Value of Psychotic Experience, 1968	$98
Esalen Symposium: (12) Wilhelm Reich: His Life and Work, 1974	$98
Gregory Bateson: (12) The Informal Esalen Lectures, 1975-80	$98

Please add $2 to your complete order for handling and mailing (add $4 if you wish priority mail). California residents include 6% tax. (Institutional purchase orders please add 10% to tape cost for invoicing and deferred payment.) Allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery.

Please mail your order and your check payable to:
DOLPHIN TAPES, P.O. Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920

Advertisement: Dolphin Tapes is a private company independent of Esalen.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Esalen lies 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco, situated directly over the Pacific with the Santa Lucia Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was once the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esselen.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute – By Reservation Only.

Fees and Reservations: In order to reserve a space in any workshop, we require the following reservation fees:

Weekend:	$50	Two-week:	$200
Five-day:	$100	Three-week:	$300
Seven-day:	$150	Month-long:	$400

Fees are payable in U.S. currency only. Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks. Balance of payment is due on arrival. These fees are not refundable but, with five days' notice, may be transferred to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year of receipt. Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is canceled and we are unable to reach you.

Please mail all reservations to:

Reservations
Esalen Institute
Big Sur, CA 93920

We prefer to process reservations via the mail. However, if you are concerned about workshops being full or have any questions, you may make reservations by phone if you use your MasterCard, Visa, or American Express credit card number to charge your reservation fee.

To make a phone reservation, call (408) 667-3005 during the office hours indicated below:

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday
10 AM to 12 Noon; 1 PM to 3 PM
Wednesday 10 AM to 12 Noon
Friday 10 AM to 12 Noon; 1 PM to 5 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 5 PM

If there is no answer during our regular business hours, and the phone company confirms that our phones are out of order, please call our alternate number, (408) 372-8719, for recorded up-to-date workshop, road, and transportation information.

Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Rooms are shared by two or three workshop participants. Camping on the grounds is prohibited.

We do not want to discourage anyone from coming to Esalen because of financial reasons, so we offer the following options to help reduce the cost of attending a seminar.

Scholarships: Please see scholarship information on page 9.

Sleeping Bag Scholarships: Beginning October 2, 1987, we are offering a discounted sleeping bag rate for full-time college or university students who are enrolled for at least 12 credit hours during the time of their Esalen stay. For more information and an application, contact the Esalen office.

Bunk Bed Rooms: Bunk bed rooms are available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three other people. Please call for current rates. The number of these spaces is limited and they are reserved on a first come, first served basis.

Senior Citizens' Discounts: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $25, and $50 for a five-day workshop. Discounts are available only when you make your reservations. Please present proof of age when you register. Senior discounts are not available for Wilderness Programs or Work Scholar Programs.

Room and Board: Bed spaces not required for workshop participants are sometimes available for room and board. Accommodations are shared, and the rate is variable and subject to change. Please call for specific information. Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following day. We require that people pay in full when they make a reservation. This payment is not refundable.

Henry and Vinnie Murphy, who in 1910 bought the Big Sur land upon which Esalen stands.

John and Marie Murphy, who helped son Michael and friend Dick set up a resort and non-profit corporation in 1962.

Courtesy Michael Murphy

Without them there would be no Esalen.

Private rooms are sometimes available at an additional charge over the regular room and board rate. Special family rates are also available. Please phone the office for additional information.

Ongoing Residence Program: Offered from October through May, the Ongoing Residential Program is designed for those who would like to live for a month in the Esalen environment and participate in an intensive workshop program. The minimum stay is 26 days (or four "weeks" and three weekends). Participants must complete their stay by May 31.

Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay. Weekend workshops are available at special prices. Some programs are canceled, so second choices are advised. Many community programs are also open to residents. The cost is $2120 per 26-day period.

Seminarians as Volunteers: Seminarians in residence at Esalen are requested to contribute several hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out. A staff member will appear at your first workshop meeting to schedule volunteers.

Accreditation: Beginning in the Fall of 1987, there will be a number of opportunities for Esalen resident scholars to gain credit with Antioch University toward a bachelor's degree or toward a master's degree in somatic psychology. Many other formal educational institutions also recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Conferences at Esalen: It is now possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We schedule approximately a year in advance for large groups (up to 100). Smaller groups may be accommodated at shorter notice. Call the office, (408) 667-3013, for further information, or write to the conference coordinator.

Car Pooling: We encourage guests to carpool whenever possible. Please call Esalen 10 days to two weeks prior to your workshop for phone numbers of other guests coming from your area.

Bus Service: On Fridays and Sundays we have bus service from the Monterey Greyhound station leaving approximately at 3:45 PM and from the Monterey Airport approximately at 4:00 PM. If you plan to use this service, please inform the Esalen office at least 24 hours prior to your arrival. The $25 one-way fee is payable to the Esalen office when you check in. Return reservations may be made at that time. The only departing bus service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM.

Check-in and Meals: Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with lunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Sunday and end with lunch on Friday. Check-out time is noon of departure day. Rooms become available at 4 PM; however, guests are welcome to arrive any time after lunch.

Esalen's flourishing organic garden provides the kitchen with many of its vegetables and herbs. Our breads and pastries are baked at Esalen.

Gazebo School: Requests for child care should be sent at least one month in advance to Gazebo, c/o Esalen Institute.

Health Services: We are unable to provide medical supervision or pharmaceutical supplies. If you are on a health-care program and you plan to spend several weeks at Esalen, please arrive prepared to administer to your health-care needs.

Illegal Drugs: In accordance with state and federal laws, the possession or use of illegal drugs on Esalen grounds is strictly prohibited.

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax-deductible.

The expenses of attending Esalen, including travel, are deductible for federal income tax purposes as an educational expense if incurred to maintain or improve professional or work skills. (See Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5.)

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Do You Know Enough About Soviet–American Relations?

Surviving Together
A Journal on Soviet-American Relations

This journal provides the good news about Soviet-American relations. Its hundred pages cover exchanges, public education programs, travel, legislation and reviews of current books and materials.

The journal is a networking tool for those already in the business; it is a start-up tool for those interested in beginning a Soviet-American relationship. It has been dubbed the "Bible of Soviet-American relations."

Subscribe Now
Published 3 times a year/$24

1986 Handbook on Organizations Involved in Soviet-American Relations

This 354-page handbook is the "Yellow Pages" of Soviet-American programs.

* 230 organization profiles.

* Lists of recommended books, films, videos, guidebooks, travel organizations, Russian language study programs and Soviet journals and newspapers.

* Advice on developing exchange programs.

* Lists of U.S. and Soviet government offices, with addresses and telephone numbers.

* Names of Soviet Politburo and Secretariat members, and Soviet and American ambassadors.

* Copies of exchange agreements.

The handbook is rich in information useful to all Americans interested in the Soviet-American relationship.

$15 individuals
$25 organizations

Institute for Soviet-American Relations
1608 New Hampshire Ave., NW
Washington, D.C. 20009

ESALEN INSTITUTE RESERVATIONS

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. In completing the form, please indicate the name, address, and telephone number of each person registering and clearly indicate the title of the workshop for which each person is reserving a place. A registration fee for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (See General Information, page 64.)

(Please Print)

Name _____ Sex M ☐ F ☐

Address _____

City, State _____ ZIP _____ Occupation _____

Telephone Number: Home: Area Code ( ) _____ Work: Area Code ( ) _____

Occasionally there are unexpected situations that require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you? _____. If you can't be reached, please call us before your scheduled arrival for final confirmation. Please indicate your second choice for a workshop, in case your first choice is canceled and we are unable to reach you.

(On additional paper please repeat the above information for every person in your party making a reservation.
Mail to: Reservations, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.)

☐ Check if you want housing as a couple, shared bed ☐ Check if you want the discounted bunkbed option (see page 64) ☐ Check if you smoke

Car Pooling: We encourage guests to carpool whenever possible.
Please call Esalen 10 days to two weeks prior to your workshop for phone numbers of other guests from your area.

☐ Check if you do not want us to give out your number for the purposes of ride sharing.

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Please allow three weeks for scholarship processing. For further details, see Ways of Being at Esalen, pages 10-11.

Bus Service: I want bus service from (check one):

☐ Monterey Greyhound Bus Station at approximately 3:45 PM ☐ Monterey Airport at approximately 4:00 PM

on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays & Sundays only)

The $25 per person charge is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the bus change after you submit this reservation, please notify us. The only departing bus service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM. Esalen bus service is not available at any time other than as listed.

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

We are unable to act as a banking service for our guests. Please bring adequate funds for your stay.

Name of Person Registering	Date(s)	Leader's Name/Title of Workshop	Deposit Enclosed

Total amount enclosed: $ _____

Please make checks payable to Esalen Institute, in U.S. currency only.
Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks.

Your reservation can be charged to:

☐ MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express

Card No. _____

Expiration Date _____

Authorizing Signature _____

All workshops require nonrefundable reservation fees. See page 64. The balance of program fees becomes payable at the time of check-in.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Our activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

Steve Beck

Twenty-five years after Esalen's first seminars, this lively group carries on. The good meals, handsome grounds, innovative programs, and well-functioning business are their productions.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

Esalen Institute
Big Sur
California 93920

DATED MATTER

THE ESALEN CATALOG

JANUARY–JUNE 1988

CONTENTS

Volume XXVII, Number 1

Audio Recordings 39
Biographical Information 40-45
Conferences at Esalen 47
Esalen Seminars 8-31
Experiencing Esalen 6
Friends of Esalen 38
Future Programs 35
General Information 47
Gestalt Practice 6
Media Center 38
Medical Programs 37
Notes 4-5
Reservations Form 46
Scholarship Information 6-7
Special Programs 32-35
Ways of Being at Esalen 6-7
Wilderness Programs 37
Work Study Program and Application 35-36

Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920

Phone (408) 667-3000

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday
& Saturday 10 AM to 12 Noon; 1 PM to 3 PM
Wednesday 10 AM to 12 Noon
Friday 10 AM to 12 Noon; 1 PM to 5 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 5 PM

Catalog Editor: Susan Stone
Graphic Design: Barbara Adamson
Photographic Coordination: Joyce Lyke

Consulting Editor: Nancy Kaye Lunney
Administrative Liaison: Patricia LeWine
Editorial Review: George Leonard

Cover Photograph: Cynthia Johnson Bianchetta

Esalen Board of Trustees:

Mark Dayton
Steve Donovan
Jack Downing
Victoria Elliot
Stanislav Grof
Bokara Legendre
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Michael Murphy
Christine Stewart Price
Marius Robinson
William Sechrest
Jeremy Tarcher

©1988 Esalen Institute
All Rights Reserved.

The Esalen Catalog is published tri-annually by the Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920. Subscription cost for one year is $12 for the United States, $14 for Canada and Mexico, $18 for Europe and South America, and $20 for all other countries. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available upon request.

Kathleen Thormod Carr

ESALEN NOTES

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS IN ESALEN INSTITUTE'S SOVIET-AMERICAN EXCHANGE PROGRAM

DIALOGUES ON SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC TRANSFORMATION

Dialogues with the Soviet Union

This project will bring together sociologists, futurists, science fiction writers, economists, and commentators from the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. to set up a permanent cultural-scientific exchange. It began last year, when program staff members Jim Garrison and Dulce Murphy, along with board member Harriet Crosby and authors Patricia Aburdene, John Naisbitt, and Jay Ogilvy, went to Moscow for a series of meetings with Soviet counterparts. Among the Soviets they met were academician Abel Aganbegyan, Gorbachev's chief economic advisor; Fyodor Burlotsky, aide and speechwriter to General Secretary Krushchev, who currently serves as a political observer to the Literaturnaya Gazeta; and Ivan Frolov, former editor-in-chief of Kommunist, the leading theoretical journal of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union who has recently been promoted to personal aide to Gorbachev. These individuals will be contributing to a collaborative book entitled Superpowers in Transition: U.S.A. and U.S.S.R. on the Threshold of the Twenty-First Century. This winter the Dialogues Project will host academician Aganbegyan for a three-week visit. In addition to working on our joint book, he will also meet with leading economists and innovative business people to begin planning for a "Business Summit" to take place in the next twelve months.

Dialogues with China

This project began when Jim Garrison and Marshall Fitzgerald, founder and former chairman of the board of Stanford Telecommunications, went to Beijing last year and met with numerous economists and social planners. A delegation of Chinese social planners was invited to attend the invitational conference Science, Technology, and Social Change, held at Esalen Institute in November 1987, to discuss social transformation and international security. The Chinese delegation included experts from the fields of science and technology, the social sciences, planning, and education. They spent four days in the San Francisco Bay Area meeting business people in Silicon Valley and elsewhere before participating in the five-day conference.

WRITERS' EXCHANGE

In July 1986, a delegation of eminent Soviet writers came to the United States at the invitation of the Exchange Program. They attended an invitational conference at Esalen which culminated in the signing of an agreement with the U.S.S.R. Union of Writers for joint publishing projects and long-term reciprocal exchanges of writers. As the first step in implementing that agreement, Vladimir Karpov, the newly appointed First Secretary of the U.S.S.R. Union of Writers, is coming to the United States this January as our guest. Accompanying Secretary Karpov will be Tatian Tolstaya, a popular short story writer whose first collection will be published in the United States in 1988; Vycheslav Kuprianov, a poet whose works have been translated into several languages; and Viktor Rosov, a prominent playwright whose plays have been performed in New York, Washington, and San Francisco. Karpov's visit presents a unique opportunity for us to work with a new generation of Soviet writers. While Karpov is in the United States, we will work with his delegation on a collection of short stories about daily life, provisionally entitled Perspectives: Postwar Soviet and American Authors Look at Life in the '80s.

HEALTH PROMOTION PROJECT

In February 1986, the Health Promotion Project signed a memorandum of agreement with the U.S.S.R. Ministry of Health, which calls for long-term collaboration in psychoneuroendocrinology (the study of hormones and their effects on psychological and physiological health), health promotion, alternative treatments of addiction, and behavioral medicine. After Dr. Aron Belkin (head of the National Center for Psychoneuroendocrinology Research under the U.S.S.R. Ministry of Health) visited the United States in December 1986, plans were made for the invitational conference which was held at Esalen in September 1987, entitled New Frontiers in Human Health: Exploration and Application of Recent Findings in Behavioral-Medical Research. The conference brought together Soviet and American experts from each of the fields covered in the memorandum for five days of intensive discussion. The Soviets will host a reciprocal conference in Suzdal, U.S.S.R., in 1988 to assemble a select group of health professionals from both countries to continue long-term collaboration.

In addition to its work with the U.S.S.R. Ministry of Health, Esalen has been working with the World Health Organization (WHO). The European headquarters of WHO has asked the Exchange Program to sign an agreement to develop and ensure Soviet participation in projects related to psychology, behavioral medicine, and health promotion.

ESALEN-ANTIOCH STUDY PROGRAMS

There continue to be several opportunities for residents and work scholars to gain academic credit from Antioch University for past and present studies at Esalen. In keeping with its long tradition of honoring the academic value of study with outstanding teachers outside the university, Antioch has developed an accredited system whereby a person working with a tutor documents his or her learning experience and designs an individualized program of courses for degree completion.

In addition to individualized programs, Esalen and Antioch have designed an eight-week intensive for new graduate students in Antioch's somatic psychology program, first held in Fall 1987, as well as a two-year somatics study program for health professionals, beginning January 1988. Teachers participating in this program include: Judith Aston, Bonnie Bainbridge Cohen, Emilie Conrad-Da'oud, Robert Hall, Don Johnson, Charlotte Selver, and Charles Brooks. Although enrollment in the current two-year program is now closed, inquiries about future programs may be addressed to:

Admissions Office
Antioch University
650 Pine Street
San Francisco, CA 94108

INVITATIONAL CONFERENCES

In its continuing commitment to the fields of education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences, Esalen regularly sponsors invitational conferences that bring together experts who share their research and common points of inquiry. As host, Esalen covers room and board expenses for participants as a way of advancing these particular studies. These are invitational conferences only and are not open to the public.

The goal of these conferences is to engender the kind of creativity that comes from the collaborative work of people with similar interests but radically different approaches. We hope that the results will include expanded research projects, new writing, and more effective plans for the education of therapists. Currently scheduled programs and their conveners are listed below.

January 17–22: Cultures Around the World: Michael Hoffman

February 7–12: Esalen Seminar on the Nature of Reality: Nick Herbert

March 20–25: Citizen Diplomacy: Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program and Institute for Soviet-American Relations

March 27–April 1: Holonomic Processes in Social Systems: Karl Pribram

March 27–April 1: Living in the Imagination: Terence McKenna & Lewis Carlino

April 24–29: Appropriate Governance: Donald Michael

May 15–20: Shamanism and Shamanic Counseling – New Developments: Michael Harner

June 5–10: Invitational Conference on the Body: Don Johnson

June 12–17: Dialogues on Philosophy at Esalen: Jay Ogilvy

June 19–24: Esalen Conference for Practicing Intuitives: Helen Palmer

June 26–July 1: Issues in Psycho-Physical Research: Stephen Schwartz

WAYS OF BEING AT ESALEN

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from a visit to the hot springs on a week night to a long-term stay as a student or resident. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the various methods of personal growth and self-exploration that are available here. The Experiencing Esalen workshops, although not a prerequisite to taking any of the scheduled seminars, offer an introduction to practices such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, and meditation. From such a sampling, participants can then choose those approaches they are most attracted to and pursue them in subsequent seminars.

Another way of being at Esalen, which allows a much greater involvement with the place and its community at a lower expense, is the Work Study Program, described more fully elsewhere in this section and on pages 35-36. For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more, there is an ongoing residence program. Other long-term programs include the "month-longs," which frequently involve didactic seminars or professional trainings as well as experiential workshops.

Some courses offer continuing education credit to nurses (see Medical Programs, page 37, for current C.E. listings), and academic credit toward a bachelor's or master's degree will be offered to Esalen resident scholars through the new Esalen-Antioch somatics program.

Occasionally, when beds aren't needed for seminarians, room and board is available. This gives visitors the opportunity to enjoy the grounds, the baths, massage, and good food without participating in a workshop. See page 7 for more information.

In addition, there are other events which enrich life at Esalen. There are frequent forums in which writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights, there may be lectures, films, dance performances, choirs, or other forms of entertainment. Body work of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners. Private sessions are also available for various types of process work, including gestalt, neo-Reichian emotional release, vision improvement, singing gestalt, etc. Finally, there is a community workshop program which goes on daily and provides many opportunities for engaging in personal self-exploration or learning new approaches to human growth.

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff
Coordinated by Jessica Moore Britt

These workshops are designed for people who have not previously been to Esalen. Their emphasis is on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for the individual participant. These may include: sensory awareness, gestalt practice, group process, guided fantasy, meditation, massage. There is also time to explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Bantam).

Schedule:

January 24–29	$530
February 12–14	$270
February 28–March 4	$530
March 11–13	$270
April 3–8	$530
May 6–8	$270
June 5–10	$530
June 24–26	$270

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff
Coordinated by Christine Stewart Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear –
And when used – is inexhaustible.
– Lao Tzu

Gestalt is as old as the world.
– Fritz Perls

Gestalt practice is a form – nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental – evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. This form is similar to some Reichian work as well, in that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged.

The emphasis is *intra*personal rather than *inter*personal. It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment.

Although open seat work is the primary form of this practice, guided fantasy, breath meditations, and movement sessions may be included.

Each gestalt practice group will have a member of the Esalen gestalt staff as its primary leader. The name of this leader will be listed in the office three weeks in advance of the workshop. Please call if you want this information. Other leaders may be involved in some sessions.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim and In and Out the Garbage Pail; John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics, Ltd.).

Schedule:

January 24–29	$530
March 13–18	$530
April 3–29	$1600
May 22–27	$530

Scholarship Information

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Allow at least three weeks for processing as we have many applications. If your application is approved, please make a reservation as soon as possible after receiving notice. Scholarship recipients may be asked to bring a sleeping bag to use during peak attendance periods. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

In addition to scholarships, we offer the following options to help reduce the cost of attending a seminar.

Student Sleeping Bag Scholarships: We are now offering a discounted sleeping bag rate for full-time college or university students who are enrolled for at least 12 credit hours during the time of their Esalen stay. For more information and an application, contact the Esalen office.

Bunk Bed Rooms: Bunk bed rooms are available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three other people. Please call for current rates. The number of these spaces is limited and they are reserved on a first come, first served basis.

Senior Citizens' Discounts: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $25, and $50 for a five-day workshop. Discounts are available only when you make your reservations. Please present proof of age when you register. Senior discounts are not available for Wilderness Programs or Work Scholar Programs.

Room and Board: Bed spaces not required for workshop participants are sometimes available for room and board. Accommodations are shared, and the rate is variable and subject to change. Please call for specific information. Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following day. We require that people pay in full when they make a reservation. This payment is not refundable.

Private rooms are sometimes available at an additional charge over the regular room and board rate. Special family rates are also available. Please phone the office for additional information.

Ongoing Residence Program: Offered from mid-September through mid-June, this 26-day program (beginning on a Sunday) is designed for those who would like to live for a month in the Esalen environment and participate in a series of intensive workshops.

Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay. Weekend workshops are available at special prices. Some programs are canceled, so second choices are advised. Many community programs are also open to residents. The cost is $2120 per 26-day period, and participants must complete their stay by mid-June.

Bunk Bed Residence—A Study Work Program: This program is similar to the Ongoing Residence Program (see above), except that participants will sleep in bunk beds in dormitory style rooms and will be expected to work 12 hours per week where needed. The same workshop offerings and date limitations apply to this program. Cost is $1600 per 26-day period.

Joyce Lyke

The Big Sur Wilderness Journey makes its final trek into the Tassajara Zen Mountain Center after six days on the trail.

Work Study Program

The Work Study Program is an intensive work-oriented program for individuals who want to make a directed, personal commitment to self-exploration and growth and a contribution to the Esalen community. Participants can enroll in the general interest track, which gives an overview of several disciplines, or choose a more specific course of study from the focused track, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage.

Information regarding special interest sections may be obtained by writing Bette Dingman, c/o Esalen. For a full description of the Work Study Program, please turn to pages 35-36.

Medical Programs

Some programs offered at Esalen qualify for continuing education credit with the California Board of Registered Nursing. For current C.E. listings, see page 37.

ESALEN SEMINARS

Weekend of January 1–3

New Year's Renewal at Esalen

This will be a weekend for people to come and renew themselves in the tranquil and beautiful setting of Esalen. It will not be a structured program, although several ongoing classes in the various practices offered here will be available for guests to choose from. These may include: sessions in gestalt, movement, meditation, massage, day hikes, singing gestalt, aerobics, stretching, and yoga. The swimming pool and natural hot baths will be available as usual.

The food will be specially prepared, with an emphasis on a clean, healthy diet of fresh vegetables and grains. Much of the produce is picked daily from Esalen's own organic garden and farm.

The north side of the property will be reserved for silence in keeping with Joseph Goldstein's Vipassana Insight Meditation retreat.

Come and enjoy a weekend of inner reflection, physical movement, and personal renewal as the new year begins. $250

Vipassana Insight Meditation

Joseph Goldstein

Vipassana Insight Meditation is the basic meditation practice of the Buddha's teaching. It is a simple and direct investigation of the mind and body through the development of moment-to-moment concentrated awareness. As insight into the changing nature of phenomena deepens through personal meditative experience, one begins to accept with increasing balance and equanimity what the ancient Chinese called "the ten thousand joys and sorrows." This acceptance of the full range of life experience leads, in turn, to a more profound understanding of who we are, of the nature of suffering in ourselves and others, and of the possibility of genuine freedom in our lives.

This weekend of intensive meditation will provide a systematic introduction to the methods of practice for the beginning student and will help deepen the practice of those who are more experienced. It will include a full daily schedule of silent sitting and walking meditation. There will be daily instruction, evening talks, and small group discussions. Much of the weekend will be spent in silence, including during meals, which will be brought to the Big House so participants can preserve the retreat setting.

Note: In keeping with the Buddhist philosophy of service, Esalen and Joseph Goldstein have agreed to reduce their fees for this retreat. There will also be a limited number of sleeping bag scholarships: those participants will be charged $50 for the weekend. People interested in scholarships should write to the Esalen office for an application before signing up for the workshop. $250

Week of January 3–8

Intuition Practice

Helen Palmer

This seminar teaches the identification of personal intuition systems that can be accessed through internal focusing practices, or that may already be operating in unrecognized ways. These practices develop the ability to discriminate between personal thoughts, fantasies projected from personal thinking, and impressions received from situations outside the personal self. The psychic aspect of intuition rests on the ability to shift attention from the self to impressions perceived from outside the self. $530

A Week with Paul Horn & Chungliang Al Huang

Paul Horn and Chungliang Al Huang will celebrate and share with us their joyous collaboration in nature, music, dance, t'ai chi, jazz, improvisation, meditation, and world travel experiences.

Recommended reading: Chungliang Al Huang, Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (Dutton; Tao Wetter-Sphinx Verlag, Basel) and Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Celestial Arts); Alan Watts with Chungliang Al Huang, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon).

Recommended listening: Paul Horn, Inside, Heart to Heart, The Magic of Findhorn, Jupiter 8, China, Travellers; Windham Hill, Collections. $560

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Beliefs, fears, and emotions from the past can continue into present relationships and interfere with spontaneous feelings of trust, love, and joy. The goal of this workshop is to experience and let go of these defenses and to help create new ways to relate – in the moment – to ourselves, to our work, and to those we love.

The workshop includes periods of intense body work for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which are reflected in the body as armor and tension. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released, and positive feelings can be experienced more fully. By also using dream work, massage, dance, and group process, a new capacity for loving can emerge. $530

Craniosacral System: Basic Workshop

Jim Asher & Jane Harrington

This workshop will offer an opportunity to learn and practice gentle yet powerful skills to bring the craniosacral system into balance. The class will combine lectures and slides on functional anatomy of the membrane system and cerebrospinal fluid movement. There will be hands-on demonstrations of a variety of methods for tapping into bone and membrane motion, rhythm, amplitude quality, restriction, and interference. Demonstrations will be followed by supervised practice. Time will also be spent evoking and developing palpatory sensitivity and fine-tuning the quality of touch.

This workshop is for people with a strong interest in developing hands-on skills and for those already practicing body work or counseling. Much of the focus will be on the head, jaw, neck, pelvis, and diaphragm systems. Cranial work can be effective in shifting emotional holding patterns and draining accumulated stresses in the nervous system.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 37. $530

The Buddha, The Goddess, and N.L.P.

Eli Jaxon-Bear

The Buddha is a model for compassionate emptiness, and the Goddess, as Earth Mother and Protector, is a model for passionate involvement in form. Neurolinguistic Programming, (N.L.P.), is a structure for understanding, modeling, and changing human behavior and consciousness.

Participants will use sitting, standing, and moving meditation from both the Zen and Tibetan Buddhist traditions as well as Buddhist psychology for modeling the perfected states: the Buddha and the Goddess already within us. This will include mantra and visualization as well as zazen and deep conscious stretching.

N.L.P. is an open-ended system for modeling human reality and for clearing the obscurations to our perfection. It can be used for leaving behind old baggage and focusing or polishing the filters of perception.

N.L.P. has been successfully used to model great healers, or counselors such as Milton Erickson, and leaders in sports and business. Set in the context of Buddhist psychology and practice, N.L.P. offers the choice to utilize gracefully the core issues of life as ally and teacher.

Recommended reading: Chogyam Trungpa, Shambhala (Shambhala); W. Evans-Wentz, Tibetan Book of the Great Liberation; Bandler and Grinder, Frogs Into Princes (Real People Press); M. Zimmer Bradley, Mists of Avalon (Knopf); Starhawk, Dreaming the Dark (Beacon Press). $530

Weekend of January 8–10

A Weekend with Paul Horn & Chungliang Al Huang

For workshop description see January 3-8. $300

Focusing

John & Kris Amodeo

A basic intelligence exists within each of us – a body sense that knows the direction in which one's life needs to move. By contacting this "bodily felt sense," it is possible to discover what is not yet clear about an unresolved life situation or problem. Based on Eugene Genlin's research of this innate sense, key factors in human change have been distilled and refined into a system of simple, experiential steps called "Focusing."

Focusing is a process which facilitates intimacy in primary relationships and friendships. Through learning to replace habitual self-criticisms with gentleness and caring toward the full range of one's feelings, one can glimpse the hidden wisdom contained within the subtle textures of these feelings. This can facilitate more meaningful communication.

During this weekend, the workshop leaders will present the Focusing steps and supervise participants as they work in pairs and small groups. This workshop is for those who want to use Focusing in their lives, as well as for health professionals who want to incorporate it into their work. $270

Week of January 10–15

Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (T'ai Chi Intensive)

Chungliang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

This workshop offers New Year renewal with the fundamentals of t'ai chi practice. Chungliang Al Huang will share the crystallization of his most essential learnings. He will lead participants in sunrise movement meditation, five-elements form, Chinese Qi Gong breathing, and life-force revitalization exercises with Taoist philosophical and aesthetic dialogues and discourses. Join the music, dancing, and celebration!

Recommended reading: Chungliang Al Huang, Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (Dutton) and Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Celestial Arts); Alan Watts with Chungliang Al Huang, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon). $530

Kathleen Thormod Carr

A Week with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

To make effective, creative choices requires courage, imagination, and the willingness to know one's heart and be true to the dreams that live inside it. Choosing this deeper wisdom can often involve the risk of breaking set – the choice to move against the powerful grain of old fears, habits, and the constant pressures of other people's expectations. To foster this spirit means contacting the elemental-instinctual parts of one's nature, befriending rather than suppressing or denying the sexuality and the power out of which initiative and enthusiasm spring.

In this week participants will focus on how to develop those qualities that contribute to a more adventurous, resourceful, and buoyant way of living. In an atmosphere based on warmth and humor they will explore their capacity for mutual tenderness, respect, and honesty. Traditional psychological practices such as gestalt, bioenergetics, and psychosynthesis will be used for intensive individual work, as well as non-traditional innovative approaches in body work, kinesthetic retraining, music, and guided imagery. $530

Adult Children of Alcoholic or Abusive Parents

Karen Paine-Gernée, Rick Paine & Terry Hunt

Learning the facts about growing up with alcoholism is a big relief. It is, however, just one of the steps that ACAs need to take. In order to recover from the effects of their childhoods, ACAs need to dedicate themselves to an on-going process of sharing, healing, and learning. The workshop leaders refer to the goal of recovery as "emotional sobriety," which they teach as a fourteen-point program. Participants will have the opportunity to develop some practical and personal methods of implementing long-lasting changes.

This workshop is for beginners or individuals who have already begun an exploration of ACA issues. It offers the opportunity to confront and heal painful childhood emotions, to examine and restructure deeply held beliefs, to learn some basic tools for taking care of oneself, to make strides in letting go of control and developing a sense of trust, and to foster a relationship with one's own spirituality.

Special attention will be paid to learning how to nurture and sustain satisfying and equal intimate relationships. Intimacy between independent adults requires being able to tolerate the ambiguity and sense of "not knowing" that was so terrifying as children in chaotic homes. Emotional sobriety means having a personal sense of balance and physical boundaries from which to find peace and a capacity for genuine sharing and pleasure. $530

Weekend of January 15–17

The Passionate Life

Sam Keen, Jay Ogilvy & Bob Solomon

Three philosophers will explore ways that passions and emotions play a role in defining the meanings of our lives. Bob Solomon's books, The Passions and Love, and Sam Keen's The Passionate Life, stretch the envelope of philosophy beyond its traditional restriction to disembodied ideas. This workshop will serve as both a progress report and, with participants' help, as a research tool in Esalen's Dialogues on Philosophy program. $270

A Weekend with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Shiffman

The purpose of this workshop is to create a more positive and open-ended self-concept. Through the use of structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role-playing, fantasy, and group process methods, participants can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis is on searching out unique personality strengths, individual capacities, and latent powers as a means of achieving productive functioning. $270

Singing Gestalt

Nancy Kaye Lunney

Singing gestalt is singing about yourself, who you are, what you feel, who you'd like to be. Singing gestalt is about being yourself in front of other people without judging how well you sing. Singing gestalt is not about performance. It is about feeling and expressing.

If the idea of getting up and singing in front of other people terrifies you more than anything you can think of, this workshop is for you. If you love to sing in front of other people and want to stretch yourself further, this workshop is for you. If you've been too shy to try, this is your chance.

Some guided imagery and gestalt may be used. Accompaniment and lots of music are provided. Video feedback may be incorporated. But the workshop is really about you – singing. $270

A Workshop for ACAs and their Partners

Karen Paine-Gernée, Rick Paine & Terry Hunt

Being in a couple is a challenge, especially when one or both partners are suffering from the fear and distrust that come from having grown up with alcoholism and abuse. The workshop leaders have spent 10 years working on the issues that emerge for adult children of alcoholics (ACAs) and their partners in intimate relationships. Although the difficulties in the relationship cannot be attributed solely to the ACA, alerting both partners to the dynamics inherent in growing up with alcoholism and abuse does allow the couple to see the process of their relationship from a new and mutually agreed upon perspective.

A lot of the mystery clears up when the couple becomes aware of the results of: enabling, blaming, believing one's own assumption, and feeling responsible for it all. The ACA learns that this partner is not his or her drunken parent, and the non-ACA learns to take less personally the fear and anger that the ACA displays.

This workshop is intended for couples in which one or both partners have grown up with alcoholic or abusive parents. $270

Achieving Sustained High Performance

Jerry Fletcher & Kathleen Brown Fletcher

Everyone has had the experience of suddenly doing something much better than expected, yet until recently little has been understood about these high performance experiences. People assumed such times were lucky accidents. More significantly, even if they could perform at a high level for short times, they have assumed there was no way to sustain such performance without stress, fatigue, and eventual burnout.

After more than six years of careful research and testing, it is clear that these times of exceptional performance are not capricious. Each individual has a unique set of conditions under which he or she performs surprisingly well. Furthermore, once people learn their personal high performance patterns, they can deliberately create the conditions they need to sustain their own high performance behavior. They do not need to subject themselves to the strain of short peak periods of high output, followed by long recovery cycles.

This seminar presents a carefully developed process for individuals to learn what their high performance patterns are, and how to adjust the way they do things to fit the conditions under which they perform exceptionally well. This seminar is a program developed through years of work with experienced successful managers, executives, and professionals about how to go beyond competent performance in a way that can be sustained. $270

Week of January 17–22

Group Process, Principles, and Skills

Will Schutz

This will be a practicum in group process, particularly useful for those working with people, including, but not limited to, executives working with staff. Participants will have the opportunity to observe, experience, and discuss group formation and development. Issues of inclusion, control, and openness will be dealt with in action and in theory. Group leadership will be modeled and discussed. Teaching methods include encounter and brief lectures. Truth-telling and simplicity will be emphasized.

Recommended reading: Will Schutz, Elements of Encounter (Irvington), The Truth Option (Ten Speed Press), and Profound Simplicity (Learning Concepts). $530

The Hakomi Method

Ron Kurtz

Hakomi is a body-centered practice based on the principles of: mindfulness, unity, organicity, non-violence, mind-body holism. Hakomi incorporates non-doing as a major methodological principle and trusts in every individual's inner wisdom and power for self-healing.

Using the body as a rich source of information about the unconscious mind, hakomi can assist people in turning inward to those special states of consciousness where change takes place, to explore core beliefs which determine the quality of experience.

Hakomi work embraces the body-mind unity, supports the client's resistance, and encourages respect for and awareness of inner processes. This can be used by counselors, health practitioners, educators, body workers, and anyone invested in personal growth. This workshop also serves as a prerequisite for the formal hakomi certification process. $530

A Week with Seymour Carter

Everyone has unused capacities for further personal development. When these capacities are recognized and given attention, a natural force is released which, like a tide, can carry the individual to a higher level of ability and action. Fritz Perls taught how to recognize the force of avoided issues in dealing with blocked energies. When unfinished issues are confronted and assimilated, it is possible to feel potent and in charge of one's life.

In this workshop, participants can deal with these issues by examining the influence of the inner dialogue on thoughts and the nature of impasse, as well as tendencies within themselves toward psychological completion and well-being. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, Rolfing®, and aikido. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

Rolfing® is a service mark of the Rolf Institute. $530

Fighting Back from Trauma and Catastrophic Illness

Mariah Fenton Gladis

In 1981 Mariah Fenton Gladis was diagnosed with Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis, a neurological disorder commonly known as Lou Gehrig's disease. She was given a 10% chance of surviving two years. This workshop is based on her personal battle and choice to follow a path that led her back to a state of health and well-being. It is also founded on her background as a longtime gestalt practitioner.

This workshop is designed for practitioners – nurses, counselors, clergy – who work with people who are experiencing some form of threat to their well-being, whether the cause be sudden loss, illness, divorce, or the disaster of accumulated personal disappointment. It will also be appropriate for people who are recovering from trauma.

Serious illness and personal crisis exist on simultaneous physical, emotional, and spiritual levels which profoundly affect a person's reaction to the trauma. In the reaction to crisis lies the possibility for triumph. This group will identify different reactions and how to structure a program for individuals that will maximize their own potential to heal and thrive.

Fighting Back will also focus on discovering and enhancing the participant's own strengths and styles of working with people. This workshop will be experiential and didactic, using a blend of individual and group gestalt work, body work, music, and personal metaphor.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 37. $530

Weekend of January 22–24

Gestalt and Gurdjieff

Kathleen Riordan Speeth

All religious traditions stand trembling in front of the perennial questions. In their esoteric or practical form they demand that we know ourselves, uncondition ourselves, and master ourselves. How can we become impeccable? How do we find the creative balance between spontaneity and discipline, solitude and connection, responsibility and freedom, practicalities and visions?

The Gurdjieff Work synthesizes Eastern sacred technologies for the West. In this workshop participants will make contact with the heart of the teaching, self-remembering. They will study themselves in terms of the relations of essence and personality, the role of character structure, the function of negative emotions, conscious labor, and intentional suffering.

Gestalt practice provides the ideal infrastructure for self study. The group will use it as moment by moment awareness training and as an interpersonal extension of meditation.

Recommended reading: Kathleen Riordan Speeth, The Gurdjieff Work (And/Or Press; Pocket Books). $270

Anatomy for Trager℠ Students: Part I

Deane Juhan

This seminar is a continuation of the professional training for students of Trager Psychophysical Integration and Mentastics℠. Participants will examine the anatomical structures of the body, and their kinesthetic relationships, with specific reference to how these structures and relationships are handled by the Trager approach.

Class time will be divided equally between slide presentations, lectures, and discussions concerning particular areas of the body, and review and practice of those aspects of a Trager session which correspond to the areas studied. Emphasis will be on clarifying the intent of the various hand positions and movements based upon an understanding of structure, function, and motor reflex.

This workshop, Part I, covers the first half of a Trager session – the front half of the body.

Since supervised Trager table work will be an integral part of the class, a beginning Trager training is a prerequisite for this course.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 37. $270

The Paradoxical Perspective for Executive Leadership: An Introduction

Judith & George Brown

This workshop will combine an experiential approach with the exciting new theory of the paradoxical perspective for individual, group, and organizational relationships. It will include some of the latest work done at Yale, Wharton (where George Brown has served as consultant to the Department of Management), and the University of California, Santa Barbara, using reframing, multiple meanings, and paradox as a fresh approach to both maintenance and task functions for executives.

Participants will be introduced to the use of paradox as an alternative to the conventional conflict-resolution approach, to be utilized in personally and professionally productive ways. Many of the exercises are based on the principles and practices of gestalt. The workshop is intended to provide participants with a fresh way of conceptualizing organizational problems especially when working with personnel, along with an introduction to some hands-on approaches.

Ordinarily when encountering paradox, executives typically ignore or play down one aspect of a contradiction. Here, paradox will be seen as an opportunity for creative tension and providing increased alternatives for choices in the leadership role, when handled from a meta perspective. Suggestions for continuing development of this perspective after the workshop will be explored. $270

The Shamanic Journey, Power, and Healing

Michael Harner

Shamanism is an ancient human strategy for personal learning and for acting on that learning, using normally neglected or hidden potentialities of the heart, mind, and spirit. Shamanic methods can contribute to virtually any aspect of living, as they have for tens of thousands of years, and are especially useful for problem-solving, well-being, and healing.

In this experiential workshop, the participants will be introduced to some of the basic methods of the shaman (a specific type of medicine man or woman) to enter nonordinary reality to obtain knowledge, to answer personal questions, to maximize power to achieve personal goals, and to contribute to the health of oneself, others, and the Planet.

Particular emphasis will be on the classic shamanic journey, one of the visionary methods used by humankind to enter nonordinary reality and explore the hidden universe otherwise known mainly through myth and accounts of great spiritual experiences. Participants will be initiated into shamanic journeying, aided by traditional drumming and movement methods for experiencing the shamanic state of consciousness and for awakening dormant spiritual abilities and connections with nature. Practices will include comparison of discoveries made on shamanic journeys by participants and work on personal problem-solving. They will also be provided with methods for journeying to discover and study with their own individual spiritual teachers in nonordinary reality, a classic step in shamanic practice. Participants will be shown how the shamanic journey can be utilized to restore spiritual power and health, and how shamanism can be practically applied to contemporary daily life.

Participants are asked to bring rattles and drums if they have them, as well as a bandana, pen, and notebook, and to wear comfortable clothing. $270

Week of January 24–29

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 6. $530

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 6. $530

January 24–February 5

Advanced Training in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 32.

Weekend of January 29–31

Introduction to Polarity Massage

Deborah Anne Medow & Esalen Massage Practitioners

Polarity massage is a system for balancing the currents of life force which naturally flow through the body. It is a holistic approach toward healing, whereby the practitioner and recipient work with thoughts and attitudes, nutritional needs, special exercises (called polarity yoga), and the polarity massage session itself.

Participants will be instructed in the basic concepts of the polarity system as applied to the human energy field through the medium of massage. Emphasis will be on theory, polarity points and counterpoints, energy balancing methods, nutrition, and polarity yoga.

This workshop is designed for interested laypersons, professional body workers, and health care providers.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 37. $270

Discovering the Monk Within Yourself

Brother David Steindl-Rast

The archetype of the monk fascinates men and women today, even some quite unlikely candidates for life in a monastery. Why? Thomas Merton, Brother David's late fellow monk and friend, called this fascination with the monk in each of us "a perennial instinct of the human heart."

This weekend will provide opportunities to sift out romantic notions of monastic life from solid challenges; to come to understand what the monk's quest is all about; to discover how one can tap the wellsprings of monastic mindfulness in any walk of life.

Brother David, a Benedictine monk for more than thirty years, has lived in Eastern as well as Western monasteries. He will draw on a variety of traditions to explore with participants how they can discover and nurture the monk within themselves. $270

Week of January 31–February 5

Couples' Workshop

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

Most couples are reluctant to seek help in their relationships; instead, they wait, hoping that the relationship will improve. If couples approached medical help the same way they approach marriage counseling, many of them would only visit the doctor when they ought to be lining up the mortician.

Designed on a preventive model, this workshop will deal with the underlying structures and defenses in relationships before they surface as terminal problems. It will also examine the attitudes and beliefs about sexuality and how to make sex better.

Recommended reading: Jack Rosenberg, Total Orgasm and Body, Self, and Soul: Sustaining Integration. $530

Transitions

Elliot Aronson & Gabriele Thomson

Disorganization is a natural part of transition and facilitates reorganization. People are almost constantly in a state of transition – whether it be getting married, beginning a new career, becoming a parent, letting go of a relationship, or moving on to the next stage in the life cycle. These changes can be exciting and, at the same time, can evoke a loss of internal balance. The result can be loss of self-esteem, confusion about one's identity, and doubts about one's perceptions. New feelings and ideas are fragile during these periods of transition and require special nurturance.

The goal of this workshop is to gain perspective on the process of making transitions. Through guided fantasies, self-exploration, and didactic presentations, participants may develop ways of enhancing their understanding of themselves and increasing their overall effectiveness. $530

A Workshop with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

If a proper reverence for the sanctity of the earth and the diversity of its people is the secret of peace and survival, then the adventure of self-discovery stands before us as the most practical of pleasures.
– Theodore Roszak, Person/Planet

In nature, one can observe the rhythms and patterns that occur in every aspect of life – from the pulsation of the cell, to the ebb and flow of the deepest emotions, to the movement and expansion of the universe itself. In this workshop, the natural world will be the group's teacher as they explore the "inner" terrain of their physical and emotional bodies and the "outer" terrain of Esalen and Big Sur.

Participants will use Reichian gestalt awareness and breath work, sound, creative movement, and meditation to balance and transform energy blocks in the body. In addition, they will use music, dance, prayer, and ritual to express their relationship with the earth and each other.

No previous experience is needed, only a willingness to explore this adventure of spirit and discover a deepened sense of the interconnectedness that is inherent in all life-forms. Learning about our bodies, our natural instincts, and responses can lead us back to the ancient wisdom of the earth – returning us to our sacredness and wholeness.

This workshop is limited to 12 participants.

Recommended reading: Fields et al., Chop Wood, Carry Water (Tarcher); Shakti Gawain, Creative Visualization (Whatever Publishing); Peter Russell, The Global Brain (Tarcher); Ken Keyes, Jr., The Hundredth Monkey (Vision Books). $530

Weekend of February 5–7

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see January 3-8. $270

Discovering Family Patterns

Judith Brown

Change in a family is generated by a change in the family system. Participants will expore their family interaction to discern the mysteries of how they create and maintain their family system. Special attention will be paid to contact and control, and to pain and healing. Participants may attend singly or with family members. $270

Introduction to Vipassana Meditation

Jamie Baraz

Vipassana (insight) meditation practice is a systematic examination of the mind/body process through calm and focused awareness. Learning to observe experience from a place of stillness enables one to relate to life without fear or clinging. One begins to accept pleasure and pain, fear and joy, with increasing equanimity and balance. Life is seen as a constantly changing process. Insight is the deepening experience of the process itself, free of interpretation, leading to wisdom and compassion.

This seminar is designed for those who have had no previous meditation experience, as well as for those who wish to deepen their practice. Meditation instruction, the philosophy behind the practice, group discussions, and actual practice periods will be offered. Special emphasis will be placed on how to integrate vipassana practice in daily life after the workshop is over.

Recommended reading: Joseph Goldstein, The Experience of Insight (Shambhala). $270

The Eleusinian Mysteries

Deena Metzger & Steven Kent

The rites of Demeter were practiced uninterrupted in Greece for two thousand years until 396 A.D. In a single nine-day initiation, the ancients received the vision which then sustained them through their lives and their deaths. In 1980, poet, novelist, and playwright Deena Metzger and theater director Steven Kent recovered these highly secret rites of the ancient world and reenacted the Eleusinian mysteries in Greece for the first time in 1500 years.

This workshop engages the disciplines of poetry, autobiography, theater, and psychology in a mythic reenactment of personal drama which has personal, political, and spiritual applications. Though a condensed version, this workshop combines the narrative map provided by the myth of Demeter, Persephone, and Hades with the original practices themselves. It reconciles ancient and contemporary wisdom to open the door into the inner world for the mysterious life-giving confrontation with the inner gods.

No prior knowledge of the myth nor special training or skills are required. Participants should bring writing materials. The workshop also provides the opportunity for men and women to articulate and record their personal archetypal drama. $270

The Legend of the Captured Alien Corpse

Keith Thompson

In the simplest of terms, allegory says one thing and does another . . . (involving) two or more levels of meaning . . . (requiring) at least two attitudes of mind. – Angus Fletcher

Keith Thompson writes: "During the summer of 1947, when the acronym 'UFO' was just entering American lexicon, the Air Force issued a press release confirming that the 509th Bomb Group of the Eighth Air Force, Roswell (New Mexico) Army Field, had gained possession of the remnants of a crashed flying saucer. After this remarkable admission appeared in the San Francisco Chronicle, the Air Force changed its mind: the captured object was really a weather balloon and radar reflector.

"When several witnesses (including the rancher who discovered the debris) challenged this reversal, they were told by visitors claiming to be from the Air Force that they would do well not to contradict the authority of the U.S. government. Many years later, in a letter recounting the observations of government officials alleged to have viewed the retrieved materials, missile guidance expert Dr. Robert Sarbacher wrote that 'materials reported to have come from flying saucer crashes were extremely light and very tough,' and that the 'people operating these machines were also very lightweight, sufficient to withstand the tremendous acceleration and deceleration associated with their machinery,' and that the aliens were 'constructed like certain insects we have on earth.'

"This workshop presents an opportunity to explore this tale as an allegory. Can we discover embedded parallels (archetypal, mytho-poetic, moral, spiritual, or other) to the socio-political storyline of The Legend of the Captured Alien Corpse? In addition to considering the story as social realism – albeit it fantastic social realism – might we also take it as an image of our many-dimensional love/hate encounter with The Other? How does our choice of enemies and scapegoats (the U.S.S.R. as Ronald Reagan's favorite 'evil empire') reflect our images of The Alien? And what about the human shadow itself – the Inner Otherness that so irritates us precisely because it is unknown, undeveloped, and 'more than a little too dark'?

"Along the way, let's also see what's required for working with our own life stories as allegories, for making connections between two or more levels that don't seem connected, but also seem very much connected. I'll open with a rich telling of The Legend of the Captured Alien Corpse, and then, the work is ours."

Recommended reading: George Orwell, Animal Farm; Jorge Luis Borges, Ficciones (Grove); Franz Kafka, The Metamorphosis.

Suggested viewing: John Sayle's film, The Brother from Another Planet. $270

Jan Watson

Week of February 7–12

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Brita Ostrom & Esalen Massage Practitioners

Participants will be instructed in basic methods used in giving a pleasurable and beneficial full body massage. Fundamental elements of body work, such as breath awareness, grounding, movement, quality of touch, and stress reduction, will be introduced. This workshop is available to beginners as well as to those who wish to brush up on their massage skills.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 37. $530

Five Days with Janet Zuckerman

This workshop continues Esalen's tradition of interpersonal and intrapersonal work on emotional process. It is based on these premises: that unfinished business is projected into current relationships, interfering with one's ability to be in the present, and that by emotional release one may cleanse the doors of perception. $530

Exploring the Christ Experience through Poetry and Myth

Brother David Steindl-Rast

The 17th century Christian mystic Angelus Silesius asks: "If Christ were born a thousand times in Bethlehem, yet not within you, what good would that be for you?" But access to the mystery of Christ within is blocked for many by the narrow, rigid language of the pulpit and Sunday School. Still, Christian tradition offers a wealth of sources waiting to be tapped, if only we learn again the language of poetry and myth.

This workshop will give participants: time to clear up deep-seated misunderstandings so that the resentments that spring from them can be healed; a perfect setting to delight in poetry; and an opportunity to let ancient myths touch them afresh.

Brother David has helped seekers on all five continents to rediscover the Christ within. He will draw on questions and comments of workshop participants and will provide quiet periods for guided experience. A new language for ancient wisdom can lead to a new experience of timeless mysteries. $530

Dream and Realization in the Creative Process: An Exploration with Filmed Images

Frank Barron, Faustin Bray & Brian Wallace

A great film, Fellini's 8½, will be used as a common visual framework for theorizing about, and personal involvement in, the role of dreams in creativity. Participants will take it as a starting point to make a crafted videotape of a collective dream emerging from the group itself.

The workshop will begin with a viewing of Fellini's masterpiece in the imagined company of C.G. Jung, as interpreted by Frank Barron. 8½ will be seen as a cinematic enactment of Jung's theory of the creative process and of individuation. Concepts such as mask, shadow, and anima will be elucidated. After viewing 8½, the group will form a company to write, act in, direct, compose music for, and produce a videotape of a dream.

Participants are invited to bring their imagination and any real props they fancy. This may include musical and video equipment, though nothing is required.

Suggested listening: Audio tape, Fellini, Yeats, and Jung Meet at the Movies, available for $7 from Sound Photosynthesis, 533 Charles Lane, Mill Valley, CA 94941. Also contact this address for more information.

$530 (plus $20 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Weekend of February 12–14

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 6. $270

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman

For many people, feelings are something mysterious, something to keep to oneself, or something to think about. This workshop is about all the steps involved in learning to experience, respect, and honor one's feeling process in a way that can increase vitality and personal effectiveness. Participants may learn to separate feelings from thoughts, learn from their own body rhythms, learn to contact their own wisdom, and participate in the choice of expression or depression. $270

Keeping a Good Relationship Alive

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

This weekend will focus on a major theme in keeping a good relationship alive. That is: being close and vulnerable yet also free to grow as a separate person.

Participants will spend part of the time with their partners, separate from other couples, in verbal and written experience that can add to their relationship in closeness, conflict resolution, and individuality.

Limited to 10 couples. $270 per participant

Morphology

Gerald Epstein

Morphology is an ancient study of the face and body – their forms, structures, proportions, features – and their relationship to health and disease. Linchpin of Western medical tradition from ancient times to the onset of the Age of Reason, morphology assumes a new dimension in Gerald Epstein's contemporary translation of its implications for diet, exercise, and interpersonal relationships. Based on the four temperaments known as Bilious, Sanguine, Lymphatic, and Nervous, this science allows people to individualize their life activities in accord with their unique natures, as registered on their faces and in their bodies.

This seminar will focus initially on the history of morphology and the rationale for its place in modern therapeutics. The fundamentals of morphologic diagnostic understanding will then be introduced, with practical applications and demonstrations so that each practitioner will be able to put them to use immediately in any context: medically, nutritionally, psychologically, and in applied body work.

Participants will practice with, and on, each other, defining the specifics of each person's diet, exercise, body work, and overall regimen to his or her individual temperament and personality as revealed by the face and body.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 37. $270

The Path of Transformation in Psychotherapy and Meditation

Daniel Brown

This workshop is designed for psychotherapists, practitioners of meditation, and those interested in the integration of the worlds of psychotherapy and spirituality. The workshop leader will present an integrated model for the path of transformation, a model for the development of emotional experience, the sense of self and others, and reality sense. This model of normal, pathological, and optimal human development is drawn from the fields of child development, clinical psychology, and the great Eastern traditions of meditation.

This workshop will show how the path of meditation unfolds and will present a vision of optimal human development. It will also help participants learn to assess and treat different types of problems (clinical symptoms and meditation crises) which occur at various points along the overall developmental continuum. The workshop will also address how psychotherapy can be used as a way to attain some of the necessary prerequisites for spiritual development and can assist with the problems that occur for the meditation practitioner and meditation teacher. It will also show how spiritual awareness can inform one's view of psychotherapy. Various experiential exercises and meditation practices will be used along with clinical case material. The workshop will be both experiential and didactic.

Much of the material in this workshop will be drawn from Daniel Brown's experience as a clinician and teacher, and from his 17 years of practicing meditation, translating meditation texts from Sanskrit and Tibetan sources, and conducting scientific studies on deep meditation states and enlightenment on meditation masters in this country and in South Asia.

Recommended reading: Ken Wilbur, Jack Engler, and Daniel Brown, Transformations of Consciousness (Shambhala). $270

Week of February 14–19

Acting is Doing

Stephen Book

The art of acting is, like life, the art of doing. Through "doing," we remove the restrictions, both inner and outer, which suppress the spontaneity of any human being. Upon release, this spontaneity shows itself as artistic creativeness.

This experiential workshop will reveal the various forms of "doing" available to the actor. Participants will learn the basics of improvisational acting, heighten and focus energy, increase communication skills, extend powers of observation and concentration, and discover new realities. This workshop is designed for the layperson. $530

Experiencing Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

This workshop is open to anyone interested in learning to recognize, trust, and use their psi abilities. The leaders will use exercises designed to aid participants in recognizing their perceptive styles and trusting the intuitive input they normally receive. Anne Armstrong will use her tracking abilities, acquired from over twenty years in this field, to assist participants in arriving at useful, accurate data.

One of the basic objectives of the workshop is to demystify the intuitive/psychic process and encourage participants to use it in all areas of their lives – personal, professional, and spiritual. The workshop will include personal psychic scans and practice on selected cases. $530

A Workshop with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful. – Xenophon

People, like plants, need special attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what they've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness. The courage to let go of self-defeating patterns from the past, the willingness to master fresh skills and create new dreams for the future: these are the turning points that nourish and sustain human beings.

In this workshop, the participants will come together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in themselves. They will create a community whose aim is to explore and move through individual turning points in a climate of trust, goodwill, and authenticity. The program will be structured to include intensive individual work, using practices from gestalt, psychosynthesis, and bioenergetics, as well as creative movement, music, guided imagery, group rituals, and celebrations. $530

Understanding the Borderline and Narcissistic Personality

Burton Schaffner & Darlene Louise Beaver

In the last 15 to 20 years, the psychoanalytic community has published important research and theories concerning developmental issues about the borderline and narcissistic personalities. This valuable information has been directed toward the psychoanalyst working in a psychoanalytic mode. The material presented by Mahler, Masterson, Kohut, and others has far-reaching implications. It lends new understanding to developmental issues and helps clarify certain elements of personality formation as well as gives ways of working with these identifiable characteristics.

The workshop leaders will present the borderline and narcissistic personality theories in a way that will enable participants to gain a deeper understanding of themselves and others. They will clarify, simplify, and translate psychoanalytic language into concepts that can be understood by layperson and counselor alike. They will provide a functional base for the use of this material as well as supply written summaries of the work of Mahler, Masterson, and Kohut.

Participants will have the opportunity to use this material within the group setting in order to facilitate their own process and to learn how to use it in working with others.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 37. $530

Pleasure and Addiction: Causes, Consequences, and Treatments

Harvey Milkman, Stanley Sunderwirth & David Smith

Craving for ecstasy is about the compelling urge to feel wonderful. We spend much of our lives in relentless pursuit of fleeting moments of exalted delight. But the consequences of compulsive pleasure-seeking – whether through activities or use of substances – are often devastating. Whether your pleasure is meditation or mescaline, cocaine or cults, you are addicted if you cannot control when you start or stop an activity.

This interdisciplinary workshop is designed for the nonprofessional who seeks a mature understanding of what is now known about compulsive pleasure-seeking. What are the origins and symptoms of addiction? How are drug abuse and alcoholism related to other forms of problem dependency, social deviance, and mental illness? What methods of treatment and prevention have a reasonable probability of success?

Verbal information will be elucidated through artistic visual devices, thus enhancing conceptual understanding and learning retention. The workshop will feature both lecture and experiential formats designed to increase intellectual, social, and body-awareness skills.

Recommended reading: Harvey Milkman and Stanley Sunderwirth, Craving for Ecstasy: The Consciousness and Chemistry of Escape (Lexington Books). $530

Weekend of February 19–21

Weekend Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

Massage is a practical approach to stress relief and greater sensory awareness. This weekend workshop will provide instruction in basic methods used in giving a massage, with additional work on quality of touch, breath awareness, centering, and sensitive rapport between partners. $270

Sensory Awareness

Seymour Carter

Seymour Carter writes: "This workshop is based on my studies with Charlotte Selver, whose work is called Sensory Awareness. The method, meditative in its approach, explores the distinction between naturally spontaneous movement and movement which is imposed or forced. In an atmosphere of quiet attentiveness, we will explore our innate ability to respond as living organisms. Experimenting with seemingly simple activities, such as breathing, standing, walking, listening, and looking, we will learn how sensory perception can unfold when not inhibited by habits and expectations." $270

A Weekend with Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

Paul Rebillot writes: "Within each of us there lives a demon – our own personal critic – whose greatest joy comes from criticizing, denigrating, and destroying every experience we have. We're either too early or too late, too old or too young, too fat or too thin, and when we fall in love, we're never good enough.

"This demon, who commands us to be who we aren't in order to satisfy someone we can never satisfy, is the demon that we will seek to exorcise during this workshop.

"Why not take the chance of looking inside ourselves and finding the completeness of who we are, instead of trying to limit ourselves with who we think we should be and who we hope we are not? When we find the truth about ourselves, our natural response is to want and to work for the best that we can be.

"People in the helping professions who have experienced this form have found it adaptable and useful in their own work." $270

Experiencing Dream Work

Stephen Aizenstat

Dreams, as looking glass parables, provide a connection to the voices and images of the psyche. They describe imaginally the multitudes of archetypal figures within: the inner child, heroes, masculine and feminine aspects, sages, wild animals, and demons. Through listening to the healing, jolting, imaginative, and often conflicting voices of the dream, participants may discover in dream work how to use this inner resource.

This workshop will explore common dream themes, symbols, nightmares, lucid dreaming, archetypal images, and recurring dreams. It will draw upon methods of dream interpretation from the dream healing centers in ancient Greece, Jungian psychology, and systems theory, offering an approach to dream work which listens to the individual and collective psyche as well as the psyche in the world.

Participants will be shown the potential healing power of an interrelated body/mind/world approach and perhaps remember why in ancient times dreams were honored as the medicine of the soul. $270

February 19–26

Psychosynthesis Training II

Harry Sloan

This is a follow-up program only for those people who have completed the seven-day or month-long Psychosynthesis Training at Esalen or the eight-day trainings Harry Sloan has led in San Francisco and throughout the country.

The format of this follow-up will be a blend of seminars, practicum, and guide process. Guide process is a form of supervision in which the workshop leader does in-depth process work with the guide right at the moment the guide feels he or she is getting stuck, confused, or lost while doing a session with a client. The participants will be both guides and clients for each other. $800

Week of February 21–26

Owning the Shadow

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

We have seen the enemy and they is us. – Walt Kelly, Pogo

Paul Rebillot writes:: "In my work I have come to realize that one of the most important and frequently avoided themes in people's lives is the ability to own the part of ourselves we don't like, the part Jung called the shadow. As a result, we become projectors of our own disowned energy. In this workshop, we will seek to discover within ourselves the bad guy we have been projecting onto and hating in others. Hopefully, by facing and communicating with this negative self, we can discover in our shadow not the enemy but the friend and challenger to growth of the heart and consciousness." $530

Touching the Unconscious with Your Hands: Rosen Bodywork

Marion Rosen & Mari Krieger

Rosen Method Bodywork is a relaxation process induced by gentle massage. Marion Rosen says, "The function of tension is to suppress emotions or experiences which could not be handled at an earlier time. Through this gentle body work, the barriers to awareness disappear and the person has greater access to his or her inner self. This process opens the possibility of healing."

Participants will have the opportunity to learn about the body through the Rosen Method's hands-on approach to body work. In this work, the practitioner helps the participant focus on subtle changes in the breathing as a guide to what is happening in his or her inner process. The deep emotional issues which may arise from this work can then be processed through gestalt awareness with the workshop leaders. In addition to intrapsychic work, time will be set aside for interpersonal/interactive work. $530

Potential Growth and Change Using Gestalt

Anne Nechama Simkin

Gestalt practice is a noninterpretive, existentially-based system in which awareness of one's feelings in the present moment is the primary focus. Human beings are born with the innate capacity to cope with life. As we grow up, this process at times may be interrupted, curbed and/or suppressed, along with our excitement, creativity, self-expression, and self-acceptance. Most gestalt communications deal primarily with the immediate interactions of those present. Explanations, interpretations, and assumptions are discouraged. Concentrating on what is rather than on what could or should be encourages a person to take responsibility for one's own actions. By becoming aware of what is potentially nourishing and what is toxic, it is possible to learn to make choices and to achieve integration.

This workshop is for persons seeking new perspectives, growth, and change and who want to reown those aspects of their lives that are nourishing. Participants will share experiences, explore new ways of coping with ongoing situations, search for the existential messages of their dreams, and learn to communicate with each other and significant others. The content of the workshop will evolve out of the needs and wishes of the group members. $530

On Being a Man

David Schiffman, Danner Christensen & Dan Williams

Many men today have labored diligently to become softer, more receptive, and nurturing. They have sought to honor and embrace the emergence of the "feminine" principle in their own natures. For many, however, the right to celebrate and honor the so-called "masculine" aspect has become a thorny and difficult dilemma. Many qualities of maleness or masculinity have come to connote the most destructive and troublesome elements in human existence: war, environmental desecration, sexual oppression, and patriarchal abuse.

A man's sense of his own uniqueness and value is critical. During this week participants will examine those elements in their own natures which comprise the deeper dimensions of manhood, and how they might enhance the freedom to be men with simplicity, clarity, tenderness, strength, and dignity.

The workshop will explore the following questions:

* What does a man need to know and accept about his own nature to feel himself fully as a man?
* Can men come together to create an atmosphere of trust and good will, where the masculine aspects that they have in common can be honored and appreciated in the pleasure of each other's company?
* Are there ways that men can mark and celebrate the cycles that season them, their victories, and defeats? How might they reveal themselves emotionally without unnecessary shame or remorse?
* Can the "wild man" within be befriended and reliability and respectability still survive? Can fierceness and aggression be used constructively in realizing spiritual aspirations, intimate relationships, family and community concerns?

A variety of experiential processes will illuminate these and similar issues. Traditional initiation rituals and purification ceremonies using drumming, chanting, and a sweat lodge will be incorporated in this journey as well. $530

Joyce Lyke

Balinese dance performance during the Joseph Campbell and Chungliang Al Huang workshop.

Weekend of February 26–28

Experiencing Aikido

Annie Symon Leonard

To experience aikido is to feel both energized and relaxed, to be stronger and at the same time more gentle. To learn this sophisticated martial art takes many years, but some of its mysterious powers can be sampled over the course of this weekend.

Participants will practice enhancing the flow of vital energy through and around the body, relaxing under pressure, moving from the hara, or center, and extending inner force. They will be introduced to and have the chance to practice a few basic aikido moves and learn alternative, nonaggressive ways of dealing with attacks. This weekend is designed for those who simply wish to get in touch with and use their own latent powers as well as those who are planning to begin practicing a martial art. $270

Personal Mythology

Stanley Krippner & David Feinstein

Personal myths are the deep forces of the psyche that shape who we are, what we think, and what we do. Operating largely outside of conscious awareness, our personal myths nonetheless shape our journey through life, our place in society, and our relationship to the broader or spiritual context of existence.

Participants will be shown how to reach deeply into realms of unconscious mythological wisdom and to speak to the need to find the visions that nourish and inspire. Drawing upon a range of systems, including Jungian psychology, gestalt, psychosynthesis, and cognitive psychology, participants will be led through a sequence of experiences that can rework a problematic area of personal mythology. These experiences can be used again later to identify and work with other personal myths. Participants are asked to bring a notebook or personal journal and are encouraged to record their dreams prior to the workshop. $270

Ethical Discipline as a Healing Art, from Plato to the Present

Lewis Andrews

Modern science is on the verge of a transformation which may prove as important a turning point in the history of psychology and medicine as Einstein's relativity was to physics or DNA to biology. After nearly a century of refusing to acknowledge any possible connection between emotional health and traditional ethical values, increasing numbers of health practitioners are describing their patients' problems in ethical, moral, and spiritual terms. Combining historical anecdotes with group experiential exercises, one-on-one demonstrations, and a theoretical component, Lewis Andrews will outline the essence of this newly emerging "ethical approach."

In this workshop, participants will learn how modern psychology is rediscovering the common core values at the heart of all great moral traditions, how we are limited by our ignorance or misunderstanding of these values, how 20th century psychology and medicine have created the lingering and very damaging impression that ethical discipline is a form of repression (rather than liberation), how the subtle fine-tuning of our ethical attitudes can in fact radically improve our sense of well-being, how the power of our intuition is determined by the strength of our character.

Special emphasis will be placed on using ethical discipline to cope with feelings of depression, boredom, and frustration, as well as using these insights to help others.

Recommended reading: Lewis Andrews, To Thine Own Self Be True: The Rebirth of Values in the New Ethical Therapy (Doubleday). $270

February 26–March 25

Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Vicki Topp & Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 32. $2300

Week of February 28–March 4

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 6. $530

Introduction to Continuum Movement: An Approach to Deep Bodily Awareness

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud

This 5-day workshop or its equivalent is a prerequisite for taking the 16-day program (March 4-20). For workshop description see Special Programs, page 33. $530

February 28–March 18

A Workshop with Jack Rosenberg

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 32. $1725

Through the Eye of the Storm: An Intensive for Recovering Adult Children of Alcoholic, Abusive, and Dysfunctional Homes

Karen Paine-Gernee, Rick Paine & Terry Hunt

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 32. $1725

Weekend of March 4–6

Intimate Relationships: Keeping the Spark Alive

Ayala Pines

When two people are in love, it seems like the magical spark between them is going to last forever. Unfortunately, more often than not, with the dampening effects of everyday pressures and stresses, the love is eroded and eventually burns out. Burnout is not caused by major dramatic events. It is caused by a build-up of petty annoyances, minor dissatisfactions, and a gradual increase in boredom. How can this insidious process of love's erosion be prevented? How can a couple in love keep the romantic spark alive?

Participants will be encouraged to find their own romantic schemata and to rekindle the romantic images they shared at the beginning of their relationships. This workshop is recommended especially for couples committed to keeping the spark alive in their relationships and for marriage and family counselors. It may also be helpful for individuals who are trying to figure out what went wrong in a relationship that burned out. $270

March 4–20

Continuum Movement: An Approach to Deep Bodily Awareness

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud & Susan Harper

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 33. $1550

Week of March 6–11

A Look Within

Jessica Moore Britt

This will be a week for participants to attend to themselves in such a way that they begin to penetrate the layers of their conditioned patterns, allowing a truer perception and appreciation of who they are to emerge.

The focus of inquiry will be the relationship between the mind, body, and emotions and the subtle energy centers that make up, and therefore support, one's essential/spiritual nature.

The tools for exploration will be an interplay of East and West, including meditation, touch, gestalt awareness practice, Reichian breath work, and Sufi self-remembering exercises.

Recommended reading: A.H. Almaas, Diamond Heart (Diamond Books). $530

Weekend of March 11–13

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 6. $270

Week of March 13–18

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 6. $530

Weekend of March 18–20

On Becoming a Good Person: Ethical Vision/Moral Wisdom

Bill Puka & Judy Beals

This workshop is designed to restore one's faith in higher values and to nurture commitment toward being a truly good person and to living an admirable, inspiring life. It hopes to bring

Joyce Lyke

Balinese dancer

the paths of psychological growth and career success into closer alignment with moral development, personal integrity, and social commitment. The leaders and participants will evolve a "grown up" ethic that is more spiritual, self-expanding, and aesthetic than judgmental or slavish (sexist). Emphasis will be placed on moral imagination, fantasy, and experimentalism alongside deliberation and problem-solving. The group will engage in the practices of humanistic peer counseling and yoga meditation for the exemplary traits they foster and convey.

After discussing a variety of moral dilemmas, the group will go out into the Esalen community to investigate the variety of perspectives people bring to moral issues. Using the research interviews and levels developed by Kohlberg and Gilligan, participants will assess these perspectives in hopes of enhancing their own and bridging the ideological gaps between them. Research findings on how gender influences moral outlook and how one's practice can be brought in line with what one preaches will be discussed, and the great debate between caring and rights will be considered. Finally, practical steps for moving toward ideals and standing for them even in the sleaziest of settings will be offered.

Recommended reading: Carol Gilligan, In a Different Voice (Harvard University Press); Hersch, Reimer, and Paolitto, Promoting Moral Growth (Longman); Erich Fromm, The Art of Loving. $270

Moving into Awareness

Sy Kleinman

Intentions, choices, decisions – all of these are revealed and made manifest in movement. They signify and project one's personal aesthetic, one's style, one's way of behaving in the world. Awareness of these somatic actions is often dulled by the routine and order of daily life. Intuitively we know we are whole beings, but frequently we fragment ourselves in the way we conduct our lives, make decisions, move our bodies, teach our students and children, treat our friends, lovers, and acquaintances.

Awareness is the ground on which knowledge of self and others is based. It is necessary for establishing relationships between one's self and the world. Its presence is a necessary condition for judging, deciding, doubting, giving, and receiving.

This workshop will pursue, experientially and through discussion, basic concepts that were touched on in the recent Esalen invitational conference and public seminar, The Biological, Psychological, and Cultural Body: Methods of Transformation. These include: 1) Living is a state of continuous creation, and movement is a universal manifestation of this creativity; 2) Every act, every gesture, every thought, contains elements which we have come to call art; 3) Thus, every one of these acts, gestures, and thoughts may be viewed, literally, as being "artful"; 4) In this sense, we may consider ourselves functioning as artists at every moment of our lives so that living becomes an artistic enterprise.

The experiential work of this seminar will be based on the contributions of Rudolf Laban, Lulu Sweigard, and the leader's involvement in dance, sports, philosophy, and physical education. $270

Week of March 20–25

A Workshop with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

For workshop description see January 31-February 5. $530

Embrace Tiger, Ride the Dragon (T'ai Chi Intensive)

Chungliang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

Tiger and Dragon represent the yin and yang aspects of the t'ai chi life force. On this 4686th Chinese Dragon year, this workshop will concentrate on the healing aspects of t'ai chi and ch'i gong breathing exercises for health, wealth, and revitalization, with lively cross-cultural philosophical discourses.

Recommended reading: Chungliang Al Huang, Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (Dutton; Tao Wetter-Sphinx Verlag, Basel) and Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Celestial Arts); Alan Watts with Chungliang Al Huang, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon).

There may be changes in this program after press time. Please contact the Esalen office for up-to-date information. $530

Weekend of March 25–27

An 84th Birthday Celebration for Joseph Campbell with Chungliang Al Huang, Sam Keen & Friends

Due to Joseph Campbell's death, there will be changes in this program. Please contact the Esalen office for more information. $300

Week of March 27–April 1

Our Myth-Body to Live By

Joseph Campbell & Chungliang Al Huang

This annual collaboration celebrates its ninth year at Esalen, exploring the mythic dimensions in body, mind, and spirit with lively stories, music, and t'ai chi dancing.

Recommended reading: Joseph Campbell, The Mythic Image (Bantam), Myths to Live By (Bantam), The Way of the Animal Power (van der Marck), The Inner Reaches of Outer Space (van der Marck), and The Hero with a Thousand Faces (Bollingen); Chungliang Al Huang, Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (Dutton) and Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Real People Press); Alan Watts with Chungliang Al Huang, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon).

Due to Joseph Campbell's death, there will be changes in this program. Please contact the Esalen office for more information. $560

Weekend of April 1–3

Weekend Massage Intensive

Laurie Lioness Parizek & Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see February 19-21. $270

Death and Resurrection

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

This workshop offers the opportunity to confront, rather than avoid, death. On a wider scale, it explores ways to move creatively through life's many transitions, letting go of the old and welcoming the new.

We will review our lives, completing unfinished business, and practice giving up attachments to persons, things, and self-images until, surrendering all to the ultimate unknown, we are able to experience the birth of the truly new. $270

Riding the Dragon:
The Essential China

Chungliang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

This survey and introduction will offer an experience of essential Chinese cultural wealth, with t'ai chi and ch'i gong exercises, and will initiate the participant into the gate of Chinese wisdom.

Recommended reading: Chungliang Al Huang, Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (Dutton) and Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Celestial Arts); Alan Watts with Chungliang Al Huang, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon); Alasdair Clayre, The Heart of the Dragon (Houghton-Mifflin); Lin Yutang, The Importance of Living (John Day and Putnam).

There may be changes in this program after press time. Please contact the Esalen office for up-to-date information. $270

The Light in Nature

Terence McKenna
& Kathleen Harrison McKenna

The McKennas write: "Nature as both the ground of being and the transcendent dimension into which history is being dissolved will provide the focus for another in the series of ongoing get-togethers of the McKenna extended family of friends, critics, mentors, and the idly curious.

"This workshop will explore the implications of different cultural images of nature from prehistoric pagan exuberance to ascetic Christianity, thanatopic modernity, and psychedelic millenarianism. The emphasis will be on recognizing each other and sharing experiences and ideas that empower each of us to take personal command of our immediate experience and the language-composed reality that is ours alone. The power of experience, understanding, language, and imagination in the life of the emergent network of shamanic minds will be our springboard to deeper matters: nature, history, and making conscious the task of fusing current cultural chaos into the feminized psilocyberspace of true post-history." $270

Week of April 3–8

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 6. $530

A Week with Paul Rebillot
& Stanford Eugene Cates

For workshop description see February 19-21. $530

April 3–10

Painting Experience with
Michell Cassou and Stewart Cubley

It is rare for most people to use painting for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to paint purely for the process of exploration, not for the result.

The purpose of this workshop is to provide a setting to explore the self through painting – to discover in form and color a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to emotional and spiritual expression. Participants are given the support and stimulation to develop a natural way of painting based directly upon feeling.

The work takes place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, along with a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. The workshop may be of interest to persons involved in a wide variety of disciplines, including art, education, counseling, and meditative practices. No prior experience in painting is necessary.

For further information about this workshop, contact: The Painting Experience Studio, 509 Noriega Street, San Francisco, CA 94122; (415) 564-8515.

$800 (plus $30 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

April 3–22

Spiritual/Esoteric Practice:
The Key to Intuitive
and Psychic Development

Anne & Jim Armstrong

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 33. $1725

April 3–29

Gestalt Practicum for People in the Helping Professions:
A Study Work Program

Coordinated by Christine Stewart Price

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 34. $1600

Weekend of April 8–10

A Weekend with Carola Speads

This is a workshop of breathing and movement. It will acquaint participants with ways in which their bodies may respond if given a chance for general recuperation as well as ways to cope with stressful situations.

Participants will experiment with breathing and movement in a way that is continually interesting, never repetitious. As the body is never exactly in the same condition, it never reacts in exactly the same way. Approaching one's body in this manner will enable participants to apply this work in various life situations, for young or old, well or sick.

Participants are asked to bring leotards and/or loose fitting clothing. $270

Week of April 10–15

Becoming a Professional Therapist

Carl Whitaker

This will be a five-day effort to facilitate the transition from doing family therapy to being a family therapist, using symbolic experience to deprogram one's lifetime of purposeful interpersonal manipulation. $530

Reflections of Self:
A Reichian/Gestalt Workshop

Jessica Moore Britt

This will be an introduction to intensive intrapsychic inquiry using Reichian breath work and gestalt practice. Reichian breath work utilizes breath and sound to energize and deepen the process of self-awareness by softening the body's patterns of physical tension and emotional holding. Gestalt practice is an awareness approach focusing on physical sensation, image, thought, and emotion. By emphasizing a person's experience in the present moment, gestalt moves toward developing a more conscious sense of self. In a supportive group atmosphere, participants will have the opportunity to explore thoughts and feelings formed by past experiences. With this exploration, the possibility is opened to respond in the present. $530

Weekend of April 15–17

A Workshop for Couples with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

This workshop will focus on reawakening and developing positive, mutual supports that are at the root of satisfying couple relationships. The emphasis will be on creating clear and truthful expressions of loving and personal integrity. Participants will re-examine their beliefs and habits through the use of intuitional sensing, risk-taking structures, guided imagery, and gestalt awareness methods.

$270 per participant

What's So Funny? Developing Comic Perspective

Wes "Scoop" Nisker & Paul Krassner

This workshop will explore the humorous side of the tragicomedy of life, emphasizing the development and expression of the crazy wisdom in each of us. Examining traditional uses of humor, from old Sufi tales, Zen Haiku, and coyote trickster stories, to audio and videotapes of the modern satirists and comedians including Charlie Chaplin, Lenny Bruce, Laurel and Hardy, and Woody Allen, the class will aim to help participants learn not necessarily how to be funny, but how to see funny.

The group will look at humor in the news, the lighter side of the search for enlightenment, and the crazy wisdom approach to life and death. Class work will include theater and writing exercises aimed at developing a sense of humor and finding skillful ways to use the comic perspective to ease the difficult moments in life. $270

Week of April 17–22

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Brita Ostrom & Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see February 7-12.

$530

A Week with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see January 10-15.

$530

Weekend of April 22–24

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see January 3-8.

$270

The Further Reaches of Human Energy

George Leonard & Annie Styron Leonard

This workshop begins with a basic grounding in Leonard Energy Training (LET), in which problems can become opportunities, stress and pain can be transformed into gifts of energy, personal and social options can be multiplied, and the flow of vital energy enhanced. In addition to its practical applications, the workshop offers participants the possibility of experiencing their own latent powers of intuition and extraordinary sensing.

After their introduction to LET, participants move into experiments that push the limits of what are termed "normal" human capacities. Through such processes as scanning, tuning-in to others' energy, focused surrender, and remote viewing, the group is given a chance to experience a crystalline state of intense aliveness without expectation and prejudgment. As George Leonard wrote in The Ultimate Athlete, "Simply by considering possibilities commonly ignored by our culture, we find ourselves in a far more fascinating universe. We discover adventures that do not require the burning of fuel or the rape of the planet: sensing the energy field of a friend or a tree, making connections that defy conventional space and time. . . . We realize, with the sorcerer, don Juan, that our world is awesome, mysterious, and unfathomable, and that our life is filled to the brim and altogether too short."

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse (Dutton), The Ultimate Athlete (Viking), and The Transformation (Tarcher/Houghton-Mifflin). $270

April 22–29

The Enneagram: A Tool for Identifying and Developing Intuition

Helen Palmer

Helen Palmer writes: "For the past several years I have been teaching people how to develop their intuition as a reliable source of information. It has become increasingly clear that adults are especially sensitive to issues and situations that, as children, they were attracted to or needed to defend themselves against. For example, a loved child may develop the ability to merge with the wishes of others and so become highly intuitive about the means of gaining their approval. A child who has had a frightening early life can become precognitively sensitized to anger or negativity in other people. These psychic abilities, centered around the survival issues of childhood, then become an integral part of the adult personality, but the grown up child is usually not conscious of operating from anything other than intellectual information. The key idea is that each person's intuitive style seems to be closely associated with a particular set of issues that derive from early experience.

"The enneagram is a Sufi system that acts as a bridge between intellect and intuition. It has been taught for generations in the oral tradition. In its present form, it uses the language of psychology to identify nine personality types and their interrelationships. Each personality type has a unique way of looking at the world, and this viewpoint is reflected in a set of preoccupying thoughts and a related intuitive style. Thus, once the focal points of internal attention are identified, a person has a place to begin to look for the related intuitive ability.

"The function of a teacher in the oral tradition is to work first with a group of people who have the same personality type and develop a line of questioning which demonstrates the operation of their particular thought strategy. By observing such exemplars, workshop participants will be able to discover their own personality type in this system and thus their own preoccupying issues and the ways in which they internally sense the presence of these issues. The task is then to be able to distinguish between thoughts about an external situation and intuitive information about that same situation. Time then will be devoted to internal focusing practices that enable one to develop the ability to shift attention between thought and intuitive perception, and to discriminate between psychic and intellectual information.

"The enneagram workshop can be useful to people who wish to develop their intuitive abilities and are working to separate their psychic impressions from their projections. It can be particularly useful to anyone who works in a situation where reliable access to intuitive information is important." $800

Week of April 24–29

Somatic Kinesiology

Thomas Hanna

This course will be a complete survey of muscle anatomy through five daily studies: 1) trunk, 2) hips, 3) shoulders, 4) head and neck, and 5) hands and feet. It will follow a unique method of learning. Rather than consulting an anatomical chart, participants will study each muscle by direct examination of their own bodies – as well as others'– and by a gentle use of that muscle.

The learning will be "somatic" in that each participant will identify muscles experientially, by sensing and moving them. There will be hands-on demonstrations of how to release muscles that are chronically contracted. Typical areas of muscular pathology will be pointed out in reference to their effect on physiological and emotional well-being. Ample time will be allowed for discussion of somatic philosophy and the various somatic disciplines.

Because participants will study the body somatically (i.e., from within), they will learn both greater muscle control and a more precise sense of self-awareness.

Although this introductory course is designed for the layperson, its unusual method of somatic instruction makes it an invaluable foundation for the practice of body work, massage, and somatic education.

Recommended reading: Thomas Hanna, The Body of Life (Knopf), Bodies in Revolt: A Primer in Somatic Thinking (Freeperson Press), and the forthcoming The Myth of Aging (Addison-Wesley). $530

Trance Integrations: The Whole/Parts Process

Paul Carter

Wisdom is the intelligence of the system as a whole. – Gregory Bateson

Your conscious mind is very intelligent, and your unconscious mind is a hell of a lot smarter. – M.H. Erickson

"We have an intelligence obtained from our wholeness that is far greater than we are ordinarily conscious of," Milton Erickson believed. Accessing and integrating this intelligence formed the basis of his work in hypnosis.

Trance Integrations is an experiential, holistic, and innovative approach to Ericksonian naturalistic hypnosis – the Whole/Parts Process. It will explore principles of this approach, including trance as a natural and necessary part of health and will develop the idea that people and their communication and problem-solving are paradoxical.

Through guided exercises and group process, participants will work with the hypnotic use of metaphor in movement, sound, image, and story, as well as the hypnotic realities of age-regression, age-progression (traveling into futures), lucid dreaming, dissociation, and deep-trance identification (a process of deepening self-awareness through identification with different persons in and out of trance).

Additional topics may include: the recognition and use of spontaneous trance states that commonly occur in the course of body work, acupuncture, movement and dance, sports, counseling, and everyday stress situations; the art of using all the system, including the bad, sick, crazy, and resistant parts; the value of humor, confusion, pattern interruption, and paradox in accessing unconscious creativity and resources; and an integrative approach to problem-solving and self-healing as described in Paul Carter's soon-to-be published book, The Whole/Parts Process: A Formula for Integrity.

Recommended reading: Bandler and Grinder, Tranceformations (Real People Press); Michael Yapko, editor, "Parts Work: The Never Ending Story," Hypnotic and Strategic Interventions (Irvington). $530

Weekend of April 29–May 1

A Weekend with Seymour Carter

For workshop description see January 17-22. $270

Power, Promise, and Placebo

Sharon & Jerry Solfvin

This workshop will integrate the experiential and experimental aspects of spiritual, psychic, mental, and physical living. Many individuals either ignore or don't know what to do with trans-reality experiences (reality, as defined in Western culture). Yet, experiences such as miraculous healings, visitations with the future or unknown past, knowledge of someone else's thoughts, mental influence on physical events, channeling, or extraordinary human functioning are reported, developed, and sought by human beings throughout the world.

Within a cultural context that emphasizes healing, half of this workshop will be spent discussing the scientific studies and theories relevant to these experiences, and the other half will be spent anecdotally and experientially. A primary focus will be to study technologies for positive placebo and expectancy. These technologies are designed to have practical applications in science, the arts, healing, sports, and business. $270

On Loving Combat

Sam Keen

This seminar is about conflict resolution, ending warfare, making love, developing compassion. It will focus on three great modes of warfare:

* The civil war within the self (the enemy within, agonizing self-consciousness, the struggle between "I should" and "I want," the battle between "good" and "evil" impulses);
* The war between the sexes (combat in the erogenous zones; lovers and other familiar enemies);
* The political war between Us and Them (consensual paranoia, the manufacturing of enemies, the politics of enmity, nuclear and other neurotic arms).

It will explore the nature of paranoia, projection, and propaganda, the way in which we disown our shadows, deny our forbidden emotions, project our unconscious vices and virtues onto wild men, wicked women, devils, demons, and creatures that go bump in the night.

Additional themes for discussion will include the art of metanoia, repentance, changing our minds, reclaiming our projections, disarming the inner and outer Pentagon, surrendering our defense mechanisms, shedding character armor, and risking vulnerability.

This workshop may help participants dance with the devil, love their enemies, de-light in the dark, humanize warfare, and trust in erotic arms and loving combat.

Participants are asked to bring a journal in which to write, colored pencils, and an assortment of pictures of parents, family, friends, lovers, and enemies. $270

April 29–May 7

Big Sur Wilderness Journey: From Esalen to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center

Steven Harper & Joyce Lyke

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 37. $550

Week of May 1–6

Body Image, Family Systems, and Health

Don Johnson

A major source of one's body image is found within one's family of origin: its movement styles, attitudes toward sensual pleasures and physical processes, patterns of rigidity and limitation, and ways of embodying injuries and illnesses. Those largely unexpressed family attitudes toward the body are passed on from generation to generation, anchored in connective tissue. In addition, physical and psychological abuse and sexual molestation within the family deeply affect the images children have of their bodies. These various residues of family history provide a matrix within which each of us relates to injuries and accidents, limiting, sometimes severely, our capacities for healing.

In this workshop, each participant will be given the opportunity to examine the family origins of his or her body image and how that image is related to his or her history of disease and injury. Participants will work with sensory awareness, guided imagery, drawing, touch, and movement. The goal of the workshop will be to expand one's healing capacities by weakening the hold of the limiting aspects of one's body image unconsciously adopted from one's family. $530

Endarkenment

Will Schutz & Ailish Mellard

Sometimes in our search for enlightenment we become humorless, and our search becomes tedious. Growth demands a respite from intensive struggle.

This workshop can provide a vehicle for the turn downward. We shall explore: how to establish and maintain meaningless relations; what to worry about while meditating; advanced covert blaming and inducing guilt in loved ones; how to become the most sympathetic victim/martyr in your social group; guilt without sex. This approach, similar to Feldenkrais' "live the disasters" and the "homeopathic principle" (Will Schutz, Body Fantasy), can be as valuable for attaining enlightenment as the direct route – and more fun. In addition, participants in this workshop will have opportunities to explore, play with, and celebrate the shadow – that which we usually hide. $530

The Sacred Mask Experience

Elisa Lodge Schiffman

Marvel at the ingenuity in which divinity hides itself in order to find itself. – Alan Watts

Masks are magic! The elemental power of sacred masks to liberate and transport us has all but disappeared from our cultural heritage. Drawing our initial inspiration from a large international collection of masks, we will reestablish our connection to this ancient artistic tradition, one of the oldest forms of catharsis and healing.

Through mask-making, ritual theater, trance journeys, primal sound, and movement work, we will enter a world that will carry us to the further reaches of our imagination and to what is revealed behind the masks – the beauty and truth of our essential nature. Together, we will create rituals that grow out of sacred practice, opening us to more vital and novel dimensions of expressive behavior not ordinarily permitted in our daily lives. Local musicians from Big Sur will be used to orchestrate and ground the powerful energies that emerge. $530

A Week with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

There is an emerging consciousness that is making itself felt and heard in those individuals who are searching to fulfill higher and deeper callings from within themselves. This workshop is for those individuals who sense the emergence of an evolutionary thrust from within or who are experiencing "divine discontent" with what is occuring in their lives at the present time. The focus will be on learning how to meet and accept what is being offered by life, exploring how to attend to the organic occurrences that life presents and continue moving forward.

Participants will experiment with co-creating an environment of trust, love, and acceptance in which to explore themselves as a living, unfolding process – physically, mentally, emotionally, sexually, and spiritually. They will view the body as the laboratory of life, as it is known in both Western and Eastern traditions that the microcosm of the body reflects the macrocosm of the world. Our body is where our view of the world comes from. If our body has become static, our view of the world will also be static.

Through the use of breath work, movement, and sound, aliveness and pulsation can be returned to the body, while unconscious thoughts and feelings which reside in the body tissue can be brought to life. Careful attention will then be given to the mental processes that shape the physical and emotional bodies, with special emphasis being given to personal issues that are ready to be explored. Practices will be taught that show how to work deeply with emotional/energetic holdings in the body which can open to our essential core self – the center of creativity, wisdom, joy, and healing within each of us.

Recommended reading: David Spangler, Emergence: The Rebirth of the Sacred (Delta/Merloyd Lawrence); Rodegast, Emmanuel's Book (Friends' Press); John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics Limited); Fields et al., Chop Wood, Carry Water (Tarcher); Alice Bailey, Education in the New Age (Lucis Publishing Co.). $530

Weekend of May 6–8

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 6. $270

Keeping a Good Relationship Alive

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

For workshop description see February 12-14. $270 per participant

Working with Personal and Family Mythologies

Keith Thompson

... the world breaks everyone and afterward some are strong at the broken places.
– Ernest Hemingway

Call it a dream. It does not change anything.
– Ludwig Wittgenstein

We are storytelling, mythmaking animals. Because our stories concern what is real, they are powerful – often more than we know. The stories we tell ourselves about ourselves and others: who first told us these? Are they true for us now, here? What about family mythologies, the "guiding fictions" passed between generations, often tacitly, reflecting the family's view of the world and their place in it? How do they develop, and how can we discover their contours and influences in our lives? How do changes and developments in an individual's personal life myth affect his or her family mythology, and vice versa? As present myth-givers and future ancestors, how are we contributing to and shaping (knowingly or not) the body of myths and legends being passed to the young ones?

These are some of the questions that occasion this workshop. The leader's aim is to convey a sense of what's possible in six overlapping areas: seeking out from family elders, and working with and preserving, the stories that comprise family mythologies; using archetypal stories as guides during life transitions and rites of passages; investigating the differences between true and literal in working with stories; developing a felt sense of "story awareness" as inherently healing; appreciating our stories as reflections of how, at any given time, we are defining and creating experience; and, in moving between text and subtext, forgiving ourselves as often as possible for the everything and the nothing we are and aren't.

In addition to discussion, our resources may include any of the following: gestalt awareness practice, Vipassana meditation, guided imagery, writing and drawing, and, of course, storytelling.

Recommended reading: Erving Polster, Every Person's Life is Worth a Novel (Norton). $270

May 6–13

The Feldenkrais* Method and Cortical Reeducation

Harriet Goslins & Mark Bender

The habitual way a person sits, stands, or moves reflects patterns that are "wired-in" to the nervous system. This information can be erased or changed. By reeducating the brain/muscle connection, restrictions in movement are freed, freeing also the lifetime habits that have organized around that movement.

This work is a relearning of the ease and fluidity that was taken for granted as a child and lost somewhere along the way. Physical injury, emotional trauma, or ongoing stress all evoke a protective response from the body. These patterns, necessary at the time, remain when no longer needed, outside of awareness, and continue to cause discomfort and unnecessary limitation. Freeing them results in relief of chronic pain or tightness, a more restful sleep, and a higher energy level. By changing muscular holding patterns, the entire protective posture is altered, deeply affecting the body's habitual defense system. Thus, new movement possibilities mean new self-image possibilities.

Fears and anxieties have corresponding muscular habits. Verbal information, no matter how brilliant, or spiritual practice that fails to extinguish these muscular habits, will fail to totally eliminate the toxic behavior.

This workshop is for those who are physically active and fit and want to increase their skills while learning to reduce risk of injury; for the sedentary or those dealing with after-effects of injuries; for the athlete, the dancer, and those who "live in their heads"; and for the average person who feels chronically tired and stressed and wants to learn how to take better care of his/her neck, shoulders, and back, to improve his/her posture and breathing, and to live and move with more flexibility and comfort. $800

* The Feldenkrais Guild

Joyce Lyke

Backpackers taking a break in the Ventana Wilderness.

Week of May 8–13

A Week with Seymour Carter

For workshop description see January 17-22. $530

Human Potential: Theory and Practice

John Heider

This workshop will consist of a synthesis of group process, gestalt, body work, and meditation. The purpose is to develop and educate the human potential, which refers to the ability people have to become more aware or conscious of themselves and of the world around them. While the workshop will be mostly experiential, there will be time for questions and answers and for discussion of the work. $530

Hypnosis and Body Work

Lila Daniels Klapman & David Robinette

The mind has profound effects on the organization of the body. Actively engaging the conscious and unconscious mind through the combined use of hypnosis and body work enables a more complete reorganization of the sensory motor mechanism. This workshop may interest those people in the helping professions who are looking to access the unconscious mental/emotional processes in their clients while making contact with the physical manifestations of those processes. Participants will explore the basic principles of trance induction, Ericksonian hypnosis, and the creative use of suggestion and metaphor. These will be combined with simple body work methods for opening energy centers and working with specific physical symptoms. The focus of this workshop will be to move intimately with a person's process, accessing and releasing unconscious patterns for growth and integration. The work will be done in an atmosphere of gentle caring and playfulness, incorporating music, dance, and games. $530

Weekend of May 13–15

A Weekend with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see January 15-17. $270

Experiencing Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

For workshop description see February 14-19. $270

Insights: The Visible Unconscious

Hector Prestera

The body contains our history. It describes our beliefs about ourselves and the world. It cloaks who we are – our inner Self. Awakening requires entry into this Self. Steps toward this is the direction of this seminar.

Recommended reading: Prestera & Kurtz, The Body Reveals (Harper & Row); Ouspensky, In Search of the Miraculous (Harcourt, Brace & World). $270

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. With this natural reserve as the primary teacher, the group will walk into the Los Padres National Forest. Drawing on various traditions, participants can develop the quality of their awareness and open to the natural world.

Week-long workshops will venture out on five hikes (4-10 miles in length). Weekend workshops will take two hikes (3-6 miles in length). Using Esalen as base camp, the group will explore different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each day-hike will begin after breakfast and will conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. Basic outdoor skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts will be practiced. Participants will be taught enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after these outings. More information will be sent upon registration. $270

Week of May 15–20

Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

Each of us has unique capacities to feel and express tenderness and strength, anger and affection, autonomy and needfulness, as well as compassion, humor, and wisdom. The degree to which we allow the fullness and vibrance of each of these qualities determines how alive and gratified we are.

In this workshop, participants will focus on how they diminish or affirm these essential qualities as they are expressed through their bodies, sexuality, creativity, relationship to power, friendships, and expectations. In an atmosphere of tenderness and support, participants will clarify the nature of who they are and how they can best take care of themselves, both at Esalen and on returning home. The workshop will be grounded in gestalt, group process, guided fantasy, massage, and bioenergetics. $530

Energy Awareness

Richard Strozzi Heckler

Traditional education, with its emphasis on rational thought, has overshadowed the development of the intuitive resources of the body. This imbalance leaves us only partially equipped for dealing with the changes and transitions of everyday life. Working through the body, however, makes it possible to contact an energy that has the wisdom to be self-educating and self-healing.

In this seminar, exercises and movements from aikido, a Japanese martial art, will be used to awaken the feeling and perceptive skills of this bodily wisdom. The principles of centering, grounding, positive energy flow, receptivity, relaxation, blending, and appropriate effort will be taught. Participants will also do body readings from an energetic point of view.

Emphasis will be on the application of these principles to daily living, such as how to overcome obstacles during times of change and confusion, how to be more effective in stressful situations, and how to develop and trust one's intuition. No prior experience is necessary. $530

The Hero's Journey

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

Paul Rebillot writes: "Again and again in my work with people I have seen the suffering and confusion caused by our society's lack of significant rites of passage. Without shamans or ritual masters to guide them, modern women and men must find their own lonely and usually traumatic paths from one stage of life to another – whether it be a child's discovery that there is no Santa Claus, an adolescent's awkward approach to puberty, an adult's marriage or ending of a marriage, or a change of career. Every such change requires a movement from one level of being to another.

"Seeing this need, I created a rite of passage universal enough to allow people to discover the pattern of change, whatever that change might be. That pattern is exemplified in the myth of the hero. The new stage of life that is to be reached calls forth a heroic action on the part of the person taking the journey. At the same time, as soon as a new goal begins to emerge, all of the resistance to that goal emerges as well. I call these two forces 'the hero' and 'the demon.' In order for the new state of being to be realized, these two forces must discover how to communicate with each other and how to work together. The old forms must fall away so that the new form can emerge.

"My purpose is to give people a chance to experience a rite of passage so that they can go into the changes in their lives with a sense of joy and greater context. My hope is that through this process people will awaken to their own creative genius and enter into the drama of their lives with imagination and delight."

Recommended reading: Joseph Campbell, The Hero with a Thousand Faces (Bollingen) and Myths to Live By (Bantam). $530

Weekend of May 20–22

The Shamanic Journey, Power, and Healing

Michael Harner

For workshop description see January 22-24. $270

Body Imagery

Daria Halprin-Khalighi

In this workshop, the physical body will be viewed as a metaphoric palette on which aspects of the Self are projected. A drawing of the full body by each participant will establish a point of origin, followed by a series of visualizations, drawings, and exercises on each body part. By isolating one body part at a time, participants will become aware of the unique messages, imprints, and associations carried within each of the body's parts.

Social impacts on the body, which have shaped the individual through childhood, adolescence, and into adulthood, will become evident through drawings and gestalt writings. Movement and breath work will engage the body in creative physical expression and the release of its tensions.

Body images – feelings and thoughts which are carried in muscles, skeletal structure, and organs – may be given expression through the creative impulse of drawing. As these images become available, it is possible to rediscover and unblock the pathways linking body with mind, emotion, and spirit. $270

Sight/Insight: A Photographic Journey

Daniel Bianchetta & Cynthia Johnson Bianchetta

Like our dreams, photographic images can provide a rich resource for unearthing our true Self. With them, we may uncover and explore our personal culture and evolution. What we produce through visual imagery often reflects our innermost thoughts, how we view the world, how we manifest what we envision for our lives.

Through quiet meditative contact with our deeper Self, we are able to ask what these images may be revealing to us. And often as a result of this quiet contacting of insight, we begin the process of "listening through our eyes." Thus by "allowing the eyes to see" rather than "looking at," we invite observations and glimpses into the realm of true seeing, the power of insight.

In this workshop, movement, intuition, energy awareness, gestalt, and play will be our tools for exploring new awareness and experiences of our inner and outer imagery. It is open to anyone and is not about photographic technique. Some camera knowledge is helpful. Please bring a 35mm camera, black and white 35mm film, a journal, and your photographs. Some processing of film may be provided following a field exploration. $270

Week of May 22–27

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 6. $530

The Hakomi Method

Ron Kurtz

Hakomi is a body-centered practice based on the principles of: mindfulness, unity, organicity, non-violence, mind-body holism. Hakomi incorporates non-doing as a major methodological principle and trusts in every individual's inner wisdom and power for self-healing.

Using the body as a rich source of information about the unconscious mind, hakomi can assist people in turning inward to those special states of consciousness where change takes place, to explore core beliefs which determine the quality of experience.

Hakomi work embraces the body-mind unity, supports the client's resistance, and encourages respect for and awareness of inner processes. This can be used by counselors, health practitioners, educators, body workers, and anyone invested in personal growth. This workshop also serves as a prerequisite for the formal hakomi certification process. $530

Vipassana in the World

Jamie Baraz

Vipassana (insight) meditation is the simple and direct practice of non-judging, balanced awareness. When we clearly see and understand the impermanent nature of all experience, our reactions of clinging, condemning, fear, and confusion begin to lose their power. Instead, wisdom and compassion are strengthened.

In this workshop, we will follow the basic principles of Vipassana and apply them in a practical way. There will be a day for ourselves – learning the meditation and the qualities of patience, self-acceptance, and compassion. Next, there will be a day for others – in which the ideas of the practice are applied to relationships, livelihood, and skillful communication. Finally, there will be a day for the world – where larger issues such as service, action, and appreciation of the interconnectedness of all life are explored.

There will be regular periods of silent meditation, group discussions, and mindful application of our time at Esalen for a direct experience of the value of the practice. $530

May 22–June 17

Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 33. $2120

Weekend of May 27–29

Experiencing Dream Work

Stephen Aizenstat

For workshop description see February 19-21. $270

The Garden of Esalen

Steve Beck

This workshop is about flower, vegetable, and herb gardening, from seeding to harvest. Located on a cliff above the Pacific Ocean, the Esalen garden will be our laboratory for seed sources, propagation, planting mixes, pest and weed control, watering systems, compost, and related topics.

If you are an experienced gardener, bring your wisdom, and if you're just getting started, bring your questions. We'll be taking time to smell the flowers and enjoy the simple pleasure of having our feet on the earth. Wear comfortable clothing. $270

New Competences for an Age of Uncertainty

Donald Michael

A primary task that persons and organizations face in the next twenty years is that of learning to be better learners. This may sound obvious, but consider for a moment how much effort we expend disguising our uncertainty and ignorance and acting as if we really know what we are doing. There is a parallel between what happens when we pay close attention to the processes of the mind (in meditation, for instance) and when we study the vastly complex political, social, and economic processes and systems of the world. In both cases, it is possible to see how little we really know about ourselves as individuals and about the world. This recognition can be the starting point for embracing ignorance and vulnerability so that we can apply them to constructive engagement with our private and public world.

This seminar will introduce several skills, or what Donald Michael calls "new competences," that are necessary for making humane and effective decisions in situations where uncertainty can be the best occasion for learning – in organizational or independent work places and in interpersonal and family situations. These skills include: acknowledging high levels of uncertainty, error embracing, being future-responsive, boundary spanning, self-knowledge, and interpersonal competence.

The approach will be both cognitive and experiential. Participants will have the opportunity to learn to be more comfortable with their uncertainty, to reduce the need to act over-cautiously out of fear of making a mistake, and to minimize the need for those defensive posturings that make it so hard to act responsibly and compassionately. As a previous participant said, "This workshop is for those who are ready to move beyond the personal and want to effect change in public and private organizations." $270

Week of May 29–June 3

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see February 7-12. $530

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

For workshop description see May 13-15. $530

Opening the Feelings

Dale Cummings & Gena Mayer Sorensen

Participants will employ Radix® and neo-Reichian methods of emotional release, the most important of which is the Radix intensive, a period of individual work within a small group setting which can provide emotional support among participants. Grief, pain, fear, and rage that have been held in since childhood can emerge. As the participant accepts and works through these negative feelings, he or she may discover a new capacity for pleasure, trust, and love. In time, the sexual experience may change as feelings of tenderness and sexuality intensify and merge. $530

Cynthia Johnson Bianchetta

Weekend of June 3–5

The Power of Vision: Modern Applications of Visionmaking

Angeles Arrien & Frances Vaughan

In ancient cultures one finds three kinds of shaman: the healer, the warrior, and the visionary. This workshop will examine the types of vision utilized by each of them and how they can be developed and used in current personal, professional, and cultural contexts.

The visionary aspects of intuition, dreams, meditation, myths, and symbols will also be explored. Special emphasis will be placed upon the gifts and attributes of vision and how they can help create new myths for a nonviolent and peaceful future. Lecture and discussion will be combined with participation in the visionmaking process. $270

Writing and the Act of Creation

George Leonard

Participants will be encouraged to break through ego-barriers and cultural conditioning that inhibit expression. In so doing, they will have a chance to experience the creativity that is inherent in all of life. There will be little in the way of theoretical discussion and no critiques of past works. Simple movement exercises will serve to reduce stress, free the mind, and focus the will. Participants will have the opportunity to write furiously in the here and now and to get immediate feedback. Before the weekend has passed, they in all probability will have completed a short article or fictional work and will have experienced some of the joys and heartaches that accompany publication. Bring pencils, pens, or portable typewriters – and plenty of paper.

Recommended reading: Strunk and White, The Elements of Style (Macmillan); George Leonard, Education and Ecstasy (North Atlantic Books) and The Silent Pulse (Dutton). $270

Love and Work

Anne & John Caple

"Lieben und arbeiten," Freud answered when asked what the normal person should be capable of. "To love and to work." In this workshop, participants will examine their work lives and work options in the context of their love for themselves, for others, and for the larger world. Working from a conceptual base, the group will use integrative exercises, art, and gestalt processes to seek answers and consider life decisions. The goal is for participants to see more clearly what they want and how to get it. One outcome will be a specific action plan.

This weekend is for those who want more value in their work lives, for career changers and potential career changers, for re-entry persons, and for those who influence others in career choices. Some time will be available for individual life/work issues during group meetings and in pre-breakfast runs.

Recommended reading: John Caple, The Right Work (Dodd, Mead & Co.). $270

Week of June 5–10

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 6. $530

Change and Self-Esteem

Phyllis Shankman

Change is an ever-present aspect of living which must be accepted and used creatively if one is to sustain a healthy, interesting, and exciting life. Many individuals talk about wanting change while actively or passively resisting it. Self-esteem, which includes self-acceptance, self-appreciation, and self-confidence, is the aspect of self which enables one to confront resistance and fear and which increases the willingness to change and take risks.

This workshop includes a unique, in-depth process for finding and allowing self-acceptance and for creatively confronting opportunities for change and growth. Group activities include gestalt process work, discussion, massage, meditation, music, dance, art imagery exercises, and whatever else happens spontaneously. $530

Yoga: A Week of Rejuvenation

Ganga White & Tracey Rich

Presenting East/West teachings in a way that is contemporary, humorous, and applicable to modern living, the leaders will offer a week of physical, mental, and spiritual rejuvenation. Days will begin with instruction in an ancient Hatha yoga movement series that is new to this country and which combines grace and flow with postures, pranayama (breath), and meditation. Participants will be shown a 45-minute balanced, aerobic yoga practice they can continue at home. Afternoons and evenings will be for group discussion and exploration into the teachings and principles of the art of enlightened living.

Topics will include diet and nutrition, how yoga works, aligning and restructuring the body, and awakening subtle energies. Through Jnana (the yoga of wisdom and perception), participants will begin observing the thought processes and patterns that dictate their lives. They will look at the areas of love, responsibility, relationship, freedom, and death.

Participants of all levels are welcome; no previous experience is necessary. For additional information, contact the leaders at: White Lotus, 2500 San Marcos Pass, Santa Barbara, CA 93105; (805) 964-1944. $530

Weekend of June 10–12

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see January 3-8. $270

A Weekend with Sogyal Rinpoche

Sogyal Rinpoche is a lama, scholar, and meditation master who was born in Tibet and raised as a son by the Buddhist master, Jamyang Khyentse Chokyi Lodro. He studied at Cambridge University and has over ten years' experience of living and teaching in the West. By blending the experience of his traditional training with his insight into contemporary Western attitudes, Rinpoche is able to reveal the freshness and relevance of the Buddhist perspective in today's world. He has participated in conferences and projects with scientists and doctors in fields such as healing, psychology, and the care of the dying, where it is more and more apparent that the Buddhist view can make a fruitful and far-reaching contribution. Rinpoche has founded centers in Britain, France, and the United States and teaches widely in Europe, North America, Australia, and New Zealand. $270

Anatomy for Trager℠ Students: Part II

Deane Juhan

This seminar is a continuation of professional training for students of Trager Psychophysical Integration and Mentastics℠. Participants will examine the anatomical structures of the body and their kinesthetic relationships, with specific reference to how these structures and relationships are handled by the Trager approach. Part I deals with the front half of the body; Part II deals with the back half.

Half of the time will be used for slide presentations, lectures, and discussions concerning particular areas of the body. The rest will be spent practicing aspects of a Trager session which correspond to those areas. The emphasis will be on clarifying the intent of the various hand positions and movements, based upon an understanding of structure, function, and motor reflex.

Since supervised Trager table work will be an important part of the class, a beginning Trager training is a prerequisite.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 37. $270

Week of June 12–17

Five Days with Janet Zuckerman

For workshop description see February 7-12. $530

The Physical Embodiment of Mind: Patterns of Posture and Movement/ Use of Self

Marghe Mills

The way we understand, sense, and use our bodies directly affects our health and our ability to perform the activities we need and want to be doing. Sitting, standing, walking, working, resting, communicating, dancing, exercising, etc., embody patterns as physical metaphors within each biological system (muscle, skeletal, nervous, organ, fluid, neuroendocrine). This workshop will consider the developmental, anatomical, and kinesiological foundations and the physical/mental/emotional experiences of these basic human activities.

Participants will work with their individual patterns of movement, alignment, and behavior. They will explore how personal and social patterns of movement and posture can be conducive to injury, to healing, and to wellness. Movement patterns from the point of view of function, ease, and support will be examined.

Through movement, discussion, hands-on work, lecture, voice, video, and art media, this workshop will provide opportunities for the development and sharpening of important human skills. The work of Moshe Feldenkrais (Awareness Through Movement®, Functional Integration®) and Bonnie Cohen (Body/Mind Centering) will be combined with developmental learning, aikido, and creative arts.

Recommended reading: Marghe Mills and Bonnie Bainbridge Cohen, Developmental Movement Therapy (School for Body/Mind Centering); Moshe Feldenkrais, Awareness Through Movement (Harper & Row); Wynn Kapit and Lawrence Elson, The Anatomy Coloring Book (Canfield Press). $530

Weekend of June 17–19

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman

For workshop description see February 12-14. $270

Food for Health

Jane Miletich

The purpose of this workshop is to experiment with new ways of eating that eliminate certain foods like meat, dairy, processed foods, oils, and salt, and add other, more healthful ones such as fresh juices, grains, legumes, nuts, seeds, sprouts, soups, and raw salads. The foods to be used will include various fresh herbs and produce picked from the Esalen garden and farm or bought from local organic distributors.

Participants may spend time in the kitchen learning methods of food preparation. Mineral and herbal baths, nature hikes, yoga, t'ai chi, massage, and dance will be introduced. All are optional – participants choose their own pace. $270

The Kabbalah: Doorway to the Inner World

Edward Hoffman

For more than 2,000 years, adepts of the Kabbalah, the Jewish mystical tradition, have explored the nature of the human mind and its vast potential. They have addressed in considerable detail such intriguing topics as dreams, meditation, altered states of consciousness, the mind-body unity, and how to awaken one's higher capabilities. In recent years, a true renaissance of interest in the Kabbalah has occurred. Throughout the world, men and women are discovering the unique wisdom and power of this ancient system of knowledge.

This workshop will combine information and experiential methods to make personally relevant the Jewish mystical approach to the inner world. It will examine some of the specific concepts and methods from the Kabbalah as they relate to the new, transformational paradigm emerging in Western psychology. The traditional Kabbalistic emphasis on developing "kavvanah" (intentionality) and imagination will be highlighted. $270

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach

Patrick Douce

The work of Moshe Feldenkrais is based on the natural process by which we learned to move as children. During this workshop, soft, easy, gentle movements will be used to increase awareness of the body and to improve the ease and ability of movement. Special emphasis will be placed on the difficulties in movement that arise from chronic conditions such as lower back and neck pain, shoulder pain, tension in the neck and shoulders, and knee injuries. Such conditions can be improved by approaching the difficulties as problems in learning rather than as therapeutic troubles. Situations which were "incurable" become "re-educable." Workshop participants will also be introduced to methods to improve their ability to sense each other's bodies through touch and massage.

Although this workshop will be of value to anyone interested in learning more about his/her body through direct experience, it may be of special interest and benefit to dancers, athletes, doctors, nurses, physical therapists, psychologists, health-care professionals, and elderly citizens, who may discover new ways of moving with ease and increased flexibility – painlessly and immediately.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 37. $270

Week of June 19–24

Five Days with Jack Rosenberg

This workshop is aimed at awakening and sustaining awareness of body, self, and soul, as well as examining the anatomy and function of intimate relationships. The method can be described as gestalt body work with a distinct leaning toward the transpersonal aspects of life. During the workshop, participants will explore many aspects of Jack Rosenberg's energetic approach to sexuality, the energetic field of the body, and the belief systems which keep one locked in obsolete behavior patterns. This workshop will be co-led with Beverly Kitaen Morse.

Recommended reading: Jack Rosenberg et al., Body, Self, and Soul: Experiencing Integration (Humanics) and Total Orgasm. $530

Mountains and Waves: A Solstice Celebration

Susan Harper & Steven Harper

Mountains and Waves is an invitation to explore natural movements inspired within the human organism by participation in nature. We listen to impulses within and to impulses of wilderness until "inner" and "outer" disappear. As we surrender to the intelligence which creates life in all its varied forms, we find ourselves moving in unexpected ways. Our awareness expands. We feel a larger sense of Self and wilderness and the creative wholeness of a greater dance.

The summer solstice occurs during this week, and we will take special time to create a ceremony in honor and celebration of our longest day. Sessions will be both indoors and outdoors. Evenings, some day sessions, and most meals will be at Esalen. We will also take short day hikes in Big Sur's backcountry. Participants need not have previous experience in hiking or dance. $530

Intermediate Cranial Workshop

Jim Asher & Jane Harrington

This Level Two cranial workshop will review the vertical and horizontal systems with alternate holds for each phase. Mouthwork practices that reduce strain and compression patterns as they relate to the maxilla, sphenoid, and ethmoid complex and to pituitary and sinus problems will be shown. Participants will practice balanced movement of the body to support themselves while working, as well as movement patterns which can be taught to their clients to support cranial changes.

Cranial work can be effective in shifting emotional holding patterns and draining accumulated stresses in the nervous system. Unwinding, a method which can release strains throughout the body at the somatic and emotional levels, will be emphasized in this workshop. Sphenobasilar strain patterns, whip lash, bulb compression, dural tube freedom, and the fluid system will also be covered. There will be time for questions about specific problems and case studies.

This workshop is for those who have taken a basic cranial workshop on the membrane/fluid systems (see January 3-8). It will be hands-on. Much of the emphasis will be on the head, jaw, neck, pelvis, and diaphragm systems.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 37. $530

Weekend of June 24–26

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 6. $270

A Weekend with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see January 15-17. $270

An Inquiry into Channeling

Arthur Hastings, Helen Palmer, Deborah Reynolds & Charles Tart

The phenomena of channeling, in which persons transmit messages from discarnate beings or other non-personal sources, is an increasing source of spiritual messages, personal advice, and admonitions to humanity. Seth, channeled by Jane Roberts, and A Course in Miracles, transmitted by Helen Schucman, are well-known examples, but there are thousands of other individuals who are now channeling. Are the entities real? What credence should we give to the messages? What does channeling tell us about human abilities?

This conference will inquire into the nature and potentials of channeling. There will be video and audio presentations of contemporary channeling with discussions of their messages, presentations by leaders, demonstrations, and experiential exercises.

Topics covered will include the issue of personal identity, the inner process and development of channeling, implications for metaphysics, and the relation between traditional psychic functioning and channeling. Discussions will consider the responsibilities of channeling and the dangers and abuses of channeling by the channel, by the entity, and by the public.

Research and theories of channeling will be presented, including brain wave measures, multiple personality models, archetypes, higher beings, lower beings, and the personification of the higher self.

In addition to the seminar leaders listed above, there may be other guest presenters. Contact the Esalen office for up-to-date information. $270

Week of June 26–July 1

Acts of Courage

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

In their work together, David and Elisa Schiffman offer a group experience which is based on mutual respect, honesty, and tenderness and which allows participants to deepen their appreciation of what is truly valuable in their lives.

Much of the focus is on the art of creative risk-taking or "acts of courage." The Schiffmans teach that to take risks successfully requires courage, grit, and wisdom, knowing one's heart and being true to the dreams that live inside it, good timing, an adventuresome spirit, and the confidence to act. The group time together will include traditional psychological practices as well as non-traditional innovative approaches involving the use of music, movement, guided imagery, and structural repatterning. $530

An Intimate Community

Linda Rice-Mandigo, Anne Ruderman & Joel Dueck

Feelings give us knowledge, depth, and pleasure, but only when they flow unobstructed into our lives. Relating to others is a function of being able to express those feelings openly and directly. Collectively, the risks we take in revealing ourselves create an intimate community. In this workshop, participants will have the opportunity to feel deep parts of themselves and to translate their individual work into quality interactions.

The workshop leaders have worked together for seven years. They are trained in various disciplines and may use Reichian emotional release, breathing sessions, group interactional process, play, nurturing, confrontation, and spiritual healing while working with workshop participants. As members of the community, they are available at the same emotional depth that they encourage in the participants. $530

Language of the Drums: African Percussion, Chanting, and Dance

Babatunde Olatunji with Ijalu Akanbe, Yao Tamakloe & Gordy Ryan

Nigerian musician Babatunde Olatunji has been bridging the gap between American and African culture for thirty years. During this week-long workshop, he will show how drum sounds and rhythms communicate, stimulate, and pace the activities of traditional African life. He will teach the consonants of the Yoruba language, reproducing its sounds on drums and through chants, body percussion, and dance.

This workshop is for dancers, percussionists, musicians, and anyone who wants to speak the language of the drums. Participants will have a chance to become deeply immersed in the study and re-creation of African drum sounds and rhythms. Drummers can experience the dance and dancers can experience the drums. Bring a drum if you have one. (Note: Olatunji will possibly continue his stay at Esalen until July 8. Consult the May-October 1988 catalog for more information.) $530

SPECIAL PROGRAMS

January 24–February 5
Advanced Training in
Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner

Shamanism is the most ancient system known for using the mind, heart, and spirit to heal oneself and others and to solve the problems of daily living. This two-week intensive course emphasizes the universal methods of classic, core shamanism, such as shamanic journeying, and their practical application to contemporary life. This is the most advanced training currently offered by Michael Harner in the United States or Europe.

Course prerequisite: a previous workshop with Michael Harner or an authorized faculty member of the Center for Shamanic Studies, either at Esalen or elsewhere. Such a workshop will be offered at Esalen immediately prior to this program. (See Esalen Seminars, January 22-24.)

For more information and to apply, please contact Michael Harner, Center for Shamanic Studies, P.O. Box 673 – Belden Station, Norwalk, CT 06852; (203) 454-2827. Early application is recommended.

February 26–March 25
Massage Practitioner
Certification Program

Vicki Topp & Esalen Massage Practitioners

This month-long program offers, at a professional level, intensive instruction in massage practice, movement, and self-care. The emphasis will be on developing basic massage skills through daily lecture-demonstrations, hands-on practice sessions using each other as models, illustrated anatomy classes, and instruction in the basic principles of alignment. Meditation and gestalt awareness sessions will be scheduled regularly throughout the program for deeper, more integrative learning.

Body work will be studied as a tool for optimal well-being and stress reduction and as a valued aid to transpersonal growth. Workshop sessions will meet Sunday through Friday and on alternate weekends. Upon satisfactory completion of the program, and after giving 30 additional recorded massage sessions, a California state-approved certificate of completion will be issued. This is a professional program, with limited admission.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 37. $2300

February 28–March 18
A Workshop with Jack Rosenberg

This workshop will start wherever participants are in their inner journey. The work is an in-depth integration of body and gestalt practices, object relations, and the transformative process of consciousness.

The course will cover:

Psychology of the Self: Participants will work with early unfinished situations that interrupt their sense of well-being and interfere with their relationships in the present. Sexual implications of this work will be dealt with in body work and in lecture.

Body Work (Integrative Body Approach): This will be theoretical and practical application, combining Integrative Body Practice, exercise, and massage.

Transformative Process of Consciousness: As the inner journey progresses, one's figure/ground is shifted from "doing" and "having" to "being" and to one's relationship with the eternal. Participants will explore ways to integrate and sustain these new awarenesses in their everyday lives.

This workshop will be co-led with Beverly Kitaen Morse. $1725

February 28–March 18
Through the Eye of the Storm:
An Intensive for Recovering
Adult Children of Alcoholic, Abusive, and Dysfunctional Homes

Karen Paine-Gernee, Rick Paine & Terry Hunt

Children who grow up in alcoholic, abusive, or otherwise unhealthy homes often develop certain disabilities which last through their lifetimes unless they are deliberately addressed, among them: an inordinate need to control, an over-developed sense of responsibility, fear of authority figures, inability to trust, difficulty having fun, compulsive behavior, fear of abandonment, and chronic lack of self-esteem.

Alcoholism is a disease of denial. ACAs tell themselves that it really wasn't so bad, and they learn not to feel what they cannot tolerate. As they deny pain, they screen out joy, and their adult lives are often filled with depression and loneliness. ACAs are often survivors, though, and most have emerged as successful-appearing adults. Yet they often spend so much energy managing and controlling work and relationships that they have little left for themselves.

Recovery is possible, though. A necessary part of recovery is moving through the chaos of one's life into the calm of "the eye of the storm."

Through self-exploration, participants will have the opportunity to access, express, and release blocked emotions that they still carry from childhood and to tap the aliveness that was sacrificed when they buried their anger, fear, and grief.

Points of focus for this workshop will include:

* Emotional Sobriety: Having a personal sense of balance and physical boundaries from which to find peace and a capacity for genuine sharing and pleasure.
* Pleasure/Addictions: Learning that true pleasure is a life-affirming non-addictive experience.
* Sexuality: Separating the unmet needs of the wounded child from adult intimate sexual relationships; learning basic tools for nurturing and sustaining healthy relationships.
* Boundaries: Looking at the tendency to alternate between fusing with another and then completely isolating oneself.
* Spirituality: Learning to have faith in the face of the horror experienced in childhood.
* Self Esteem: Realizing that self-doubt is oftentimes based on old mental patterns, not on reality.
* Learning New Behaviors: Identifying and overcoming old ways of reacting.
* Looking Beyond the Label: Knowing when to stop calling oneself an ACA. $1725

March 4–20
Continuum Movement:
An Approach to Deep Bodily Awareness

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud & Susan Harper

Within our skin is a world of movement, not just the familiar movement of liquids and organs, but a dance of intelligent life. This is an invitation to dance.

This inner movement is different from spatial movements such as walking. We call it "intrinsic movement." It is a great facilitator of the body's healing powers, a source for the development of an organic awareness that is fundamental to all intelligence, and a way to understand movement as what we are, rather than an activity we do.

This workshop will focus on breath, sound, and what we call the "movement of movements."

Each breath is like a motif or theme of a musical composition. The implications of the orchestration involve a reordering of our nervous system, refinement of our sense perception, and the ability to pay attention at the deeply organic levels of movement where molecules spin and cells commune.

Sound also plays an enormous part in these orchestrations, making the breath audible. Through audible breath we create new possibilities in our ability to affect ourselves, both as healers and as a way to tune ourselves to the evolutionary thrust on earth.

The movement of movements is the overall flow in the many eddying patterns of bodily motion. Some of these movements can be experienced as wavelike undulates, some are pulsating micromovements, some have the vibratory hum of tissue, and some have the sparkling charge of an electrical current. When all these different movements flow together without interference, we call this "fluidity."

Prerequisite: Participants who have not done Continuum work before are required to take the five-day workshop preceding this course. (See February 28-March 4.) $1550

Cynthia Johnson Bianchetta

April 3–22
Spiritual/Esoteric Practice:
The Key to Intuitive
and Psychic Development

Anne & Jim Armstrong

A well-developed, directable intuition is a natural, healthy outgrowth of self-realization. But unless we are willing to create the proper environment through self-discipline, meditation, and mindfulness of everything we think, feel, say, or do, this powerful force will remain dormant within us.

This three-week workshop will concentrate on building a firm esoteric/spiritual foundation for serious students interested in using intuition in their lives and professions. This will be accomplished by drawing from many ancient and modern spiritual disciplines, including meditation and yoga, while emphasizing the spiritual and ethical use of the intuitive/psychic process.

Through lecture, basic exercises, and practice on selected cases, participants can learn to recognize, trust, and apply their own psi abilities. During the exercises, Anne Armstrong will use her tracking abilities to assist participants in arriving at useful, accurate data.

Although esoteric and metaphysical explanations and background will be presented where appropriate, this is not a primary goal of the program. Particular attention will be placed on helping the participants differentiate between perception and projection and between psychic and intuitive input.

Bring a tape recorder, if you have one, and a few blank tapes. $1725

April 3–29
Gestalt Practicum for People in the Helping Professions: A Study Work Program

Coordinated by Christine Stewart Price

Gestalt practice is an experiential form – nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental – evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. In this practice, the quality of one's awareness is made primary, especially as focused on breath and physical sensation. See page 6 for a more detailed description.

This program is designed for people with established client-oriented practices, such as counselors, body workers, nurses, teachers, etc., who would like to integrate gestalt practice skills in their professional lives as well as have concentrated time to attend to their personal growth. The curriculum will include sessions in which participants work individually with the leaders in a group setting ("open seat" work) as well as practicum sessions when group members work with each other in supervised situations. Some sessions will be videotaped for review and discussion. Although gestalt practice is the primary focus, related approaches will be presented, especially those which enhance ability to focus awareness on breath and the body.

This is a scholarship program and all participants are required to work sixteen hours per week in the Esalen community. This work commitment is part of the program, and participation is contingent on its fulfillment. Some additional scholarship assistance is available. To apply for the workshop, send a brief letter describing your present work and how you imagine this experience would relate to your professional and personal growth. Address your application to Christine Stewart Price, c/o Esalen Institute. $1600

May 12–15
European Work Scholar Intensive

The first European work scholar reunion in May 1987 was a great success. Twenty-four people from five European countries attended; all had previously been at Esalen for a month or more. There was time for group and personal work with Jessica Moore Britt and John Soper. It was an opportunity for them to continue their personal growth and to recapture the Esalen experience closer to home.

The 1988 workshop will be held at the same retreat center between Frankfurt and Cologne, Germany, from May 12-15. The title has been changed from "Reunion" to "Intensive" to more accurately reflect its nature. Visiting Esalen facilitators will include Jessica Moore Britt, John Soper, Nancy Kaye Lunney, and others.

If you live in Europe, have been at Esalen for a month or more, and would like more information about this workshop, please contact: Eberhard Schwartz, Menzelstr. 1, 1000 Berlin 41, 030-855-7504.

May 22–June 17
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

This course will synthesize neurolinguistics and Ericksonian hypnosis and will draw heavily from the pioneering work being done with the enneagram of personality and Stanislav Grof's "cartography of inner space." While satisfying the hypnosis coursework requirements for the M.E.C.C. and complying with the California state requirement for hypnosis certification, participants will go beyond what is required and explore the realms of the unknown.

While the use of hypnosis in habit control and symptom removal will be covered, a primary focus will be on hypnosis as an emerging tool of spiritual emergence/emergency. Starting with the presupposition that we already live in trance and that the goal is waking up, the roots of personality structure and the filters of perception in the creation and transformation of reality will also be carefully explored.

Clinical applications depend upon the complete pacing of the client's reality. The structure of rapport, pacing/leading, and various hypnotic patterns of induction will be demonstrated and practiced along with a variety of clinical interventions, including reframing, change history, metaphors, and storytelling.

The group will watch videotapes of Erickson and other leading hypnotherapists. Participants will have daily practice with each other and the opportunity to be videotaped doing a hypnotic induction. Daily zazen and Taoist yoga will also be a part of this program.

Upon completion of this course, participants must demonstrate a high level of professionalism as well as proficiency in technical skills to the satisfaction of the instructors before certification will be granted. Additional certification by the American Council of Hypnotist Examiners will be available for an additional fee. Certification as a practitioner of neurolinguistic programming is available in conjunction with the Society of Neurolinguistic Programming for an additional fee.

Required reading: J. Haley, Uncommon Therapy (Norton) and Strategies of Psychotherapy (Grune & Stratton); Bandler and Grinder, Trance-formations (Real People Press), Frogs into Princes (Real People Press), and Reframing (Real People Press); S. Grof, Realms of the Human Unconscious (Dutton) and Beyond the Brain (State Univ. of N.Y.); Chogyam Trungpa, Shambhala (Shambhala); Evans-Wentz, The Tibetan Book of the Great Liberation (Oxford Univ. Press); P.D. Ouspensky, In Search of the Miraculous (Harcourt, Brace & World); C. Castaneda, Tales of Power (Simon & Schuster); Joseph Campbell, Myths to Live By (Bantam).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 37. $2120

Children's Programs

Gazebo School: The Gazebo Program for children, ages 2-6, operates year round except for a week at Christmas. It is an outdoor-based program which encompasses the care of animals and the environment and supports the development of physical, cognitive, and psychosocial skills. $150 per week

Work Scholar Kids: The W.S.K. Program is for children, ages 7-12, and runs from July 4-August 12. The children will participate in a morning work program within the Esalen community, such as the garden, farm, laundry, office, and Gazebo. In the afternoons they will focus on a particular study, such as the Big Sur environment, water safety, sports, or the arts (music, dance, drama, painting). $250 per week

Both of these programs are for children of parents concurrently attending an Esalen seminar. For further information contact Lia Thompson, Esalen Institute.

Gazebo Internship Program

Openings are now available at the Gazebo School for a one-to-three month intensive internship in early childhood education. The emphasis will be on an aesthetic approach to the development of physical, cognitive, and psychosocial skills. For an application, write to Bette Dingman, Gazebo Internship Program, Esalen Institute.

Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Esalen is now offering a California state-approved program. Upon completion of the four-week massage practitioner workshop (see page 32) and after giving 30 additional massages elsewhere, graduates will receive their certificates. This program provides at least 130 hours of instruction, supplemented by additional study in body-mind disciplines such as yoga, gestalt awareness work, and movement, fulfilling the state requirement.

Healthspring Traveling Workshops

The Esalen massage teachers and their associates have created Healthspring, an independent organization devoted to extending their work into an outreach program. The workshops offer practices to stimulate physical and spiritual health and awareness within the body and can be designed to suit the needs of individual groups. The curriculum combines such approaches as massage, meditation, dance, neo-Reichian work, creative movement, gestalt, yoga, breath enhancement, anatomy, and other health-strengthening disciplines.

Healthspring will conduct workshops at locations outside of Esalen in your hometown or city. For more information on scheduling a Healthspring group in your community, write to: Healthspring Traveling Workshops, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

FUTURE PROGRAMS

July 1–5
Special 4th of July Celebration

Featuring Babatunde Olatunji

This long weekend celebration will run from Friday evening to Tuesday morning. For more information refer to Esalen Seminars, June 26-July 1, and the May-October catalog.

WORK STUDY PROGRAM

Judith Morgan Alexander

The Work Study Program is for those who are interested in total immersion in the Esalen environment. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically. Only rarely is it restful. Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and housekeeping. Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs. No participants will be accepted as work scholars in Gazebo or the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments.

Most evenings and two intensive weekends are spent together as a group exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who will be with the group throughout the month, coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The program is usually divided into two sections each month: a general interest section which covers a variety of growth approaches, and a focused interest section which emphasizes one type of growth practice, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage or body work, etc. Participants in the focused programs must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program, assuming that they meet the standards of the Work Study Program.

Focused programs planned thus far for 1988 include:

January 3–February 28: Jessica Moore Britt and Joyce Lyke will inquire into the body/spirit relationship using gestalt, Reichian breath work, Native American ritual, and Sufi self-remembering exercises.

February 28–March 27: Janet Zuckerman will focus on emotional release. Tools for exploration will include the open seat, a tennis racket, pillows, and a sense of humor.

March 27–April 24: Paul Carter will integrate trance and whole/parts work, exploring the naturalistic development and uses of trance in all aspects of life.

April 24–May 22: Anne Nechama Simkin's gestalt program will include some videotape sessions. Massage and movement work may be offered.

May 22–June 19: Wolf Buentig's and Gertraud Eder-Buentig's group will study the body as the outward revealed life of the soul, and the soul as the inward perceived life of the body.

June 19–July 17: See April 24-May 22.

June 19–July 17: Don Johnson will lead a general track incorporating group process, individual work, meditation, and movement.

July 17–August 14: Seymour Carter will focus on gestalt practice, with emphasis for, but not limited to, professionals.

August 14–September 11: Mary Goldenson's (Devarani) program of letting go and moving on will employ Reichian methods, Radix®, dance, imagery, gestalt, and meditation.

September 11–October 9: See February 28-March 27.

October 9–November 6: For more information, contact Bette Dingman, Esalen.

November 6–December 4: Jessica Moore Britt. See January 3-February 28.

December 4–January 1: See July 17-August 14.

In as much as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage and Rolfing®, are available at staff rates.

Accommodations are shared, with up to four people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff complex located 1½ miles north of Esalen.

A deposit of $350 in U.S. currency is required with your application. The cost of all 28-day Work Study Programs, except the three-month body work program, is $700 first month, $650 second month, $600 third month. Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second month or a third month depending on space available and community needs. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

For more information contact Bette Dingman: (408) 667-3010.

Note: This application is not a registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is non-refundable and may be transferred to other programs within one year of receipt. Please return this form with your deposit to:

Work Study Program, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

Available dates: January 3–February 28; February 28–March 27; March 27–April 24; April 24–May 22; May 22–June 19; June 19–July 17; July 17–August 14; August 14–September 11; September 11–October 9; October 9–November 6; November 6–December 4; December 4–January 1; etc.

APPLICATION TO THE WORK STUDY PROGRAM

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ ZIP _____

Date of Birth _____ Occupation _____ Place of Employment _____

Daytime Telephone (_____) _____ Date of Application _____

Evening Telephone (_____) _____ Male ☐ Female ☐

I prefer the general interest program: yes ☐ no ☐ I prefer the focused program in: _____

Participants in the focused programs must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program.

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning on a Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: _____ to _____ 2nd: _____ to _____ 3rd: _____ to _____

Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community.

Please indicate your availability should an invitation be extended. (Not applicable to focused program participants.)
☐ No extension ☐ One-month extension ☐ Two-month extension. Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs.

☐ Please check here if you have emergency medical skills (M.D., E.M.T., or R.N.) and are willing to make those skills available during your stay.

Please attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program. Include: applicable skills (gardening, kitchen, mechanical, etc.); medical difficulties which might affect your working in particular departments; previous Esalen workshops you have attended (please list program titles, group leaders, and dates). Note: Fluency in the English language is essential for participation in the program.

WILDERNESS PROGRAMS

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop, we require the following deposit:

1-3 days	$50
4-7 days	$100
Over 8 days	$200

The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your nonrefundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your deposit is forfeited.

April 29–May 7
Big Sur Wilderness Journey: From Esalen to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center
Steven Harper & Joyce Lyke

Nature can provide opportunities to stretch one's limits and explore one's inner wilderness. By living in a natural environment it is possible to expand one's sense of self and depth of being.

The group will spend a day and a night at Esalen, leaving the next morning to hike through the Ventana wilderness. Participants will travel "light," with instruction in minimum impact camping, ecology, and the geography and cultural history of the area.

Wilderness will be a mirror and primary teacher as the group lives simply and in direct contact with nature. Participants will explore their inner world of dreams, feelings, and sensations as they emerge, using gestalt awareness practice and group process. Taking inspiration from natural and native purification practices, they will create a time of cleansing and contemplation, culminating in a 24-hour period alone. The group will hike on to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center, deep in a rugged wilderness valley with natural hot springs, for their last night together. There, meditation instruction will be available for those who wish it. Backpacking experience is not necessary, though participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity. More information will be sent upon registration.

$550

MEDICAL PROGRAMS

The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of Continuing Education for registered nurses, provider number 01152. Only those programs specifically listed below offer continuing education credit. See workshop descriptions elsewhere in the catalog.

January 3-8
Craniosacral System: Basic Workshop
Jim Asher & Jane Harrington
30 hours

January 17-22
Fighting Back from Trauma and Catastrophic Illness
Mariah Fenton Gladis
30 hours

January 22-24
Anatomy for Trager℠ Students: Part I
Deane Juhan
12 hours; C.E. credit is available through the Trager Institute.

February 7-12
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Brita Ostrom & Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

February 12-14
Morphology
Gerald Epstein
10 hours

February 14-19
Understanding the Borderline and Narcissistic Personality
Burton Schaffner & Darlene Louise Beaver
30 hours

February 26-March 25
Massage Practitioner Certification Program
Vicki Topp & Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

April 17-22
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Brita Ostrom & Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

May 22-June 17
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis
Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner
30 hours

May 29-June 3
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

June 10-12
Anatomy for Trager℠ Students: Part II
Deane Juhan
12 hours; C.E. credit is available through the Trager Institute.

June 17-19
Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
Patrick Douce
10 hours

June 19-24
Intermediate Cranial Workshop
Jim Asher & Jane Harrington
30 hours

THE MEDIA CENTER

Videotapes

The Esalen Media Center is offering for rental or purchase a selection of videotapes. This series consists of unedited single camera recordings of informal talks made at Esalen, along with a descriptive tape of Esalen itself.

1. Jack Kornfield, On Meditation, November, 1986. A longtime student and teacher of vipassana meditation and Buddhism discusses these traditions with reference to his own experiences as a spiritual seeker in the Orient. (121 minutes)

2. Brother David Steindl-Rast, God, Spirituality, and the Senses, November, 1984. A Benedictine monk and scholar discusses the spiritual journey and its relationship to mythology and transpersonal theory. (117 minutes)

3. Fritjof Capra, Characteristics of Systems Thinking, June, 1985. The author of The Tao of Physics and The Turning Point discusses the evolution of scientific thinking, including current views and implications. (81 minutes)

4. Stanislav Grof, The New Scientific Paradigm, June, 1985. An original member of the transpersonal psychology network and author on topics such as appropriate use of psychoactive substances, discusses his current view of consciousness. (117 minutes)

5. Rupert Sheldrake, Morphic Resonance and The New Science of Life, June, 1985. A British geneticist relates his theories on biological and psychological development and discusses some empirical tests of these theories. (108 minutes)

6. Kenneth Ring, The Near-Death Experience, June, 1985. The author of Life at Death and Heading Toward Omega discusses his research on the near-death experience and some of its implications for the future of the human race. (114 minutes)

7. Albert Hofmann, December, 1984. The discoverer of LSD talks to Stanislav Grof about his early experiences with this and other psycho-active drugs. He also discusses some of the social, political, and scientific consequences of LSD. (92 minutes)

8. Anne Armstrong and Elizabeth Stratton, December, 1984. Two longtime students, practitioners, and teachers of psychic work discuss with Nancy Knapp their practices and perspectives related to psychic counseling and healing. (56 minutes)

9. Terence McKenna, Fractal Perspectives on the Millenium, August, 1985. The author of The Invisible Landscape gives his vision of the future, centering around the evolution of human consciousness. (72 minutes)

10. Jack Rosenberg, One Hour and Twenty-Nine Minutes with Jack Rosenberg and Integrative Body Practice, September, 1985. The Venice, California, practitioner gives his view of personality development and some of the typical patterns of interaction in relationship. (89 minutes)

11. Esalen. This 18-minute videotape tells Esalen's story from its early history to the present. The visuals consist of 130 color slides featuring scenes of the Big Sur coast, Esalen's garden, grounds, and various workshops and activities.

Ordering Information

Each speaker program costs $55 to purchase, $25 to rent. The Esalen tape costs $35 to purchase, $15 to rent. To order any of these tapes, indicate: purchase or rental (one week), program # and title, format (VHS or Beta). To your subtotal, add $5 shipping and handling. California residents add 6% tax for sales only. Include your name, address, and phone number. Please address your order (with a check payable to Esalen Institute) to the Esalen Media Center.

FRIENDS OF ESALEN

We invite you to join us in our organization—the Friends of Esalen scholarship fund.

Friends of Esalen provides financial aid to people who are eager to attend our workshops but who cannot afford them.

We believe that one of our first priorities is to make our programs available on a broader basis. We have therefore decided to use membership contributions to fund such scholarships. Esalen will, in turn, match your contribution.

In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen, you will receive the Esalen Catalog for one year. We hope you feel your experience at Esalen was worth the sharing and that you will join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.

☐ I wish to become a Friend of Esalen and I enclose my check for the category marked.

☐ I wish to renew my membership in Friends of Esalen.

☐ One Year Student $15
☐ One Year Individual $25
☐ One Year Donor $50
☐ One Year Sponsor $100
☐ One Year Patron $500
(Contributions are tax-deductible)

Name _____ Student Affiliation _____

Address _____ City _____

State _____ ZIP _____ Date _____

Please mail to: Friends of Esalen, Big Sur, CA 93920.

AUDIO RECORDINGS

The Dolphin Tape Series

These recordings go back to the early days of Esalen. With emphasis on the human potential, Dolphin Tapes continues to draw from the Big Sur Recordings archives. Here are examples of: encounter, gestalt, sensory awareness, Rolfing®, Feldenkrais®, mysticism and madness, meditation and spirituality, sexual freedom and psychedelics, free speech and protest, consciousness change and paradigm shift, new physics, new reality, new philosophy, new purpose, more humanness, health, wholeness, wellness and a gradual influence on business and society. Nearly all recordings are stereo from live events. Tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hours.

Single-tape titles are $10

Anne Armstrong: On Being a Psychic, 1971
Gregory Bateson: Metaphors and Butterflies, 1975
David Brower: Breaking the Species Barrier, 1971
Joseph Campbell: Freud, Jung and Kundalini Yoga, 1967
Fritjof Capra: Shifting Paradigms and Social Change, 1980
Barry Commoner: Human Meaning of Environmental Crisis, 1971
Baba Ram Dass: Yoga of Daily Life, 1970
Big Sur Drums: The Sky Children, 1968
Fadiman/Hastings: Psychedelics and Paranormal Phenomena, 1971
Jack Gibb: The Emergent Group, 1966
Willis Harman: New Consciousness in a New Society, 1972
S. I. Hayakawa: Fully Functioning Personality, 1964
Albert Hofmann: LSD and The Nature of Reality, 1978
Aldous Huxley: Human Potentialities, 1960
Aldous Huxley: Visionary Experience, 1960
Stanley Keleman: Biological Roots of Spiritual Experience, 1970
Stanley Krippner: Communes, Telepaths and Dreams, 1971
Timothy Leary: American Culture (1945-1985), 1977
George Leonard: Steps Toward Utopia, 1966
John C. Lilly: The Dolphin Experience, 1969
Richard Marsh: Beyond Games, 1966
Abraham Maslow: Self-Actualization, 1966
Abraham Maslow: Psychology of Religious Awareness, 1967
Rollo May: Violence and the Daimonic, 1970
Ralph Metzner: Metaphors and Symbols of Transformation, 1980
Claudio Naranjo: Dante's Way to the Stars, 1968
Brendan O'Regan: Decision Making in the Global Village, 1979
Robert Ornstein: On the Psychology of Meditation, 1971
Humphrey Osmond: Early Psychedelic History, 1976
Fritz Perls: Gestalt Therapy and How It Works, 1967-68
Fritz Perls: Dream Theory and Demonstration, 1966
John Weir Perry: Psychosis and Transformation, 1968
James Pike: Christ as a Revolutionary Figure, 1969
Carl Rogers: The Person of Tomorrow, 1970
Carl Rogers: My Philosophy and How It Grew, 1972
Ida Rolf: Structural Integration, 1971
Virginia Satir: Family Communication and Growth, 1967
Robert Schwartz: Consciousness Evolution and Business, 1979
Will Schutz: Rules of Thumb for Open Encounter, 1970
Charlotte Selver: An Introduction to Sensory Awareness, 1968
Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance (Bombay), 1982
Huston Smith: No Wasted Journey, 1968
Frederick Spiegelberg: India and the Saints, 1964
Russel Targ: Parapsychology and Physics, 1972
Charles Tart: On the Paranormal, 1971
Wilson Van Dusen: The Nature of Humanness, 1971
John Vasconcellos: A Humanistic Approach to Politics, 1970
Alan Watts: Divine Madness, 1968

Two-tape titles are $18

AHP Panel: (2) The Black Experience, 1969
Anderson/Roszak: (2) The Upstart Spring (Esalen), 1984
Robert Bly: (2) An Evening at Esalen, 1982
Campbell/Keen: (2) The Dark Side of the Forest, 1985
Joseph Campbell: (2) Myths of Alienation and Rapture, 1970
Baba Ram Dass: (2) One Man's Journey to the East, 1969
Buckminster Fuller: (2) The Critical Path (Maui), 1982
Stan & Christina Grof: (2) The Holonomic Consciousness Paradigm, 1982
Stanislav Grof: (2) Geometry of Psychopathology, 1984
John Holt & George Dennison: (2) Alternatives in Education, 1970
Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human (Boston), 1979
Timothy Leary: (2) The Power of Imprinting, 1982
Abraham Maslow: (2) The Farther Reaches of Human Nature, 1968
Joseph Chilton Pearce: (2) The Magical Child, 1975
Karl Pribram: (2) The Holographic Model Today, 1985
Carl Rogers: (2) A Weekend at Esalen, 1983
Selver/Brooks: (2) Sensory Awareness, 1980-82
Wilson Van Dusen: (2) Confronting Hallucinations, 1968
Andrew Weil: (2) Interplay of Mind and Body Realities, 1982
Lynn White & Alan Watts: (2) Ecological Crisis, 1971
Watts/Grof/Silverman: (2) The Science of Madness, 1968
Perry/Watts/Ginsberg/Naranjo: (2) The Poetry of Madness, 1968

Four-tape titles are $36

James Fadiman: (4) A Weekend of Stories, 1984
David Finkelstein: (4) Indeterminacy and Undecidability, 1978
Roland Fischer: (4) Creative, Psychotic and Ecstatic States, 1969
R. D. Laing: (4) Sanity, Madness, Bloomsbury Center, 1967
Jack Kornfield: (4) Buddhist Meditation and Practice, 1981
Timothy Leary: (4) A Day with Timothy Leary, 1982
Rollo May: (4) Dimensions of Consciousness, 1966
Jack Rosenberg: (4) A New Understanding of Relationships, 1982
Theodore Roszak: (4) The Unfinished Animal, 1982
Colin Wilson: (4) Human Evolution and a New Psychology, 1968

The Dolphin Vinyl Binder Tape Sets

Carl Rogers: (6) The Basic Encounter Group, 1967	$60
Fritz Perls: (6) The Perls Encounter: A Complete Weekend, 1968	$60
Abraham Maslow: (6) The Eupsychian Ethic, 1969	$60
John C. Lilly: (6) Ego, Self and Essence, 1971	$60
Andrew Weil: (6) Integrated Consciousness and Health, 1976	$60
UCSB Symposium: (6) Entheogens: The Spiritual Psychedelics, 1983	$60
Esalen Series: (8) Physics and Consciousness, 1975-76	$72
Esalen/UCB: Tarrytown Symposium: (8) Faces of the Enemy, 1983	$72
UCB Symposium: (8) The Sixties: Its Leaders and Legacy, 1987	$72
Buckminster Fuller: (8) The Pajaro Dunes Tapes, 1980	$80
Virginia Satir: (10) Conjoint Family Therapy, 1968	$88
Joseph Campbell: (10) The World Mythology Series, 1969	$88
Esalen Series: (12) The Value of Psychotic Experience, 1968	$98
Esalen Symposium: (12) Wilhelm Reich: His Life and Work, 1974	$98
Gregory Bateson: (12) The Informal Esalen Lectures, 1975-80	$98

Please add $2 to your complete order for handling and mailing (add $4 if you wish priority mail). California residents include 6% tax. (Institutional purchase orders please add 10% to tape cost for invoicing and deferred payment.) Allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery.

Please mail your order and your check payable to:
DOLPHIN TAPES, PO Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920

Advertisement: Dolphin Tapes is a private company independent of Esalen.

BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

A

Stephen Aizenstat,
clinical director of the Human Relations Institute, has conducted dream groups thoughout the U.S. and recently completed a comprehensive research project on methods of dream analysis.
p. 17, 27

Ijalu Akanbe
has danced with Olatunji for 23 years and is dance captain of the Drums of Passion Dancers.
p. 31

John Amodeo
is co-author of Being Intimate, which describes how Focusing leads to greater intimacy. He is a counselor and contributing editor to Yoga Journal.
p. 9

Kris Amodeo
is a counseling intern in the San Francisco Bay Area. She co-authored Being Intimate and co-leads training groups and Focusing/meditation retreats.
p. 9

Lewis Andrews
is a Research Fellow at the Yale Divinity School and author of To Thine Own Self Be True: The Rebirth of Values in the New Ethical Therapy.
p. 18

Anne Armstrong
has been doing transpersonal counseling for over 23 years and has trained professionals to use their own intuitive abilities.
p. 16, 21, 26, 33

Jim Armstrong,
a former engineer, is a lifelong student and teacher of esoteric studies.
p. 16, 21, 26, 33

Elliot Aronson,
professor of psychology at UC Santa Cruz, is the author of 14 books on interpersonal relations, including The Social Animal, The Handbook of Social Psychology, and Burnout.
p. 13

Angeles Arrien
is an anthropologist and specialist in Basque mysticism. She teaches courses in cross-cultural approaches to healing, myths, and symbols.
p. 28

Jim Asher
has been practicing cranial work since 1973. He is a Rolfing® teacher and an advanced Rolfer, certified by Ida Rolf.
p. 8, 31, 37

B

Jamie Baraz
has taught Vipassana (insight) meditation with Joseph Goldstein, Jack Kornfield, and Stephen Levine in the U.S. and Asia. He has led San Francisco area classes and retreats since 1977.
p. 13, 27

Frank Barron
is a research psychologist at UC Berkeley and heads the Laboratory for the Psychological Study of Lives at UC Santa Cruz.
p. 15

Judy Beals
is an attorney and has worked in the U.S. Senate on issues of health, welfare, safety, and discrimination.
p. 19

Darlene Louise Beaver
has conducted workshops at conferences and growth centers. Her interest is in integrating in life-enhancing ways the different modalities she studies.
p. 16, 37

Steve Beck
grew up on an 80 acre garden in North Dakota. He has been a resident at Esalen since 1974.
p. 28

Mark Bender
holds a doctorate in psychology and has a private practice in cortical reeducation.
p. 25

Cynthia Johnson Bianchetta
is an artist, dancer, and photographer. She was the assistant director of the Museum of Photographic Arts and director of the Weston Photographic Gallery.
p. 27

Daniel Bianchetta,
longtime Esalen resident and workshop leader, is an intuitive counselor and also does body work. He is a student and teacher of meditation.
p. 27

Stephen Book,
head of the Stephen Book Workshop in Hollywood and adjunct professor of acting at USC, served as executive director of the Spolin Theater Game Center.
p. 16

Faustin Bray
is a musician, media artist, founder of Island School, and director of Sound Photosynthesis. She specializes in inspiration using yoga, fine arts, science, and travel.
p. 15

Jessica Moore Britt
is a teacher of gestalt and Reichian work at Esalen. She is a member of the Ridhwan Work School, which is dedicated to understanding personality and essential development.
p. 6, 19, 21, 34, 36

Daniel Brown,
chief of psychology and director of behavioral medicine at Cambridge Hospital/Harvard Medical School, is co-author of Hypnotherapy and Hypnoanalysis and Hypnosis and Behavioral Medicine.
p. 15

George Brown,
graduate program leader in Confluent Education and Organizational Leadership at UC Santa Barbara, is author of The Neurotic Behavior of Organizations.
p. 12

Judith Brown
has been a gestalt practitioner and trainer for 20 years. Her most recent book is I Only Want What's Best for You.
p. 12, 13

Wolf Buentig,
founder of Germany's first growth center, ZIST, has been a group leader for 17 years, integrating psychoanalysis, encounter, bioenergetics, gestalt, and Ericksonian hypnosis.
p. 36

C

Joseph Campbell,
professor emeritus at Sarah Lawrence College and eminent mythologist, authored The Hero with a Thousand Faces, The Masks of God, Myths to Live By, and The Inner Reaches of Outer Space.
p. 20

Anne Caple
is a student of transpersonal psychology, a technical writer, editor, and fiber artist.
p. 29

John Caple
is a corporate trainer, consultant, and career counselor with earlier careers as a college professor and corporate executive.
p. 29

Paul Carter,
co-founder and director of Meta Education and Training Arts since 1976, leads workshops around the world on Whole/Parts Transformation, Ericksonian hypnosis, and creativity.
p. 23, 36

Seymour Carter,
longtime gestalt teacher at Esalen and in Europe, combines studies in sensory awareness, Zen Buddhism, aikido, and other body-oriented practices.
p. 11, 16, 23, 25, 36

Michell Cassou
is the founder of an original approach to painting designed to stimulate and unblock creativity. She is director of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 21

Stanford Eugene Cates
is an ordained minister, gestalt facilitator, and Trager℠ bodyworker. He has worked with Paul Rebillot in the U.S. and Europe for seven years.
p. 17, 20, 21, 26

Danner Christensen
has been interested in becoming a man ever since he was born in 1950.
p. 17

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud
is the founder of Continuum. Her innovative approach to movement has enhanced the creativity of artists in many fields and has led to new insights into the healing process.
p. 19, 33

Stewart Cubley,
artist and scientist, is co-founder with Michell Cassou of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 21

Dale Cummings,
certified Radix® teacher and counselor in private practice in West Los Angeles, is director of first-year training for the Radix Institute in Ojai.
p. 28

D

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)
is a certified Radix® teacher on Esalen's Gestalt Staff, with over 13 years of experience combining Reichian body work, vision work, movement, ritual, and meditation.
p. 13, 20, 24

Patrick Douce,
a resident at Esalen since 1972, teaches ongoing classes in Feldenkrais Awareness Through Movement® and is available for individual sessions in Functional Integration®.
p. 30, 37

Joel Dweck
is a Reichian practitioner in Los Angeles, where he also directs the Core Contact training program.
p. 31

E

Gertraud Eder-Buentig
has studied gestalt, bioenergetics, hakomi, and Anna Halprin's movement work and has been a movement group leader for five years.
p. 36

Gerald Epstein,
clinical professor of psychiatry at Mount Sinai Hospital, New York, combines imagination therapy and morphology in his medical practice.
p. 15, 37

Esalen Massage Practitioners:
Char Brenner, Robert Helm, Peggy Horan, George King, Deane Marson, Arthur Munyer, Kathleen O'Shaughnesey, Laurie Schutz, and Attila Vaas.
p. 12, 14, 16, 19, 20, 22, 28, 32, 37

F

David Feinstein,
a psychologist, is director of Innersource in Ashland, OR, and has taught at Antioch University and the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine.
p. 18

Jerry Fletcher
is president and founder of High Performance Dynamics, Inc., a management consulting and training company based in San Anselmo, CA.
p. 10

Kathleen Brown Fletcher
is a trainer and consultant in organizational development, working in both the profit and non-profit sectors.
p. 10

G

Mariah Fenton Gladis,
a gestalt practitioner and trainer, founded and directed the Bucks County Institute for 12 years. She is currently co-director of the Pennsylvania Gestalt Institute.
p. 11, 37

Mary Goldenson (Devarani),
a chiropractor, certified Radix® teacher and doctoral candidate in clinical psychology, is in private practice in Los Angeles.
p. 8, 13, 22, 29, 36

Joseph Goldstein,
one of the founders and guiding teachers of the Insight Meditation Society, is the author of The Experience of Insight and co-author of Seeking the Heart of Wisdom.
p. 8

Harriet Goslins
is a certified Feldenkrais® practitioner and the developer of cortical reeducation.
p. 25

H

Daria Halprin-Khalighi,
teacher and counselor, developed the Creative Process Method, integrating art and psychology to facilitate creative expression and growth. She is co-founder of Tamalpa Institute.
p. 27

Betsy Hand
is a consultant in human relations and organization development. Her background includes education and training in organizational behavior, family and marital counseling, and nursing.
p. 15, 24

Thomas Hanna
is director of the Novato Institute for Somatic Research and Training, editor of Somatics magazine, and author of The Body of Life, Bodies in Revolt, and the forthcoming The Myth of Aging.
p. 23

Michael Harner,
an anthropologist, has practiced shamanism for 26 years and has pioneered the return of shamanism to contemporary life. His books include The Way of the Shaman.
p. 12, 27, 32

Steven Harper
teaches for Colorado Outward Bound and the National Outdoor Leadership School, coordinates Esalen Wilderness Programs, and is director of Earthways Wilderness Journeys.
p. 24, 26, 28, 30, 37

Susan Harper
teaches Continuum Dance Meditation workshops in Los Angeles and San Francisco, leads "Dance the River" trips on wild rivers, and has presented at the Joy Spangler Asilomar Conference.
p. 19, 30, 33

Jane Harrington
is a certified Rolfer and Rolf movement teacher with extensive craniosacral experience. She is in private practice in Boulder, CO.
p. 8, 31, 37

Arthur Hastings
is the author of a forthcoming book on channeling, Tongues of Men and Angels. He is on the core faculty of the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology, Menlo Park.
p. 31

Richard Strozzi Heckler,
psychologist, has a 3rd-degree black belt in aikido. He has worked with such diverse groups as the Army Special Forces, emotionally disturbed children, corporate executives, and inner city gangs.
p. 26

John Heider,
a psychologist living in Lawrence, KS, is a group leader and a teacher of group leaders. He was part of the Esalen Resident Program from 1967-71.
p. 25

Edward Hoffman,
a licensed psychologist in New York City, is the author of several books on the Kabbalah, including The Way of Splendor and The Heavenly Ladder.
p. 30

Paul Horn
is a flutist, jazz musician, creator of the Inside albums, a philosopher, and teacher of meditation.
p. 8, 9

Chungliang Al Huang
is a t'ai chi dancer, artist-calligrapher, and philosophical entertainer. He is founder/president of Living Tao Foundation and director of the Lan Ting Institute, Wu Yi Mountain, China.
p. 8, 9, 20, 21

Terry Hunt,
a licensed psychologist practicing bioenergetic analysis in Boston, directs a flotation tank center for amelioration of somatic and addictive disorders.
p. 10, 19, 32

J

Eli Jaxon-Bear
is a trainer in neurolinguistics and an examiner with the American Council of Hypnotist Examiners. He is the past president of a Tibetan Buddhist meditation center.
p. 9, 27, 34, 37

Don Johnson,
author and somatic practitioner, is director of the graduate studies program in Somatic Psychology and Education at Antioch University and coordinator of Esalen's program in somatic education.
p. 24, 36

Deane Juhan,
a member of the Esalen massage crew for many years, is a certified instructor of Trager® Psychophysical Integration and the author of Job's Body: A Handbook for Bodywork.
p. 11, 29, 37

K

Sam Keen
is the author of 10 books, including The Passionate Life and, most recently, Faces of the Enemy.
p. 10, 20, 23

Steven Kent
regularly conducts ritual and performance intensives and has directed over 50 theatrical productions throughout the U.S., Canada, and Europe.
p. 13

Lila Daniels Klapman,
former longtime member of the Esalen massage staff, is a certified hypnosis practitioner and has a private practice in massage and hypnosis in Aptos, CA.
p. 26

Sy Kleinman
developed and coordinates the graduate movement arts program at Ohio State University. He is Director of the Institute for the Advancement of the Arts in Education.
p. 20

Paul Krassner
was the editor and publisher of Realist magazine and co-founder of the Yippies. A stand-up comic since 1953, he is the author of Impolite Interviews and Tales of Tongue Fu.
p. 22

Mari Krieger
is a counselor in full-time practice. She works with individuals, couples, groups, and organizations, and teaches at John F. Kennedy University.
p. 17

Stanley Krippner,
psychologist, researcher, and director of Saybrook Institute's Center for Consciousness Studies, authored/co-authored Human Possibilities, Realms of Healing, and Dream Telepathy.
p. 18

Ron Kurtz
is the founder and director of the Hakomi Institute. He is the author of Hakomi Therapy and co-author of The Body Reveals.
p. 11, 27

L

Annie Styron Leonard
is a founder of the Energy Training Institute in Mill Valley, CA, and an aikido black belt.
p. 18, 22

George Leonard,
author of Education and Ecstasy, The Transformation, and The Silent Pulse, was a senior editor of Look and is now a contributing editor of Esquire. He has a 3rd-degree black belt in aikido.
p. 22, 28

Nancy Kaye Lunney,
formerly a vocal coach and accompanist for well-known entertainers, is a gestalt practitioner, director of programming at Esalen, and a guest faculty member at Cornell University.
p. 10, 34

Joyce Lyke
is a practitioner of gestalt and photographer for the Esalen Catalog.
p. 24, 36, 37

M

Kathleen Harrison McKenna
is an artist, mother, and traveler through nature.
p. 21

Terence McKenna
authored The Invisible Landscape and Psilocybin: Magic Mushroom Grower's Guide. He studied shamanism at UC Berkeley and has lived in tropical Asia and the Amazon.
p. 21

Deborah Anne Medow,
Esalen group leader and body work practitioner since 1969, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, movement, gestalt awareness, and related healing disciplines throughout the U.S. and Europe.
p. 12

Ailish Mellard,
holistic health practitioner and body worker for 12 years, is currently organizational consultant for Will Schutz Associates, which teaches human potential concepts for various organizations.
p. 24

Deena Metzger
has pioneered the healing aspects of myth, storytelling, and creativity. Her books include The Woman Who Slept with Men to Take the War Out of Them and Tree.
p. 13

Donald Michael,
professor emeritus of planning and public policy and professor of psychology, University of Michigan, is the author of On Learning to Plan and Planning to Learn.
p. 28

Jane Miletich,
a longtime Big Sur resident and Esalen masseuse, is an instructor of hatha yoga, t'ai chi, and transitional cleansing diets; a student of midwifery, birth, and death; and a bearer of ritual.
p. 30

Harvey Milkman
is a professor of psychology and director of the Center for Interdisciplinary Studies in Denver. He has researched and lectured on addiction in Africa, Asia, and South America.
p. 16

Marghe Mills,
co-author of Developmental Movement Therapy, is a Feldenkrais® teacher, a faculty member at Dominican College, and in private practice in Marin County and San Francisco.
p. 30

Beverly Kitaen Morse
is a marriage and family counselor in private practice in Santa Monica and a senior instructor at the Rosenberg-Rand Institute for Integrative Body Psychotherapy.
p. 13

N

Wes "Scoop" Nisker, considered the dean of the new radio journalism, is a newsman at KFOG, San Francisco, and the editor of the Inquiring Mind, the journal of the Vipassana Buddhist community.
p. 22

O

Jay Ogilvy
is the author of Many Dimensional Man. He taught philosophy at Yale and Williams and is now directing Esalen's Dialogues on Philosophy program.
p. 10

Babatunde Olatunji,
master percussionist from Nigeria, has performed internationally for over 30 years and is known for his album Drums of Passion. He is an authority on African religion.
p. 31, 35

Brita Ostrom,
a longtime Esalen massage practitioner, incorporates Trager℠ training and gestalt awareness work with the personal energetic connection of the Esalen massage.
p. 14, 22, 37

P

Rick Paine,
psychologist, works with adult children of alcoholics and leads workshops for emerging men. He is on the faculty of the New York Open Center, Interface, and Spring Hill Institute.
p. 10, 19, 32

Karen Paine-Gernée
leads groups for adult children of alcoholics in Cambridge, MA. She is on the faculty of Omega Institute, The New York Open Center, Interface, and Spring Hill Institute.
p. 10, 19, 32

Helen Palmer
is director of the Center for the Investigation and Training of Intuition and has a private psychic consultation practice. She is on the faculty of Kennedy University, Orinda, CA.
p. 8, 22, 31

Laurie (Lioness) Parizek,
a member of the Esalen massage crew and teaching staff since 1974, integrates traditional and innovative approaches to healing the body, mind, and spirit.
p. 20

Ayala Pines,
social psychologist at UC Berkeley and a psychologist in private practice, is author of Burnout in Love and Marriage: Keeping the Spark Alive and co-author of Career Burnout: Causes and Cures.
p. 19

Hector Prestera,
a physician, acupuncturist, Rolfer, certified neuro-linguistic trainer, and practitioner of Ericksonian work, is in private practice in Monterey, CA.
p. 26

Christine Stewart Price
is a teacher and ongoing student of gestalt practice and other approaches to developing awareness.
p. 6, 21, 34

Bill Puka,
ethics professor and psychological researcher and clinician at Harvard's Center for Moral Development, practices meditation, t'ai chi, and yoga and has worked on legislation for economic democracy.
p. 19

R

Paul Rebillot,
a group leader at Esalen for 15 years, combines gestalt methodology with theater and ritual. He divides his time between Europe and the U.S.
p. 17, 20, 21, 26

Deborah Reynolds
is a psychic who uses her abilities to provide information in the fields of science, medicine, and business. She has participated in projects at SRI International and the Center for Applied Intuition.
p. 31

Linda Rice-Mandigo
is a psychologist in private practice in New York and a practitioner of the spiritual discipline MAHIKARI NO-WAZA.
p. 31

Tracey Rich
has earned the title "Yoga Acharya" and is the associate director of White Lotus Foundation. She trains teachers and students and leads seminars nationally.
p. 29

Sogyal Rinpoche,
an incarnate lama, scholar, and meditation master from Tibet, prominent in the West, is an authority on the traditional knowledge of the Tibetan Book of the Dead.
p. 29

David Robinette,
head of the Hypnotherapy Certification Program at Twin Lakes College in Santa Cruz, has been an instructor at Cabrillo College in hypnosis-related courses since 1976.
p. 26

Marion Rosen
has done body work for the past 45 years and is the founder of the Rosen Method, which she teaches through the Rosen Institute.
p. 17

Jack Rosenberg,
a psychologist and director of the Rosenberg-Rand Institute of Integrative Body Psychotherapy in Venice, CA, is the author of the new book, Body, Self, and Soul.
p. 13, 19, 30, 32

Anne Ruderman
is a Reichian practitioner in private practice in Los Angeles.
p. 31

Gordy Ryan
has roots in the Big Sur Primitive Jazz Society and has studied and performed with Olatunji for fifteen years.
p. 31

S

Burton Schaffner
is in private practice in Los Angeles, has taught at UCLA, USC, and Pepperdine graduate school, and does post-graduate training of counselors.
p. 16, 37

David Schiffman,
a longtime group leader at Esalen, is involved in developing full expression of mental, physical, and spiritual states of being.
p. 10, 16, 17, 22, 26, 31

Elisa Lodge Schiffman
trained in structural integration with Ida Rolf and is an advanced teacher of Rolf movement and integration.
p. 10, 16, 22, 24, 26, 31

Will Schutz,
founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of The Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations, and is the author of Joy and Profound Simplicity.
p. 11, 24

Phyllis Shankman
is a licensed counselor in private practice in West Los Angeles. She has been leading groups at Esalen for over 10 years.
p. 29

Anne Nechama Simkin
trained in gestalt with Erv and Miriam Polster and Jim Simkin, and has conducted workshops internationally.
p. 17, 36

Harry Sloan,
a 1969 Esalen resident fellow, former dentist, and playwright, worked with Roberto Assagioli, the founder of psychosynthesis, and is in private practice in San Francisco.
p. 17

David Smith,
consultant and author, is founder and medical director of the Haight-Ashbury Free Medical Clinics and research director of the Merrit-Peralta Chemical Dependency Institute.
p. 16

Gerald Smith
is a psychologist in Belmont, CA. He is author of Hidden Meanings and Couple Therapy.
p. 15, 24

Jerry Solfvin
is on the faculties of John F. Kennedy University and the California Institute of Integral Studies. He has authored many articles on mental healing.
p. 23

Sharon Solfvin
is on the faculty of John F. Kennedy University and is a business consultant on creativity and intuition.
p. 23

Bob Solomon
has taught philosophy at Harvard, Princeton, Michigan, and currently, Texas. He is the author of The Passions and Love.
p. 10

John Soper
came to gestalt from a highly successful international career in business. Resident at Esalen since 1978, he practices both interpersonal and intrapersonal gestalt.
p. 34

Gena Mayer Sorensen,
a marriage and family counselor, is in private practice in San Jose and San Francisco. She holds an adjunct certificate as a Radix® teacher.
p. 28

Carola Speads,
former co-worker of Elsa Gindler, is an authority on breathing in relation to movement. She has taught workshops throughout the U.S. and Europe and is the author of Ways to Better Breathing.
p. 21

Kathleen Riordan Speeth
is a psychologist interested in Bach, Rilke, renaissance humanism, mysticism, creativity, excellence, and human evolution. She edited The Essential Psychotherapies.
p. 11

Brother David Steindl-Rast,
Benedictine monk, hermit, psychologist, and author, has lectured on all five continents. He is concerned with the spiritual challenges of our time.
p. 12, 14

Stanley Sunderwirth
has authored more than 50 scientific articles and has been the recipient of five Fulbright Awards for biochemistry. He is co-author of Craving for Ecstasy.
p. 16

T

Yao Tamakloe
studied African dance, music, and literature at the University of Ghana and at UCLA. He dances with the Drums of Passion.
p. 31

Charles Tart,
professor of psychology at UC Davis, is internationally known for his work in consciousness, parapsychology, and transpersonal psychology. His most recent book is Waking Up.
p. 31

Keith Thompson,
creator of Lifeline Productions in Mill Valley, CA, conducts videotaped life history interviews with family elders to preserve their stories and experiences for present and future generations.
p. 14, 24

Gabriele Thomson
has conducted workshops for mental health professionals in Europe, Australia, and New Zealand. She supports individuals in healing childhood traumas and furthering spiritual development.
p. 13

Vicki Topp,
Esalen massage staff member since 1968, teaches soft and sensitive use of pressure points and deep tissue massage combined with emotional and transpersonal body practices.
p. 19, 32, 37

V

Antoinette Varner
is an acupuncturist, herbalist, and movement teacher whose work integrates cognitive learning, the body, and spiritual experience. She has an acupuncture practice in Mill Valley, CA.
p. 27, 34, 37

Frances Vaughan,
psychologist and author, is the president-elect of the Association for Humanistic Psychology. She is a pioneer in transpersonal psychology and intuition research.
p. 28

W

Brian Wallace,
musician, composer, poet, and media artist noted for creating a dramatic environment, has performed for 20 years and is director of Intuit.
p. 15

Carl Whitaker,
professor emeritus at the University of Wisconsin, is a leading innovator in family communication and therapy. He is co-author of Roots of Psychotherapy and The Family Crucible.
p. 21

Ganga White,
an internationally known teacher and master of yoga, is author of Double Yoga and has received the titles "Yoga Acharya" and "Yogiraj" in India.
p. 29

Dan Williams,
a Cherokee Indian and highly decorated Vietnam veteran, is a ceremonialist in the Native American tradition.
p. 17

Z

Janet Zuckerman
was an emotional release and group process teacher in residence at Esalen for 12 years. She currently has a private practice in Mill Valley, CA.
p. 14, 15, 29, 30, 36

ESALEN INSTITUTE RESERVATIONS

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. In completing the form, please indicate the name, address, and telephone number of each person registering and clearly indicate the title of the workshop for which each person is reserving a place. A registration fee for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (See General Information, page 47.)

(Please Print)

Name _____ Sex M ☐ F ☐

Address _____

City, State _____ ZIP _____ Occupation _____

Telephone Number: Home: Area Code ( ) _____ Work: Area Code ( ) _____

Occasionally there are unexpected situations that require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you? _____. If you can't be reached, please call us before your scheduled arrival for final confirmation. Please indicate your second choice for a workshop, in case your first choice is canceled and we are unable to reach you.

(On additional paper please repeat the above information for every person in your party making a reservation.
Mail to: Reservations, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.)

☐ Check if you want housing as a couple, shared bed. ☐ Check if you want the discounted bunkbed option (see page 7).

Car Pooling: We encourage guests to carpool whenever possible.
Please call Esalen 10 days to two weeks prior to your workshop for phone numbers of other guests from your area.

☐ Check if you do not want us to give out your number for the purposes of ride sharing.

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Please allow three weeks for scholarship processing. For further details, see Ways of Being at Esalen, pages 6-7.

Bus Service: I want bus service from (check one):

☐ Monterey Greyhound Bus Station at approximately 3:45 PM ☐ Monterey Airport at approximately 4:00 PM

on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays & Sundays only)

The $25 per person charge is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the bus change after you submit this reservation, please notify us. The only departing bus service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM. Esalen bus service is not available at any time other than as listed.

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

We are unable to act as a banking service for our guests. Please bring adequate funds for your stay.

Name of Person Registering	Date(s)	Leader's Name/Title of Workshop	Deposit Enclosed

Total amount enclosed: $ _____

Please make checks payable to Esalen Institute, in U.S. currency only.
Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks.

Your reservation can be charged to:

☐ MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express

Card No. _____

Expiration Date _____

Authorizing Signature _____

All workshops require nonrefundable reservation fees. See page 47. The balance of program fees becomes payable at the time of check-in.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Our activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Esalen lies 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco, situated directly over the Pacific with the Santa Lucia Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was once the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esselen.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute – By Reservation Only.

Fees and Reservations: In order to reserve a space in any workshop, we require the following reservation fees:

Weekend:	$50	Two-week:	$200
Five-day:	$100	Three-week:	$300
Seven-day:	$150	Month-long:	$400

Fees are payable in U.S. currency only. Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks. Balance of payment is due on arrival. These fees are not refundable but, with five days' notice, may be transferred to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year of receipt. Those who pay in full at the time they make their reservations will receive a $10 discount. Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is canceled and we are unable to reach you.

Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Rooms are shared by two or more workshop participants. Camping on the grounds is prohibited.

Please mail all reservations to:

Reservations
Esalen Institute
Big Sur, CA 93920

We prefer to process reservations via the mail. However, if you are concerned about workshops being full or have any questions, you may make reservations by phone if you use your MasterCard, Visa, or American Express credit card number to charge your reservation fee.

To make a phone reservation, call (408) 667-3005 during the following office hours:

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday 10 AM to 12 Noon; 1 PM to 3 PM
Wednesday 10 AM to 12 Noon
Friday 10 AM to 12 Noon; 1 PM to 5 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 5 PM

If there is no answer during our regular business hours, and the phone company confirms that our phones are out of order, please call our alternate number, (408) 372-8719, for recorded up-to-date workshop, road, and transportation information.

Scholarships: For information on scholarships and other economical ways of staying at Esalen, please see pages 6-7.

Check-in and Meals: Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with lunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Sunday and end with lunch on Friday. Check-out time is noon of departure day. Rooms become available at 4 PM; however, guests are welcome to arrive any time after 2 PM.

Esalen's flourishing organic garden provides the kitchen with many of its vegetables and herbs. Our breads and pastries are baked at Esalen.

Seminarians as Volunteers: Seminarians in residence at Esalen are requested to contribute several hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out. A staff member will appear at your first workshop meeting to schedule volunteers.

Car Pooling: We encourage guests to carpool whenever possible. Please call Esalen 10 days to two weeks prior to your workshop for phone numbers of other guests coming from your area.

Bus Service: On Fridays and Sundays we have bus service from the Monterey Greyhound station leaving approximately at 3:45 PM and from the Monterey Airport approximately at 4:00 PM. If you plan to use this service, please inform the Esalen office at least 24 hours prior to your arrival. The $25 one-way fee is payable to the Esalen office when you check in. Return reservations may be made at that time. The only departing bus service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM.

Gazebo School: Requests for child care should be sent at least one month in advance to Gazebo, c/o Esalen Institute.

Health Services: We are unable to provide medical supervision or pharmaceutical supplies. If you are on a health-care program and you plan to spend several weeks at Esalen, please arrive prepared to administer to your health-care needs.

Illegal Drugs: In accordance with state and federal laws, the possession or use of illegal drugs on Esalen grounds is strictly prohibited.

Lost and Found: To inquire about items left behind from your visit to Esalen, call (408) 667-3019.

Accreditation: There are now a number of opportunities for Esalen resident scholars to gain credit with Antioch University toward a bachelor's degree or toward a master's degree in somatic psychology. Many other formal educational institutions also recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Conferences at Esalen: It is now possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We schedule approximately a year in advance for large groups (up to 100). Smaller groups may be accommodated at shorter notice. Call the office, (408) 667-3038, for further information, or write to the conference coordinator.

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax-deductible.

The expenses of attending Esalen, including travel, are deductible for federal income tax purposes as an educational expense if incurred to maintain or improve professional or work skills. (See Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5.)

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

Esalen Institute
Big Sur
California 93920

DATED MATTER

THE ESALEN CATALOG

MAY–OCTOBER 1988

CONTENTS

Volume XXVII, Number 2

Audio Recordings 54-55
Biographical Information 56-64
Children's Programs 49
Conferences at Esalen 66
Esalen Seminars 16-47
Experiencing Esalen 14
Future Programs 51
General Information 66
Gestalt Practice 14
Invitational Conferences 13
Media Center 55
Medical Programs 51
Notes 12-13
Remembering Joseph Campbell 4-11
Reservations Form 65
Scholarship Information 14-15
Special Programs 48-49
Ways of Being at Esalen 14-15
Wilderness Programs 50
Work Study Program and Application 52-53

Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920

Phone (408) 667-3000

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday,
& Saturday 10 AM to 3 PM
Wednesday 10 AM to 12 Noon
Friday 10 AM to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8 PM

Catalog Editor: Susan Stone
Graphic Design: Barbara Adamson
Photographic Coordination: Joyce Lyke

Consulting Editor: Nancy Kaye Lunney
Administrative Liaison: Patricia LeWine
Editorial Review: George Leonard

Cover Photograph: Kathleen Thormod Carr

Esalen Board of Trustees:

Mark Dayton
Steve Donovan
Jack Downing
Victoria Elliot
Stanislav Grof
Bokara Legendre
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Michael Murphy
Christine Stewart Price
Marius Robinson
William Sechrest
Jeremy Tarcher

©1988 Esalen Institute
All Rights Reserved.

The Esalen Catalog is published triannually by the Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920. Subscription cost for one year is $12 for the United States, $14 for Canada and Mexico, $18 for Europe and South America, and $20 for all other countries. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available upon request.

Cover photograph:
"Face of Glory" (Kirttimukha), Borobudur, Java. A.D. 8th century. Indian legend has it that this lion-headed demon was commanded by Shiva to eat himself and, ravenous as he was, he quickly proceeded through feet, hands, torso, and neck. Shiva, delighted by this "epitomization of the self-consuming mystery that is life," smiled and said to it: "You shall be known henceforth as Kirttimukha, 'Face of Glory,' and shall abide forever at my door. No one who fails to worship you will ever obtain my grace." Here, at this gateway to the east side of the third gallery at Borobudur, the visitor is symbolically swallowed up by the monster upon entering, then given new spiritual life. (Joseph Campbell, The Mythic Image, Bollingen Series C. Copyright © 1974 by Princeton University Press.)

This Esalen Catalog is dedicated to Joseph Campbell, our friend and mentor, who illuminated the Grail quest in his book The Hero with a Thousand Faces. The images in these pages reflect his fascination with the myths and symbols of every culture. Joseph's scholarship, wisdom, and sheer joy for the mystery of life will continue to inform and enrich us.

COURTESY OF WALKER ART GALLERY

Sir Galahad by Arthur Hughes. "And so Galahad decided it would be a disgrace to set off on a quest with the other knights. Alone he would enter the dark forest where there was no path. The story of Galahad is the myth of the hero's journey." (From the documentary The Hero's Journey: The World of Joseph Campbell.)

KATHLEEN THORPE CARR

JOSEPH CAMPBELL
1904–1987

Remembering
Joseph Campbell

In the fertile territory where mythology, psychology, anthropology, religion, and philosophy intersect, Joseph Campbell was an eminent scholar of our time. But over the years, as he masterfully revealed the subtle and marvelous connections between mythology, Ultimate Questions, and everyday life, those of us who had the privilege to learn from him, and with him, came to value his humanity as well as his intellect. And so, when we stop to feel how he actually touched our lives, it's not the award-winning author or scholar who comes to mind first.

Instead, most of us remember Joseph the man. How his eyes lit up and his speech became song when he got passionate about his ideas. How after his workshops he would stay and talk with those of us who didn't want to go home. How he didn't seem to care whether his thinking was politically "correct" or not. How he understood viscerally what his ancestors meant by the words, "Being Irish is to know the world was meant to break your heart." How the delight of his laughter was so contagious. And how it was crucial to him that we understand that the gods and goddesses of antiquity, far from being abstract concepts or idols for worship, are alive in this very moment, within and without us, appearing as irreducible patterns of meaning in what is most ordinary and familiar.

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

The following contributors could have written eloquently about the monumental scope and historical significance of his vision and works. Instead, they speak about the place Joseph holds in their hearts. In their respective fields and through their creative works, each has demonstrated in unique ways that myth is most real when it is most alive: Tom Robbins, whose novels include Even Cowgirls Get the Blues and Still Life with Woodpecker; Huston Smith, professor of philosophy and comparative religion; Robert Bly, poet and storyteller; George Lucas, producer of Star Wars; Sam Keen, philosopher and educator; Christina Grof, founder of the Spiritual Emergence Network; Chungliang Al Huang, t'ai chi master and author; Michael Murphy, cofounder of Esalen Institute; and Phil Cousineau, screenwriter and producer.

Each captures something of Joseph's wondrous personal presence and of the comprehensiveness of his vision through the medium he loved and seemed to live for: storytelling. My own favorite story goes back to the 1984 symposium in San Francisco celebrating Joe's 80th birthday, where a young man spoke up from the audience to ask,

> "How is a person to go about finding his or her myth?"
> "Where is your deepest bliss?" Joseph responded.
> "I don't know – I'm not sure."
> "Find it," Joe sang back, "and then follow it."

I can still feel the silence that followed. What else needed saying?

Keith Thompson

TOWARD THE SECRET EARTH

Tom Robbins

One sweaty morning seven years ago on the ceremonial grounds of Chichén Itzá, I watched a small coral snake slither from a pile of Mayan rubble and shoot through the grass like a rubber arrow in the direction of a group of my traveling companions. The snake singled out one man from the group, crawled deliberately up to the toe of his conservative urban shoe, paused there for a moment, then veered sharply to the right and disappeared again into another heap of ancient stones.

That brief incident would have been mildly interesting at best had not the man whom the snake "visited" been Joseph Campbell.

Professor Campbell had been regaling our party with some story or other and gave no indication of having even noticed the little serpent. Yet, I was convinced that something had passed between them.

> Did the snake lick the tip of Joseph Campbell's shoelace, changing it into jade?
>
> Was the snake carrying a tarot card under its tongue?
>
> Was it carrying a pomegranate seed?
>
> Had the snake wept? Had it sung? Were those yellow feathers sprouting from its spine?
>
> Would the serpent and Professor Campbell meet again late that evening – and would they discuss details for the coronation of the Ant King?

Speculations such as these were hardly surprising. Joseph Campbell was so conversant with the world of wonders that he awakened the potential for wonder in everyone he touched. He unbuttoned the secret earth for us and let the inexhaustible inspiration of Being stream through.

Now, like heroes before him, he has vanished into the buttonhole. But he left the bright opening agape, allowing us free access to that heritage of raptures and terrors that he so valiantly resurrected, so vividly described.

THE HEIGHT OF HIS BOUNCE

Huston Smith

It was his contagious verve and exuberance, the height of his bounce on life's trampoline, I think, that endeared him to us most.

For example, in the late 1960s Elmer Green organized a conference at the Menninger Foundation in Topeka. The topic was energy, and Elmer had gathered some thirty yogis, gurus, and psychics to see if they knew of sources of vitality that science was overlooking. Joe's turn to speak fell at mid-week, and he began right after supper. Taking off like a jet and maintaining altitude all the way, at 11:30 he agreed to let us off the hook while letting it be known that he was good till three if anyone else was.

It was then that someone observed that Joe seemed to have more energy than any of the Asian participants.

> "What is your yoga, Dr. Campbell?" he asked.
> "Mine? Oh, I don't have a yoga. My yoga is reading books," Joseph responded.

The next morning, though, he qualified that.

> "Actually, I do have a yoga," he said. "It consists of rare roast beef, good Irish whiskey, and 40 laps in the pool every day – in 20 minutes."

And then there was the anecdote he related when I chanced to run into him in Chicago's O'Hare Airport. He was returning from lectures on the Pacific Coast, one of which I recall was in Marin County. The lecture hall was in a residential area, and when he got out of his rented car he found a small boy standing by the curb.

> "You can't park here," the boy informed him.
> "Why not?" Joe wanted to know.
> "Because I'm a hydrant," the boy announced.

KATHLEEN THORNOD CARR

Sharing a moment of bliss with workshop participants at his 80th birthday celebration, Joseph has an opportunity to experience what he described in The Hero with a Thousand Faces: "The universal goddess makes her appearance to men under a multitude of guises."

Joe could understand that. Thanking the young man for saving him from a ticket, he returned to his car and advanced it fifty feet.

Of such are the kingdom of heaven.

SUNSET...AND THE FIRST MOMENT OF DAWN

Robert Bly

"The old god lived in him." Those words appeared as I thought of this piece. But which god? Surely Saturn – the god of vast systems, the god who eats melancholy as others eat bread, the god in whom the ancestors live, who bring their own bitterness to the teeth, the god of persistence, he who has seen it all come around many times, the god who lives in a melancholic hole six feet down, who takes us down there, and as we walk on the packed black sand of discipline, the stars as we gaze up out of that hole look even more fantastic, and glowering, shining with divine light and human memory.

The other old god in him was obviously Hermes – that was on his Irish side. That part of him was impish.

> "How do you think a carrot feels," I heard him ask the vegetarian Theosophists at Ojai, "when it sees a vegetarian walking toward it?"

He often treated his audiences as if they were English, and he was an Irish poet who had just bested an Anglo-Saxon poet in a metaphor contest.

> "The tusk of the swine, the horn of the ox, the mind of the Saxon," or some such saying I heard him repeat several times.

I remember vividly a conversation in a car on the way to the airport in Philadelphia one morning after he and I had guided a seminar on mythology for Yellow Springs the night before. A questioner had chided him for not taking part in political action, by which the questioner meant left-wing action. Joseph had spent two years in his twenties reading The Decline and Fall of the West, and he now, from the front seat of the car, turned and commented on the question.

> "Spengler makes it clear! After the three Caesars appear, the culture goes downhill on its own momentum, and no political action can change that in the slightest. Don't waste your time!"

C.J. ZUMWALT

In 1985 Joseph Campbell received the National Arts Club Medal of Honor Award for Literature, honoring 50 years of scholarship and his masterful The Way of the Animal Powers, Volume 1 of the Historical Atlas of World Mythology. Here, Adriana Zahn, president of the National Arts Club, and James Hillman, psychologist, applaud his achievement.

C.J. ZUMWALT

Special guests at the National Arts Club awards banquet included George Lucas and Linda Ronstadt. In his comments, Lucas acknowledged the invaluable influence of Joseph's The Hero with a Thousand Faces on the Star Wars trilogy.

"Who are the three Caesars?"

"Hitler, Mussolini, and Franklin Roosevelt."

There was a silence, and my wife, Ruth, said,

"But Joseph, that beautifully organized lecture you gave last night was a political act."

His eyes flashed; he knew he had been caught, and the Hermes in him enjoyed it. So he believed Spengler and he didn't; he thought it was all over, and he was infinitely hopeful; he was Jonathan Swift and also Tom Sawyer; it was sunset, and the very first moment of dawn.

YOU'RE MY YODA

George Lucas

About ten years ago I set out to write a children's film, and I had the idea of doing a modern fairy tale. My friends all around said, "What are you doing? Are you crazy? You have to do something important, something socially relevant, something that is art with a capital A. You have to do what we are doing."

I listened and went forward with my idea anyway, started doing research, started writing. A year went by and I read and wrote many drafts of this work, but something wasn't quite right. And then I stumbled across The Hero with a Thousand Faces, and for the first time I really began to focus. I discovered that I was approaching the same themes intuitively and I began to see a lot of parallels. Then I read The Flight of the Wild Gander and got into the Masks of God series, and this sense of being on the right track continued to grow. Out of this period of discovery and work came Star Wars.

Much later I was given a set of tape-recorded lectures by Joseph, and I listened for five minutes, and after listening for hours and hours and hours I said, I've got to meet this man. There is a wonderful life force that comes through the wit and charm of Joe's inspired speech that is as wonderful as the books.

On my birthday about two years ago Joe was in San Francisco and I went to his speaking engagement and ran around afterwards backstage to meet him. Since then I've gotten to know him better. Eventually he came out and stayed with me for a weekend and said, "Gee, I'd like to see some of your films." He sat through Star Wars, The Empire Strikes Back, and Return of the Jedi, which no one else had ever done, and he actually came out chipper and wide awake. In fact, he asked, "Do you have any more?" And I said, "Sure do," and I showed him American Graffiti and THX. We spent the rest of the weekend together just talking. It was one of the finest experiences of my life.

I think you can say about some authors that their work is greater than the personage, but with Joseph, as magnificent as his work is, he's as wonderful, as completely insightful and powerful as his creations. He's a simply wonderful man. To conclude, I can only say: Joe, you've become my Yoda.

(These remarks were made in 1985 at the National Arts Club awards banquet honoring Joseph Campbell.)

WE WERE GATHERED BY YOUR SPIRIT

Sam Keen

My Dear Friend Joseph,
First of all, you were my teacher. Before I met you, I admired you from afar because of your immense repertoire of stories and your unwavering enthusiasm for mixing and matching myths. Like no one else in our time you were the encyclopedia of mythology. I felt that you lived on intimate terms with Prometheus and Krishna and probably got the latest gossip from Zeus himself.

But it wasn't until I was lost in the demon darkness of my own being that I discovered you were also my guide. For me, as for so many in these troubled times, The Hero with a Thousand Faces was more than a book; it was a life-saving map that showed the way down into the chaos and back up into the light.

It was lighthearted fate that finally arranged our meeting and provided the banquet of seminars we shared at Esalen. And what a joy to see you surrounded year after year by a growing community of friends who cherished not only your learning but your being. Your generous spirit gathered us together and made us all breathe freer, roar louder, and dare to enter the forest at the place where it was darkest. You peopled our lives with a rich cast of characters and helped us to recognize the dignity of our struggles. I wonder if you ever knew how much love you generated in those whose lives you touched.

You were, in truth, the father of the bride at my wedding. You gave me Jan's hand in marriage and remained a fair witness and a bond between us, as much a part of our family as if you had been flesh and blood.

I think it must be true that "God made man because he loved stories." And so it must be of some comfort to all your friends to know that you have returned to the Court of the Storyteller, to the mystery from which all of your beloved myths arose.

Goodbye dear Joseph.
I love you.

I REMEMBER JOSEPH

Christina Grof

I first saw "Mr. Campbell" in 1960 when I was a freshman at Sarah Lawrence College. He was giving a lecture to the student body on James Joyce's Finnegans Wake. I had only the vaguest idea who Joyce was and knew even less about the speaker, but when he started talking, I was entranced. I was suddenly led into a world of elegance, poetry, and rich inner connections. He started at the end of the book and brilliantly demonstrated how its last lines blended perfectly into the first one, hundreds of pages before. I left the auditorium feeling I had just tasted something delicious and thinking about circles, cycles, endings, and beginnings. It was obvious that the lecturer thoroughly loved his material. I determined to someday study with him.

Three years later, I was one of a fortunate few selected to participate in Joseph's small senior seminar on mythology, his only class. Each week we sat spellbound as he masterfully wove across the length of four blackboards an intricate and magnificent tapestry of art, history, religion, music, mythology, geography, poetry, literature – everything that humanity had created, and beyond. I was particularly passionate about the mythologies to do with death and rebirth, the hero's journey, the chakras, and kundalini.

I had no idea at the time that these themes were to become experiential realities in my life. In 1974, through a complex series of life events, I began to have abrupt, spontaneous experiences of the realms of birth, death, rebirth, and cross-cultural spirituality that Joseph had mapped so thoroughly. Suddenly, these were no longer mere intellectual constructs, but overwhelming immediate realities that led me to fear for my sanity. In the midst of the internal and external chaos (having lost my marriage, children, job, security – everything), I ended up a few months later in New York. One day it occurred to me that perhaps Joseph could help direct me.

In a small Italian restaurant, I poured out my confusion. He listened intently and compassionately, and after thinking for a while, said, "I have a friend in California, at a place called Esalen, who knows about these things. His name is Stan Grof.

JANELLE BAUNICKE

In January 1982, Robert Bly traveled from his home in Moose Lake, Minnesota, to be filmed at Esalen with "my hero, Joseph Campbell" for the documentary The Hero's Journey: The World of Joseph Campbell. Here Bly and Campbell discuss mythology and art on the deck behind the Big House.

C.J. ZUPWALT

Joseph with his wife, Jean Erdman, and friends and colleagues Patricia and James Hillman at the National Arts Club awards banquet. At the award presentation, James Hillman said of Joseph: "No one in our century, not Freud, not Jung, not Thomas Mann or Lévi-Strauss, has so brought the mythical sense of the world and its eternal figures back into our ordinary daily consciousness."

CHUNGLIANG AL HUANG

"Shiva" manifesting in t'ai chi dancing.

Why don't you go see him?" A couple of weeks later I did, and that began a personal and professional relationship that has lasted for twelve years.

In the years that followed, when Stan and I visited with Joseph, we would describe our explorations of nonordinary states of consciousness, relating experiences from our workshops throughout the world. Joseph would listen with great interest, drawing fascinating connections about the archetypal basis of mythology and the mythological nature of archetypal realms. Invariably, however, he would say, "I will leave these explorations to others. I like my feet firmly on the ground." Yet after watching Joe over the years, it became obvious that the material he had been presenting as a scholar had begun to seep into his being. His eyes would mist and his voice tremble as he described the three-faced Shiva of the Elephanta caves (see photograph and caption, Shiva Maheshvara, page 16) and say in a hushed voice, "It was so powerful, emerging out of the dark, one had to turn away." He had become, we knew, a jhana yogi; his yoga was his knowledge.

Since his death, I have delighted in the thought that perhaps now he is tasting the wondrous realms that he opened for so many to explore. Thank you, friend Joseph, for all the riches you have given us, for the inspiration that continues through your books and by the memory of your example. We will miss you.

A DRAGON OF A MAN

Chungliang Al Huang

I met Joseph for the first time in New York seventeen years ago while conducting a seminar with Alan Watts. Although I had known his wife, Jean Erdman, well (she had been my teacher, later my colleague), it was my first face-to-face encounter with "my hero" Joseph. I was visibly awestruck and acting self-intimidated about my pitiful vocabulary and scholarship. Sensing this, Joe reached out to hold my hand and assure me that my dancing body language was more eloquent than all the words he and Alan Watts could put together. Both Alan and Joe were giant human beings who were unusually gregarious and perceptive; they nurtured us like sun and rain upon plants.

Many years later, Joe and I were inspired to co-create a workshop at Esalen, Our Myth-Body to Live By, paraphrasing his wonderful collection of lectures, Myths to Live By. This workshop became an annual event around Joe's birthday week each Spring. During those fertile, inspirational years, I was blessed with his quintessential scholarship, his enormous wit, and compassion. Joe was enthusiastic about my bringing the t'ai chi movement to illustrate his lectures on the kundalini and the hero's journey. We danced the metaphors and incarnated ourselves as Krishna, Kali, Buddha, Kwan Yin, and other deities. We told cosmic jokes, sang mythological ditties, and hopped about as "dancing Shivas" with multiple pairs of arms creating polarities for the harmony of the Universe. We were a lively group of students of life, joyfully participating in the sorrows of the world!

Joseph opened our minds and hearts, rekindled our innocence for lifelong learning, and heightened our perceptivity in crystallizing the complex and the multi-dimensional. A former world-class athlete, jazz musician, and a lover of the dance, he embodied a wealth of knowledge and wisdom, together with his endearing humanity. Most of all, Joe was generous and kind. He was a Dragon, in the same sense that Confucius spoke of Lao Tzu as a True Dragon: "When I meet one whose thoughts rush heavenward like the flight of the dragon and lose themselves in the immensities, I listen with wonder . . . "

A RADIANT PRESENCE

Michael Murphy

For more than twenty years, Joseph breathed new life into Esalen. Seminar participants, staff, and work scholars alike came away from his seminars like people from revival meetings, inspired by Galahad, Kali, or Hermes, rather than visions of hellfire. No one brought their audiences to their feet like he did. No one in Esalen's history joined enthusiasm, scholarship, and wisdom so fully.

Thinking about him, I get my fighting spirit up, and life is brighter. When tears form because I miss him, I also feel the joy he gives us. He is a permanent radiant presence now.

THE TRICKSTER

Phil Cousineau

The old mythologist
Was a Zen cat in a Christian tree,
A Buddhist bull in a Catholic china shop,

A Celtic monk with a computer chip memory,
A Jungian novelist with an Irish cop's morality,
A Greenwich Village Bodhisattva with a cup of decaf ambrosia,

A Joycean sax man improvising wordriffs from the music of the spheres,
A Hero with a Thousand Myths casting spiral story spells,
A Shakespearean shaman returning from the dark forest,

Where there is no way or path,
Pointing over his shoulder
With wily coyote smile.

A camp bell rung
Across the dark
Trickster night.

KATHLEEN THORNOO CARR

For eight years, Chungliang Al Huang and Joseph Campbell collaborated in a popular Esalen workshop which joined t'ai chi and mythology.

KATHLEEN THORNOO CARR

Joseph Campbell autographs his recently published The Way of the Animal Powers for Diane Osbon at his 80th birthday celebration.

We wish to thank the many people who helped make this tribute possible. We are especially indebted to: Jean Erdman, Keith Thompson, Kathleen Thormod Carr, Stan and Christina Grof, Chungliang Al Huang, Tom Robbins, Huston Smith, Robert Bly, George Lucas, Sam Keen, Michael Murphy, Phil Cousineau, Daniel and Cynthia Bianchetta, and Timothy Seldes. We are also grateful to Alfred van der Marck Editions, Princeton University Press, and Time Inc. for providing many of the photographs, which originally appeared in Joseph's books, The Way of the Animal Powers and The Mythic Image.

For information on purchase or rental of The Hero's Journey: The World of Joseph Campbell, a PBS documentary, contact Stuart Brown, Mythology Ltd., 8585 El Paseo Grande, La Jolla, CA 92037; (619) 454-6512.

ESALEN NOTES

SOVIET-AMERICAN EXCHANGE PROGRAM

(The following excerpts were taken from Jim Garrison's Director's Report to the Board.)

We are witnessing a historic moment in world affairs. Not in decades have such broad and sweeping changes taken place in Soviet society with such profound implications for Soviet-American relations. The work of the Exchange Program is made all the more exciting as new opportunities open up for future collaboration. President Reagan and General Secretary Gorbachev met twice in 1987, once in Reykjavik and once in Washington. After years of hostility, marked by rhetoric of the "evil empire," the new impulse toward summitry marks a significant transition toward normal relations. These changes have enabled us to break new ground in our work.

Some of the Exchange Program projects that were undertaken in 1987 include:

* In February, the Exchange Program and the Institute of Soviet-American Relations sponsored the sixth annual invitational conference on Citizen Diplomacy at Esalen Institute, which was attended by over 30 citizen diplomacy groups, including the U.N. Association, the Citizen's Exchange Council, and the Center for International Leadership, as well as Ambassador Stephen Rhinesmith and Greg Guroff from U.S.I.A. and Ed Salazar from the Department of State. Among the subjects discussed was the feasability of setting up an office in Moscow for the citizen diplomat community and increased computer communication among us.

* The sixth annual Erik Erikson Symposium took place at Esalen in June, led by Joe Montville, Research Director at the State Department's School for the Study of Foreign Affairs. It was Joe Montville who coined the term "track-two" diplomacy to describe our work with the Soviet Union.

* In July, Marshall Fitzgerald signed an agreement on behalf of the Exchange Program with the Estonian Institute of Management Studies. This agreement is to a) exchange literature on new management methods; b) bring their specialists to California to acquaint them with state of the art management methods; and c) organize joint U.S.-U.S.S.R. seminars to discuss the promotion and development of international trade and joint ventures. If the work is successful, we hope to develop similar seminars in other Soviet Republics and eventually expand into longer programs to be held at Moscow State University.

* As a follow-up to our 1986 spacebridge, Chernobyl and Three Mile Island: Implications for Cooperation in an Interdependent World, staff member Claire Ryle led a delegation to the Soviet Union in September from the Rocky Mountain Institute, which included energy analysts Amory and Hunter Lovins, energy specialists Bill Keepin and Hal Harvey, and strategic planner Peter Schwartz. The group, which was hosted by Mir Publishing, met with members of the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences, including Viktor Gelovani and Academician Yevgeny Velikhov, Vice President of the Academy and General Secretary Gorbachev's chief advisor on science and energy. The meeting led to a television broadcast of a discussion on energy efficiency. While in the Soviet Union, the group had productive meetings with the Institute for High Temperature and the Institute for Systems Studies and sought collaborators for a joint book, which will discuss the relationship between energy efficiency and national security. A reciprocal visit to continue work on the book is planned to take place in 1988.

* A documentary of the spacebridge was aired nationally on over 20 PBS stations. It detailed the historic event, which Esalen co-sponsored with the American Association for the Advancement of Sciences, the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences, Internews, and Gostelradio. Also premiering on PBS was Sam Keen's Faces of the Enemy, a film based on his book, which is a study of the aggression between countries.

* In August, Dulce and Michael Murphy went to Moscow to plan for the future of our Writers Exchange Project (first established in 1986), make preliminary arrangements for the 1988 visit by the First Secretary of the U.S.S.R. Union of Writers, Vladimir Karpov, and begin work on a joint collection of short stories by a new generation of Soviets and Americans.

* In late September, our Health Promotion Project sponsored an international conference at Esalen on New Frontiers in Human Health. Attending the conference were four leading researchers from the Soviet Union, a representative from the World Health Organization, and over 40 American experts. Groundbreaking research in the use of therapeutic touch, herbal medicine, and computer-assisted psychotherapy was evaluated for its practical applications to heart disease, cancer, alcoholism, and AIDS. Participants are now working to design future long-term projects on which to collaborate.

* In November, our International Exchange Program sponsored its first Sino-American forum at Esalen on Science, Technology, and Social Change. We hosted four high-level social and economic planners from the People's Republic of China, including Ma Hong, Director General of the Research Center of Economic, Technological, and Social Development of the State Council. Mr. Ma prepared the recent report, China in the Year 2000, commissioned by Deng Xiaoping for the 13th Party Congress. The forum brought together Mr. Ma's delegation with researchers, economists, futurists, strategic planners, and Sinologists from around the United States to discuss the implications of high technology for China's modernization as well as the prospects for technological cooperation between the United States and China.

* Project Director Linda Tellington-Jones brought her work with animals to centers in both the United States and the U.S.S.R. and is now developing a plan to teach it to school children internationally.

Projects in 1988 include:

* A visit was organized in January for Vladimir Karpov and several members of the U.S.S.R. Union of Writers, including Tatiana Tolstaya, a highly acclaimed short story writer whose first collection will be published by Alfred A. Knopf; well-known Soviet poet Vyacheslav Kuprianov; playwright Viktor Rozov, whose plays have been performed in New York, Washington, and San Francisco; Mikhail Zvanetsky, prose writer; Frieda Lurie, head of the American Desk at the Union of Writers; Afanasy Vesilitsky, assistant to the head of the Foreign Relations Department of the Union; and Georgi Andzhadaze, director of the Fine Arts Publishing House.

The delegation met with authors, editors, and publishers in New York, Los Angeles, and San Francisco; attended a reception at the New York Public Library, hosted by Vartan Gregorian, president of the Library; attended a luncheon at the Council of Foreign Affairs; and met with Karin Kennerly, executive director of PEN, and Helen Stevenson, executive director of the Author's Guild. Collaborative book projects were discussed as well as plans to take a delegation of leading American short story writers to the U.S.S.R. in the summer of 1988 to meet with their Soviet counterparts.

* Prior to catalog press time, plans were being made to host Academician Abel Aganbegyan, chief economic advisor to General Secretary Gorbachev, on his first visit to the United States in his new role. Arrangements were made for lectures and meetings with leading economists, business executives, and members of the academic and political communities in Washington, Chicago, Minneapolis, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. His visit is seen as a rare chance for American businesses to explore the possibility of developing joint ventures with the Soviet Union. Also planned was an invitational seminar to be held at Esalen to discuss the possibilities for a "Business Summit" in 1988.

Academician Aganbegyan is one of the contributors to a joint anthology that has stemmed from our Dialogues on Social and Economic Transformation Project. The manuscript, Superpowers in Transition: U.S.A. and U.S.S.R. on the Threshold of the 21st Century, will include essays by John Naisbitt, Patricia Aburdene, and Senator Claiborne Pell.

* Another book in development is The Glasnost Papers. We have been collaborating with Andrei Melville of the Institute for the Study of the U.S.A. and Canada to publish a collection of recent articles and essays printed in Soviet newspapers and journals illustrating the significance of the new policy of openness.

* In September, the U.S.S.R. Ministry of Health will sponsor a reciprocal health conference in the ancient city of Suzdal, U.S.S.R. Project Director Dulce Murphy will lead a delegation consisting of participants from the previous conference at Esalen, including Dr. Candace Pert of the National Institute of Mental Health; Willis Goldbeck, President of the Washington Business Group on Health; and professor and noted author Andrew Weil, among others.

* We are exploring the possibilities for creating an exchange of working artists and sculptors to share current working methods and to explore new trends in contemporary art.

INVITATIONAL CONFERENCES

In its continuing commitment to the fields of education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences, Esalen regularly sponsors invitational conferences that bring together experts who share their research and common points of inquiry. As host, Esalen covers room and board expenses for participants as a way of advancing these particular studies. These are invitational conferences only and are not open to the public.

The goal of these conferences is to engender the kind of creativity that comes from the collaborative work of people with similar interests but radically different approaches. We hope that the results will include expanded research projects, new writing, and more effective plans for the education of therapists. Currently scheduled programs and their conveners are listed below.

May 15–20
Shamanism and Shamanic Counseling: New Frontiers
Michael Harner
Recent developments in the application of shamanism and shamanic counseling to contemporary health and life problems will be the focus of this conference. Participants will review their own recent work in the field and suggest through mutual exchange of ideas and information possible directions for growth.

May 29–June 5
Invitational Conference on the Body and Spirituality
Don Johnson & Esalen Somatics Staff
Sponsored by The Fund for the Enhancement of the Human Spirit, this seminar will bring together a group of Christian theologians, pastors, directors of schools of theology, and leaders in the Christian community to explore the relationships between biological and spiritual values.

June 5–10
Invitational Conference on the Body
Don Johnson
The faculty of the two-year Somatics Study Program for Health Professionals will present pieces of their work for discussion with a group of biological scientists, philosophers, and cultural historians. The group will explore relations among silent experience, language, and scientific inquiry.

June 12–17
Dialogues on Philosophy at Esalen
Jay Ogilvy
This conference will continue the conversations on spiritual epistemology and cultural pluralism that were initiated in 1987.

June 19–24
Esalen Conference for Practicing Intuitives
Helen Palmer
This will be a meeting between outstanding practicing intuitives and those who are applying intuitive methodology to areas such as education, medicine, business, psychology, race relations, and conflict resolution. Participants will include Frances Vaughan, Anne and Jim Armstrong, Charles and Judy Tart, Marlene and Marty Cohen.

June 26–July 1
Mobius-Esalen Conference on Psycho-Physical Issues
Stephen Schwartz
Last year's conference concentrated on experimental issues. This year, participants will focus on societal issues particularly concerning the creation of a national commission on human potential.

September 11–16
Mysticism Reconsidered
Frances Vaughan
This seminar will be an interdisciplinary attempt to reformulate contemporary perspectives on mysticism, to clear up some popular misconceptions, and to provide some guidelines for further research in this area.

October 2–7
Lindisfarne
William Irwin Thompson & Mary Catherine Bateson
Lindisfarne is an association of individuals and groups around the world dedicated to fostering the emergence of a new planetary culture. This conference will explore the challenge to re-invision, re-think, and re-create the delicate balance of life that is poised between nature and culture.

WAYS OF BEING AT ESALEN

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from a visit to the hot springs on a week night to a long-term stay as a student or resident. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the various methods of personal growth and self-exploration that are available here. The Experiencing Esalen workshops, although not a prerequisite to taking any of the scheduled seminars, offer an introduction to practices such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, and meditation. From such a sampling, participants can then choose those approaches they are most attracted to and pursue them in subsequent seminars.

Another way of being at Esalen, which allows a much greater involvement with the place and its community at a lower expense, is the Work Study Program, described more fully elsewhere in this section and on page 52. For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more, there is an ongoing residence program. Other long-term programs include the "month-longs," which frequently involve didactic seminars or professional trainings as well as experiential workshops.

Some courses offer continuing education credit to nurses (see Medical Programs, page 51, for current C.E. listings), and academic credit toward a bachelor's or master's degree is offered to Esalen resident scholars through the new Esalen-Antioch somatics program.

Occasionally, when beds aren't needed for seminarians, room and board is available. This gives visitors the opportunity to enjoy the grounds, the baths, massage, and good food without participating in a workshop. See page 15 for more information.

In addition, there are other events which enrich life at Esalen. There are frequent forums in which writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights, there may be lectures, films, dance performances, choirs, or other forms of entertainment. On Sunday afternoons there are garden tours (see page 15 for more information). Body work of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners. Private sessions are also available for various types of process work, including gestalt, neo-Reichian emotional release, vision improvement, singing gestalt, etc. Finally, there is a community workshop program which goes on daily and provides many opportunities for engaging in personal self-exploration or learning new approaches to human growth.

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

These workshops are designed for people who have not previously been to Esalen. Their emphasis is on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for the individual participant. These may include: sensory awareness, gestalt practice, group process, guided fantasy, meditation, massage. There is also time to explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Real People Press).

Schedule:

May 6–8	$270
June 5–10	$530
June 24–26	$270
July 10–15	$575
August 14–19	$575
August 19–21	$295
September 16–18	$295
October 28–30	$295

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff
Coordinated by Christine Stewart Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear –
And when used – is inexhaustible.
– Lao Tzu

Gestalt is as old as the world.
– Fritz Perls

Gestalt practice is a form – nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental – evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. This form is similar to some Reichian work as well, in that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged. The emphasis is *intra*personal rather than *inter*personal. It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment.

Although open seat work is the primary form of this practice, guided fantasy, breath meditations, and movement sessions may be included.

Each gestalt practice group will have a member of the Esalen gestalt staff as its primary leader. The name of this leader will be listed in the office three weeks in advance of the workshop. Please call if you want this information. Other leaders may be involved in some sessions.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Real People Press) and In and Out the Garbage Pail; John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics Ltd.).

Schedule:

May 22–27	$530
July 10–15	$575
August 28–September 2	$575
September 16–18	$295
October 7–9	$295

Scholarship Information

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Allow at least three weeks for processing as we have many applications. If your application is approved, please make a reservation as soon as possible after receiving notice. Scholarship recipients may be asked to bring a sleeping bag to use during peak attendance periods. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

In addition to scholarships, we offer the following options to help reduce the cost of attending a seminar.

Student Sleeping Bag Scholarships: We are now offering a discounted sleeping bag rate for fulltime college or university students who are enrolled for at least 12 credit hours during the time of their Esalen stay. For more information and an application, contact the Esalen office.

Bunk Bed Rooms: Bunk bed rooms are available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three other people. Please call for current rates. The number of these spaces is limited and they are reserved on a first come, first served basis.

Senior Citizens' Discounts: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $25, and for a five-day workshop the discount is $50. Discounts are available only when you make your reservations. Please present proof of age when you register. Senior discounts are not available for Wilderness Programs or Work Scholar Programs.

Room and Board: Bed spaces not required for workshop participants are sometimes available for room and board. Accommodations are shared, and the rate is variable and subject to change. Please call for specific information. Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following day. We require that people pay in full when they make a reservation. This payment is not refundable.

Private rooms are sometimes available at an additional charge over the regular room and board rate. Special family rates are also available. Please phone the office for additional information.

Ongoing Residence Program: Offered from mid-September through mid-June, this 26-day program (beginning on a Sunday) is designed for those who would like to live for a month in the Esalen environment and participate in a series of intensive workshops.

Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay. Weekend workshops are available at special prices. Some programs are canceled, so second choices are advised. Many community programs are also open to residents. The cost is $2120 per 26-day period, and participants must complete their stay by mid-June. Beginning with the September programs, the cost will be $2300.

Bunk Bed Residence—A Study Work Program: This program is similar to the Ongoing Residence Program (see above), except that participants will sleep in bunk beds in dormitory style rooms and will be expected to work 12 hours per week where needed. The same workshop offerings and date limitations apply to this program. The cost is $1600 per 26-day period. Beginning with the September programs, the cost will be $1760.

Work Study Program

The Work Study Program is an intensive work-oriented program for individuals who want to make a directed, personal commitment to self-exploration and growth and a contribution to the Esalen community. Participants can enroll in the general interest track, which gives an overview of several disciplines, or choose a more specific course of study from the focused track, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage, etc.

Information regarding special interest sections may be obtained by writing Bette Dingman, c/o Esalen. For a full description of the Work Study Program, please turn to pages 52-53.

Medical Programs

Some programs offered at Esalen qualify for continuing education credit with the California Board of Registered Nursing. For current C.E. listings, see page 51.

Garden Tours

Esalen is now offering to the public, from April through September, tours of the garden, farm, and landscaping. These tours are on the first and third Sundays of the month, from 2-5 PM. The cost is $10 per person; group rates are available. A series of Saturday workshops is also being planned. For more information or to make reservations, please contact Steve Beck at the Esalen office, (408) 667-3000.

COURTESY OF PRINCETON UNIVERSITY PRESS

ASUKA EN

The Buddha of Immeasurable Light. A.D. 1252. Kamakura, Japan. (Joseph Campbell, The Mythic Image.)

COURTESY OF TIME INC. AND PRINCETON UNIVERSITY PRESS
LEONARD McCOMBE, LIFE MAGAZINE © 1955 TIME INC.

Shiva Maheshvara, The Great Lord. A.D. 8th century. Relief. Shiva Cave Temple. Elephanta, India. In The Mythic Image, Joseph Campbell wrote: "The living ground of all being is here personified in a sublime triadic image, 23 feet high, 19½ feet across, carved in high relief against the back wall of a great handhewn cave on an island in the harbor of Bombay. The profile at the beholder's left is male, that at the right, female; the visage at the center is of the eviternal [everlasting] source whence all pairs of opposites proceed: female and male, peace and strife, creation and annihilation." (Joseph Campbell, The Mythic Image.)

April 29–May 7

Big Sur Wilderness Journey: From Esalen to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center

Steven Harper & Joyce Lyke

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 50. $550

Week of May 1–6

Body Image, Family Systems, and Health

Don Johnson

A major source of one's body image is found within one's family of origin: its movement styles, attitudes toward sensual pleasures and physical processes, patterns of rigidity and limitation, and ways of embodying injuries and illnesses. Those largely unexpressed family attitudes toward the body are passed on from generation to generation, anchored in connective tissue. In addition, physical and psychological abuse and sexual molestation within the family deeply affect the images children have of their bodies. These various residues of family history provide a matrix within which each of us relates to injuries and accidents, limiting, sometimes severely, our capacities for healing.

In this workshop, each participant will be given the opportunity to examine the family origins of his or her body image and how that image is related to his or her history of disease and injury. Participants will work with sensory awareness, guided imagery, drawing, touch, and movement. The goal of the workshop will be to expand one's healing capacities by weakening the hold of the limiting aspects of one's body image unconsciously adopted from one's family. $530

Endarkenment

Will Schutz & Ailish Mellard

Sometimes in our search for enlightenment we become humorless, and our search becomes tedious. Growth demands a respite from intensive struggle. This workshop can provide a vehicle for the turn downward. We shall explore: how to establish and maintain meaningless relations; what to worry about while meditating; advanced covert blaming and inducing guilt in loved ones; how to become the most sympathetic victim / martyr in your social group; guilt without sex. This approach, similar to Feldenkrais' "live the disasters" and the "homeopathic principle" (Will Schutz, Body Fantasy), can be as valuable for attaining enlightenment as the direct route – and more fun. In addition, participants in this workshop will have opportunities to explore, play with, and celebrate the shadow – that which we usually hide. $530

The Sacred Mask Experience

Elisa Lodge Schiffman

Marvel at the ingenuity in which divinity hides itself in order to find itself. – Alan Watts

Masks are magic! The elemental power of sacred masks to liberate and transport us has all but disappeared from our cultural heritage. Drawing our initial inspiration from a large international collection of masks, we will reestablish our connection to this ancient artistic tradition, one of the oldest forms of catharsis and healing.

Through mask-making, ritual theater, trance journeys, primal sound, and movement work, we will enter a world that will carry us to the further reaches of our imagination and to what is revealed behind the masks – the beauty and truth of our essential nature. Together, we will create rituals that grow out of sacred practice, opening us to more vital and novel dimensions of expressive behavior not ordinarily permitted in our daily lives. Local musicians from Big Sur will be used to orchestrate and ground the powerful energies that emerge. $530

A Week with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

There is an emerging consciousness that is making itself felt and heard in those individuals who are searching to fulfill higher and deeper callings from within themselves. This workshop is for those individuals who sense the emergence of an evolutionary thrust from within or who are experiencing "divine discontent" with what is occurring in their lives at the present time. The focus will be on learning how to meet and accept what is being offered by life, exploring how to attend to the organic occurrences that life presents and continue moving forward.

It is known in both Western and Eastern traditions that the microcosm of the body reflects the macrocosm of the world. Similarly, a static body reflects a static view of the world. In this workshop, participants may explore themselves as living, unfolding processes – physically, mentally, emotionally, sexually, and spiritually. They may find that through practices such as breath work, movement, and sound, aliveness and pulsation can be returned to the body, and unconscious thoughts and feelings which reside in the body tissue can be brought to life. Careful attention will be given to the mental processes that shape the physical and emotional bodies, with special emphasis being given to personal issues that emerge. The week will also speak to the need for bridging one's personal growth and inner experience with outer involvement in the world.

Practices will be taught which encourage participants to listen, feel, sense, and become acquainted with their essential core selves, from which arise creativity, wisdom, joy, and healing.

Recommended reading: Rodegast, Emmanuel's Book (Friends' Press); John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics Ltd.); Fields et al., Chop Wood, Carry Water (Tarcher); Alice Bailey, Education in the New Age (Lucis Publishing Co.); Florence Shinn, The Game of Life and How to Play It (De Vorss). $530

Weekend of May 6–8

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 14. $270

Keeping a Good Relationship Alive

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

This weekend will focus on a major theme in keeping a good relationship alive. That is: being close and vulnerable yet also free to grow as a separate person.

Participants will spend part of the time with their partners, separate from other couples, in verbal and written experience that can add to their relationship in closeness, conflict resolution, and individuality.

Limited to 10 couples. $270 per participant

Working with Personal and Family Mythologies

Keith Thompson

. . . the world breaks everyone and afterward some are strong at the broken places.
– Ernest Hemingway

Call it a dream. It does not change anything.
– Ludwig Wittgenstein

We are storytelling, mythmaking animals. Because our stories concern what is real, they are powerful – often more than we know. The stories we tell ourselves about ourselves and others: who first told us these? Are they true for us now, here? What about family mythologies, the "guiding fictions" passed between generations, often tacitly, reflecting the family's view of the world and their place in it? How do they develop, and how can we discover their contours and influences in our lives? How do changes and developments in an individual's personal life myth affect his or her family mythology, and vice versa? As present mythgivers and future ancestors, how are we contributing to and shaping (knowingly or not) the body of myths and legends being passed to the young ones?

These are some of the questions that occasion this workshop. The leader's aim is to convey a sense of what's possible in six overlapping areas: seeking out from family elders, and working with and preserving, the stories that comprise family mythologies; using archetypal stories as guides during life transitions and rites of passages; investigating the differences between true and literal in working with stories; developing a felt sense of "story awareness" as inherently healing; appreciating our stories as reflections of how, at any given time, we are defining and creating experience; and, in moving between text and subtext, forgiving ourselves as often as possible for the everything and the nothing we are and aren't.

In addition to discussion, our resources may include any of the following: gestalt awareness practice, Vipassana meditation, guided imagery, writing and drawing, and, of course, storytelling.

Recommended reading: Erving Polster, Every Person's Life is Worth a Novel (Norton). $270

May 6–13

The Feldenkrais® Method and Cortical Reeducation

Harriet Goslins & Mark Bender

The habitual way a person sits, stands, or moves reflects patterns that are "wired-in" to the nervous system. This information can be erased or changed. By reeducating the brain / muscle connection, restrictions in movement are freed, freeing also the lifetime habits that have organized around that movement.

This work is a relearning of the ease and fluidity that was taken for granted as a child and lost somewhere along the way. Physical injury, emotional trauma, or ongoing stress all evoke a protective response from the body. These patterns, necessary at the time, remain when no longer needed, outside of awareness, and continue to cause discomfort and unnecessary limitation. Freeing them results in relief of chronic pain or tightness, a more restful sleep, and a higher energy level. By changing muscular holding patterns, the entire protective posture is altered, deeply affecting the body's habitual defense system. Thus, new movement possibilities mean new self-image possibilities.

Fears and anxieties have corresponding muscular habits. Verbal information, no matter how brilliant, or spiritual practice that fails to extinguish these muscular habits, will fail to totally eliminate the toxic behavior.

This workshop is for those who are physically active and fit and want to increase their skills while learning to reduce risk of injury; for the sedentary or those dealing with after-effects of injuries; for the athlete, the dancer, and those who "live in their heads"; and for the average person who feels chronically tired and stressed and wants to learn how to take better care of his / her neck, shoulders, and back, to improve his / her posture and breathing, and to live and move with more flexibility and comfort. $800

* The Feldenkrais Guild

Week of May 8–13

Human Potential: Theory and Practice

John Heider

This workshop will consist of a synthesis of group process, gestalt, body work, and meditation. The purpose is to develop and educate the human potential, which refers to the ability people have to become more aware or conscious of themselves and of the world around them. While the workshop will be mostly experiential, there will be time for questions and answers and for discussion of the work. $530

A Week with Seymour Carter

Everyone has unused capacities for further personal development. When these capacities are recognized and given attention, a natural force is released which, like a tide, can carry the individual to a higher level of ability and action. Fritz Perls taught how to recognize the force of avoided issues in dealing with blocked energies. When unfinished issues are confronted and assimilated, it is possible to feel potent and in charge of one's life.

In this workshop, participants can deal with these issues by examining the influence of the inner dialogue on thoughts and the nature of impasse, as well as tendencies within themselves toward psychological completion and well-being. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, Rolfing®, and aikido. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique. $530

* Rolfing is a service mark of the Rolf Institute.

Hypnosis and Body Work

Lila Daniels Klapman & David Robinette

The mind has profound effects on the organization of the body. Actively engaging the conscious and unconscious mind through the combined use of hypnosis and body work enables a more complete reorganization of the sensory motor mechanism. This workshop may interest those people in the helping professions who are looking to access the unconscious mental / emotional processes in their clients while making contact with the physical manifestations of those processes. Participants will explore the basic principles of trance induction, Ericksonian hypnosis, and the creative use of suggestion and metaphor. These will be combined with simple body work methods for opening energy centers and working with specific physical symptoms. The focus of this workshop will be to move intimately with a person's process, accessing and releasing unconscious patterns for growth and integration. The work will be done in an atmosphere of gentle caring and playfulness, incorporating music, dance, and games.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $530

Weekend of May 13–15

Insights:
The Visible Unconscious

Hector Prestera

The body contains our history. It describes our beliefs about ourselves and the world. It cloaks who we are – our inner Self. Awakening requires entry into this Self. Steps toward this is the direction of this seminar.

Recommended reading: Prestera & Kurtz, The Body Reveals (Harper & Row); Ouspensky, In Search of the Miraculous (Harcourt, Brace & World). $270

A Weekend with
David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

The purpose of this workshop is to create a more positive and open-ended self-concept. Through the use of structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role-playing, fantasy, and group process methods, participants can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis is on searching out unique personality strengths, individual capacities, and latent powers as a means of achieving productive functioning. $270

Experiencing
Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

This workshop is open to anyone interested in learning to recognize, trust, and use their psi abilities. The leaders will use exercises designed to aid participants in recognizing their perceptive styles and trusting the intuitive input they normally receive. Anne Armstrong will use her tracking abilities, acquired from over twenty years in this field, to assist participants in arriving at useful, accurate data.

One of the basic objectives of the workshop is to demystify the intuitive / psychic process and encourage participants to use it in all areas of their lives – personal, professional, and spiritual. The workshop will include personal psychic scans and practice on selected cases. $270

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. With this natural reserve as the primary teacher, the group will walk into the Los Padres National Forest. Drawing on various traditions, participants can develop the quality of their awareness and open to the natural world.

KATHLEEN THORWOOD CARR

Celtic Crosses. St. John's Cross with St. Martin's Cross in the background (both replicas). The Abbey, Sacred Isle of Iona, Argyllshire, west coast of Scotland. The Abbey was founded by St. Columba, an Irish monk, in A.D. 563. Unlike medieval crosses, Celtic crosses are not crucifixes (with the dead Christ), but symbols of the risen Christ. These have the ring or halo and are covered with interlace patterns, perhaps symbolizing the combined cross and vine as the Tree of Life.

Week-long workshops will venture out on five hikes (4-10 miles in length). Weekend workshops will take two hikes (3-6 miles in length). Using Esalen as base camp, the group will explore different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each day-hike will begin after breakfast and will conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. Basic outdoor skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts will be practiced. Participants will be taught enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after these outings. More information will be sent upon registration. $270

Week of May 15–20

Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

Each of us has unique capacities to feel and express tenderness and strength, anger and affection, autonomy and needfulness, as well as compassion, humor, and wisdom. The degree to which we allow the fullness and vibrance of each of these qualities determines how alive and gratified we are.

In this workshop, participants will focus on how they diminish or affirm these essential qualities as they are expressed through their bodies, sexuality, creativity, relationship to power, friendships, and expectations. In an atmosphere of tenderness and support, participants will clarify the nature of who they are and how they can best take care of themselves, both at Esalen and on returning home. The workshop will be grounded in gestalt, group process, guided fantasy, massage, and bioenergetics. $530

Energy Awareness

Richard Strozzi Heckler

Traditional education, with its emphasis on rational thought, has overshadowed the development of the intuitive resources of the body. This imbalance leaves us only partially equipped for dealing with the changes and transitions of everyday life. Working through the body, however, makes it possible to contact an energy that has the wisdom to be self-educating and self-healing.

In this seminar, exercises and movements from aikido, a Japanese martial art, will be used to awaken the feeling and perceptive skills of this bodily wisdom. The principles of centering, grounding, positive energy flow, receptivity, relaxation, blending, and appropriate effort will be taught. Participants will also do body readings from an energetic point of view.

Emphasis will be on the application of these principles to daily living, such as how to overcome obstacles during times of change and confusion, how to be more effective in stressful situations, and how to develop and trust one's intuition. No prior experience is necessary. $530

The Hero's Journey

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

Paul Rebillot writes: "Again and again in my work with people I have seen the suffering and confusion caused by our society's lack of significant rites of passage. Without shamans or ritual masters to guide them, modern women and men must find their own lonely and usually traumatic paths from one stage of life to another – whether it be a child's discovery that there is no Santa Claus, an adolescent's awkward approach to puberty, an adult's marriage or ending of a marriage, or a change of career. Every such change requires a movement from one level of being to another.

"Seeing this need, I created a rite of passage universal enough to allow people to discover the pattern of change, whatever that change might be. That pattern is exemplified in the myth of the hero. The new stage of life that is to be reached calls forth a heroic action on the part of the person taking the journey. At the same time, as soon as a new goal begins to emerge, all of the resistance to that goal emerges as well. I call these two forces 'the hero' and 'the demon.' In order for the new state of being to be realized, these two forces must discover how to communicate with each other and how to work together. The old forms must fall away so that the new form can emerge.

"My purpose is to give people a chance to experience a rite of passage so that they can go into the changes in their lives with a sense of joy and greater context. My hope is that through this process people will awaken to their own creative genius and enter into the drama of their lives with imagination and delight."

Recommended reading: Joseph Campbell, The Hero with a Thousand Faces (Bollingen) and Myths to Live By (Bantam). $530

Drawing of the sacramental Pietroasa Bowl (without the center figure). Orphic bowl. Gold. Rumania. A.D. 3rd or 4th century. The figures that circle this bowl represent the stages of separation, initiation, descent, and return that mark the hero's journey. (Joseph Campbell, The Mythic Image. Original source: Alexander Odobesco.)

COURTESY OF PRINCETON UNIVERSITY PRESS

Weekend of May 20–22

Body Imagery

Daria Halprin-Khalighi

In this workshop, the physical body will be viewed as a metaphoric palette on which aspects of the Self are projected. A drawing of the full body by each participant will establish a point of origin, followed by a series of visualizations, drawings, and exercises on each body part. By isolating one body part at a time, participants will become aware of the unique messages, imprints, and associations carried within each of the body's parts.

Social impacts on the body, which have shaped the individual through childhood, adolescence, and into adulthood, will become evident through drawings and gestalt writings. Movement and breath work will engage the body in creative physical expression and the release of its tensions.

Body images – feelings and thoughts which are carried in muscles, skeletal structure, and organs – may be given expression through the creative impulse of drawing. As these images become available, it is possible to rediscover and unblock the pathways linking body with mind, emotion, and spirit. $270

Sight / Insight: A Photographic Journey

Daniel Bianchetta & Cynthia Johnson Bianchetta

Like our dreams, photographic images can provide a rich resource for unearthing our true Self. With them, we may uncover and explore our personal culture and evolution. What we produce through visual imagery often reflects our innermost thoughts, how we view the world, how we manifest what we envision for our lives.

Through quiet meditative contact with our deeper Self, we are able to ask what these images may be revealing to us. And often as a result of this quiet contacting of insight, we begin the process of "listening through our eyes." Thus by "allowing the eyes to see" rather than "looking at," we invite observations and glimpses into the realm of true seeing, the power of insight.

In this workshop, movement, intuition, energy awareness, gestalt, and play will be our tools for exploring new awareness and experiences of our inner and outer imagery. It is open to anyone and is not about photographic technique. Some camera knowledge is helpful. Please bring a 35mm camera, black and white 35mm film, a journal, and your photographs. Some processing of film may be provided following a field exploration. $270

The Shamanic Journey, Power, and Healing

Michael Harner

Shamanism is an ancient human strategy for personal learning and for acting on that learning, using normally neglected or hidden potentialities of the heart, mind, and spirit. Shamanic methods can contribute to virtually any aspect of living, as they have for tens of thousands of years, and are especially useful for problem-solving, well-being, and healing.

In this experiential workshop, the participants will be introduced to some of the basic methods of the shaman (a specific type of medicine man or woman) to enter nonordinary reality to obtain knowledge, to answer personal questions, to maximize power to achieve personal goals, and to contribute to the health of oneself, others, and the Planet.

Particular emphasis will be on the classic shamanic journey, one of the visionary methods used by humankind to enter nonordinary reality and explore the hidden universe otherwise known mainly through myth and accounts of great spiritual experiences. Participants will be initiated into shamanic journeying, aided by traditional drumming and movement methods for experiencing the shamanic state of consciousness and for awakening dormant spiritual abilities and connections with nature. Practices will include comparison of discoveries made on shamanic journeys by participants and work on personal problem-solving. Participants will also be provided with methods for journeying to discover and study with their own individual spiritual teachers in nonordinary reality, a classic step in shamanic practice. They will be shown how the shamanic journey can be utilized to restore spiritual power and health, and how shamanism can be practically applied to contemporary daily life.

Participants are asked to bring rattles and drums if they have them, as well as a bandana, pen, and notebook, and to wear comfortable clothing. $270

Week of May 22–27

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 14. $530

The Hakomi Method

Ron Kurtz

Hakomi is a body-centered practice based on the principles of: mindfulness, unity, organicity, non-violence, mind-body holism. Hakomi incorporates non-doing as a major methodological principle and trusts in every individual's inner wisdom and power for self-healing.

Using the body as a rich source of information about the unconscious mind, hakomi can assist people in turning inward to those special states of consciousness where change takes place, to explore core beliefs which determine the quality of experience.

Hakomi work embraces the body-mind unity, supports the client's resistance, and encourages respect for and awareness of inner processes. This can be used by counselors, health practitioners, educators, body workers, and anyone invested in personal growth. This workshop also serves as a prerequisite for the formal hakomi certification process. $530

Vipassana in the World

Jamie Baraz

Vipassana (insight) meditation is the simple and direct practice of nonjudging, balanced awareness. When we clearly see and understand the impermanent nature of all experience, our reactions of clinging, condemning, fear, and confusion begin to lose their power. Instead, wisdom and compassion are strengthened.

In this workshop, we will follow the basic principles of Vipassana and apply them in a practical way. There will be a day for ourselves – learning the meditation and the qualities of patience, self-acceptance, and compassion. Next, there will be a day for others – in which the ideas of the practice are applied to relationships, livelihood, and skillful communication. Finally, there will be a day for the world – where larger issues such as service, action, and appreciation of the interconnectedness of all life are explored.

There will be regular periods of silent meditation, group discussions, and mindful application of our time at Esalen for a direct experience of the value of the practice. $530

KATHLEEN THORPHOD CARR

Avalokiteshvara (Kwan Yin in China) holding the jewel. According to Hindu legend, this jewel, known as "the jewel of satisfaction," belonged to a dragon king and had the power to grant its owner's every wish. In Buddhism, it symbolizes true spiritual satisfaction, which comes from renouncing worldly desires and taking refuge in the Three Treasures of Buddha, Dharma, and Sangha. It is thus sometimes referred to as the "Three Treasures Jewel."

May 22–June 17

Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 48. $2120

Weekend of May 27–29

The Garden of Esalen

Steve Beck

This workshop is about flower, vegetable, and herb gardening, from seeding to harvest. Located on a cliff above the Pacific Ocean, the Esalen garden will be our laboratory for seed sources, propagation, planting mixes, pest and weed control, watering systems, compost, and related topics.

If you are an experienced gardener, bring your wisdom, and if you're just getting started, bring your questions. We'll be taking time to smell the flowers and enjoy the simple pleasure of having our feet on the earth. Wear comfortable clothing. $270

Experiencing Dream Work

Stephen Aizenstat

Dreams, as looking glass parables, provide a connection to the voices and images of the psyche. They describe imaginally the multitudes of archetypal figures within: the inner child, heroes, masculine and feminine aspects, sages, wild animals, and demons. Through listening to the healing, jolting, imaginative, and often conflicting voices of the dream, participants may discover in dream work how to use this inner resource.

This workshop will explore common dream themes, symbols, nightmares, lucid dreaming, archetypal images, and recurring dreams. It will draw upon methods of dream interpretation from the dream healing centers in ancient Greece, Jungian psychology, and systems theory, offering an approach to dream work which listens to the individual and collective psyche as well as the psyche in the world.

Participants will be shown the potential healing power of an interrelated body / mind / world approach and perhaps remember why in ancient times dreams were honored as the medicine of the soul. $270

New Competences for an Age of Uncertainty

Donald Michael

A primary task that persons and organizations face in the next twenty years is that of learning to be better learners. This may sound obvious, but consider for a moment how much effort we expend disguising our uncertainty and ignorance and acting as if we really know what we are doing. There is a parallel between what happens when we pay close attention to the processes of the mind (in meditation, for instance) and when we study the vastly complex political, social, and economic processes and systems of the world. In both cases, it is possible to see how little we really know about ourselves as individuals and about the world. This recognition can be the starting point for embracing ignorance and vulnerability so that we can apply them to constructive engagement with our private and public worlds.

This seminar will introduce several skills, or what Donald Michael calls "new competences," that are necessary for making humane and effective decisions in situations where uncertainty can be the best occasion for learning – in organizational or independent work places and in interpersonal and family situations. These skills include: acknowledging high levels of uncertainty, error embracing, being future-responsive, boundary spanning, self-knowledge, and interpersonal competence.

The approach will be both cognitive and experiential. Participants will have the opportunity to learn to be more comfortable with their uncertainty, to reduce the need to act over-cautiously out of fear of making a mistake, and to minimize the need for those defensive posturings that make it so hard to act responsibly and compassionately. As a previous participant said, "This workshop is for those who are ready to move beyond the personal and want to effect change in public and private organizations." $270

Illustrations of Kung bushman rock paintings of the Ndedema Gorge, southern Africa. Date uncertain. These alites, or "flying bucks," are envisionments of spirits, perhaps those of the dead or of trance dancers flying from their bodies. (Joseph Campbell, The Way of the Animal Powers, Historical Atlas of World Mythology, Volume I. Copyright © 1983 by Alfred van der Marck Editions.)

COURTESY OF HARALD PAGER AND ALFRED VAN DER MARCK EDITIONS

Week of May 29–June 3

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

For workshop description see May 13-15. $530

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

Participants will be instructed in basic methods used in giving a pleasurable and beneficial full body massage. Fundamental elements of body work, such as breath awareness, grounding, movement, quality of touch, and stress reduction, will be introduced. This workshop is available to beginners as well as to those who wish to brush up on their massage skills.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $530

Opening the Feelings

Dale Cummings & Gena Mayer Sorensen

Participants will employ Radix® and neo-Reichian methods of emotional release, the most important of which is the Radix intensive, a period of individual work within a small group setting which can provide emotional support among participants. Grief, pain, fear, and rage that have been held in since childhood can emerge. As the participant accepts and works through these negative feelings, he or she may discover a new capacity for pleasure, trust, and love. In time, the sexual experience may change as feelings of tenderness and sexuality intensify and merge. $530

Weekend of June 3–5

The Power of Vision: Modern Applications of Visionmaking

Angeles Arrien & Frances Vaughan

In ancient cultures one finds three kinds of shaman: the healer, the warrior, and the visionary. This workshop will examine the types of vision utilized by each of them and how they can be developed and used in current personal, professional, and cultural contexts.

The visionary aspects of intuition, dreams, meditation, myths, and symbols will also be

KATHLEEN THORNOO CARR

The Candelabra, pre-Columbian land drawing, c. 700-300 B.C. Paracas, Peru. Traced in the hillside and at least 50 meters long, this land drawing is best seen from the sea, but is still impressive by land.

explored. Special emphasis will be placed upon the gifts and attributes of vision and how they can help create new myths for a nonviolent and peaceful future. Lecture and discussion will be combined with participation in the visionmaking process. $270

Writing and the Act of Creation

George Leonard

Participants will be encouraged to break through ego-barriers and cultural conditioning that inhibit expression. In so doing, they will have a chance to experience the creativity that is inherent in all of life. There will be little in the way of theoretical discussion and no critiques of past works. Simple movement exercises will serve to reduce stress, free the mind, and focus the will. Participants will have the opportunity to write furiously in the here and now and to get immediate feedback. Before the weekend has passed, they in all probability will have completed a short article or fictional work and will have experienced some of the joys and heartaches that accompany publication. Bring pencils, pens, or portable typewriters – and plenty of paper.

Recommended reading: Strunk and White, The Elements of Style (Macmillan); George Leonard, Education and Ecstasy (North Atlantic Books) and The Silent Pulse (Dutton). $270

Love and Work

Anne & John Caple

"Lieben und arbeiten," Freud answered when asked what the normal person should be capable of. "To love and to work." In this workshop, participants will examine their work lives and work options in the context of their love for themselves, for others, and for the larger world. Working from a conceptual base, the group will use integrative exercises, art, and gestalt processes to seek answers and consider life decisions. The goal is for participants to see more clearly what they want and how to get it. One outcome will be a specific action plan.

This weekend is for those who want more value in their work lives, for career changers and potential career changers, for re-entry persons, and for those who influence others in career choices. Some time will be available for individual life / work issues during group meetings and in pre-breakfast runs.

Recommended reading: John Caple, The Right Work (Dodd, Mead & Co.). $270

Week of June 5–10

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 14. $530

Change and Self-Esteem

Phyllis Shankman

Change is an ever-present aspect of living which must be accepted and used creatively if one is to sustain a healthy, interesting, and exciting life. Many individuals talk about wanting change while actively or passively resisting it. Self-esteem, which includes self-acceptance, self-appreciation, and self-confidence, is the aspect of self which enables one to confront resistance and fear and which increases the willingness to change and take risks.

This workshop includes a unique, in-depth process for finding and allowing self-acceptance and for creatively confronting opportunities for change and growth. Group activities include gestalt process work, discussion, massage, meditation, music, dance, art imagery exercises, and whatever else happens spontaneously. $530

Yoga:
A Week of Rejuvenation

Ganga White & Tracey Rich

Presenting East / West teachings in a way that is contemporary, humorous, and applicable to modern living, the leaders will offer a week of physical, mental, and spiritual rejuvenation. Days will begin with instruction in an ancient Hatha yoga movement series that is new to this country and which combines grace and flow with postures, pranayama (breath), and meditation. Participants will be shown a 45-minute balanced, aerobic yoga practice they can continue at home. Afternoons and evenings will be for group discussion and exploration into the teachings and principles of the art of enlightened living.

Topics will include diet and nutrition, how yoga works, aligning and restructuring the body, and awakening subtle energies. Through Jnana (the yoga of wisdom and perception), participants will begin observing the thought processes and patterns that dictate their lives. They will look at the areas of love, responsibility, relationship, freedom, and death.

Participants of all levels are welcome; no previous experience is necessary. For additional information, contact the leaders at: White Lotus, 2500 San Marcos Pass, Santa Barbara, CA 93105; (805) 964-1944. $530

Weekend of June 10–12

Letting Go — Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Beliefs, fears, and emotions from the past can continue into present relationships and interfere with spontaneous feelings of trust, love, and joy. The goal of this workshop is to experience and let go of these defenses and to help create new ways to relate – in the moment – to ourselves, to our work, and to those we love.

The workshop includes periods of intense body work for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which are reflected in the body as armor and tension. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released, and positive feelings can be experienced more fully. By also using dream work, massage, dance, and group process, a new capacity for loving can emerge. $270

Peruvian Whistling Bottle. Replica of Chimú vessel, c. A.D. 700-1400. In Peru the creation story relates that Viracocha, the creator, formed the first humans out of clay and breathed life into them.

DANIEL BIANCHETTA

A Weekend with Sogyal Rinpoche

Sogyal Rinpoche is a lama, scholar, and meditation master who was born in Tibet and raised as a son by the Buddhist master, Jamyang Khyentse Chokyi Lodro. He studied at Cambridge University and has over ten years' experience of living and teaching in the West.

By blending the experience of his traditional training with his insight into contemporary Western attitudes, Rinpoche is able to reveal the freshness and relevance of the Buddhist perspective in today's world. He has participated in conferences and projects with scientists and doctors in fields such as healing, psychology, and the care of the dying, where it is more and more apparent that the Buddhist view can make a fruitful and far-reaching contribution. Rinpoche has founded centers in Britain, France, and the United States and teaches widely in Europe, North America, Australia, and New Zealand. $270

Anatomy for Trager℠ Students: Part II

Deane Juhan

This seminar is a continuation of professional training for students of Trager Psychophysical Integration and Mentastics℠. Participants will examine the anatomical structures of the body and their kinesthetic relationships, with specific reference to how these structures and relationships are handled by the Trager approach. Part I deals with the front half of the body; Part II deals with the back half.

Half of the time will be used for slide presentations, lectures, and discussions concerning particular areas of the body. The rest will be spent practicing aspects of a Trager session which correspond to those areas. The emphasis will be on clarifying the intent of the various hand positions and movements, based upon an understanding of structure, function, and motor reflex.

Since supervised Trager table work will be an important part of the class, a beginning Trager training is a prerequisite.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $270

Week of June 12–17

Five Days with Janet Zuckerman

This workshop continues Esalen's tradition of interpersonal and intrapersonal work on emotional process. It is based on these premises: that unfinished business is projected into current relationships, interfering with one's ability to be in the present, and that by emotional release one may cleanse the doors of perception. $530

The Physical Embodiment of Mind: Patterns of Posture and Movement — Use of Self

Marghe Mills

The way we understand, sense, and use our bodies directly affects our health and our ability to perform the activities we need and want to be doing. Sitting, standing, walking, working, resting, communicating, dancing, exercising, etc., embody patterns as physical metaphors within each biological system (muscle, skeletal, nervous, organ, fluid, neuroendocrine). This workshop will consider the developmental, anatomical, and kinesiological foundations and the physical / mental / emotional experiences of these basic human activities.

Participants will work with their individual patterns of movement, alignment, and behavior. They will explore how personal and social patterns of movement and posture can be conducive to injury, to healing, and to wellness. Movement patterns from the point of view of function, ease, and support will be examined.

Through movement, discussion, hands-on work, lecture, voice, video, and art media, this workshop will provide opportunities for the development and sharpening of important human skills. The work of Moshe Feldenkrais (Awareness Through Movement®, Functional Integration®) and Bonnie Cohen (Body / Mind Centering) will be combined with developmental learning, aikido, and creative arts.

Recommended reading: Marghe Mills and Bonnie Bainbridge Cohen, Developmental Movement Therapy (School for Body/Mind Centering); Moshe Feldenkrais, Awareness Through Movement (Harper & Row); Wynn Kapit and Lawrence Elson, The Anatomy Coloring Book (Canfield Press). $530

Weekend of June 17–19

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman

For many people, feelings are something mysterious, something to keep to oneself, or something to think about. This workshop is about all the steps involved in learning to experience, respect, and honor one's feeling process in a way that can increase vitality and personal effectiveness. Participants may learn to separate feelings from thoughts, learn from their own body rhythms, learn to contact their own wisdom, and participate in the choice of expression or depression. $270

Food for Health

Jane Miletich

The purpose of this workshop is to experiment with new ways of eating that eliminate certain foods like meat, dairy, processed foods, oils, and salt, and add other, more healthful ones such as fresh juices, grains, legumes, nuts, seeds, sprouts, soups, and raw salads. The foods to be used will include various fresh herbs and produce picked from the Esalen garden and farm or bought from local organic distributors.

Participants may spend time in the kitchen learning methods of food preparation. Mineral and herbal baths, nature hikes, yoga, t'ai chi, massage, and dance will be introduced. All are optional – participants choose their own pace. $270

The Kabbalah: Doorway to the Inner World

Eduard Hoffman

For more than 2,000 years, adepts of the Kabbalah, the Jewish mystical tradition, have explored the nature of the human mind and its vast potential. They have addressed in considerable detail such intriguing topics as dreams, meditation, altered states of consciousness, the mind-body unity, and how to awaken one's higher capabilities. In recent years, a true renaissance of interest in the Kabbalah has occurred. Throughout the world, men and women are discovering the unique wisdom and power of this ancient system of knowledge.

This workshop will combine information and experiential methods to make personally relevant the Jewish mystical approach to the inner world. It will examine some of the specific concepts and methods from the Kabbalah as they relate to the new, transformational paradigm emerging in Western psychology. The traditional Kabbalistic emphasis on developing "kavvanah" (intentionality) and imagination will be highlighted. $270

Freeing Our Bodies / Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach

Patrick Douce

The work of Moshe Feldenkrais is based on the natural process by which we learned to move as children. During this workshop, soft, easy, gentle movements will be used to increase awareness of the body and to improve the ease and ability of movement. Special emphasis will be placed on the difficulties in movement that arise from chronic conditions such as lower back and neck pain, shoulder pain, tension in the neck and shoulders, and knee injuries. Such conditions can be improved by approaching the difficulties as problems in learning rather than as therapeutic troubles. Situations which were "incurable" become "re-educable." Workshop participants will also be introduced to methods to improve their ability to sense each other's bodies through touch and massage.

Although this workshop will be of value to anyone interested in learning more about his / her body through direct experience, it may be of special interest and benefit to dancers, athletes, doctors, nurses, physical therapists, psychologists, health-care professionals, and elderly citizens, who may discover new ways of moving with ease and increased flexibility – painlessly and immediately.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $270

KATHLEEN THOMPSON CARR

Kiva and ruins. Chetro Ketl, Chaco Canyon, New Mexico, c. A.D. 900-1150. Chaco Canyon contains more than 2400 archeological sites, including 13 towns and many kivas, within a 32 square mile area. More than 400 miles of wide roads run out from the canyon. Many questions remain unanswered about the complex Chaco culture. Evidence suggests it was a ritual center or mystery school.

Week of June 19–24

Five Days with Jack Rosenberg

This workshop is aimed at awakening and sustaining awareness of body, self, and soul, as well as examining the anatomy and function of intimate relationships. The method can be described as gestalt body work with a distinct leaning toward the transpersonal aspects of life. During the workshop, participants will explore many aspects of Jack Rosenberg's energetic approach to sexuality, the energetic field of the body, and the belief systems which keep one locked in obsolete behavior patterns. This workshop will be co-led with Beverly Kitaen Morse.

Recommended reading: Jack Rosenberg et al., Body, Self, and Soul: Experiencing Integration (Humanics Ltd.) and Total Orgasm. $530

Mountains and Waves: A Solstice Celebration

Susan Harper & Steven Harper

Mountains and Waves is an invitation to explore natural movements inspired within the human organism by participation in nature. We listen to impulses within and to impulses of wilderness until "inner" and "outer" disappear. As we surrender to the intelligence which creates life in all its varied forms, we find ourselves moving in unexpected ways. Our awareness expands. We feel a larger sense of Self and wilderness and the creative wholeness of a greater dance.

The summer solstice occurs during this week, and we will take special time to create a ceremony in honor and celebration of our longest day. Sessions will be both indoors and outdoors. Evenings, some day sessions, and most meals will be at Esalen. We will also take short day hikes in Big Sur's backcountry. Participants need not have previous experience in hiking or dance. $530

Intermediate Cranial Workshop

Jim Asher & Jane Harrington

This Level Two cranial workshop will review the vertical and horizontal systems with alternate holds for each phase. Mouthwork practices that reduce strain and compression patterns as they relate to the maxilla, sphenoid, and ethmoid complex and to pituitary and sinus problems will be shown. Participants will practice balanced movement of the body to support themselves while working, as well as movement patterns which can be taught to their clients to support cranial changes.

Cranial work can be effective in shifting emotional holding patterns and draining accumulated stresses in the nervous system. Unwinding, a method which can release strains throughout the body at the somatic and emotional levels, will be emphasized in this workshop. Sphenobasilar strain patterns, whip lash, bulb compression, dural tube freedom, and the fluid system will also be covered. There will be time for questions about specific problems and case studies.

This workshop is for those who have taken a basic cranial workshop on the membrane / fluid systems. It will be hands-on. Much of the emphasis will be on the head, jaw, neck, pelvis, and diaphragm systems.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $530

Weekend of June 24–26

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 14. $270

A Weekend with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see May 13-15. $270

An Inquiry into Channeling

Arthur Hastings, Helen Palmer, Deborah Reynolds & Charles Tart

The phenomena of channeling, in which persons transmit messages from discarnate beings or other non-personal sources, is an increasing source of spiritual messages, personal advice, and admonitions to humanity. Seth, channeled by Jane Roberts, and A Course in Miracles, transmitted by Helen Schucman, are well-known examples, but there are thousands of other individuals who are now channeling. Are the entities real? What credence should we give to the messages? What does channeling tell us about human abilities?

This conference will inquire into the nature and potentials of channeling. There will be video and audio presentations of contemporary channeling with discussions of their messages, presentations by leaders, demonstrations, and experiential exercises.

Topics covered will include the issue of personal identity, the inner process and development of channeling, implications for metaphysics, and the relation between traditional psychic functioning and channeling. Discussions will consider the responsibilities of channeling and the dangers and abuses of channeling by the channel, by the entity, and by the public.

Research and theories of channeling will be presented, including brain wave measures, multiple personality models, archetypes, higher beings, lower beings, and the personification of the higher self.

In addition to the seminar leaders listed above, there may be other guest presenters. Contact the Esalen office for up-to-date information. $270

Week of June 26–July 1

Acts of Courage

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

In their work together, David and Elisa Schiffman offer a group experience which is based on mutual respect, honesty, and tenderness and which allows participants to deepen their appreciation of what is truly valuable in their lives.

Much of the focus is on the art of creative risk-taking or "acts of courage." The Schiffmans teach that to take risks successfully requires courage, grit, and wisdom, knowing one's heart and being true to the dreams that live inside it, good timing, an adventuresome spirit, and the confidence to act. The group time together will include traditional psychological practices as well as non-traditional innovative approaches involving the use of music, movement, guided imagery, and structural repatterning. $530

An Intimate Community

Linda Rice-Mandigo, Anne Ruderman & Joel Dweck

Feelings give us knowledge, depth, and pleasure, but only when they flow unobstructed into our lives. Relating to others is a function of being able to express those feelings openly and directly. Collectively, the risks we take in revealing ourselves create an intimate community. In this workshop, participants will have the opportunity to feel deep parts of themselves and to translate their individual work into quality interactions.

The workshop leaders have worked together for seven years. They are trained in various disciplines and may use Reichian emotional release, breathing sessions, group interactional process, play, nurturing, confrontation, and spiritual healing while working with workshop participants. As members of the community, they are available at the same emotional depth that they encourage in the participants. $530

Language of the Drums: African Percussion, Chanting, and Dance

Babatunde Olatunji with Ijalu Akanbe, Yao Tamakloe & Gordy Ryan

Nigerian musician Babatunde Olatunji has been bridging the gap between American and African culture for thirty years. During this week-long workshop, he will show how drum sounds and rhythms communicate, stimulate, and pace the activities of traditional African life. He will teach the consonants of the Yoruba language, reproducing its sounds on drums and through chants, body percussion, and dance.

This workshop is for dancers, percussionists, musicians, and anyone who wants to speak the language of the drums. Participants will have a chance to become deeply immersed in the study and re-creation of African drum sounds and rhythms. Drummers can experience the dance and dancers can experience the drums. Bring a drum if you have one. (Note: Olatunji will extend his stay through the Fourth of July weekend. Please read the July 1-5 workshop description.) $530

July 1–5

A Long Fourth of July Weekend Celebration with Babatunde Olatunji

and Ijalu Akanbe, Yao Tamakloe & Gordy Ryan

Nigerian musician Babatunde Olatunji and his ensemble continue their Language of the Drums (see Weekend of June 26-July 1) through this special Fourth of July weekend (Friday dinner through Tuesday lunch). This is an opportunity to spend time at Esalen enjoying the grounds, the baths, massage, and the community without participating in a structured group. Dancers, percussionists, musicians, and anyone who wants to speak the language of the drums is welcome. Bring a drum if you have one. $500

July 5–8

Special Days at Esalen

These few days will be for people to come and renew themselves in the tranquil and beautiful setting of Esalen. It will not be a structured program, although several ongoing classes in the various practices offered here will be available for guests to choose from. These may include: sessions in gestalt, movement, meditation, massage, day hikes, singing gestalt, aerobics, stretching, and yoga. The swimming pool and natural hot baths will be available as usual.

The food will be specially prepared, with an emphasis on a clean, healthy diet of fresh vegetables and grains. Much of the produce is picked daily from Esalen's own organic garden and farm.

Come and enjoy a mid-week retreat of inner reflection, physical movement, and personal renewal. $350

ELIOT ELISOFON

COURTESY OF PRINCETON UNIVERSITY PRESS

Shiva Nataraja, Lord of the Cosmic Dance. A.D. 12th century. South India. (Joseph Campbell, The Mythic Image.)

Weekend of July 8–10

Process Work with Chronic Body Symptoms and Childhood Dreams

Arnold Mindell

Arnold Mindell writes: "Why do chronic symptoms persist? I would like to share my discovery that these symptoms mirror personal myths and are patterned after childhood dreams. In this workshop, participants will focus upon dream/body work methods, upon dream work, and different forms of body work which reveal the connection between body symptoms, dreams, and individuation. The group will investigate what healing these symptoms could mean with respect to large-scale changes in everyday awareness."

Recommended reading: Arnold Mindell, Dreambody (Sigo Press), Working with the Dreaming Body (Methuen Inc.), River's Way (Methuen Inc.), Dreambody in Relationships, and City Shadows. $295

Zero Balancing: Advanced Workshop

Fritz Smith

This workshop is only open to people who have completed at least one introductory zero balancing program. After reviewing basic concepts, the leader will spend time answering specific questions and giving individual instruction as needed. New work will focus on exploring the direct perception and assessment of energy currents in the body, refinement of evaluating and balancing the foundation joints, and the discussion of nonfoundation joints, including the small joints of the body. Theory will be clarified by demonstration and through individual practice, with participants using each other as models.

Recommended reading: Frederick Smith, Inner Bridges (Humanics Ltd.).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $295

Why We Misbehave the Way We Do

Charles & Ronnie Blakeney

Why do we misbehave the way we do? The late Harvard professor Lawrence Kohlberg studied the development of moral judgment for thirty years. He and his colleagues and students interviewed thousands of children and adults worldwide. He clearly demonstrated the existence of a universal sequence in the stages of moral thought. In the past fifteen years, Kohlberg and his colleagues developed and successfully implemented Just Community programs, designed to raise the stage of moral reasoning of participants. Two questions continually tickled and intrigued the Kohlberg group: What is the relationship between the stages of moral thought and moral behavior?

What is the relationship between emotional development and moral development?

In this workshop, the leaders bring Kohlberg's theory of universal stages of moral development to life. The relationship between moral decision-making, moral feelings, and moral behavior within actual social interactions will be explored. Participants will use this framework to examine the nature of misunderstanding between parents and children, therapists and clients, employers and employees, students and teachers, friends, lovers and partners. By attending to moral stages, learning style, patterns of moral misbehavior, and unresolved emotional conflicts, personal and interpersonal understanding and growth can be facilitated.

The workshop will include lectures, role playing, videotapes, and reflective exercises to identify stage and style and to suggest objectives and methods for growth. $295

Week of July 10–15

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 14. $575

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 14. $575

Living Hypnotically

Norman Katz & Marc Lehrer

This five-day seminar on altered states and hypnosis will help participants enjoy the benefits of greater perceptual awareness, enhance personal creativity, and develop an ongoing relationship with the unconscious mind. By understanding its basic principles, participants may learn to use hypnosis as an aid to change their lives in powerful and unique ways. They will be offered an opportunity to recall altered states and then produce them through hypnosis. The program will include self-hypnosis skills, the use of music and trance, hypnotic play, and the use of hypnosis to improve sports and physical movement. $575

Zero Balancing: Beginning/Intermediate Workshop

Fritz Smith

Zero balancing is a simple method for aligning the body structure and energy field. The structural/energetic interface of the body is beneath conscious awareness, and when imbalances occur at this level, the body tends to compensate around them rather than resolve them directly. This often leads to loss of vitality, chronic body pain, and lessened potential for vibrant health. Zero balancing assists in overcoming these patterns of imbalance.

In this workshop, traditional anatomy, physiology, and kinesiology will be reviewed, and Eastern concepts of chi energy, its movement in the body, and the chakra system will be discussed. The system of zero balancing will then be presented, including specific guidelines for evaluating and balancing the structural/energetic interface in the body. The workshop will be both didactic and experiential, with the main emphasis on new skills in body handling. This is an accredited program toward zero balancing certification.

Recommended reading: Frederick Smith, Inner Bridges: A Guide to Energy Movement and Body Structure (Humanics Ltd.).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $575

Weekend of July 15–17

Weekend Massage Intensive: Self-Care Methods for Body Workers and their Clients

Deborah Anne Medow & Esalen Massage Practitioners

After a full day of helping clients restructure their bodies or simply easing their physical and emotional tensions, body work practitioners inevitably manifest a few aches and pains in their own bodies – the body worker's syndrome. This workshop offers practitioners various methods in massage and self-massage, specific ways of using movement, and self-help exercises to relieve stress accumulated after working with other people's bodies.

In addition to rejuvenating their own bodies, practitioners can share these methods with their clients, enabling them to retain the positive effects of the body work for longer periods of time.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $295

The Further Reaches of Human Energy

George Leonard & Annie Styron Leonard

This workshop begins with a basic grounding in Leonard Energy Training (LET), in which problems can become opportunities, stress and pain can be transformed into gifts of energy, personal and social options can be multiplied, and the flow of vital energy enhanced. In addition to its practical applications, the workshop offers participants the possibility of experiencing their own latent powers of intuition and extraordinary sensing.

After their introduction to LET, participants move into experiments that push the limits of what are termed "normal" human capacities. Through such processes as scanning, tuning-in to others' energy, focused surrender, and remote viewing, the group is given a chance to experience a crystalline state of intense aliveness without expectation and prejudgment. As George Leonard wrote in The Ultimate Athlete,

KATHLEEN THORNHOOD CARR

Side detail of Egyptian mummy case. British Museum, London, England.

"Simply by considering possibilities commonly ignored by our culture, we find ourselves in a far more fascinating universe. We discover adventures that do not require the burning of fuel or the rape of the planet: sensing the energy field of a friend or a tree, making connections that defy conventional space and time. . . . We realize, with the sorcerer, don Juan, that our world is awesome, mysterious, and unfathomable, and that our life is filled to the brim and altogether too short."

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse (Dutton), The Ultimate Athlete (Viking), and The Transformation (Tarcher/Houghton-Mifflin). $295

Imagery: Exploring the Body/Mind Bridge

Jeanne Achterberg & Frank Lawlis

The imagination is a perennial, yet newly celebrated, healing resource. It is a bridge between body and mind, a manifestation of the human spirit. The image forms the creative juices and allows transcendence.

This workshop will explore, beyond the confines of modern medicine and psychology, the potent realm of imagination as healer. The potential for self- and transpersonal healing will be experienced through the magic of sound, image, meditation, and other tools to shift consciousness. A rationale for the use of mind in the crisis of illness will be given, using information on the forefront of science.

The presenters, pioneers in the study and practice of imagery, will introduce their ideas, practices, and visions for the future. The workshop may be of interest to persons who are working or studying in the health professions and to those who are confronted with chronic or catastrophic illness.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $295

Week of July 17–22

Food for Health

Jane Miletich

For workshop description see June 17-19. $575

Healing the Broken Heart: The Art of Effective Bonding

George Kohlrieser

From cradle to grave, life involves a changing script of "affectional bonds." These bonds are different from dependency and essential for growth, health, and happiness. Attachment theory is a way to conceptualize the tendency of humans (and other mammals) to make strong affectional bonds with particular others, a way to explain many forms of physical, emotional, and spiritual distress, including emotional detachment, depression, and burnout. Life energy is connected to the quality and depth of emotional contact.

This experiential workshop will focus on the patterns of forming, maintaining, breaking, and renewing affectional bonds. Methods include guided affective imagery, emotional release, group process, and intense bonding work to understand, create, and celebrate positive emotional attachments. $575

KATHLEEN THORNHOD CAMP

Classical Javanese dancer with mask. Theater in Java and Bali is seen as an integral part of life, at one with the rituals that fasten society. The origin is religious—a temple dance serves as a ceremonial offering and bridges the mundane and spiritual worlds. Dance technique is highly stylized; each salient gesture has a name and is usually based on nature or animal motifs. Performers dance to the musical accompaniment of the Javanese gamelan and flutes.

The Body and Zen

Dub Leigh

The goal of this seminar is twofold: 1) to use body work methods and principles for releasing tension, trauma, and toxins from connective tissue; and 2) to circulate the vital energy in an aligned body. The group will draw from Rolfing® (structure), Feldenkrais® (function), and Zen (energy), to obtain these goals.

This is a hands-on workshop. Participants will give and receive body work and will learn methods to recognize, work with, and relieve some types of chronic muscle pain. The class will be limited in size (two people per table). Participants are asked to bring a swimsuit – two-piece for women.

Recommended reading: William Leigh, A Zen Approach to Bodytherapy, From Rolf to Feldenkrais to Tanouye Roshi (University of Hawaii Press).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $575

The Modern Warrior: LET in Action

George Leonard & Jack Cirie

A man or woman with outward courage dares to die;
A man or woman with inward courage dares to live.
– Lao Tzu

The Modern Warrior is not one who goes to war but rather one who exhibits integrity in every aspect of living, one who seeks to attain control then act with abandon. For the Modern Warrior, life is vivid, immediate, and joyful. He or she lives each day to the full, and is fulfilled in serving others. This workshop is based on the premise that to achieve peace in the world and harmony in daily life, it might well be necessary for men and women to reown the warrior ideal.

Through the centering and movement exercises of LET (Leonard Energy Training) as well as through various new games, participants will be invited to get in touch with their own unacknowledged powers, and thus to discover the hidden warrior within. Guidance will be offered on how to apply the warrior ideal to daily life. This workshop will not be physically strenuous. All that is needed is a generous heart and a willingness to participate.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse (Dutton). $575

Weekend of July 22–24

A Workshop for Couples with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

This workshop will focus on reawakening and developing positive, mutual supports that are at the root of satisfying couple relationships. The emphasis will be on creating clear and truthful expressions of loving and personal integrity. Participants will re-examine their beliefs and habits through the use of intuitional sensing, risk-taking structures, guided imagery, and gestalt awareness methods.

$295 per participant

Psychic Self-Defense

Elizabeth Stratton

Elizabeth Stratton writes: "The power of psychic energy cannot be overestimated. We are constantly bombarded by the emotions and thoughts of people around us, as well as by the accumulated energies of the environments in which we live and work. We can also be affected by the physical illnesses of people we are close to, sometimes to the point of actually manifesting those illnesses as if they were our own.

"This workshop will give participants an opportunity to explore the weaknesses in their psychic defense systems, to learn how to release the negative energies they pick up, to repair and strengthen their auras, and to develop their psychic sight so that they can protect themselves from absorbing unwanted energies in the future." $295

Living in the Now

Brother David Steindl-Rast

All the great spiritual traditions of East and West tell us to wake up and to come alive to the present moment. We tend to hang on to what was, or we worry about what will be. And so we miss that which is. Nothing is, except now. How can we, moment by moment, live in that now?

Monks practice all life long to live the answer to that question. Haiku poetry celebrates our wake moments, our glimpses of now. Brother David, a Christian monk, has published haiku. He has written about haiku and monastic life. The topic of this weekend marks the point where the two meet.

This workshop is for people who so strongly desire the joy of the now that they are willing to feel the pain and face the responsibility inherent in that thrill.

Recommended reading: Harold Henderson, Introduction to Haiku (Doubleday); David Steindl-Rast, A Listening Heart (Crossroads); R. M. Rilke, Letters to a Young Poet (Norton). $295

COURTESY OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VICTORIA & ALBERT MUSEUM, LONDON, AND PRINCETON UNIVERSITY PRESS

Tara. A.D. 19th century. Bronze. Tibet. This goddess figure is said to be "the personification of a tear of divine compassion." (Joseph Campbell, The Mythic Image.)

LET: Exploring the Feminine and Masculine through the Healing and Martial Arts

Jack Cirie & Beth Ullmann

Just as male and female elements express the totality of one's sexual nature, the healing arts and the martial arts complete another sphere of one's being. To protect and heal others, individuals must be able to protect and heal themselves. To fully know their abilities to heal deeply, people must acknowledge their potential to hurt as well.

The masculine-feminine puzzle is a powerful and meaningful mystery. What is it to be a woman or man at this time in history? How can individuals integrate the male and female within themselves, then integrate that with those qualities in another being? Is there a difference in the way women and men heal, the way men and women fight?

With Leonard Energy Training (LET) as an experiential foundation, this workshop will enable participants to explore how they use their bodies to express their concept of masculinity and femininity. Workshop exercises will include the dynamics of yielding-resisting, releasing-controlling, healing-hurting, and following-leading. Participants will be invited to experience a range of qualities within each of these poles, e.g., "soft" and "hard" martial or healing arts, "yang" followership and "yin" leadership.

No martial or healing arts experience is necessary. For more information on LET, see the Leonard/Leonard and Leonard/Cirie workshop descriptions for July 15-17 and July 17-22. Jack Cirie and Beth Ullmann integrate their experiences in martial arts, the healing arts, fitness, and movement training. Both are certified Leonard Energy Trainers. $295

Week of July 24–29

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Char Pias Brenner & Laurie Schutz

For workshop description see May 29-June 3.

$575

N.L.P., Hypnosis, and Reichian Body Work

David Silverstein & Yvonne Ginsberg

This workshop will allow individuals to explore their process using Reichian body work, neurolinguistic programming (N.L.P.), and hypnosis. Each person will have opportunities to work individually as well as in group. By loosening the body armor through Reichian work, participants may become more receptive to exploring their emotions and their unconscious. Hypnosis will be used to help participants experience and re-experience fantasies, dreams, and unfinished situations. N.L.P. offers the possibility of changing beliefs and criteria that keep one's life limited to familiar patterns. Throughout the workshop there will be gentle encouragement to realize that experience is within one's means to define and create. In bringing together these approaches to human development, the workshop leaders wish to create an environment which respects each individual's natural growth process. $575

A Week with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

To make effective, creative choices requires courage, imagination, and the willingness to know one's heart and be true to the dreams that live inside it. Choosing this deeper wisdom can often involve the risk of breaking set – the choice to move against the powerful grain of old fears, habits, and the constant pressures of other people's expectations. To foster this spirit means contacting the elemental-instinctual parts of one's nature, befriending rather than suppressing or denying the sexuality and the power out of which initiative and enthusiasm spring.

In this week, participants will focus on how to develop those qualities that contribute to a more adventurous, resourceful, and bouyant way of living. In an atmosphere based on warmth and humor, they will explore their capacity for mutual tenderness, respect, and honesty. Traditional psychological practices such as gestalt, bioenergetics, and psychosynthesis will be used for intensive individual work, as well as non-traditional innovative approaches in body work, kinesthetic retraining, music, and guided imagery. $575

Making Dances: Physical Expression and Creativity

Rhonda Martyn

This is a workshop for individuals to discover and expand their abilities to be physically, intellectually, and emotionally expressive through the process of making dances. Participants can expect a good physical workout as well as a sense of accomplishment, community, and fun that comes from making and performing dances.

It will begin by exploring the basic elements of movement and the craft of choreography. Then, using games, exercises, improvisations, and rituals, participants can play with the creative process and their individual needs for physical and emotional expressiveness. The workshop leader, a professional choreographer, will work with participants as professional dancers – calling on their creativity and sensibilities to help in the process of building dances. She will also coach and assist participants in making their own studies and / or dances.

Making Dances is for people with no dance experience or with much dance experience. It is an opportunity to be both a dancer and a maker of dances. $575

Touching Spirit: Dimensions of Psychic Healing

Elizabeth Stratton

Psychic healing bridges the physical and the spiritual. Touching as a healing act has been practiced through recorded history by practitioners of the sacred as well as the secular: healers, shamans, priests, doctors, and mothers. In the past ten years, physics and modern medicine have come to an acknowledgement of the radically relational nature of our universe. Nothing and no one functions in a void.

Human emotions affect the functioning of the body, and illness is often an outgrowth of this mind-body link. Semi-dissociative states that are induced by prayer, meditation, and trance have been found to provide a fertile ground for healing to take place. It has been discovered that "multiple personalities" exhibit different states of health in each personality. The placebo effect has become one of the most respected and well-studied issues in healing today.

A psychic healer is one who can help connect the physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual levels of another person's being with healing intention through the use of touch. This workshop will explore, both didactically and experientially, the sacred and secular uses of touch, modern theories of disease formation and healing mechanisms, the use of psychic sight in healing, forgiveness as transformational cleansing, and the channeling of healing energy through the laying on of hands. $575

Weekend of July 29--31

Mobilizing Life Force

Alan Schwartz

Alan Schwartz writes: "Quite simply, life force is the combined movement of human physiology, feeling, spirit, and the action of the brain and central nervous system which we call thought. The cleaner the movement, the more strength a person has available. All of us, due to heredity, environment, and simple bad luck, spend much too much time holding or stratifying the life force. This keeps us from authenticity and impedes the decision-making process.

"This weekend will be an experiment – reaching down through stratified elements of personality to attempt to free the life force and enhance awareness and the decision-making process. The group will act as reality mirror, and each participant may request an energetic diagnosis as to how his / her life force presents itself."

For further information, read the leader's July 31-August 5 workshop description. $295

American Ritual Theater Lab ©

Gabrielle Roth

American – Rooted in a contemporary, vigorous, cathartic form of ecstatic dance, this work was created in the 4/4 beat of a modern, industrial society. Although the knowledge is ancient and the quest eternal, the work is "now."

Ritual – This work focuses the participants' attention on the essential processes of their development, sacred teachers, rites of passage, psychic wounds and blessings. Set to an urban-primitive pulse, the sessions dramatize the true meaning of being a tribal individual.

Designs engraved on shells, all from Spiro Mound, LeFlore County, Oklahoma. Mississippi Culture, c. A.D. 1200-1600. (Joseph Campbell, The Way of the Animal Powers.)

COURTESY OF THE MUSEUM OF THE AMERICAN INDIAN NEW YORK, AND ALFRED VAN DER MARCK EDITIONS

Theater – This is root theater, funky and ceremonial, searing and lighthearted. Its purpose is to catalyze and train the "holy actor," to develop the witness position that allows distance from one's ego and the characters it creates in the theater of one's life.

Lab – The workshop is an experiment, a shamanic context for personal research to enable each participant to break through the bonds of ego to the stillpoint of an ever-changing self. $295

Physics Weekend:
Bell's Theorem and the Nature of Reality

Nick Herbert

Quantum theory is universally successful in describing nature at all levels accessible to experiment. However, this comprehensive practical success is accompanied by an unprecedented disagreement as to what quantum theory really means and a corresponding confusion as to what sort of reality supports the phenomenal world.

Controversy over the nature of deep reality has been sharpened by Bell's Theorem, which proves that any conceivable objective reality underlying the facts of experience must be independent of space and time. Thus either there is no ultimate objective reality, or this reality is more peculiar than we have been led (by ordinary physics) to believe. The impact of Bell's Theorem is just beginning to be felt in the world of physics, but it is rather like the situation of the Michelson-Morley experiment, which led to Einstein's theory of relativity. Just what the current controversy in the foundations of physics will lead to is not yet clear, but the various possibilities will be explored in this weekend presentation.

Recommended reading: Nick Herbert, Quantum Reality (Doubleday); Heinz Pagels, The Cosmic Code (Simon & Schuster). $295

Therapeutic Touch

Janet Quinn

Therapeutic Touch (TT) is an approach to healing which can be learned by people who have the intent to help. It is a derivative of the laying on of hands, but need not be practiced within a religious framework. It is a powerful tool for actualizing the innate healing capacities of both recipient and provider. TT has been taught to over 20,000 nurses nationally and abroad, as well as to lay people with an interest in healing.

This workshop will explore the theoretical foundations and clinical applications of Therapeutic Touch, blending didactic and experiential materials into a grounded, balanced approach to a new version of an ancient healing art. In addition to providing for practice of the actual TT methodology, the experiential aspects will allow for the exploration of the need to care and to love.

The practitioner of TT embarks on a journey to empower the healer, and in the process, to be healed. The work of remembering how to care, how to connect in unconditional love, and how to heal is seen as the only hope for personal, community, and planetary survival.

Janet Quinn, associate professor of nursing at the University of South Carolina, has been involved in the practice, research, and teaching of Therapeutic Touch since 1976. She was the recipient of the first federal research grant to study Therapeutic Touch.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $295

Week of July 31–August 5

Mirrors

Gabrielle Roth

I never dreamed of being Shakespeare or Goethe, and I never expected to hold the great mirror of truth up before the world; I dreamed only of being a little pocket mirror, . . . one that reflects small blemishes, and some great beauties, when held close enough to the heart. – Peter Altenberg

This ritual theater lab, a marriage of art and healing, is a way to "know thyself" in intense, honest, creative explorations of the psyche, its patterns, cycles, and movements. The unique theater and dance processes developed by Gabrielle Roth encourage participants to probe their own life experiences and to share and dramatize their insights in movement and performance. $575

The Changing Face of Gestalt Therapy

Cyndy Sheldon, Abraham Levitsky, Joe Camhi & Joan Sullivan

Change occurs when one fully acknowledges what is in the moment. Then there is freedom to move into the next moment without carrying unfinished business from the past. Such has been a basic tenet of gestalt therapy since the rise of the human potential movement, Esalen, and Fritz Perls' popularity in the 1960s. It is now two decades later, and the nature of gestalt therapy itself is changing. The philosophy hasn't changed, but the work has. Confrontation, drama, emotional catharsis, and charisma have given way to a more craftsmanlike attention to the subtle aspects of personal process and the relationship between the therapist and the client.

In this five-day workshop, participants will have time for theoretical and methodological discussions, personal work, and attention to group process. For those with previous gestalt training, a practicum may be included.

This workshop will be taught by people from the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco.

Recommended reading: Erving Polster, Every Person's Life is Worth a Novel (Norton). $575

Effecting Change:
The Human Energy System and Risk

Alan Schwartz

Alan Schwartz writes: "This is a week for recognizing and stabilizing how we face change given today's social, economic, and environmental realities. This is a week for designing a growth pattern to provide more stable contact with the issues facing all of us the rest of the century.

"The human energy system represents a constantly changing personality dimension. Often neglected in the human energy system's movement toward maturity is the development of strength. We hear metaphors not only of physical strength, but strength of character and emotions, and the spiritual and psychic strengths of perception. Lack of such strength development leads us to compensate in order to be able to function in our chosen worlds. Some compensations become psychosomatic problems: blame, denial, and indiscriminate sexual functioning. Power over self, people, and things is often a compensation for the strength that would allow us the experience of self, people, and things.

"Risk involves awareness of our individual compensations and sufficient trust of self and group process to experiment. This means rendering more alive the strength of our physiology, feelings, conceptual process, and psychic perceptiveness. The result can be clarity, stability, and a deeper awareness of self."

For further information, read the leader's July 29-31 workshop description. $575

The Buddha, the Goddess, and N.L.P.

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

The Buddha is a model for compassionate emptiness. The Goddess, as Earth Mother and Protector, is a model for passionate involvement in form. Neurolinguistic Programming (N.L.P.) is a structure for understanding, Poulnabrone Dolmen. The Burren, County Clare, Ireland. Also called a cromlech, this is thought to be the remnants of a burial chamber.

KATHLEEN THORNOD CARR

modeling, and changing human behavior and consciousness. This workshop is a unique opportunity to experience the combined power of hypnosis and N.L.P. within the context of a spiritual journey.

N.L.P. is an open-ended system for modeling human reality and for clearing the obscurations to our perfection. It can be used for leaving behind old baggage and focusing or polishing the filters of perception. It has been successfully used to model great healers, or counselors such as Milton Erickson, and leaders in sports and business. Set in the context of Buddhist psychology and practice, N.L.P. offers the choice to utilize gracefully the core issues of life as ally and teacher.

Participants will use daily Zen meditation, Taoist yoga, and transformational movement, as well as deep trance work, both as a group and individually. They will have the opportunity to learn new patterns of relationship as they invoke the perfected states of the Buddha and the Goddess already within.

Recommended reading: Chogyam Trungpa, Shambhala (Shambhala); W. Evans-Wentz, Tibetan Book of the Great Liberation (Oxford Univ. Press); Bandler and Grinder, Frogs into Princes (Real People Press); M. Zimmer Bradley, The Mists of Avalon (Knopf); Starhawk, Dreaming the Dark (Beacon Press). $575

Weekend of August 5–7

Letting Go — Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see June 10-12. $295

Freeing Our Bodies / Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach

Patrick Douce

For workshop description see June 17-19. $295

Celebrating the Goddess Within

Margot Adler

This workshop is about women's spiritual empowerment. The use of ritual as a tool for connecting with the Earth and with each other will be explored. Participants will chant, dance, share songs and experiences, and dream their inner journeys. They will create sacred space and travel to an ancient temple to meet the Goddess within themselves and within all nature. The workshop will also attempt to demystify concepts like "magic" and "ritual" and will offer each woman a set of personal tools she can use in her life. $295

Creative Writing Brainstorming

Herbert Gold

From feeling to expression to communication, this workshop will carry participants into the possibilities of making literature. Exploring an experience different for everyone, yet shared by all, they will probe for the riches within.

Participants should bring typewriter, word processor, pen, soft pencil, or clay tablets and stylus to the meetings. A situation will be called forth – love, death, ambition, pride, fear, hatred, jealousy – and after preparation in the discussion, participants will write. Then they will read and rewrite each other's work. They may expect to go from truth to lying: from recollection to art.

What may develop is a sense of style and control as a part of the mastery of experience. Participants will practice the freedom of imagination by giving shape to it. $295

August 6–13

A Gentle Trip in the High Sierra

Maurica Anderson & Walter Truett Anderson

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 50. $540

Week of August 7–12

A Look Within

Jessica Moore Britt

This will be a week for participants to attend to themselves in such a way that they begin to penetrate the layers of their conditioned patterns, allowing a truer perception and appreciation of who they are to emerge.

The focus of inquiry will be the relationship between the mind, body, and emotions and the subtle energy centers that make up, and therefore support, one's essential / spiritual nature.

The tools for exploration will be an interplay of East and West, including meditation, touch, gestalt awareness practice, Reichian breath work, and Sufi self-remembering exercises.

Recommended reading: A.H. Almaas, Diamond Heart (Diamond Books). $575

Five-Day Advanced Massage Intensive: Trigger Point

Arthur Munyer
& Esalen Massage Practitioners

Trigger point massage is the movement of myofascial tissue through soft and deep tissue contact with various pressure points of the body. Through direct pressure of origin and insertion points of muscles, it is possible to localize areas of muscular tension and skeletal restriction. Traumas and toxins in the body can be alleviated through the application of pressure point methods.

This workshop is suggested for body workers, holistic health care practitioners, workers in the medical field, physical therapists, chiropractors, and athletes who want to expand their hands-on skills. In addition to trigger point, other methods to be covered will include soft tissue work, structural alignment, and movement. Through these tools, participants and their clients may achieve and enjoy a more fluid, focused, and integrated body.

Recommended reading: Janet Travell, Myofascial Pain and Dysfunction: The Trigger Point Manual (Williams and Wilkens); William Leigh, A Zen Approach to Bodytherapy (University of Hawaii Press); Deane Juhan, Job's Body: A Handbook for Body Work (Station Hill Press).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $575

COURTESY OF WERNER FORMAN ARCHIVES, LONDON, AND ALFRED VAN DER MARCK EDITION

Shamanic wooden dance hat bearing the features of a wolf. Pacific Northwest. (Joseph Campbell, The Way of the Animal Powers.)

Hypnotic Innovations: Investigations in Living, Using Ericksonian Hypnosis

Paul Lounsbury & Nancy Winston

In the moment before a new idea unfolds, our attention becomes so fully focused that time seems to disappear. Perhaps, without quite realizing it, we forget where we are and what's around us. These spontaneous states are the stuff out of which hypnotic experience unfolds and through which unconscious possibilities take form.

In this workshop, participants will use the hypnotic approaches developed by Milton Erickson and the systemic principles generated from Gregory Bateson's research in communication to explore how unconscious processes can be mobilized to creatively disrupt limiting life patterns and to organize innovative behaviors outside the range of normal conscious controls. These investigations will be focused so that participants can more fully optimize their current living and work situations. The leaders will utilize natural communication occurring within the individuals and in the group as well as structured trance experiments and discussion.

This workshop may be of special interest to those in the helping professions and managers who want to expand their frames of reference and extend their understandings of Ericksonian hypnosis and communication skills. It is best suited for individuals with a sense of humor and those who wish to maximize the use of their capabilities. $575

Living Dance Rituals

Anna Halprin & Alice Rutkowski

And just as he who dances with his body, rushing through the rotating movements of the limbs, acquires a right to share in the round dance, in the same way, he who dances the spiritual dance, always moving in the ecstasy of faith, acquires a right to dance in the ring of all creation.
– St. Ambrose, Bishop of Milan, 4th Century

Dance, in early times, was a way to evoke a higher spirit, a life force, and a transcendent power. It was also the mother of all art forms. Ancient peoples expressed their most important experiences of life not with external materials, but with their own bodies. They danced to make sense out of the mysteries of their existence. On every occasion there was a dance – to celebrate victory, bring rain, initiate the young. Today, in a world alienated from nature, people can still tap into the deep sources of their bodies and move and dance as an exciting way to renew, inspire, teach, create, and heal.

Anna Halprin has innovated a unique approach to deepening life experiences through art expression. This workshop will explore many facets of this approach, from the structured practice of Movement Ritual I (a series of floor exercises to cultivate body awareness through release and relaxation) to spontaneous, dramatic, and zany group interactions. Visualizations, music, and outdoor environments will also be incorporated.

On Wednesday evening, the participants will view a slide show on body images and transformation, which will lead into a special performance of the world-wide planetary peace dance from Circle the Earth. David Schiffman will be the musician.

Men and women with diverse backgrounds and a sense of humor are welcome. Also, potential students for the Tamalpa trainings will find this workshop a valuable orientation.

Recommended reading: Anna Halprin, Movement Ritual I and Collected Writings of Anna Halprin (Tamalpa Institute).

Recommended viewing: Circle the Earth (videotape, Tamalpa Institute). $575

Weekend of August 12–14

Experiencing Psychic / Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

For workshop description see May 13-15.

$295

Fun with the Violin: For Adults Who Always Wanted to Play a Musical Instrument and Never Have

Diane Egli

For the adult who wishes he/she could play a musical instrument, but never had lessons as a child, or who used to play, but hasn't since childhood, this workshop could be just the opportunity to learn to play the violin – and have fun doing it.

This will be a time for participants to increase their awareness of how it feels to learn a new skill – the challenge, the excitement, the frustration, and the success of accomplishment.

Included in the workshop will be various activities to enhance violin playing, such as movement, music, and rhythm exercises. Participants are asked to bring a tape recorder and tapes.

Recommended reading: Shinichi Suzuki, Nurtured by Love (Banner); John Holt, Never Too Late (Pinchpenny Press).

$295 (plus $10 violin rental fee paid directly to the leader)

The Rubenfeld Synergy® Method

Ilana Rubenfeld

This is a workshop for professionals and others to explore and analyze how they use themselves – both professionally and in their personal relationships. It will provide an exciting introduction to the Rubenfeld Synergy Method, a healing system that combines touch, gentle body movement, visualization, humor, music, gestalt, and verbal and nonverbal intervention to increase effectiveness in the process of self-healing.

Ilana Rubenfeld will help participants develop efficient use of the bodymind and unblock energy by releasing emotions and memories stored in the body. She will show how to shield and ground the self in the face of difficult situations with clients and others.

Sessions will include experiential and theoretical components and one-to-one demonstrations. Participants will have an opportunity to process their experience. Participation in this workshop will fulfill one of the requirements for acceptance into the Rubenfeld Synergy training program. $295

Exploring the World of Lucid Dreaming

Stephen LaBerge

Lucid dreaming means dreaming while knowing that one is dreaming. The wakeful consciousness of this extraordinary state allows flexible and creative responses to the flow of dream experience and affords a unique opportunity to control one's dreams. This control gives the freedom to explore a remarkable range of possibilities, from indulging in one's wildest fantasies to following one's highest spiritual aspirations.

For most individuals, lucid dreams are as rare as the waking peak experiences to which they are analogous. This need not be so, and workshop participants will be shown how to develop the skill of lucid dreaming. They will also have the opportunity to use a recently developed feedback device for the induction of lucid dreams. The device, called The Dreamlight™, consists of a sleep mask fitted with sensors and lights connected to a small box that causes the lights to flash during REM (dreaming) sleep. When the lights flash, the dreamer can remember that he/she is dreaming. Participants will be exposed to a variety of uses of lucid dreaming, including self-exploration, creative problem-solving, healing, adventure, and perhaps most important, a way of self-integration leading to the transpersonal realms.

The scope of this workshop will extend beyond the dream state to discussions and experiential demonstrations of the nature of consciousness and how individuals construct their perceptual worlds. This workshop is intended for avid dreamers and people seriously interested in self-exploration and the development of consciousness.

Recommended reading: Stephen LaBerge, Lucid Dreaming (Ballantine).

$295 (plus $20 Dreamlight™ rental fee paid directly to the leader)

COURTESY OF THE BROOKLYN MUSEUM AND ALFRED VAN DER MARCK EDITIONS

Painting from a Japanese scroll of 1840 depicting the bear sacrifice of Ainu. In the Ainu tradition, the sacrifice is a way to pay homage to a deity who has assumed an animal disguise in order to visit earth and release it back to the spirit world. The bear is a visiting mountain god and is considered the most important of visiting presences. (Joseph Campbell, The Way of the Animal Powers.)

Week of August 14–19

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 14. $575

A Week with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

For workshop description see May 1-6. $575

Food for Health

Jane Miletich

For workshop description see June 17-19. $575

Creating Musical Theater

Stephen Book & Nancy Kaye Lunney

Creating Musical Theater is an experiential workshop in acting, singing, and performing. The group comes together through acting exercises, singing gestalt, Spolin theater games, and script construction, leading to the creation of an entirely original and thematic musical theater show presented to the Esalen community on the final evening of the workshop. During the week, both inexperienced and experienced participants are taught the basics of improvisational acting as well as how to heighten and focus energy, enhance communication skills, and extend powers of observation and concentration. Everyone has the opportunity for self-presentation without self-judgment. It can be an enjoyable and educational experience in self-discovery culminating in the excitement of . . . Opening Night! $575

The Art of Self-Care:
Who Heals the Healer?
Who Helps the Helper?

Ilana Rubenfeld

This workshop is for health professionals and others who would like to use their body / mind more effectively. Ilana Rubenfeld will draw on her 25 years of background with the Alexander and Feldenkrais® methods and gestalt to help participants explore and analyze how they use themselves in their practice.

This approach can help participants unblock their own energy and shield and ground themselves in the face of difficult situations with clients, learning to be with rather than for their client. Through nourishment and humor, participants will learn about self-care, a critical need for health professionals. Participation in this workshop fulfills one of the requirements for acceptance into the Rubenfeld Synergy® training program.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $575

Weekend of August 19–21

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 14. $295

A Weekend with
David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see May 13-15. $295

Life's Two Beats

Robert Nadeau

Robert Nadeau writes: "To create the Universe two forces were necessary. They could be termed universal male and female, both different but equally beneficial and necessary. The problem enters in when we, being in the middle of these forces or movements, desire one and fear or distrust the other, thus creating an imbalance. For example, a female fearing power (thinking she'll wreak havoc if she allows it) or a male fearful of letting go or giving up (to the point of non-functioning or not accomplishing) are two misunderstandings of these forces.

"This workshop may help participants experience how these forces work and how to increase their level of harmony within. There will be simple body movement. Wear loose clothing." $295

Week of August 21–26

Acts of Courage

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see June 26-July 1. $575

Chakra Psychology

Nancy Rosanoff

This course is designed for health professionals who want to incorporate a practical understanding of the chakra energy system in their work. This subtle system will be introduced, with the focus on useful ways the chakras can be applied to self-understanding and self-development.

Chakras are points where energy is assimilated into the whole system of body, mind, and spirit. Through the chakras it is possible to integrate and heal various aspects of the self and experience the spectrum of energy from spirit to physical reality. Working with the chakras is a step toward a spiritual psychology in which the unfolding of the self and one's life is understood as part of a greater whole.

During the week participants will explore how the chakras can be used to deepen their understanding of self-esteem, self-healing, past lives, behavior patterns, personal energy management, relationship patterns, goal-setting, their purpose in life, and more. $575

Living Meditations

Judyth Weaver

Meditation can be an important contribution to our daily lives, especially if it enhances understanding of our feelings, actions, and their options. In everything we do we have choices, but do we recognize them? We can perform the same activity in a stressful or a relaxed manner, wastefully or economically. We can hold on tightly or let go. We can have fun or suffer. The more in touch we are with our feelings and abilities, the more options are available to us.

This workshop will focus on rediscovering awareness of self – mentally, physically, and spiritually – to develop and integrate as many options as possible. It is through this awareness that one has the choice of how to live.

The week will be a blending of active meditations to help move toward this awareness. Participants will work with deep sensing of their organisms, with gentle breathing methods for stress reduction, t'ai chi ch'uan for relaxed exercise, gestalt, movement, massage, and other living meditations. These explorations can lead to a sense of centered grounding and balance with which to develop and enhance an economic, energetic, pleasurable, and effective life. $575

CYNTHIA JOHNSON BIANCHETTA

Indian pueblo church. Laguna, New Mexico. Settled in 1699.

Weekend of August 26–28

Weekend Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

Massage is a practical approach to stress relief and greater sensory awareness. This weekend workshop will provide instruction in basic methods used in giving a massage, with additional work on quality of touch, breath awareness, centering, and sensitive rapport between partners. $295

Food for Health

Jane Miletich

For workshop description see June 17-19. $295

Transitions

Elliot Aronson & Gabriele Thomson

Disorganization is a natural part of transition and facilitates reorganization. People are almost constantly in a state of transition—whether it be getting married, beginning a new career, becoming a parent, letting go of a relationship, or moving on to the next stage in the life cycle. These changes can be exciting and, at the same time, can evoke a loss of internal balance. The result can be loss of self-esteem, confusion about one's identity, and doubts about one's perceptions. New feelings and ideas are fragile during these periods of transition and require special nurturance.

The goal of this workshop is to gain perspective on the process of making transitions. Through guided fantasies, self-exploration, and didactic presentations, participants may develop ways of enhancing their understanding of themselves and increasing their overall effectiveness. $295

A Balanced Body, a Balanced Life

George Leonard

From balance flows energy, the ability to move, to take action in the world. A balanced life begins with a balanced and centered body. Through the simple, enjoyable, body-mind exercises of Leonard Energy Training (LET) participants will be offered the chance to discover balance and centeredness in their own bodies to apply this learning to daily life situations.

LET is derived from the Eastern art of aikido as well as from Western psychology and physical theory. It is a comprehensive body of work that offers practical, alternative ways of dealing with the challenges of life and enhancing the flow of vital energy. It is not physically demanding, and does not aim at emotional catharsis. All that is needed is a generous heart and a willingness to participate.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse (Dutton) and Education and Ecstasy (North Atlantic). $295

August 27–September 9

Path of the River: A Grand Canyon Journey

Steven Harper, Wendy Palmer & Arizona Raft Adventures Staff (AZRA)

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 50. $1690

Week of August 28–September 2

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 14. $575

Five Days with Janet Zuckerman

For workshop description see June 12-17. $575

Action Theater for the Novice

Ruth Zaporah

Ruth Zaporah developed Action Theater so that participants could spontaneously create dramatic images from personal material through improvisational dance, vocalization, and acting. This week-long workshop will acquaint the participants with various aspects of expression:

* Awareness of the body and movement possibilities through time, space, and shape
* The development of a strong and viable voice
* Personal and imaginative use of language
* The interaction of body, voice, and language
* The ability to access material usually below the normal threshold of awareness, i.e., the "mysteries"
* The balance between form and spontaneity

Within each session there will be a physical and vocal warmup, ensemble and small group interactions (often in the form of games), and improvisational presentations.

Theater is play. All play. Play that translates into personal gain for daily life. $575

KATHLEEN THORNHOOD CARR

Anasazi petroglyph. Choco Canyon, New Mexico (c. A.D. 1000).

Imagination as Healer

Jeanne Achterberg, Frank Lawlis & Michael Samuels

This workshop is designed for professionals in health care who include imagery / visualization in their practices and for health consumers who have integrated mental imagery of some form into their healing repertoire. Attendance will be limited to allow for interaction with others and for an expanded examination of imagery methods.

The presenters have stradled the worlds of science and healing for over a decade and have emerged with a new dimension in health. During this week they will offer their findings, provide tools for empowering the psyche, and serve as resource persons. Their expertise includes work with cancer, heart disease, immune and autoimmune conditions, AIDS, general stress disorders, and other chronic, disabling conditions.

Case studies will be shared, offering the great enlightenment that comes only from persons who are examining their lives in the face of grave crises. The attendees will be guided through typical visualization and imagery exercises.

The focus of this workshop will be the reintegration of potent visionary processes into their rightful fold: the nurturance of life and all that implies for health and emotional well-being.

Recommended reading: Jeanne Achterberg, Imagery in Healing: Shamanism and Modern Medicine (Shambhala); Michael and Nancy

KATHLEEN THORNOO CARR

Temple of the Inscriptions, Palenque, Chiapas, Mexico. This pyramid is the apparent burial place of Palenque's ruler, Lord Pacal, who died in A.D. 683.

Samuels, Seeing with the Mind's Eye (Random House).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $575

Weekend of September 2–4

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman

For workshop description see June 17-19.

$295

Edges: A Weekend with Terence & Kat McKenna

The McKennas write: "From the Voynich manuscript to the villages of Ceram's forested interior, there are gentle uncharted backwaters in the physical and intellectual world that can be a source of renewed vigor for thoughtful people caught in the meltdown of historical society. Because the exploration of edges, of the way less traveled, has proven a workable strategy in our own long strange trip, we are interested in sharing these ideas with our friends. Global perspectives and psychedelic poetics begin with stories and deep talk of far places and the experiences that can take flower there. We will discuss people, plants, cultural migrations, religious conversions, visions, conspiracies, and hierophanies. Join us for yet another conjuration of philosophy as you like it." $295

What is Self?

Bernadette Roberts

In this workshop, Bernadette Roberts will present her insights into the question of self. She writes: "As long as we are living it, or are it, we cannot know the true nature of self. This disclosure can only be known when self falls away and becomes known by its absence or 'what was.' As it turns out, the knowing-feeling self is both an unconscious function of the mind and the profound experience of life and being. Together these give rise to every experience we call self or consciousness.

"Viewing human existence as a passage through consciousness, this workshop will explore the major milestones of the journey, with particular emphasis on the difference between the falling away of the ego-self and the much later falling away of the true self or the unitive, transcendental self. The criteria and validation for these milestones will be viewed in the light and experiences of Christ and Buddha, who manifested and articulated the journey for all who would come after." $295

Artmaking as an Act of Healing

Nancy Azara

This workshop is for visual artists who want to explore the magical power and healing properties inherent in artmaking and who want to know and expand their psychic visions. Using meditation and other exercises, participants will have the opportunity to open creative channels to find their visual language, bring vivid images to consciousness, and paint and draw these experiences. They will focus on light and color through their bodies, practice reading auras, and experience the laying on of hands. These exercises allow individuals to discover their own creative healing symbols, ease energy blocks, look at the hidden parts of themselves, identify and clarify important influences in their lives, and, finally, move toward more fully owning their personal power. The instructor will guide workshop activities with the sustenance and support appropriate to this kind of exploration and expression.

Participants are asked to bring whatever they like of the following: acrylic or watercolor paint, collage materials, pastels, oil crayons, scissors, glue, and about 25 sheets or the equivalent in pads of good quality drawing paper (no newsprint). Size 11″×14″ is ideal.

$295

Week of September 4–9

The Sacred Mask Experience

Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see May 1-6.

$575

A Week with Seymour Carter

For workshop description see May 8-13.

$575

Painting Experience with Michell Cassou and Stewart Cubley

It is rare for most people to use painting for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to paint purely for the process of exploration, not for the result.

The purpose of this workshop is to provide a setting to explore the self through painting – to discover in form and color a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to emotional and spiritual expression. Participants are given the support and stimulation to develop a natural way of painting based directly upon feeling.

The work takes place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, along with a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. The workshop may be of interest to persons involved in a wide variety of disciplines, including art, education, counseling, and meditative practices. No prior experience in painting is necessary.

For further information about this workshop, contact: The Painting Experience Studio, 2101 20th Avenue, San Francisco, CA 94116; (415) 564-8515.

$575 (plus $25 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Trance Integrations: Advanced Workshop

Paul Carter

Wisdom is the intelligence of the system as a whole.
– Gregory Bateson

Your conscious mind is very intelligent, and your unconscious mind is a hell of a lot smarter.
– M.H. Erickson

This advanced workshop is for people who have previously worked with Paul Carter and wish to go deeper with the material. It is an experiential, holistic, and innovative approach to Ericksonian naturalistic hypnosis – the Whole / Parts Process. It will explore principles of this approach, including trance as a natural and necessary part of health and will develop the idea that people and their communication and problem-solving are paradoxical.

Because of their prior experience with going into trance, participants will be better able to shift their focus into personal and interpersonal work inside of the trance state. Milton Erickson believed that people have an intelligence obtained from their wholeness that is far greater than what they are ordinarily conscious of. Accessing and integrating that intelligence will form the basis of this work.

Through guided exercises and group process, participants will work with the hypnotic use of metaphor in movement, sound, image, and story, as well as the hypnotic realities of age-regression, age-progression (traveling into futures), lucid dreaming, dissociation, and deep-trance identification (a process of deepening self-awareness through identification with different persons in and out of trance).

Additional topics may include: pain control, working with families, transpersonal exploration; the art of using all the system, including the bad, sick, crazy, and resistant parts; and an integrative approach to problem-solving and self-healing as described in Paul Carter's forthcoming book, The Whole-Parts Process: A Formula for Integrity.

Recommended reading: Grinder and Bandler, Trance-Formations (Real People Press); Michael Yapko, ed., "Parts Work: The Never Ending Story," Hypnotic and Strategic Interventions (Irvington). $575

Weekend of September 9–11

A Special Weekend at Esalen

This weekend is open to all those who would like to spend time at Esalen, enjoying the grounds, the baths, and the community, without participating in a group. Massage and other work offered by individual practitioners will be available as usual. $160

Week of September 11–16

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

For workshop description see May 13-15. $575

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Robert Helm & Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see May 29-June 3. $575

Caretakers of Wonder: The Accuracy of Aesthetic Insight

Mel Bucholtz

An awareness of beauty, wonder, and enchantment restores purpose and direction for the creation of a meaningful life. It also addresses and helps resolve problematic and distressing issues in one's life.

This workshop will: 1) introduce participants to an experience of wonder as the animating element in life; and 2) practice ways in which one shepards wonder into the world. Accepting the notion that it has been placed in their trust, each trustee, or caretaker, then ushers wonder into the world.

With such learnings, we re-inherit our sensibilities and are vitalized by the new meaning they bring to awareness. The quality of attention which unfolds is that of enriched being, animating all the communities that sustain and create life. $575

The Life Energy Process[SM]

Stephano Sabetti

The Life Energy Process is a spiritually-oriented approach to body work and lifestyle which allows participants direct contact with the spiritual self through the use of energy vibrations. This is facilitated by specific intensive and subtle movements, depending on the energy level affected. Participants may find that these movements open them to their own healing channel and unique energy frequency. In this process it is possible to release unfinished emotions, radiational and chemical toxins, and psychological disturbances without forcing oneself in any way. From that point of greater clarity in the energy movement within their own bodies, individuals may move to the next step in their personal development. This energy work is continued physically and verbally through process inquiry and dialogue with the workshop leader as participants examine the superficial trace problems of their everyday lives and explore their deeper energy disturbances through energy patterning.

Other aspects of the Life Energy Process which may be included in this workshop are energetic forms of massage, dance, and theater, all of which can be used to heighten awareness, express inner movement, and create possibilities for new avenues of growth. Some of the work may be hands-on with partners. Participants will also be led in individual movement and dance patterns.

This workshop may be of particular interest to professionals and laypersons alike who are excited by the integration of Eastern and Western methods with the new physics for personal, social, and organizational evolution.

Recommended reading: Stephano Sabetti, The Wholeness Principle; Manifestations of Energy; and Shinkido Massage (available from Life Energy Media, 14755 Ventura Blvd., Ste. 1908, Sherman Oaks, CA 91403). $575

Weekend of September 16–18

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 14. $295

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 14. $295

Singing Gestalt

Nancy Kaye Lunney

Singing gestalt is singing about yourself, who you are, what you feel, who you'd like to be. Singing gestalt is about being yourself in front of other people without judging how well you sing. Singing gestalt is not about performance. It is about feeling and expressing.

If the idea of getting up and singing in front of other people terrifies you more than anything you can think of, this workshop is for you. If you love to sing in front of other people and want to stretch yourself further, this workshop is for you. If you've been too shy to try, this is your chance.

Seal. Contemporary Eskimo drawing in x-ray style, showing "life-line" and ribs. Alaska. (Joseph Campbell, The Way of the Animal Powers. Original source: Andreas Lommel.)

COURTESY OF ALFRED VAN DER MARCK EDITIONS

Some guided imagery and gestalt may be used. Accompaniment and lots of music are provided. Video feedback may be incorporated. But the workshop is really about you – singing.

$295

The Presence of the Past: Morphic Resonance and the Habits of Nature

Rupert Sheldrake

Sheldrake's hypothesis of formative causation may provide the basis for a new scientific paradigm which goes far beyond the currently predominant mechanistic theory of life. The idea that the form and behavior of living organisms are shaped by morphogenetic fields, themselves molded by the form and behavior of past similar organisms, leads to a new interpretation of heredity and the evolutionary process.

Memories need no longer be thought of as somehow stored inside the brain. They may depend on direct connections with the organism's own past due to morphic resonance, and tuning in to the experience of other members of the species may give rise to a pooled or collective memory.

In this workshop, some of the implications of formative causation for biology, psychology, parapsychology, philosophy, ritual, and religion will be explored and discussed.

Recommended reading: Rupert Sheldrake, A New Science of Life (Tarcher) and The Presence of the Past: Morphic Resonance and the Habits of Nature (Times Books). $295

Week of September 18–23

The Hakomi Method

Ron Kurtz

For workshop description see May 22-27.

$575

Personal Challenges of the U.S.-Soviet Relationship

Stephen Rhinesmith

Everyone concerned with the U.S.-Soviet relationship faces uncertainty and contradictions in trying to determine what is real and what is not, what can be believed and what cannot, and what the implications are for one's own values and beliefs.

This workshop is designed for laypeople and professionals who face the personal value and identity challenges created in trying to reconcile the enormous differences between the United States and the Soviet Union. Issues to be discussed include the contradictions of human rights vs. cultural relativism, national security vs. bilateral dialogue, cooperation vs. competition, and reaching out vs. being sued. Participants will examine the relationship of these topics to their own work, values, and belief systems. $575

A Workshop with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful. – Xenophon

People, like plants, need special attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what they've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness. The courage to let go of self-defeating patterns from the past, the willingness to master fresh skills and create new dreams for the future: these are the turning points that nourish and sustain human beings.

In this workshop, the participants will come together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in themselves. They will create a community whose aim is to explore and move through individual turning points in a climate of trust, goodwill, and authenticity. The program will be structured to include intensive individual work, using practices from gestalt, psychosynthesis, and bioenergetics, as well as creative movement, music, guided imagery, group rituals, and celebrations. $575

Dream Discovery

Joyce Frazee

A dream that is not understood is like a letter that is not opened. – The Talmud

This workshop will explore what is required to open one's dream and to open to the dreamer in oneself. The dream that seems so real, so tangible, is really a miracle of metaphor and disguised insight. It is a gift from the self. The opening to these insights and understandings can be taught and, once learned, allows the dreamer to draw nourishment and encouragement from the unconscious. Even the most frightening dreams may have gifts waiting to be learned.

The mind can be perverse, and if not rewarded for its efforts, may turn its energies elsewhere. This applies to dreams, of course. If one does not know how to draw value from them, they will be forgotten. Since many people forget dreams, exercises in dream recall will be offered in this workshop. Participants will be encouraged to keep dream journals, through which they may discover that dreams come in series, presenting and exploring a continuing theme. The group will work with feelings using gestalt and bioenergetics. Participants will draw dream mandalas and explore how to use them for insight and healing. Methods of dream control and lucid dreaming will be discussed. $575

Golf in the Kingdom . . . an exploration of the inner game

Stephen Cohen, Fred Shoemaker, John & Tucker Elizabeth Allen

Ye'll come away from the links with a new hold on life, that is certain if ye play the game with all your heart. – Michael Murphy, (Shivas Irons) Golf in the Kingdom

The game of golf provides many opportunities to enhance the journey of self-discovery. It may be experienced not simply as an athletic endeavor, but also as a metaphor for the way one lives.

In golf, issues of self-confidence, fear, trust, discipline, and awareness emerge in the conflict between the ego's desire for success and the inner self's ability to achieve. By freeing the full potential of this inner self, it is possible to greatly expand one's capacity to learn, both in the physical and mental/emotional realms. Not only do golf scores and enjoyment of the game improve, but the same lessons can be applied to other areas of one's life.

In these five days, teaching methods gleaned from a study of the inner game will be utilized, as well as principles and methods from psychosynthesis and gestalt therapy, to explore the inner self and how one interferes with its emergence.

Two of the days will be spent on field trips to the Monterey Peninsula where participants will practice and play in some of the most beautiful golf country in the world. On other days there will be time to relax and enjoy the natural pleasures of Esalen in Big Sur. This workshop is suitable for male and female golfers of all levels of accomplishment. Participants may bring their own clubs, or the leaders will provide them.

Recommended reading: Michael Murphy, Golf in the Kingdom (Dell); Timothy Gallwey, The Inner Game of Golf (Random House).

$575 (plus $70 green fees paid directly to the leaders)

Weekend of September 23–25

Weekend Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see August 26-28.

$295

A Weekend with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see May 13-15.

$295

Inner Sound and Voice

Jill Purce

This is a workshop of practical explorations with sound for healing and the transformation of consciousness. By liberating the voice, it is possible to make contact with deep levels of the Self and release an untapped source of energy.

Participants will work with the psycho-physical effects of breathing, chanting, mantric and sonic meditations, learning to tune and listen together, moving from the intuitive level into meditative states. Breath and sound will be developed so that different parts of the body-mind come into resonance, to give sonic massage, and to heal and tune the chakras and subtle body. Participants will be taught ways to find their own note and hear inner sound, entering directly into the subtle dimensions of sound by the magical voice practices of traditional cultures including trance music, Mongolian and Tibetan overtone chanting, and other methods. $295

How to Change Your Work Without Changing Your Job

Cynthia Scott & Dennis Jaffe

Many people are searching for a place to make a commitment and all they are offered is a job. What this workshop offers is an opportunity for participants to learn how to change their work without changing their job, to transform their work from the inside, to create a greater connection between their values and their work. Such an approach allows people to take greater control over their work, leading to greater satisfaction and meaning. This is what the leaders call HeartWork.

During this weekend, the leaders will present the steps to HeartWork and coach participants through structured exercises and open exploration of such topics as: defining new work, dealing with business transitions (becoming a change master), mission and vision (harnessing one's dreams), breakthrough thinking, inspired performance, creating a job enhancement strategy, building personal power, creating support links, balancing one's work and personal worlds.

This process is an alternative to burnout and exhaustion. Emphasis will be on the practical application of what the participant does on Monday. $295

KATHLEEN THORNWOOD CARR

Bas-relief panel from the Yogyakarta area, Java.

Week of September 25–30

Experiencing Psychic / Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

For workshop description see May 13-15.

$575

Self-Acceptance Training

Richard Olney, Leonard Bearne & Tim Doyle

Self-acceptance training is a transpersonal practice that follows an educational model rather than a medical model. It is defined as "the experiencing of whatever I am in a given moment, without the inhibitions of self-judgment, self-criticism, or self-evaluation." The goal of this work is to reach the inner self, the inner teacher, and to feel alive and real.

Although its practice includes devices drawn from gestalt, bioenergetics, mythic fantasy, eidetic imagery, and hypnosis, it is also a philosophy, a value system, and a view of the individual's relationship with the universe.

Self-acceptance training is a holistic approach which emphasizes body work and body awareness, emotional charge and discharge, as well as a cognitive examination of the individual's "pretends" and illusions that obstruct self-acceptance. $575

A Workshop with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

If a proper reverence for the sanctity of the earth and the diversity of its people is the secret of peace and survival, then the adventure of self-discovery stands before us as the most practical of pleasures.
– Theodore Roszak, Person / Planet

In nature, one can observe the rhythms and patterns that occur in every aspect of life – from the pulsation of the cell, to the ebb and flow of the deepest emotions, to the movement and expansion of the universe itself. In this workshop, the natural world will be the group's teacher as they explore the "inner" terrain of their physical and emotional bodies and the "outer" terrain of Esalen and Big Sur.

KATHLEEN THORPOD CARR

The Porch of Maidens on the Erechtheum, an Ionic temple in the Acropolis, Athens, Greece, completed in the later years of the Peloponnesian War.

Participants will use Reichian gestalt awareness and breath work, sound, creative movement, and meditation to balance and transform energy blocks in the body. In addition, they will use music, dance, prayer, and ritual to express their relationship with the earth and each other.

No previous experience is needed, only a willingness to explore this adventure of spirit and discover a deepened sense of the interconnectedness that is inherent in all life-forms. Learning about one's body, natural instincts, and responses can lead one back to the ancient wisdom of the earth – and a return to sacredness and wholeness.

Recommended reading: Fields, et al., Chop Wood, Carry Water (Tarcher); Shakti Gawain, Creative Visualization (Whatever Publishing); Peter Russell, The Global Brain (Tarcher).

$575

Transformational Theater

Jane Hinders & Mark Olsen

Theater, unlike film and video, is multidimensional, involving all of the senses – including the ability to sense the collective mind of the audience. The actor, charged with the energy of an audience, can use it to access various archetypes and by-pass ordinary obstacles to personal growth. The audience, linked to the actor, participates vicariously and thus benefits by this process of transformation.

Successful self-transformation depends upon the state of refinement of the individual nervous system. Gradual harmonizing of the body, mind, and voice improves neurological alignment, making it possible to accept and transform greater and greater dosages of audience energy. The results of this can be: greater freedom of expression, improved clarity and perspective on life, warmer human relationships, and a return to a childlike sense of wonder.

Through specific voice and movement methods developed by the leaders, this workshop will focus on the process of harmonizing body, mind, and voice, and generating and transforming creative energy into various forms of theater. Voluntarily entering the imagination in order to grow is an act of extraordinary trust. Transformational theater is based on such trust. In order to orchestrate self-transformation, the actor must trust his/her fellow actors, the powers of the imagination, and ultimately the magical entity called a live audience.

The leaders will use the body and voice as tools for self-knowledge. Together they will apply their teaching skills, exercises, and games to guide others to discoveries that can be shaped into song, dialogue, mime, dance, storytelling, or any combination that best channels the creative spark.

Transformational Theater can be nourishing, fun, and uplifting. It is physically demanding and requires some prior training such as yoga, t'ai chi, mime, dance, karate, or other movement work. Participants should wear loose clothing.

$575

Weekend of September 30–October 2

Cognitive Therapy of Depression

Christine Padesky & Kathleen Mooney

As rich and important as feelings are, sometimes people become so distressed they need help learning to control their emotions. Research shows that in a state of clinical depression, a person's thinking becomes negatively distorted so that, instead of enhancing understanding of oneself, depressed feelings can actually lead to a destructive self-view.

Over the past twenty years, Aaron Beck, a physician at the University of Pennsylvania, has developed cognitive therapy, which represents a significant breakthrough in helping people who are depressed. This approach, by focusing on a here and now collaborative relationship between client and therapist, teaches the depressed person to identify thinking and behavior patterns which perpetuate depression. Personal experiments and guided self-discovery methods can be used by the client to change distorted negative thinking to more balanced thinking and, as a result, a depressed mood can be lifted.

Through lectures, demonstrations, and guided group exercises, participants will be taught the basic concepts and practice of cognitive methods for depression. Humor and creative metaphors will be included. This workshop is especially intended for health professionals.

$295

Guide to Recovery for Adult Children of Alcoholics and Other Adult Children of Trauma

Herbert Gravitz & Julie Bowden

The last decade has heralded a social movement identifying and recognizing the plight of over thirty million Americans raised in alcoholic homes. When it is realized that there are millions raised in family environments with other types of dysfunction (e.g., chronic mental or physical illness, holocaust survivors, compulsive workers, overeaters, or gamblers), it is possible to begin to see the source of the pain so evident in this society.

Some believe the stress or sadism in an alcoholic family is second only to the horrors of concentration camps or prisoner of war camps. Comparing growing up in an alcoholic family to growing up in a war zone, many believe the emotional atmosphere results in symptoms of post-traumatic stress disorder, including flashbacks, psychic numbing, survivor guilt, alienation, and chronic shock. Acknowledging the effects of alcoholism increases understanding of the healing process.

The workshop leaders have identified six stages that describe the transformational journey to recovery taken by children of alcoholics and other trauma. Step by step, in an atmosphere of safety and integrity, they will combine the dimensions of altered state work and spirituality. Participants will be invited to move through and beyond the trauma of yesterday – melting frozen tears, integrating eternal yesterdays, befriending the child within, and connecting to the higher purpose.

$295

The Re-emergence of the Goddess: A New Consciousness for Women and Men

Elinor Gadon

A new consciousness is growing among women and men, an awareness of the deep connectedness and relationship of all life – a healing of the split between culture and nature, mind and body, male and female, life and death. The Goddess has emerged as metaphor and symbol for the transformation of contemporary culture into a truly humanistic one. A feminine consciousness valuing insight, intuition, feeling, and emotion is replacing the dominant masculine one of hierarchy, competitiveness, and aggression.

The roots of modern Goddess consciousness are in the feminist movement, where she has served well both as role model for women's empowerment and as catalyst for re-imaging the divine in patriarchal Judaism and Christianity. She has been a muse to artists and poets. Women's bodies and human sexuality are being re-sacralized in the spirit of the Great Goddess, and with this awareness comes the understanding of eros, the erotic, as the life force, the source of creativity and joy and human connection.

Gaia, the Earth Goddess, has given her name to the new hypothesis which sees our planet, Earth, as a living, self-generating organism. Goddess politics are Green, the grassroots movement which stands for earth wisdom, deep ecology, economic decentralization, and non-violence. Goddess healing is holistic, acknowledging the power of the esoteric. The new spirituality is one of immanence – the Goddess within both women and men.

This workshop will explore the role and meaning of the Goddess in past cultures and living tradition, using the visual arts to identify symbols and images which have shaped personal world view. Through dialogue and ritual, participants will connect the emerging new values to their life experience, initiating personal transformation.

$295

Week of October 2–7

Letting Go — Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see June 10-12.

$575

Spiritual Healing: Laying On of Hands

Maria Lucia Holloman

This workshop will present practical methods of using the hands as instruments for physical and spiritual healing. The emphasis will be on intentionality and personal clarity as the fundamental tools in any healing art. Maria Lucia Holloman has studied with healers from Brazil, her native country, where laying on of hands is used effectively. She has also studied the art of cranial manipulation, which she combines with her healing work on a regular basis as a practitioner at Esalen.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $575

The Radical Inner Journey: Poetry and the Essential Work of the Soul

David Whyte

In these times, when the external, material world is deemed to be the prime reality, poetry takes on an especially valuable function in maintaining the inner world of the soul. Great poetry deals not in cold abstractions or idealization, but in the authentic connections that give one's life meaning, purpose, and direction. Many individuals have felt at critical junctures in their lives that if only they had direct access to what was most precious and creative in themselves, then they would know the next practical steps to take.

This five-day intensive will work with the radical inner journey to the center of that creativity and power. Through the great poets and their poetry, through silence, contemplation, time in the magnificent surroundings of Egyptian stela of Anhurnakhte, 2150 B.C. British Museum, London, England.

KATHLEEN THORNOD CARR

Big Sur, and the willingness to look at their lives afresh, participants will attempt to access that center and the wisdom that springs from it. Writing ability or previous appreciation of poetry is helpful, but not in the least bit necessary. $575

Weekend of October 7–9

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 14. $295

Introduction to Vipassana Meditation

Jamie Baraz

Vipassana (insight) meditation practice is a systematic examination of the mind / body process through calm and focused awareness. Learning to observe experience from a place of stillness enables one to relate to life without fear or clinging. One begins to accept pleasure and pain, fear and joy, with increasing equanimity and balance. Life is seen as a constantly changing process. Insight is the deepening experience of the process itself, free of interpretation, leading to wisdom and compassion.

This seminar is designed for those who have had no previous meditation experience as well as for those who wish to deepen their practice. Meditation instruction, the philosophy behind the practice, group discussions, and actual practice periods will be offered. Special emphasis will be placed on how to integrate Vipassana practice in daily life after the workshop is over.

Recommended reading: Joseph Goldstein, The Experience of Insight (Shambhala). $295

Intimacy: How Close is Close Enough?

Sam Keen

Intimacy seems to be a missing ingredient, a mysterious condition for which many people long. Most individuals are certain, without having achieved it, that it is the elixir of happiness. Couples fight about it. Pop psychologists assure their audiences it is only ten easy steps away. Illusive as it is, many individuals honor it. Yet, they hardly ever pause long enough in their quests to ask themselves exactly what it is they want.

This seminar will explore different ideas and experiences of intimacy and distance. Some of the questions posed to the participants may include:

* How close do you want to be? To whom? How often? Why?
* What exactly do you want from an intimate of the opposite sex?
* What keeps you from achieving a satisfying degree of intimacy?
* Do you and your partner have different IQs (Intimacy Quotients)?
* How much distance do you need in order to feel close, safe with another person?
* What is the relation between intimacy and solitude?
* How do you distinguish between intimacy and symbiosis, closeness and engulfment?
* How do you preserve your boundaries, your independence, your separateness?
* When is intimacy destructive? $295

Windows to Our Children

Violet Oaklander

This workshop will present an approach to working with children and adolescents that uses creative, expressive, and projective methods, with gestalt theory and practice as the underlying framework. The purpose of this work is to provide the child with a means for expressing his or her innermost feelings, to foster self-awareness and self-discovery, to enhance self-esteem and, in general, to promote emotional growth. These methods teach children of all ages not only about themselves, but about their relationship to others and the world around them. A variety of materials and media are used: graphic arts, fantasy, storytelling, puppetry, the sand tray, dreams, poetry, relaxation and meditation, body movement, music, creative dramatics.

This workshop will include discussion, demonstration, examples of children's work and, particularly, direct experience with some of the methods and materials in order for participants to realize their exceptional power. It is designed for anyone living and working with children: parents, teachers, counselors, psychologists.

Recommended reading: Violet Oaklander, Windows to Our Children (Real People Press). $295

Week of October 9–14

Group Process

Will Schutz

This will be a practicum in group process, particularly useful for those working with people, including, but not limited to, executives working with staff. Participants will have the opportunity to observe, experience, and discuss group formation and development. Issues of inclusion, control, and openness will be dealt with in action and in theory. Group leadership will be modeled and discussed. Teaching methods include encounter and brief lectures. Truth-telling and simplicity will be emphasized.

Recommended reading: Will Schutz, Elements of Encounter (Irvington), The Truth Option (Ten Speed Press), and Profound Simplicity (Learning Concepts). $575

The Subtle Self in Motion

Judy Blackstone

This workshop is for people who are ready for the subtle, concentrated work required to truly inhabit their bodies. Participants will use mind-breath-body exercises to awaken consciousness of the inner depths of the body, increasing both receptive and expressive abilities. Through guided use of the breath and mind, they will be taught how to attune to the emotional underpinnings of bodily tensions and to release the bound energy of old pain.

The personal themes which emerge from this work will be explored verbally in a supportive group setting and in a free movement class for the expression of deeper, non-verbal experience. There will be daily meditation practice as well as sound and visualization exercises for penetrating to the core of the body-mind, to a level of unified awareness. Through this unbroken contact with the self, participants may discover the joy, health, and spontaneity of their essential nature. This workshop will not be physically taxing; participants should have previous experience with introspective work. $575

Ways to Change: A Jungian Experience

John Nicholas

Meaninglessness inhibits the fullness of life and can, therefore, be equated with illness; meaningfulness makes a great many things endurable, perhaps everything. – C.G. Jung

People discover themselves through relationships – with others and within and beyond themselves – transcending the ordinary boundaries of time and space. The focus of this workshop will be the most central aspect of all transpersonal work: change. The basic concepts of C.G. Jung will be applied to practical problem-solving and conflict resolution of everyday issues and relationships. Participants will have the opportunity to discover, explore, and confront unconscious complexes that inhibit the fullness of life and block creativity. There will be time for individual work with dreams, active imagination, symbolic drawing and painting, storytelling, guided imagery, and journals. The week will be a voyage of discovery.

Recommended reading: C.G. Jung, Man and His Symbols (Doubleday) and Memories, Dreams, Reflections (Random House); June Singer, Boundaries of the Soul (Doubleday); Robert Johnson, Inner Work (Harper & Row); Anthony Storr, ed., The Essential Jung (Princeton University Press). $575

October 9–November 4

Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 49. $2300

Weekend of October 14–16

A Workshop for Couples with David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see July 22-24. $295

The Discipline of Harmony: Warrior Virtues Without War

Richard Strozzi Heckler

This seminar will examine the notions of aggression, initiation rites, courage, and risk-taking in the context of the warrior ideal. Does the discipline of harmony mean the taming of aggression? To live in peace do we also need to accept and understand violence? Is it possible to distinguish the warrior from war? Can the warrior virtues of courage, commitment, clarity, generosity, service, and skillful action be invoked without the catalyst of hostile fire?

These questions will be the starting point for a five-day workshop conducted in the warrior spirit of "life at stake." Exercises taken from aikido, along with introspection, sharing, and guided meditations, will allow participants to experience the possibilities of embodying warrior virtues without war.

Recommended reading: Richard Strozzi Heckler, The Anatomy of Change (Shambhala) and, editor, Aikido and the New Warrior (North Atlantic Books); J. Glenn Gray, The Warriors (Harper & Row). $295

The Nature of the Creative Process

Susan Griffin

The working premise of this workshop is that creativity is a fundamental aspect of human nature. Everyone is creative. And the stifling or the impairment of the capacity to create is a serious wound, afflicting a great many people. The fear, and hence destruction, of creativity is part of a shared social structure and of most family structures. In our culture it is related to an alienation from the body and emotional life, and more essentially, to change and the unknown.

This workshop will involve both theory and practice. It will include a great deal of direct experience both with healing and the liberation of one's own ability, and with the creative process itself. Although writing will be the basic mode of creative effort, the workshop is designed to address creativity in general, and is appropriate for artists of all kinds (beginning as well as accomplished), thinkers, psychologists working with creativity, and anyone wishing to expand the traditional notion of human capability. $295

KATHLEEN THORNOO CARR

Modern Balinese painting from the Pengosekan Artists' Cooperative near Ubud. Several artists may work on a single painting. Themes are from daily life or mythic images, including deities and characters from Hindu-Pagan epics and cosmology.

Week of October 16–21

Reparenting

Rita Rohen

A person's daily life is very much controlled by messages and rules that were received in the early stages of life, i.e., people carry a burden of biographies. In this workshop, participants will study the developmental stages, needs, probable body problems, life positions, and games of childhood. They will have the opportunity, in individual and group work, to regress to early ages and change old messages. This seminar is designed to explore individual boundaries and to reset them by playful means, opening new realms of consciousness for a deeper and richer life. $575

The Nature of Movement: Aikido and Wilderness

Steven Harper & Wendy Palmer

In this week-long workshop, participants will work indoors with energy awareness and principles derived from aikido, and outdoors on short day-hikes into Big Sur's backcountry to explore the movement that nature inspires. Both aikido and hiking are moving meditations which, when done well, require the individual to be in harmony with the natural world. There will be an opportunity to take what is learned on the aikido mat out into the natural world and bring what is learned from nature onto the aikido mat. Participants can then begin to integrate what they learn from aikido and from nature into their lives.

All evenings and most meals will be at Esalen. Participants need not have previous experience in aikido or hiking. $575

Choices and Changes Using Gestalt

Anne Nechama Simkin

Gestalt practice is a noninterpretive, existentially-based system in which awareness of one's feelings in the present moment is the primary focus. Gestaltists believe that human beings are born with the innate capacity to cope with life. However, along the way, self-expression, growth, and self-acceptance are oftentimes suppressed. Most gestalt communications deal primarily with the immediate interactions of those present. Explanations, interpretations, and assumptions are discouraged.

Participants will share experiences, be encouraged to experiment with new ways of coping with ongoing situations and new ways of communicating with each other and, thereby, hopefully with significant others. Existential messages of dreams will be explored. Concentrating on what is, rather than what could have been or should be, encourages a person to take responsibility for his or her own actions. Becoming aware of what is potentially nourishing and what is toxic allows choices and changes to occur. $575

Sacro-Cranial Work

Hugh Milne

This week-long workshop will introduce the theory and practice of cranial work, a profoundly different method of approaching the treatment of illness and the art of healing. It is subtle, careful, and delicate work, which is remarkable for its specificity and effectiveness. The gentlest of approaches, if quite accurate, can be more powerful than the most invasive.

Cranial work can be used to help people with a wide variety of symptoms, from cluster headaches to thoracic outlet syndrome to peripheral ischaemia. While very powerful, this is an inherently safe approach if it is studied from both analytical and intuitive models. To this end, the class will devote an equal portion of time to academic study and to practical, hands-on experience. Emphasis will be especially placed on visual and tactile diagnosis. In China, this way is called "The Art of Listening." Practice of the demonstrated methods will be encouraged from day one so that a high standard of individual experience can be gained as the class unfolds. Both the study and the practice will enable the workshop to take on a far more applied and specific consciousness than would otherwise be possible.

This workshop is for health practitioners who already have an extensive background in body work. A sound, basic knowledge of cranial anatomy is a prerequisite.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $575

Weekend of October 21–23

Weekend Massage Intensive

Laurie (Lioness) Parizek & Dean Marson

For workshop description see August 26-28. $295

Peak Experiences at Will? Escaping the Robot

Colin Wilson

The British author, Colin Wilson, is perhaps best known for his internationally-acclaimed book, The Outsider, first published in 1956. Since then, he has authored over sixty volumes on many topics including existential philosophy and the occult.

For this workshop he writes: "Everyday human consciousness is as narrow as the middle two notes of a piano keyboard; yet its range is potentially as wide as the whole keyboard. Philosophers from Socrates to Gurdjieff have been in agreement on one basic point: that the possibility of extending the range of human consciousness depends on knowing ourselves and observing the actual mechanisms of the mind. The word 'mechanism' is extremely important here; most of our lives are controlled by a kind of 'robot' in the subconscious mind, and it chooses to do most of our living for us. Sensations of power, happiness, freedom are actually moments in which we are temporarily free from the robot. This workshop is concerned with the methods through which these moments can be extended and in which we can obtain 'freedom from the robot.'"

Participants are encouraged to read The Essential Colin Wilson (Celestial Arts) prior to the workshop. $295

Self-Expression through Music for Everyone

David Darling

This workshop will attempt to heal the inner self by directing energy into sound-making, rhythmic grooving, chant-shouting, poem- and sculpture-designing, group productions, breath perception, meditation, smiling, clowning, chamber music inspiration, instrument-inventing, and humor.

Participants are asked to bring instruments that they want to learn to play or that they can play now. Percussion instruments will be provided. The voice will be, of course, the center of the entire process: where it is, how it is, what to do with it. $295

Week of October 23–28

A Gentle Unfolding

Daniel Bianchetta

This seminar will focus on the integration of body, mind, and spirit through intuition, energy awareness, massage, meditation, movement, gestalt, and play. Using these tools and gentle risk-taking can help in opening to one's own aliveness and ability to be more at home with oneself. Participants will explore practical and portable ways of nourishing and trusting the inherent wisdom of the self. $575

COURTESY OF FIELD MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY (Neg. #73813). CHICAGO, AND ALFRED VAN DER MARCK EDITIONS

Heraldic grizzly bear, possibly a house guardian or totem. North Pacific Coast, Bella Coola tribe, British Columbia, Canada. (Joseph Campbell, The Way of the Animal Powers.)

Process-Oriented Psychology Experience and Training: Conflict, Relationships, and Love

Arnold Mindell & Amy Kaplan

The focus of this work will be to transform the banal pain of unsettled and universal relationship issues into rich, interpersonal connections. Both this five-day workshop and the upcoming weekend workshop (October 28-30) will offer demonstrations and training in conflict resolution and will address unsolved, difficult problems in the practice of psychotherapy. Participants are encouraged to attend both workshops.

Participants in the five-day intensive will use body experience to bring up unconscious signals which enliven and relieve relationship conflicts. Lighthearted conflict resolution methods and theory will be demonstrated. The weekend workshop will focus on training, supervision, and video-oriented case discussion. All work will be adapted to beginning and advanced dream, body, and relationship work.

These workshops will use a process-oriented paradigm which understands body issues and relationships as an ongoing flux and which are never completed in an absolute sense, but are in the midst of transformation.

Recommended reading: Arnold Mindell, The Dreambody (Sigo Press), Working with the Dreaming Body (Methuen Inc.), River's Way (Methuen Inc.), Dreambody in Relationships, and City Shadows. $575

Adult Children of Alcoholic or Abusive Parents

Karen Paine-Gernee & Rick Paine

Learning the facts about growing up with alcoholism is a big relief. It is, however, just one of the steps that ACAs need to take. In order to recover from the effects of their childhoods, ACAs need to dedicate themselves to an on-going process of sharing, healing, and learning. The workshop leaders refer to the goal of recovery as "emotional sobriety," which they teach as a fourteen-point program. Participants will have the opportunity to develop some practical and personal methods of implementing long-lasting changes.

This workshop is for beginners or individuals who have already begun an exploration of ACA issues. It offers the opportunity to confront and heal painful childhood emotions, to examine and restructure deeply held beliefs, to learn some basic tools for taking care of oneself, to make strides in letting go of control and developing a sense of trust, and to foster a relationship with one's own spirituality.

Special attention will be paid to learning how to nurture and sustain satisfying and equal intimate relationships. Intimacy between independent adults requires being able to tolerate the ambiguity and sense of "not knowing" that was so terrifying as children in chaotic homes. Emotional sobriety means having a personal sense of balance and physical boundaries from which to find peace and a capacity for genuine sharing and pleasure. $575

Weekend of October 28–30

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 14. $295

Process-Oriented Psychology Experience and Training: Conflict, Relationships, and Love

Arnold Mindell & Amy Kaplan

For workshop description see October 23-28. $295

Reversing and Preventing Heart Disease: A Model for Personal Transformation

Dean Ornish & Shirley Elizabeth Brown

This workshop will teach how to reduce cholesterol and blood pressure and how to begin reversing coronary heart disease. For the past ten years, physicians Dean Ornish and Shirley Elizabeth Brown have conducted three research studies demonstrating, for the first time, that a comprehensive lifestyle program (yoga, meditation, imagery, diet, smoking cessation, exercise, and group psychotherapy) can produce extraordinary improvements without medications. This workshop will include lectures that review the research data and explain why lifestyle affects the heart and will provide experiential training in the lifestyle program.

Illness can serve as a catalyst for personal transformation and growth, motivating a person to ask, "Why did I get sick? What are the causes?" What we eat, how we respond to stress, and other aspects of lifestyle are powerful determinants of health and disease. It is also known that feelings of isolation can lead to psychological stress and ultimately to illness, whereas feelings of intimacy can lead to healing.

Because the technology for measuring coronary heart disease is so advanced, heart disease is an excellent model for measuring the power of lifestyle changes to help heal – and prevent – heart disease.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $295

Week of October 30–November 4

A Week with Seymour Carter

For workshop description see May 8-13. $575

Five-Day Massage Intensive: Polarity Massage

Bill Liles & Esalen Massage Practitioners

The polarity system combines Eastern and Western philosophy and methods for balancing energy that flows through the body. This week will be spent exploring the principles of polarity as taught by Randolph Stone and how these concepts may be applied through massage. This workshop is for body work practitioners and anyone who is interested in expanding their creative capacities. It will include demonstrations, lecture, and hands-on practice. Previous body work experience is helpful, but not necessary. $575

Childhood Sexual Abuse: A Workshop for Survivors

Jessica Moore Britt & Maria Lucia Holloman

To guard against the hurts, fears, and confusion that sexual invasion of a child's physical and psychic boundaries can create, the child often abandons the place of conflict – the body. This may be reflected in tension patterns, numbness, or oversensitivity. Gently, during this week together, participants will move toward reintegrating their bodies with their selves, with particular attention to body image, sexual experience, intimacy, and parenting.

Within the natural healing environment of Big Sur, participants will use gestalt practice, Reichian breath work, movement, and touch to re-enter their private world of memories and feelings. They will gain a deeper understanding of boundaries, betrayal, responsibility, and aloneness. Focus will be on perception of oneself physically, sexually, emotionally, and spiritually, and how this affects relationship with others. Through the supportive group atmosphere, participants may discover that it is safe once again to embody beauty, life, and love.

Recommended reading: A.H. Almaas, Diamond Heart (Diamond Books); Alice Miller, Thou Shalt Not Be Aware! (New American Library). $575

SPECIAL PROGRAMS

KATHLEEN THORNWOOD CARR

Stonehenge, England.

May 12–15
European Work Scholar Intensive

The first European work scholar reunion in May 1987 was a great success. Twenty-four people from five European countries attended; all had previously been at Esalen for a month or more. There was time for group and personal work with Jessica Moore Britt and John Soper. It was an opportunity for participants to continue their personal growth and to recapture the Esalen experience closer to home.

The 1988 workshop will be held at the same retreat center between Frankfurt and Cologne, Germany, from May 12-15. The title has been changed from "Reunion" to "Intensive" to more accurately reflect its nature. Visiting Esalen facilitators will include Jessica Moore Britt, John Soper, Nancy Kaye Lunney, and others.

If you live in Europe, have been at Esalen for a month or more, and would like more information about this workshop, please contact: Eberhard Schwartz, Menzelstr. 1, 1000 Berlin 41, 030-855-7504.

May 22–June 17
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

This course will synthesize neurolinguistics and Ericksonian hypnosis and will draw heavily from the pioneering work being done with the enneagram of personality and Stanislav Grof's "cartography of inner space." While satisfying the hypnosis coursework requirements for the M.E.C.C. and complying with the California state requirement for hypnosis certification, participants will go beyond what is required and explore the realms of the unknown.

While the use of hypnosis in habit control and symptom removal will be covered, a primary focus will be on hypnosis as an emerging tool of spiritual emergence and sacred psychology. Starting with the presupposition that we already live in trance and that the goal is waking up, the roots of personality structure and the filters of perception in the creation and transformation of reality will be carefully explored. Participants will have the opportunity to directly experience the profound power of trance to transform their lives. These experiences will create a model for working with clients.

Clinical applications depend upon the complete pacing of the client's reality. The structure of rapport, pacing and leading, and various hypnotic patterns of induction will be demonstrated and practiced along with a variety of clinical interventions, including reframing, change history, metaphors, and storytelling.

The group will watch videotapes of Erickson and other leading hypnotherapists. Participants will have daily practice with each other and the opportunity to be videotaped doing a hypnotic induction. Daily zazen, Taoist yoga, and transformational movement led by Antoinette Varner will also be a part of this program.

Upon completion of this course, participants must demonstrate a high level of professionalism as well as proficiency in technical skills to the satisfaction of the instructors before certification will be granted. Certifications by the American Council of Hypnotist Examiners and the Society of NeuroLinguistic Programming will be available for additional fees. Beyond certification, the opportunities for personal transformation and learning new tools for change can make this a valuable experience.

Required reading: J. Haley, Uncommon Therapy (Norton) and Strategies of Psychotherapy (Grune & Stratton); Grinder and Bandler, Trance-Formations (Real People Press), Frogs into Princes (Real People Press), and Reframing (Real People Press); S. Grof, Beyond the Brain (State University of N.Y.); Chogyam Trungpa, Shambhala (Shambhala); P.D. Ouspensky, In Search of the Miraculous (Harcourt, Brace & World); C. Castaneda, Tales of Power (Simon & Schuster); Joseph Campbell, Myths to Live By (Bantam).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 51. $2120

October 9–November 4
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

For workshop description see Special Programs, May 22-June 17. $2300

Children's Programs

Gazebo School: The Gazebo Program for children, ages 2-6, operates year round except for a week at Christmas. It is an outdoor-based program which encompasses the care of animals and the environment and supports the development of physical, cognitive, and psychosocial skills. $150 per week

Work Scholar Kids: The W.S.K. Program is for children, ages 7-12, and runs from July 4-August 12. The children will participate in a morning work program within the Esalen community, such as the garden, farm, laundry, office, and Gazebo. In the afternoons they will focus on a particular study, such as the Big Sur environment, water safety, sports, or the arts (music, dance, drama, painting).

$250 per week

Both of these programs are for children of parents concurrently attending an Esalen seminar. For further information contact Lia Thompson, Esalen Institute.

Gazebo Internship Program

Openings are now available at the Gazebo School for a one- to three-month intensive internship in early childhood education. The emphasis will be on an aesthetic approach to the development of physical, cognitive, and psychosocial skills. For an application, write to Bette Dingman, Gazebo Internship Program, Esalen Institute.

Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Esalen is now offering a California state-approved program. Upon completion of a four-week massage practitioner workshop (the next scheduled program is November 6-December 2) and after giving 30 additional massages elsewhere, graduates will receive their certificates. This program provides at least 130 hours of instruction, supplemented by additional study in body-mind disciplines such as yoga, gestalt awareness work, and movement, fulfilling the state requirement.

Healthspring Traveling Workshops

The Esalen massage teachers and their associates have created Healthspring, an independent organization devoted to extending their work into an outreach program. The workshops offer practices to stimulate physical and spiritual health and awareness within the body and can be designed to suit the needs of individual groups. The curriculum combines such approaches as massage, meditation, dance, neo-Reichian work, creative movement, gestalt, yoga, breath enhancement, anatomy, and other health-strengthening disciplines.

Healthspring will conduct workshops at locations outside of Esalen in your hometown or city. For more information on scheduling a Healthspring group in your community, write to: Healthspring Traveling Workshops, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

The Sorcerer of Les Trois Frères, rock painting, height 2½ feet. French Pyrenees (Ariège). Mid-Magdalenian period, c. 14,000 B.C. (Joseph Campbell, The Way of the Animal Powers. Drawing by H. Breuil.)

COURTESY OF ACHILLE WEIDER AND ALFRED VAN DER MARCK EDITIONS

WILDERNESS PROGRAMS

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop, we require the following deposit:

1-3 days	$50
4-7 days	$100
Over 8 days	$200

The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your nonrefundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your deposit is forfeited.

April 29–May 7
Big Sur Wilderness Journey: From Esalen to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center

Steven Harper & Joyce Lyke

Nature can provide opportunities to stretch one's limits and explore one's inner wilderness. By living in a natural environment it is possible to expand one's sense of self and depth of being.

The group will spend a day and a night at Esalen, leaving the next morning to hike through the Ventana wilderness. Participants will travel "light," with instruction in minimum impact camping, ecology, and the geography and cultural history of the area.

Wilderness will be a mirror and primary teacher as the group lives simply and in direct contact with nature. Participants will explore their inner world of dreams, feelings, and sensations as they emerge, using gestalt awareness practice and group process. Taking inspiration from natural and native purification practices, they will create a time of cleansing and contemplation, culminating in a 24-hour period alone. The group will hike on to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center, deep in a rugged wilderness valley with natural hot springs, for their last night together. There, meditation instruction will be available for those who wish it.

Backpacking experience is not necessary, though participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity. More information will be sent upon registration. $550

August 6–13
A Gentle Trip in the High Sierra

Maurica Anderson & Walter Truett Anderson

During this seven-day workshop in wildflower season, the group will hike eight miles to a clear mountain lake (alt. 10,000 ft.) off the main trails in the John Muir Wilderness area on the western side of the High Sierra. MULES WILL CARRY IN ALL OF THE PERSONAL GEAR AND FOOD, enabling participants to have outrageously good food (fresh or frozen rather than freeze-dried). Participants need carry nothing but lunch, rain gear, and water on the hike in. The lake is off the main trails and is surrounded by other lakes, grassy meadows, wildflowers, and cold streams fed by the surrounding snow fields.

The group will camp by the lake for six nights, taking short day-hikes to other beautiful lakes and areas, working with meditation, massage, psychodrama, yoga, and gentle encounter – and laughing a lot. During the week, participants will put up a sauna, take some strenuous but optional side hikes, and have some time for doing nothing. They can concentrate on the sights and sounds and smells of the high country, on getting to know the mountains, one another, and themselves.

Mountaineering experience is not necessary and most people are in good enough shape to make it in, but participants should be capable of hiking uphill at altitudes up to 11,000 feet and must possess a good sense of humor.

For a detailed information sheet, contact Maurica Anderson, 1112 Curtis Street, Albany, CA 94706; (415) 526-5814. Participants will meet in the Sierra on August 6. The fee includes food, wine, permits, and pack mules in and out. $540

August 27–September 9
Path of the River: A Grand Canyon Journey

Steven Harper, Wendy Palmer & Arizona Raft Adventures Staff (AZRA)

The Grand Canyon and Colorado River provide a unique environment of dramatic variety, which is intimate and awesome, soft and demanding, yet always rewarding for those who are open to all it has to offer. On this 14-day whitewater raft trip through the entire length of the Grand Canyon, participants can explore their openness to offerings of river, canyon, and natural world. The river is a teacher and primary metaphor. The group will draw from aikido, dance, energy awareness, movement meditation, and gestalt to enhance their experience of this majestic wilderness area.

Travel will be in paddle and oar rafts. Instructions will be offered in basic aspects of river life such as paddling and minimum-impact river camping. There will be time to discuss the Canyon's ecology, geology, natural and cultural history; to hike and explore side canyons; to sit quietly and reflect. Finally, participants can work with integration of learnings from this trip into their lives.

River experience is not necessary, though participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity and to participate fully. The workshop begins at 7 AM August 27, in Flagstaff, Arizona; there will be a pre-trip meeting at 6 PM the evening before. AZRA will supply all the necessary river rafting gear, food, and transportation between Flagstaff and the Canyon. Details and a personal equipment list will be sent upon registration. This is a unique opportunity, and space is limited.

Due to Esalen's special arrangement with AZRA, the following cancellation policy is in effect for this workshop: A $200 deposit per person will confirm your reservation. Balance is due 60 days prior to the starting date. Payments are refundable if cancellation is received 60 days prior to the starting date. No refunds will be made after that time. $1690

Reindeer. Rock engraving in x-ray style, showing ribs. Sakachi, Amur-Ussuri region, Maritime Territory, U.S.S.R. (Joseph Campbell, The Way of the Animal Powers. Original source: Andreas Lommel.)

COURTESY OF ALFRED VAN DER MARCK EDITIONS

MEDICAL PROGRAMS

The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of Continuing Education for registered nurses, provider number 01152. Only those programs specifically listed below offer continuing education credit. See workshop descriptions elsewhere in the catalog.

May 8–13
Hypnosis and Body Work
Lila Daniels Klapman & David Robinette
30 hours

May 22–June 17
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis
Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner
30 hours

May 29–June 3
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

June 10–12
Anatomy for Trager℠ Students: Part II
Deane Juhan
12 hours; C.E. credit is available through the Trager Institute.

June 17–19
Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
Patrick Douce
10 hours

June 19–24
Intermediate Cranial Workshop
Jim Asher & Jane Harrington
30 hours

July 8–10
Zero Balancing: Advanced Workshop
Fritz Smith
10 hours

July 10–15
Zero Balancing: Beginning/Intermediate Workshop
Fritz Smith
30 hours

July 15–17
Weekend Massage Intensive: Self-Care Methods for Body Workers and their Clients
Deborah Anne Medow & Esalen Massage Practitioners
10 hours

July 15–17
Imagery: Exploring the Body/Mind Bridge
Jeanne Achterberg & Frank Laulis
10 hours

July 17–22
The Body and Zen
Dub Leigh
30 hours

July 24–29
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Char Pias Brenner & Laurie Schutz
30 hours

July 29–31
Therapeutic Touch
Janet Quinn
10 hours

August 5–7
Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
Patrick Douce
10 hours

August 7–12
Five-Day Advanced Massage Intensive: Trigger Point
Arthur Munyer & Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

August 14–19
The Art of Self-Care: Who Heals the Healer? Who Helps the Helper?
Ilana Rubenfeld
30 hours

August 28–September 2
Imagination as Healer
Jeanne Achterberg, Frank Laulis & Michael Samuels
30 hours

September 11–16
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Robert Helm & Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

October 2–7
Spiritual Healing: Laying On of Hands
Maria Lucia Holloman
30 hours

October 9–November 4
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis
Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner
30 hours

October 16–21
Sacro-Cranial Therapy
Hugh Milne
30 hours

October 28–30
Reversing and Preventing Heart Disease A Model for Transformation
Dean Ornish & Shirley Elizabeth Brown
10 hours

FUTURE PROGRAMS

November 6–18
Integrative Body Practice (IBP) Professional Training Program
Jack Rosenberg & Staff

November 6–December 2
Massage Practitioner Certification Program
Esalen Massage Practitioners

X-ray style in Paleolithic art. Mammoth from corridor-cave El Pindal, Oviedo, Spain. Early Magdalenian, c. 15,000 B.C. (Joseph Campbell, The Way of the Animal Powers. Original source: Kühn, Rock Art of Europe.)

COURTESY OF ALFRED VAN DER MARCK EDITIONS

WORK STUDY PROGRAM

The Work Study Program is for those who are interested in total immersion in the Esalen environment. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically. Only rarely is it restful. Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and housekeeping. Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs. No participants will be accepted as work scholars in Gazebo or the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments.

Most evenings and two intensive weekends are spent together as a group exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who will be with the group throughout the month, coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The program is usually divided into two sections each month: a general interest section which covers a variety of growth approaches, and a focused interest section which emphasizes one type of growth practice, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage or body work, etc. Participants in the focused programs must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program, assuming that they meet the standards of the Work Study Program.

Focused programs planned thus far for 1988 and 1989 include:

April 24–May 22: Anne Nechama Simkin's gestalt program will include some videotape sessions. Massage and movement work may be offered.

May 22–June 19: Wolf Buentig and Gertraud Eder-Buentig's group will study the body as the outward revealed life of the soul, and the soul as the inward perceived life of the body.

June 19–July 17: See April 24-May 22.

June 19–July 17: Don Johnson will lead a general track incorporating group process, individual work, meditation, and movement.

July 17–August 14: Seymour Carter will focus on gestalt practice, with emphasis for, but not limited to, professionals.

August 14–September 11: Mary Goldenson's (Devarani) program of letting go and moving on will employ Reichian methods, Radix®, dance, imagery, gestalt, and meditation.

September 11–October 9: Janet Zuckerman will focus on emotional release. Tools for exploration will include the open seat, a tennis racket, pillows, and a sense of humor.

October 9–November 6: Steven Harper will inquire into human relationship to nature, using Big Sur's wilderness and various traditions that enhance personal awareness. More information will be sent upon registration.

November 6–December 4: Jessica Moore Britt will inquire into the body-spirit relationship using gestalt, Reichian breath work, Native American ritual, and Sufi self-remembering exercises.

December 11–January 8: See July 17-August 14.

January 8–February 5, 1989: Terry Hunt will lead a program in emotional sobriety for adult children of alcoholic and abusive parents.

In as much as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage and Rolfing®, are available at staff rates.

Accommodations are shared, with up to four people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff complex located 1½ miles north of Esalen.

Detail of Egyptian mummy case. British Museum, London, England.

KATHLEEN THORNOO CARR

A deposit of $350 in U.S. currency is required with your application. The cost of all 28-day Work Study Programs, except the three-month body work program, is $700 first month, $650 second month, $600 third month. Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month depending on space available and community needs. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

For more information contact Bette Dingman: (408) 667-3010.

Note: This application is not a registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is nonrefundable and may be transferred to other programs within one year of receipt. Please return this form with your deposit to:

Work Study Program, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

Available dates: April 24–May 22; May 22–June 19; June 19–July 17; July 17–August 14; August 14–September 11; September 11–October 9; October 9–November 6; November 6–December 4; December 11–January 8; January 8–February 5; February 5–March 5; March 5–April 2; April 2–30; etc.

KATHLEEN THOMPSON CARR

Javanese shadow puppets. The shadow play, or Wayang Kulit, has been popular since the 10th century and exemplifies how myths are passed on through the oral tradition. Performed during religious occasions, it is called "society's teacher" and is essential to Balinese and Javanese education. The plays, based on Hindu epics, native legends, and stories adapted from Arabian tales, illustrate in silhouette many aspects of life and the exemplary actions of humankind.

APPLICATION TO THE WORK STUDY PROGRAM

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ ZIP _____

Date of Birth _____ Occupation _____ Place of Employment _____

Daytime Telephone (_____) _____ Date of Application _____

Evening Telephone (_____) _____ Male ☐ Female ☐

I prefer the general interest program: yes ☐ no ☐ I prefer the focused program in: _____

Participants in the focused programs must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program.

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning on a Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: _____ to _____ 2nd: _____ to _____ 3rd: _____ to _____

Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community.

Please indicate your availability should an invitation be extended. (Not applicable to focused program participants.)
☐ No extension ☐ One-month extension ☐ Two-month extension. Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs.

☐ Please check here if you have emergency medical skills (M.D., E.M.T., or R.N.) and are willing to make those skills available during your stay.

Please attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program. Include: applicable skills (gardening, kitchen, mechanical, etc.); medical difficulties which might affect your working in particular departments; previous Esalen workshops you have attended (please list program titles, group leaders, and dates). Note: Fluency in the English language is essential for participation in the program.

AUDIO RECORDINGS

The Dolphin Tape Series

These recordings go back to the early days of Esalen. With emphasis on the human potential, Dolphin Tapes continues to draw from the Big Sur Recordings archives. Here are examples of: encounter, gestalt, sensory awareness, Rolfing®, Feldenkrais®, mysticism and madness, meditation and spirituality, sexual freedom and psychedelics, free speech and protest, consciousness change and paradigm shift, new physics, new reality, new philosophy, new purpose, more humanness, health, wholeness, wellness, and a gradual influence on business and society. Nearly all recordings are stereo from live events. Tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hours.

Single-tape titles are $10:

Anne Armstrong: On Being a Psychic, 1971
Gregory Bateson: Metaphors and Butterflies, 1975
David Brower: Breaking the Species Barrier, 1971
Joseph Campbell: Freud, Jung and Kundalini Yoga, 1967
Fritjof Capra: Shifting Paradigms and Social Change, 1980
Barry Commoner: Human Meaning of Environmental Crisis, 1971
Baba Ram Dass: Yoga of Daily Life, 1970
Big Sur Drums: The Sky Children, 1968
Fadiman/Hastings: Psychedelics and Paranormal Phenomena, 1971
Jack Gibb: The Emergent Group, 1966
Willis Harman: New Consciousness in a New Society, 1972
S. I. Hayakawa: Fully Functioning Personality, 1964
Albert Hofmann: LSD and The Nature of Reality, 1978
Aldous Huxley: Human Potentialities, 1960
Aldous Huxley: Visionary Experience, 1960
Stanley Keleman: Biological Roots of Spiritual Experience, 1970
Stanley Krippner: Communes, Telepathy and Dreams, 1971
Timothy Leary: American Culture (1945-1985), 1977
George Leonard: Steps Toward Utopia, 1966
John C. Lilly: The Dolphin Experience, 1969
Richard Marsh: Beyond Games, 1966
Abraham Maslow: Self-Actualization, 1966
Abraham Maslow: Psychology of Religious Awareness, 1967
Rollo May: Violence and the Daimonic, 1970
Ralph Metzner: Metaphors and Symbols of Transformation, 1980
Claudio Naranjo: Dante's Way to the Stars, 1968
Brendan O'Regan: Decision Making in the Global Village, 1979
Robert Ornstein: On the Psychology of Meditation, 1971
Humphrey Osmond: Early Psychedelic History, 1976
Fritz Perls: Gestalt Therapy and How It Works, 1967-68
Fritz Perls: Dream Theory and Demonstration, 1966
John Weir Perry: Psychosis and Transformation, 1968
James Pike: Christ as a Revolutionary Figure, 1969
Carl Rogers: The Person of Tomorrow, 1970
Carl Rogers: My Philosophy and How It Grew, 1972
Ida Rolf: Structural Integration, 1971
Virginia Satir: Family Communication and Growth, 1967
Robert Schwartz: Consciousness Evolution and Business, 1979
Will Schutz: Rules of Thumb for Open Encounter, 1970
Charlotte Selver: An Introduction to Sensory Awareness, 1968
Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance (Bombay), 1982
Huston Smith: No Wasted Journey, 1968
Frederick Spiegelberg: India and the Saints, 1964
Russel Targ: Parapsychology and Physics, 1972
Charles Tart: On the Paranormal, 1971
Wilson Van Dusen: The Nature of Humanness, 1971
John Vasconcellos: A Humanistic Approach to Politics, 1970
Alan Watts: Divine Madness, 1968

Two-tape titles are $18:

AHP Panel: (2) The Black Experience, 1969
Anderson/Roszak: (2) The Upstart Spring (Esalen), 1984
Robert Bly: (2) An Evening at Esalen, 1982
Campbell/Keen: (2) The Dark Side of the Forest, 1985
Joseph Campbell: (2) Myths of Alienation and Rapture, 1970
Baba Ram Dass: (2) One Man's Journey to the East, 1969
Buckminster Fuller: (2) The Critical Path (Maui), 1982
Stan & Christina Grof: (2) The Holonomic Consciousness Paradigm, 1982
Stanislav Grof: (2) Geometry of Psychopathology, 1984
John Holt & George Dennison: (2) Alternatives in Education, 1970
Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human (Boston), 1979
Timothy Leary: (2) The Power of Imprinting, 1982
Abraham Maslow: (2) The Farther Reaches of Human Nature, 1968
Joseph Chilton Pearce: (2) The Magical Child, 1975
Karl Pribram: (2) The Holographic Model Today, 1985
Carl Rogers: (2) A Weekend at Esalen, 1983
Selver/Brooks: (2) Sensory Awareness, 1980-82
Wilson Van Dusen: (2) Confronting Hallucinations, 1968
Andrew Weil: (2) Interplay of Mind and Body Realities, 1982
Lynn White & Alan Watts: (2) Ecological Crisis, 1971
Watts/Grof/Silverman: (2) The Science of Madness, 1968
Perry/Watts/Ginsberg/Naranjo: (2) The Poetry of Madness, 1968

Four-tape titles are $36:

James Fadiman: (4) A Weekend of Stories, 1984
David Finkelstein: (4) Indeterminacy and Undecidability, 1978
Roland Fischer: (4) Creative, Psychotic and Ecstatic States, 1969
R. D. Laing: (4) Sanity, Madness, Blowout Center, 1967
Jack Kornfield: (4) Buddhist Meditation and Practice, 1981
Timothy Leary: (4) A Day with Timothy Leary, 1982
Rollo May: (4) Dimensions of Consciousness, 1966
Jack Rosenberg: (4) A New Understanding of Relationships, 1982
Theodore Roszak: (4) The Unfinished Animal, 1982
Colin Wilson: (4) Human Evolution and a New Psychology, 1968

The Dolphin Vinyl Binder Tape Sets:

Carl Rogers: (6) The Basic Encounter Group, 1967	$60
Fritz Perls: (6) The Perls Encounter: A Complete Weekend, 1968	$60
Abraham Maslow: (6) The Eupsychian Ethic, 1969	$60
John C. Lilly: (6) Ego, Self and Essence, 1971	$60
Andrew Weil: (6) Integrated Consciousness and Health, 1976	$60
UCSB Symposium: (6) Entheogens: The Spiritual Psychedelics, 1983	$60
Esalen Series: (8) Physics and Consciousness, 1975-76	$72
Esalen/UCB/Tarrytown Symposium: (8) Faces of the Enemy, 1983	$72
UCB Symposium: (8) The Sixties: Its Leaders and Legacy, 1987	$72
Buckminster Fuller: (8) The Pajaro Dunes Tapes, 1980	$80
Virginia Satir: (10) Conjoint Family Therapy, 1968	$88
Joseph Campbell: (10) The World Mythology Series, 1969	$88
Esalen Series: (12) The Value of Psychotic Experience, 1968	$98
Esalen Symposium: (12) Wilhelm Reich: His Life and Work, 1974	$98
Gregory Bateson: (12) The Informal Esalen Lectures, 1975-80	$98

Advertisement: Dolphin Tapes is a private company independent of Esalen.

Audio Recordings: Joseph Campbell

Dolphin Tapes, incorporating Big Sur Recordings, has audio recordings of Joseph Campbell lectures and workshops, edited for public distribution, covering the past twenty years. The following is a representative list.

Single-tape titles are $10:

Freud, Jung and Kundalini Yoga, 1967
Imagery in the Hero's Journey, 1968
Hermes, Alchemy and the Voyage of Odysseus, 1971
Kundalini Rising, 1978
Tibetan Book of the Dead, 1981
The Hero's Journey (from the 80th year celebration), 1984

Two-tape titles are $18:

Myths of Alienation and Rapture (2), 1970
Kundalini and the Chakra System (2), 1981
The Dark Side of the Forest (with Sam Keen) (2), 1985

Four-tape titles are $36:

Imagery in the Novels of James Joyce (4), 1968
Movement and Myths to Live By (with Al Huang) (4), 1980
Transformations of Myth Through Time (4), 1982
The Complete San Francisco (80th year) Campbell Celebration (4), 1984

Six-tape Vinyl Binder Sets are $60:

Psyche and Symbolism (6), 1981
Early Hindu and Buddhist Mythology (6), 1981
Mysteries of the Great Goddess (6), 1983
Courtly Love and the Grail (6), 1983
The Sword and the Flute (with Al Huang) (6), 1984

The Ten-tape Vinyl Binder Set is $88:

The World Mythology Series (Library Edition): World Mythology and the Individual Adventure (10), 1969

Please add $2 to your complete order for handling and mailing (add $4 if you wish priority mail). California residents include 6% tax. (Institutional purchase orders please add 10% to tape cost for invoicing and deferred payment.) Allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery.

Please mail your order and your check payable to:
DOLPHIN TAPES, P.O. Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920

THE MEDIA CENTER

Videotapes

The Esalen Media Center is offering for rental or purchase a selection of videotapes. This series consists of unedited single camera recordings of informal talks made at Esalen, along with a descriptive tape of Esalen itself.

1. Jack Kornfield, On Meditation, November, 1986. A longtime student and teacher of Vipassana meditation and Buddhism discusses these traditions with reference to his own experiences as a spiritual seeker in the Orient. (121 minutes)

2. Brother David Steindl-Rast, God, Spirituality, and the Senses, November, 1984. A Benedictine monk and scholar discusses the spiritual journey and its relationship to mythology and transpersonal theory. (117 minutes)

3. Fritjof Capra, Characteristics of Systems Thinking, June, 1985. The author of The Tao of Physics and The Turning Point discusses the evolution of scientific thinking, including current views and implications. (81 minutes)

4. Stanislav Grof, The New Scientific Paradigm, June, 1985. An original member of the transpersonal psychology network and author on topics such as appropriate use of psychoactive substances, discusses his current view of consciousness. (117 minutes)

5. Rupert Sheldrake, Morphic Resonance and The New Science of Life, June, 1985. A British geneticist relates his theories on biological and psychological development and discusses some empirical tests of these theories. (108 minutes)

6. Kenneth Ring, The Near-Death Experience, June, 1985. The author of Life at Death and Heading Toward Omega discusses his research on the near-death experience and some of its implications for the future of the human race. (114 minutes)

7. Albert Hofmann, December, 1984. The discoverer of LSD talks to Stanislav Grof about his early experiences with this and other psycho-active drugs. He also discusses some of the social, political, and scientific consequences of LSD. (92 minutes)

8. Anne Armstrong and Elizabeth Stratton, December, 1984. Two longtime students, practitioners, and teachers of psychic work discuss with Nancy Knapp their practices and perspectives related to psychic counseling and healing. (56 minutes)

9. Terence McKenna, Fractal Perspectives on the Millenium, August, 1985. The author of The Invisible Landscape gives his vision of the future, centering around the evolution of human consciousness. (72 minutes)

10. Jack Rosenberg, One Hour and Twenty-Nine Minutes with Jack Rosenberg and Integrative Body Practice, September, 1985. The Venice, California, practitioner gives his view of personality development and some of the typical patterns of interaction in relationship. (89 minutes)

11. Esalen. This 18-minute videotape tells Esalen's story from its early history to the present. The visuals consist of 130 color slides featuring scenes of the Big Sur coast, Esalen's garden, grounds, and various workshops and activities.

Ordering Information

Each speaker program costs $55 to purchase, $25 to rent. The Esalen tape costs $35 to purchase, $15 to rent. To order any of these tapes (VHS only), indicate: purchase or rental (one week), program #, and title. To your subtotal, add $5 shipping and handling ($12 for overseas orders). California residents add 6% tax for sales only. Include your name, address, and phone number. Please address your order (with a check payable to Esalen Institute) to the Esalen Media Center.

BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

A

Jeanne Achterberg,
author of Imagery in Healing, has a doctorate in psychology and physiology and is an internationally acclaimed pioneer in the study of the mind/body connection.
p. 29, 37, 51

Margot Adler,
author of Drawing Down the Moon and reporter for National Public Radio, has been involved with Goddess and pagan spiritual paths for fifteen years.
p. 33

Stephen Aizenstat,
clinical director of the Human Relations Institute, has conducted dream groups throughout the U.S. and recently completed a comprehensive research project on methods of dream analysis.
p. 22

Ijalu Akanbe
has danced with Olatunji for 23 years and is dance captain of the Drums of Passion Dancers.
p. 26

John Allen,
class "A" PGA member and former tour player, has been a teaching golf professional for over 20 years and a serious student of the inner game for the past 4.
p. 40

Tucker Elizabeth Allen
is an inner game student on a journey of self-discovery.
p. 40

Maurica Anderson
is studying the relationship between humor and mental health. She has led Esalen High Sierra wilderness trips for many years.
p. 33, 50

Walter Truett Anderson
is author of The Upstart Spring and To Govern Evolution.
p. 33, 50

Anne Armstrong
has been doing transpersonal counseling for over 24 years and has trained professionals to use their own intuitive abilities.
p. 19, 34, 41

Jim Armstrong,
a former engineer, is a lifelong student and teacher of esoteric studies.
p. 19, 34, 41

Elliot Aronson,
professor of psychology at UC Santa Cruz, is the author of 14 books on interpersonal relations, including The Social Animal, The Handbook of Social Psychology, and Burnout.
p. 37

Angeles Arrien
is an anthropologist and specialist in Basque mysticism. She teaches courses in cross-cultural approaches to healing, myths, and symbols.
p. 22

Jim Asher
has been practicing cranial work since 1973. He is a Rolfing® teacher and an advanced Rolfer, certified by Ida Rolf.
p. 26, 51

Nancy Azara
is a sculptor, painter, and psychic consultant specializing in the creative process. She is co-founder of the New York Feminist Art Institute (NYFAI) Women's Center for Learning.
p. 38

B

Jamie Baraz
has taught Vipassana (insight) meditation with Joseph Goldstein, Jack Kornfield, and Stephen Levine in the U.S. and Asia. He has led San Francisco area classes and retreats since 1977.
p. 21, 44

Leonard Bearne
has studied self-acceptance training with Richard Olney for several years. He practices gestalt, hypnosis, and Radix®.
p. 41

Steve Beck
grew up on an 80 acre garden in North Dakota. He has been a resident at Esalen since 1974.
p. 22

Mark Bender
holds a doctorate in psychology and has a private practice in cortical reeducation.
p. 18

Cynthia Johnson Bianchetta
is an artist, dancer, and photographer. She was the assistant director of the Museum of Photographic Arts and director of the Weston Photographic Gallery.
p. 20

Daniel Bianchetta,
longtime Esalen resident and workshop leader, is an intuitive counselor and also does body work. He is a student and teacher of meditation.
p. 20, 46

Judy Blackstone
is a dancer, meditation teacher, author, and counselor. She is the founder of The Subtle Self in Motion, a method for deepening experience through movement.
p. 44

Charles Blakeney
directs Berkeley Academy and advises the White House Domestic Policy council. He does research and training on moral insanity and moral misbehavior.
p. 27

Ronnie Blakeney
works with disturbed adolescents and consults with the White House on welfare. She studies racial discordance, morality, identity, and emotional development.
p. 27

Stephen Book
is an international/Off Broadway/regional theater director and teacher. On the faculty at USC after a long tenure at The Julliard School, he also heads his own professional studio in Hollywood.
p. 35

Julie Bowden,
co-author of Guide to Recovery and Genesis: A Spiritual Beginning, is a founding and current board member of the National Association for Children of Alcoholics.
p. 42

Char Pias Brenner,
dancer, singer, performing artist, massage teacher, and mother, is currently in residence at Esalen Institute.
p. 30, 51

Jessica Moore Britt
teacher of gestalt and Reichian work at Esalen. She is a member of the Ridhwan Work School, which is dedicated to understanding personality and essential development.
p. 34, 47, 48, 52

Shirley Elizabeth Brown,
a physician, conducts cardiology research and is clinical instructor in medicine at the School of Medicine, University of California, San Francisco.
p. 47, 51

Mel Bucholtz
trained with the late Milton Erickson in the use of hypnosis. He is co-founder of Nomad University and the Returning to Earth Institute. He maintains a private practice in Cambridge, MA.
p. 39

Wolf Buentig,
founder of Germany's first growth center, ZIST, has been a group leader for 17 years, integrating psychoanalysis, encounter, bioenergetics, gestalt, and Ericksonian hypnosis.
p. 52

C

Joe Camhi
has been on the staff of the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco since 1971. He combines various types of body work perspectives with gestalt to open up the creative process.
p. 32

Anne Caple
is a student of transpersonal psychology, a technical writer, editor, and fiber artist.
p. 23

John Caple
is a corporate trainer, consultant, and career counselor with earlier careers as a college professor and corporate executive.
p. 23

Paul Carter,
co-founder and director of Meta Education and Training Arts since 1976, leads workshops around the world on Whole/Parts Transformation, Ericksonian hypnosis, and creativity.
p. 39

KATHLEEN THORPOD CARR

Stela of Ashurnasirpal II, an Assyrian king, 883 B.C. British Museum, London, England.

Seymour Carter,
longtime gestalt teacher at Esalen and in Europe, combines studies in sensory awareness, Zen Buddhism, aikido, and other body-oriented practices.
p. 18, 38, 47, 52

Michell Cassou
is the founder of an original approach to painting designed to stimulate and unblock creativity. She is director of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 38

Stanford Eugene Cates
is an ordained minister, gestalt facilitator, and Trager℠ bodyworker. He has worked with Paul Rebillot in the U.S. and Europe for seven years.
p. 20

Jack Cirie,
certified Leonard Energy Trainer, aikidoist, and fitness expert, heads Development and Delivery of Training with SportsMind Inc. He has worked with senior corporate managers, the Army Special Forces, and athletes.
p. 29, 30

COURTESY OF PRINCETON UNIVERSITY PRESS

ASURA ETC

The Child Buddha. A.D. 13th century. Gilt bronze. Japan. (Joseph Campbell, The Mythic Image.)

Stephen Cohen,
an Esalen resident, gestalt practitioner, and Experiencing Esalen staff member, is a longtime golf hacker.
p. 40

Stewart Cubley,
artist and scientist, is co-founder with Michell Cassou of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 38

Dale Cummings,
certified Radix® teacher and counselor in private practice in West Los Angeles, is director of first-year training for the Radix Institute in Ojai.
p. 22

D

David Darling
is a master cellist, composer, conductor, and teacher whose many recordings include Journal October, Cycles, River Notes, and Amber.
p. 46

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)
is a certified Radix® teacher on Esalen's gestalt staff, with over 13 years of experience combining Reichian body work, vision work, movement, ritual, and meditation.
p. 17, 35, 41

Patrick Douce,
a resident at Esalen since 1972, teaches ongoing classes in Feldenkrais Awareness Through Movement® and is available for individual sessions in Functional Integration®.
p. 25, 33, 51

Tim Doyle
is a photographer. He also has a master's degree in experimental psychology and lives in southern California.
p. 41

Joel Dweck
is a Reichian practitioner in Los Angeles, where he also directs the Core Contact training program.
p. 26

E

Gertraud Eder-Buentig
has studied gestalt, bioenergetics, hakomi, and Anna Halprin's movement work and has been a movement group leader for five years.
p. 52

Diane Egli,
violinist and member of the Suzuki Association of America, is a California Arts Council "Artist in Residence," a teacher/performer, and Gazebo teacher at Esalen.
p. 35

Esalen Massage Practitioners:
Peggy Horan, George King, Kathleen O'Shaughnesey, Brita Ostrom, Vicki Topp, and Attila Vaas.
p. 22, 28, 34, 37, 39, 40, 47, 51

F

Joyce Frazee,
gestalt and dream work practitioner in Vancouver, Canada, for 14 years, has training in Jungian dream analysis, bioenergetics, and group process.
p. 40

G

Elinor Gadon
uses images and symbols from the visual arts and popular media for analysis of self in culture. She is the author of the forthcoming The Once and Future Goddess: A Symbol for Our Time.
p. 43

Yvonne Ginsberg
is an N.L.P. practitioner and Ericksonian hypnotist. She teaches and has a private practice in San Francisco and Marin County.
p. 31

Herbert Gold
has published over 20 books, most recently Lovers & Cohorts: Twenty-Seven Stories, and the novels A Girl of Forty and Dreaming.
p. 33

Mary Goldenson (Devarani),
a chiropractor, certified Radix® teacher, and doctoral candidate in clinical psychology, is in private practice in Los Angeles.
p. 24, 33, 43, 52

Harriet Goslins
is a Feldenkrais® practitioner and an Awareness Through Movement® teacher with a background in psychosynthesis and applied kinesiology.
p. 18

Herbert Gravitz,
psychologist, is a founding and current board member of the National Association for Children of Alcoholics. He co-authored Guide to Recovery and Genesis: A Spiritual Beginning.
p. 42

Susan Griffin
is the author of Woman in Nature and Unremembered Country, a collection of poetry. She works as a consultant for the creative process and teaches writing privately.
p. 45

H

Anna Halprin
is artistic director of Tamalpa Institute in Kentfield, CA. She is the author of Movement Ritual and has been touring the world with "Circle the Earth," a planetary peace dance.
p. 34

Daria Halprin-Khalighi,
teacher and counselor, developed the Creative Process Method, integrating art and psychology to facilitate creative expression and growth. She is co-founder of Tamalpa Institute.
p. 20

Betsy Hand
is a consultant in human relations and organization development. Her background includes education and training in organizational behavior, family and marital counseling, and nursing.
p. 17

Michael Harner,
an anthropologist, has practiced shamanism for 26 years and has pioneered the return of shamanism to contemporary life. His books include The Way of the Shaman.
p. 21

Steven Harper
teaches for Colorado Outward Bound and the National Outdoor Leadership School, coordinates Esalen Wilderness Programs, and is director of Earthways Wilderness Journeys.
p. 17, 19, 22, 25, 37, 39, 45, 50, 52

Susan Harper
teaches Continuum Dance Meditation workshops in Los Angeles and San Francisco, leads Dance the River trips on wild rivers, and has presented at the JoySpangler Asilomar Conference.
p. 25

Jane Harrington
is a certified Rolfer and Rolf movement teacher with extensive craniosacral experience. She is in private practice in Boulder, CO.
p. 26, 51

Arthur Hastings
is the author of a forthcoming book on channeling, Tongues of Men and Angels. He is on the core faculty of the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology in Menlo Park, CA.
p. 26

Richard Strozzi Heckler,
psychologist, has a 3rd-degree black belt in aikido. He has worked with such diverse groups as the Army Special Forces, emotionally disturbed children, corporate executives, and inner city gangs.
p. 20, 45

John Heider,
a psychologist living in Lawrence, KS, is a group leader and a teacher of group leaders. He was part of the Esalen Resident Program from 1967-71.
p. 18

Robert Helm,
an Esalen massage crew member, blends a broad range of body work methods with the sense of presence he feels is the heart of Esalen massage.
p. 39, 51

Nick Herbert
is the author of Quantum Reality: Beyond the New Physics and is currently working on a book about time travel.
p. 32

Jane Hinders
has taught voice and movement at universities and theater schools in the U.S., Canada, and France. Her work is strongly influenced by her studies with the Roy Hart Theatre.
p. 42

Edward Hoffman,
a licensed psychologist in New York City, is the author of several books on the Kabbalah, including The Way of Splendor and The Heavenly Ladder.
p. 25

Maria Lucia Holloman
has been a seminar leader since 1982, teaching in Brazil and the U.S.
p. 43, 47, 51

Terry Hunt,
a licensed psychologist practicing bioenergetic analysis in Boston, directs a flotation tank center for amelioration of somatic and addictive disorders.
p. 52

J

Dennis Jaffe,
past-president of the Association for Humanistic Psychology and director of the Center for Health Studies at Saybrook Institute, authored Healing from Within, StressMap, TM, and Take This Job and Love It!
p. 41

KATHLEEN THORNOD CARR

Navajo sand painting by A. Joe. The square-faced yei is female, and the round-faced yei is male. The basket between them contains sacred plants. The natural colors used in sand paintings are derived from ground rocks.

COURTESY OF ACHILLE WEGER AND ALFRED VAN DER MARCK EDITIONS

Venus of Laussel (Woman with the Horn). Carved limestone from a rock shelter (Laussel) in the Dordogne, France, c. 20,000 to 18,000 B.C. 17 inches high. Paleolithic symbol of the power female, with her left hand over the pregnant womb and the horn of the waxing moon elevated in her right. (Joseph Campbell, The Way of the Animal Powers.)

Eli Jaxon-Bear
is a trainer in neurolinguistics and an examiner with the American Council of Hypnotist Examiners. He is the past-president of a Tibetan Buddhist meditation center.
p. 21, 32, 45, 48, 49, 51

Don Johnson,
author and somatic practitioner, is director of the graduate studies program in somatic psychology and education at Antioch University and coordinator of Esalen's program in somatic education.
p. 17, 52

Deane Juhan,
a member of the Esalen massage crew for many years, is a certified instructor of Trager™ Psychophysical Integration and the author of Job's Body: A Handbook for Bodywork.
p. 24, 51

K

Amy Kaplan,
a dancer with movement training, teaches and practices at the Process-Oriented Psychology Center in Zurich and in the U.S.
p. 47

Norman Katz
is director of the Milton Erickson Institute of Hypnosis and the Behavioral Sciences of New Mexico. He teaches in Albuquerque and Santa Fe.
p. 28

Sam Keen
is the author of 10 books, including The Passionate Life and, most recently, Faces of the Enemy.
p. 44

Lila Daniels Klapman,
former longtime member of the Esalen massage staff, is a certified hypnosis practitioner and has a private practice in massage and hypnosis in Aptos, CA.
p. 18, 51

George Kohlrieser,
a clinical psychologist with an international practice, researches and applies attachment and separation theory to relationships, psychosomatic illness, violence prevention, and hostage negotiations.
p. 29

Ron Kurtz
is the founder and director of the Hakomi Institute. He is the author of Hakomi Therapy and co-author of The Body Reveals.
p. 21, 40

L

Stephen LaBerge
is a scientist dedicated to the transformation of human consciousness. He teaches and does research at Stanford University on conscious or "lucid" dreaming.
p. 35

Frank Lawlis,
psychologist and diplomate, is the founder of a behavioral medicine program and the director of 3 hospital-based pain clinics.
p. 29, 37, 51

Marc Lehrer
is the director of the California Institute of Clinical Hypnosis and Health Sciences in San Francisco and Santa Cruz. He is a senior tutor for Sierra University.
p. 28

Dub Leigh,
longtime body work practitioner, was trained and certified by his friends Ida Rolf, Moshe Feldenkrais, and Tanouye roshi.
p. 29, 51

Annie Styron Leonard
is a founder of the Energy Training Institute in Mill Valley, CA, and an aikido black belt.
p. 28

George Leonard,
author of Education and Ecstasy, The Transformation, and The Silent Pulse, is a contributing editor of Esquire. He holds a 3rd-degree black belt in aikido.
p. 23, 28, 29, 37

Abraham Levitsky
co-authored The Rules and Games of Gestalt Therapy with Fritz Perls. He is interested in the integration of gestalt therapy with psychoanalysis.
p. 32

Bill Liles
has been a body work practitioner at Esalen since 1971 and has taught polarity massage since 1973. He studied polarity with Randolph Stone and Pierre Pannetier.
p. 47

Paul Lounsbury
has studied extensively with Milton Erickson and has conducted numerous training seminars on the use of hypnosis and strategic counseling. He is in private practice in New York.
p. 34

Nancy Kaye Lunney,
formerly a vocal coach and accompanist for well-known entertainers, is a gestalt practitioner, director of programming at Esalen, and a guest faculty member at Cornell University.
p. 35, 39, 48

Joyce Lyke
is a practitioner of gestalt and photographic coordinator for the Esalen Catalog.
p. 17, 50

M

Dean Marson
is a member of the Esalen massage crew. His interests include subtle body work methods of self-care.
p. 46

Rhonda Martyn,
former artistic director of the San Francisco Moving Company, is an award-winning New York choreographer/dancer on the dance faculty of Princeton University.
p. 31

Kat McKenna
is an artist, mother, and traveler through nature.
p. 38

Terence McKenna
authored The Invisible Landscape and Psilocybin: Magic Mushroom Grower's Guide. He studied shamanism at UC Berkeley and has lived in tropical Asia and the Amazon.
p. 38

Deborah Anne Medow,
Esalen group leader and body work practitioner since 1969, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, gestalt awareness, and related healing disciplines throughout the U.S. and Europe.
p. 28, 51

Ailish Mellard,
holistic health practitioner and body worker for 12 years, is organizational consultant for Will Schutz Associates, which teaches human potential concepts for various organizations.
p. 17

Donald Michael,
professor emeritus of planning and public policy and professor of psychology at the University of Michigan, is the author of On Learning to Plan and Planning to Learn.
p. 22

Jane Miletich,
a longtime Big Sur resident and Esalen masseuse, is an instructor of hatha yoga, t'ai chi, and transitional cleansing diets. She is a student of midwifery, birth, and death and a bearer of ritual.
p. 25, 29, 35, 37

Marghe Mills
is co-author of Developmental Movement Therapy with Bonnie Cohen. She is a certified Feldenkrais® teacher, a faculty member at Dominican College, and in private practice in Marin County and San Francisco.
p. 24

Hugh Milne
is a third generation Scottish osteopath with 20 years' experience. He has practiced and taught cranial work, healing, and psychometry in England, India, Switzerland, and the U.S. He lives in Santa Fe, NM.
p. 46, 51

Arnold Mindell,
founder of the Institute for Process-Oriented Psychology, is a Jungian training analyst and author of Dreambody, Working with the Dreaming Body, River's Way, and The Dreambody in Relationships.
p. 27, 47

Kathleen Mooney
is co-founder and associate director of the Center for Cognitive Therapy in Newport Beach and editor of the International Cognitive Therapy Newsletter.
p. 42

Beverly Kitaen Morse
is a marriage and family counselor in private practice in Santa Monica and a senior instructor at the Rosenberg-Rand Institute for Integrative Body Psychotherapy.
p. 25

Arthur Munyer,
a member of the Esalen massage crew, is a longtime body work practitioner trained by Dub Leigh, Lauren Berry, and Dick Price.
p. 34, 51

N

Robert Nadeau,
an aikido master, has been one of the leading exponents of energy awareness at Esalen in the seventies and eighties.
p. 36

John Nicholas,
a graduate of the C.G. Jung Institute in Zurich, is a teacher, counselor, author, analyst, and international career management consultant.
p. 44

O

Violet Oaklander,
a psychologist in Santa Barbara, CA, is the author of Windows to Our Children: A Gestalt Therapy Approach to Children and Adolescents. She leads workshops throughout the world.
p. 44

Babatunde Olatunji,
master percussionist from Nigeria, has performed internationally for over 30 years and is known for his album Drums of Passion. He is an authority on African religion.
p. 26

Richard Olney
has studied with Alan Watts, Fritz Perls, and Alexander Lowen, and more recently has been influenced by the eidetic imagery work of Akhter Ahsen. He has presented self-acceptance training in the U.S. and Europe.
p. 41

Mark Olsen
is a mask-maker and movement instructor. He is a certified teacher of stage combat, a solo performer, and previous member of the International Company of Mummenschanz.
p. 42

Dean Ornish,
physician and author of Stress, Diet, and Your Heart, is assistant clinical professor of medicine at the UCSF School of Medicine and president of the Preventive Medicine Research Institute in San Francisco.
p. 47, 51

P

Christine Padesky
is a psychologist and director of the Center for Cognitive Therapy in Newport Beach, CA, and a creative teacher who has instructed American and European cognitive therapists.
p. 42

Rick Paine,
psychologist, works with adult children of alcoholics and leads workshops for emerging men. He is on the faculties of the New York Open Center, Interface, and Spring Hill Institute.
p. 47

Karen Paine-Gernée
leads groups for adult children of alcoholics in Cambridge, MA. She is on the faculties of Omega Institute, The New York Open Center, Interface, and Spring Hill Institute.
p. 47

Helen Palmer
is director of the Center for the Investigation and Training of Intuition and has a private psychic consultation practice. She is on the faculty of Kennedy University, Orinda, CA.
p. 26

Wendy Palmer
is a faculty member of the Center for the Investigation and Training of Intuition. She holds a 3rd-degree black belt in aikido and is co-founder of the Tamalpais Aikido and International Movement Arts Center.
p. 37, 45, 50

Laurie (Lioness) Parizek,
a member of the Esalen massage crew and teaching staff since 1974, integrates traditional and innovative approaches to healing the body, mind, and spirit.
p. 46

Hector Prestera,
a physician, acupuncturist, Rolfer, certified neuro-linguistic trainer, and practitioner of Ericksonian work, is in private practice in Monterey, CA.
p. 19

Christine Stewart Price
is a teacher and ongoing student of gestalt practice and other approaches to developing awareness.
p. 14

Jill Purce
is author of The Mystic Spiral. She investigated the mystical dimension of sound with Karlheinz Stockhausen and the magical use of the voice and overtone chanting with Tibetan lamas.
p. 41

Q

Janet Quinn,
a professor of nursing who has given Therapeutic Touch workshops throughout the U.S. and Canada since 1976, received the first federal research grant to investigate the effects of TT.
p. 32, 51

R

Paul Rebillot,
a group leader at Esalen for 15 years, combines gestalt methodology with theater and ritual. He divides his time between Europe and the U.S.
p. 20

Deborah Reynolds
is a psychic who uses her abilities to provide information in the fields of science, medicine, and business. She has participated in projects at SRI International and the Center for Applied Intuition.
p. 26

Stephen Rhinesmith
has spent 25 years in interpersonal and intercultural communications, international organization development, and citizen exchanges. He served for 2 years as government coordinator for exchanges between the U.S. and the Soviet Union.
p. 40

Linda Rice-Mandigo
is a psychologist in private practice in New York and a practitioner of the spiritual discipline MAHIKARI-NO-WAZA.
p. 26

Tracey Rich
has earned the title "Yoga Acharya" and is the associate director of White Lotus Foundation. She trains teachers and students and leads seminars nationally.
p. 23

Sogyal Rinpoche,
an incarnate lama, scholar, and meditation master from Tibet, prominent in the West, is an authority on the traditional knowledge of the Tibetan Book of the Dead.
p. 24

Bernadette Roberts,
a lifelong Christian contemplative with a monastic background, is the author of The Experience of No-Self and The Path to No-Self, as well as a work in progress, Self: A Passage Through Consciousness.
p. 38

David Robinette,
head of the Hypnotherapy Certification Program at Twin Lakes College in Santa Cruz, has been an instructor at Cabrillo College in hypnosis-related courses since 1976.
p. 18, 51

Rita Rohen
climbs mountains, rafts rivers, and facilitates workshops in Asia, America, and Europe. She formerly coordinated the Spiritual Emergency Network at Esalen.
p. 45

Nancy Rosanoff
is a psychic counselor who teaches and works in New York City.
p. 36

Jack Rosenberg,
a psychologist and director of the Rosenberg-Rand Institute of Integrative Body Psychotherapy in Venice, CA, is the author of the new book Body, Self, and Soul.
p. 25, 51

Gabrielle Roth
is an artist, teacher, and healer. She is the founder and artistic director of the American Ritual Theater Lab and its rock band and theater company, "The Mirrors."
p. 31, 32

Ilana Rubenfeld,
pioneer of 25 years in the body/mind/spirit field and originator of the Rubenfeld Synergy Method®, is a certified teacher of the Alexander Technique and Feldenkrais® and is a gestalt therapist.
p. 35, 36, 51

Anne Ruderman
is a Reichian practitioner in private practice in Los Angeles.
p. 26

Alice Rutkowski
has trained intensively for 11 years with Anna Halprin and for the past year has assisted her on a national tour of "Circle the Earth."
p. 34

Gordy Ryan
has roots in the Big Sur Primitive Jazz Society and has studied and performed with Olatunji for 15 years.
p. 26

S

Stephano Sabetti,
founder of the Institute for Life Energy® and the Life Energy Process™, has a doctorate in psychology and is an acupuncturist. He is also an organizational consultant.
p. 39

Michael Samuels
is a physician, visionary, and co-author of many books on self-care, including Seeing with the Mind's Eye, The Well Body Book, The Well Baby Book, and The Well Pregnancy Book.
p. 37, 51

David Schiffman,
a longtime group leader at Esalen, is involved in developing full expression of mental, physical, and spiritual states of being.
p. 19, 26, 30, 31, 36, 40, 41, 45

Elisa Lodge Schiffman
trained in structural integration with Ida Rolf and is an advanced teacher of Rolf movement and integration.
p. 17, 19, 26, 30, 31, 36, 38, 40, 41, 45

Laurie Schutz,
longtime Esalen massage practitioner and teacher, incorporates varied approaches to allow for nurturing, balance, and integration of the body. She has also led parent-infant workshops.
p. 30, 51

Will Schutz,
founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of The Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations. He is the author of Joy and Profound Simplicity.
p. 17, 44

Alan Schwartz,
longtime Esalen group leader, college professor, and gestalt psychotherapist in NYC, authored the recently published Life Force – Death Force: The Structure of Human Energy and the Biology of Greed.
p. 31, 32

Cynthia Scott,
San Francisco psychologist and organizational consultant in mastering change and professional career development, authored Heal Thyself, From Burnout to Balance, StressMap, and Take This Job and Love It!
p. 41

Phyllis Shankman
is a licensed counselor in private practice in West Los Angeles. She has been leading groups at Esalen for over 10 years.
p. 23

Cyndy Sheldon
is co-founder and current president of the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco and on the faculty of the Gestalt Education Network International in Frankfurt, Germany.
p. 32

Rupert Sheldrake
is a biologist and author of A New Science of Life and The Presence of the Past: Morphic Resonance and the Habits of Nature.
p. 40

Fred Shoemaker,
an inner game teacher and golf professional, is a former golf coach at UC Santa Barbara and has written about the inner game for Golf magazine.
p. 40

David Silverstein
is a neo-Reichian practitioner and hypnotherapist in private practice in Berkeley, CA.
p. 31

Anne Nechama Simkin
trained in gestalt with Erv and Miriam Polster and Jim Simkin, and has conducted workshops internationally.
p. 46, 52

Fritz Smith
is a physician, cranial osteopath, certified acupuncturist, and founder of zero balancing. He is the author of Inner Bridges: A Guide to Energy Movement and Body Structure.
p. 27, 28, 51

Gerald Smith
is a psychologist in Belmont, CA. He is author of Hidden Meanings and Couple Therapy.
p. 17

John Soper
came to gestalt from a highly successful international career in business. A resident at Esalen since 1978, he practices both interpersonal and intrapersonal gestalt.
p. 48

Gena Mayer Sorensen,
a marriage and family counselor, is in private practice in San Jose and San Francisco. She holds an adjunct certificate as a Radix® teacher.
p. 22

Brother David Steindl-Rast,
Benedictine monk, hermit, psychologist, and author, has lectured on all five continents. He is concerned with the spiritual challenges of our time.
p. 30

KATHLEEN THORWOOD CARR

Yarn painting, depicting a visionary flight, by a shaman of the Huichol Indian tribe of Nayarit in western Mexico.

Labyrinthe. Cathédrale de Chartres. The labyrinth, symbolic of the inward quest in mythological and spiritual traditions, is here represented in an in-laid floor pattern inside Chartres Cathedral. For the pilgrims of medieval Europe, entering the center of this labyrinth marked the final stage of their religious journeys.

Elizabeth Stratton,
a psychic healer and counselor in private practice in New York City, leads workshops in self-healing, psychic self-defense, and psychic development for health professionals.
p. 30, 31

Joan Sullivan
is a psychiatrist in private practice and a training member of the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco. She is interested in an integration of gestalt with object relations.
p. 32

T

Yao Tamakloe
studied African dance, music, and literature at the University of Ghana and at UCLA. He dances with the Drums of Passion Dancers.
p. 26

Charles Tart,
professor of psychology at UC Davis, is internationally known for his work in consciousness, parapsychology, and transpersonal psychology. His most recent book is titled Waking Up.
p. 26

Keith Thompson,
creator of Lifeline Productions in Mill Valley, CA, conducts videotaped life history interviews with family elders to preserve their stories and experiences for present and future generations.
p. 18

Gabriele Thomson
has conducted workshops for mental health professionals in Europe, Australia, and New Zealand. She supports individuals in healing childhood traumas and furthering spiritual development.
p. 37

U

Beth Ullmann
is a certified Rolfer, Leonard Energy Trainer, movement therapist, and aikidoist, holds a black belt in Tae Kwan Do (karate), and has recent experience in the Model Mugging Programs.
p. 30

V

Antoinette Varner
is an acupuncturist, herbalist, and movement teacher whose work integrates cognitive learning, the body, and spiritual experience. She has an acupuncture practice in Mill Valley, CA.
p. 21, 32, 45, 48, 49, 51

Frances Vaughan,
psychologist and author, is the president-elect of the Association for Humanistic Psychology. She is a pioneer in transpersonal psychology and intuition research.
p. 22

W

Judyth Weaver,
a Reichian counselor and certified teacher of t'ai chi ch'uan and sensory awareness, holds a doctorate in psychology. She is a longtime student of Buddhism and Taoism and studied in a Zen monastery in Japan.
p. 36

Ganga White,
an internationally known teacher and master of yoga, is author of Double Yoga and has received the titles "Yoga Acharya" and "Yogiraj" in India.
p. 23

David Whyte
is a poet and storyteller. He is the author of Songs for Coming Home, a collection of poetry, and is currently at work on his second volume of poems. He leads workshops throughout the U.S.
p. 43

Colin Wilson
is a British author of more than 50 books covering a wide range of subjects. He has written biographies of Jung, Maslow, Steiner, Gurdjieff, and most recently, Aleister Crowley.
p. 46

Nancy Winston
is a counselor in New York City who has studied with Milton Erickson and has taught and trained clinicians throughout North America in the use of hypnosis and counseling.
p. 34

Z

Ruth Zaporah,
performance artist and teacher, regularly presents her work throughout the U.S. and Europe. She is a current recipient of a National Endowment for the Arts Choreographer's Fellowship.
p. 37

Janet Zuckerman
is founder of the Feeling Center in Big Sur, CA. She has been teaching at Esalen for the past 14 years.
p. 24, 37, 38, 52

ESALEN INSTITUTE RESERVATIONS

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. In completing the form, please indicate the name, address, and telephone number of each person registering and clearly indicate the title of the workshop for which each person is reserving a place. A nonrefundable deposit for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (See General Information, page 66.)

(Please Print)

Name _____ Sex M ☐ F ☐

Address _____

City, State _____ ZIP _____

Telephone Number: Home: Area Code ( ) _____ Work: Area Code ( ) _____

Occasionally there are unexpected situations that require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you? _____. If you can't be reached, please call us before your scheduled arrival for final confirmation. Please indicate your second choice for a workshop, in case your first choice is canceled and we are unable to reach you.

(On additional paper please repeat the above information for every person in your party making a reservation.
Mail to: Reservations, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.)

☐ Check if you want housing as a couple.
☐ Check if you want the discounted bunkbed option (see page 14).
☐ Check if you want the discounted student sleeping bag option (see page 14).

All of our rooms are non-smoking.

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form. Please allow three weeks for scholarship processing. For further details, see Ways of Being at Esalen, pages 14-15.

Bus Service: I want bus service from (check one):

☐ Monterey Greyhound Bus Station at approximately 3:45 PM
☐ Monterey Airport at approximately 4:00 PM

on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays & Sundays only).

The $25 per person charge is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the bus change after you submit this reservation, please notify us. The only departing bus service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM. Esalen bus service is not available at any time other than as listed.

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

We are unable to act as a banking service for our guests. Please bring adequate funds for your stay.

Name of Person Registering	Date(s)	Leader's Name/Title of Workshop	Deposit Enclosed

Total amount enclosed: $ _____

Please make checks payable to Esalen Institute, in U.S. currency only.
Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks.

Your reservation can be charged to:

☐ MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express

Card No. _____

Expiration Date _____

Authorizing Signature _____

All workshops require nonrefundable reservation fees. See page 66. The balance of program fees becomes payable at the time of check-in.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Our activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Esalen lies 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco, situated directly over the Pacific with the Santa Lucia Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was once the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esselen.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute – By Reservation Only.

Fees and Reservations: In order to reserve a space in any workshop, we require the following reservation fees:

Weekend:	$50	Two-week:	$200
Five-day:	$100	Three-week:	$300
Seven-day:	$150	Month-long:	$400

Fees are payable in U.S. currency only. Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks. Balance of payment is due on arrival. These fees are not refundable but, with five days' notice, may be transferred to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year of receipt. Those who pay in full at the time they make their reservations will receive a $10 discount. Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is canceled and we are unable to reach you.

Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Rooms are shared by two or more workshop participants. Camping on the grounds is prohibited.

Please mail all reservations to:

Reservations
Esalen Institute
Big Sur, CA 93920

We prefer to process reservations via the mail. However, if you are concerned about workshops being full or have any questions, you may make reservations by phone if you use your MasterCard, Visa, or American Express credit card number to charge your reservation fee.

To make a phone reservation, call (408) 667-3005 during the following office hours:

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday
10 AM to 3 PM
Wednesday 10 AM to 12 Noon
Friday 10 AM to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8 PM

If there is no answer during our regular business hours, and the phone company confirms that our phones are out of order, please call our alternate number, (408) 372-8719, for recorded up-to-date workshop, road, and transportation information.

Scholarships: For information on scholarships and other economical ways of staying at Esalen, please see pages 14-15.

Check-in and Meals: Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with lunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Sunday and end with lunch on Friday. Check-out time is noon of departure day. Rooms become available at 4 PM; however, guests are welcome to arrive any time after 2 PM.

Esalen's flourishing organic garden provides the kitchen with many of its vegetables and herbs. Our breads and pastries are baked at Esalen.

Seminarians as Volunteers: Seminarians in residence at Esalen are requested to contribute several hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out. A staff member will appear at your first workshop meeting to schedule volunteers.

Bus Service: On Fridays and Sundays we have bus service from the Monterey Greyhound station leaving approximately at 3:45 PM and from the Monterey Airport approximately at 4:00 PM. If you plan to use this service, please inform the Esalen office at least 24 hours prior to your arrival. The $25 one-way fee is payable to the Esalen office when you check in. Return reservations may be made at that time. The only departing bus service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM.

Gazebo School: Requests for child care should be sent at least one month in advance to Gazebo, c/o Esalen Institute.

Health Services: We are unable to provide medical supervision or pharmaceutical supplies. If you are on a health-care program and you plan to spend several weeks at Esalen, please arrive prepared to administer to your health-care needs.

Illegal Drugs: In accordance with state and federal laws, the possession or use of illegal drugs on Esalen grounds is strictly prohibited.

Lost and Found: To inquire about items left behind from your visit to Esalen, call (408) 667-3019.

Accreditation: There are now a number of opportunities for Esalen resident scholars to gain credit with Antioch University toward a bachelor's or a master's degree in somatic psychology. Many other formal educational institutions also recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Conferences at Esalen: It is now possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We schedule approximately a year in advance for large groups (up to 100). Smaller groups may be accommodated at shorter notice. Call the office, (408) 667-3038, for further information, or write to the conference coordinator.

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax-deductible.

The expenses of attending Esalen, including travel, are deductible for federal income tax purposes as an educational expense if incurred to maintain or improve professional or work skills. (See Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5.)

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Designs engraved on shells. Mississippi Culture. A.D. 1200-1600.

COURTESY OF THE MUSEUM OF THE AMERICAN INDIAN, NEW YORK, AND ALFRED VAN DER MARCK EDITIONS

Atop the Borobudur, a Buddhist temple (Java, A.D. 8th century) conceived in the image of the world mountain. (See cover photograph and caption.) Each of ten terraces represents the stages toward perfection in a person's life, moving from earthly to transcendental concerns. On the summit-platforms, high above the earthly plane, are three circular terraces of bell-shaped tabernacles enclosing "Meditation Buddhas." Here, one is revealed in an open stupa.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

Esalen Institute
Big Sur
California 93920

DATED MATTER

THE ESALEN CATALOG

SEPTEMBER 1988–FEBRUARY 1989

CONTENTS

Volume XXVII, Number 3

Audio Recordings 41
Biographical Information 42–48
Conferences at Esalen 50
Esalen Notes 4–8
Esalen Seminars 10–35
Friends of Esalen 40
Future Programs 37
General Information 50
Invitational Conferences 8
Media Center 40
Medical Programs 39
Reservations Form 49
Scholarship Information 9
Special Programs 36–37
Ways of Being at Esalen 9
Work Study Program and Application 38–39

Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920

Phone (408) 667-3000

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday,
& Saturday 10 AM to 3 PM
Wednesday 10 AM to 12 Noon
Friday 10 AM to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8 PM

Catalog Editor: Susan Stone
Graphic Design: Barbara Adamson
Photographic Coordination: Joyce Lyke

Consulting Editor: Nancy Kaye Lunney
Administrative Liaison: Patricia LeWine
Editorial Review: George Leonard

Cover Photograph: Jan Watson

Esalen Board of Trustees:

Mark Dayton
Steve Donovan
Jack Downing
Victoria Elliot
Stanislav Grof
Bokara Legendre
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Michael Murphy
Christine Stewart Price
Marius Robinson
William Sechrest
Jeremy Tarcher

©1988 Esalen Institute
All Rights Reserved.

The Esalen Catalog is published triannually by the Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920. Subscription cost for one year is $15 for the United States, $17 for Canada and Mexico, $20 for Europe and South America, and $22 for all other countries. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available upon request.

THE MARTIAL ARTS AT ESALEN

Do not think that
This is all there is.
More and more
Wonderful teachings exist –
The sword is unfathomable.
–Tesshu Yamaoka, 1836-1888

To judge from some recent movies and television shows, martial artists spend most of their time dismantling hordes of bad guys, emitting unearthly screams, and breaking concrete blocks with their heads. The truth of the matter is that the martial arts – the best of them – deal less with wanton destruction than with lifelong discipline, less with fighting than with finding the elusive path to an enduring peace. That path, the martial arts tell us, joins body, mind, and spirit in a hero's journey, during which the only real opponent is within. To seek mastery of self, all the while knowing that such mastery is finally unattainable, is the martial artist's joy and sorrow.

Still, there are moments during long hours of practice when everything seems to come together to create a kind of balance in the chaos of existence. And in the realm where the physical body meets the infinite, the martial arts are endlessly wonderful and mysterious, calling all of us to learning that has no end.

Since the early 1970s a number of martial artists have offered programs at Esalen. There have been weekend and 5-day workshops and 8-week training programs for the modern, peaceful warrior. In addition, the martial arts, especially aikido and t'ai chi, have informed numerous Esalen workshops aimed at creating harmony out of discord and joining body, mind, and spirit. The photographs that run throughout this catalog are dedicated to the achievement of human potential through the martial arts.

KATHLEEN THORMOD CARR

George Leonard

STANISLAV AND CHRISTINA GROF: AN APPRECIATION

By Keith Thompson

KATHLEEN THORMOD CARR

Stan and Christina Grof

Adventure, discovery, acceptance, release. These are words that come to mind when when one thinks of Stan and Christina Grof's legendary extended conferences at Esalen. There were many of them during the Grofs' fourteen years in residence, each focusing on a multi-dimensional theme: the frontiers of modern consciousness research, the quest for a new scientific paradigm, Buddhism and Western psychology, paranormal intelligence.

During these month-long workshops, the Big House would be transformed successively into an ashram, an experimental laboratory, a mystery school, and an intimate college classroom. Through exquisitely structured exercises not unlike those of ancient healing rituals and shamanic vision quests, group members would undertake subjective journeys into their depths. The "Grof groups" (as they became known) provided a secure environment for participants to contact and release blocked energies, thereby allowing emotional and psychosomatic symptoms to flow into dynamic, life-changing experiences.

The workshops' more cognitive sessions, interspersed among these inner voyages, led participants into equally provocative territory. The Grofs' theses about the nature of reality, drawn from converging insights in psychedelic research, psychology, quantum physics, death and dying research, anthropology, spiritual healing practices, and the world's great mystical traditions, challenged conventional perspectives on these subjects.

It was, in fact, shifts in their own understandings of what is real that brought Stan and Christina to Esalen, although they arrived at different times and under different circumstances. For each, paradoxical new worlds of experience were opening. Stories which had given their lives and works meaning no longer held. Both were looking for a larger story.

As a young and newly trained Czech psychiatrist in the mid-1950s, Stan found himself captivated by what seemed the extraordinary explanatory power of psychoanalytic theory. "Freud," he recalls, "seemed to have all the answers. My faith in Western medicine and traditional psychiatry was absolute." Then the Sandoz pharmaceutical company of Switzerland sent an ample supply of a new drug to the psychiatric clinic in Prague where he worked and urged the clinic to research its mind-altering potentials. The drug was LSD, not yet famous as the American counterculture's substance of choice. Over a period of years, Stan administered LSD to patients in a systematic psychotherapeutic context. A complete account of his discoveries is beyond the scope of this page, but suffice it to say that as a consequence of his research, Stan Grof's belief systems – professional and personal alike – were no longer intact.

"Patients were regularly experiencing realms not accounted for by the psychoanalytic model, including transpersonal phenomena and perinatal experiences pertaining to the realms of death and rebirth. Yet without models or maps for understanding the persistent and consistent new data I was encountering, and with little support from my fellow scientists, I entered into a profound conceptual crisis."

Not long thereafter, Christina Healy, then a middle-class housewife living with her family in Hawaii, went through her own Dark Night of the Soul. "I had become very interested in Hatha Yoga as a physical discipline, unaware at the time of its spiritual dimension and power to awaken unusual energies and experiences," Christina remembers. Her otherwise ordinary suburban life was interrupted by a dramatic inner awakening during the birth of her first child, initiating a series of highly unusual emotional, physical, and spiritual experiences that continued for many years.

"Go see Stan Grof," counseled her former college professor Joseph Campbell. "He knows about these kinds of things." Stan had become Scholar in Residence at Esalen, where he was writing his first book, Realms of the Human Unconscious: Observations of LSD Research.

Christina went to meet Stan, who at the very time was studying remarkable parallels between non-ordinary states of consciousness induced by psychedelic drugs and those associated with cross-cultural shamanic procedures, traditional initiation rites, aboriginal healing ceremonies, and the spiritual practices of many traditions. Having already made certain crucial distinctions between mystical openings and psychotic experiences, Stan sensed that Christina's "breakdown" was a stage in a larger breakthrough to a new level of being. In shamanic terms, it was the period of disintegration requisite to psychic integration at a more complex level.

Christina used her time at Esalen to read widely in the literature of numerous spiritual disciplines, to participate in a wide range of experiential studies, and to take up spiritual practice. "Eventually," she recalls, "I was able to recognize that I was involved in what in India is called a Kundalini awakening, a transformative process that was as profoundly healing in the long run as it was difficult to navigate at the time."

Out of her chaotic passage through the archetypal underworld emerged a new sense of connectedness, greater creativity, and a desire to be of service. Her marriage ended during this period, as did Stan's. In retrospect, it seems hardly surprising that they fell in love and eventually married, given the similarities between their respective "trials by fire."

In Stan's case, the conflict he experienced between his Freudian training and his observations from LSD research had once seemed insurmountable. But by trusting his hunch that LSD acts to amplify naturally occurring psychic phenomena (rather than creating drug-specific states), he had taken the crucial first step toward conceiving the outlines of a revolutionary theory of human nature – one in which Freud's model is useful in accounting for one level, rather than the totality, of psychic functioning. Many consider Stan's map of the psyche (detailed in his two most recent books Beyond the Brain and The Adventure of Self-Discovery), to be without rival in its comprehensiveness, elegance, and intellectual brilliance.

Likewise, Christina emerged from her labyrinthine journey with a larger perspective – and with new energies. Eager to make support available to people experiencing rites of passage similar to her own, in 1980 she founded the international Spiritual Emergency Network, located at the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology in Menlo Park, California. She and Stan are currently writing a book on the phenomenon of spiritual emergency to be published by J.P. Tarcher.

But of late it is their shared creation, Holotropic Therapy, that asks for most of their time. This method combines focused breathing, evocative music, body work, and creative artwork, and is designed to show, in their words, the "extraordinary healing potential of non-ordinary states of consciousness." Since moving last year from Big Sur, the Grofs have been leading Holotropic Therapy workshops and trainings throughout the United States and Europe.

"Our time at Esalen was wonderfully fertile for us," says Christina, "but the time came to take our work more fully into the world." One of their friends who helped them load up their U-Haul van talked quietly after they left for their new home in Mill Valley, just north of San Francisco: "I call Christina and Stan my teachers because when they talk about apprenticing to existential and spiritual crisis and being willing to die to self-concept, I know they've been there themselves. They walk what they talk. Do you know how rare that is?"

* * * * * *

(Information about the Grofs' workshops and training groups is available by writing to them at 20 Sunnyside Avenue, Suite 253, Mill Valley, CA 94941.)

KATHLEEN THORNOD CARR

Participants in a Grof month-long discuss mandalas they drew after a session combining focused breathing and music.

ESALEN NOTES

WALKING ON THE EDGE OF THE WORLD

A new book by George Leonard

Reviewed by Michael Murphy

George Leonard's Walking on the Edge of the World will be hard for critics to categorize, for in it are several kinds of book. It is first a personal memoir of the Sixties: the 1960 White House Conference on youth; Berkeley's Free Speech Movement; the Selma march with Martin Luther King; forays along the Iron Curtain from Finland to Iran; Ole Miss with James Meredith and Bobby Kennedy; seminars at Esalen in 1965; San Francisco's Summer of Love; visits to Watts and other ghettos as America's cities were burning; protests against the War; black-white encounter groups; Jennifer Jones's party for Esalen, at which Fritz Perls spanked Natalie Wood; rousing seminars in London with Alan Watts, Will Schutz, and other human potential pioneers; the struggles of Look magazine with officials of the Nixon administration.

Leonard participated in all these events, as Look editor, educator, and advocate of social reform, and was a central figure in some. He produced the definitive story about the Ole Miss crisis, started Esalen's black-white encounters, was a major catalyst of debate over changes in American education. His memoir brings the decade back with vivid detail, providing a picture of incidents no other reporter or historian observed so closely. For that reason, it will be read for a long time to come as an important historical record. Scholars many decades from now will turn to this book for material other commentators didn't recognize or deem significant. No one else, for example, has understood those activities called "the human potential movement" so well (Leonard invented the term, after all), nor seen their links with other American reforms so clearly. Because Leonard experienced transformative practices himself, he saw the courage, the beauty, the fulfillment they produce along with their wrong turns and follies. His understanding of new educational approaches is deeper than other writers'. Indeed, Leonard's eye for neglected aspects of American life make his book a classic among social histories. Because it provides perspectives on our national experience which future historians will find nowhere else, Walking on the Edge of the World will take its place alongside James Agee's Now Let Us Praise Famous Men and de Tocqueville's Life in America.

Two reasons for this special insight stand out for me: first, Leonard's willingness to move outside the conventional wisdoms in both his thought and action; and second, his passionate – should I call it Southern? – love of life. This book is a story of hope told by an outlaw, a celebration of the times by someone who didn't protect himself with irony and distance. Leonard was simply too caring to stand back from the things he saw. In the field of education, he led efforts for change; in Selma he marched; at Esalen he joined, even started, encounter groups. And so his reflections have nuance and depth which other histories of the time lack entirely. Walking on the Edge of the World is a love story as well as good history. You end up liking, admiring, or feeling compassion for the people in it, even the rogues and villains.

But with all its sweep and passion, with all the tumult of the times it reflects, this book is finally a wisdom tale, something like a marriage between the later Balzac and the tales of Nasruddin. Its easy-to-read prose leaves a series of crystalline pictures in your mind, which upon later reflection reveal new mysteries. There is first a plainly-told account, then ethical insight, then mystical truths and further complexities. In Leonard's pictures of light and shadow, victories and defeats, we see that the Sixties dramatized a transitional state of the soul, a type of initiation through which persons or cultures must pass to call up their greater possibilities. To avoid that adventure, this book seems to say, is to live a smaller though safer life, secretly longing for love and justice; while clinging to icons of that time – seeking freedom without discipline, perhaps, or believing utopia can be seized by revolution – would leave us exhausted.

Turn this story in your mind and it reveals facet after facet, like a crystal. Without preaching, by luminous storytelling, Leonard reflects the complexities and depths of our own life, makes our greater adventure more apparent. After this book, American history, our own history, has new consequence.

* * * * * *

(Walking on the Edge of the World will be published by Houghton Mifflin in Fall 1988.)

HARRY SLOAN

By Stuart Miller

We remember Harry Sloan in his earliest days at Esalen: 1968. He looked through the windows of the Lodge at the sunshine, the ocean, the hummingbirds, and the monarch butterflies and, with exaggerated New York accent, said, "Me? I came out here on the subway!" In the light of all that has happened, one is inclined to read many meanings into such a statement. It was, of course, one of his quips – Harry was the funniest person at Esalen, a very brother to Humor. And it was also his acknowledgment of the thickness of his own past and, by implication, of everyone's. We can not easily escape our conditioning, our background, and our limitations.

Now, that subway rider, forty-five, a man who in these twenty years took more than his share of dark journeys, is dead. He passed on April 14 at 1 a.m. and, because he had a lot of medical training (four years at Western Reserve University and a Degree of Medical Dentistry), he would probably want it known that he died of colon cancer after a five-year struggle.

His long dying was instructive, as were other parts of his life, for the doctors had told him at the beginning that he would go in a mere six months. But he fought the disease with characteristic liveliness, employing the most diverse means, orthodox and otherwise: meditation and special diets, psychic healing, humor, chemotherapy, radiation, medication, and two surgical operations. His underlying method, however, was based in two of his outstanding qualities of character: tenacity and faith.

One of his dearest friends recalls, "At every stage of the disease, even at the end when the cancer had moved to the liver, to the lungs, when he was worn at by a bursitis in his shoulder which kept him from sleep, when the pain medication led to a nausea which kept him throwing up after every meal, he would still assert, 'I will not be victimized by this,' meaning that he would stay himself, not become a victim, that he would keep loving, keep exploring, never be jaded. And he would emerge from the bed or the bathroom, still not depressed, still cracking jokes." His faith was in what he taught in his workshops: the human capacity to identify, albeit with difficulty, with the higher, even the highest, within oneself.

In his later years, Harry emerged as one of Esalen's most inspired and beloved seminar leaders. Those who knew only the exuberant jokester of yore were surprised at the funeral when one client after another, many psychotherapists, rose up to speak of the "luminosity" they experienced when working with Harry. This was not easy to reconcile with earlier images of a fast-talking New Yorker, a clown, who once bought a little battery-operated toy machine that emitted deep Har-Har laughter, and then put it, still Har-Haring, in a trash masher and pressed "On." And what about the memory some had of his habitually leaning out of car windows and barking at passing dogs, and then rejoicing when they chased him in frenzied dog conversation? Neither is it easy to reconcile that clownish background with friends' statements that "Harry was deeply internal," and that in the last decade of his life he would stay up all night reading spiritual texts trying to clarify points raised in the previous evening's discussions, or that it was his habit to meditate for three hours every day on emergent spiritual problems and qualities.

Harry was not a simple man. He loved God and the God within, and he loved life: beautiful women, jokes, good food, children, and friends. As in his life, so in his work, he had the uncanny ability to evoke people's belief in their best possibilities. Still, he would constantly tell them to seek the guru not in him but in themselves. Indeed, one of his stock bits was the parodying, in mock-Indian accent, of guru figures: "It is not the Guru who loves Rolls Royces and wants you to give them to him; it is God who wants Rolls Royces for the Guru!"

Toward the end, a committee came together to try and capture in some logical frame the power of his workshops, his insight, approach, and methods. But even as Harry would invite and encourage such intellectual formulations, he would resist any premature foreclosure, as suspicious of any simple system as he was of any guru. The important thing was "the work" itself, especially that delicate and tender process people reported by which he gave permission for the emergence of their "Higher Self," "my soul," "my growing edge." "Allow that tenderness you are feeling. Let it emerge. What if that quality were to get bigger in your life? Take your time to imagine that. Affirm that in you." Nor would he ignore everything in the personality that warred with the higher. Sometimes he called it "The Voice." And he would demand, as the dramatist he had once been might have said, "Cue The Voice! Let it speak. The Voice which says, 'You can't. You'll never be that good. It's hopeless. People are worthless. Give up!'" That part, too, was to be allowed, in the faith that somewhere a reconciliation could be found.

(continues)

ELIZABETH SCOTT

Harry Sloan, summer 1987

ESALEN NOTES

With all the many images that remain with us from the life of this vital man, we shall always remember the last ones. First, a week before the end, not having seen him in many months, we came to the front door. "I'm glad you've come, you must join the others here and help with the discussion," he said when he greeted us. His torso was swollen with edema, his face was sunken and sallow with jaundice; once, on the way back to the bedroom, he staggered. "Tell us, what do you think? Should I be cremated or buried?" The insouciance was so original as to make us laugh, which he clearly had in mind. "I mean, some people want a place to go and visit. Me, personally, I would prefer cremation. I'd like my ashes scattered (pause) and placed in the salt and pepper shakers at Woolworth's."

One friend comments: "For me, Harry's outstanding quality was his ability to lead his own life. Like the good Jewish boy he was supposed to be, he first became a dentist. He could have stayed there, pleased his society, and followed a conventional path. But he struggled instead to find his own way, through all sorts of disappointments and setbacks, without bitterness, and he helped others do the same. His favorite text was the one we used at the memorial service, from the third chapter of the Bhagavad Gita: 'Better is one's own dharma, though imperfect, than the dharma of another well performed. He who does the duty ordained by his own nature incurs no sin.'"

As for the actual moment of passing, he was at home in bed, surrounded by family and friends. Three of them have told us of the special luminosity of the moment. One said, "To the seven people in the room, his passing was transformative. Even the most philosophically materialistic felt that it was more like a birth. I always imagined the moment, the act of death, to be dark and frightening. But this death filled me with serenity. Naturally, it was a relief to know he was out of pain, though he managed that very well through medication. But I kept saying to others, 'Can you feel the Joy?' Was it his soul being released? Was it, I thought, an angel come to get him? Whatever it was, the death was joyous, and I have not felt death anymore to be some black hole of loss, some abyss. The actual passing was more like a miracle of transition. A subjective sense of light filled the room and it was as if a hole opened above the bed and filled that room for a week afterwards. For me, the mystery of death is still there, but it is no longer terrible."

Harry Sloan came to Esalen on the subway, but he left, it seems, carried on the wings of angels.

* * * * * *

(The Committee for the Affirmation of the Work of Harry Sloan invites contributions of funds or recorded tapes of sessions to be sent to "The Fund for the Affirmation of the Work of Harry Sloan," 34 Forest Ave., Mill Valley, CA 94941.)

INVITATIONAL CONFERENCES

In its continuing commitment to the fields of education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences, Esalen regularly sponsors invitational conferences that bring together experts who share their research and common points of inquiry. As host, Esalen covers room and board expenses for participants as a way of advancing these particular studies. These are invitational conferences only and are not open to the public.

The goal of these conferences is to engender the kind of creativity that comes from the collaborative work of people with similar interests but radically different approaches. We hope that the results will include expanded research projects, new writing, and more effective plans for the education of therapists. Currently scheduled programs and their conveners are listed below.

September 11–16
Mysticism Reconsidered

Frances Vaughan

This seminar will be an interdisciplinary attempt to reformulate contemporary perspectives on mysticism, to clear up some popular misconceptions, and to provide some guidelines for further research in this area.

October 2–7
Lindisfarne

William Irwin Thompson
& Mary Catherine Bateson

Lindisfarne is an association of individuals and groups around the world dedicated to fostering the emergence of a new planetary culture. This conference will explore the challenge to re-invision, re-think, and re-create the delicate balance of life that is poised between nature and culture.

November 13–18
Community-Based Alternatives to Institutional Psychiatric Treatment

Lawrence Telles

Dick Price created this conference with the goal of increasing the quality and availability of (particularly residential) alternatives to institutional treatment for people in what he called "a state." The conference is intended to create a network of those who can support and learn from each other's work in this field.

November 13–18
The Uses of the Unconscious

Bruno Bettelheim
& Heather Maycock Ogilvy

This conference will gather together old friends and colleagues, including Peter Blos, Saul Wasserman, and Karen Zelan, to discuss the overlap of the unconscious and intuition in the therapeutic process, in educating children, and in administering mental health programs.

January 16–18
Dialogues on Philosophy at Esalen

Jay Ogilvy

This conference will continue the conversations on spiritual epistemology and cultural pluralism that were initiated in 1987.

WAYS OF BEING AT ESALEN

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from a tour of the garden on a Sunday afternoon to a long-term stay as a seminarian. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the various methods of personal growth and self-exploration that are available here. The Experiencing Esalen workshops, scheduled periodically, offer an introduction to practices such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, and meditation. From such a sampling, participants can then choose those approaches they are most attracted to and pursue them in subsequent seminars.

Another way of being at Esalen which allows a much greater involvement with the place and its community at a lower expense is the Work Study Program, described more fully elsewhere in this section and on pages 38-39. For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more, there are frequent long-term programs which involve didactic seminars or professional trainings as well as experiential workshops.

Some courses offer continuing education credit to nurses (see Medical Programs, page 39, for current C.E. listings), and academic credit toward a bachelor's or master's degree is offered to Esalen resident scholars through the Esalen-Antioch somatics program.

Occasionally, when beds aren't needed for seminarians, room and board is available. This gives visitors the opportunity to enjoy the grounds, the baths, massage, and good food without participating in a workshop. See this page for more information.

In addition, there are other events which enrich life at Esalen. There are frequent forums in which writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights there may be lectures, films, dance performances, choirs, or other forms of entertainment. On Sunday afternoons there are garden tours (see this page for more information). Body work of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners. Private sessions are also available for various types of process work, including gestalt, neo-Reichian emotional release, vision improvement, singing gestalt, etc. Finally, there is a community workshop program which goes on daily and provides many opportunities for engaging in personal self-exploration or learning new approaches to human growth.

Scholarship Information

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Allow at least three weeks for processing as we have many applications. If your application is approved, please make a reservation as soon as possible after receiving notice. Scholarship recipients may be asked to bring a sleeping bag to use during peak attendance periods. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

In addition to scholarships, we offer the following options to help reduce the cost of attending a seminar.

Student Sleeping Bag Scholarships: We are now offering a discounted sleeping bag rate for fulltime college or university students who are enrolled for at least 12 credit hours during the time of their Esalen stay. For more information and an application, contact the Esalen office.

Bunk Bed Rooms: Bunk bed rooms are available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three other people. Please call for current rates. The number of these spaces is limited and they are reserved on a first come, first served basis.

Senior Citizens' Discounts: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $25, and for a five-day workshop the discount is $50. Discounts are available only when you make your reservations. Please present proof of age when you register. Senior discounts are not available for Wilderness Programs or Work Scholar Programs.

Room and Board: Bed spaces not required for workshop participants are sometimes available for room and board. Accommodations are shared, and the rate is variable and subject to change. Please call for specific information. Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following day. We require that people pay in full when they make a reservation. This payment is not refundable.

Private rooms are sometimes available at an additional charge over the regular room and board rate. Special family rates are also available. Please phone the office for additional information.

Work Study Program

The Work Study Program is an intensive work-oriented program for individuals who want to make a directed, personal commitment to self-exploration and growth and a contribution to the Esalen community. Participants can enroll in the general interest track, which gives an overview of several disciplines, or choose a more specific course of study from the focused track, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage, etc.

Information regarding special interest sections may be obtained by writing Bette Dingman, c/o Esalen. For a full description of the Work Study Program, please turn to pages 38-39.

Medical Programs

Some programs offered at Esalen qualify for continuing education credit with the California Board of Registered Nursing. For current C.E. listings, see page 39.

Garden Tours

Esalen is now offering to the public, from April through September, tours of the garden, farm, and landscaping. These tours are on the first and third Sundays of the month, from 2-5 PM. The cost is $10 per person; group rates are available. A series of Saturday workshops is also being planned. For more information or to make reservations, please contact Steve Beck at the Esalen office, (408) 667-3000.

Weekend of September 2–4

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman

For many people, feelings are something mysterious, something to keep to oneself, or something to think about. This workshop is about all the steps involved in learning to experience, respect, and honor one's feeling process in a way that can increase vitality and personal effectiveness. Participants may learn to separate feelings from thoughts, learn from their own body rhythms, learn to contact their own wisdom, and participate in the choice of expression or depression. $295

Edges: A Weekend with Terence & Kat McKenna

The McKennas write: "From the Voynich manuscript to the villages of Ceram's forested interior, there are gentle uncharted backwaters in the physical and intellectual world that can be a source of renewed vigor for thoughtful people caught in the meltdown of historical society. Because the exploration of edges, of the way less traveled, has proven a workable strategy in our own long strange trip, we are interested in sharing these ideas with our friends. Global perspectives and psychedelic poetics begin with stories and deep talk of far places and the experiences that can take flower there. We will discuss people, plants, cultural migrations, religious conversions, visions, conspiracies, and hierophanies. Join us for yet another conjuration of philosophy as you like it." $295

What is Self?

Bernadette Roberts

In this workshop, Bernadette Roberts will present her insights into the question of self. She writes: "As long as we are living it, or are it, we cannot know the true nature of self. This disclosure can only be known when self falls away and becomes known by its absence or 'what was.' As it turns out, the knowing-feeling self is both an unconscious function of the mind and the profound experience of life and being. Together these give rise to every experience we call self or consciousness.

"Viewing human existence as a passage through consciousness, this workshop will explore the major milestones of the journey, with particular emphasis on the difference between the falling away of the ego-self and the much later falling away of the true self or the unitive, transcendental self. The criteria and validation for these milestones will be viewed in the light and experiences of Christ and Buddha, who manifested and articulated the journey for all who would come after." $295

Artmaking as an Act of Healing

Nancy Azara

This workshop is for visual artists who want to explore the magical power and healing properties inherent in artmaking and who want to know and expand their psychic visions. Using meditation and other exercises, participants will have the opportunity to open creative channels to find their visual language, bring vivid images to consciousness, and paint and draw these experiences. They will focus on light and color through their bodies, practice reading auras, and experience the laying on of hands. These exercises allow individuals to discover their own creative healing symbols, ease energy blocks, look at the hidden parts of themselves, identify and clarify important influences in their lives, and, finally, move toward more fully owning their personal power. The instructor will guide workshop activities with the sustenance and support appropriate to this kind of exploration and expression.

Participants are asked to bring whatever they like of the following: acrylic or watercolor paint, collage materials, pastels, oil crayons, scissors, glue, and about 25 sheets or the equivalent in pads of good quality drawing paper (no newsprint). Size 11"x14" is ideal. $295

Week of September 4–9

Sacred Mask Experience

Elisa Lodge

Marvel at the ingenuity in which divinity hides itself in order to find itself. – Alan Watts

Masks are magic! The elemental power of sacred masks to liberate and transport us has all but disappeared from our cultural heritage. Drawing our initial inspiration from a large international collection of masks, we will reestablish our connection to this ancient artistic tradition, one of the oldest forms of catharsis and healing.

Through mask-making, ritual theater, trance journeys, primal sound, and movement work, we will enter a world that will carry us to the further reaches of our imagination and to what is revealed behind the masks – the beauty and truth of our essential nature. Together, we will create rituals that grow out of sacred practice, opening us to more vital and novel dimensions of expressive behavior not ordinarily permitted in our daily lives. Local musicians from Big Sur will be used to orchestrate and ground the powerful energies that emerge. $575

A Week with Seymour Carter

Everyone has unused capacities for further personal development. When these capacities are recognized and given attention, a natural force is released which, like a tide, can carry the individual to a higher level of ability and action. Fritz Perls taught how to recognize the force of avoided issues in dealing with blocked energies. When unfinished issues are confronted and assimilated, it is possible to feel potent and in charge of one's life.

In this workshop, participants can deal with these issues by examining the influence of the inner dialogue on thoughts and the nature of impasse, as well as tendencies within themselves toward psychological completion and well-being. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, Rolfing*, and aikido. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

*Rolfing is a service mark of the Rolf Institute. $575

Painting Experience with Michell Cassou and Stewart Cubley

It is rare for most people to use painting for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to paint purely for the process of exploration, not for the result.

The purpose of this workshop is to provide a setting to explore the self through painting – to discover in form and color a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to emotional and spiritual expression. Participants are given the support and stimulation to develop a natural way of painting based directly upon feeling.

The work takes place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, along with a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. The workshop may be of interest to persons involved in a wide variety of disciplines, including art, education, counseling, and meditative practices. No prior experience in painting is necessary.

JAN WATSON

For further information about this workshop, contact: The Painting Experience Studio, 2101 20th Avenue, San Francisco, CA 94116; (415) 564-8515.

$575 (plus $25 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Trance Integrations: Advanced Workshop

Paul Carter

Wisdom is the intelligence of the system as a whole. – Gregory Bateson

Your conscious mind is very intelligent, and your unconscious mind is a hell of a lot smarter. –M.H. Erickson

This advanced workshop is for people who have previously worked with Paul Carter and wish to go deeper with the material. It is an experiential, holistic, and innovative approach to Ericksonian naturalistic hypnosis – the Whole/Parts Process. It will explore principles of this approach, including trance as a natural and necessary part of health and will develop the idea that people and their communication and problem-solving are paradoxical.

Because of their prior experience with going into trance, participants will be better able to shift their focus into personal and interpersonal work inside of the trance state. Milton Erickson believed that people have an intelligence obtained from their wholeness that is far greater than what they are ordinarily conscious of. Accessing and integrating that intelligence will form the basis of this work.

Through guided exercises and group process, participants will work with the hypnotic use of metaphor in movement, sound, image, and story, as well as the hypnotic realities of age-regression, age-progression (traveling into futures), lucid dreaming, dissociation, and deep-trance identification (a process of deepening self-awareness through identification with different persons in and out of trance).

Additional topics may include: pain control, working with families, transpersonal exploration; the art of using all the system, including the bad, sick, crazy, and resistant parts; and an integrative approach to problem-solving and self-healing as described in Paul Carter's forthcoming book, The Whole-Parts Process: A Formula for Integrity.

> If your mind
> Is not projected
> Into your hands,
> Even ten thousand techniques
> Will be useless.
> –Tesshu Yamaoka

Recommended reading: Grinder and Bandler, Trance-Formations (Real People Press); Michael Yapko, ed., "Parts Work: The Never Ending Story," Hypnotic and Strategic Interventions (Irvington). $575

Weekend of September 9–11

A Special Weekend at Esalen

This weekend is open to all those who would like to spend time at Esalen, enjoying the grounds, the baths, and the community, without participating in a group. Massage and other work offered by individual practitioners will be available as usual. $160

Week of September 11–16

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Robert Helm & Esalen Massage Practitioners

Participants will be instructed in basic methods used in giving a pleasurable and beneficial full body massage. Fundamental elements of body work, such as breath awareness, grounding, movement, quality of touch, and stress reduction, will be introduced. This workshop is available to beginners as well as to those who wish to brush up on their massage skills.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 39. $575

Caretakers of Wonder: The Accuracy of Aesthetic Insight

Mel Bucholtz

An awareness of beauty, wonder, and enchantment restores purpose and direction for the creation of a meaningful life. It also addresses and helps resolve problematic and distressing issues in one's life.

This workshop will: 1) introduce participants to an experience of wonder as the animating element in life; and 2) practice ways in which one shepherds wonder into the world. Accepting the notion that it has been placed in their trust, each trustee, or caretaker, then ushers wonder into the world.

With such learnings, we re-inherit our sensibilities and are vitalized by the new meaning they bring to awareness. The quality of attention which unfolds is that of enriched being, animating all the communities that sustain and create life. $575

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. With this natural reserve as the primary teacher, the group will walk into the Los Padres National Forest. Drawing on various traditions, participants can develop the quality of their awareness and open to the natural world.

Week-long workshops will venture out on five hikes (4-10 miles in length). Weekend workshops will take two hikes (3-6 miles in length). Using Esalen as base camp, the group will explore different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each day-hike will begin after breakfast and will conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. Basic outdoor skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts will be practiced. Participants will be taught enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after these outings. More information will be sent upon registration. $575

The Life Energy Process℠

Stephano Sabetti

The Life Energy Process is a spiritually-oriented approach to body work and lifestyle which allows participants direct contact with the spiritual self through the use of energy vibrations. This is facilitated by specific intensive and subtle movements, depending on the energy level affected. Participants may find that these movements open them to their own healing channel and unique energy frequency. In this process it is possible to release unfinished emotions, radiational and chemical toxins, and psychological disturbances without forcing oneself in any way. From that point of greater clarity in the energy movement within their own bodies, individuals may move to the next step in their personal development. This energy work is continued physically and verbally through process inquiry and dialogue with the workshop leader as participants examine the superficial trace problems of their everyday lives and explore their deeper energy disturbances through energy patterning.

Other aspects of the Life Energy Process which may be included in this workshop are energetic forms of massage, dance, and theater, all of which can be used to heighten awareness, express inner movement, and create possibilities for new avenues of growth. Some of the work may be hands-on with partners. Participants will also be led in individual movement and dance patterns.

This workshop may be of particular interest to professionals and laypersons alike who are excited by the integration of Eastern and Western methods with the new physics for personal, social, and organizational evolution.

Recommended reading: Stephano Sabetti, The Wholeness Principle; Manifestations of Energy; and Shinkido Massage (available from Life Energy Media, 14755 Ventura Blvd., Ste. 1908, Sherman Oaks, CA 91403; (213) 874-7100). $575

Weekend of September 16–18

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

This workshop is designed for people who have not previously been to Esalen. Its emphasis is on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for the individual participant. These may include: sensory awareness, gestalt practice, group process, guided fantasy, meditation, massage. There is also time to explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Real People Press). $295

Singing Gestalt

Nancy Kaye Lunney

Singing gestalt is singing about yourself, who you are, what you feel, who you'd like to be. Singing gestalt is about being yourself in front of other people without judging how well you sing. Singing gestalt is not about performance. It is about feeling and expressing.

If the idea of getting up and singing in front of other people terrifies you more than anything you can think of, this workshop is for you. If you love to sing in front of other people and want to stretch yourself further, this workshop is for you. If you've been too shy to try, this is your chance.

Some guided imagery and gestalt may be used. Accompaniment and lots of music are provided. Video feedback may be incorporated. But the workshop is really about you—singing. $295

The Presence of the Past: Morphic Resonance and the Habits of Nature

Rupert Sheldrake

Sheldrake's hypothesis of formative causation may provide the basis for a new scientific paradigm which goes far beyond the currently predominant mechanistic theory of life. The idea that the form and behavior of living organisms are shaped by morphogenetic fields, themselves molded by the form and behavior of past similar organisms, leads to a new interpretation of heredity and the evolutionary process.

Memories need no longer be thought of as somehow stored inside the brain. They may depend on direct connections with the organism's own past due to morphic resonance, and tuning in to the experience of other members of the species may give rise to a pooled or collective memory.

In this workshop, some of the implications of formative causation for biology, psychology, parapsychology, philosophy, ritual, and religion will be explored and discussed.

Recommended reading: Rupert Sheldrake, A New Science of Life (Tarcher) and The Presence of the Past: Morphic Resonance and the Habits of Nature (Times Books). $295

Introduction to Gestalt

Esalen Gestalt Staff

Coordinated by Christine Stewart Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear –
And when used – is inexhaustible.
– Lao Tzu

Gestalt is as old as the world.
– Fritz Perls

Gestalt practice is a form – nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental – evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. This form is similar to some Reichian work as well, in that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged.

The emphasis is *intra*personal rather than *inter*personal. It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment.

Although open seat work is the primary form of this practice, guided fantasy, breath meditations, and movement sessions may be included.

Each gestalt practice group will have a member of the Esalen gestalt staff as its primary leader. The name of this leader will be listed in the office three weeks in advance of the workshop. Please call if you want this information. Other leaders may be involved in some sessions.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Real People Press) and In and Out the Garbage Pail; John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics Ltd.). $295

Week of September 18–23

Personal Challenges of the U.S.-Soviet Relationship

Stephen Rhinesmith

Everyone concerned with the U.S.-Soviet relationship faces uncertainty and contradictions in trying to determine what is real and what is not, what can be believed and what cannot, and what the implications are for one's own values and beliefs.

This workshop is designed for laypeople and professionals who face the personal value and identity challenges created in trying to reconcile the enormous differences between the United States and the Soviet Union. Issues to be discussed include the contradictions of human rights vs. cultural relativism, national security vs. bilateral dialogue, cooperation vs. competition, and reaching out vs. being sued. Participants will examine the relationship of these topics to their own work, values, and belief systems. $575

The Hakomi Method

Ron Kurtz

Hakomi is a body-centered practice based on the principles of: mindfulness, unity, organicity, non-violence, mind-body holism. Hakomi incorporates non-doing as a major methodological principle and trusts in every individual's inner wisdom and power for self-healing.

Using the body as a rich source of information about the unconscious mind, hakomi can assist people in turning inward to those special states of consciousness where change takes place, to explore core beliefs which determine the quality of experience.

Hakomi work embraces the body-mind unity, supports the client's resistance, and encourages respect for and awareness of inner processes. This can be used by counselors, health practitioners, educators, body workers, and anyone invested in personal growth. This workshop also serves as a prerequisite for the formal hakomi certification process. $575

A Workshop with David Schiffman

Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful. – Xenophon

People, like plants, need special attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what they've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness. The courage to let go of self-defeating patterns from the past, the willingness to master fresh skills and create new dreams for the future: these are the turning points that nourish and sustain human beings.

In this workshop, the participants will come together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in themselves. They will create a community whose aim is to explore and move through individual turning points in a climate of trust, goodwill, and authenticity. The program will be structured to include intensive individual work, using practices from gestalt, psychosynthesis, and bioenergetics, as well as creative movement, music, guided imagery, group rituals, and celebrations. $575

Dream Discovery

Joyce Frazee

A dream that is not understood is like a letter that is not opened. – The Talmud

This workshop will explore what is required to open one's dream and to open to the dreamer in oneself. The dream that seems so real, so tangible, is really a miracle of metaphor and disguised insight. It is a gift from the self. The opening to these insights and understandings can be taught and, once learned, allows the dreamer to draw nourishment and encouragement from the unconscious. Even the most frightening dreams may have gifts waiting to be learned.

The mind can be perverse, and if not rewarded for its efforts, may turn its energies elsewhere. This applies to dreams, of course. If one does not know how to draw value from them, they will be forgotten. Since many people forget dreams, exercises in dream recall will be offered in this workshop. Participants will be encouraged to keep dream journals, through which they may discover that dreams come in series, presenting and exploring a continuing theme.

The group will work with feelings using gestalt and bioenergetics. Participants will draw dream mandalas and explore how to use them for insight and healing. Methods of dream control and lucid dreaming will be discussed. $575

Golf in the Kingdom . . . an exploration of the inner game

Stephen Cohen, Fred Shoemaker, John & Tucker Elizabeth Allen

Ye'll come away from the links with a new hold on life, that is certain if ye play the game with all your heart. – Michael Murphy, (Shivas Irons) Golf in the Kingdom

The game of golf provides many opportunities to enhance the journey of self-discovery. It may be experienced not simply as an athletic endeavor, but also as a metaphor for the way one lives.

In golf, issues of self-confidence, fear, trust, discipline, and awareness emerge in the conflict between the ego's desire for success and the inner self's ability to achieve. By freeing the full potential of this inner self, it is possible to greatly expand one's capacity to learn, both in the physical and mental/emotional realms. Not only do golf scores and enjoyment of the game improve, but the same lessons can be applied to other areas of one's life.

In these five days, teaching methods gleaned from a study of the inner game will be utilized, as well as principles and methods from psychosynthesis and gestalt therapy, to explore the inner self and how one interferes with its emergence.

Neither movement from nor towards,
Neither ascent nor decline.
Except for the point,
the still point,
There would be no dance,
and there is only the dance.
–T.S. Eliot

JAN WATSON

Two of the days will be spent on field trips to the Monterey Peninsula where participants will practice and play in some of the most beautiful golf country in the world. On other days there will be time to relax and enjoy the natural pleasures of Esalen in Big Sur. This workshop is suitable for male and female golfers of all levels of accomplishment. Participants may bring their own clubs, or the leaders will provide them.

Recommended reading: Michael Murphy, Golf in the Kingdom (Dell); Timothy Gallwey, The Inner Game of Golf (Random House).

$575 (plus $70 green fees paid directly to the leaders)

Weekend of September 23–25

Weekend Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

Massage is a practical approach to stress relief and greater sensory awareness. This weekend workshop will provide instruction in basic methods used in giving a massage, with additional work on quality of touch, breath awareness, centering, and sensitive rapport between partners. $295

A Weekend with David Schiffman

The purpose of this workshop is to create a more positive and open-ended self-concept. Through the use of structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role-playing, fantasy, and group process methods, participants can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis is on searching out unique personality strengths, individual capacities, and latent powers as a means of achieving productive functioning. $295

Inner Sound and Voice

Jill Purce

This is a workshop of practical explorations with sound for healing and the transformation of consciousness. By liberating the voice, it is possible to make contact with deep levels of the Self and release an untapped source of energy.

Participants will work with the psycho-physical effects of breathing, chanting, mantric and sonic meditations, learning to tune and listen together, moving from the intuitive level into meditative states. Breath and sound will be developed so that different parts of the body-mind come into resonance, to give sonic massage, and to heal and tune the chakras and subtle body. Participants will be taught ways to find their own note and hear inner sound, entering directly into the subtle dimensions of sound by the magical voice practices of traditional cultures including trance music, Mongolian and Tibetan overtone chanting, and other methods. $295

How to Change Your Work Without Changing Your Job

Cynthia Scott & Dennis Jaffe

Many people are searching for a place to make a commitment, and all they are offered is a job. What this workshop offers is an opportunity for participants to learn how to change their work without changing their job, to transform their work from the inside, to create a greater connection between their values and their work. Such an approach allows people to take greater control over their work, leading to greater satisfaction and meaning. This is what the leaders call HeartWork.

During this weekend, the leaders will present the steps to HeartWork and coach participants through structured exercises and open exploration of such topics as: defining new work, dealing with business transitions (becoming a change master), mission and vision (harnessing one's dreams), breakthrough thinking, inspired performance, creating a job enhancement strategy, building personal power, creating support links, balancing one's work and personal worlds.

This process is an alternative to burnout and exhaustion. Emphasis will be on the practical application of what the participant does on Monday. $295

Week of September 25–30

Experiencing Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

This workshop is open to anyone interested in learning to recognize, trust, and use their psi abilities. The leaders will use exercises designed to aid participants in recognizing their perceptive styles and trusting the intuitive input they normally receive. Anne Armstrong will use her tracking abilities, acquired from over twenty years in this field, to assist participants in arriving at useful, accurate data.

One of the basic objectives of the workshop is to demystify the intuitive/psychic process and encourage participants to use it in all areas of their lives – personal, professional, and spiritual. The workshop will include personal psychic scans and practice on selected cases. $575

Self-Acceptance Training

Richard Olney, Leonard Bearne & Tim Dorle

Self-acceptance training is a transpersonal practice that follows an educational model rather than a medical model. It is defined as "the experiencing of whatever I am in a given moment, without the inhibitions of self-judgment, self-criticism, or self-evaluation." The goal of this work is to reach the inner self, the inner teacher, and to feel alive and real.

Although its practice includes devices drawn from gestalt, bioenergetics, mythic fantasy, eidetic imagery, and hypnosis, it is also a philosophy, a value system, and a view of the individual's relationship with the universe.

Self-acceptance training is a holistic approach which emphasizes body work and body awareness, emotional charge and discharge, as well as a cognitive examination of the individual's "pretends" and illusions that obstruct self-acceptance. $575

A Workshop with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

If a proper reverence for the sanctity of the earth and the diversity of its people is the secret of peace and survival, then the adventure of self-discovery stands before us as the most practical of pleasures.
—Theodore Roszak, Person/Planet

In nature, one can observe the rhythms and patterns that occur in every aspect of life—from the pulsation of the cell, to the ebb and flow of the deepest emotions, to the movement and expansion of the universe itself. In this workshop, the natural world will be the group's teacher as they explore the "inner" terrain of their physical and emotional bodies and the "outer" terrain of Esalen and Big Sur.

Participants will use Reichian gestalt awareness and breath work, sound, creative movement, and meditation to balance and transform energy blocks in the body. In addition, they will use music, dance, prayer, and ritual to express their relationship with the earth and each other.

No previous experience is needed, only a willingness to explore this adventure of spirit and discover a deepened sense of the interconnectedness that is inherent in all life-forms. Learning about one's body, natural instincts, and responses can lead one back to the ancient wisdom of the earth—and a return to sacredness and wholeness.

Recommended reading: Fields et al., Chop Wood, Carry Water (Tarcher); Shakti Gawain, Creative Visualization (Whatever Publishing); Peter Russell, The Global Brain (Tarcher). $575

Transformational Theater

Jane Hinders & Mark Olsen

Theater, unlike film and video, is multi-dimensional, involving all of the senses—including the ability to sense the collective mind of the audience. The actor, charged with the energy of an audience, can use it to access various archetypes and by-pass ordinary obstacles to personal growth. The audience, linked to the actor, participates vicariously and thus benefits by this process of transformation.

Successful self-transformation depends upon the state of refinement of the individual nervous system. Gradual harmonizing of the body, mind, and voice improves neurological alignment, making it possible to accept and transform greater and greater dosages of audience energy. The results of this can be: greater freedom of expression, improved clarity and perspective on life, warmer human relationships, and a return to a childlike sense of wonder.

Through specific voice and movement methods developed by the leaders, this workshop will focus on the process of harmonizing body, mind, and voice, and generating and transforming creative energy into various forms of theater. Voluntarily entering the imagination in order to grow is an act of extraordinary trust. Transformational theater is based on such trust. In order to orchestrate self-transformation, the actor must trust his/her fellow actors, the powers of the imagination, and ultimately the magical entity called a live audience.

The leaders will use the body and voice as tools for self-knowledge. Together they will apply their teaching skills, exercises, and games to guide others to discoveries that can be shaped into song, dialogue, mime, dance, storytelling, or any combination that best channels the creative spark.

Transformational Theater can be nourishing, fun, and uplifting. It is physically demanding and requires some prior training such as yoga, t'ai chi, mime, dance, karate, or other movement work. Participants should wear loose clothing. $575

Weekend of September 30–October 2

Cognitive Therapy of Depression

Christine Padesky & Kathleen Mooney

As rich and important as feelings are, sometimes people become so distressed they need help learning to control their emotions. Research shows that in a state of clinical depression, a person's thinking becomes negatively distorted so that, instead of enhancing understanding of oneself, depressed feelings can actually lead to a destructive self-view.

Over the past twenty years, Aaron Beck, a physician at the University of Pennsylvania, has developed cognitive therapy, which represents a significant breakthrough in helping people who are depressed. This approach, by focusing on a here and now collaborative relationship between client and therapist, teaches the depressed person to identify thinking and behavior patterns which perpetuate depression. Personal experiments and guided self-discovery methods can be used by the client to change distorted negative thinking to more balanced thinking and, as a result, a depressed mood can be lifted.

Through lectures, demonstrations, and guided group exercises, participants will be taught the basic concepts and practice of cognitive methods for depression. Humor and creative metaphors will be included. This workshop is especially intended for health professionals. $295

Guide to Recovery for Adult Children of Alcoholics and Other Adult Children of Trauma

Herbert Gravitz & Julie Bowden

The last decade has heralded a social movement identifying and recognizing the plight of over thirty million Americans raised in alcoholic homes. When it is realized that there are millions raised in family environments with other types of dysfunction (e.g., chronic mental or physical illness, holocaust survivors, compulsive workers, overeaters, or gamblers), it is possible to begin to see the source of the pain so evident in this society.

Some believe the stress or sadism in an alcoholic family is second only to the horrors of concentration camps or prisoner of war camps. Comparing growing up in an alcoholic family to growing up in a war zone, many believe the emotional atmosphere results in symptoms of post-traumatic stress disorder, including flashbacks, psychic numbing, survivor guilt, alienation, and chronic shock. Acknowledging the effects of alcoholism increases understanding of the healing process.

The workshop leaders have identified six stages that describe the transformational journey to recovery taken by children of alcoholics and other trauma. Step by step, in an atmosphere of safety and integrity, they will combine the dimensions of altered state work and spirituality. Participants will be invited to move through and beyond the trauma of yesterday—melting frozen tears, integrating eternal yesterdays, befriending the child within, and connecting to the higher purpose. $295

The Re-emergence of the Goddess: A New Consciousness for Women and Men

Elinor Gadon

A new consciousness is growing among women and men, an awareness of the deep connectedness and relationship of all life – a healing of the split between culture and nature, mind and body, male and female, life and death. The Goddess has emerged as metaphor and symbol for the transformation of contemporary culture into a truly humanistic one. A feminine consciousness valuing insight, intuition, feeling, and emotion is replacing the dominant masculine one of hierarchy, competitiveness, and aggression.

The roots of modern Goddess consciousness are in the feminist movement, where she has served well both as role model for women's empowerment and as catalyst for re-imaging the divine in patriarchal Judaism and Christianity. She has been a muse to artists and poets. Women's bodies and human sexuality are being re-sacralized in the spirit of the Great Goddess, and with this awareness comes the understanding of eros, the erotic, as the life force, the source of creativity and joy and human connection.

Gaia, the Earth Goddess, has given her name to the new hypothesis which sees our planet, Earth, as a living, self-generating organism. Goddess politics are Green, the grassroots movement which stands for earth wisdom, deep ecology, economic decentralization, and non-violence. Goddess healing is holistic, acknowledging the power of the esoteric. The new spirituality is one of immanence – the Goddess within both women and men.

This workshop will explore the role and meaning of the Goddess in past cultures and living tradition, using the visual arts to identify symbols and images which have shaped personal world view. Through dialogue and ritual, participants will connect the emerging new values to their life experience, initiating personal transformation. $295

Week of October 2–7

Spiritual Healing: Laying On of Hands

Maria Lucia Holloman

This workshop will present practical methods of using the hands as instruments for physical and spiritual healing. The emphasis will be on intentionality and personal clarity as the fundamental tools in any healing art. Maria Lucia Holloman has studied with healers from Brazil, her native country, where laying on of hands is used effectively. She has also studied the art of cranial manipulation, which she combines with her healing work on a regular basis as a practitioner at Esalen.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 39. $575

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devanani)

Beliefs, fears, and emotions from the past can continue into present relationships and interfere with spontaneous feelings of trust, love, and joy. The goal of this workshop is to experience and let go of these defenses and to help create new ways to relate – in the moment – to ourselves, to our work, and to those we love.

The workshop includes periods of intense body work for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which are reflected in the body as armor and tension. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released, and positive feelings can be experienced more fully. By also using dream work, massage, dance, and group process, a new capacity for loving can emerge. $575

The Radical Inner Journey: Poetry and the Essential Work of the Soul

David Whyte

In these times, when the external, material world is deemed to be the prime reality, poetry takes on an especially valuable function in maintaining the inner world of the soul. Great poetry deals not in cold abstractions or idealization, but in the authentic connections that give one's life meaning, purpose, and direction. Many individuals have felt at critical junctures in their lives that if only they had direct access to what was most precious and creative in themselves, then they would know the next practical steps to take.

This five-day intensive will work with the radical inner journey to the center of that creativity and power. Through the great poets and their poetry, through silence, contemplation, time in the magnificent surroundings of Big Sur, and the willingness to look at their lives afresh, participants will attempt to access that center and the wisdom that springs from it. Writing ability or previous appreciation of poetry is helpful, but not in the least bit necessary. $575

Weekend of October 7–9

Introduction to Gestalt

Esalen Gestalt Staff

Coordinated by Christine Stewart Price

For workshop description see September 16-18. $295

Introduction to Vipassana Meditation

Jamie Baraz

Vipassana (insight) meditation practice is a systematic examination of the mind/body process through calm and focused awareness. Learning to observe experience from a place of stillness enables one to relate to life without fear or clinging. One begins to accept pleasure and pain, fear and joy, with increasing equanimity and balance. Life is seen as a constantly changing process. Insight is the deepening experience of the process itself, free of interpretation, leading to wisdom and compassion.

This seminar is designed for those who have had no previous meditation experience as well as for those who wish to deepen their practice. Meditation instruction, the philosophy behind the practice, group discussions, and actual practice periods will be offered. Special emphasis will be placed on how to integrate Vipassana practice in daily life after the workshop is over.

Recommended reading: Joseph Goldstein, The Experience of Insight (Shambhala). $295

Windows to Our Children

Violet Oaklander

This workshop will present an approach to working with children and adolescents that uses creative, expressive, and projective methods, with gestalt theory and practice as the underlying framework. The purpose of this work is to provide the child with a means for expressing his or her innermost feelings, to foster self-awareness and self-discovery, to enhance self-esteem and, in general, to promote emotional growth. These methods teach children of all ages not only about themselves, but about their relationship to others and the world around them. A variety of materials and media are used: graphic arts, fantasy, storytelling, puppetry, the sand tray, dreams, poetry, relaxation and meditation, body movement, music, creative dramatics.

This workshop will include discussion, demonstration, examples of children's work and, particularly, direct experience with some of the methods and materials in order for participants to realize their exceptional power. It is designed for anyone living and working with children: parents, teachers, counselors, psychologists.

Recommended reading: Violet Oaklander, Windows to Our Children (Real People Press). $295

Focusing

John & Kris Amodeo

A basic intelligence exists within each of us – a body sense that knows the direction in which one's life needs to move. By contacting this "bodily felt sense," it is possible to discover what is not yet clear about an unresolved life situation or problem. Based on Eugene Gendlin's research of this innate sense, key factors in human change have been distilled and refined into a system of simple, experiential steps called focusing.

Focusing is a process which facilitates intimacy in primary relationships and friendships. Through learning to replace habitual self-criticisms with gentleness and caring toward the full range of one's feelings, one can glimpse the hidden wisdom contained within the subtle textures of these feelings. This can facilitate more meaningful communication.

During this weekend, the workshop leaders will present the focusing steps and supervise participants as they work in pairs and small groups. This workshop is for those who want to use focusing in their lives, as well as for health professionals who want to incorporate it into their work.

Recommended reading: John and Kris Amodeo, Being Intimate (Methuen Inc.); Peter Campbell and Ed McMahon, BioSpirituality: Focusing As a Way to Grow (Loyola); Eugene Gendlin, Focusing (Bantam). $295

Week of October 9–14

Group Process

Will Schutz

This will be a practicum in group process, particularly useful for those working with people, including, but not limited to, executives working with staff. Participants will have the opportunity to observe, experience, and discuss group formation and development. Issues of inclusion, control, and openness will be dealt with in action and in theory. Group leadership will be modeled and discussed. Teaching methods include encounter and brief lectures. Truth-telling and simplicity will be emphasized.

Recommended reading: Will Schutz, Elements of Encounter (Irvington), The Truth Option (Ten Speed Press), and Profound Simplicity (Learning Concepts). $575

The Subtle Self in Motion

Judy Blackstone

This workshop is for people who are ready for the subtle, concentrated work required to truly inhabit their bodies. Participants will use mind-breath-body exercises to awaken consciousness of the inner depths of the body, increasing both receptive and expressive abilities. Through guided use of the breath and mind, they will be taught how to attune to the emotional underpinnings of bodily tensions and to release the bound energy of old pain.

The personal themes which emerge from this work will be explored verbally in a supportive group setting and in a free movement class for the expression of deeper, non-verbal experience. There will be daily meditation practice as well as sound and visualization exercises for penetrating to the core of the body-mind, to a level of unified awareness. Through this unbroken contact with the self, participants may discover the joy, health, and spontaneity of their essential nature. This workshop will not be physically taxing; participants should have previous experience with introspective work. $575

Ways to Change: A Jungian Experience

John Nicholas

Meaninglessness inhibits the fullness of life and can, therefore, be equated with illness; meaningfulness makes a great many things endurable, perhaps everything. – C.G. Jung

People discover themselves through relationships – with others and within and beyond themselves – transcending the ordinary boundaries of time and space. The focus of this workshop will be the most central aspect of all transpersonal work: change. The basic concepts of C.G. Jung will be applied to practical problem-solving and conflict resolution of everyday issues and relationships. Participants will have the opportunity to discover, explore, and confront unconscious complexes that inhibit the fullness of life and block creativity. There will be time for individual work with dreams, active imagination, symbolic drawing and painting, storytelling, guided imagery, and journals. The week will be a voyage of discovery.

Recommended reading: C.G. Jung, Man and His Symbols (Doubleday) and Memories, Dreams, Reflections (Random House); June Singer, Boundaries of the Soul (Doubleday); Robert Johnson, Inner Work (Harper & Row); Anthony Storr, ed., The Essential Jung (Princeton University Press). $575

October 9–November 4

Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 36.

$2300 (plus $300 paid to the Institute for Advanced Hypnosis)

Weekend of October 14–16

A Workshop for Couples with David Schiffman

This workshop will focus on reawakening and developing positive, mutual supports that are at the root of satisfying couple relationships. The emphasis will be on creating clear and truthful expressions of loving and personal integrity. Participants will re-examine their beliefs and habits through the use of intuitional sensing, risk-taking structures, guided imagery, and gestalt awareness methods.

$295 per participant

The Discipline of Harmony: Warrior Virtues Without War

Richard Strozzi Heckler

This seminar will examine the notions of aggression, initiation rites, courage, and risk-taking in the context of the warrior ideal. Does the discipline of harmony mean the taming of aggression? To live in peace do we also need to accept and understand violence? Is it possible to distinguish the warrior from war? Can the warrior virtues of courage, commitment, clarity, generosity, service, and skillful action be invoked without the catalyst of hostile fire?

These questions will be the starting point for a five-day workshop conducted in the warrior spirit of "life at stake." Exercises taken from aikido, along with introspection, sharing, and guided meditations, will allow participants to experience the possibilities of embodying warrior virtues without war.

Recommended reading: Richard Strozzi Heckler, The Anatomy of Change (Shambhala) and, editor, Aikido and the New Warrior (North Atlantic Books); J. Glenn Gray, The Warriors (Harper & Row). $295

The Nature of the Creative Process

Susan Griffin

The working premise of this workshop is that creativity is a fundamental aspect of human nature. Everyone is creative. And the stifling or the impairment of the capacity to create is a serious wound, afflicting a great many people. The fear, and hence destruction, of creativity is part of a shared social structure and of most family structures. In our culture it is related to an alienation from the body and emotional life, and more essentially, to change and the unknown.

This workshop will involve both theory and practice. It will include a great deal of direct experience both with healing and the liberation of one's own ability, and with the creative process itself. Although writing will be the basic mode of creative effort, the workshop is designed to address creativity in general, and is appropriate for artists of all kinds (beginning as well as accomplished), thinkers, psychologists working with creativity, and anyone wishing to expand the traditional notion of human capability. $295

Week of October 16–21

Reparenting

Rita Rohen

A person's daily life is very much controlled by messages and rules that were received in the early stages of life, i.e., people carry a burden of biographies. In this workshop, participants will study the developmental stages, needs, probable body problems, life positions, and games of childhood. They will have the opportunity, in individual and group work, to regress to early ages and change old messages. This seminar is designed to explore individual boundaries and to reset them by playful means, opening new realms of consciousness for a deeper and richer life. $575

The Nature of Movement: Aikido and Wilderness

Steven Harper & Wendy Palmer

In this week-long workshop, participants will work indoors with energy awareness and principles derived from aikido, and outdoors on short day-hikes into Big Sur's backcountry to explore the movement that nature inspires. Both aikido and hiking are moving meditations which, when done well, require the individual to be in harmony with the natural world. There will be an opportunity to take what is learned on the aikido mat out into the natural world and bring what is learned from nature onto the aikido mat. Participants can then begin to integrate what they learn from aikido and from nature into their lives.

All evenings and most meals will be at Esalen. Participants need not have previous experience in aikido or hiking. $575

Sacro-Cranial Work

Hugh Milne

This week-long workshop will introduce the theory and practice of cranial work, a profoundly different method of approaching the treatment of illness and the art of healing. It is subtle, careful, and delicate work, which is remarkable for its specificity and effectiveness. The gentlest of approaches, if quite accurate, can be more powerful than the most invasive.

Cranial work can be used to help people with a wide variety of symptoms, from cluster headaches to thoracic outlet syndrome to peripheral ischaemia. While very powerful, this is an inherently safe approach if it is studied from both analytical and intuitive models. To this end, the class will devote an equal portion of time to academic study and to practical, hands-on experience. Emphasis will be especially placed on visual and tactile diagnosis. In China, this way is called "The Art of Listening." Practice of the demonstrated methods will be encouraged from day one so that a high standard of individual experience can be gained as the class unfolds. Both the study and the practice will enable the workshop to take on a far more applied and specific consciousness than would otherwise be possible.

This workshop is for health practitioners who already have an extensive background in body work. A sound, basic knowledge of cranial anatomy is a prerequisite.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 39. $575

Choices and Changes Using Gestalt

Anne Nechama Simkin

Gestalt practice is a noninterpretive, existentially-based system in which awareness of one's feelings in the present moment is the primary focus. Human beings are born with the innate capacity to cope with life. As we grow up, this process at times may be interrupted, curbed and/or suppressed, along with excitement, creativity, self-expression, and self-acceptance. Most gestalt communications deal primarily with the immediate interactions of those present. Explanations, interpretations, and assumptions are discouraged. Concentrating on what is rather than on what could or should be encourages a person to take responsibility for his or her own actions. By becoming aware of what is potentially nourishing and what is toxic, it is possible to learn to make choices and to achieve integration.

This workshop is for persons seeking a new perspective, growth, and change and who want to reown those aspects of their lives that are nourishing. Participants will share experiences, explore new ways of coping with ongoing situations, search for the existential messages of their dreams, and learn to communicate with each other and significant others. The content of the workshop will evolve out of the needs and wishes of the group members.

Recommended reading: Corsini et al., Current Psychotherapies, Chapter 8, 3rd edition, (Peacock); C. Simkin, Mini-Lectures in Gestalt Therapy (available through the Esalen bookstore); Kutash and Wolf, eds., Psychotherapist's Casebook (Jossey-Bass). $575

Weekend of October 21–23

Weekend Massage Intensive

Laurie Lioness Parizek & Dean Marson

For workshop description see September 23-25. $295

Self-Expression through Music for Everyone

David Darling

This workshop will attempt to heal the inner self by directing energy into sound-making, rhythmic grooving, chant-shouting, poem- and sculpture-designing, group productions, breath perception, meditation, smiling, clowning, chamber music inspiration, instrument-inventing, and humor.

Participants are asked to bring instruments that they want to learn to play or that they can play now. Percussion instruments will be provided. The voice will be, of course, the center of the entire process: where it is, how it is, what to do with it. $295

Peak Experiences at Will? Escaping the Robot

Colin Wilson

The British author, Colin Wilson, is perhaps best known for his internationally-acclaimed book, The Outsider, first published in 1956. Since then, he has authored over sixty volumes on many topics including existential philosophy and the occult.

For this workshop, he writes: "Everyday human consciousness is as narrow as the middle two notes of a piano keyboard; yet its range is potentially as wide as the whole keyboard. Philosophers from Socrates to Gurdjieff have been in agreement on one basic point: that the possibility of extending the range of human consciousness depends on knowing ourselves and observing the actual mechanisms of the mind. The word 'mechanism' is extremely important here; most of our lives are controlled by a kind of 'robot' in the subconscious mind, and it chooses to do most of our living for us. Sensations of power, happiness, freedom are actually moments in which we are temporarily free from the robot. This workshop is concerned with the methods through which these moments can be extended and in which we can obtain 'freedom from the robot.'"

Participants are encouraged to read The Essential Colin Wilson (Celestial Arts) prior to the workshop. $295

JOYCE LYKE

What is more fluid,
more yielding
than water?
Yet back it comes again,
wearing down
the rigid strength
Which cannot yield
to its standard.
–Lao Tzu

Week of October 23–28

A Gentle Unfolding

Daniel Bianchetta

This seminar will focus on the integration of body, mind, and spirit through intuition, energy awareness, massage, meditation, movement, gestalt, and play. Using these tools and gentle risk-taking can help in opening to one's own aliveness and ability to be more at home with oneself. Participants will explore practical and portable ways of nourishing and trusting the inherent wisdom of the self. $575

Process-Oriented Psychology Experience and Training: Conflict, Relationships, and Love

Arnold Mindell & Amy Kaplan

The focus of this work will be to transform the banal pain of unsettled and universal relationship issues into rich, interpersonal connections. Both this five-day workshop and the upcoming weekend workshop (see October 28-30) will offer demonstrations and training in conflict resolution and will address unsolved, difficult problems in the practice of psychotherapy. Participants are encouraged to attend both workshops.

Participants in the five-day intensive will use body experience to bring up unconscious signals which enliven and relieve relationship conflicts. Lighthearted conflict resolution methods and theory will be demonstrated. The weekend workshops will focus on training, supervision, and video-oriented case discussion. All work will be adapted to beginning and advanced dream, body, and relationship work.

These workshops will use a process-oriented paradigm which understands body issues and relationships as an ongoing flux and which are never completed in an absolute sense, but are in the midst of transformation.

Recommended reading: Arnold Mindell, Working with the Dreaming Body; River's Way; Dreambody on Relationships; City Shadows (all: Routledge Press), and Dreambody (Sigo Press). $575

Adult Children of Alcoholic or Abusive Parents

Karen Paine-Gernee & Rick Paine

Learning the facts about growing up with alcoholism is a big relief. It is, however, just one of the steps that ACAs need to take. In order to recover from the effects of their childhoods, ACAs need to dedicate themselves to an on-going process of sharing, healing, and learning. The workshop leaders refer to the goal of recovery as "emotional sobriety," which they teach as a fourteen-point program. Participants will have the opportunity to develop some practical and personal methods of implementing long-lasting changes.

This workshop is for beginners or individuals who have already begun an exploration of ACA issues. It offers the opportunity to confront and heal painful childhood emotions, to examine and restructure deeply held beliefs, to learn some basic tools for taking care of oneself, to make strides in letting go of control and developing a sense of trust, and to foster a relationship with one's own spirituality.

Special attention will be paid to learning how to nurture and sustain satisfying and equal intimate relationships. Intimacy between independent adults requires being able to tolerate the ambiguity and sense of "not knowing" that was so terrifying as children in chaotic homes. Emotional sobriety means having a personal sense of balance and physical boundaries from which to find peace and a capacity for genuine sharing and pleasure. $575

Weekend of October 28–30

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see September 16-18. $295

Process-Oriented Psychology Experience and Training: Conflict, Relationships, and Love

Arnold Mindell & Amy Kaplan

For workshop description see October 23-28.

$295

Reversing and Preventing Heart Disease: A Model for Personal Transformation

Dean Ornish & Shirley Elizabeth Brown

This workshop will teach how to reduce cholesterol and blood pressure and how to begin reversing coronary heart disease. For the past ten years, physicians Dean Ornish and Shirley Elizabeth Brown have conducted three research studies demonstrating, for the first time, that a comprehensive lifestyle program (yoga, meditation, imagery, diet, smoking cessation, exercise, and group psychotherapy) can produce extraordinary improvements without medications. This workshop will include lectures that review the research data and explain why lifestyle affects the heart and will provide experiential training in the lifestyle program.

Illness can serve as a catalyst for personal transformation and growth, motivating a person to ask, "Why did I get sick? What are the causes?" What we eat, how we respond to stress, and other aspects of lifestyle are powerful determinants of health and disease. It is also known that feelings of isolation can lead to psychological stress and ultimately to illness, whereas feelings of intimacy can lead to healing.

Because the technology for measuring coronary heart disease is so advanced, heart disease is an excellent model for measuring the power of lifestyle changes to help heal—and prevent—heart disease.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 39. $295

Week of October 30–November 4

A Week with Seymour Carter

For workshop description see September 4-9.

$575

Five-Day Massage Intensive: Polarity Massage

Bill Liles & Esalen Massage Practitioners

The polarity system combines Eastern and Western philosophy and methods for balancing energy that flows through the body. This week will be spent exploring the principles of polarity as taught by Randolph Stone and how these concepts may be applied through massage. This workshop is for body work practitioners and anyone who is interested in expanding their creative capacities. It will include demonstrations, lecture, and hands-on practice. Previous body work experience is helpful, but not necessary. $575

T'ai Chi Ch'uan: An East/West Approach

Kenn Chase

This seminar will present a demonstration form of t'ai chi ch'uan, a shortened version derived from the classical Yang style, which contains 54 balanced, fluid, and graceful postures. Also included will be mind/body alignment methods, Chi Kung Taoist breathing methods, and hours of practice and refinement of the traditional t'ai chi movements. Practiced 5 to 10 minutes daily, this gentle martial art can calm the mind and aid the student in achieving a centered perspective for daily living in a busy world.

Recommended reading: Cheng Man Ch'ing, Cheng Tzu's Thirteen Treatises on T'ai Chi Ch'uan (North Atlantic Books). $575

Childhood Sexual Abuse: A Healing

Jessica Moore Britt & Maria Lucia Holloman

To guard against the hurts, fears, and confusion that sexual invasion of a child's physical and psychic boundaries can create, the child often abandons the place of conflict—the body. This withdrawal, though protective in nature, slowly begins to separate the child from her/his essential nature. This may be reflected in tension patterns, numbness, and oversensitivity and may further the child's sense of alienation from the world and self.

During this week, participants will move gently toward reintegrating their bodies and feelings with self. Participants will use gestalt practice, Reichian breath work, movement, touch, and meditation to re-enter their private world of memories and feelings. They may gain a deeper understanding that the learned idea of self as bad, based on the sexual abuse, is not the essential truth of who they are. The focus will be on allowing the hurt, negative feelings and doubts to be acknowledged, felt, and used as energetic seeds for reawakening a positive sense of self. Through the supportive group atmosphere, participants may discover that it is safe once again to embody beauty, life, and love.

Recommended reading: A.H. Almaas, Diamond Heart (Diamond Books); Alice Miller, Thou Shalt Not Be Aware (New American Library). $575

Weekend of November 4–6

The Delight of Immediacy

Charlotte Selver & Charles Brooks

Much as we may wish to live in the present, we are often preoccupied with images and ideas of how it ought to be. Instead of responding to the situation at hand with the innumerable nerves, muscles, and interweavings of consciousness which are we, much of us is immobilized by early conditioning, acute emotional problems, or by habit, and much is held back until the inner board of review gives the OK.

But children and sages have a different way of functioning. For them the world flows into their consciousness as the air into their lungs, and their responses are organismic and direct, bypassing the evaluation center which is the educated mind of the adult. It is our lack of immediacy which is usually felt as tedium and which necessitates ever stronger stimuli in the search for joy, or self-disciplines in the search for peace. By giving up these preconceptions and gradually coming to follow our sense of reality, we begin to respond not to what should be but to what is, and the world catches fire for us.

This workshop will explore direct experience which, as it becomes clearer and stronger, tends to burn away the mist of concepts and restrictions which our conditioning has interposed between ourselves and living.

Recommended reading: Charles Brooks, Sensory Awareness (Viking; Felix Morrow).

$295

Week of November 6–11

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

For workshop description see September 16-18.

$575

Change and Self-Esteem

Phyllis Shankman

Change is an ever-present aspect of living which must be accepted and used creatively if one is to sustain a healthy, interesting, and exciting life. Many individuals talk about wanting change while actively or passively resisting it. Self-esteem, which includes self-acceptance, self-appreciation, and self-confidence, is the aspect of self which enables one to confront resistance and fear and which increases the willingness to change and take risks.

This workshop includes a unique, in-depth process for finding and allowing self-acceptance and for creatively confronting opportunities for change and growth. Group activities include gestalt process work, discussion, massage, meditation, music, dance, art imagery exercises, and whatever else happens spontaneously. $575

November 6–18

Integrative Body Practice (IBP) Professional Training Program

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 36. $1445

November 6–December 4

Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Deborah Anne Medow & Dean Marson

For workshop description see Special Programs, pages 36-37. $2300

Weekend of November 11–13

Dream Discovery

Joyce Frazee

For workshop description see September 18-23. $295

On Being Good Enough

Bruno Bettelheim & Heather Maycock-Ogilvy

Being a good enough parent, a good enough therapist, a good enough teacher, a good enough spouse is a creative endeavor, an art not a science, an endeavor that must be entered into with an open mind and an open heart. This weekend offers no detailed instructions or rules, but rather an encouragement to develop an enlightening empathy with those with whom we would be – not perfect – but, good enough.

Individual presentations of problem situations with a child, a patient, a person one loves – or hates – will be made to Dr. Bettelheim in the group. Memories of childhood experiences, dreams before and during the weekend, and guided imagery will serve as material for the work of the group as a whole. $295

Week of November 13–18

Experiencing Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

For workshop description see September 25-30. $575

Weekend of November 18–20

Transitions

Elliot Wáker Aronson & Gabriele Thomson

Disorganization is a natural part of transition and facilitates reorganization. People are almost constantly in a state of transition – whether it be getting married, beginning a new career, becoming a parent, letting go of a relationship, or moving on to the next stage in the life cycle. These changes can be exciting and, at the same time, can evoke a loss of internal balance. The result can be loss of self-esteem, confusion about one's identity, and doubts about one's perceptions. New feelings and ideas are fragile during these periods of transition and require special nurturance.

The goal of this workshop is to gain perspective on the process of making transitions. Through guided fantasies, self-exploration, and didactic presentations, participants may develop ways of enhancing their understanding of themselves and increasing their overall effectiveness.

Recommended reading: Elliot Waker Aronson, The Social Animal (Freeman). $295

Alternatives to Psychiatric Treatment: Philosophic Issues

Laurence Telles

Many communities offer alternatives to treatment in psychiatric hospitals – residential treatment, vocational and housing programs, self-help groups, social centers – for those who are in states of persistent or acute psychological distress. Such community-based programs tend to reduce the power difference between the helper and the helped. They rely on the healing capacity of the social context more than on individual psychotherapy or medical treatment.

There are epistemological and ontological views embedded in these alternative programs. They have roots that can be traced to historical views about the nature of the self and society and current issues in the philosophy of science.

This weekend's discussions will be most relevant to those who have participated in either conventional or alternative psychiatric treatment programs as clients, staff, administrators, or planners.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 39. $295

Alternative Realities: States of Consciousness and Healing Practices

Andrew Weil & Wade Davis

Participants of this workshop will explore ways to apply the wisdom of traditional cultures to their own lives in order to develop their human potentials, experience fuller mental and physical health, and live in better relationship to the natural world. The group will focus on ethnobotany, studying plants and the various ways humans relate to them – as food, medicine, and keys to other realms of conscious experience. They will also examine and practice some non-drug methods of entering altered states: meditation, chanting, drumming.

The relevance of altered states to health and healing and how to integrate them into one's life, based on examples from traditional peoples, will be discussed. Throughout the weekend, participants may develop the realization that the mysteries of shamanic healing lie within a realm of sacred madness that can be touched, but never fully understood, by those with a totally distinct worldview.

Wade Davis and Andrew Weil bring to this workshop a unique combination of knowledge, intuition, and willingness to share what they have learned in an atmosphere of critical thinking, open-mindedness, adventure, and hands-on work.

Recommended reading: Andrew Weil, Natural Mind; Health and Healing; Marriage of the Sun and Moon (all: Houghton Mifflin); Wade Davis, The Serpent and the Rainbow (Simon & Schuster). $295

Week of November 20–25

Thanksgiving Week at Esalen

There will be limited space available at Esalen this week for those who would like to spend time enjoying the grounds, the baths, and the community without participating in a group. Guests may stay for just part of the week, although priority will be given to those who sign up for the full five-day period. $350

A Workshop with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

For workshop description see September 25-30. $575

The Psychology of Spiritual Essence

Hameed Ali

Hameed Ali writes: "This is a workshop for individuals who have done a lot of emotional and growth work and are beginning to feel the pangs of hunger for something deeper and more fundamental. This existential discontent is the longing of the heart for what will truly fulfill it, the Essence of who we are. Essence is our true being; it is pure consciousness, concentrated and distilled life.

"I will use the Diamond Approach, a teaching created in our time, for our time. This method is a precise, psychological way of working with longing and discontent, taking it to its original root – the underlying sense of lack and emptiness. This emptiness manifests itself according to the individual and becomes the door to a specific aspect of Essence: awareness, will, love, compassion, strength, joy, etc., – whatever was lacking – and which becomes the door to the more fundamental and ultimate realm of being.

"I will use conceptual presentation, interpersonal exercises, meditation, and personal emotional work. I will lead some of the meetings, and trained students will conduct other sessions. Private sessions will be available for an additional fee.

"In such a short time we can only get a taste of who we are, but a taste of the eternal, using understandable and available methodology, can go a long way in terms of activating this sleeping potential of ours."

Recommended reading: Hameed Ali Almaas, The Elixir of Enlightenment; Essence; The Void; The Diamond Heart; and The Pearl Beyond Price. $575

Weekend of November 25–27

Thanksgiving Weekend at Esalen

For those who wish to stay, this weekend is a continuation of the preceding week (see November 20-25) or is suitable for those who just have time to visit Esalen for a few days. Massage and other work offered by individual practitioners will be available. $160

Wide-Spectrum Process Work

Arnold Mindell & Amy Kaplan

This seminar integrates the various forms of process-oriented psychology, including working with the dying, psychotic states, movement states, dream and deep body experiences, relationships, and large group situations.

Doing any form of creative psychotherapy, dream, or body work requires the flexibility to follow the changing channels and processes of each client or group situation while remaining genuine and aware of oneself at the same time. Participants of this workshop will work with and discuss the various processes which arise during the week, supplemented by training exercises.

This seminar is for both beginning and advanced students. No specific background or preparation is necessary, although reading the books listed below could be helpful.

Recommended reading: Arnold Mindell, Working with the Dreaming Body; River's Way; Dreambody on Relationships; City Shadows (all: Routledge Press), and Dreambody (Sigo Press). $295

Week of November 27–December 2

Five Days with Janet Zuckerman

This workshop continues Esalen's tradition of interpersonal and intrapersonal work on emotional process. It is based on these premises: that unfinished business is projected into current relationships, interfering with one's ability to be in the present, and that by emotional release one may cleanse the doors of perception. $575

A Workshop with Robert Hall

There is no difference between the bio-energetic streaming of daily body life and the divine spirit current or life force. We experience both as an on-going felt body sense. The human ego operates under the false assumption that it is somehow separate from that sense. So we spend our lives in constant negotiation and seeking: the so-called human condition. From this position, alienation is inevitable.

This workshop is designed to explore the possibility that we are that felt body sense, that spirit current, and we are constantly, by nature, in relationship to everyone and everything that exists. Hopefully, we'll laugh a lot, too. There will be time for gestalt, individual body work, meditation, and getting to know each other well in a short time. $575

Tao and the Timewave

Terence McKenna

Terence McKenna writes: "This is the five-day workshop that I have long wished to present: an intensive and in-depth effort to share the details of a revisioning of the I Ching and the world that has been developed over the past seventeen years. This will be an approach to the I Ching and the playful effervescent clarity of the Tao. Taoist approaches to time will provide the general theme. My own model of time, Timewave Zero, will be explained, and a computer will be available to group members interested in learning to use the software. Those with a deep interest in the dynamics of the I Ching are especially invited – and a lively and clarifying metaplay is anticipated."

Recommended reading: Terence McKenna, The Invisible Landscape (Continuum); Richard Wilhelm, The I Ching (Princeton University Press); J.T. Fraser, The Genesis and Evolution of Time (University of Massachusetts Press). $575

Weekend of December 2–4

A Weekend with David Schiffman

For workshop description see September 23-25. $295

Intimacy: How Close is Close Enough?

Sam Keen

Intimacy seems to be a missing ingredient, a mysterious condition for which many people long. Most individuals are certain, without having achieved it, that it is the elixir of happiness. Couples fight about it. Pop psychologists assure their audiences it is only ten easy steps away. Illusive as it is, many individuals honor it. Yet, they hardly ever pause long enough in their quests to ask themselves exactly what it is they want.

This seminar will explore different ideas and experiences of intimacy and distance. Some of the questions posed to the participants may include:

* How close do you want to be? To whom? How often? Why?
* What exactly do you want from an intimate of the opposite sex?
* What keeps you from achieving a satisfying degree of intimacy?
* Do you and your partner have different IQs (Intimacy Quotients)?
* How much distance do you need in order to feel close, safe with another person?
* What is the relation between intimacy and solitude?
* How do you distinguish between intimacy and symbiosis, closeness and engulfment?
* How do you preserve your boundaries, your independence, your separateness?
* When is intimacy destructive? $295

Achieving Sustained High Performance

Jerry & Kathleen Fletcher

Everyone has had the experience of suddenly doing something much better than expected, yet, until recently, little has been understood about these high performance experiences. People assumed such times were lucky accidents. More significantly, even if they could perform at high levels for short times, they assumed there was no way to sustain such performance without stress, fatigue, and eventual burnout.

Eight years of research and testing make it clear that these times of exceptional performance are not capricious. Each individual has a unique set of conditions under which he or she performs surprisingly well. Once people learn their personal high performance patterns, they can deliberately create the conditions they need to sustain their high performance behavior. They do not need to subject themselves to the strain of short peak periods of high output followed by long recovery cycles.

This seminar presents a process for individuals to determine their high performance patterns and conditions. Developed through years of work with successful managers, executives, and professionals, it offers how to go from competent to exceptional performance in a way that can be sustained. $295

December 4–11

Esalen will be closed to the public this week.

Week of December 11–16

Sacred Mask Experience

Elisa Ludge

For workshop description see September 4-9. $575

Five Days with Claudio Naranjo

Claudio Naranjo offers a holistic collage of relaxation, bone-sensing, emotional awareness, and musical contemplation combined with tales, self-insight, communication exercises, catharsis, and limited open seat opportunity. $575

Living Hypnotically

Norman Katz & Marc Lehrer

The focus of this five-day seminar on altered states and hypnosis is for participants to enjoy greater perceptual awareness, enhance their personal creativity, and develop an ongoing relationship with the unconscious mind. By understanding the basic principles of hypnosis, participants may learn to use it as an aid to change their lives in powerful and unique ways. They will be offered an opportunity to recall altered states and produce them through hypnosis. The program will include skills for self-hypnosis, the use of music and trance, hypnotic play, and the use of hypnosis to improve sports and physical movement. $575

Reflections of Self: A Reichian/Gestalt Workshop

Jessica Moore Britt

This will be an introduction to intensive intrapsychic inquiry using Reichian breath work and gestalt practice. Reichian breath work utilizes breath and sound to energize and deepen the process of self-awareness by softening the body's patterns of physical tension and emotional holding. Gestalt practice is an awareness approach focusing on physical sensation, image, thought, and emotion. By emphasizing a person's experience in the present moment, gestalt moves toward developing a more conscious sense of self. In a supportive group atmosphere, participants will have the opportunity to explore thoughts and feelings formed by past experiences. With this exploration, the possibility is opened to respond in the present. $575

Soul-Making: A Jungian and a Somatics Approach

Joan Buresch & Don Johnson

Our dilemma in being human inheres in this: With our roots in a primal liquid and fleshy layer of impulse that finds inadequate expression in daily life, our spirits range beyond everyday time and space, and our personalities are sometimes pulled limb from limb. We make our soul while we struggle to synthesize opposites long held by the categories of masculine and feminine, spirit and flesh, thought and feeling, the personal and the social, body therapies and transpersonal psychologies.

That dilemma will be the focus of this workshop, during which participants will explore the confluence of the world of images (psyche's natural voice) and the world of peristalsis, breath, orgasm, muscular movements, and physical pain. The group will be concerned with the primal, with one's relation to violence, abuses, outrage. From there participants will go where they are led – into movement, sensory awareness, drawing, sculpting, speech, touch.

Recommended reading: Don Johnson, Body (Beacon Press). $575

Weekend of December 16–18

Experiencing Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

For workshop description see September 25-30. $295

Spiritual Crisis and Gestalt Awakening: Personal Exploration

Stephen Schoen

Stephen Schoen writes: "The major symptoms of psychic pain – anxiety, depression, confusion, doubt – have a spiritual dimension. They speak of a smaller mold, a gestalt that we feel trapped by and must break out of (with a sense of peril akin to death), but still as the one way of life. The wisdom of Blake, Rilke, Lao Tzu, and Krishnamurti addresses that sequence, the coming into a larger gestalt. We shall explore these constraints and this wisdom in our own lives, referencing texts of the writers to our own experience of enhanced self-contact and contact with others. There will be group and individual work."

Recommended reading: Rainer Maria Rilke, Letters to a Young Poet (Norton); Martin Buber, Kaufman and Smith trs., I and Thou (Scribner); J. Krishnamurti, Freedom from the Known (Harper & Row). $295

Body Rejuvenation: A Weekend with Dub Leigh

The goal of this seminar is to start to rejuvenate the body, mind, and spirit. A fast way to do this is to work the body. Transform the old, hard, short, nonresilient tissue into soft, lengthy, bouncy tissue free from trauma, stress, and pain. You will then have changed the despondent, hopeless, negative, grouchy person into an enthusiastic, positive, upbeat one.

The recipe for how to begin to rejuvenate a body in one session will be demonstrated to the group, and then experienced and performed by each participant.

This seminar is recommended for everyone. The older you are, the more stuff you have to work with. Class size is limited (two students per table). Bring a swimsuit – two-piece for women.

Recommended reading: William Leigh, A Zen Approach to Bodytherapy, From Rolf to Feldenkrais to Tamaoe Roshi (University of Hawaii Press). $295

Hwa Rang Kwan

Master D.K. Shin

This weekend will introduce participants to the philosophy and practice of an ancient Korean martial art, Hwa Rang Kwan. This traditional form emphasizes discipline and concentration and is based upon the precept that the mind and body are one. On-going practice develops relaxation, awareness, power, balance, control, strength, and stamina. Through gradual progressions, Hwa Rang Kwan employs almost every conceivable movement of the body. As one develops mastery, the movements and versatility of the art begin to emerge as a joyful self-expression akin to dancing.

Hwa Rang Kwan shares the foundations of Chinese acupuncture and can be used for healing or self-defense. By knowing the 360 vital points of the body's meridian system, the practitioner can exercise control over his own health and the actions of others. Each of these vital points is connected to an organ which influences the entire body. One learns to either strike or gently press the vital points, depending upon his intent: self-defense or natural healing.

The practice of Hwa Rang Kwan develops the courage to face life and its problems openly and honestly, a cardinal principle of mental health from every perspective. Resulting self-confidence allows one to live in dignity while maintaining absolute humility. $295

Week of December 18–23

The Body and Zen

Deb Leigh

The goal of this seminar is twofold: 1) to use body work methods and principles for releasing tension, trauma, and toxins from connective tissue; and 2) to circulate the vital energy in an aligned body. The group will draw from Rolfing* (structure), Feldenkrais* (function), and Zen (energy), to obtain these goals.

This is a hands-on workshop. Participants will give and receive body work and will learn methods to recognize, work with, and relieve some types of chronic muscle pain. The class will be limited in size (two people per table). Participants are asked to bring a swimsuit – two-piece for women.

Recommended reading: William Leigh, A Zen Approach to Bodytherapy, From Rolf to Feldenkrais to Tanouye Roshi (University of Hawaii Press).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 39. $575

*The Feldenkrais Guild

Christmas Present

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

We've idealized birth in the Christmas story – the newborn child surrounded by adoring parents, singing angels, comforting animals; worshipped by the wise and the simple; welcomed into the world and loved for nothing that he does, but for simply being who he is. Many of us were not welcomed in that way, and at Christmastime our disillusionment peaks. Our despondency and regrets are based on unfulfilled ideals, promises, and fairy tales.

Using gestalt, guided fantasy, theater games, and rituals, we will seek to release ourselves from the excess baggage of past regrets and future expectations in order to return to the divine simplicity of our own present being. Out of that simplicity, we will create our own "Christmas present," a celebration in which each of us singly and all of us together can give ourselves our Self for Christmas.

Participants are encouraged to stay for the weekend workshop, Christmas Present II. (For workshop description see December 23-25.) $575

The Courage of Self-Expression

Elliot Sobel & Warren Selinger

I must grasp life at its depth. –Vincent van Gogh

Many of us have unwittingly succumbed to a cultural conspiracy which subtly asks us to hide the vast mystery of our essential being; instead, we tend to be careful, polite, anonymous, and generally fearful, and we often take workshops in order to "get better."

This workshop is an experiment in creating a community which has as its underlying assumption a different premise: that each participant, in truth, is already healed and therefore has a very vital and necessary contribution to make to the whole, one which requires daring and risk. The arts – singing, dancing, writing, painting, video – will be used as vehicle and metaphor, and participants will be asked to confront themselves with the question, "Am I willing to be all that I am and to be fully and passionately alive?"

The leaders request that participants be prepared to spend long hours, participating fully, committed to doing the work required to produce a result that will truly make a difference.

Recommended reading: Frederick Franck, Art as a Way (Crossroad). $575

Playing the Edge

David Schiffman

In the early stages of growth, success seems to be its own reward. The excitement, the energy, the willingness to stand to it comes bubbling up in the mood of those who are involved in new and successful ventures. To keep this spirit alive is not easy. The enormous pressure, the grinding routines and demands of substantial involvement can dispirit even the healthiest people. To listen to one's heart and know what's real requires the courage to pause. In this willingness to stop and listen to the deeper self live the true resources that guide and protect us.

The purpose of this week is to create a mood of sanctuary for: people who are in transition and facing major changes in career, relationship, or matters of the spirit; those in need of a break from demanding, stressful responsibilities; individuals interested in breaking new ground in the areas of self-nurturance, intuitive functioning, and problem-solving.

The processes will be gently restorative, illuminating, and enlivening. The group intention will be to create a community based in trust and goodwill with maximum emphasis on individual freedom. Traditional methods of self-inquiry (gestalt practice, bioenergetics, psychosynthesis) will be combined with innovative methods using music, meditation, poetry, and prayer to foster this spirit of living fully and comfortably. $575

Weekend of December 23–25

Christmas Present II

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

This is a continuation of the Christmas Present workshop (see December 18-23). Since Christmas falls on Sunday, people from the week are encouraged to stay for the weekend, and those who would like to join the Christmas celebration for the weekend are encouraged to come. We will have a huge weekend party – a party of our own creation – celebrating ourselves as human beings in the ever-unfolding path of our lives.

And if perchance there should be a moment of Christmas blues, we will work with that, and play with that, and give ourselves a chance to express everything that needs expression at this time of year. $295

The Rubenfeld Synergy* Method

Ilana Rubenfeld

This is a workshop for professionals and others to explore and analyze how they use themselves, both professionally and in their personal relationships. It will provide an exciting introduction to the Rubenfeld Synergy Method, a healing system that combines touch, gentle body movement, visualization, humor, music, gestalt, and verbal and nonverbal intervention to increase effectiveness in the process of self-healing.

Ilana Rubenfeld will help participants develop efficient use of the bodymind and unblock energy by releasing emotions and memories stored in the body. She will show how to shield and ground the self in the face of difficult situations with clients and others.

Sessions will include experiential and theoretical components and one-to-one demonstrations. Participants will have an opportunity to process their experience. Participation in this workshop will fulfill one of the requirements for acceptance into the Rubenfeld Synergy training program. $295

Mobilizing Life Force

Alan Schwartz

Alan Schwartz writes: "Quite simply, life force is the combined movement of human physiology, feeling, spirit, and the action of the brain and central nervous system which we call thought. The cleaner the movement, the more strength a person has available. All of us, due to heredity, environment, and simple bad luck, spend much too much time holding or stratifying the life force. This keeps us from authenticity and impedes the decision-making process.

"This weekend will be an experiment – reaching down through stratified elements of personality to attempt to free the life force and enhance awareness and the decision-making process. The group will act as reality mirror, and each participant may request an energetic diagnosis as to how his/her life force presents itself."

For further information, read the leader's December 25-30 workshop description.

Recommended reading: Alan Schwartz, Life Force – Death Force: The Structure of Human Energy and the Biology of Greed (Vantage). $295

Forgiveness and Letting Go of Judgment

Elizabeth Stratton

Elizabeth Stratton writes: "The training of the Western mind, both spiritually and intellectually, is oriented toward judgment. We are taught to induce, deduce, analyze, dissect, defend, debate. We are taught to feel guilty, to get sick, to engage in self-punishment and the punishment of others. We are encouraged to rebuke ourselves into perfection.

"We do not know the healing quality of true remorse or how to let go of that which we should never have held onto in the first place, which is the real meaning of forgiveness. In studies of people who have died and come back to talk about it, the most unifying element of their experiences was the meeting with a Being of white light who stood by with unconditional love, no judgment, and humor as they watched their lives roll before them like movies. The only judge was the person watching his/her own life.

"This workshop will be experiential. You are invited to observe the judgmental prison of your own mind, to feel the cleansing power of remorse, and to allow your heart to open to the freedom and healing that comes from forgiving yourself and others." $295

JAN WATSON

True budo is for the sake of peace and harmony; train daily to manifest this spirit throughout the world.
– Morihei Ueshiba, founder of aikido

Week of December 25–30

Awakening Inner Power

Deborah Anne Medow & Mary Tesoro

Operating from the assumption that one's innate energies lie largely untapped, this group will explore alternative means of gathering inner power. Leonard Energy Training, a comprehensive system offering tools to meet the problems, pressures, and pain of everyday life situations, will be combined with gestalt to provide a foundation for personal growth and change. Yoga and massage will be interwoven with elements of the martial art of aikido to increase the flow of vital energy through the body, mind, and spirit. $575

The Art of Self-Care: Who Heals the Healer? Who Helps the Helper?

Ilana Rubenfeld

This workshop is for health professionals and others who would like to use their body/mind more effectively. Ilana Rubenfeld will draw on her 25 years of background with the Alexander and Feldenkrais® methods and gestalt to help participants explore and analyze how they use themselves in their practice.

This approach can help participants unblock their own energy and shield and ground themselves in the face of difficult situations with clients, learning to be with rather than for their client. Through nourishment and humor, participants will learn about self-care, a critical need for health professionals. Participation in this workshop fulfills one of the requirements for acceptance into the Rubenfeld Synergy® training program.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 39. $575

Touching Spirit: Dimensions of Psychic Healing

Elizabeth Stratton

Psychic healing bridges the physical and the spiritual. Touching as a healing act has been practiced through recorded history by practitioners of the sacred as well as the secular: healers, shamans, priests, doctors, and mothers. In the past ten years, physics and modern medicine have come to an acknowledgement of the radically relational nature of our universe. Nothing and no one functions in a void.

Human emotions affect the functioning of the body, and illness is often an outgrowth of this mind-body link. Semi-dissociative states that are induced by prayer, meditation, and trance have been found to provide a fertile ground for healing to take place. It has been discovered that "multiple personalities" exhibit different states of health in each personality. The placebo effect has become one of the most respected and well-studied issues in healing today.

A psychic healer is one who can help connect the physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual levels of another person's being with healing intention through the use of touch. This workshop will explore, both didactically and experientially, the sacred and secular uses of touch, modern theories of disease formation and healing mechanisms, the use of psychic sight in healing, forgiveness as transformational cleansing, and the channeling of healing energy through the laying on of hands. $575

Effecting Change: The Human Energy System and Risk

Alan Schwartz

Alan Schwartz writes: "This is a week for recognizing and stabilizing how we face change given today's social, economic, and environmental realities. This is a week for designing a growth pattern to provide more stable contact with the issues facing all of us the rest of the century.

"The human energy system represents a constantly changing personality dimension. Often neglected in the human energy system's movement toward maturity is the development of strength. We hear metaphors not only of physical strength, but strength of character and emotions, and the spiritual and psychic strengths of perception. Lack of such strength development leads us to compensate in order to be able to function in our chosen worlds. Some compensations become psychosomatic problems: blame, denial, and indiscriminate sexual functioning. Power over self, people, and things is often a compensation for the strength that would allow us the experience of self, people, and things.

"Risk involves awareness of our individual compensations and sufficient trust of self and group process to experiment. This means rendering more alive the strength of our physiology, feelings, conceptual process, and psychic perceptiveness. The result can be clarity, stability, and a deeper awareness of self."

For further information, read the leader's December 23-25 workshop description.

Recommended reading: Alan Schwartz, Life Force – Death Force: The Structure of Human Energy and the Biology of Greed (Vantage).

$575

Weekend of December 30–January 1

New Year's Renewal at Esalen

This will be a weekend for people to renew themselves in the tranquil and beautiful setting of Esalen. It will not be a structured program, although several ongoing classes in the various practices offered here will be available for guests to choose from. These may include: sessions in gestalt, movement, meditation, massage, day hikes, singing gestalt, aerobics, stretching, and yoga. The swimming pool and natural hot baths will be available as usual.

The food will be specially prepared, with an emphasis on a clean, healthy diet of fresh vegetables and grains. Much of the produce is picked daily from Esalen's own organic garden and farm.

Come and enjoy a weekend of inner reflection, physical movement, and personal renewal as the new year begins. $275

Week of January 1–6

Painting Experience with Michell Cassou and Stewart Cubley

For workshop description see September 4-9.

$575 (plus $25 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Acting is Doing

Stephen Book

The art of acting is, like life, the art of doing. Through "doing" we remove the restrictions, both inner and outer, which suppress the spontaneity of any human being. Upon release, this spontaneity shows itself as artistic creativeness.

This experiential workshop will reveal the various forms of "doing" available to the actor. Participants will learn the basics of improvisational acting, heighten and focus energy, increase communication skills, extend powers of observation and concentration, and discover new realities. This workshop is designed for the layperson. $575

A Look Within

Jessica Moore Britt

This will be a week for participants to attend to and explore themselves away from their usual busy lives. As they settle into the grandeur of Big Sur and the quiet within, they can begin to penetrate through their conditioned views of themselves and the world.

The point of inquiry will be the relationship of the mind, body, and emotions and the essential nature of the self. Participants will focus on understanding who and what they are, especially as beings of compassion, strength, will, power, joy, and presence. They will explore how their past conditioning and present beliefs block their awareness of these qualities in themselves. The tools for self-discovery will be an interplay of Eastern and Western practices, including Sufi self-remembering exercises, meditation, touch, movement, and Reichian/gestalt work. This time, dedicated to being present and looking within, holds the possibility for participants to open their perceptions so they might obtain a deeper appreciation for who they are. $575

Food for Health: Breaking Bread Together

Jane Miletich

This workshop offers a variety of approaches to healthy eating and food preparation. Participants will have their own kitchen for preparing grains, legumes, soups, nuts, seeds, sprouts, vegetables, fruits, raw salads, and fresh juices. Through classes, demonstrations, and helping in the kitchen, participants may practice Ayurvedic principles to understand why certain foods and diets may be better than others. All foods will be organic; participants are invited to harvest fresh herbs and produce from the Esalen garden and farm.

Mornings will begin with meditation, yoga, and t'ai chi. Massage classes, herbal baths, nature hikes, dance, and music will also be available. Through ritual, reverence, communion, and fun, participants can create the time for developing their own health practices and reaffirming their New Year's resolutions. It will be a week for retuning the body and spirit to their natural harmony. All activities are optional – participants choose their own pace. Bring your favorite recipes, hiking boots, instruments, and ideas.

Recommended reading: Vasant Lad, Ayurveda, the Science of Self-Healing (Lotus Light). $575

The Long Body

William George Roll

To the Iroquois Indians, the lived body is the "long body" and the long body is the tribal body. The long body incorporates people and things individuals are emotionally close to, though they may be distant in time and space and though they may no longer exist in the usual way. The long body is the experienced realm of personal and transpersonal memory and contains the ingredients for psychic awareness, prophecy, and pre-cognition. Since the long body is a remembered body, memory defines both its reach and its limitations. By extending the range of memory, one can extend the reach of the long body into the past and future and across distance. When we remember, we connect with members of our long body and incorporate them into the present.

In this workshop, group members will explore the long body as metaphor for psychical interactions, healing, and growth, and the memory as an access to long body awareness. Practice sessions will be grounded in research findings in biology, psychology, and the transpersonal dimensions of parapsychological (psi) processes. Through sound and movement, psi sensing of persons and objects, psychic readings, and psychic healing, participants will have the opportunity to experience themselves and each other as members of a living, sensuous being that includes the physical universe and extends beyond birth and death. From there, a fresh, joyful, and healing consciousness of the world can unfold.

This tradition pays respect to the tribal visions of the planet. It is not contrary to Western ideology, but it can expand the Western perspective beyond the moribund technology that threatens the world. $575

Weekend of January 6–8

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see October 2-7. $295

A Weekend with Paul Horn and Chungliang Al Huang

Paul Horn and Chungliang Al Huang will celebrate and share with us their joyous collaboration in nature, music, dance, tai ji, jazz, improvisation, meditation, and world travel experiences.

Recommended reading: Chungliang Al Huang, Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (E.P. Dutton; Tao Wetter-Sphinx Verlag, Basel) and Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Celestial Arts); Alan Watts with Chungliang Al Huang, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon).

Recommended listening: Paul Horn, Inside, Heart to Heart, The Magic of Findhorn, Jupiter 8, China, Travellers; Windham Hill, Collections. $325

Vipassana Weekend

Sylvia Boorstein

Vipassana meditation develops direct and profound awareness of the impermanent nature of all experience. It is understood that suffering results from the struggle to resist change, to hold on to pleasant experience while resisting unpleasant experience. Vipassana practice cultivates the personal equanimity which allows for balance in the midst of change while promoting the calmness and energy that lead to personal contentment and compassionate social response.

The format for this contemplative weekend will be periods of sitting and walking meditation using methods to calm the mind and body while developing a more focused attention. There will be guided movement sessions each day. A theoretical explanation of the practice will be offered along with ongoing instruction. Participants will be encouraged to maintain a spirit of silence throughout the weekend, with the final hours reserved for dialogue integrating the practice into daily life.

Recommended reading: Joseph Goldstein and Jack Kornfield, Seeking the Heart of Wisdom (Shambhala). $295

Week of January 8–13

A Week with Paul Horn & Chungliang Al Huang

For workshop description see January 6-8. $605

Recovery for Adult Children of Alcoholics and Other Trauma

Julie Bowden

The children of alcoholics movement is officially only five years old (the National Association for Children of Alcoholics was founded in February 1983), yet already treatment providers are being called to address depth issues and late stage recovery. Survivors of childhood traumas other than alcoholism have also begun to appreciate the healing power of the adult child message and are entering the movement seeking recognition.

During this week, specific focus will be given to the child within, to personal acceptance of self and the recovery process, and to the spiritual dimension of recovery. Recovery requires courage and commitment and is possible only for those willing to undertake the "hero's journey."

This workshop is for children of alcoholics, children of trauma, and also for the professionals who work with them and need time for their own renewal.

Recommended reading: Gravitz and Bowden, Recovery: A Guide for Adult Children of Alcoholics (Simon & Schuster); Bowden and Gravitz, Genesis: Spirituality in Recovery from Childhood Traumas (Health Communications Inc.). $575

A Week with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

There is an emerging consciousness that is making itself felt and heard in those individuals who are searching to fulfill higher and deeper callings from within themselves. This workshop is for those individuals who sense the emergence of an evolutionary thrust from within or who are experiencing "divine discontent" with what is occurring in their lives at the present time. The focus will be on learning how to meet and accept what is being offered by life, exploring how to attend to the organic occurrences that life presents and continue moving forward.

It is known in both Western and Eastern traditions that the microcosm of the body reflects the macrocosm of the world. Similarly, a static body reflects a static view of the world. In this workshop, participants may explore themselves as living, unfolding processes – physically, mentally, emotionally, sexually, and spiritually. They may find that through practices such as breath work, movement, and sound, aliveness and pulsation can be returned to the body, and unconscious thoughts and feelings which reside in the body tissue can be brought to life. Careful attention will be given to the mental processes that shape the physical and emotional bodies, with special emphasis being given to personal issues that emerge. The week will also speak to the need for bridging one's personal growth and inner experience with outer involvement in the world.

Practices will be taught which encourage participants to listen, feel, sense, and become acquainted with their essential core selves, from which arise creativity, wisdom, joy, and healing.

Recommended reading: Rodegast, Emmanuel's Book (Friends' Press); John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics Ltd.); Fields et al., Chop Wood, Carry Water (Tarcher); Alice Bailey, Education in the New Age (Lucis Publishing Co.); Florence Shinn, The Game of Life and How to Play It (De Vorss). $575

Weekend of January 13–15

A Weekend with David Schiffman

For workshop description see September 23-25. $295

Reinventing Love

Jay Ogilvy, Bob Solomon & Sam Keen

Love has seen good and better days. Among both the sentimental and the cynical, it seems to be a solution to our problems. Love has been described variously as mere instinct, as a gift from God, and as the play of overstimulated glands. Yet, without love, care, and compassion, the world is too meaningless a place to inhabit. The question for this weekend is how to reinvent love, care, and compassion in our daily lives. $295

Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Tai Ji Intensive)

Chungliang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

This workshop offers New Year renewal with the fundamentals of tai ji practice. Chungliang Al Huang will share the crystallization of his most essential learnings. He will lead participants in sunrise movement meditation, five-elements form, Chinese Qi Gong breathing, and life-force revitalization exercises with Taoist philosophical and aesthetic dialogues and discourses. Join the music, dancing, and celebration!

Recommended reading: Chungliang Al Huang, Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (Dutton) and Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Celestial Arts); Alan Watts with Chungliang Al Huang, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon). $295

Gestalt and Gurdjieff

Kathleen Riordan Speeth

All religious traditions stand trembling in front of the perennial questions. In their esoteric or practical form they demand that we know ourselves, uncondition ourselves, and master ourselves. How can we become impeccable? How do we find the creative balance between spontaneity and discipline, solitude and connection, responsibility and freedom, practicalities and visions?

The Gurdjieff Work synthesizes Eastern sacred technologies for the West. In this workshop, participants will make contact with the heart of the teaching, self-remembering. They will study themselves in terms of the relations of essence and personality, the role of character structure, the function of negative emotions, conscious labor, and intentional suffering.

Gestalt practice provides the ideal infrastructure for self study. The group will use it as moment by moment awareness training and as an interpersonal extension of meditation.

Recommended reading: P.D. Ouspensky, In Search of the Miraculous (Harcourt Brace Jovanovich); Kathleen Riordan Speeth, The Gurdjieff Work (Pocket Books). $295

Week of January 15–20

Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Tai Ji Intensive)

Chungliang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

For workshop description see January 13-15. $575

Acts of Courage

David Schiffman

To take risks successfully requires courage, grit, and wisdom, knowing one's heart and being true to the dreams that live inside it, good timing, an adventuresome spirit, and the confidence to act. The focus of this week will be to fine-tune this creative risk-taking and to appreciate the "acts of courage" required for the undertaking. Elements such as mutual respect, honesty, and tenderness in the group situation will help participants deepen their appreciation of what is truly valuable in their lives. Time together will include traditional psychological practices as well as non-traditional, innovative approaches with music, movement, guided imagery, and structural repatterning. $575

Craniosacral System: Basic Workshop

Jim Asher & Jane Harrington

This workshop will offer an opportunity to learn and practice gentle yet powerful skills to bring the craniosacral system into balance. The class will combine lectures and slides on functional anatomy of the membrane system and cerebrospinal fluid movement. There will be hands-on demonstrations of a variety of methods for tapping into bone and membrane motion, rhythm, amplitude quality, restriction, and interference. Demonstrations will be followed by supervised practice. Time will also be spent evoking and developing palpatory sensitivity and fine-tuning the quality of touch.

This workshop is for people with a strong interest in developing hands-on skills and for those already practicing body work or counseling. Much of the focus will be on the head, jaw, neck, pelvis, and diaphragm systems. Cranial work can be effective in shifting emotional holding patterns and draining accumulated stresses in the nervous system.

Recommended reading: John Upledger and Jon Vredevoogd, Craniosacral Therapy (Eastland).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 39. $575

Imagination as Healer

Jeanne Achterberg & Frank Lawlis

This workshop is designed for professionals in health care who include imagery/visualization in their practices and for health consumers who have integrated mental imagery of some form into their healing repertoire. Attendance will be limited to allow for interaction with others and for an expanded examination of imagery methods.

The presenters have straddled the worlds of science and healing for over a decade and have emerged with a new dimension in health. During this week they will offer their findings, provide tools for empowering the psyche, and serve as resource persons. Their expertise includes work with cancer, heart disease, immune and autoimmune conditions, AIDS, general stress disorders, and other chronic, disabling conditions.

Case studies will be shared, offering the great enlightenment that comes only from persons who are examining their lives in the face of grave crises. The attendees will be guided through typical visualization and imagery exercises.

The focus of this workshop will be the reintegration of potent visionary processes into their rightful fold: the nurturance of life and all that implies for health and emotional well-being.

Recommended reading: Jeanne Achterberg, Imagery in Healing: Shamanism and Modern Medicine (Shambhala); Achterberg and Lawlis, Bridges of the Bodymind (IPAT).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 39. $575

Weekend of January 20–22

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman

For workshop description see September 2-4. $295

Creativity and the Veil of Addiction

Linda Leonard & Keith Chapman

Based on Linda Leonard's forthcoming book, Witness to the Fire: Creativity and the Veil of Addiction (Shambhala 1989), this workshop will explore the archetypal images of addiction and creativity. These include the Demon Lover behind addictions which possess us and the Creative Daimon, the energy behind creativity which inspires us to new states of being. Dialogue with participants will center on the archetypal images of the Moneylender, the Gambler, the Romantic, the Underground Man, the Outlaw, the Trickster, the Madwoman, and the Judge, as well as images from the creative process and their parallels with the twelve steps of recovery. The material is drawn from novelists such as Dostoyevsky, Jack London, Jean Rhys, and Eugene O'Neill, with insights from Jung, the existentialist philosophers, and the stories of recovering addicts. $295

The Intelligent Body, The Sensuous Body

Thomas Hanna

Premise: Clarity of self-awareness and clarity of body control grow together or decline together. Participants will explore how greater sensitivity to the inner self enhances the body's ability to act and to relax and how this ability in turn enhances kinesthetic awareness.

The program will introduce gentle movements and use of imagery as well as instruction in the principles of many different kinds of body work and exercise systems – particularly that of Moshe Feldenkrais. There will also be demonstrations of how new sensory information can lead to dramatic changes in posture.

Those who wish advanced knowledge in systems of body work may find the weekend profitable, as may those who have habitual aches or have difficulty relaxing.

Recommended reading: Thomas Hanna, Somatics (Addison-Wesley). $295

The Right Work

John Caple

What is work? And what is not work?
– Bhagavad Gita

In this workshop participants will rediscover work-related dreams, draw power from life experiences, and clarify their vision of what they want their worklife to be. They will refine their sense of what is work and what is play and what is right for them.

There will be concepts to stimulate the intellect, processes to awaken intuitive wisdom, and a chance to bring it all together in a personal life plan. Some time will be available for individual work.

Who should attend? Those who want more value in their lives, career changers and potential career changers, re-entry persons, and those who influence others in making worklife decisions.

Recommended reading: John Caple, The Right Work (Dodd, Mead). $295

Week of January 22–27

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

For workshop description see September 16-18. $575

Five-Day Massage Intensive

George King & Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see September 11-16. $575

Completion

Will Schutz

Incomplete actions, be they personal or social, result in many of humankind's troubles: emotional – replaying early stuck relations; physical – chronic tension from unfinished actions; health – blood poisoning from uneliminated waste products; aging – caused by incomplete events; ecology – waste disposal problems, especially nuclear; spiritual – karma, unfinished business; education – Montessori's insistence on putting toys away; sports – the concept of the killer instinct.

What are the resistances to completion? What must happen to a self-concept to propel it toward completing cycles? These and other questions will be explored via the following concepts: theory of energy cycles, life history completion, health through imagery. $575

Presence

Elisa Lodge

Elisa Lodge writes: "Presence is a power that arises from a deep sense of self-worth and trust. It reflects a broadened vision and wholehearted acceptance of the varied facets of being. It is a state of dynamic balance where there is no unnecessary strain of self-defeating awkwardness. One is at home in oneself and at ease with the world.

"During this week, participants can gain a deepened appreciation of the elements in themselves that contribute to this timeless state of fluidity and ease. They will have an opportunity to experiment and explore how their bodies' shapes and forms, emotional histories, and self-images are intimately intertwined. This growing awareness is the basic grounding from which the creative experience of presence can be known. Movement patterns, the ways we walk and breathe, also reveal how we inhibit or allow our personal power. As we become more comfortable with ourselves, we transform not only the way we might carry our head or make contact with another, but our whole way of being in the world.

"This work is based on an approach woven from gestalt, psychosynthesis, Rolf-movement, and performance art. Video feedback will be used." $575

The Enneagram and Spiritual Growth

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

The enneagram of personality was long kept as a secret oral tradition in the mystery schools of Central Asia. First used in the West by Georges Gurdjieff in his work with students, it is an effective mirror for seeing and peeling away the last, most subtle, layers of personality. It can be a powerful diagnostic and healing tool in working with clients, as well as aid in developing compassionate understanding for ourselves and others.

Workshop participants will study the overall enneagram system while identifying their own core fixations. Various strategies, such as movement, will be utilized as ways of both learning the system and moving out of the different fixations. The group will also explore the related spiritual challenges and lessons. They will have the opportunity to use hypnosis and neuro-linguistic programming in open seat, creative myth-making, role playing, and movement as ways to clear the biographical level, heal old wounds, learn the lessons, and move on. The mornings will begin with Zazen and Taoist stretching to set the groundwork for the day.

The enneagram forces us to be ruthlessly honest with ourselves and offers a true test of our chosen spiritual paths. $575

Weekend of January 27–29

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see September 16-18. $295

Talking to Russians

Robert Bathurst & Brit Broch Bathurst

When Americans are too nice, Russians become suspicious; if a business contract is too elaborate, Russians assume deception. Peace between the superpowers is the problem and communication is the key, but it is very difficult to say what you mean cross-culturally.

This is a workshop for citizen diplomats and those concerned with constructive approaches to this cross-cultural problem. Participants will talk with Russians, practice bargaining and negotiating for peace, learn about hidden language and cultural differences. In doing so, they will become more aware of unconscious values, and more effective perhaps in finding strategies for peace. $295

Non-Adversarial Child Care: The Continuum Concept in Practice

Jean Liedloff

For parents, parents-to-be, and baby and child care professionals, this seminar will examine the true meaning of sociality as an innate characteristic of homo sapiens. Drawing upon her years of living with Stone Age Indians in South America's jungles, the leader propounds an approach neither punitive nor permissive that takes into account the generally unrecognized expectations and abilities inherent in our young.

Why do babies and children so often seek attention they don't need? Why do we see tots in underdeveloped countries and cultures following their parents and helping them with chores so early, while ours are frequently chased and tended, opposed, tolerated, and socialized for nerve-wracking, guilt-laden, unappreciated decades of drudgery and sacrifice ending in one degree or another of alienation?

As professor Robert Aldrich of the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development said, "Basic things about human nature we forget or ignore at our peril."

Recommended reading: Jean Liedloff, The Continuum Concept (Addison-Wesley, U.S.; Penguin, U.K.), German edition, Auf Der Suche Nach Dem Verlorenen Gluck (CH Beck, Germany). $295

Learning the Craft of Dream Work

Stephen Aizenstat

Dreams can be imagined as looking-glass parables, each a complex story that reflects the personality and soul of the dreamer. This weekend's program will bring emphasis to the healing potential of dream work. In so doing, the leader will review methods of dream work which consider the personal and collective unconscious.

In addition, new methods of dream work which take into account the world unconscious will be described. The world unconscious is seen as a deeper and broader dimension of the psyche and is imagined to contain the subjective inner natures (the subtle body) of all phenomena. It is believed that these inner subjective properties are reflected in the images of dreams and are, at an essential level, interrelated.

It is at this level of the psyche that dream images provide access to an interconnected source of healing energy. This view, grounded in modern research and ancient wisdom, has practical implications for the use of dreams in physical and psychological healing.

Participants will be shown how to employ specific methods of dream work which honor and actualize the healing potential of the psyche. In this regard, common dream themes, nightmares, lucid dreaming, archetypal imagery, and the recurring dream will be discussed. $295

The Shamanic Journey, Power, and Healing

Michael Harner

Shamanism is an ancient human strategy for personal learning and for acting on that learning, using normally neglected or hidden potentialities of the heart, mind, and spirit. Shamanic methods can contribute to virtually any aspect of living, as they have for tens of thousands of years, and are especially useful for problem-solving, well-being, and healing.

In this experiential workshop, participants will be introduced to basic methods of the shaman (a specific type of medicine man or woman) and initiated into the classic shamanic journey. Otherwise known through myth and accounts of great spiritual experiences, this visionary method can be used to enter nonordinary reality to obtain knowledge, to answer personal questions, to maximize power to achieve personal goals, and to contribute to the health of oneself, others, and the Planet. Participants will be aided by traditional drumming and movement and will be provided with methods for journeying to discover and study with their individual spiritual teachers in nonordinary reality, a classic step in shamanic practice.

The shamanic journey can be utilized to help restore spiritual power and health and has practical applications to contemporary daily life. Practices this weekend will include comparison of discoveries and work on personal problem-solving.

Please bring a bandanna to cover your eyes, a pen and notebook to record your journeys and, if you have them, a drum and/or a rattle. Wear comfortable clothing.

Recommended reading: Michael Harner, The Way of the Shaman (Bantam) and Hallucinogens and Shamanism (Oxford). $295

Week of January 29–February 3

The Life Energy Process℠

Stephano Sabetti

For workshop description see September 11-16.
$575

KATHLEEN THORNHOD CARR

Kathleen Fitzgerald demonstrates the principles of centering, extension, and ki in an aikido technique.

Ashtanga Yoga, Movement, and Massage

Deborah Anne Medow

The body is a boat which carries the soul in the ocean of the world. If it is not strong or it has a hole, then it can't cross the ocean. So the first duty is to fix the boat. – Baba Hari Dass

The primary focus of this workshop is to utilize the methods of the ancient system of ashtanga yoga, movement, and massage in "fixing the leaky boat." During these five days, a cleansing diet will be discussed and encouraged, and participants will be assisted in developing a solid basis for further development of the physical, mental, and spiritual aspects of yoga practice and massage. Topics covered will include yoga theory, purifications, breathing exercises, and meditation, with particular emphasis on asanas (postures). Afternoon massage sessions at the baths will help group members relax and integrate the positive effects of practicing yoga.

Please bring loose, comfortable clothing.

$575

Reinstating One's Original Self: The Continuum Concept in Practice

Jean Liedloff

In her years of living and traveling in the South American jungle with Stone Age Indians, Jean Liedloff observed an ancient norm of well-being. She feels that this condition offers a much needed paradigm missing in our attempts to attain individual and social fulfillment. She has developed and refined a set of principles for guiding clients toward discovery and understanding of the beliefs and expectations formed in babyhood and childhood that undermine the capacity to act from an accurate perception of self and other.

This workshop will deal in depth with the methods that can change a client's inner beliefs at his or her own optimum pace. It will allow participants to acquire an understanding of these ideas and experience their use both from the client's and the guide's points of view. It is for professionals and non-professionals.

Recommended reading: Jean Liedloff, The Continuum Concept (Addison-Wesley, U.S.; Penguin, U.K.), German edition, Auf Der Suche Nach Dem Verlorenen Gluck (CH Beck, Germany).

$575

Word Magic: A Personal Adventure through Writing

Nancy Bacal

We all have stories and the ability to tell them. But when asked to translate them onto the page, many of us are inhibited by self-judgment. Through a series of exercises designed to bypass blockages, participants will be encouraged to move beyond the controlling arm of the critic and tap their reservoirs of personal experience. These exercises will provide an opportunity to turn the burdens in our lives into stories, the unwanted voices into characters, the failures and successes into material. They are specific enough to excite the imagination yet loose enough for the writer inside to experiment with form and images and remain open to surprise.

This writing workshop is designed to create a safe and stimulating environment for the non-writer, the would-be writer, and the professional. The schedule will include writing in and out of the group, walks, meditation as it relates to creative process, reading and discussion of pertinent material. The intention will be to coax the mind out of its cycle of expectation and disappointment into a positive, functioning relationship with our work.

Recommended reading: Carla Needleman, Work of Craft (Avon); Joseph Goldstein, The Experience of Insight (Unity). $575

January 29–February 10

Advanced Training in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 37.

Weekend of February 3–5

Singing Gestalt

Nancy Kaye Lunney

For workshop description see September 16-18.

$295

At the Turning Point: Poems Can Help Us in Crisis

Brother David Steindl-Rast

Every crisis in life invites us to sift out seed from husk, that which holds promise from that which must die. Poetry can help this process of sifting, more so than many would expect. In a world of hypocrisy, poetry offers criteria for certainty – for as much certainty at least as life will permit.

The Benedictine monastic heritage, in which Brother David stands, has been called "the poetic heart of the Christian tradition." Drawing from the well of that tradition, Brother David will introduce poets as guides in crisis.

There are skills of the heart that can be learned, skills that may transform what appears to be the point of death into a turning point.

Recommended reading: Rainer Maria Rilke, Letters to a Young Poet (Norton); David Steindl-Rast, Gratefulness the Heart of Prayer (Paulist Press). $295

Week of February 5–10

The Hakomi Method

Ron Kurtz, Richard A. Heckler & Michael Herrick

For workshop description see September 18-23.

$575

Choices and Changes Using Gestalt

Anne Nechama Simkin

For workshop description see October 16-21.

$575

Couples' Workshop

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

Most couples are reluctant to seek help in their relationships; instead, they wait, hoping that the relationship will improve. If couples approached medical help the same way they approach marriage counseling, many of them would only visit the doctor when they ought to be lining up the mortician.

Designed on a preventive model, this workshop will deal with the underlying structures and defenses in relationships before they surface as terminal problems. It will also examine the attitudes and beliefs about sexuality and how to make sex better.

Recommended reading: Jack Rosenberg, Total Orgasm and Body, Self, and Soul: Sustaining Integration. $575

Weekend of February 10–12

Weekend Massage Intensive

Brita Ostrom & Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see September 23-25.

$295

Central Asian Shamanism: A Soviet Scholar Shares His Knowledge

Vladimir Basilov

Shamanism is an ancient tradition among many tribes and peoples in Central Asia and Siberia. In fact, the Siberian part of the Soviet Union is the home of "classic" shamanism, the word shaman coming to us from the Tungus tribe there.

While interest in shamanism is growing in the United States, few Americans have had occasion to learn about the shamanic traditions in the Soviet Union. In this non-experiential seminar, participants will have the rare opportunity to hear especially of Dr. Basilov's studies of shamanism among the Uzbek people of Central Asia and to learn about the varieties of shamanism practiced by native peoples in that area and Siberia. The presentation will include films and other visual materials as well as sound recordings.

Dr. Basilov speaks fluent English. He will be introduced by Michael Harner. $295

Intimate Relationships: Keeping the Spark Alive

Avala Pines

When two people are in love, it seems like the magical spark between them is going to last forever. Unfortunately, more often than not, with the dampening effects of everyday pressures and stresses, the love is eroded and eventually burns out. Burnout is not caused by individual pathology or inadequacy, and it is not caused by major dramatic events. It is caused by a buildup of petty annoyances, minor dissatisfactions, and a gradual increase in boredom. How can this insidious process of love's erosion be prevented? How can a couple in love keep the romantic spark alive?

Participants will be encouraged to find their own romantic schemata and to rekindle the romantic images they shared at the beginning of their relationships. This workshop is recommended especially for couples committed to keeping the spark alive in their relationships and for marriage and family counselors. It may also be helpful for individuals who are trying to figure out what went wrong in a relationship that burned out.

Recommended reading: Avala Pines, Keeping the Spark Alive (St. Martin's Press). $295

The Modern Warrior: LET in Action

George Leonard

A man or woman with outward courage dares to die;
A man or woman with inward courage dares to live.
– Lao Tzu

The Modern Warrior is not one who goes to war but rather one who exhibits integrity in every aspect of living, one who seeks to attain control then act with abandon. For the Modern Warrior, life is vivid, immediate, and joyful. He or she lives each day to the full, and is fulfilled in serving others. This workshop is based on the premise that to achieve peace in the world and harmony in daily life, it might well be necessary for men and women to reown the warrior ideal.

Through the centering and movement exercises of LET (Leonard Energy Training) as well as through various new games, participants will be invited to get in touch with their own unacknowledged powers, and thus to discover the hidden warrior within. Guidance will be offered on how to apply the warrior ideal to daily life. This workshop will not be physically strenuous. All that is needed is a generous heart and a willingness to participate.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse (Dutton). $295

Week of February 12–17

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see September 16-18. $575

Introduction to Continuum

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud writes: "A human being can be seen as a living process of many activities: neuro-electrical-chemical-muscular, feeling, thinking, remembering, dreaming, and much more than we'll ever know. We sweepingly refer to all of this as 'My Life.'

"These activities can also be described as movements. What we call a 'body' can be seen as movements that flow, combine, and stabilize into 'muscle' or 'spine' or 'eyes.' I see movement as what we are rather than as something we do.

"Our time together will be to enhance our sensitivity to movement, whether we're experiencing it as moving 'muscle' or moving 'thoughts,' whether we're involved in the softness of a breath or the play of language, whether we're meandering through skin or feeling the wonder of meaningfulness as it shapes and colors the moment. For me, 'life' and movement are one." $575

Moving into Relationship with Self and Others

Mary Goldenson (Devanani)

This workshop offers an opportunity to empower the self, and subsequently, relationships with others. Participants will first observe their relationship with themselves and then how that is mirrored in the other while working, playing, and loving. It is premised that people are often attracted to those from whom they have the most to learn, those who reflect their own strengths, weaknesses, fears, beliefs. Exploring past and present relationships can bring insights to this process and transform them into powerful growth experiences. This will be a major focus of the week.

Participants will create a clear picture of what they want and how to attain it, examine ways they sabotage themselves, and learn more about how others see them. Radix®, Reichian body work, gestalt, dance imagery, hypnosis, meditation, and group process will be some of the modalities used. $575

Vipassana in the World

Jamie Baraz

Vipassana (insight) meditation is the simple and direct practice of nonjudging, balanced awareness. When we clearly see and understand the impermanent nature of all experience, our reactions of clinging, condemning, fear, and confusion begin to lose their power. Instead, wisdom and compassion are strengthened.

In this workshop, we will follow the basic principles of Vipassana and apply them in a practical way. There will be a day for ourselves – learning the meditation and the qualities of patience, self-acceptance, and compassion. Next, there will be a day for others – in which the ideas of the practice are applied to relationships, livelihood, and skillful communication. Finally, there will be a day for the world – where larger issues such as service, action, and appreciation of the interconnectedness of all life are explored.

There will be regular periods of silent meditation, group discussions, and mindful application of our time at Esalen for a direct experience of the value of the practice. $575

Gestalt-Directed Body Work: Training for Professionals

Edward Smith

Using the gestalt approach as his theoretical and procedural umbrella, Edward Smith integrates aspects of Reichian, neo-Reichian, and other body-focused methods into his work. This integration brings together the exquisite focus on the organism-in-environment process of the gestalt approach and the awesome power of the Reichian and neo-Reichian procedures for facilitating that process. A high degree of respect for individual personhood unfolds through this work.

Through lecture and discussion, the leader will teach a practical, conceptual model of the gestalt-directed body work process as set forth in The Body in Psychotherapy. This will give participants a framework for personality assessment via the body and a clear rationale for body-focused process interventions. The bulk of the time will be devoted to bringing the work to life through group exercises and individual sessions with the leader.

Recommended reading: Edward W.L. Smith, The Body in Psychotherapy (McFarland). $575

Weekend of February 17–19

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see September 16-18. $295

Rituals of Transformation

Paul Rebillot

Human beings are continually approaching thresholds, transition points from one state or condition of being to another. To live is to change. The tendency, however, is to resist change, to cling to the familiar, to remain stuck at the threshold. It is the source of much of the stress and pain experienced in life and keeps many people from moving forward.

A ritual does not make a change happen. Rather, it awakens within the psyche the archetypal pattern of change; it teaches how to change. By acting out the ritual, one learns, not only in the mind but in the feelings of the heart and the movements of the body, the process of transformation. Rituals can prepare a person for change as it happens and help heal the passages that were not completed in the past.

During this workshop, group members will look at what they want to heal and transform in their lives, what they need to say goodbye to in the past, and what new step they need to take in order to cross their present threshold. Sub-groups will work together to design and enact individual rituals in order to support and help this healing process.

Joseph Campbell said that when you can discover your authentic path, the way seems to be blessed by magic. To find this way is the work of Rituals of Transformation. $295

Minding the Body, Mending the Mind

Joan & Myrin Borysenko

In the last decade, medical science has discovered certain pathways through which the mind can influence health and healing. Time-honored methods such as meditation and creative imagination promote a core of bodily changes called the relaxation response and set the stage for more specific changes, both in physiology and attitude. These methods originated from philosophical and spiritual systems of awareness training and self-development. For many people, illness and anxiety have been the motivating force to discover the greater healing potential of these ancient practices.

Developing a fighting spirit can help us survive stress and illness. But fighting for the body alone is not enough. Fighting for integrity, however – for one's inner truth – creates a strong foundation that is there no matter what passages the body may go through. The very modalities by which we can discover and support this integrity can often also be healing for the body.

This workshop is appropriate for health professionals and others who want to learn new methodologies for health care. It will explore the scientific and spiritual aspects of meditation and imagination, overcoming "New Age guilt" – putting mind and body in the proper perspective, and learning from fear and illness. Skills that change both physiology and basic attitude about the self will be practiced. Meditation, creative imagination, and mini-exercises for daily use will be the experiential focus.

Recommended reading: Borysenko, Minding the Body, Mending the Mind (Bantam); Swami Prabhavananda & Christopher Isherwood, How to Know God: The Yoga Aphorisms of Patanjali (Vedanta Press).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 39. $295

The Path of Transformation in Psychotherapy and Meditation

Daniel Brown

This workshop is designed for psychotherapists, practitioners of meditation, and those interested in the integration of the worlds of psychotherapy and spirituality. The leader will present an integrated model for the path of transformation, for the development of emotional experience, the sense of self and others, and reality sense. This model of normal, pathological, and optimal human development is drawn from the fields of child development, clinical psychology, and the great Eastern traditions of meditation.

This workshop will show how the path of meditation unfolds and will present a vision of optimal human development. It will also help participants learn to assess and treat different types of problems (clinical symptoms and meditation crises) which occur at various points along the overall developmental continuum. The workshop will address how psychotherapy can be used as a way to attain some of the necessary prerequisites for spiritual development and can assist with the problems that occur for the meditation practitioner and meditation teacher. It will also show how spiritual awareness can inform one's view of psychotherapy. Various experiential exercises and meditation practices will be used along with clinical case material. The workshop will be both experiential and didactic.

Much of the material will be drawn from the leader's experience as a clinician and teacher, and from his 18 years of practicing meditation, translating meditation texts from Sanskrit and Tibetan sources, and conducting scientific studies on deep meditation states and enlightenment on meditation masters in this country and in South Asia.

Recommended reading: Ken Wilbur, Jack Engler, and Daniel Brown, Transformations of Consciousness (Shambhala). $295

Week of February 19–24

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Kathleen O'Shaughnessy & Esalen Massage Practitioners

This course will teach gentle, fundamental approaches to full body massage and the refined art of touch as communication and awareness through movement and breath rhythms. It is a basics program for those interested in developing hands-on skills.

Demonstrations will be augmented by supervised practice. Verbal material will include information about various approaches to body work and how massage can relieve physical and emotional stress.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 39. $575

Transitions

Elliot Wiker Aronson & Gabriele Thomson

For workshop description see November 18-20. $575

Owning the Shadow

Paul Rebillot

We have seen the enemy and they is us.
– Pogo, Walt Kelly

Paul Rebillot writes: "In my work I have come to realize that one of the most important and frequently avoided themes in people's lives is the ability to own the part of ourselves we don't like, the part Jung called the shadow. As a result, we become projectors of our own disowned energy. In this workshop, we will seek to discover within ourselves the bad guy we have been projecting onto and hating in others. Hopefully, by facing and communicating with this negative self, we can discover in our shadow not the enemy, but the friend and challenger to growth of the heart and consciousness." $575

Lost Romantic Loves: Healing through Film

Francis Lu & Barbara White

Love must be told. Not so that it may be forgotten, but so it can be rewoven into the tapestry of the present. – George Vaillant

This seminar will invite participants to remember their lost romantic loves and to further their own healing and self-renewal through a process of using films as a tool for self-reflection. Topics will include: the nature and quality of romantic love, the emotional consequences of lost love (including obsession, jealousy, anger, violence, and madness), and the healing processes (including grief, letting go, compassion, self-renewal, and revisioning new relationships).

Within a supportive group context, participants will view films which evoke these archetypal patterns of love, its loss, and healing. Through inner reflection, Feldenkrais® body work, gestalt, dream work, and discussion, participants will reconnect their personal experiences with these archetypal, mythological realities. Films to be shown include works directed by Woody Allen, Alfred Hitchcock, and Francois Truffaut.

Recommended reading: John Welwood, Challenge of the Heart: Love, Sex, and Intimacy in Changing Times (Shambhala); Robin Norwood, Women Who Love Too Much (Dell). $575

On Being a Man

David Schiffman, Ed Bloch-Farrington & Rick Chelew

Many men today have labored diligently to become softer, more receptive, and nurturing. They have sought to honor and embrace the emergence of the feminine principle in their own natures. For many, however, the right to celebrate and honor the so-called masculine aspect has become a thorny and difficult dilemma. Many qualities of maleness or masculinity have come to connote the most destructive and troublesome elements in human existence: war, environmental desecration, sexual oppression, and patriarchal abuse.

A man's sense of his own uniqueness and value is critical. During this week participants will examine those elements in their own natures which comprise the deeper dimensions of manhood, and how they might enhance the freedom to be men with simplicity, clarity, tenderness, strength, and dignity.

The workshop will explore the following questions:

* What does a man need to know and accept about his own nature to feel himself fully as a man?
* Can men come together to create an atmosphere of trust and good will, where the masculine aspects that they have in common can be honored and appreciated in the pleasure of each other's company?
* Are there ways that men can mark and celebrate the cycles that season them, their victories, and defeats? How might they reveal themselves emotionally without unnecessary shame or remorse?
* Can the "wild man" within be befriended and reliability and respectability still survive? Can fierceness and aggression be used constructively in realizing spiritual aspirations, intimate relationships, family and community concerns?

A variety of experiential processes will illuminate these and similar issues. Traditional initiation rituals and purification ceremonies using drumming, chanting, and a sweat lodge will be incorporated in this journey as well. $575

Weekend of February 24–26

Experiencing Aikido

Annie Styron Leonard

To experience aikido is to feel both energized and relaxed, to be stronger and at the same time more gentle. To learn this sophisticated martial art takes many years, but some of its mysterious powers can be sampled over the course of this weekend.

Participants will practice enhancing the flow of vital energy through and around the body, relaxing under pressure, moving from the hara, or center, and extending inner force. They will be introduced to and have the chance to practice a few basic aikido moves and learn alternative, nonaggressive ways of dealing with attacks. This weekend is designed for those who simply wish to get in touch with and use their own latent powers as well as those who are planning to begin practicing a martial art.

Recommended reading: John Stevens, Abundant Peace (Shambhala). $295

Burnout: Causes and Cures

Elliot Wiker Aronson & Ayala Pines

This workshop is designed for people who give service to others and who are experiencing burnout. It deals with the impact of burnout on both the service provider and the client, ways of finding and recognizing support resources on the job, and positive methods of dealing with burnout and life tedium. Through lectures and group discussions, participants will have the opportunity to increase their understanding of those aspects of their own work and life which could cause burnout. In addition, they will be provided with the tools and opportunity to learn how to handle these problems in order to increase the productivity and creativity of their relationships with clients and colleagues.

Recommended reading: Pines and Aronson, Career Burnout (Free Press); Aronson, The Social Animal (Freeman).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 39. $295

Homeless Living

Bernard Glassman & Peter Murvo Matthiessen

When Bernard Glassman arrived in New York in 1980, he began weaving a mandala called Zen Community of New York, an interfaith meditation center. As the community grew, he founded the Greyston Bakery, where the opportunity for developing a living practice of meditation and action in the daily workplace emerged and answered the community's need for self-sufficiency.

As the need for further outreach became apparent, Glassman envisioned the Greyston Family Inn, a holistic approach to homelessness. This social action ministry provides residency, participation in family living, job training at Greyston Bakery, childcare, parenting education, and an arts program to the formerly homeless who want to change their lives. In addition, an affordable housing project has been initiated, and discussions are underway to create a community land trust.

An old Zen saying goes, "Abiding nowhere, raise the mind of enlightenment." Since the days of the historic Buddha, monks have devoted their lives to another kind of being homeless: a homelessness of attachments to wishes, needs, and conditions. Peter Murvo Matthiessen, Zen priest, adventurer, and writer (author of The Snow Leopard and At Play in the Fields of the Lord), will explore homelessness from this perspective. $295

Conscious Femininity: Mother, Virgin, Crone A Workshop for Men and Women

Marion Woodman

This seminar will differentiate three archetypes of femininity as they are evolving in the consciousness of women and men: 1) the conscious mother, interested in taking care of self, others, and the planet; 2) the virgin, the maturing woman who evolves out of the ground of the mother; and 3) the crone, the detached, wise old woman.

A healing feminine awareness is struggling to emerge not only in the individual psyche, but in the collective as well. In dreams, a powerful feminine figure repeatedly demands the attention of the ego, attempting to guide consciousness toward new values that are releasing, frightening, and ruthlessly honest. Such values evoke somatic and psychic responses that are experienced personally as upheavals in traditional attitudes and collectively as a new cultural ethos. It is the new feminine consciousness that is able to rescue and heal the abandoned soul.

The weekend will consist of lectures, small group discussions, and gentle body work and dance.

Recommended reading: Marion Woodman, The Owl Was a Baker's Daughter; Addiction to Perfection; and The Pregnant Virgin (all: Inner City); Sylvia Perera, Descent to the Goddess (Inner City); Edward Whitmont, Return of the Goddess (Crossroad). $295

JAN WATSON

Warriorship is a continual journey. To be a warrior is to learn to be genuine in every moment of your life.
–Chogyam Trungpa

Week of February 26–March 3

Five Days with Janet Zuckerman

For workshop description see November 27-December 2. $575

A Basic Course in Nutrition and Healthy Eating

Andrew Weil

This workshop will cover principles of nutrition, including information about calories, cholesterol, protein, carbohydrates, and fat. How much protein do you really need? Can vegetarian food be totally nourishing and satisfying? Should you use olive oil or safflower oil, margarine or butter? Is pasta the perfect food? Do you need to drink milk, and where can you get your calcium if you don't?

These and other questions will be answered as participants prepare innovative dishes and meals that they will be able to duplicate at home. Group members will cook and eat together as they discuss aspects of diet and health, including vitamins and supplements, culinary and medicinal herbs and spices, and special diets for particular needs. The role of healthy eating as an aspect of preventive medicine will be stressed.

Andrew Weil draws on his experience as a physician, botanist, food lover, and cook in leading this workshop, as well as his association with Canyon Ranch Spa in Tucson, Arizona, where he directs the Natural Healing Program. This is an opportunity for participants to learn facts and methods not easy to find elsewhere while having fun, being creative, and doing something good for themselves in the bargain. $575

Children of Chaos: Recovery from the Aftermaths of Alcoholism

Mariah Fenton Gladis

The road to recovery for Adult Children of Alcoholics and others whose parents have been dysfunctional or abusive is challenging and can be deeply rewarding. It requires determination, lifelong commitment, and positive therapeutic experiences. This workshop offers participants an opportunity to take a major step toward health. Group members will work toward transforming their personal histories from one of liability to one of strength and wisdom, focusing on the promotion of healing in four fundamental relationships:

* With oneself: developing awareness, freedom from addictions, and healing of the body and soul from the residual effects of chronic trauma;
* With others: improving one's capacity for moving out of isolation and into direct, open communication and trust; expanding intimacy skills while securing healthy boundaries;
* In the world: moving away from chaos and deprivation toward stability and abundance;
* Spiritually: searching for the meaning of one's history and accessing that part of the self that can utilize universal blessings.

The workshop will be experiential and didactic, using a blend of in-depth individual and group gestalt work, music, spiritual healing, body work, and personal metaphor. A step-by-step recovery process developed by the leader will be incorporated throughout the workshop. The atmosphere will be one of trust and mutual support.

This workshop is also appropriate for professionals working with ACOAs. $575

February 26–March 24

Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Peggy Horan & George King

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 37. $2300

October 9–November 4
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

This course will synthesize neurolinguistics and Ericksonian hypnosis and will draw heavily from the pioneering work being done with the enneagram of personality and Stanislav Grof's "cartography of inner space." While satisfying the hypnosis coursework requirements for the M.E.C.C. and complying with the California state requirement for hypnosis certification, participants will go beyond what is required and explore the realms of the unknown.

While the use of hypnosis in habit control and symptom removal will be covered, a primary focus will be on hypnosis as an emerging tool of spiritual emergence and sacred psychology. Starting with the presupposition that we already live in trance and that the goal is waking up, the roots of personality structure and the filters of perception in the creation and transformation of reality will be carefully explored. Participants will have the opportunity to directly experience the profound power of trance to transform their lives. These experiences will create a model for working with clients.

Clinical applications depend upon the complete pacing of the client's reality. The structure of rapport, pacing and leading, and various hypnotic patterns of induction will be demonstrated and practiced along with a variety of clinical interventions, including reframing, change history, metaphors, and storytelling.

The group will watch videotapes of Erickson and other well-known leaders in the field of hypnosis. Participants will have daily practice with each other and the opportunity to be videotaped doing a hypnotic induction. Daily zazen, Taoist yoga, and transformational movement led by Antoinette Varner will also be a part of this program.

Upon completion of this course, participants must demonstrate a high level of professionalism as well as proficiency in technical skills to the satisfaction of the instructors before certification will be granted. Certifications by the American Council of Hypnotist Examiners and the Society of NeuroLinguistic Programming will be available for additional fees. Beyond certification, the opportunities for personal transformation and learning new tools for change can make this a valuable experience.

JAN WATSON

A black belt exam (here, Cathy McFann at Aikido of Tamalpais) isn't just a test of techniques; it's a rite of passage. Instructors: Richard Strozzi Heckler, George Leonard, Wendy Palmer.

Required reading: J. Haley, Uncommon Therapy (Norton) and Strategies of Psychotherapy (Grune & Stratton); Grinder and Bandler, Trance-Formations (Real People Press), Frogs into Princes (Real People Press), and Reframing (Real People Press); S. Grof, Beyond the Brain (State University of N.Y.); Chogyam Trungpa, Shambhala (Shambhala); P.D. Ouspensky, In Search of the Miraculous (Harcourt, Brace & World); C. Castaneda, Tales of Power (Simon & Schuster); Joseph Campbell, Myths to Live By (Bantam).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 39.

$2300 (plus $300 paid to the Institute for Advanced Hypnosis)

November 6–18
Integrative Body Practice (IBP)
Professional Training Program

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

This will be a twelve-day residential training program in Integrative Body Practice. IBP emphasizes breathing as a vehicle for the integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit, and views the body as the foundation for psychological and transpersonal growth. Object relations developmental theory will be integrated with body work. This workshop is for licensed professionals and graduate students in related fields. The leaders will be assisted by Deane Juhan and the staff of the Rosenberg-Rand Institute of Venice, California.

Recommended reading: Jack Rosenberg et al., Body, Self, and Soul: Experiencing Integration (Humanics Ltd.) and Total Orgasm (Bookworks).

For information write or call: Marjorie Rand, Rosenberg-Rand Institute, 1107 W. Washington Blvd., Venice, CA 90291, (213) 394-0147. $1445

November 6–December 4
Massage Practitioner
Certification Program

Deborah Anne Medow & Dean Marson

This month-long program offers, at a professional level, intensive instruction in massage practice, movement, and self-care. The emphasis will be on developing basic massage skills through daily lecture-demonstrations, hands-on practice sessions using each other as models, illustrated anatomy classes, and instruction in the basic principles of alignment. Meditation and gestalt awareness sessions will be scheduled regularly throughout the program for deeper, more integrative learning.

Body work will be studied as a tool for optimal well-being and stress reduction and as a valued aid to transpersonal growth. Workshop sessions will meet Sunday through Friday and on alternate weekends. Upon satisfactory completion of the program, and after giving 30 additional recorded massage sessions, a California state-approved certificate of completion will be issued. This is a professional program, with limited admission.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 39. $2300

January 29–February 10
Advanced Training in
Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner

Shamanism is the most ancient system known for using the mind, heart, and spirit to heal oneself and others and to solve the problems of daily living. This two-week intensive course emphasizes the universal methods of classic, core shamanism, such as shamanic journeying, and their practical application to contemporary life. This is the most advanced training currently offered by Michael Harner in the United States or Europe.

Course prerequisite: a previous workshop with Michael Harner or an authorized faculty member of the Center for Shamanic Studies, either at Esalen or elsewhere. Such a workshop will be offered at Esalen immediately prior to this program. (See Esalen Seminars, January 27-29.)

Recommended reading: Michael Harner, The Way of the Shaman (Bantam) and Hallucinogens and Shamanism (Oxford).

For more information and to apply, please contact Michael Harner, Center for Shamanic Studies, Box 670 – Belden Station, Norwalk, CT 06852; (203) 454-2825. Early application is recommended.

February 26–March 24
Massage Practitioner
Certification Program

Peggy Horan & George King

For workshop description see Special Programs, November 6-December 4. $2300

Children's Programs

Gazebo School: The Gazebo Program for children, ages 2-6, operates year round except for a week at Christmas. It is an outdoor-based program which encompasses the care of animals and the environment and supports the development of physical, cognitive, and psychosocial skills. $150 per week

This program is for children of parents concurrently attending an Esalen seminar. For further information contact Lia Thompson, Esalen Institute.

Gazebo Internship Program

Openings are now available at the Gazebo School for a one- to three-month intensive internship in early childhood education. The emphasis will be on an aesthetic approach to the development of physical, cognitive, and psychosocial skills. For an application, write to Bette Dingman, Gazebo Internship Program, Esalen Institute.

Massage Practitioner
Certification Program

Esalen offers a California state-approved program. Upon completion of a four-week massage practitioner workshop (see Special Programs, November 6-December 4 and February 26-March 24) and after giving 30 additional massages elsewhere, graduates will receive their certificates. This program provides at least 130 hours of instruction, supplemented by additional study in body-mind disciplines such as yoga, gestalt awareness work, and movement, fulfilling the state requirement.

Healthspring Update

The Healthspring Project encompasses outreach, education, referral services, and networking. It was created by the Esalen massage teachers and their associates and is an independent, service-oriented program.

This past year, Healthspring set up a global referral system which links the people we work with at Esalen with body workers, counselors, and teachers from their home areas. There are ongoing programs at Esalen and a traveling workshop service in the U.S. and abroad. We teach self-healing, Esalen body work, yoga, breath and body awareness, dance movement, and meditation. Many of our instructors have experience in gestalt practice.

The Healthspring Library offers books on health and healing, body work, somatic studies, philosophy, yoga, nutrition, and organic gardening. Books may be borrowed for up to a two-week period while you are at Esalen. Donations of books or periodicals are greatly appreciated.

Access to our referral system and the traveling workshop program is available by writing to Laurie Lioness Parizek at Esalen, c/o Healthspring.

FUTURE PROGRAMS

Listed here is a sampling of programs planned for 1989. This is not an invitation to register, but information to assist you in your long-range plans to attend Esalen. For more information, write to the addresses below or refer to the forthcoming January-June 1989 catalog.

March 5–17
Mind and Medicine

Jeanne Achterberg & Frank Laulis

March 5–17
A Workshop with
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

March 26–April 9
Advanced Massage Intensive

Vicki Topp & Esalen Massage Practitioners

March 26–April 9
Gestalt Practice Intensive
for Professionals

Coordinated by Christine Stewart Price

For further information, write: Christine Stewart Price, Gestalt Practice Intensive, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

April 9–21
Two Weeks of
Integrative Body Practice (IBP)

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

April 9–21
The Art and Science
of Clinical Hypnosis

Marc Lehrer

May 14–June 9
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

May 14–July 7
The Modern Warrior:
A Certification Program
in Leonard Energy Training

George Leonard & Annie Styron Leonard

For more information, contact the Energy Training Institute, P.O. Box 609, Mill Valley, CA 94942.

WORK STUDY PROGRAM

The Work Study Program is for those who are interested in total immersion in the Esalen environment. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically. Only rarely is it restful. Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and cabins. Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs. During the first month, assignments are made primarily in the kitchen and cabins. No participants will be accepted as work scholars in Gazebo or the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments.

Most evenings and two intensive weekends are spent together as a group exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who will be with the group throughout the month coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The program is usually divided into two sections each month: a general interest section which covers a variety of growth approaches, and a focused interest section which emphasizes one type of growth practice, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage or body work, etc. Participants in the focused programs must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program, assuming that they meet the standards of the Work Study Program.

JACK CIRIE

Richard Strozzi Heckler

Where swords cross
Throw off illusion;
Abandon yourself
And you will tread
The living Path.
–Tesshu Yamaoka

Focused programs planned thus far for 1988 and 1989 include:

September 11–October 9: Janet Zuckerman will focus on emotional release. Tools for exploration will include the open seat, a tennis racket, pillows, and a sense of humor.

October 9–November 6: Steven Harper will inquire into human relationship to nature, using Big Sur's wilderness and various traditions that enhance personal awareness. More information will be sent upon registration.

November 6–December 4: Jessica Moore Britt and Hans Gruenn will explore awareness, presence, compassion, and strength using Sufi self-remembering exercises, Reichian/gestalt work, hypnosis, and ritual.

APPLICATION TO THE WORK STUDY PROGRAM

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ ZIP _____

Date of Birth _____ Occupation _____ Place of Employment _____

Daytime Telephone (_____) _____ Date of Application _____

Evening Telephone (_____) _____ Male ☐ Female ☐

I prefer the general interest program: yes ☐ no ☐ I prefer the focused program in: _____

Participants in the focused programs must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program.

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning on a Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: _____ to _____ 2nd: _____ to _____ 3rd: _____ to _____

Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community.

Please indicate your availability should an invitation be extended. (Not applicable to focused program participants.)
☐ No extension ☐ One-month extension ☐ Two-month extension. Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs.

☐ Please check here if you have emergency medical skills (M.D., E.M.T., or R.N.) and are willing to make those skills available during your stay.

Please attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program. Include: applicable skills (gardening, kitchen, mechanical, etc.); medical difficulties which might affect your working in particular departments; previous Esalen workshops you have attended (please list program titles, group leaders, and dates). Note: Fluency in the English language is essential for participation in the program.

MEDICAL PROGRAMS

December 11–January 8: Seymour Carter will focus on gestalt practice, with emphasis for, but not limited to, professionals.

January 8–February 5: Terry Hunt will lead a program in emotional sobriety for adult children of alcoholic and abusive parents.

February 5–March 5: Judith Brown will focus on connection and relationship with self, other, and nature, using primarily a gestalt approach.

March 5–April 2: For more information contact Bette Dingman, Esalen.

April 2–April 30: Mary Goldenson's (Devarani) program of letting go and moving on will employ Reichian methods, Radix*, dance, imagery, gestalt, and meditation.

In as much as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage, are available at staff rates.

Accommodations are shared, with up to four people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff complex located 1 1/2 miles north of Esalen.

A deposit of $350 in U.S. currency is required with your application. The cost of all 28-day Work Study Programs, except the three-month body work program, is $700 first month, $650 second month, $600 third month. Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month depending on space available and community needs. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

For more information contact Bette Dingman: (408) 667-3010.

Note: This application is not a registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is nonrefundable and may be transferred to other programs within one year of receipt. Please return this form with your deposit to:

Work Study Program, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

Available dates: September 11–October 9; October 9–November 6; November 6–December 4; December 11–January 8; January 8–February 5; February 5–March 5; March 5–April 2; April 2–30; April 30–May 28; May 28–June 25; June 25–July 23; July 23–August 20; August 20–September 17; September 17–October 15; etc.

The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of Continuing Education for registered nurses, provider number 01152. Only those programs specifically listed below offer continuing education credit. See workshop descriptions elsewhere in the catalog.

September 11–16
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Robert Helm & Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

October 2–7
Spiritual Healing: Laying On of Hands
Maria Lucia Holloman
30 hours

October 9–November 4
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis
Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner
30 hours

October 16–21
Sacro-Cranial Therapy
Hugh Milne
30 hours

October 28–30
Reversing and Preventing Heart Disease: A Model for Transformation
Dean Ornish & Shirley Elizabeth Brown
10 hours

November 6–December 4
Massage Practitioner Certification Program
Deborah Anne Medow & Dean Marson
30 hours

November 18–20
Alternatives to Psychiatric Treatment: Philosophic Issues
Laurence Telles
10 hours

December 18–23
The Body and Zen
Dub Leigh
30 hours

December 25–30
The Art of Self-Care: Who Heals the Healer? Who Helps the Helper?
Ilana Rubenfeld
30 hours

January 15–20
Craniosacral System: Basic Workshop
Jim Asher & Jane Harrington
30 hours

January 15–20
Imagination as Healer
Jeanne Achterberg & Frank Lawlis
30 hours

February 17–19
Minding the Body, Mending the Mind
Joan & Myrin Borysenko
10 hours

February 19–24
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Kathleen O'Shaughnessy & Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

February 24–26
Burnout: Causes and Cures
Ayala Pines & Elliot Waker Aronson
10 hours

February 26–March 24
Massage Practitioner Certification Program
Peggy Horan & George King
30 hours

KATHLEEN THORNOD CARR

Annie Styron Leonard demonstrates an aikido nikkyo technique.

THE MEDIA CENTER

Videotapes

The Esalen Media Center is offering for rental or purchase a selection of videotapes. This series consists of unedited single camera recordings of informal talks made at Esalen, along with a descriptive tape of Esalen itself.

1. Jack Kornfield, On Meditation, November 1986. A longtime student and teacher of Vipassana meditation and Buddhism discusses these traditions with reference to his own experiences as a spiritual seeker in the Orient. (121 minutes)

2. Brother David Steindl-Rast, God, Spirituality, and the Senses, November 1984. A Benedictine monk and scholar discusses the spiritual journey and its relationship to mythology and transpersonal theory. (117 minutes)

3. Fritjof Capra, Characteristics of Systems Thinking, June 1985. The author of The Tao of Physics and The Turning Point discusses the evolution of scientific thinking, including current views and implications. (81 minutes)

4. Stanislav Grof, The New Scientific Paradigm, June 1985. An original member of the transpersonal psychology network and author on topics such as appropriate use of psycho-active substances, discusses his current view of consciousness. (117 minutes)

5. Rupert Sheldrake, Morphic Resonance and The New Science of Life, June 1985. A British geneticist relates his theories on biological and psychological development and discusses some empirical tests of these theories. (108 minutes)

6. Kenneth Ring, The Near-Death Experience, June 1985. The author of Life at Death and Heading Toward Omega discusses his research on the near-death experience and some of its implications for the future of the human race. (114 minutes)

7. Albert Hofmann, December 1984. The discoverer of LSD talks to Stanislav Grof about his early experiences with this and other psycho-active drugs. He also discusses some of the social, political, and scientific consequences of LSD. (92 minutes)

8. Anne Armstrong and Elizabeth Stratton, December 1984. Two longtime students, practitioners, and teachers of psychic work discuss with Nancy Knapp their practices and perspectives related to psychic counseling and healing. (56 minutes)

9. Terence McKenna, Fractal Perspectives on the Millennium, August 1985. The author of The Invisible Landscape gives his vision of the future, centering around the evolution of human consciousness. (72 minutes)

10. Jack Rosenberg, One Hour and Twenty-Nine Minutes with Jack Rosenberg and Integrative Body Practice, September 1985. The Venice, California, practitioner gives his view of personality development and some of the typical patterns of interaction in relationship. (89 minutes)

11. Esalen. This 18-minute videotape tells Esalen's story from its early history to the present. The visuals consist of 130 color slides featuring scenes of the Big Sur coast, Esalen's garden, grounds, and various workshops and activities.

Ordering Information

Each speaker program costs $55 to purchase, $25 to rent. The Esalen tape costs $35 to purchase, $15 to rent. To order any of these tapes (VHS only), indicate: purchase or rental (one week), program #, and title. To your subtotal, add $5 shipping and handling ($12 for overseas orders). California residents add 6% tax for sales only. Include your name, address, and phone number. Please address your order (with a check payable to Esalen Institute) to the Esalen Media Center.

FRIENDS OF ESALEN

We invite you to join us in our organization—the Friends of Esalen scholarship fund.

Friends of Esalen provides financial aid to people who are eager to attend our workshops but who cannot afford them.

We believe that one of our first priorities is to make our programs available on a broader basis. We have therefore decided to use membership contributions to fund such scholarships. Esalen will, in turn, match your contribution.

In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen, you will receive the Esalen Catalog for one year. We hope you feel your experience at Esalen was worth the sharing and that you will join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.

☐ I wish to become a Friend of Esalen and I enclose my check for the category marked.

☐ I wish to renew my membership in Friends of Esalen.

☐ One Year Student $15
☐ One Year Individual $25
☐ One Year Donor $50
☐ One Year Sponsor $100
☐ One Year Patron $500
(Contributions are tax-deductible)

Name _____ Student Affiliation _____

Address _____ City _____

State _____ ZIP _____ Date _____

Please mail to: Friends of Esalen, Big Sur, CA 93920.

AUDIO RECORDINGS

The Dolphin Tape Series

This tape list overlaps with others, but brings together more titles in the general fields of: the transpersonal, shamanism, psi phenomena, imagination, creativity, myth and legend. A number of titles are from the month-long workshops through the years with Stanislav and Christina Grof, or from one of the International Transpersonal Association conferences held in such diverse locations as Boston or Bombay. Nearly all events were recorded in stereo. Tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hours.

Single-tape titles are $10:

Anne Armstrong: On Being a Psychic, 1971
Anne & Jim Armstrong: The Power of Intuition, 1987
Armstrong/Stratton: Psychic Abilities Interview, 1984
Gregory Bateson: Metaphors and Butterflies, 1975
Joseph Campbell: Hermes, Alchemy, & Voyage of Odysseus, 1971
Fritjof Capra: A New Vision of Reality (Bombay), 1982
Lew Carlino: Writing the Screenplay "Resurrection," 1987
Bhagavan Das: Singing Meditation, 1974
Prem Das: The Singing Earth (Huichol Chanting), 1980
Prem Das & Don Jose: Huichol Ceremony Chanting, 1977
Prem Das & Don Jose: Huichol Chant and The Deer Dance, 1977
Ram Dass & Tenney Kimmel: Chanting with Tamboura & Dulcimer, 1970
Jan Ehrenwald: Psi Experience and the Bergsonian Filter, 1984
Jule Eisenbud: Psi Experience in Psychotherapy, 1984
Fadiman/Hastings: Psychedelics & Paranormal Phenomena, 1971
George Freibott: Nikola Tesla, The Inventor, 1984
Father Bede Griffiths: Doctrine of New Creation (Bombay), 1982
Stanislav Grof: Journeys Beyond the Brain, 1979
Stanislav Grof: A New Paradigm for Psychotherapy, 1980
Stanislav Grof: Ancient Wisdom and Modern Science (Bombay), 1982
Stanislav Grof: Principles of Holotropic Therapy, 1985
Arthur Hastings: Transpersonal Realities (Boston), 1979
Albert Hofmann: LSD and the Nature of Reality, 1978
Albert Hofmann: Interviewed by Stanislav Grof, 1984
Albert Hofmann: Transmitter/Receiver Concept of Reality, 1984
Aldous Huxley: Visionary Experience, 1960
Jack Kornfield: The Sound of Wisdom (Boston), 1979
Jack Kornfield: The Smile of the Buddha (Bombay), 1982
Stanley Krippner: Communes, Telepathy, and Dreams, 1971
John & Toni Lilly: Integrating Science and Mysticism, 1981
Abraham Maslow: Psychology of Religious Awareness, 1967
Terence McKenna: New and Old Maps of Hyperspace, 1982
Ralph Metzner: Symbolism of the Four Elements, 1979
Ralph Metzner: Maps, Models, and Metaphors (Boston), 1979
Henry Munn: Mushrooms and Culture, 1977
Henry Munn: Fable of the Vision Drink, 1977
Humphrey Osmond: Early Psychedelic History, 1976
Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance: Formative Causation (Bombay), 1982
Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance and Memory, 1985
Huston Smith: The Nature of Reality (Boston), 1979
Russel Targ: Parapsychology and Physics, 1972
Charles Tart: On the Paranormal, 1971
Charles Tart: Our Fear of Psychic Abilities, 1984
Andrew Weil: Psychoactive Drugs through Human History, 1983
Robert Anton Wilson: The I in the Triangle, 1984

Two-tape titles are $18:

Angeles Arrien: (2) The Story of Basque Mysticism, 1982
Angeles Arrien: (2) The Egyptian Tarot, 1982
Robert Bly: (2) An Evening at Esalen, 1982
Robert Bly: (2) Fairy Tales for Men and Women, 1982
Joseph Campbell: (2) Myths of Alienation and Rapture, 1970
Campbell/Keen: (2) The Dark Side of the Forest, 1985
Capra/Grof: (2) Beyond Time and Space, 1977
Prem Das: (2) The Huichol Cosmology (Creation and Return), 1977
Ram Dass: (2) One Man's Journey to the East, 1969
Ram Dass: (2) Creativity and Spirituality, 1987
Ram Dass: (2) The Heart of Compassion (SEVA), 1987
Stan & Christina Grof: (2) Holonomic Consciousness Paradigm, 1982
Stanislav Grof: (2) The Birth Trauma, 1981
Stanislav Grof: (2) Geometry of Psychopathology, 1984
Stanislav Grof: (2) The Cosmic Game, 1987
Michael Harner: (2) Shamanism, Songs, and Spirit Canoe, 1981
Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human (Boston), 1979
Timothy Leary: (2) The Power of Imprinting, 1982
Joseph Chilton Pearce: (2) The Magical Child, 1975
Kenneth Ring: (2) Near Death Experiences, 1985
Rupert Sheldrake: (2) A New Science of Life, 1982
Andrew Weil: (2) Use and Abuse of Beneficial Plants, 1982
Andrew Weil: (2) Interplay of Mind and Body Realities, 1982

Four-tape titles are $36:

Anne & Jim Armstrong: (4) A Workshop on Creativity and Spirituality, 1987
Joseph Campbell: (4) Imagery in the Novels of James Joyce, 1968
James Fadiman: (4) A Weekend of Stories, 1984
Roland Fischer: (4) Creative, Psychotic, & Ecstatic States, 1969
Jack Kornfield: (4) Buddhist Meditation and Practice, 1981
Timothy Leary: (4) A Day with Timothy Leary, 1982
Terence McKenna: (4) Psychedelics and a Free Society, 1984
Brother David Steindl-Rast: (4) Mysticism as a Frontier Experience, 1985

The Dolphin Vinyl Binder Tape Sets:

Joseph Campbell: (6) Courtly Love and The Grail, 1983	$60
UCSB Symposium: (6) Entheogens, The Spiritual Psychedelics, 1983	$60
John C. Lilly: (6) Ego, Self, and Essence, 1971	$60
John C. Lilly: (6) The East Coast Workshop, 1973	$60
Rupert Sheldrake: (6) Seminar on the Presence of the Past, 1985	$60
Andrew Weil: (6) Integrated Consciousness and Health, 1976	$60
Robert Anton Wilson: (6) Seminar on the I in the Triangle, 1984	$60
Terence McKenna: (8) Lecture Series I (1982-83) or Series II (1983-86)	$72
Terence McKenna: (8) True Hallucinations (A Talking Book), 1984	$80
Joseph Campbell: (10) The World Mythology Series, 1969	$88
Gregory Bateson: (12) The Informal Esalen Lectures, 1975-80	$98

Please add $3 to your complete order for handling and mailing (add $3 more if you wish priority mail). Overseas orders add $1 per tape for mailing. California residents include 6% tax. (Institutional purchase orders please add 10% to tape cost for invoicing and deferred payment.) Allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery.

Please mail your order and your check payable to:
DOLPHIN TAPES, P.O. Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920

Advertisement: Dolphin Tapes is a private company independent of Esalen.

BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

A

Jeanne Achterberg,
author of Imagery in Healing, has a doctorate in psychology and physiology and is an internationally acclaimed pioneer in the study of the mind-body connection.
p. 28, 37, 39

Stephen Aizenstat
is president of the Human Relations Institute and a core faculty member of its M.A. and Ph.D. programs in depth psychology.
p. 30

Hameed Ali
is the founder and director of the Ridhwan Work School in the U.S., home of the Diamond Approach.
p. 22

John Allen,
class "A" PGA member and former tour player, has been a teaching golf professional for over 20 years and a serious student of the inner game for the past 4.
p. 13

Tucker Elizabeth Allen
is an inner game student on a journey of self-discovery.
p. 13

John Amodeo
is co-author of Being Intimate, which describes how Focusing leads to greater intimacy. He is a counselor and contributing editor to Yoga Journal.
p. 17

Kris Amodeo
is a counseling intern in the San Francisco Bay Area. She co-authored Being Intimate and co-leads training groups and Focusing/meditation retreats.
p. 17

Anne Armstrong
has been doing transpersonal counseling for over 24 years and has trained professionals to use their own intuitive abilities.
p. 14, 21, 23

Jim Armstrong,
a former engineer, is a lifelong student and teacher of esoteric studies.
p. 14, 21, 23

Elliot Waker Aronson,
professor of psychology at UC Santa Cruz, is the author of 14 books on interpersonal relations, including The Social Animal, The Handbook of Social Psychology, and Burnout.
p. 21, 33, 34, 39

Jim Asher
has been practicing cranial work since 1973. He is a Rolfing® teacher and an advanced Rolfer, certified by Ida Rolf.
p. 28, 39

Nancy Azara
is a sculptor, painter, and psychic consultant specializing in the creative process. She is co-founder of the New York Feminist Art Institute (NYFAI) Women's Center for Learning.
p. 10

B

Nancy Bacal,
novelist, lyricist, documentarian, screenwriter, has taught writing workshops for years. Student of meditation and aikido, her work includes the award-winning film, Raga, starring Ravi Shankar.
p. 31

Jamie Baraz
has taught Vipassana (insight) meditation with Joseph Goldstein, Jack Kornfield, and Stephen Levine in the U.S. and Asia. He has led San Francisco area classes and retreats since 1977.
p. 16, 32

Vladimir Basilov
is head of the Central Asian and Kazakhstan Ethnography Department of the Institute of Ethnography, Academy of Sciences of the U.S.S.R., Moscow.
p. 31

Brit Broch Bathurst
is a Norwegian social worker and has spent many years observing cultures interact.
p. 29

Robert Bathurst
is a sailor, diplomat, and professor who has explored ways of explaining Russians to Americans and has created methods for revealing unconscious values.
p. 29

Leonard Bearne
has studied self-acceptance training with Richard Olney for several years. He practices gestalt, hypnosis, and Radix®.
p. 15

Bruno Bettelheim
is distinguished Professor of Education Emeritus and professor emeritus of psychology and psychiatry at the University of Chicago. His books include A Good Enough Parent and The Uses of Enchantment.
p. 21

Daniel Bianchetta,
longtime Esalen resident and workshop leader, is an intuitive counselor and also does body work. He is a student and teacher of meditation.
p. 19

Judy Blackstone
is a dancer, meditation teacher, author, and counselor. She is the founder of The Subtle Self in Motion, a method for deepening experience through movement.
p. 17

Ed Bloch-Farrington,
instructor and counselor at Monterey Peninsula College, has been leading men's groups for many years. He has been in private practice since 1971.
p. 34

Stephen Book
is an international/Off Broadway/regional theater director and teacher. On the faculty at USC after a long tenure at The Julliard School, he also heads his own professional studio in Hollywood.
p. 26

Sylvia Boorstein
is a clinical psychologist in private practice. In teaching Vipassana she emphasizes integrating meditation insights into daily life, especially with relationships.
p. 27

KATHLEEN THORNTOD CARR

Tao is mysterious and ineffable. It reveals itself in the hidden fragrance of a lone orchid in deep mountain, in windflow and watercourse ways.

–Chungliang Al Huang
Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain

Joan Borysenko,
medical scientist and psychologist, is president of Mind/Body Health Sciences in Boston and authored Minding the Body, Mending the Mind.
p. 33, 39

Myrin Borysenko
is associate professor at Tufts Medical School. He is an immunologist and medical educator with a special interest in psychoneuroimmunology.
p. 33, 39

Julie Bowden,
co-author of Guide to Recovery and Genesis: A Spiritual Beginning, is a founding and current board member of the National Association for Children of Alcoholics.
p. 15, 27

Jessica Moore Britt
is a teacher of gestalt and Reichian work at Esalen. She is a member of the Ridhwan Work School, which is dedicated to understanding personality and essential development.
p. 20, 23, 26, 38

Charles Brooks,
author of Sensory Awareness, the Rediscovery of Experiencing, has been a teacher of Sensory Awareness since 1963, often in conjunction with Charlotte Selver.
p. 20

Daniel Brown,
chief of psychology and director of behavioral medicine at Cambridge Hospital/Harvard Medical School, is co-author of Hypnosis and Behavioral Medicine.
p. 33

Judith Brown
has been a gestalt practitioner and trainer for 20 years. Her most recent book is I Only Want What's Best for You.
p. 39

Shirley Elizabeth Brown,
a physician, conducts cardiology research and is clinical instructor in medicine at the School of Medicine, University of California, San Francisco.
p. 20, 39

Mel Bucholtz
trained with the late Milton Erickson in the use of hypnosis and has a private practice in Cambridge, MA. He is co-founder of Nomad University and the Returning to Earth Institute.
p. 12

Joan Buresch
is a Jungian analyst in private practice, a training analyst, and president of the Inter-Regional Society of Jungian Analysts.
p. 23

C

John Caple
is a strategic planning consultant, worklife advisor to organizations, and writer with earlier careers as college professor and business executive.
p. 29

Paul Carter,
co-founder and director of Meta Education and Training Arts since 1976, leads workshops around the world on Whole/Parts Transformation, Ericksonian hypnosis, and creativity.
p. 11

Seymour Carter,
longtime gestalt teacher at Esalen and in Europe, combines studies in sensory awareness, Zen Buddhism, aikido, and other body-oriented practices.
p. 10, 20, 39

Michell Cassou
is the founder of an original approach to painting designed to stimulate and unblock creativity. She is director of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 10, 26

Stanford Eugene Cates
is an ordained minister, gestalt facilitator, and Trager™ bodyworker. He has worked with Paul Rebillot in the U.S. and Europe for eight years.
p. 24

Keith Chapman
is a psychiatrist with Jungian, existential, and shamanic orientations.
p. 29

Kenn Chase,
teacher of traditional Yang style t'ai chi ch'uan for 20 years, combines body alignment, relaxation, and breathing methods. He has studied with masters of t'ai chi, kung fu, and chi kung.
p. 20

Rick Chelew
is a musician and music producer. He has worked with men's groups since 1984 and has studied extensively with Robert Bly, Michael Mead, and James Hillman.
p. 34

Stephen Cohen,
an Esalen resident, gestalt practitioner, and Experiencing Esalen staff member, is a longtime golf hacker.
p. 13

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud
is the founder of Continuum. Her innovative approach to movement has enhanced the creativity of artists in many fields and has led to new insights into the healing process.
p. 32

Stewart Cubley,
artist and scientist, is co-founder with Michell Cassou of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 10, 26

D

David Darling
is a master cellist, composer, conductor, and teacher whose many recordings include Journal October, Cycles, River Notes, and Amber.
p. 18

Wade Davis
has worked as a plant explorer, ethnobotanist, and photographer through the Harvard Botanical Museum. He is the author of The Serpent and the Rainbow.
p. 21

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)
is a certified Radix® teacher on Esalen's gestalt staff, with over 13 years of experience combining Reichian body work, vision work, movement, ritual, and meditation.
p. 15, 21, 27

Tim Doyle
is a photographer. He also has a master's degree in experimental psychology and lives in southern California.
p. 15

E

Esalen Massage Practitioners:
Char Brenner, Laurie Schutz, Arthur Munver, Vicki Topp, and Attila Vaas.
p. 12, 14, 20, 31, 33, 37, 39

F

Jerry Fletcher
is president and founder of High Performance Dynamics, Inc., a management consulting and training company based in San Anselmo, CA.
p. 23

Kathleen Fletcher
is a trainer and consultant in organizational development, working in both the profit and nonprofit sectors.
p. 23

Joyce Frazee,
gestalt and dream work practitioner for 15 years in Vancouver, Canada, has training in Jungian dream analysis, bioenergetics, and group process.
p. 13, 21

G

Elinor Gadon
uses images and symbols from the visual arts and popular media for analysis of self in culture. She is the author of the forthcoming The Once and Future Goddess: A Symbol for Our Time.
p. 16

Mariah Fenton Gladis,
a gestalt practitioner and trainer, founded and directed the Bucks County Institute for 12 years. She is currently co-director of the Pennsylvania Gestalt Institute.
p. 35

Bernard Glassman,
Zen priest, received dharma transmission from Taizan Maezumi roshi. He holds a doctorate in mathematics and worked in the aerospace industry for 15 years.
p. 34

Mary Goldenson (Devarani),
a chiropractor, certified Radix® teacher, and doctoral candidate in clinical psychology, is in private practice in West Los Angeles.
p. 16, 27, 32, 37, 39

Herbert Gravitz,
psychologist, is a founding and current board member of the National Association for Children of Alcoholics. He co-authored Guide to Recovery and Genesis: A Spiritual Beginning.
p. 15

Susan Griffin
is the author of Woman in Nature and Unremembered Country, a collection of poetry. She works as a consultant for the creative process and teaches writing privately.

p. 18

Hans Gruenn
is a German physician with a focus in psychosomatic medicine, self-healing methods, Ericksonian hypnosis, and the ritual circle.
p. 38

H

Robert Hall,
physician, psychiatrist, and teacher, has studied the mind-body process and meditation for 25 years. He is co-founder of the Lomi School and the Tomales School of Psychotherapy.
p. 22

Thomas Hanna
is director of the Novato Institute for Somatic Research and Training, editor of Somatics magazine, and author of The Body of Life and Bodies in Revolt.
p. 29

Michael Harner
has practiced shamanism for more than a quarter of a century and pioneered the teaching of shamanism in contemporary life. His books include The Way of the Shaman.
p. 30, 31, 37

Steven Harper
teaches for Colorado Outward Bound and the National Outdoor Leadership School, coordinates Esalen Wilderness Programs, and is director of Earthways Wilderness Journeys.
p. 12, 18, 38

Jane Harrington
is a certified Rolfer and Rolf movement teacher with extensive craniosacral experience. She is in private practice in Boulder, CO.
p. 28, 39

Richard A. Heckler
has practiced individual and family counseling for 10 years and teaches the Hakomi Method throughout the U.S. He is director of the Holistic Health Program at J.F.K. University.
p. 31

Richard Strozzi Heckler,
psychologist and 3rd-degree black belt in aikido, has worked with such diverse groups as the Army Special Forces, emotionally disturbed children, corporate executives, and inner city gangs.
p. 17

Robert Helm,
an Esalen massage crew member, blends a broad range of body work methods with the sense of presence he feels is the heart of Esalen massage.
p. 12, 39

Michael Herrick
is a certified Hakomi practitioner and on the teaching staff of the Hakomi Institute. He has a private practice in Boulder, CO.
p. 31

Jane Hinders
has taught voice and movement at universities and theater schools in the U.S., Canada, and France. Her work is strongly influenced by her studies with the Roy Hart Theatre.
p. 15

Maria Lucia Holloman
has been a seminar leader since 1982, teaching in Brazil and the U.S.
p. 16, 20, 39

Peggy Horan
has been practicing and teaching massage at Esalen for 18 years. She is a student of dance and movement.
p. 35, 37, 39

Paul Horn
is a flutist, jazz musician, creator of the Inside albums, a philosopher, and teacher of meditation.
p. 27

Chungliang Al Huang
is a tai ji dancer, artist-calligrapher, and philosophical entertainer. He is founder/president of Living Tao Foundation and director of the Lan Ting Institute, Wu Yi Mountain, China.
p. 27, 28

Terry Hunt,
a licensed psychologist practicing bioenergetic analysis in Boston, directs a flotation tank center for amelioration of somatic and addictive disorders.
p. 39

J

Dennis Jaffe,
past-president of the Association for Humanistic Psychology and director of the Center for Health Studies at Saybrook Institute, authored Healing from Within, StressMap, TM, and Take This Job and Love It!
p. 14

Eli Jaxon-Bear
is a trainer in neurolinguistics and an examiner with the American Council of Hypnotist Examiners. He is the past-president of a Tibetan Buddhist meditation center.
p. 17, 29, 36, 37, 39

Don Johnson,
author and somatic practitioner, is director of the graduate studies program in somatic psychology and education at Antioch University and coordinator of Esalen's program in somatic education.
p. 23

K

Amy Kaplan,
a dancer with movement training, teaches and practices at the Process-Oriented Psychology Center in Zurich and in the U.S.
p. 19, 20, 22

Norman Katz
is director of the Milton Erickson Institute of Hypnosis and the Behavioral Sciences of New Mexico. He teaches in Albuquerque and Santa Fe.
p. 23

Sam Keen
is the author of 10 books, including The Passionate Life and, most recently, Faces of the Enemy.
p. 22, 28

George King,
a massage practitioner for 27 years, specializes in massage of dancers and has toured with many companies.
p. 29, 35, 37, 39

Ron Kurtz
is the founder and director of the Hakomi Institute. He is the author of Hakomi Therapy and co-author of The Body Reveals.
p. 13, 31

L

Frank Lawlis,
psychologist and diplomate, is the founder of a behavioral medicine program and the director of 3 hospital-based pain clinics.
p. 28, 37, 39

Marc Lehrer
is the director of the California Institute of Clinical Hypnosis and Health Sciences in San Francisco and Santa Cruz. He is a senior tutor for Sierra University.
p. 23, 37

Dub Leigh,
longtime body work practitioner, was trained and certified by his friends Ida Rolf, Moshe Feldenkrais, and Tanouye roshi.
p. 23, 24, 39

Annie Styron Leonard
is a founder of the Energy Training Institute in Mill Valley, CA, and an aikido black belt.
p. 34, 37

George Leonard
is author of Education and Ecstasy, The Transformation, The Silent Pulse, and Walking on the Edge of the World. He holds a 3rd-degree black belt in aikido.
p. 32, 37

Linda Leonard
is a Jungian analyst and author, whose books include The Wounded Woman, On the Way to the Wedding, and the forthcoming Witness to the Fire.
p. 29

Jean Liedloff,
author of The Continuum Concept, consults privately and leads training/discussions on non-adversarial child care.
p. 30, 31

Bill Liles
has been a body work practitioner at Esalen since 1971 and has taught polarity massage since 1973. He studied polarity with Randolph Stone and Pierre Pannetier.
p. 20

Elisa Lodge
trained in structural integration with Ida Rolf and is an advanced teacher of Rolf movement and integration.
p. 10, 23, 29

Francis Lu
is an assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of California, San Francisco, with interests in film and transpersonal psychology.
p. 34

Nancy Kaye Lunney,
formerly a vocal coach and accompanist for well-known entertainers, is a gestalt practitioner, director of programming at Esalen, and a guest faculty member at Cornell University.
p. 12, 31

M

Dean Marson
is a member of the Esalen massage crew. His interests include subtle body work methods of self-care.
p. 18, 21, 36, 39

Peter Muryo Matthiessen
is a Zen priest and senior instructor at Zen Community of New York. He is the winner of the National Book Award for The Snow Leopard.
p. 34

Heather Maycock-Ogilvy
is a licensed psychologist in private practice in Palo Alto, CA. Play therapy and longterm psychodynamic processes are her present modalities, informed by previous experience in body work.
p. 21

Kat McKenna
is an artist, mother, and traveler through nature.
p. 10

Terence McKenna
authored The Invisible Landscape and Psilocybin: Magic Mushroom Grower's Guide. He studied shamanism at UC Berkeley and has lived in tropical Asia and the Amazon.
p. 10, 22

Deborah Anne Medow,
Esalen group leader and body work practitioner since 1969, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, gestalt awareness, and related healing disciplines throughout the U.S. and Europe.
p. 21, 25, 31, 36, 39

Jane Miletich,
longtime Big Sur resident and Esalen masseuse, is an instructor of hatha yoga, t'ai chi, and transitional cleansing diets. She is a student of Ayurveda, the science of self-healing.
p. 26

Hugh Milne,
third generation Scottish osteopath with 20 years' experience, has practiced and taught cranial work, healing, and psychometry in England, India, Switzerland, and the U.S. He lives in Santa Fe, NM.
p. 18, 39

Arnold Mindell,
founder of the Institute for Process-Oriented Psychology, is a Jungian training analyst and author of Dreambody, Working with the Dreaming Body, and The Dreambody in Relationships.
p. 19, 20, 22

Kathleen Mooney
is co-founder and associate director of the Center for Cognitive Therapy in Newport Beach and editor of the International Cognitive Therapy Newsletter.
p. 15

Beverly Kitaen Morse
is a marriage and family counselor in private practice in Santa Monica and a senior instructor at the Rosenberg-Rand Institute for Integrative Body Psychotherapy.
p. 21, 31, 36, 37

N

Claudio Naranjo,
theorist of growth disciplines and former resident at Esalen, introduced meditation as a component of gestalt practice.
p. 23

John Nicholas,
a graduate of the C.G. Jung Institute in Zurich, is a teacher, counselor, author, analyst, and international career management consultant.
p. 17

O

Violet Oaklander,
a psychologist in Santa Barbara, CA, is the author of Windows to Our Children: A Gestalt Therapy Approach to Children and Adolescents. She leads workshops throughout the world.
p. 16

Jay Ogilvy
is the author of Many Dimensional Man. He taught philosophy at Yale and Williams and is now directing Esalen's Dialogues on Philosophy program.
p. 28

Richard Olney
has studied with Watts, Perls, and Lowen, and more recently has been influenced by the eidetic imagery work of Akhter Ahsen. He has presented self-acceptance training in the U.S. and Europe.
p. 15

Mark Olsen
is a mask-maker and movement instructor. He is a certified teacher of stage combat, a solo performer, and previous member of the International Company of Mummenschanz.
p. 15

Dean Ornish,
physician and author of Stress, Diet, and Your Heart, is assistant clinical professor of medicine at the UCSF School of Medicine and president of the Preventive Medicine Research Institute.
p. 20, 39

Kathleen O'Shaughnessy,
an Esalen body worker since 1981, integrates multiple ways of viewing the body. She teaches Continuum movement, self-healing, and meditation in England, Canada, and the U.S.
p. 33, 39

Brita Ostrom,
a longtime Esalen massage practitioner, incorporates Trager™ training and gestalt awareness work with the personal energetic connection of the Esalen massage.
p. 31

P

Christine Padesky
is a psychologist and director of the Center for Cognitive Therapy in Newport Beach, CA, who has instructed American and European cognitive counselors.
p. 15

Rick Paine,
psychologist, works with adult children of alcoholics and leads workshops for emerging men. He is on the faculties of the New York Open Center, Interface, and Spring Hill Institute.
p. 19

Karen Paine-Gernée
leads groups for adult children of alcoholics in Cambridge, MA. She is on the faculties of Omega Institute, The New York Open Center, Interface, and Spring Hill Institute.
p. 19

Wendy Palmer,
faculty member of the Center for the Investigation and Training of Intuition, holds a 3rd-degree black belt in aikido and is co-founder of the Tamalpais Aikido and International Movement Arts Center.
p. 18

Laurie Lioness Parizek,
a member of the Esalen massage crew and teaching staff since 1974, integrates traditional and innovative approaches to healing the body, mind, and spirit.
p. 18

Ayala Pines,
social psychologist at UC Berkeley and a psychologist in private practice, is author of Burnout in Love and Marriage and co-author of Career Burnout: Causes and Cures.
p. 32, 34, 39

Christine Stewart Price
is a teacher and ongoing student of gestalt practice and other approaches to developing awareness.
p. 13, 20, 29, 37

Jill Purce
is author of The Mystic Spiral. She investigated the mystical dimension of sound with Karlheinz Stockhausen and the magical use of the voice and overtone chanting with Tibetan lamas.
p. 14

R

Paul Rebillot,
a group leader at Esalen for 16 years, combines gestalt methodology with theater and ritual. He divides his time between Europe and the U.S.
p. 24, 33

Stephen Rhinesmith
has spent 25 years in intercultural communications, international organization development, and citizen exchanges. He served 2 years as government coordinator for exchanges between the U.S. and U.S.S.R.
p. 13

Bernadette Roberts,
a lifelong Christian contemplative with a monastic background, is the author of The Experience of No-Self and The Path to No-Self, as well as a work in progress, Self: A Passage Through Consciousness.
p. 10

Rita Rohen
climbs mountains, rafts rivers, and facilitates workshops in Asia, America, and Europe. She formerly coordinated the Spiritual Emergency Network at Esalen.
p. 18

William George Roll,
professor of parapsychology at West Georgia College and lay Zen monk with Dai Bosatsu Zendo, focuses on the development of methods for clinical parapsychology and spiritual awareness.
p. 27

Jack Rosenberg,
a psychologist and director of the Rosenberg-Rand Institute of Integrative Body Psychotherapy in Venice, CA, is the author of the new book Body, Self, and Soul.
p. 21, 31, 36, 37

Ilana Rubenfeld,
pioneer of 25 years in the body-mind-spirit field and originator of the Rubenfeld Synergy Method®, is a certified teacher of the Alexander Technique and Feldenkrais® and is a gestalt practitioner.
p. 24, 25, 39

S

Stephano Sabetti,
founder of the Institute for Life Energy® and the Life Energy Process™, has a doctorate in psychology and is an acupuncturist. He is also an organizational consultant.
p. 12, 30

David Schiffman,
a longtime group leader at Esalen, is involved in developing full expression of mental, physical, and spiritual states of being.
p. 13, 14, 17, 22, 24, 28, 34

Stephen Schoen,
psychiatrist, longtime Esalen leader and teacher throughout the U.S. and Europe, is author of Presence of Mind: Literary and Philosophical Roots of a Wise Therapy.
p. 23

Will Schutz,
founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of The Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations. He is the author of Joy and Profound Simplicity.
p. 17, 29

Alan Schwartz,
longtime Esalen group leader, college professor, and gestalt practitioner in NYC, authored the recently published Life Force – Death Force: The Structure of Human Energy and the Biology of Greed.
p. 25, 26

Cynthia Scott,
psychologist and organizational consultant in mastering change and professional career development, authored Heal Thyself, From Burnout to Balance, StressMap, and Take This Job and Love It!
p. 14

Warren Selinger
is a business manager and crisis intervention counselor.
p. 24

Charlotte Selver,
student of Elsa Gindler, introduced Sensory Awareness to the U.S. and has been closely connected with Esalen and the San Francisco Zen Center since their beginnings.
p. 20

Phyllis Shankman
is a licensed counselor in private practice in West Los Angeles. She has been leading groups at Esalen for over 10 years.
p. 20

Rupert Sheldrake
is a biologist and author of A New Science of Life and The Presence of the Past: Morphic Resonance and the Habits of Nature.
p. 12

Master D.K. Shin
has spent more than 34 years studying martial arts, including Tae Kwon Do, Hap Ki Do, and various Chinese martial arts. He is currently an instructor for the U.S. Army.
p. 23

Fred Shoemaker,
an inner game teacher and golf professional, is a former golf coach at UC Santa Barbara and has written about the inner game for Golf magazine.
p. 13

Anne Nechama Simkin
trained in gestalt with Erv and Miriam Polster and Jim Simkin, and has conducted workshops internationally.
p. 18, 31

Edward Smith,
adjunct professor of psychology, Georgia State University, editor of The Growing Edge of Gestalt Therapy and Gestalt Voices, and author of Sexual Aliveness, has been a workshop leader since 1971.
p. 32

Elliot Sobel
was the editor of New Sun magazine, author of The Manual of Good Luck, and performer in the Mirrors Theatre and Dance Troupe.
p. 24

Bob Solomon
has taught philosophy at Harvard, Princeton, Michigan, and currently, Texas. He is the author of The Passions and Love.
p. 28

Kathleen Riordan Speeth
is a psychologist interested in Bach, Rilke, renaissance humanism, mysticism, creativity, excellence, and human evolution. She edited The Essential Psychotherapies.
p. 28

Brother David Steindl-Rast,
Benedictine monk, hermit, psychologist, and author, has lectured on all five continents. He is concerned with the spiritual challenges of our time.
p. 31

Elizabeth Stratton,
a psychic healer and counselor in private practice in New York City, leads workshops in self-healing, psychic self-defense, and psychic development for health professionals.
p. 25, 26

T

Lawrence Telles
has a doctorate in philosophy and is senior mental health program specialist, Santa Clara County, CA.
p. 21, 39

Mary Tesoro
is a certified Leonard Energy Training instructor, writer, and aikido practitioner whose work embraces issues of human health, potential, and peak performance.
p. 25

Gabriele Thomson
has conducted workshops for health professionals in Europe, Australia, and New Zealand. She supports individuals in healing childhood traumas and furthering spiritual development.
p. 21, 33

V

Antoinette Varner
is an acupuncturist, herbalist, and movement teacher whose work integrates cognitive learning, the body, and spiritual experience. She has an acupuncture practice in Mill Valley, CA.
p. 17, 29, 36, 37, 39

W

Andrew Weil
is associate director of the Division of Social Perspectives in Medicine, College of Medicine, Univ. of Arizona. He teaches alternative medicine, mind-body interactions, and medical botany.
p. 21, 35

Barbara White
is a former executive director of the Association for Transpersonal Psychology, a counselor, and Feldenkrais® practitioner.
p. 34

David Whyte
is a poet and storyteller. He is the author of Songs for Coming Home, a collection of poetry, and is currently at work on his second volume of poems. He leads workshops throughout the U.S.
p. 16

Colin Wilson
is a British author of more than 50 books covering a wide range of subjects. He has written biographies of Jung, Maslow, Steiner, Gurdjieff, and most recently, Aleister Crowley.
p. 18

Marion Woodman
received her training and Diplomate from the C.G. Institute in Zurich. She has authored books on eating disorders, the body, addictions, and the nature of the feminine.
p. 34

Z

Janet Zuckerman
is founder of the Feeling Center in Big Sur, CA. She has been teaching at Esalen for the past 14 years.
p. 10, 22, 28, 35, 38

ESALEN INSTITUTE RESERVATIONS

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. In completing the form, please indicate the name, address, and telephone number of each person registering and clearly indicate the title of the workshop for which each person is reserving a place. A nonrefundable deposit for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (See General Information, page 50.)

(Please Print)

Name _____ Sex M ☐ F ☐

Address _____

City, State _____ ZIP _____

Telephone Number: Home: Area Code ( ) _____ Work: Area Code ( ) _____

Occasionally there are unexpected situations that require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you? _____. If you can't be reached, please call us before your scheduled arrival for final confirmation. Please indicate your second choice for a workshop, in case your first choice is canceled and we are unable to reach you.

(On additional paper please repeat the above information for every person in your party making a reservation.
Mail to: Reservations, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.)

☐ Check if you want housing as a couple.
☐ Check if you want the discounted bunkbed option (see page 9).
☐ Check if you want the discounted student sleeping bag option (see page 9).

All of our rooms are non-smoking.

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form. Please allow three weeks for scholarship processing. For further details, see Ways of Being at Esalen, page 9.

Bus Service: I want bus service from (check one):

☐ Monterey Greyhound Bus Station at approximately 3:45 PM
☐ Monterey Airport at approximately 4:00 PM

on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays & Sundays only).

The $25 per person charge is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the bus change after you submit this reservation, please notify us. The only departing bus service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM. Esalen bus service is not available at any time other than as listed.

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

We are unable to act as a banking service for our guests. Please bring adequate funds for your stay.

Name of Person Registering	Date(s)	Leader's Name/Title of Workshop	Deposit Enclosed

Total amount enclosed: $ _____

Please make checks payable to Esalen Institute, in U.S. currency only.
Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks.

Your reservation can be charged to:

☐ MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express

Card No. _____

Expiration Date _____

Authorizing Signature _____

All workshops require nonrefundable reservation fees. See page 50. The balance of program fees becomes payable at the time of check-in.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Our activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Esalen lies 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco, situated directly over the Pacific with the Santa Lucia Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was once the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esselen.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute – By Reservation Only.

Fees and Reservations: In order to reserve a space in any workshop, we require the following reservation fees:

Weekend:	$50	Two-week:	$200
Five-day:	$100	Three-week:	$300
Seven-day:	$150	Month-long:	$400

Fees are payable in U.S. currency only. Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks. Balance of payment is due on arrival. These fees are not refundable but, with five days' notice, may be transferred to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year of receipt. Those who pay in full at the time they make their reservations will receive a $10 discount. Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is canceled and we are unable to reach you.

Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Rooms are shared by two or more workshop participants. Camping on the grounds is prohibited.

We know it can be difficult to get through by phone, so we encourage you to mail your reservations. Please mail all reservations to:

Reservations
Esalen Institute
Big Sur, CA 93920

However, if you prefer to make your reservations by phone, please have your MasterCard, Visa, or American Express credit card number ready when you call. To make a phone reservation, call (408) 667-3005 during the following office hours:

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday
10 AM to 3 PM
Wednesday 10 AM to 12 Noon
Friday 10 AM to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8 PM

If there is no answer during our regular business hours, and the phone company confirms that our phones are out of order, please call our alternate number, (408) 372-8719, for recorded up-to-date workshop, road, and transportation information.

Scholarships: For information on scholarships and other economical ways of staying at Esalen, please see page 9.

Check-in and Meals: Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with lunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Sunday and end with lunch on Friday. Check-out time is noon of departure day. Rooms become available at 4 PM; however, guests are welcome to arrive any time after 2 PM.

Esalen's flourishing organic garden provides the kitchen with many of its vegetables and herbs. Our breads and pastries are baked at Esalen.

Seminarians as Volunteers: Seminarians in residence at Esalen are requested to contribute several hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out. A staff member will appear at your first workshop meeting to schedule volunteers.

Bus Service: On Fridays and Sundays we have bus service from the Monterey Greyhound station leaving approximately at 3:45 PM and from the Monterey Airport approximately at 4 PM. If you plan to use this service, please inform the Esalen office at least 24 hours prior to your arrival. The $25 one-way fee is payable to the Esalen office when you check in. Return reservations may be made at that time. The only departing bus service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM.

Gazebo School: Requests for child care should be sent at least one month in advance to Gazebo, c/o Esalen Institute.

Health Services: We are unable to provide medical supervision or pharmaceutical supplies. If you are on a health-care program and you plan to spend several weeks at Esalen, please arrive prepared to administer to your health-care needs.

Illegal Drugs: In accordance with state and federal laws, the possession or use of illegal drugs on Esalen grounds is strictly prohibited.

Lost and Found: To inquire about items left behind from your Esalen visit, call (408) 667-3019.

Accreditation: There are now a number of opportunities for Esalen resident scholars to gain credit with Antioch University toward a bachelor's or master's degree in somatic psychology. Many other formal educational institutions also recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Conferences at Esalen: It is now possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We schedule approximately a year in advance for large groups (up to 100). For further information, call or write the conference coordinator, (408) 667-3038.

Catalog Subscriptions: If you would like to receive the next three issues of the Esalen Catalog, please refer to the inside front cover for subscription rates and send your check or money order (U.S. currency) in the enclosed envelope, or mail it to Subscriptions, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

Although we're delighted to provide you with this issue of the Esalen Catalog, if you are not currently a subscriber we would appreciate your contribution to defray postage and production costs, which run approximately $4 per catalog.

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax-deductible.

The expenses of attending Esalen, including travel, are deductible for federal income tax purposes as an educational expense if incurred to maintain or improve professional or work skills. (See Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5.)

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

SCHKO

Chungliang Al Huang executing a high kick.

> You must concentrate upon and consecrate yourself wholly to each day, as though a fire were raging in your hair.
>
> – Master Daichi to his student, the samurai Kikuchi, upon ordaining him a Bodhisattva (one devoted to lifelong service)

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

Esalen Institute
Big Sur
California 93920

Address Correction Requested

Non Profit Organization
U.S. Postage Paid
Esalen Institute

THE ESALEN CATALOG

JANUARY–JUNE 1989

CONTENTS

Volume XXVIII, Number 1

Announcements 8
Audio Recordings 42
Biographical Information 43-48
Children's Programs 37
Conferences at Esalen 50
Esalen Notes 4-8
Esalen Seminars 10-34
Friends of Esalen 41
Future Programs 38
General Information 50
Invitational Conferences 8
Media Center 41
Medical Programs 40
Reservations Form 49
Scholarship Information 9
Special Programs 35-38
Ways of Being at Esalen 9
Wilderness Programs 38
Work Study Program and Application 39-40

Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920

Phones
Reservations: (408) 667-3005
General Information: (408) 667-3000

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday
& Saturday 10 AM to 3 PM
Wednesday 10 AM to 12 Noon
Friday 10 AM to 5 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 5 PM

Catalog Editor: Susan Stone
Graphic Design: Barbara Adamson
Photographic Coordination: Steve Beck

Consulting Editor: Nancy Kaye Lunney
Administrative Liaison: Patricia LeWine
Editorial Review: George Leonard

Cover Photograph: Steve Beck

Esalen Board of Trustees:

Mark Dayton
Steve Donovan
Jack Downing
Victoria Elliot
Stanislav Grof
Bokara Legendre
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Michael Murphy
Christine Stewart Price
Marius Robinson
William Sechrest
Jeremy Tarcher

©1989 Esalen Institute
All Rights Reserved.

The Esalen Catalog is published triannually by the Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920. Subscription cost for one year is $15 for the United States, $17 for Canada and Mexico, $22 for Europe and South America, and $25 for all other countries. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available upon request.

■ AGRICULTURE, ECOLOGY, AND MINDFULNESS

Much of our philosophy and methods in the landscaping, gardens, and farm at Esalen has its origins in organic agriculture, in ecology, and in the studies and practices of Rudolf Steiner, the Rodale Institute, Alan Chadwick, Richard Merrill, Wendell Berry, and others. One of the clearest voices to touch us has been that of Wes Jackson of the Land Institute in Salina, Kansas. In his keynote address before a farm conference in 1987, sponsored by the Steering Committee for Sustainable Agriculture, he spoke about the issues that challenge the global agricultural economy and ecology. Much of what follows here draws heavily from that talk.

Wendell Berry once said about agriculture: "We have never known what we were doing, because we have never known what we were undoing." Ever since the first plow opened the soil, nature has suffered. To this day we see agriculture in much the same way that we view industry. The raw material of the agricultural industry is the soil from which we extract our food. Natural ecosystems are seen as obstacles to production so we rearrange nature to fit our economic needs. Research in the universities and in biotechnology focuses on more efficient ways to mine the land and its resources. Disregarding nature's cycles, we extract nitrogen from natural gas and use toxic sprays to kill the bugs and eliminate the weeds. It's a linear, reductionistic process that isolates problems and inserts solutions. In our attempts to conquer nature we have managed to stay a short step ahead, and yet the very foundations of our biosphere are threatened. The bugs keep mutating, the soil keeps dying, and the food has lost flavor and vitality. Escalating health problems in the worldwide population bear out Wes Jackson's comment: "What we do to the environment we eventually do to ourselves."

To put agriculture on a solid and sustainable footing, we need to step out of the agro-industrial paradigm. Jackson continues: "Farmers are working with that which is potentially renewable and life-sustaining, while industry is dependent on an inherently extractive economy." From the ten thousand living organisms found in a teaspoon of soil to the movements of the seasons, nature is a dynamic cycle and offers the only viable new paradigm: a marriage between agriculture and ecology. Rather than relying on cleverness, it finds support in the wisdom and ways of nature; rather than being reductionistic, it is holistic.

At Esalen, in the landscaping, gardens, and farm, we're attempting to align ourselves with nature, entering the system instead of trying to manipulate or control it. We find all of the opportunities for mindfulness that exist in the disciplines of yoga or meditation in plentiful supply in the garden. It's a great deal more interesting – and challenging – to garden with natural methods, with things as they are, in a non-intrusive, thoughtful manner, and one that, on a larger scale, offers ways to rebuild and replenish an environment that's in a lot of trouble.

Steve Beck, Esalen Gardens Manager
Sydney Ocean, Esalen Landscape Manager

ESALEN NOTES

THE GARDENS OF ESALEN

By Robert Kourik

Robert Kourik is a landscape designer and freelance writer in Santa Rosa, California. This article is excerpted from "The Lessons of Esalen," which originally appeared in National Gardening magazine, January 1988. Reprinted by permission. For information regarding subscriptions or membership in the National Gardening Association, please write to them at 180 Flynn Ave., Burlington, VT 05401.

The Esalen Institute gardens, set amid the magnificent drama of the Big Sur coastline of California, are impressive for their relaxing and inviting atmosphere. The gardeners have made an art of blending color, form, texture, and scent. Yet as lovely as they are, these gardens don't exist for decoration only – they feed thousands of people each year.

When lecturing on edible landscaping, I always cite Esalen as a grand success in integrating form with function, beauty with bounty. I've been visiting and consulting with the gardeners there for more than six years. Sometimes I make suggestions, other times they teach me about new techniques and plants. The ingenious methods and cutting-edge technologies that are part of the daily life at Esalen can serve as examples to gardeners everywhere.

All of the institute's grounds – the garden, farm, lawn, ornamental plantings, and beds of cutting flowers – are maintained without the use of chemical fertilizers, chemical pesticides, or herbicides. Food production is divided into two distinctive areas – the garden and the farm. They're cared for by two trained staffers, three students with some gardening experience, and six untrained students. From August through October the garden and farm produce up to 90% of the daily fresh vegetable needs of 200 people. The rest of the year they provide the kitchen with 20 to 50% of each day's fresh vegetables. In addition, surpluses of up to 150 pounds of fresh, organic produce per week are given to Monterey's Meals on Wheels program for senior citizens at various times throughout the year.

The garden, covering ¾ of an acre, is the centerpiece of the property. It's near the main lodge and dining area and has a frequently used path running right through it. Sitting areas encourage people to linger and enjoy the surroundings.

JOYCE LYKE

A work scholar makes her way through the garden toward the Lodge. A daily harvest provides fresh flowers for guests' rooms, herbs and lettuce for the salad bar, and a variety of vegetables for the primarily vegetarian cuisine.

Planting the beds

In the early days each bed was a cornucopia of plant varieties, but now beds have mostly one crop each. Intercropping is used not for the sake of companion planting but for the best use of space and time. Precise, tight planting patterns save space and maximize yields. Quick-maturing lettuces may be tucked in among slow-growing cabbages or cauliflower, but long-term crops like carrots, onions, and leeks are planted in rows. With a bed of Swiss chard next to a bed of multicolored ornamental kale next to a bed of steel blue cabbages, there's plenty of color to keep the eye intrigued, while transplanting and harvesting are simple.

The garden has always been cultivated with some version of the biodynamic/French intensive method. The beds are all raised to improve air circulation, which helps prevent mildews and stem rots. Some beds are double-dug to place compost and sulfur deep into the soil where the roots can use them, but because of the years of soil development, not every bed needs to be double-dug before planting. In some, gardeners just lightly fork a one-inch application of compost with one pound of cotton-seed meal per 300 square feet into the bed's surface when transplanting heavy feeders such as crucifers, tomatoes, and peppers. Lettuce and salad greens are top-dressed with ½ inch of manure two weeks after transplanting.

"What should we do with the paths?" the gardeners asked me when I first toured Esalen. I suggested different options, many of which the gardeners tried. Over the past six years, Esalen's gardeners have used closely mowed grass, cardboard sheets with pine needle mulch, carpet and plastic mulches, and a clover ground cover. In the end they found that nothing worked as well as bare soil; all the other methods harbored too many snails and slugs. Now they use a Jupiter Wheel Hoe to clear the paths weekly. In less than two hours, one person can weed all the pathways in the ¾-acre garden.

Fertilizing the soil

The garden sits mostly on top of a large, ancient Indian midden or refuse pile (really a 12-foot deep, 3,000-year-old compost heap, since everything the Esselen Indians threw away was biodegradable). In spite of the luxury of gardening on top of 3,000-year-old compost, the intensity of cultivation and cropping requires a good fertilization program. The midden soil, a sandy loam, is easily leached of nutrients, especially nitrogen, so the gardeners mulch, plant cover crops, and till under green manures to sustain the soil's fertility.

Down on the farm

The three-acre farm is a short walk north of the garden, but beyond the area in which most visitors wander. The more remote location suits the farm's emphasis on production rather than aesthetics. This is where onions, garlic, corn, cabbages, apples, plums, lemons, potatoes, leeks, strawberries, squash, and tomatoes (crops that require plenty of space or are needed in bulk) are grown in large terraces.

The farm is cultivated with a tractor-mounted rototiller. Little time is spent forming beds; paths just fall where there aren't any crops. Weeds in the paths are mown or cultivated only when they threaten the yields of a crop. Steve Beck, the garden and farm manager, is particularly happy with the soil's fertility in one section of the farm that has been mulched for four years with cardboard and straw. "That area has the most friable, dark soil and the healthiest-looking plants – everything [in the way of nutrients] is there – and all we've done is maintain a deep straw mulch." And, Beck is quick to point out, "the cardboard works great in suppressing weeds, virtually eliminating our need to weed that area." Beck is careful not to plant slug- and snail-susceptible crops in the mulched area.

Climate considerations

The climate in Big Sur is not what most people expect of California weather, and for gardeners it creates some unique problems. The average total rainfall is 40 to 45 inches, all of which falls between October and April. Long, dry summers mean irrigation and the threat of forest fires. During the rainy season some storms have unleashed up to 15 inches in a single 24-hour period, and yearly landslides are to be expected. Winds in excess of 80 mph during winter storms are common.

From April through September a layer of marine fog can blanket the morning coastline, yet just a few hundred feet up the mountains the weather may be sunny and bone-dry. Though fog usually burns off by mid-day, summer fog sometimes lingers, blocking all direct sunlight for up to 10 days at a stretch. The fog keeps daytime temperatures in the 50 degree F range, while the sunlit hills register temperatures over 80 degrees F.

Like the Indians before them, the Esalen gardeners have learned to "dance" with Big Sur's highly variable climate. Nurturing a year-round garden requires a very big bag of tricks, skills, and tools.

Pests: Snails and slugs

With such a cool marine climate it's no wonder that snails and slugs are a problem. A three-pronged program of trapping, cleanliness, and harvesting helps keep these annoying little creatures under control.

For avocado and citrus trees, which are especially susceptible to snail damage, Esalen gardeners have found copper collars 100% effective. A four-inch copper strip with folded-out flanges, surrounding the trunk above the level of grass or weeds, keeps snails from climbing up into the trees.

To protect the vegetables, the gardeners practice an ongoing program of good sanitation and trapping. They leave beds unmulched and

From Weed Patch to Oasis

Selig Morgenrath was living on Livermore Ledge just to the south of Esalen when the Institute began operations in 1962. The land at that time was a weed patch from which Selig created outdoor "rooms" through the use of pines, bushes, and flowers. By the time he died in 1977, he had physically recreated Esalen from the ground up, establishing a blueprint for the landscaping that continues to unfold to this day. In 1956, the author Henry Miller wrote that Morgenrath was skilled as a painter in "fresco, oil, tempera, water color, gouache, crayon, pastelles, ink, any damned medium; he can also build a house, lay sewers, fix a watch, dismantle a motor – and put it together again!"

But, for Selig, the world was his canvas and living was his art. He saw the natural order of things with a clear, unexplained vision. Self-taught and more artist than technician, his landscaping reflects the best qualities of composition and proportion, the freedom and order of nature itself. Plants embrace the buildings, his stone walls and iron filigree fences seem to grow out of the ground.

Today, with the landscape structure that Selig created as a backdrop, Sydney Ocean, the grounds manager since 1983, focuses on native and drought-tolerant plants that blend with the local colors and textures. The flora and fauna that make up the landscape are ever-changing. Small adolescent pines that formerly screened parking, now as adults create a habitat for shade-loving perennials. For Ocean and her staff, the order and health of nature are their guides. Working with the earth is a dance in which they continually ask themselves, "What now, and what now."

–Steve Beck

PAUL HERBERT

The Lodge and grounds, early 1960s. Today, full-grown pines encircle the Lodge, a well-manicured lawn stretches down to the pool, and a different breed of car fills the parking lot, which has been relocated.

keep pathways clean of weeds and debris, thus limiting the habitat for snails and slugs. (Since the climate is moderate and irrigation water is plentiful, bare soil is not a problem.) Both ends of many beds are planted to a small trap crop of calendulas, which attract snails and slugs but are not damaged by them. Once in a while, the gardeners tear out a patch of calendulas early in the morning, removing dozens of these slimy pests, which they then compost or feed to the chickens.

One gardener sells the snails for 2 cents each to a snail "farmer" in Monterey who fattens them up for sale to gourmet restaurants as escargot. A cascade of ornamental iceplant (Lampromthus spectabilis) on a long rock wall at the farm is another nighttime abode for snails. Future escargots are also gathered from beneath the foliage of these plantings in the mornings.

Tempering the wind

The intensity of the winter wind and the prevailing coastal breezes at Esalen badly damaged early fruit tree plantings. The avocados were particularly hard hit, losing up to a foot of each year's new growth to wind damage.

But the gardeners have worked out several ways to block the wind from the garden and farm. First they built wind shields, large wooden trellises with cloth strips woven through the grid. The trellises are 50% open, which breaks up the strong wind but allows a gentler breeze through. If a trellis was a solid wall, strong eddies of wind would whiplash around all edges and cause almost as much damage as the unblocked wind. Tests in Canada showed that 20% porosity produced by four-inch boards on five-inch centers is ideal, but trellises with 50% permeability require much less support to withstand the coastal winds.

Another temporary solution resembles modern art. Gardeners wrap young, newly planted shrubs in spun polyester (such as Reemay), tied off at the trunk, until transplant shock is over.

Plastic row tunnels protect tender pepper seedlings from the harsh northern winds of spring. January transplants of tomatoes go into a cylinder of plastic-covered wire mesh to prevent wind chill damage. Young winter squash seedlings are transplanted under hot caps, then covered in tents of spun polyester as they grow. By mid-May, winter squash vines sprawl four or more feet in every direction and the first zucchini is harvested.

Within the vegetable fields at the farm, some annual plants are used as temporary windbreaks. Beck leaves a swath of the winter cover crop of bell beans on the north end of each 200-foot-long planting area to block the steady, strong northerly winds of spring and summer. He plants rows of sunflowers 50 to 100 feet within the fields.

For permanent windbreaks, the gardeners plant fast-growing Myoporum lateum and New Zealand Christmas tree (Metrosideros excelsus), which has very attractive crimson blooms in mid-winter, along with various tall Ceanothus species, Monterey cypress (Cupressus macrocarpa) and Monterey pines (Pinus radiata).

The beautiful Big Sur coastline has attracted many visitors. Combine the most rapid rise of coastal mountains within the shortest distance of the ocean anywhere in the world, with vistas of crystalline blue Pacific waters, dense redwood forests, pure mountain streams, the twice-yearly migration of gray whales, and a multitude of native wildflowers, and you have the ingredients for pure inspiration.

STEVE BECK

A work scholar pulls a radish from the patch.

And yet, this is raw, harsh land that has never been an easy place to settle. Because of the tumultuous terrain, remoteness, and unpredictable weather only the pioneers, poets, reclusives, rebels, artists, or the very wealthy have remained. Gardeners at Esalen have faced the challenges of Big Sur and created a garden that is perfectly integrated with the surroundings. Other gardens may be more efficient, but lack the aesthetic sense of Esalen. Some gardens feel more magical, but are a nightmare to maintain. When I want inspiration, practical gardening ideas, or just some time to soak up the feeling of gardening at its ultimate, I return to Esalen.

Weekend gardening workshops are now being offered at Esalen. See Esalen Seminars, June 16-18. Sunday garden tours are also available. Please see Ways of Being at Esalen, page 9, for more information. Saturday workshops are also being planned.

■ A SOMATICS STUDY PROGRAM FOR HEALTH PROFESSIONALS

September 24, 1989—May 1991

Faculty: Judith Aston, Charles Brooks & Charlotte Selver, Leonard & Bonnie Bainbridge Cohen, Emilie Conrad-Da'oud, Robert Hall & Don Johnson (coordinator)

This is the second long-term program directed by this faculty. It provides an opportunity to study with pioneers in the somatics field who work together in a cooperative, educational effort, emphasizing the commonly held questions, principles, and organic learning processes which underlie their individual methodologies. The faculty's interest is not in teaching specific techniques for accomplishing predetermined results with people; there are many institutes and schools, including those directed by this faculty, where such trainings are already available. Rather, the emphasis, as articulated by Charlotte Selver, is an exploration of learning in a disciplined way "to be there for what is and for what one does," which might be: the precise way a man with bursitis who holds his right arm close to his side also has a characteristic sinking into his left hip and feels that he is stingy with his loved ones; the boredom I feel while I am touching this person's back; the tears that form in this woman's eyes as I move her ankle, and the slight shift in her breathing; the way I react to the intensity of felt emotion; how I hold myself when in contact with another; the spontaneous images and metaphors a person uses when I am moving his leg; the subtle new movement in the spinal tissues of a quadriplegic woman as she allows herself to sense more.

The faculty members do not think of study or exploration as unstructured inquiry, but as a highly specific learning experience for refining the most basic aspects of work with the body. These include the abilities to: see, touch, listen, and move; sense the subtleties of body image, movement patterns, and breath; facilitate self-healing; perceive the relationships among small bodily movements, feelings, images, thoughts, and memories and understand how they relate to one's emotional life and patterns of health and sickness.

The goal of this program is for participants to refine their contributions to the health field. The teachers will guide participants into closer contact with their inner resources, emphasizing how to move through the barriers that restrict their imaginations and which block them from fully expressing and organizing what they know. The goal is not to turn physical therapists into Reichians or Aston-Patterning practitioners, but to enable them to become more effective as physical therapists, with more sensitive touch, greater skill in manipulating joints, or more awareness of the emotional movements in their clients and a clearer sense of the larger vision that motivates their work. [When you are considering applying for the program, it would be useful to ask yourself if you want to learn a particular method of somatics work, or whether, feeling grounded in your work, you want to further develop your own style. If "yes" to the first question, this program is not what you want.]

Each of the faculty members has developed ways of facilitating people in their process of discovery, in gaining more intimate contact with their inner wisdom. However, this project is not based on a superficial eclecticism, an overview of the common elements in the various specific methods. Rather, it offers participants an arena in which to deepen what they already know and to realize their unique ways of perceiving reality.

Participants should expect to be deeply challenged to explore their own emotional, social, spiritual, and physical histories: how those histories both limit and contain clues to their capacities for healing. The faculty's shared interest is in working with men and women "who will not complain about going slowly." They challenge preconceived ideas about how to perceive and work with other people, as well as attitudes about "fixing" others, as expressed by Charlotte Selver: "Our purpose is not to improve, but to be open for what is." The various works developed by the faculty over several decades are based on the assumption that the most effective healing happens in moments Robert Hall calls "bare attention," or, in Emilie Conrad-Da'oud's words, "when I realize that the self is movement whose primary motion is love."

An important part of this project is concerned with communication: how to speak clearly and directly out of one's deepest experience, how to communicate directly with one's co-explorers, how to transcend fears that create alienation. During the intervals between seminars, participants will be asked to document their clinical work in whatever media seem appropriate—notebooks, recordings, videotapes, etc. This will enable them to detail exactly what they are doing and to present a clear picture of their perspective. The faculty will provide supervisory contact and assistance during those periods. By the end of the two years, the program intends to have generated a body of clinical research from participants applying what they've learned to specific kinds of problems among their patients and clients.

The first of the seven seminars will take place from the evening of Sunday, September 24th to Sunday noon, October 1st, 1989. During this week, participants will meet the faculty and participants who are completing the first two-year program. Subsequent meetings will occur every three months, with faculty members rotating their schedule with the group.

This program is part of a larger somatics education project at Esalen. Experts from many fields related to the body—medical anthropologists, biologists, brain scientists, teachers of meditation, body-oriented teachers from diverse cultures, psychologists, artists, social theorists, and experts in somatics—are being invited to participate in the development and refinement of the field.

Twenty people will be accepted for the program from applications made before June 1, 1989. Admission is restricted to people in the helping professions—nurses, social workers, osteopaths, physicians, psychotherapists, physical therapists, body workers, chiropractors, etc.—and registered students in these areas. Artists, musicians, and dancers interested in the health field are also welcome to apply. Only those who commit themselves to the whole program will be admitted to the individual seminars. Those selected will be asked to confirm their enrollment with a non-refundable deposit of $500 which will be applied to the cost of the final intensive. To apply, please write a lengthy letter describing your background and experience in your profession, and indicate why you would like to be in the program. Please include names and addresses of two references who are familiar with your professional work. Send your application to: Don Johnson, Ph.D., 650 Shotwell Street, San Francisco, CA 94110.

The cost of the program is based on the usual fee for a seven-day Esalen workshop, payable at the beginning of each seminar. Fellowships are available for members of ethnic minorities; if you wish to apply for one, please indicate so on your application. C.E. credit and up to 30 units of undergraduate and graduate academic credit are available. In both cases, attendance at the seminars will be supplemented by directed readings and research papers.

If you would like more information about the program from someone who has participated in it, please write to: Dean Marson, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

INVITATIONAL CONFERENCES

In its continuing commitment to the fields of education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences, Esalen regularly sponsors invitational conferences that bring together experts who share their research and common points of inquiry. As host, Esalen covers room and board expenses for participants as a way of advancing these particular studies. These are invitational conferences only and are not open to the public.

The goal of these conferences is to engender the kind of creativity that comes from the collaborative work of people with similar interests but radically different approaches. We hope that the results will include expanded research projects, new writing, and more effective plans for the education of therapists. Currently scheduled programs and their conveners are listed here.

March 3–5
Philosophy and the Feminine
Jay Ogilvy

This weekend conference will address two questions: First, what is wrong with academic philosophy such that it has benefitted so little from contributions by women and, second, what would be the shape of a feminine wisdom?

March 5–10
Appropriate Governance
Donald Michael

What are the mythic, psycho-dynamic, organizational, and operational characteristics of governance appropriate for a world too complex, interdependent, and fractious to be guided by the modes of education, economics, child rearing, and government now available or anticipated? This eighth annual meeting will focus on multi-nation governments.

April 23–28
Holonomic Processes in Social Systems
Raymond Trevor Bradley, Karl Pribram & Nancy Roberts

To what extent is a social system like a hologram in that each and every part contains encoded within it information about the organization of the whole? This conference will rigorously investigate the utility of holonomy, both as a theoretical tool offering new explanatory power and as a new method for studying social systems.

April 30–May 5
Aristocratic Democracy: Trying to Lead the Higher Life in America
Stuart Miller

What is the relevance of the well-known social images of aristocrats—the Greek Hero, the Roman Senator, the Medieval Knight, the Renaissance Courtier—to our present quests for transformation? This conference will focus, in part, on that question and will explore the democratic paradox: men are equal, but all strive for superiority.

June 11–16
Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program

The Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program will host a small group of high-level Soviets and Americans to discuss how current changes in the Soviet Union are affecting our relationship.

June 18–23
The Mobius-Esalen Invitational Conference on Human Capacities and Social Policy
Stephan A. Schwartz

This conference will focus on human capacities research and relevant, practical applications in the formulation of social policy. Participants, who come from the justice, legislative, and physical and behavioral science communities, will discuss (1) the relationship between crime and nutrition, and (2) voluntary control programs, with an emphasis on assisting juveniles.

June 25–30
Esalen Conference for Practicing Intuitives
Helen Palmer

This conference will focus on the question of training business intuition. It will bring together practicing intuitives who have established a reputation for accuracy in the business community with corporate representatives who have expressed an interest in business intuition.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Physical and Psychological Effects of Meditation: A Review of Contemporary Meditation Research with a Comprehensive Bibliography, 1931–1988

By Michael Murphy & Steve Donovan
Softcover, 225 pages

In 1981, the Esalen Institute Study of Exceptional Functioning began a comprehensive review of contemporary meditation research. The project has since compiled a bibliography with more than 1,200 entries covering the period from 1931 through 1988, and has reviewed some 900 studies located in English language scientific journals or in doctoral and masters theses frequently referred to in the published literature. This review examines various outcomes of meditation categorized under physiological effects, behavioral effects, or subjective report, and compares them to results of traditional contemplative practice.

To order a copy, send $20.00 (plus $3.00 for shipping and handling) to: Esalen Institute Study of Exceptional Functioning, 230 Forbes Ave., San Rafael, CA 94901.

The Keys Institute: A Human Potential Center

Dorothy Thomas, former Esalen work scholar and cook, announces the opening of her retreat center in Key Largo, Florida. Situated in a private home on beautiful oceanfront property, the Keys Institute offers a serene setting for workshops and seminars. Visiting leaders will include longtime Esalen instructors John Heider, Christine Stewart Price, Nancy Kaye Lunney, Janet Zuckerman, Jessica Moore Britt, and Will Schutz. For workshop information, contact The Keys Institute, P.O. Box 3150, Key Largo, FL 33037; (305) 451-3519.

UC Berkeley Extension, in cooperation with Esalen Institute, presents:

Myths to Live By: A Tribute to Joseph Campbell

This Saturday symposium will focus on the power of art and myth to help us accept the divinity of all things and to become, in Joseph Campbell's words, "transparent to the transcendent." Presenters include Sam Keen, Robert Bly, Jean Erdman Campbell, Chungliang Al Huang, Jamake Highwater, Mickey Hart, and Phil Cousineau.

Date: April 1
Place: Scottish Rite Auditorium
19th Ave. & Sloat Blvd., San Francisco
Fee: $60

To register, contact UC Berkeley Extension, 2223 Fulton St., Berkeley, CA 94720; (415) 642-4111.

WAYS OF BEING AT ESALEN

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from a tour of the garden on a Sunday afternoon to a long-term stay as a seminarian. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the various methods of personal growth and self-exploration that are available here. The Experiencing Esalen workshops, scheduled periodically, offer an introduction to practices such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, and meditation. From such a sampling, participants can then choose those approaches they are most attracted to and pursue them in subsequent seminars.

Another way of being at Esalen which allows a much greater involvement with the place and its community at a lower expense is the Work Study Program, described more fully elsewhere in this section and on pages 39-40. For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more, there are frequent long-term programs which involve didactic seminars or professional trainings as well as experiential workshops.

In addition, there are other events which enrich life at Esalen. There are frequent forums in which writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights there may be lectures, films, dance performances, choirs, or other forms of entertainment. On Sunday afternoons there are garden tours. Body work of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners. Private sessions are also available for various types of process work, including gestalt, neo-Reichian emotional release, vision improvement, singing gestalt, etc. Finally, there is a community workshop program which goes on daily and provides many opportunities for engaging in personal self-exploration or learning new approaches to human growth.

Scholarship Information

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Allow at least three weeks for processing as we have many applications. If your application is approved, please make a reservation as soon as possible after receiving notice. Scholarship recipients may be asked to bring a sleeping bag to use during peak attendance periods. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

We also offer several other options to help reduce the cost of attending a seminar. In addition to the prepayment discount of $10, you may choose one of the following:

Student Sleeping Bag Scholarships: We are now offering a discounted sleeping bag rate for fulltime college or university students who are enrolled for at least 12 credit hours during the time of their Esalen stay. For more information and an application, contact the Esalen office.

Bunk Bed Rooms: Bunk bed rooms are available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three other people. Please call for current rates. There are a limited number of spaces, which are reserved on a first come, first served basis.

Senior Citizens' Discounts: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $25; for a five-day workshop it's $50. Discounts are available only when you make your reservations. Please present proof of age when you register. Senior discounts are not available for Wilderness Programs or Work Scholar Programs.

Room and Board

Occasionally, when beds aren't needed for seminarians, room and board is available. This gives visitors the opportunity to enjoy the grounds, the baths, massage, and good food without participating in a workshop. Accommodations are shared, and the rate is variable and subject to change. Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following day. We require that people pay in full when they make a reservation. This payment is not refundable.

Private rooms are sometimes available at an additional charge over the regular room and board rate. Special family rates are also available. Please call for specific information.

Work Study Program

The Work Study Program is an intensive work-oriented program for individuals who want to make a directed, personal commitment to self-exploration and growth and a contribution to the Esalen community. Participants can enroll in the general interest track, which gives an overview of several disciplines, or choose a more specific course of study from the focused track, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage, etc.

Information regarding special interest sections may be obtained by writing Bette Dingman, c/o Esalen. For a full description of the Work Study Program, please turn to pages 39-40.

Accreditation

Undergraduate and graduate academic credit is available through the Esalen somatics program, and many formal educational institutions recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Medical Programs

Some programs offered at Esalen qualify for continuing education credit with the California Board of Registered Nursing. For current C.E. listings, see page 40.

Garden Tours

Esalen is now offering to the public, from April through September, tours of the garden, farm, and landscaping. These tours are on the first and third Sundays of the month, from 2-5 PM. The cost is $10 per person; group rates are available. A series of Saturday workshops is also being planned. For more information, please contact Steve Beck at the Esalen office, (408) 667-3000.

Week of January 1–6

Acting is Doing

Stephen Book

The art of acting is, like life, the art of doing. Through "doing" we remove the restrictions, both inner and outer, which suppress the spontaneity of any human being. Upon release, this spontaneity shows itself as artistic creativeness.

This experiential workshop will reveal the various forms of "doing" available to the actor. Participants will learn the basics of improvisational acting, heighten and focus energy, increase communication skills, extend powers of observation and concentration, and discover new realities. This workshop is designed for the layperson. $575

A Look Within

Jessica Moore Britt

This will be a week for participants to attend to and explore themselves away from their usual busy lives. As they settle into the grandeur of Big Sur and the quiet within, they can begin to penetrate through their conditioned views of themselves and the world.

The point of inquiry will be the relationship of the mind, body, and emotions and the essential nature of the self. Participants will focus on understanding who and what they are, especially as beings of compassion, strength, will, power, joy, and presence. They will explore how their past conditioning and present beliefs block their awareness of these qualities in themselves. The tools for self-discovery will be an interplay of Eastern and Western practices, including Sufi self-remembering exercises, meditation, touch, movement, and Reichian/gestalt work. This time, dedicated to being present and looking within, holds the possibility for participants to open their perceptions so they might obtain a deeper appreciation for who they are. $575

Painting Experience with Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

It is rare for most people to use painting for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to paint purely for the process of exploration, not for the result.

The purpose of this workshop is to provide a setting to explore the self through painting—to discover in form and color a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to emotional and spiritual expression. Participants are given the support and stimulation to develop a natural way of painting based directly upon feeling.

The work takes place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, along with a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. The workshop may be of interest to persons involved in a wide variety of disciplines, including art, education, counseling, and meditative practices. No prior experience in painting is necessary.

For further information about this workshop, contact: The Painting Experience Studio, 2101 20th Avenue, San Francisco, CA 94116; (415) 564-8515.

$575 (plus $25 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Food for Health: Breaking Bread Together

Jane Miletich

This workshop offers a variety of approaches to healthy eating and food preparation. Participants will have their own kitchen for preparing grains, legumes, soups, nuts, seeds, sprouts, vegetables, fruits, raw salads, and fresh juices. Through classes, demonstrations, and helping in the kitchen, participants may practice Ayurvedic principles to understand why certain foods and diets may be better than others. All foods will be organic; participants are invited to harvest fresh herbs and produce from the Esalen garden and farm.

Mornings will begin with meditation, yoga, and t'ai chi. Massage classes, herbal baths, nature hikes, dance, and music will also be available. Through ritual, reverence, communion, and fun, participants can create the time for developing their own health practices and reaffirming their New Year's resolutions. It will be a week for retuning the body and spirit to their natural harmony. All activities are optional—participants choose their own pace. Bring your favorite recipes, hiking boots, instruments, and ideas.

Recommended reading: Vasant Lad, Ayurveda, the Science of Self-Healing (Lotus Light). $575

The Long Body

William George Roll

To the Iroquois Indians, the lived body is the "long body" and the long body is the tribal body. The long body incorporates people and things individuals are emotionally close to, though they may be distant in time and space and though they may no longer exist in the usual way. The long body is the experienced realm of personal and transpersonal memory and contains the ingredients for psychic awareness, prophecy, and pre-cognition. Since the long body is a remembered body, memory defines both its reach and its limitations. By extending the range of memory, one can extend the reach of the long body into the past and future and across distance. When we remember, we connect with members of our long body and incorporate them into the present.

In this workshop, group members will explore the long body as metaphor for psychical interactions, healing, and growth, and the memory as an access to long body awareness. Practice sessions will be grounded in research findings in biology, psychology, and the transpersonal dimensions of parapsychological (psi) processes. Through sound and movement, psi sensing of persons and objects, psychic readings, and psychic healing, participants will have the opportunity to experience themselves and each other as members of a living, sensuous being that includes the physical universe and extends beyond birth and death. From there, a fresh, joyful, and healing consciousness of the world can unfold.

This tradition pays respect to the tribal visions of the planet. It is not contrary to Western ideology, but it can expand the Western perspective beyond the moribund technology that threatens the world. $575

Weekend of January 6–8

Music Improvisation and Tai Ji Dancing with Chungliang Al Huang & David Darling

Cellist David Darling will join tai ji master Al Huang to celebrate the new year with Bach, jazz, and tai ji. Music and essential tai ji movements will be the inspiration for enlivening the creative life force.

Recommended reading: Chungliang Al Huang, Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Celestial Arts) and Quantum Soup (Dutton); Alan Watts with Chungliang Al Huang, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon).

STEVE BECK

The Esalen environment is oftentimes described as serene, tranquil, a perfect setting for study and self-reflection. It is also precariously perched between a rugged wilderness area and coastal cliffs which drop 100 feet to a rocky beach and the Pacific Ocean below.

Recommended listening: David Darling, Cycles (ECM), Journal October (ECM), and Amber (Narada). $325

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Beliefs, fears, and emotions from the past can continue into present relationships and interfere with spontaneous feelings of trust, love, and joy. The goal of this workshop is to experience and let go of these defenses and to help create new ways to relate – in the moment – to ourselves, to our work, and to those we love.

The workshop includes periods of intense body work for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which are reflected in the body as armor and tension. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released, and positive feelings can be experienced more fully. By also using dream work, massage, dance, and group process, a new capacity for loving can emerge. $295

Vipassana Weekend

Sylvia Boorstein

Vipassana meditation develops direct and profound awareness of the impermanent nature of all experience. It is understood that suffering results from the struggle to resist change, to hold on to pleasant experience while resisting unpleasant experience. Vipassana practice cultivates the personal equanimity which allows for balance in the midst of change while promoting the calmness and energy that lead to personal contentment and compassionate social response.

The format for this contemplative weekend will be periods of sitting and walking meditation using methods to calm the mind and body while developing a more focused attention. There will be guided movement sessions each day. A theoretical explanation of the practice will be offered along with ongoing instruction. Participants will be encouraged to maintain a spirit of silence throughout the weekend, with the final hours reserved for dialogue integrating the practice into daily life. $295

Week of January 8–13

Music Improvisation and Tai Ji Dancing with Chungliang Al Huang & David Darling

For workshop description see January 6-8.

$605

Recovery for Adult Children of Alcoholics and Other Trauma

Julie Bowden

The children of alcoholics movement is officially only six years old (the National Association for Children of Alcoholics was founded in February 1983), yet already treatment providers are being called to address depth issues and late stage recovery. Survivors of childhood traumas other than alcoholism have also begun to appreciate the healing power of the adult child message and are entering the movement seeking recognition.

During this week, specific focus will be given to the child within, to personal acceptance of self and the recovery process, and to the spiritual dimension of recovery. Recovery requires courage and commitment and is possible only for those willing to undertake the "hero's journey."

This workshop is for children of alcoholics, children of trauma, and also for the professionals who work with them and need time for their own renewal.

Recommended reading: Gravitz and Bowden, Recovery: A Guide for Adult Children of Alcoholics (Simon & Schuster); Bowden and Gravitz, Genesis: Spirituality in Recovery from Childhood Traumas (Health Communications Inc.). $575

A Week with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

Laura DeNuccio writes: "This workshop is for those individuals who sense an emerging consciousness that is making itself felt and heard personally and globally, and who are searching to fulfill both higher and deeper callings in their lives. The emphasis will be on learning how to meet and accept this evolutionary movement, exploring how to attend to the organic occurrences that life presents while continuing to move forward.

"There are traditions, both Western and Eastern, that suggest the microcosm of the body reflects the macrocosm of the world. If that is the case, a static body reflects a static world-view perhaps. In this workshop, participants may explore themselves as living, unfolding processes—physically, mentally, emotionally, sexually, and spiritually. They may find that through practices such as breath work, movement, and sound, aliveness and pulsation can be returned to the body, that unconscious thoughts and feelings which reside in the body tissue can be brought to life. Careful attention will be given to the mental processes that shape the physical and emotional bodies, with special emphasis being given to personal issues that emerge. Through the creative use of the Spoken Word, the need for bridging one's personal growth and inner experience with outer involvement in the world will be addressed.

"Practices will be taught which encourage participants to listen, feel, sense, and become acquainted with their essential core selves, from which arise creativity, wisdom, joy, and healing."

Recommended reading: Rodegast, Emmanuel's Book (Friends' Press); John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics Ltd.); Fields et al., Chop Wood, Carry Water (Tarcher); Alice Bailey, Education in the New Age (Lucis Publishing Co.); Florence Shinn, The Game of Life and How to Play It (De Vorss). $575

Weekend of January 13–15

A Weekend with David Schiffman

The purpose of this workshop is to create a more positive and open-ended self-concept. Through the use of structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role-playing, fantasy, and group process methods, participants can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis is on searching out unique personality strengths, individual capacities, and latent powers as a means of achieving productive functioning.

$295

Reinventing Love

Jay Ogilvy, Bob Solomon & Sam Keen

Love has seen good and better days. Among both the sentimental and the cynical, it seems to be a solution to our problems. Love has been described variously as mere instinct, as a gift from God, and as the play of overstimulated glands. Yet, without love, care, and compassion, the world is too meaningless a place to inhabit. The question for this weekend is how to reinvent love, care, and compassion in our daily lives. $295

Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Tai Ji Intensive)

Chungliang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

This workshop offers New Year renewal with the fundamentals of tai ji practice. Chungliang Al Huang will share the crystallization of his most essential learnings. He will lead participants in sunrise movement meditation, five-elements form, Chinese Qi Gong breathing, and life-force revitalization exercises with Taoist philosophical and aesthetic dialogues and discourses. Join the music, dancing, and celebration!

Recommended reading: Chungliang Al Huang, Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (Dutton) and Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Celestial Arts); Alan Watts with Chungliang Al Huang, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon). $295

Gestalt and Gurdjieff

Kathleen Riordan Speeth

All religious traditions stand trembling in front of the perennial questions. In their esoteric or practical form they demand that we know ourselves, uncondition ourselves, and master ourselves. How can we become impeccable? How do we find the creative balance between spontaneity and discipline, solitude and connection, responsibility and freedom, practicalities and visions?

The Gurdjieff Work synthesizes Eastern sacred technologies for the West. In this workshop, participants will make contact with the heart of the teaching, self-remembering. They will study themselves in terms of the relations of essence and personality, the role of character structure, the function of negative emotions, conscious labor, and intentional suffering.

Gestalt practice provides the ideal infrastructure for self study. The group will use it as moment-by-moment awareness training and as an interpersonal extension of meditation.

Recommended reading: P.D. Ouspensky, In Search of the Miraculous (Harcourt Brace Jovanovich); Kathleen Riordan Speeth, The Gurdjieff Work (Pocket Books). $295

Week of January 15–20

Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Tai Ji Intensive)

Chungliang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

For workshop description see January 13-15. $575

Acts of Courage

David Schiffman

To take risks successfully requires courage, grit, and wisdom, knowing one's heart and being true to the dreams that live inside it, good timing, an adventuresome spirit, and the confidence to act. The focus of this week will be to fine-tune this creative risk-taking and to appreciate the "acts of courage" required for the undertaking. Elements such as mutual respect, honesty, and tenderness in the group situation will help participants deepen their appreciation of what is truly valuable in their lives. Time together will include traditional psychological practices as well as non-traditional, innovative approaches with music, movement, guided imagery, and structural repatterning. $575

Craniosacral System: Basic Workshop

Jim Asher & Jane Harrington

This workshop will offer an opportunity to learn and practice gentle yet powerful skills to bring the craniosacral system into balance. The class will combine lectures and slides on functional anatomy of the membrane system and cerebrospinal fluid movement. There will be hands-on demonstrations of a variety of methods for tapping into bone and membrane motion, rhythm, amplitude quality, restriction, and interference. Demonstrations will be followed by supervised practice. Time will also be spent evoking and developing palpatory sensitivity and fine-tuning the quality of touch.

This workshop is for people with a strong interest in developing hands-on skills and for those already practicing body work or counseling. Much of the focus will be on the head, jaw, neck, pelvis, and diaphragm systems. Cranial work can be effective in shifting emotional holding patterns and draining accumulated stresses in the nervous system.

Recommended reading: John Upledger and Jon Vredevoogd, Craniosacral Therapy (Eastland).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 40. $575

Imagination as Healer

Jeanne Achterberg & Frank Lawlis

This workshop is designed for professionals in health care who include imagery/visualization in their practices and for health consumers who have integrated mental imagery of some form into their healing repertoire. Attendance will be limited to allow for interaction with others and for an expanded examination of imagery methods.

The presenters have stradled the worlds of science and healing for over a decade and have emerged with a new dimension in health. During this week they will offer their findings, provide tools for empowering the psyche, and serve as resource persons. Their expertise includes work with cancer, heart disease, immune and autoimmune conditions, AIDS, general stress disorders, and other chronic, disabling conditions.

Case studies will be shared, offering the great enlightenment that comes only from persons who are examining their lives in the face of grave crises. The attendees will be guided through typical visualization and imagery exercises.

The focus of this workshop will be the reintegration of potent visionary processes into their rightful fold: the nurturance of life and all that implies for health and emotional well-being.

Recommended reading: Jeanne Achterberg, Imagery in Healing: Shamanism and Modern Medicine (Shambhala); Achterberg and Lawlis, Bridges of the Bodymind (IPAT).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 40. $575

Weekend of January 20–22

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman

For many people, feelings are something mysterious, something to keep to oneself, or something to think about. This workshop is about all the steps involved in learning to experience, respect, and honor one's feeling process in a way that can increase vitality and personal effectiveness. Participants may learn to separate feelings from thoughts, learn from their own body rhythms, learn to contact their own wisdom, and participate in the choice of expression or depression. $295

Creativity and Addiction

Linda Leonard & Keith Chapman

Based on Linda Leonard's forthcoming book, Witness to the Fire: Creativity and the Veil of Addiction (Shambhala, 1989), this workshop will explore the archetypal images of addiction and creativity. These include the Demon Lover behind addictions which possess us and the Creative Daimon, the energy behind creativity which inspires us to new states of being. Dialogue with participants will center on the archetypal images of the Moneylender, the Gambler, the Romantic, the Underground Man, the Outlaw, the Trickster, the Madwoman, and the Judge, as well as images from the creative process and their parallels with the twelve steps of recovery. The material is drawn from novelists such as Dostoyevsky, Jack London, Jean Rhys, and Eugene O'Neill, with insights from Jung, the existentialist philosophers, and the stories of recovering addicts. $295

The Intelligent Body, The Sensuous Body

Thomas Hanna

Premise: Clarity of self-awareness and clarity of body control grow together or decline together. Participants will explore how greater sensitivity to the inner self enhances the body's ability to act and to relax and how this ability in turn enhances kinesthetic awareness.

The program will introduce gentle movements and use of imagery as well as instruction in the principles of many different kinds of body work and exercise systems – particularly that of Moshe Feldenkrais. There will also be demonstrations of how new sensory information can lead to dramatic changes in posture.

Those who wish advanced knowledge in systems of body work may find the weekend profitable, as may those who have habitual aches or have difficulty relaxing.

Recommended reading: Thomas Hanna, Somatics (Addison-Wesley). $295

The Right Work

John Caple

What is work? And what is not work?
– Bhagavad Gita

In this workshop participants will rediscover work-related dreams, draw power from life experiences, and clarify their vision of what they want their worklife to be. They will refine their sense of what is work and what is play and what is right for them.

There will be concepts to stimulate the intellect, processes to awaken intuitive wisdom, and a chance to bring it all together in a personal life plan. Some time will be available for individual work.

Who should attend? Those who want more value in their lives, career changers and potential career changers, re-entry persons, and those who influence others in making worklife decisions.

Recommended reading: John Caple, The Right Work (Dodd, Mead). $295

Week of January 22–27

Five-Day Massage Intensive

George King & Esalen Massage Practitioners

Participants will be instructed in basic methods used in giving a pleasurable and beneficial full body massage. Fundamental elements of body work, such as breath awareness, grounding, movement, quality of touch, and stress reduction, will be introduced. This workshop is available to beginners as well as to those who wish to brush up on their massage skills.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 40. $575

Completion

Will Schutz

Incomplete actions, be they personal or social, result in many of humankind's troubles: emotional – replaying early stuck relations; physical – chronic tension from unfinished actions; health – blood poisoning from uneliminated waste products; aging – caused by incomplete events; ecology – waste disposal problems, especially nuclear; spiritual – karma, unfinished business; education – Montessori's insistence on putting toys away; sports – the concept of the killer instinct.

What are the resistances to completion? What must happen to a self-concept to propel it toward completing cycles? These and other questions will be explored via the following concepts: theory of energy cycles, life history completion, health through imagery. $575

The Enneagram and Spiritual Growth

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

The enneagram of personality was long kept as a secret oral tradition in the mystery schools of Central Asia. First used in the West by Georges Gurdjieff in his work with students, it is an effective mirror for seeing and peeling away the last, most subtle, layers of personality. It can be a powerful diagnostic and healing tool in working with clients, as well as aid in developing compassionate understanding for ourselves and others.

Workshop participants will study the overall enneagram system while identifying their own core fixations. Various strategies, such as movement, will be utilized as ways of both learning the system and moving out of the different fixations. Group members will also explore the related spiritual challenges and lessons. They will have the opportunity to use hypnosis and neurolinguistic programming in open seat, creative myth-making, role playing, and movement as ways to clear the biographical level, heal old wounds, learn the lessons, and move on. The mornings will begin with Zazen and Taoist stretching to set the groundwork for the day.

The enneagram forces us to be ruthlessly honest with ourselves and offers a true test of our chosen spiritual paths. $575

Presence: A Fluidity of Being

Elisa Lodge

Elisa Lodge writes: "Presence is a power that arises from a deep sense of self-worth and trust. It reflects a broadened vision and wholehearted acceptance of the varied facets of being. It is a state of dynamic balance where there is no unnecessary strain of self-defeating awkwardness. One is at home in oneself and at ease with the world.

"During this week, participants can gain a deepened appreciation of the elements in themselves that contribute to this timeless state of fluidity and ease. They will have an opportunity to experiment and explore how their bodies' shapes and forms, emotional histories, and self-images are intimately intertwined. This growing awareness is the basic grounding from which the creative experience of presence can be known. Movement patterns, the ways we walk and breathe, also reveal how we inhibit or allow our personal power. As we become more comfortable with ourselves, we transform not only the way we might carry our head or make contact with another, but our whole way of being in the world.

"This work is based on an approach woven from gestalt, psychosynthesis, Rolf-movement, and performance art. Video feedback will be used." $575

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear –
And when used – is inexhaustible.
– Lao Tzu

Gestalt is as old as the world.
– Fritz Perls

Gestalt practice is a form – nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental – evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. This form is similar to some Reichian work as well, in that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged.

The emphasis is *intra*personal rather than *inter*personal. It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment.

Although open seat work is the primary form of this practice, guided fantasy, breath meditations, and movement sessions may be included.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Real People Press) and In and Out the Garbage Pail; John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics Ltd.). $575

Weekend of January 27–29

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

This workshop is designed for people who have not previously been to Esalen. Its emphasis is on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for the individual participant. These may include: sensory awareness, gestalt practice, group process, guided fantasy, meditation, massage. There is also time to explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Real People Press). $295

Talking to Russians

Robert Bathurst & Brit Broch Bathurst

When Americans are too nice, Russians become suspicious; if a business contract is too elaborate, Russians assume deception. Peace between the superpowers is the problem and communication is the key, but it is very difficult to say what you mean cross-culturally.

This is a workshop for citizen diplomats and those concerned with constructive approaches to this cross-cultural problem. Participants will talk with Russians, practice bargaining and negotiating for peace, learn about hidden language and cultural differences. In doing so, they will become more aware of unconscious values and more effective, perhaps, in finding strategies for peace. $295

Non-Adversarial Child Care: The Continuum Concept in Practice

Jean Liedloff

For parents, parents-to-be, and baby and child care professionals, this semimar will examine the true meaning of sociality as an innate characteristic of homo sapiens. Drawing upon her years of living with Stone Age Indians in South America's jungles, the leader propounds an approach neither punitive nor permissive that takes into account the generally unrecognized expectations and abilities inherent in our young.

Why do babies and children so often seek attention they don't need? Why do we see tots in underdeveloped countries and cultures following their parents and helping them with chores so early, while ours are frequently chased and tended, opposed, tolerated, and socialized for nerve-wracking, guilt-laden, unappreciated decades of drudgery and sacrifice ending in one degree or another of alienation?

As professor Robert Aldrich of the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development said, "Basic things about human nature we forget or ignore at our peril."

Recommended reading: Jean Liedloff, The Continuum Concept (Addison-Wesley, U.S.; Penguin, U.K.), German edition, Auf Der Suche Nach Dem Verlorenen Gluck (CH Beck, Germany). $295

Learning the Craft of Dream Work

Stephen Aizenstat

Dreams can be imagined as looking-glass parables, each a complex story that reflects the personality and soul of the dreamer. This weekend's program will bring emphasis to the healing potential of dream work. In so doing, the leader will review methods of dream work which consider the personal and collective unconscious.

In addition, new methods of dream work which take into account the world unconscious will be described. The world unconscious is seen as a deeper and broader dimension of the psyche and is imagined to contain the subjective inner natures (the subtle body) of all phenomena. It is believed that these inner subjective properties are reflected in the images of dreams and are, at an essential level, interrelated.

It is at this level of the psyche that dream images provide access to an interconnected source of healing energy. This view, grounded in modern research and ancient wisdom, has practical implications for the use of dreams in physical and psychological healing. Participants will be shown how to employ specific methods of dream work which honor and actualize the healing potential of the psyche. In this regard, common dream themes, nightmares, lucid dreaming, archetypal imagery, and the recurring dream will be discussed. $295

The Shamanic Journey, Power, and Healing

Michael Harner

Shamanism is an ancient human strategy for personal learning and for acting on that learning, using normally neglected or hidden potentialities of the heart, mind, and spirit. Shamanic methods can contribute to virtually any aspect of living, as they have for tens of thousands of years, and are especially useful for problem-solving, well-being, and healing.

In this experiential workshop, participants will be introduced to basic methods of the shaman (a specific type of medicine man or woman) and initiated into the classic shamanic journey. Otherwise known through myth and accounts of great spiritual experiences, this visionary method can be used to enter nonordinary reality to obtain knowledge, to answer personal questions, to maximize power to achieve personal goals, and to contribute to the health of oneself, others, and the Planet. Participants will be aided by traditional drumming and movement and will be provided with methods for journeying to discover and study with their individual spiritual teachers in nonordinary reality, a classic step in shamanic practice.

The shamanic journey can be utilized to help restore spiritual power and health and has practical applications to contemporary daily life. Practices this weekend will include comparison of discoveries and work on personal problem-solving.

Please bring a bandanna to cover your eyes, a pen and notebook to record your journeys and, if you have them, a drum and/or a rattle. Wear comfortable clothing.

Recommended reading: Michael Harner, The Way of the Shaman (Bantam) and Hallucinogens and Shamanism (Oxford). $295

Week of January 29–February 3

Ashtanga Yoga, Movement, and Massage

Deborah Anne Medow

The body is a boat which carries the soul in the ocean of the world. If it is not strong or it has a hole, then it can't cross the ocean. So the first duty is to fix the boat. – Baba Hari Dass

The primary focus of this workshop is to utilize the methods of the ancient system of ashtanga yoga, movement, and massage in "fixing the leaky boat." During these five days, a cleansing diet will be discussed and encouraged, and participants will be assisted in developing a solid basis for further development of the physical, mental, and spiritual aspects of yoga practice and massage. Topics covered will include yoga theory, purifications, breathing exercises, and meditation, with particular emphasis on asanas (postures). Afternoon massage sessions at the baths will help group members relax and integrate the positive effects of practicing yoga. Please bring loose, comfortable clothing. $575

Reinstating One's Original Self: The Continuum Concept in Practice

Jean Liedloff

In her years of living and traveling in the South American jungle with Stone Age Indians, Jean Liedloff observed an ancient norm of well-being. She feels that this condition offers a much needed paradigm missing in our attempts to attain individual and social fulfillment. She has developed and refined a set of principles for guiding clients toward discovery and understanding of the beliefs and expectations formed in babyhood and childhood that undermine the capacity to act from an accurate perception of self and other.

This workshop will deal in depth with the methods that can change a client's inner beliefs at his or her own optimum pace. It will allow participants to acquire an understanding of these ideas and experience their use both from the client's and the guide's points of view. It is for professionals and non-professionals.

Recommended reading: Jean Liedloff, The Continuum Concept (Addison-Wesley, U.S.; Penguin, U.K.), German edition, Auf Der Suche Nach Dem Verlorenen Gluck (CH Beck, Germany). $575

Word Magic: A Personal Adventure through Writing

Nancy Bacal

We all have stories and the ability to tell them. But when asked to translate them onto the page, many of us are inhibited by self-judgment. Through a series of exercises designed to bypass blockages, participants will be encouraged to move beyond the controlling arm of the critic and tap their reservoirs of personal experience. These exercises will provide an opportunity to turn the burdens in our lives into stories, the unwanted voices into characters, the failures and successes into material. They are specific enough to excite the imagination yet loose enough for the writer inside to experiment with form and images and remain open to surprise.

This writing workshop is designed to create a safe and stimulating environment for the non-writer, the would-be writer, and the professional. The schedule will include writing in and out of the group, walks, meditation as it relates to creative process, reading and discussion of pertinent material. The intention will be to coax the mind out of its cycle of expectation and disappointment into a positive, functioning relationship with our work.

Recommended reading: Carla Needleman, Work of Craft (Avon); Joseph Goldstein, The Experience of Insight (Unity). $575

The Life Energy Process℠

Stephano Sabetti

The Life Energy Process is a spiritually-oriented approach to body work and lifestyle which allows participants direct contact with the spiritual self through the use of energy vibrations. This is facilitated by specific intensive and subtle movements, depending on the energy level affected. Participants may find that these movements open them to their own healing channel and unique energy frequency. In this process it is possible to release unfinished emotions, radiational and chemical toxins, and psychological disturbances without forcing oneself in any way. From that point of greater clarity in the energy movement within their own bodies, individuals may move to the next step in their personal development. This energy work is continued physically and verbally through process inquiry and dialogue with the workshop leader as participants examine the superficial trace problems of their everyday lives and explore their deeper energy disturbances through energy patterning.

Other aspects of the Life Energy Process which may be included in this workshop are energetic forms of massage, dance, and theater, all of which can be used to heighten awareness, express inner movement, and create possibilities for new avenues of growth. Some of the work may be hands-on with partners. Participants will also be led in individual movement and dance patterns.

This workshop may be of particular interest to professionals and laypersons alike who are excited by the integration of Eastern and Western methods with the new physics for personal, social, and organizational evolution.

Recommended reading: Stephano Sabetti, The Wholeness Principle; Manifestations of Energy; and Shinkido Massage (available from Life Energy Media, 14755 Ventura Blvd., Ste. 1908, Sherman Oaks, CA 91403; (213) 874-7100). $575

STEVE BECK

The garden sits on top of a three thousand-year-old compost heap, or midden. Many Esselen Indian artifacts have been found there.

January 29–February 10

Advanced Training in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 35.

Weekend of February 3–5

Singing Gestalt

Nancy Kaye Lunney

Singing gestalt is singing about yourself, who you are, what you feel, who you'd like to be. Singing gestalt is about being yourself in front of other people without judging how well you sing. Singing gestalt is not about performance. It is about feeling and expressing.

If the idea of getting up and singing in front of other people terrifies you more than anything you can think of, this workshop is for you. If you love to sing in front of other people and want to stretch yourself further, this workshop is for you. If you've been too shy to try, this is your chance.

Some guided imagery and gestalt may be used. Accompaniment and lots of music are provided. Video feedback may be incorporated. But the workshop is really about you—singing. $295

At the Turning Point: Poems Can Help Us in Crisis

Brother David Steindl-Rast

Every crisis in life invites us to sift out seed from husk, that which holds promise from that which must die. Poetry can help this process of sifting, more so than many would expect. In a world of hypocrisy, poetry offers criteria for certainty—for as much certainty at least as life will permit.

The Benedictine monastic heritage, in which Brother David stands, has been called "the poetic heart of the Christian tradition." Drawing from the well of that tradition, Brother David will introduce poets as guides in crisis.

There are skills of the heart that can be learned, skills that may transform what appears to be the point of death into a turning point.

Recommended reading: Rainer Maria Rilke, Letters to a Young Poet (Norton); David Steindl-Rast, Gratefulness the Heart of Prayer (Paulist Press). $295

Week of February 5–10

Couples' Workshop

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

Most couples are reluctant to seek help in their relationships; instead, they wait, hoping that the relationship will improve. If couples approached medical help the same way they approach marriage counseling, many of them would only visit the doctor when they ought to be lining up the mortician.

Designed on a preventive model, this workshop will deal with the underlying structures and defenses in relationships before they surface as terminal problems. It will also examine the attitudes and beliefs about sexuality and how to make sex better.

Recommended reading: Jack Rosenberg, Total Orgasm and Body, Self, and Soul: Sustaining Integration. $575

The Hakomi Method

Ron Kurtz, Richard A. Heckler & Michael Herrick

Hakomi is a body-centered practice based on the principles of: mindfulness, unity, organicity, non-violence, mind-body holism. Hakomi incorporates non-doing as a major methodological principle and trusts in every individual's inner wisdom and power for self-healing.

Using the body as a rich source of information about the unconscious mind, hakomi can assist people in turning inward to those special states of consciousness where change takes place, to explore core beliefs which determine the quality of experience.

Hakomi work embraces the body-mind unity, supports the client's resistance, and encourages respect for and awareness of inner processes. This can be used by counselors, health practitioners, educators, body workers, and anyone invested in personal growth. This workshop also serves as a prerequisite for the formal hakomi certification process. $575

Choices and Changes Using Gestalt

Anne Nechama Simkin

Gestalt practice is a noninterpretive, existentially-based system in which awareness of one's feelings in the present moment is the primary focus. Human beings are born with the innate capacity to cope with life. As we grow up, this process at times may be interrupted, curbed and/or suppressed, along with excitement, creativity, self-expression, and self-acceptance. Most gestalt communications deal primarily with the immediate interactions of those present. Explanations, interpretations, and assumptions are discouraged. Concentrating on what is rather than on what could or should be encourages a person to take responsibility for his or her own actions. By becoming aware of what is potentially nourishing and what is toxic, it is possible to learn to make choices and to achieve integration.

This workshop is for persons seeking a new perspective, growth, and change and who want to reown those aspects of their lives that are nourishing. Participants will share experiences, explore new ways of coping with ongoing situations, search for the existential messages of their dreams, and learn to communicate with each other and significant others. The content of the workshop will evolve out of the needs and wishes of the group members.

Recommended reading: Corsini et al., Current Psychotherapies, Chapter 8, 3rd edition, (Peacock); C. Simkin, Mini-Lectures in Gestalt Therapy (available through the Esalen bookstore); Kutash and Wolf, eds., Psychotherapist's Casebook (Jossey-Bass). $575

Weekend of February 10–12

Weekend Massage Intensive

Brita Ostrom & Laurie Schutz

Massage is a practical approach to stress relief and greater sensory awareness. This weekend workshop will provide instruction in basic methods used in giving a massage, with additional work on quality of touch, breath awareness, centering, and sensitive rapport between partners. $295

Central Asian Shamanism: A Soviet Scholar Shares His Knowledge

Vladimir Basilov

Shamanism is an ancient tradition among many tribes and peoples in Central Asia and Siberia. In fact, the Siberian part of the Soviet Union is the home of "classic" shamanism, the word shaman coming to us from the Tungus tribe there.

While interest in shamanism is growing in the United States, few Americans have had occasion to learn about the shamanic traditions in the Soviet Union. In this non-experiential seminar, participants will have the rare opportunity to hear especially of Dr. Basilov's studies of shamanism among the Uzbek people of Central Asia and to learn about the varieties of shamanism practiced by native peoples in that area and Siberia. The presentation will include films and other visual materials as well as sound recordings.

Dr. Basilov speaks fluent English. He will be introduced by Michael Harner. $295

Intimate Relationships: Keeping the Spark Alive

Ayala Pines

When two people are in love, it seems like the magical spark between them is going to last forever. Unfortunately, more often than not, with the dampening effects of everyday pressures and stresses, the love is eroded and eventually burns out. Burnout is not caused by individual pathology or inadequacy, and it is not caused by major dramatic events. It is caused by a buildup of petty annoyances, minor dissatisfactions, and a gradual increase in boredom. How can this insidious process of love's erosion be prevented? How can a couple in love keep the romantic spark alive?

Participants will be encouraged to find their own romantic schemata and to rekindle the romantic images they shared at the beginning of their relationships. This workshop is recommended especially for couples committed to keeping the spark alive in their relationships and for marriage and family counselors. It may also be helpful for individuals who are trying to figure out what went wrong in a relationship that burned out.

Recommended reading: Ayala Pines, Keeping the Spark Alive (St. Martin's Press). $295

The Modern Warrior: LET in Action

George Leonard & Annie Styron Leonard

A man or woman with outward courage
dares to die;
A man or woman with inward courage
dares to live.
– Lao Tzu

The Modern Warrior is not one who goes to war but rather one who exhibits integrity in every aspect of living, one who seeks to attain control then act with abandon. For the Modern Warrior, life is vivid, immediate, and joyful. He or she lives each day to the full, and is fulfilled in serving others. This workshop is based on the premise that to achieve peace in the world and harmony in daily life, it might well be necessary for men and women to reown the warrior ideal.

Through the centering and movement exercises of LET (Leonard Energy Training) as well as through various new games, participants will be invited to get in touch with their own unacknowledged powers, and thus to discover the hidden warrior within. Guidance will be offered on how to apply the warrior ideal to daily life. This workshop will not be physically strenuous. All that is needed is a generous heart and a willingness to participate.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse (Dutton). $295

Week of February 12–17

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see January 27-29. $575

Introduction to Continuum

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud writes: "A human being can be seen as a living process of many activities: neuro-electrical-chemical-muscular, feeling, thinking, remembering, dreaming, and much more than we'll ever know. We sweepingly refer to all of this as 'My Life.'

"These activities can also be described as movements. What we call a 'body' can be seen as movements that flow, combine, and stabilize into 'muscle' or 'spine' or 'eyes.' I see movement as what we are rather than as something we do.

"Our time together will be to enhance our sensitivity to movement, whether we're experiencing it as moving 'muscle' or moving 'thoughts,' whether we're involved in the softness of a breath or the play of language, whether we're meandering through skin or feeling the wonder of meaningfulness as it shapes and colors the moment. For me, 'life' and movement are one." $575

Moving into Relationship with Self and Others

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

This workshop offers an opportunity to empower the self and, subsequently, relationships with others. Participants will first observe their relationship with themselves and then how that is mirrored in the other while working, playing, and loving. It is premised that people are often attracted to those from whom they have the most to learn, those who reflect their own strengths, weaknesses, fears, beliefs. Exploring past and present relationships can bring insights to this process and transform them into powerful growth experiences. This will be a major focus of the week.

Participants will create a clear picture of what they want and how to attain it, examine ways they sabotage themselves, and learn more about how others see them. Radix®, Reichian body work, gestalt, dance imagery, hypnosis, meditation, and group process will be some of the modalities used. $575

Vipassana in the World

Jamie Baraz

Vipassana (insight) meditation is the simple and direct practice of nonjudging, balanced awareness. When we clearly see and understand the impermanent nature of all experience, our reactions of clinging, condemning, fear, and confusion begin to lose their power. Instead, wisdom and compassion are strengthened.

In this workshop, we will follow the basic principles of Vipassana and apply them in a practical way. There will be a day for ourselves—learning the meditation and the qualities of patience, self-acceptance, and compassion. Next, there will be a day for others—in which the ideas of the practice are applied to relationships, livelihood, and skillful communication. Finally, there will be a day for the world—where larger issues such as service, action, and appreciation of the interconnectedness of all life are explored.

There will be regular periods of silent meditation, group discussions, and mindful application of our time at Esalen for a direct experience of the value of the practice. $575

Gestalt-Directed Body Work: Training for Professionals

Edward Smith

Using the gestalt approach as his theoretical and procedural umbrella, Edward Smith integrates aspects of Reichian, neo-Reichian, and other body-focused methods into his work. This integration brings together the exquisite focus on the organism-in-environment process of the gestalt approach and the awesome power of the Reichian and neo-Reichian procedures for facilitating that process. A high degree of respect for individual personhood unfolds through this work.

Through lecture and discussion, the leader will teach a practical, conceptual model of the gestalt-directed body work process as set forth in The Body in Psychotherapy. This will give participants a framework for personality assessment via the body and a clear rationale for body-focused process interventions. The bulk of the time will be devoted to bringing the work to life through group exercises and individual sessions with the leader.

Recommended reading: Edward W.L. Smith, The Body in Psychotherapy (McFarland). $575

Weekend of February 17–19

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see January 27-29. $295

Rituals of Transformation

Paul Rebillot

Human beings are continually approaching thresholds, transition points from one state or condition of being to another. To live is to change. The tendency, however, is to resist change, to cling to the familiar, to remain stuck at the threshold. It is the source of much of the stress and pain experienced in life and keeps many people from moving forward.

A ritual does not make a change happen. Rather, it awakens within the psyche the archetypal pattern of change; it teaches how to change. By acting out the ritual, one learns, not only in the mind but in the feelings of the heart and the movements of the body, the process of transformation. Rituals can prepare a person for change as it happens and help heal the passages that were not completed in the past.

During this workshop, group members will look at what they want to heal and transform in their lives, what they need to say goodbye to in the past, and what new step they need to take in order to cross their present threshold. Sub-groups will work together to design and enact individual rituals in order to support and help this healing process.

Joseph Campbell said that when you can discover your authentic path, the way seems to be blessed by magic. To find this way is the work of Rituals of Transformation. $295

Minding the Body, Mending the Mind

Joan & Myrin Borysenko

In the last decade, medical science has discovered certain pathways through which the mind can influence health and healing. Time-honored methods such as meditation and creative imagination promote a core of bodily changes called the relaxation response and set the stage for more specific changes, both in physiology and attitude. These methods originated from philosophical and spiritual systems of awareness training and self-development. For many people, illness and anxiety have been the motivating force to discover the greater healing potential of these ancient practices.

Developing a fighting spirit can help us survive stress and illness. But fighting for the body alone is not enough. Fighting for integrity, however – for one's inner truth – creates a strong foundation that is there no matter what passages the body may go through. The very modalities by which we can discover and support this integrity can often also be healing for the body.

This workshop is appropriate for health professionals and others who want to learn new methodologies for health care. It will explore the scientific and spiritual aspects of meditation and imagination, overcoming "New Age guilt" – putting mind and body in the proper perspective, and learning from fear and illness. Skills that change both physiology and basic attitude about the self will be practiced. Meditation, creative imagination, and mini-exercises for daily use will be the experiential focus.

Recommended reading: Borysenko, Minding the Body, Mending the Mind (Bantam); Swami Prabhavananda & Christopher Isherwood, How to Know God: The Yoga Aphorisms of Patanjali (Vedanta Press).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 40. $295

The Path of Transformation in Psychotherapy and Meditation

Daniel Brown

This workshop is designed for psychotherapists, practitioners of meditation, and those interested in the integration of the worlds of psychotherapy and spirituality. The leader will present an integrated model for the path of transformation, for the development of emotional experience, the sense of self and others, and reality sense. This model of normal, pathological, and optimal human development is drawn from the fields of child development, clinical psychology, and the great Eastern traditions of meditation.

This workshop will show how the path of meditation unfolds and will present a vision of optimal human development. It will also help participants learn to assess and treat different types of problems (clinical symptoms and meditation crises) which occur at various points along the overall developmental continuum. The workshop will address how psychotherapy can be used as a way to attain some of the necessary prerequisites for spiritual development and can assist with the problems that occur for the meditation practitioner and meditation teacher. It will also show how spiritual awareness can inform one's view of psychotherapy. Various experiential exercises and meditation practices will be used along with clinical case material. The workshop will be both experiential and didactic.

Much of the material will be drawn from the leader's experience as a clinician and teacher, and from his 18 years of practicing meditation, translating meditation texts from Sanskrit and Tibetan sources, and conducting scientific studies on deep meditation states and enlightenment on meditation masters in this country and in South Asia.

Recommended reading: Ken Wilbur, Jack Engler, and Daniel Brown, Transformations of Consciousness (Shambhala). $295

Week of February 19–24

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Kathleen O'Shaughnessy
& Esalen Massage Practitioners

This course will teach gentle, fundamental approaches to full body massage and the refined art of touch as communication and awareness through movement and breath rhythms. It is a basic program for those interested in developing hands-on skills.

Demonstrations will be augmented by supervised practice. Verbal material will include information about various approaches to body work and how massage can relieve physical and emotional stress.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 40. $575

Owning the Shadow

Paul Rebillot

We have seen the enemy and they is us.
– Pogo, Walt Kelly

Paul Rebillot writes: "In my work I have come to realize that one of the most important and frequently avoided themes in people's lives is the ability to own the part of ourselves we don't like, the part Jung called the shadow. As a result, we become projectors of our own disowned energy. In this workshop, we will seek to discover within ourselves the bad guy we have been projecting onto and hating in others. Hopefully, by facing and communicating with this negative self, we can discover in our shadow not the enemy, but the friend and challenger to growth of the heart and consciousness." $575

Transitions

Elliot Waker Aronson & Gabriele Thomson

Disorganization is a natural part of transition and facilitates reorganization. People are almost constantly in a state of transition – whether it be getting married, beginning a new career, becoming a parent, letting go of a relationship, or moving on to the next stage in the life cycle. These changes can be exciting and, at the same time, can evoke a loss of internal balance. The result can be loss of self-esteem, confusion about one's identity, and doubts about one's perceptions. New feelings and ideas are fragile during these periods of transition and require special nurturance.

The goal of this workshop is to gain perspective on the process of making transitions. Through guided fantasies, self-exploration, and didactic presentations, participants may develop ways of enhancing their understanding of themselves and increasing their overall effectiveness.

Recommended reading: Elliot Waker Aronson, The Social Animal (Freeman). $575

Lost Romantic Loves: Healing through Film

Francis Lu & Barbara White

Love must be told. Not so that it may be forgotten, but so it can be re-woven into the tapestry of the present. – George Vaillant

This seminar will invite participants to remember their lost romantic loves and to further their own healing and self-renewal through a process of using films as a tool for self-reflection. Topics will include: the nature and quality of romantic love, the emotional consequences of lost love (including obsession, jealousy, anger, violence, and madness), and the healing processes (including grief, letting go, compassion, self-renewal, and revisioning new relationships).

Within a supportive group context, participants will view films which evoke these archetypal patterns of love, its loss, and healing. Through inner reflection, Feldenkrais* body work, gestalt, dream work, and discussion, participants will reconnect their personal experiences with these archetypal, mythological realities. Films to be shown include works directed by Woody Allen, Alfred Hitchcock, and Francois Truffaut.

Recommended reading: John Welwood, Challenge of the Heart: Love, Sex, and Intimacy in Changing Times (Shambhala); Robin Norwood, Women Who Love Too Much (Dell). $575

* The Feldenkrais Guild

This flower garden is also the roof of the laundry building. Again, architecture blends with nature, form with function.

On Being a Man

David Schiffman, Ed Bloch-Farrington & Rick Chelew

Many men today have labored diligently to become softer, more receptive, and nurturing. They have sought to honor and embrace the emergence of the feminine principle in their own natures. For many, however, the right to celebrate and honor the so-called masculine aspect has become a thorny and difficult dilemma. Many qualities of maleness or masculinity have come to connote the most destructive and troublesome elements in human existence: war, environmental desecration, sexual oppression, and patriarchal abuse.

A man's sense of his own uniqueness and value is critical. During this week participants will examine those elements in their own natures which comprise the deeper dimensions of manhood, and how they might enhance the freedom to be men with simplicity, clarity, tenderness, strength, and dignity. They will explore the following questions:

- What does a man need to know and accept about his own nature to feel himself fully as a man?
- Can men come together to create an atmosphere of trust and good will, where the masculine aspects that they have in common can be honored and appreciated in the pleasure of each other's company?
- Are there ways that men can mark and celebrate the cycles that season them, their victories, and defeats? How might they reveal themselves emotionally without unnecessary shame or remorse?
- Can the "wild man" within be befriended and reliability and respectability still survive? Can fierceness and aggression be used constructively in realizing spiritual aspirations, intimate relationships, family and community concerns?

A variety of experiential processes will illuminate these and similar issues. Traditional initiation rituals and purification ceremonies using drumming, chanting, and a sweat lodge will be incorporated in this journey as well.

$575

Weekend of February 24–26

Experiencing Aikido

Annie Styron Leonard

To experience aikido is to feel both energized and relaxed, to be stronger and at the same time more gentle. To learn this sophisticated martial art takes many years, but some of its mysterious powers can be sampled over the course of this weekend.

Participants will practice enhancing the flow of vital energy through and around the body, relaxing under pressure, moving from the hara, or center, and extending inner force. They will be introduced to and have the chance to practice a few basic aikido moves and learn alternative, nonaggressive ways of dealing with attacks. This weekend is designed for those who simply wish to get in touch with and use their own latent powers as well as those who are planning to begin practicing a martial art.

Recommended reading: John Stevens, Abundant Peace (Shambhala). $295

Burnout: Causes and Cures

Elliot Wiker Aronson & Ayala Pines

This workshop is designed for people who give service to others and who are experiencing burnout. It deals with the impact of burnout on both the service provider and the client, ways of finding and recognizing support resources on the job, and positive methods of dealing with burnout and life tedium. Through lectures and group discussions, participants will have the opportunity to increase their understanding of those aspects of their own work and life which could cause burnout. In addition, they will be provided with the tools and opportunity to learn how to handle these problems in order to increase the productivity and creativity of their relationships with clients and colleagues.

Recommended reading: Pines and Aronson, Career Burnout (Free Press); Aronson, The Social Animal (Freeman).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 40. $295

Homeless Living

Bernard Glassman & Peter Muryo Matthiessen

When Bernard Glassman arrived in New York in 1980, he began weaving a mandala called Zen Community of New York, an interfaith meditation center. As the community grew, he founded the Greyston Bakery, where the opportunity for developing a living practice of meditation and action in the daily workplace emerged and answered the community's need for self-sufficiency.

As the need for further outreach became apparent, Glassman envisioned the Greyston Family Inn, a holistic approach to homelessness. This social action ministry provides residency, participation in family living, job training at Greyston Bakery, childcare, parenting education, and an arts program to the formerly homeless who want to change their lives. In addition, an affordable housing project has been initiated, and discussions are underway to create a community land trust.

An old Zen saying goes, "Abiding nowhere, raise the mind of enlightenment." Since the days of the historic Buddha, monks have devoted their lives to another kind of being homeless: a homelessness of attachments to wishes, needs, and conditions. Peter Muryo Matthiessen, Zen priest, adventurer, and writer (author of The Snow Leopard and At Play in the Fields of the Lord), will explore homelessness from this perspective. $295

Conscious Femininity: Mother, Virgin, Crone A Workshop for Men and Women

Marion Woodman

This seminar will differentiate three archetypes of femininity as they are evolving in the consciousness of women and men: 1) the conscious mother, interested in taking care of self, others, and the planet; 2) the virgin, the maturing woman who evolves out of the ground of the mother; and 3) the crone, the detached, wise old woman.

A healing feminine awareness is struggling to emerge not only in the individual psyche, but in the collective as well. In dreams, a powerful feminine figure repeatedly demands the attention of the ego, attempting to guide consciousness toward new values that are releasing, frightening, and ruthlessly honest. Such values evoke somatic and psychic responses that are experienced personally as upheavals in traditional attitudes and collectively as a new cultural ethos. It is the new feminine consciousness that is able to rescue and heal the abandoned soul.

The weekend will consist of lectures, small group discussions, and gentle body work and dance.

Recommended reading: Marion Woodman, The Owl Was a Baker's Daughter; Addiction to Perfection; and The Pregnant Virgin (all: Inner City); Sylvia Perera, Descent to the Goddess (Inner City); Edward Whitmont, Return of the Goddess (Crossroad). $295

Week of February 26–March 3

Five Days with Janet Zuckerman

This workshop continues Esalen's tradition of interpersonal and intrapersonal work on emotional process. It is based on these premises: that unfinished business is projected into current relationships, interfering with one's ability to be in the present, and that by emotional release one may cleanse the doors of perception. Tools for exploration will include the open seat, a tennis racket, pillows, and a sense of humor. $575

A Basic Course in Nutrition and Healthy Eating

Andrew Weil

This workshop will cover principles of nutrition, including information about calories, cholesterol, protein, carbohydrates, and fat. How much protein do you really need? Can vegetarian food be totally nourishing and satisfying? Should you use olive oil or safflower oil, margarine or butter? Is pasta the perfect food? Do you need to drink milk, and where can you get your calcium if you don't?

These and other questions will be answered as participants prepare innovative dishes and meals that they will be able to duplicate at home. Group members will cook and eat together as they discuss aspects of diet and health, including vitamins and supplements, culinary and medicinal herbs and spices, and special diets for particular needs. The role of healthy eating as an aspect of preventive medicine will be stressed.

STEVE BRICK

A work scholar weeds the roof of the laundry building.

Andrew Weil draws on his experience as a physician, botanist, food lover, and cook in leading this workshop, as well as his association with Canyon Ranch Spa in Tucson, Arizona, where he directs the Natural Healing Program. This is an opportunity for participants to learn facts and methods not easy to find elsewhere while having fun, being creative, and doing something good for themselves in the bargain. $575

Children of Chaos: Recovery from the Aftermaths of Alcoholism

Mariah Fenton Gladis

The road to recovery for Adult Children of Alcoholics and others whose parents have been dysfunctional or abusive is challenging and can be deeply rewarding. It requires determination, lifelong commitment, and positive therapeutic experiences. This workshop offers participants an opportunity to take a major step toward health. Group members will work toward transforming their personal histories from one of liability to one of strength and wisdom, focusing on the promotion of healing in four fundamental relationships:

- With oneself: developing awareness, freedom from addictions, and healing of the body and soul from the residual effects of chronic trauma;
- With others: improving one's capacity for moving out of isolation and into direct, open communication and trust; expanding intimacy skills while securing healthy boundaries;
- In the world: moving away from chaos and deprivation toward stability and abundance;
- Spiritually: searching for the meaning of one's history and accessing that part of the self that can utilize universal blessings.

The workshop will be experiential and didactic, using a blend of in-depth individual and group gestalt work, music, spiritual healing, body work, and personal metaphor. A step-by-step recovery process developed by the leader will be incorporated throughout the workshop. The atmosphere will be one of trust and mutual support.

This workshop is also appropriate for professionals working with ACAs. $575

February 26–March 24

Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Peggy Horan & George King

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 35. $2300

Weekend of March 3–5

Spring Shake-Up

Deborah Anne Medow

Spring is rapidly approaching; it's time to get up and move and shake off some of that winter sluggishness! This weekend will combine sessions which include elements of dance, yoga, massage, aerobic movement, and theater games for shaping up the outside, with quiet, meditative time for turning inside. The purpose: tune in and tune up the body, mind, and spirit! $295

Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

Each of us has unique capacities to feel and express tenderness and strength, anger and affection, autonomy and needfulness, as well as compassion, humor, and wisdom. The degree to which we allow the fullness and vibrance of each of these qualities determines how alive and gratified we are.

In this workshop, participants will focus on how they diminish or affirm these essential qualities as they are expressed through their bodies, sexuality, creativity, relationship to power, friendships, and expectations. In an atmosphere of tenderness and support, participants will clarify the nature of who they are and how they can best take care of themselves, both at Esalen and on returning home. The workshop will be grounded in gestalt, group process, guided fantasy, massage, and bioenergetics. $295

Week of March 5–10

Dream Work and the Multi-Dimensional Psyche

Stephen Aizenstat

Historically, the craft of dream work has paralleled new discoveries in scientific thought. Modern revelations in quantum-relativistic physics and holographic photography suggest ways in which we can broaden and deepen the practice of dream work to encompass both perspectives.

This workshop will be both experiential and experimental. The leader will offer newly developed holonomic methods of dream work, providing a practical model for actualizing three levels of unconscious reality in dream work—The Personal, The Collective, and The World Unconscious—and presenting a phenomenology of each. Within this broad ecology of the psyche, participants will experiment with a specific process-based, aesthetic approach to dream work. Specific methods which foster a perception that both "sees through" to archetypal existence and "sees into" embodied experiences will be explored. Participants will have ample opportunity to work on their own dreams. $575

March 5–17

Completion and Transformation

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 35. $1425

Mind and Medicine

Jeanne Achterberg & Frank Lawlis

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 35. $1425

Weekend of March 10–12

Reflections of Self: A Reichian/Gestalt Workshop

Jessica Moore Britt

This will be an introduction to intensive intrapsychic inquiry using Reichian breath work and gestalt practice. Reichian breath work utilizes breath and sound to energize and deepen the process of self-awareness by softening the body's patterns of physical tension and emotional holding. Gestalt practice is an awareness approach focusing on physical sensation, image, thought, and emotion. By emphasizing a person's experience in the present moment, gestalt moves toward developing a more conscious sense of self. In a supportive group atmosphere, participants will have the opportunity to explore thoughts and feelings formed by past experiences. With this exploration, the possibility is opened to respond in the present. $295

Half-Time: Inspired Work in Mid-Life

Peller Marion

At 93, George Burns recently said, as he was accepting the American Comedy Award, "The first half of my life has been good, and I look forward to the second half being even better." While most people don't live to be 93, some, like George Burns, remain charismatic and magnetic. Others are drawn to them largely because their lives seem effortless, playful, and meaningful.

How we define ourselves and what success means is important to what kind of individuals we grow into as we age into the second half of our lives. Participants in this workshop, drawing from a conceptual base of adult development theory and models of aging, will explore these issues. Through structured exercises and open exploration of topics such as, What's my dissatisfaction? Who am I? What's my definition of success? the leader will coach participants to create a vision for the second half of their lives based on internal values that are meaningful and significant.

What this workshop offers is a playful and rich way to reevaluate one's work and relationships to gain a clarity, focus, and direction of one's life contributions. It is recommended for professionals in diverse areas who want to revitalize and renew their vision. $295

Week of March 12–17

A Look Within

Jessica Moore Britt

For workshop description see January 1-6. $575

Personal Challenges of the U.S.-Soviet Relationship

Stephen Rhinesmith

Everyone concerned with the U.S.-Soviet relationship faces uncertainty and contradictions in trying to determine what is real and what is not, what can be believed and what cannot, and what the implications are for one's own values and beliefs.

This workshop is designed for laypeople and professionals who face the personal value and identity challenges created in trying to reconcile the enormous differences between the United States and the Soviet Union. Issues to be discussed include the contradictions of human rights vs. cultural relativism, national security vs. bilateral dialogue, cooperation vs. competition, and reaching out vs. being sued. Participants will examine the relationship of these topics to their own work, values, and belief systems. $575

Weekend of March 17–19

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see January 27-29. $295

Accessing Creative Process

Dianne Lawrence

Many adults are returning to creative skills, but have difficulty coming up with their own ideas or feel that their imagination is inadequate. It is one thing to know how to draw, another to know what to draw. This workshop will help participants overcome their creative frustrations by giving them experiences that show that creativity comes out of a process or approach to the work: isolating one's voice from the many, being attentive to one's fascinations, accessing impulses beyond the confines of intellectual attention. One must strip away the easy, conditioned responses, resist the tyranny of accepted authority, and develop a healthy critical eye and ear. The quality of the individual's engagement with his or her own working process determines the quality of the result.

This workshop will use theater, writing, and painting games to help participants establish a confident relationship with their creative lives. The focus will be on imagination at work, articulating creative problems, freeing up expression, and encouraging inventiveness. Participants will be offered the essential creative experience of starting with nothing but themselves and making something interesting happen. They are asked to bring one #4 and #10 windsor newton brush and a 14"× 17" sketchbook. $295

Understanding the Borderline and Narcissistic Personality

Burton Schaffner & Darlene Louise Beaver

In the last 15 to 20 years, the psychoanalytic community has published important research and theories concerning developmental issues about the borderline and narcissistic personalities. This valuable information has been directed toward the psychoanalyst working in a psychoanalytic mode. The material presented by Mahler, Masterson, Kohut, and others has far-reaching implications. It lends new understanding to developmental issues and helps clarify certain elements of personality formation as well as gives ways of working with these identifiable characteristics.

The workshop leaders will present the borderline and narcissistic personality theories in a way that will enable participants to gain a deeper understanding of themselves and others. They will clarify, simplify, and translate psychoanalytic language into concepts that can be understood by layperson and counselor alike. They will provide a functional base for the use of this material as well as supply written summaries of the work of Mahler, Masterson, and Kohut.

STEVE BECK

Potato harvest. Esalen grows 10 tons of organic vegetables each year, providing the kitchen with 20 to 90% of its daily produce for 200 guests. Surpluses of up to 150 pounds a week are frequently donated to Monterey's Meals on Wheels program for senior citizens.

Participants will have the opportunity to use this material within the group setting in order to facilitate their own process and to learn how to use it in working with others.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 40. $295

Week of March 19–24

Becoming a Professional Therapist

Carl Whitaker

This will be a five-day effort to facilitate the transition from doing family therapy to being a family therapist, using symbolic experience to deprogram one's lifetime of purposeful interpersonal manipulation. $575

Human Potential: Theory and Practice

John Heider

This workshop will consist of a synthesis of group process, gestalt, body work, and meditation. The purpose is to develop and educate the human potential, which refers to the ability people have to become more aware or conscious of themselves and of the world around them. While the workshop will be mostly experiential, there will be time for questions and answers and for discussion of the work. $575

A Weekend with Paul Rebillot

Paul Rebillot writes: "Within each of us there lives a demon – our own personal critic – whose greatest joy comes from criticizing, denigrating, and destroying every experience we have. We're either too early or too late, too old or too young, too fat or too thin, and when we fall in love, we're never good enough. This demon, who commands us to be who we aren't in order to satisfy someone we can never satisfy, is the demon that we will seek to exorcise during this workshop.

"Why not take the chance of looking inside ourselves and finding the completeness of who we are, instead of trying to limit ourselves with who we think we should be and who we hope we are not? When we find the truth about ourselves, our natural response is to want and to work for the best that we can be.

"People in the helping professions who have experienced this form have found it adaptable and useful in their own work." $575

Turning compost at the farm.

Weekend of March 24–26

Weekend Massage Intensive

Laurie Lioness Parizek & Dean Marson

For workshop description see February 10-12. $295

Death and Resurrection

Paul Rebillot

This workshop offers the opportunity to confront, rather than avoid, death. On a wider scale, it explores ways to move creatively through life's many transitions, letting go of the old and welcoming the new.

We will review our lives, completing unfinished business, and practice giving up attachments to persons, things, and self-images until, surrendering all to the ultimate unknown, we are able to experience the birth of the truly new. $295

Introduction to Tai Ji and Chi Gong with Chungliang Al Huang

Participants will concentrate on the Easter spirit of creative rebirth and a deeper consciousness of the mind-body-spirit unity. Essential tai ji movement and chi gong breathing exercises will be explored with music, dance, humor, and philosophical musings, East and West.

Recommended reading: Chungliang Al Huang, Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Celestial Arts) and Quantum Soup (Dutton); Alan Watts with Chungliang Al Huang, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon). $295

Introduction to Vipassana Meditation

Jamie Baraz

Vipassana (insight) meditation practice is a systematic examination of the mind/body process through calm and focused awareness. Learning to observe experience from a place of stillness enables one to relate to life without fear or clinging. One begins to accept pleasure and pain, fear and joy, with increasing equanimity and balance. Life is seen as a constantly changing process. Insight is the deepening experience of the process itself, free of interpretation, leading to wisdom and compassion.

This seminar is designed for those who have had no previous meditation experience as well as for those who wish to deepen their practice. Meditation instruction, the philosophy behind the practice, group discussions, and actual practice periods will be offered. Special emphasis will be placed on how to integrate Vipassana practice in daily life after the workshop is over.

Recommended reading: Joseph Goldstein, The Experience of Insight (Shambhala). $295

Week of March 26–31

Stories and Myths for Men and Women: Tales, Discussion, and Dancing with Robert Bly & Chungliang Al Huang

Yeats said: "God save us from those thoughts men think in the mind alone." During this week we will listen, argue, and dance. We all sense that mythology and dance are related – but how? Our effort and fun will be to hear stories, dance, and relate to our everyday lives.

Recommended reading: Robert Bly, Selected Poems (Harper & Row), Loving a Woman in Two Worlds (Harper & Row), and, editor, Selected Poems of Rainer Maria Rilke (Harper & Row), News of the Universe (Sierra), and Times Alone: Selected Poems of Antonio Machado (Wesleyan); Chungliang Al Huang, Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Celestial) and Quantum Soup (Dutton); Alan Watts with Chungliang Al Huang, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon). $605

March 26–April 9

Two-Week Advanced Massage Practitioner Program

Vicki Topp & Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 36. $1595

Gestalt Practice:
An Intensive Program for People in the Helping Professions

Christine Stewart Price & Guest Leaders

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 36. $1595

Weekend of March 31–April 2

Developing Crazy Wisdom and the Comic Perspective

Wes "Scoop" Nisker & Paul Krassner

This workshop will explore the humorous side of the tragicomedy of life, emphasizing the development and expression of the crazy wisdom in each of us. Examining traditional uses of humor, from old Sufi tales, Zen Haiku, and coyote trickster stories, to audio and videotapes of the modern satirists and comedians including Charlie Chaplin, Lenny Bruce, Laurel and Hardy, and Woody Allen, the class will aim to help participants learn not necessarily how to be funny, but how to see funny.

The group will look at humor in the news, the lighter side of the search for enlightenment, and the crazy wisdom approach to life and death. Class work will include theater and writing exercises aimed at developing a sense of humor and finding skillful ways to use the comic perspective to ease the difficult moments in life. $295

Body Imagery

Daria Halprin-Khalighi

In this workshop, the physical body will be viewed as a metaphoric palette on which aspects of the Self are projected. A drawing of the full body by each participant will establish a point of origin, followed by a series of visualizations, drawings, and exercises on each body part. By isolating one body part at a time, participants will become aware of the unique messages, imprints, and associations carried within each of the body's parts.

Social impacts on the body, which have shaped the individual through childhood, adolescence, and into adulthood, will become evident through drawings and gestalt writings. Movement and breath work will engage the body in creative physical expression and the release of its tensions.

Body images – feelings and thoughts which are carried in muscles, skeletal structure, and organs – may be given expression through the creative impulse of drawing. As these images become available, it is possible to rediscover and unblock the pathways linking body with mind, emotion, and spirit.

Participants are asked to bring a box of craypas pastels and a medium- to large-size newsprint drawing pad. $295

Week of April 2–7

Choices and Changes Using Gestalt

Anne Nechama Simkin

For workshop description see February 5-10. $575

Chi/Energy:
An East/West Dialogue and Celebration with Karl Pribram & Chungliang Al Huang

This group will explore modern physics and scientific breakthroughs in visual and kinetic learning with tai ji dancing, and the concept and reality of chi energy in martial arts and Eastern philosophy. $605

April 2–9

The Enneagram and Intuition

Helen Palmer

Helen Palmer writes: "For the past several years I have been teaching people ways in which they can develop their intuition as a reliable source of information. It has become increasingly clear that many of us are intuitively sensitive to issues that, as children, we were attracted to or needed to defend ourselves against. For example, a loved child may develop the ability to merge with the wishes of others, and so become highly intuitive about the means of gaining their approval. Or, children who were systematically intimidated may become precognitively sensitized to anger or negativity in others. These psychic abilities, centered around the survival issues of childhood, become an integral part of the adult personality, but the grown up child is usually not conscious of operating from anything other than intellectual information.

"The enneagram is an ancient Sufi system that acts as a bridge between intellect and intuition. It has been taught for generations in the oral tradition, and in its present form is set in the language of psychology to identify nine personality types and their interrelationships. Each type has a unique way of looking at the world, and this viewpoint is reflected in a set of habitual thoughts and emotions. The viewpoint of a type can also be expressed through a particular intuitive style.

"In this workshop, participants will see and hear groups of the same type on video and on live panels within the class. By observing each of the nine types in action, they can identify their own type within the system, learn about the issues that preoccupy each of the nine, and discover the intuitive way in which each type senses information that supports its private concerns.

"The enneagram workshop may be especially useful to those who are working to understand their own psychological issues, or who find themselves in a situation that demands reliable access to intuition."

Helen Palmer is also leading an Advanced Enneagram Intensive. Please see June 4-9 for more information.

Recommended reading: Helen Palmer, The Enneagram: Understanding Yourself and the Others in Your Life (Harper & Row).

Recommended viewing: Nine Portraits, a videotape presentation of the nine personality types. Write to: 1442A Walnut St., Berkeley, CA 94709. $870

Weekend of April 7–9

A Workshop for Couples with David Schiffman

This workshop will focus on reawakening and developing positive, mutual supports that are at the root of satisfying couple relationships. The emphasis will be on creating clear and truthful expressions of loving and personal integrity. Participants will re-examine their beliefs and habits through the use of intuitional sensing, risk-taking structures, guided imagery, and gestalt awareness methods.

$295 per participant

A Weekend with Carola Speads

This is a workshop of breathing and movement. It will acquaint participants with ways in which their bodies may respond if given a chance for general recuperation as well as ways to cope with stressful situations.

Participants will experiment with breathing and movement in a way that is continually interesting, never repetitious. As the body is never exactly in the same condition, it never reacts in exactly the same way. Approaching one's body in this manner will enable participants to apply this work in various life situations, for young or old, well or sick.

Participants are asked to bring leotards and/or loose fitting clothing. $295

The gardens crew is comprised primarily of work scholars—here, l. to r., standing, a real estate agent from Colorado and a teacher from Berlin; kneeling, a Danish doctor and a masters student in counseling—who contribute thousands of hours of labor each year.

April 9–16

Painting Experience with Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

For workshop description see January 1-6.

$870 (plus $30 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

The Feldenkrais® Method and Cortical Reeducation

Harriet Goslins & Patti Lawrence

The habitual way a person sits, stands, or moves reflects patterns that are "wired-in" to the nervous system. This information can be erased or changed. By reeducating the brain/muscle connection, restrictions in movement are freed, freeing also the lifetime habits that have organized around that movement.

This work is a relearning of the ease and fluidity that was taken for granted as a child and lost somewhere along the way. Physical injury, emotional trauma, or ongoing stress all evoke a protective response from the body. These patterns, necessary at the time, remain when no longer needed, outside of awareness, and continue to cause discomfort and unnecessary limitation. Freeing them results in relief of chronic pain or tightness, a more restful sleep, and a higher energy level. By changing muscular holding patterns, the entire protective posture is altered, deeply affecting the body's habitual defense system. Thus, new movement possibilities mean new self-image possibilities.

Fears and anxieties have corresponding muscular habits. Verbal information, no matter how brilliant, or spiritual practice that fails to extinguish these muscular habits, will fail to totally eliminate the toxic behavior.

This workshop is for those who are physically active and fit and want to increase their skills while learning to reduce risk of injury; for the sedentary or those dealing with after-effects of injuries; for the athlete, the dancer, and those who "live in their heads"; and for the average person who feels chronically tired and stressed and wants to learn how to take better care of his/her neck, shoulders, and back, to improve his/her posture and breathing, and to live and move with more flexibility and comfort.

$870

April 9–21

Integrative Body Practice (IBP) Professional Training Program

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 36. $1425

The Art and Science of Clinical Hypnosis

Marc Lehrer

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 36. $1425

Week of April 16–21

The Difficult Art of Love

Sam Keen

This seminar is for battle-scarred veterans of combat in the erogenous zones, those who have been wounded by romance often enough to know that there is more to caring than "falling in love." It is about what to do when you fall out of love and into reality; how to renew passion; how to trust when you have been disappointed once too often; how to combine intimacy and solitude; when to fight and when to forget it; and other practical approaches to the mystery of remaining together. $575

Hypnosis and Body Work

Lila Daniels Klapman & David Robinette

The mind has profound effects on the organization of the body. Actively engaging the conscious and unconscious mind through the combined use of hypnosis and body work enables a more complete reorganization of the sensory motor mechanism. This workshop may interest those people in the helping professions who are looking to access the unconscious mental/emotional processes in their clients while making contact with the physical manifestations of those processes. Participants will explore the basic principles of trance induction, Ericksonian hypnosis, and the creative use of suggestion and metaphor. These will be combined with simple body work methods for opening energy centers and working with specific physical symptoms. The focus of this workshop will be to move intimately with a person's process, accessing and releasing unconscious patterns for growth and integration. The work will be done in an atmosphere of gentle caring and playfulness, incorporating music, dance, and games.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 40. $575

Weekend of April 21–23

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see January 27-29. $295

Creative Writing Brainstorming

Herbert Gold

From feeling to expression to communication, this workshop will carry participants into the possibilities of making literature. Exploring an experience different for everyone, yet shared by all, they will probe for the riches within.

Participants should bring typewriter, word processor, pen, soft pencil, or clay tablets and stylus to the meetings. A situation will be called forth – love, death, ambition, pride, fear, hatred, jealousy – and after preparation in the discussion, participants will write. Then they will read and rewrite each other's work. They may expect to go from truth to lying: from recollection to art.

What may develop is a sense of style and control as a part of the mastery of experience. Participants will practice the freedom of imagination by giving shape to it. $295

The Delight of Immediacy

Charlotte Selver & Charles Brooks

Much as we may wish to live in the present, we are often preoccupied with images and ideas of how it ought to be. Instead of responding to the situation at hand with the innumerable nerves, muscles, and interweavings of consciousness which are we, much of us is immobilized by early conditioning, acute emotional problems, or by habit, and much is held back until the inner board of review gives the OK.

But children and sages have a different way of functioning. For them the world flows into their consciousness as the air into their lungs, and their responses are organismic and direct, bypassing the evaluation center which is the educated mind of the adult. It is our lack of immediacy which is usually felt as tedium and which necessitates ever stronger stimuli in the search for joy, or self-discipline in the search for peace. By giving up these preconceptions and gradually coming to follow our sense of reality, we begin to respond not to what should be but to what is, and the world catches fire for us.

This workshop will explore direct experience which, as it becomes clearer and stronger, tends to burn away the mist of concepts and restrictions which our conditioning has interposed between ourselves and living.

Recommended reading: Charles Brooks, Sensory Awareness (Viking; Felix Morrow). $295

April 21–28

Spiritual/Esoteric Practice: The Key to Intuitive and Psychic Development

Anne & Jim Armstrong

A well-developed, directable intuition is a natural, healthy outgrowth of self-realization. But unless we are willing to create the proper environment through self-discipline, meditation, and mindfulness of everything we think, feel, say, or do, this powerful force will remain dormant within us.

This seven-day workshop will focus on the esoteric or metaphysical principles behind spiritual intuition so the serious student may return to his/her secular life and continue spiritual practice with more awareness. The leaders will draw from many ancient and modern spiritual disciplines, including traditional and guided meditation, controlled breathing, music and sound, and intuitive training exercises emphasizing the spiritual and ethical use of the intuitive/psychic process. Esoteric or metaphysical explanations will be given when appropriate and useful.

Lecture material, basic exercises, and practice on selected cases will help participants to recognize, trust, and apply their own psi abilities. During the exercises, Anne Armstrong will use her tracking abilities to assist participants in arriving at useful, accurate data. Particular attention will be placed on helping participants differentiate between intuitive perception and projections of the personality, and between psychic and intuitive input.

Bring a tape recorder, if you have one, and a few blank tapes for certain exercises. $870

April 21–29

Big Sur Wilderness Journey: From Esalen to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center

Steven Harper & Joyce Lyke

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 38. $590

Week of April 23–28

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Char Pias Brenner & Arthur Munyer

For workshop description see January 22-27. $575

Play, Spontaneity, and Performance Art

Nina Wise

This is a workshop for participants to enliven their relationship to play; to rekindle spontaneity in relationships; to recognize the sacred in the mundane; to make rituals, songs, and dances out of everyday experiences; to find the humor in matters of the heart; to understand that improvisation is a way of life.

Sessions will include sitting meditation, chanting, a thorough physical warm-up, opening the voice, and exercises designed to integrate sound and movement. Participants will also have opportunities for developing technical performance skills, but the focus of the week will be improvisational expression of impulses, feelings, and ideas as they arise moment-to-moment.

This workshop is open to students of all levels, beginner as well as professional. $575

Coping with Catastrophic Illness

Janet Zuckerman & Karen Paine-Gernee

Receiving a diagnosis of cancer, lupus, AIDS, or any potentially terminal illness is a shock which profoundly disrupts the foundations of one's being. This disruption, while often pushing people to the very edge of their ability to cope, also provides the impetus for tremendous change and growth. The leaders, both experienced counselors and themselves living with cancer, wish to share what they have learned and participate in the deep healing that community can bring.

They write: "The specter of one's own death pushes us to find the inner strength located in the bedrock core of the Self and to open to the solace and comfort of loved ones. If you are adjusting to being ill, needing to make new treatment choices, preparing for surgery or hospitalization, or simply needing to reconnect with your own wisdom and inner healer, this workshop is for you. It is an opportunity to share sorrows and joys, to reaffirm one's commitment to oneself, and to rediscover the heightened sense of awareness that illness first brings. Using gestalt, meditation, and guided imagery, we will invite participants, and ourselves, to embrace aliveness, opening to each moment, whatever it may bring." $575

Weekend of April 28–30

Group Process

Will Schutz

This will be a practicum in group process, particularly useful for those working with people, including, but not limited to, executives working with staff. Participants will have the opportunity to observe, experience, and discuss group formation and development. Issues of inclusion, control, and openness will be dealt with in action and in theory. Group leadership will be modeled and discussed. Teaching methods include encounter and brief lectures. Truth-telling and simplicity will be emphasized.

Recommended reading: Will Schutz, Elements of Encounter (Irvington), The Truth Option (Ten Speed Press), and Profound Simplicity (Learning Concepts). $295

Toward Partnership for Self and Society

Riane Eisler & Ron Kurtz

In The Chalice and the Blade, Riane Eisler brings together evidence from archaeology, anthropology, psychology, history, and art to describe two models of society. Although the dominator model has prevailed through recorded history, there is substantial evidence that for thousands of years cultural evolution was oriented to a partnership model. That period, remembered in legends about a better past and illuminated now by recent archaeological discoveries, might inspire our own partnership values, among them the equality of women and men (rather than male dominance), peaceful existence within and between cultures (rather than the maintenance of armies, the production of weapons, and conquest), and the organization of society through friendship and kinship linking (rather than hierarchical rankings held in place by physical and psychological violence).

This workshop will explore these topics through lecture, discussion, experiential exercises, and guided imagery. We will also explore and experience the values, images, myths, and beliefs of both a dominator and partnership society, as we seek to bring partnership into our personal and public worlds. $295

Week of April 30–May 5

A Week with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

For workshop description see January 8-13. $575

The Hakomi Method

Ron Kurtz, Richard A. Heckler & Devi Records

For workshop description see February 5-10. $575

We Are All Mystics

William Pennell Rock

William Pennell Rock writes: "I have always had the sense that human beings are essentially mystics, though few of us have rightly realized it. It seems that the lives we create are never really satisfying because they are a displacement from this fundamental human desire. This workshop is for those who sense the absence of this true engagement with the ultimate mystery within and are interested in exploring new opportunities for communion and restructuring their lives accordingly.

"Activities will include archetypal psychodrama, various meditations and exercises from yoga and tantra, and expressive movement. Group sharing and discussion will be an important part of the week as we discover how to access what is ultimately meaningful." $575

A Week with Seymour Carter

Everyone has unused capacities for further personal development. When these capacities are recognized and given attention, a natural force is released which, like a tide, can carry the individual to a higher level of ability and action. Fritz Perls taught how to recognize the force of avoided issues in dealing with blocked energies. When unfinished issues are confronted and assimilated, it is possible to feel potent and in charge of one's life.

In this workshop, participants can deal with these issues by examining the influence of the inner dialogue on thoughts and the nature of impasse, as well as tendencies within themselves toward psychological completion and well-being. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, Rolfing®, and aikido. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique. $575

* Rolfing is a service mark of the Rolf Institute.

Weekend of May 5–7

Weekend Massage Intensive

Attila Vaas & Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see February 10-12. $295

Introduction to Gestalt Practice

Cyndy Sheldon

Many of us were shamed into being as "they" wanted us to be. We know intuitively that there has to be more. We can't get there by ourselves; we need guides. Gestalt practice can guide us to new discoveries. $295

Sight/Insight: A Photographic Journey

Daniel Bianchetta & Cynthia Johnson Bianchetta

Like our dreams, photographic images can provide a rich resource for unearthing our true Self. With them, we may uncover and explore our personal culture and evolution. What we produce through visual imagery often reflects our innermost thoughts, how we view the world, how we manifest what we envision for our lives.

Through quiet meditative contact with our deeper Self, we are able to ask what these images may be revealing to us. And often as a result of this quiet contacting of insight, we begin the process of "listening through our eyes." Thus by "allowing the eyes to see" rather than "looking at," we invite observations and glimpses into the realm of true seeing, the power of insight.

In this workshop, movement, intuition, energy awareness, gestalt, and play will be our tools for exploring new awareness and experiences of our inner and outer imagery. It is open to anyone and is not about photographic technique. Some camera knowledge is helpful. Please bring a 35mm camera, black and white 35mm film, a journal, and your photographs. Some processing of film may be provided following a field exploration.

$295 (plus $10 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Dance as an Ally in Healing Cancer

Anna Halprin & Rana Vassau

Since illness reflects the breaking down of the natural functioning of the immune system, it makes sense to go to our deepest source, the body itself, to rebuild, renew, and rebirth to our natural state. This workshop will emphasize what participants can learn from paying attention to how they move, feel, and image.

Dance has been used as a healing art since the beginning of time, and Anna Halprin has bridged healing rituals of the past to healing rituals for the present. As a result of having had cancer herself, she has researched and pioneered an approach to dance called psychokinetic-visualizations, in which the feedback process between instinctive movement and deeply-buried feelings that evoke personal mythic images is utilized. She will guide participants to visualize their natural killer cells as vigorous and alert allies in the immune system, destroying, dissolving, or eliminating the diseased cell. The participants will then embody these visualizations and dramatize them through movement in their own creative dance-rituals. As one participant said, "No miracle drug, no surgeon's knife, no mega-vitamins or macro-diet, no crystal energy, no faith-healer's touch, no shaman's prayer . . . is of any value at all unless I am there, fully present, with it."

There will be guided movement meditations, movement exercises to promote deep relaxation, and movement energizers to enliven the life force. A slide show and videotape will present case studies and illustrate ways this approach has been applied. This workshop is designed for people with cancer, support persons, and health care professionals, and is suitable for people of varying levels of physical capacity. For more information contact Tamalpa Institute, P.O. Box 794, Kentfield, CA 94914; (415) 461-9479.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 40. $295

Week of May 7–12

Esalen will be closed to the public for these five days.

Weekend of May 12–14

A Special Weekend at Esalen

This weekend is open to all those who would like to spend time at Esalen, enjoying the grounds, the baths, and the community, without participating in a group. Massage and other work offered by individual practitioners will be available as usual. $160

Week of May 14–19

A Week with David Schiffman

To make effective, creative choices requires courage, imagination, and the willingness to know one's heart and be true to the dreams that live inside it. Choosing this deeper wisdom can often involve the risk of breaking set – the choice to move against the powerful grain of old fears, habits, and the constant pressures of other people's expectations. To foster this spirit means contacting the elemental-instinctual parts of one's nature, befriending rather than suppressing or denying the sexuality and the power out of which initiative and enthusiasm spring.

In this week, participants will focus on how to develop those qualities that contribute to a more adventurous, resourceful, and bouyant way of living. In an atmosphere based on warmth and humor, they will explore their capacity for mutual tenderness, respect, and honesty. Traditional psychological practices such as gestalt, bioenergetics, and psychosynthesis will be used for intensive individual work, as well as non-traditional innovative approaches in body work, kinesthetic retraining, music, and guided imagery. $575

Yoga: A Week of Learning and Rejuvenation

Ganga White & Tracey Rich

Presenting East/West teachings in a way that is contemporary, humorous, and applicable to modern living, the leaders will offer a week of physical, mental, and spiritual rejuvenation. Days will begin with instruction in an ancient Hatha yoga movement series that is new to this country and which combines grace and flow with postures, pranayama (breath), and meditation. Participants will be shown a 45-minute balanced, aerobic yoga practice they can continue at home. Afternoons and evenings will be for group discussion and exploration into the teachings and principles of the art of enlightened living.

Topics will include diet and nutrition, how yoga works, aligning and restructuring the body, and awakening subtle energies. Through Jnana (the yoga of wisdom and perception), participants will begin observing the thought processes and patterns that dictate their lives. They will look at the areas of love, responsibility, relationship, freedom, and death.

Participants of all levels are welcome; no previous experience is necessary. For additional information, contact the leaders at: White Lotus, 2500 San Marcos Pass, Santa Barbara, CA 93105; (805) 964-1944. $575

Childhood Sexual Abuse: A Healing

Jessica Moore Britt

To guard against the hurts, fears, and confusion that sexual invasion of a child's physical and psychic boundaries can create, the child often abandons the place of conflict – the body. This withdrawal, though protective in nature, slowly begins to separate the child from her/his essential nature. This may be reflected in tension patterns, numbness, and oversensitivity and may further the child's sense of alienation from the world and self.

During this week, participants will move gently toward reintegrating their bodies and feelings with self. Participants will use gestalt practice, Reichian breath work, movement, touch, and meditation to re-enter their private world of memories and feelings. They may gain a deeper understanding that the learned idea of self as bad, based on the sexual abuse, is not the essential truth of who they are. The focus will be on allowing the hurt, negative feelings and doubts to be acknowledged, felt, and used as energetic seeds for reawakening a positive sense of self. Through the supportive group atmosphere, participants may discover that it is safe once again to embody beauty, life, and love.

Recommended reading: A.H. Almaas, Diamond Heart (Diamond Books); Alice Miller, Thou Shalt Not Be Aware (New American Library). $575

May 14–June 9

Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

For workshop description see Special Programs, pages 36-37.

$2300 (plus $300 fee for those wanting certification, paid to the Institute for Advanced Hypnosis)

May 14–July 7

The Modern Warrior: A Certification Program in Leonard Energy Training

George Leonard, Annie Styron Leonard & Consultants

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 37.

Weekend of May 19–21

The Modern Warrior: LET in Action

George Leonard & Jack Cirie

For workshop description see February 10-12. $295

New Competences for an Age of Uncertainty

Donald Michael

A primary task that persons and organizations face in the next twenty years is that of learning to be better learners. This may sound obvious, but consider for a moment how much effort we expend disguising our uncertainty and ignorance and acting as if we really know what we are doing. There is a parallel between what happens when we pay close attention to the processes of the mind (in meditation, for instance) and when we study the vastly complex political, social, and economic processes and systems of the world. In both cases, it is possible to see how little we really know about ourselves as individuals and about the world. This recognition can be the starting point for embracing ignorance and vulnerability so that we can apply them to constructive engagement with our private and public worlds.

This seminar will introduce several skills, or what Donald Michael calls "new competences," that are necessary for making humane and effective decisions in situations where uncertainty can be the best occasion for learning—in organizational or independent work places and in interpersonal and family situations. These skills include: acknowledging high levels of uncertainty, error embracing, being future-responsive, boundary spanning, self-knowledge, and interpersonal competence.

The approach will be both cognitive and experiential. Participants will have the opportunity to learn to be more comfortable with their uncertainty, to reduce the need to act over-cautiously out of fear of making a mistake, and to minimize the need for those defensive posturings that make it so hard to act responsibly and compassionately. As a previous participant said, "This workshop is for those who are ready to move beyond the personal and want to effect change in public and private organizations." $295

Week of May 21–26

The Body is Spirit

Robert Hall

There is no difference between the bioenergetic streaming of daily body life and the divine spirit current or life force. We experience both as an on-going felt body sense. The human ego operates under the false assumption that it is somehow separate from that sense. So we spend our lives in constant negotiation and seeking: the so-called human condition. From this position, alienation is inevitable.

This workshop is designed to explore the possibility that we are that felt body sense, that spirit current, and we are constantly, by nature, in relationship to everyone and everything that exists. Hopefully, we'll laugh a lot, too. There will be time for gestalt, individual body work, meditation, and getting to know each other well in a short time. $575

Change and Self-Esteem

Phyllis Shankman

Change is an ever-present aspect of living which must be accepted and used creatively if one is to sustain a healthy, interesting, and exciting life. Many individuals talk about wanting change while actively or passively resisting it. Self-esteem, which includes self-acceptance, self-appreciation, and self-confidence, is the aspect of self which enables one to confront resistance and fear and which increases the willingness to change and take risks.

This workshop includes an in-depth process for finding and allowing self-acceptance and for creatively confronting opportunities for change and growth. Group activities include gestalt process work, discussion, massage, meditation, music, dance, art imagery exercises, and whatever else happens spontaneously. $575

The Hero's Journey in the Movies: Maps of Transformation

Phil Cousineau & Keith Thompson

One of the universal themes of mythology is the journey of the hero, a treasure map not just of exotic worlds but of the psyche. Although we may prefer to believe the hero is born a hero, the stories brought back by sojourners the world over tell us that wisdom and transformation are won through great trials.

Each session of this seminar will explore different hero maps as seen in the movies. Some of them are as old as antiquity, while others are as new as post-modern culture: the adventurer, the philosopher-king, the shaman-healer, the fool, the artist-inventor, the athlete and performer, the stranger in a strange land, and the anti-hero. This wide spectrum of archetypal journeys will be seen in film clips from such classics as The Lion in Winter, Resurrection, Lust for Life, This Sporting Life, Close Encounters, and Rebel without a Cause.

In addition, there will be film interviews with several leading writers and directors and the mythologist Joseph Campbell, guided imagery exercises, and group discussion.

Recommended reading: Joseph Campbell, The Hero with a Thousand Faces (Bollingen); James Hillman, Healing Fiction (Station Hill); Carol Pearson, The Hero Within (Harper & Row). $575

Weekend of May 26–28

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see January 27-29. $295

Understanding Men

Sam Keen

This seminar is for men and women who are looking for a new sense of what it means to be a man, or to be in relationship with a man. It is an exploration and celebration of the essence of masculinity. Please bring an assortment of photographs from childhood to the present of family, friends, heroes, and lovers. Topics we will consider include:

- Myths: contemporary types and stereotypes of men; the rites and rights of manhood; the obsession with power; the warrior psyche.
- Work: jobs, work, professions, and the burden of economics; corporate and professional domestication of masculinity; meaning, purpose, and vocation: who are we when we are not working, controlling, or fighting?
- Love: the wisdom and folly of the penis; how do we deal with women's anger? fathers, mothers, and sons; fathering, nurturing, husbanding; male friendship; the gypsy and the homesteader.
- Virility: what do men fear—the shadow of masculinity; the spiritual quest of the male.

$295

Week of May 28–June 2

Opening the Feelings

Dale Cummings & Gena Mayer Sorensen

Participants will employ Radix® and neo-Reichian methods of emotional release, the most important of which is the Radix intensive, a period of individual work within a small group setting which can provide emotional support among participants. Grief, pain, fear, and rage that have been held in since childhood can emerge. As the participant accepts and works through these negative feelings, he or she may discover a new capacity for pleasure, trust, and love. In time, the sexual experience may change as feelings of tenderness and sexuality intensify and merge. $575

Sensuousness and Asceticism

Brother David Steindl-Rast

Asceticism is sometimes mistaken for a life-denying self-torture that blocks all joy in sensuous beauty. Sensuousness, in turn, is misunderstood as abandonment to crude pleasure. Yet, asceticism is a term derived from athletic practice. Its goal is to heighten aliveness by discipline and training. This heightened aliveness increases and enhances sensuous delight.

A Benedictine monk for more than thirty years, Brother David has been trained in an ascetical tradition which aims at "life in fullness" and cultivates beauty in art, literature, and music. He will draw on the wealth of monastic tradition to give participants in this workshop a first-hand experience of honing their senses for greater enjoyment of life. Where could one find a better setting for this task than at Esalen? $575

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. With this natural reserve as the primary teacher, the group will walk into the Los Padres National Forest. Drawing on various traditions, participants can develop the quality of their awareness and open to the natural world.

Week-long workshops will venture out on five hikes (4-10 miles in length). Weekend workshops will take two hikes (3-6 miles in length). Using Esalen as base camp, the group will explore different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each day-hike will begin after breakfast and will conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. Basic outdoor skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts will be practiced. Participants will be taught enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after these outings. More information will be sent upon registration. $575

Weekend of June 2–4

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman

For workshop description see January 20-22.
$295

STEVE BECK

A pause in the onion harvest. Gazebo kids make frequent trips to the farm for hands-on experience in the joys of gardening.

New Ways of Thinking in Science and Theology

Fritjof Capra & Brother David Steindl-Rast

New ways of thinking are emerging in science and in theology. The new paradigms in these two areas show surprising parallels. Two great human enterprises of exploring reality are converging. But the new insights are not yet widely known.

In dialogue with each other and with participants, Fritjof Capra and Brother David will examine the evidence and probe its implications. The goal of this weekend workshop is twofold: to find through new ways of thinking new ways of responsible action in the world we share. $295

Week of June 4–9

Presence: A Fluidity of Being

Elisa Lodge

For workshop description see January 22-27.
$575

The Hero's Journey

Paul Rebillot

Paul Rebillot writes: "Again and again in my work with people I have seen the suffering and confusion caused by our society's lack of significant rites of passage. Without shamans or ritual masters to guide them, modern women and men must find their own lonely and usually traumatic paths from one stage of life to another—whether it be a child's discovery that there is no Santa Claus, an adolescent's awkward approach to puberty, an adult's marriage or ending of one, or a change of career. Every such change requires a movement from one level of being to another.

"Seeing this need, I created a rite of passage universal enough to allow people to discover the pattern of change, whatever that change might be. That pattern is exemplified in the myth of the hero. The new stage of life that is to be reached calls forth a heroic action on the part of the person taking the journey. At the same time, as soon as a new goal begins to emerge, all of the resistance to that goal emerges as well. I call these two forces 'the hero' and 'the demon.' In order for the new state of being to be realized, these two forces must discover how to communicate with each other and how to work together. The old forms must fall away so that the new form can emerge.

STEVE BECK

Irrigation water for the landscaping and gardens is drawn from Hot Springs Creek. Drought-tolerant plants help keep this hose on the rack.

"My purpose is to give people a chance to experience a rite of passage so that they can go into the changes in their lives with a sense of joy and greater context. My hope is that through this process people will awaken to their own creative genius and enter into the drama of their lives with imagination and delight."

Recommended reading: Joseph Campbell, The Hero with a Thousand Faces (Bollingen) and Myths to Live By (Bantam). $575

Advanced Enneagram Intensive

Helen Palmer

The enneagram is an ancient psychological typology that describes nine personality types and their interrelationships. Each type is defined by a chief mental and emotional preoccupation to which attention habitually returns. The types correlate well with the current categories of psychological practice, but can open us to the fact that the repeating preoccupations of heart and mind that we in the West tend to dismiss as merely neurotic can also be used as access points into states of awareness like empathy, omniscience, and love.

Beginning w.th a review of the nine types, this workshop will focus on advanced material that can best be understood through oral teaching methods. These include learning to recognize type by listening to the differences in people's stories, by learning to ask key questions, and by paying attention to one's own internal impressions when in the presence of the different types.

This program is for those who are already familiar with the nine personality types and who wish to broaden their understanding of the system. It is intended for anyone who is interested in: recognizing ways in which the nine types relate to each other in intimate partnership and in work-related settings; determining strategies for working with the types; developing competency with the patterns of attention that support each type; gaining an understanding of the higher human abilities that can develop from working with the issues of type.

This intensive can also be applied toward requirements for the enneagram teacher training program. It has been designed to support those who wish to use and teach the system within the scope of private practice, group work, or organizational development. For more information, please see the leader's April 2-9 workshop description.

Recommended reading: Helen Palmer, The Enneagram: Understanding Yourself and the Others in Your Life (Harper & Row).

Recommended viewing: Nine Portraits, a videotape presentation of the nine personality types. Write to: 1442A Walnut St., Berkeley, CA 94709. $575

Weekend of June 9–11

Acts of Courage

David Schiffman

For workshop description see January 15-20. $295

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

For workshop description see May 28-June 2. $295

The Further Reaches of Human Energy

George Leonard & Annie Styron Leonard

This workshop begins with a basic grounding in Leonard Energy Training (LET), in which problems can become opportunities, stress and pain can be transformed into gifts of energy, personal and social options can be multiplied, and the flow of vital energy enhanced. In addition to its practical applications, the workshop offers participants the possibility of experiencing their own latent powers of intuition and extraordinary sensing.

After their introduction to LET, participants move into experiments that push the limits of what are termed "normal" human capacities. Through such processes as scanning, tuning in to others' energy, focused surrender, and remote viewing, the group is given a chance to experience a crystalline state of intense aliveness without expectation and prejudgment. As George Leonard wrote in The Ultimate Athlete, "Simply by considering possibilities commonly ignored by our culture, we find ourselves in a far more fascinating universe. We discover adventures that do not require the burning of fuel or the rape of the planet: sensing the energy field of a friend or a tree, making connections that defy conventional space and time. . . . We realize, with the sorcerer, don Juan, that our world is awesome, mysterious, and unfathomable, and that our life is filled to the brim and altogether too short."

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse (Dutton), The Ultimate Athlete (Viking), and The Transformation (Tarcher/Houghton-Mifflin). $295

Week of June 11–16

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Robert Helm & Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see February 19-24.
$575

Sculpture: Inner and Outer Visions

Rachael Dutton

The seat of the soul is where the inner and outer worlds meet. – Novalis

Rachael Dutton writes: "My work is based on interactions of images from my dreams with the animism of materials such as branches, earth, and grasses. These materials function as collaborators, mediating between inner and outer worlds.

"Workshop participants will work individually with images gleaned from dreams, memory, or moments of presence, using low-tech methods of construction and the natural resources of the farm area at Esalen. Additive sculpture methods, such as bundling, tying, stacking, can be just as personal as imagery; ways of linking physical components mirror associative processes in the mind. Participants will explore a multi-dimensional awareness of self as process and self as internal landscape coming to meet external landscape, using natural materials and the raw beauty of the Big Sur coastline to embody their personal visions.

"The workshop is open to artists at all levels of experience. Bring sketchbook, scissors, string, rags, and a plastic bucket."

Recommended reading: Robert Bly, editor, News of the Universe (Sierra); Rainer Maria Rilke, Letters to a Young Poet (Norton). $575

Weekend of June 16–18

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see January 27-29.
$295

The Garden of Esalen

Steve Beck

This workshop is about flower, vegetable, and herb gardening, from seeding to harvest. Located on a cliff above the Pacific Ocean, the Esalen garden will be our laboratory for seed sources, propagation, planting mixes, pest and weed control, watering systems, compost, and related topics.

If you are an experienced gardener, bring your wisdom, and if you're just getting started, bring your questions. We'll be taking time to smell the flowers and enjoy the simple pleasure of having our feet on the earth. Wear comfortable clothing. $295

Healing, Meditation, and Dzogchen

Sogyal Rinpoche

In the stillness and presence of meditation we discover a pure awareness, beyond the ordinary thinking mind, and catch a glimpse of our true nature, something long lost to the busyness and turmoil of our lives. The core of meditation practice is the releasing of heart and mind in deep ease and relaxation, dissolving tensions, and connecting with that tremendous source of healing within. Health is a state where all aspects of body and mind are in balance. Through meditation practice, the mind's natural freedom begins to shine through whatever arises in everyday life, bringing us confidence and skillfulness in our action.

At the heart of the Buddha's teachings lie the ancient meditation practices of Dzogchen, taught by Sogyal Rinpoche, a master who is heir to the 2,500 years of wisdom of Buddha. This weekend he will talk about Dzogchen and the Buddhist perspective. Some meditation practice will be included. $295

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach

Patrick Douce

The work of Moshe Feldenkrais is based on the natural process by which we learned to move as children. During this workshop, soft, easy, gentle movements will be used to increase awareness of the body and to improve the ease and ability of movement. Special emphasis will be placed on the difficulties in movement that arise from chronic conditions such as lower back and neck pain, shoulder pain, tension in the neck and shoulders, and knee injuries. Such conditions can be improved by approaching the difficulties as problems in learning rather than as therapeutic troubles. Situations which were "incurable" become "re-educable." Workshop participants will also be introduced to methods to improve their ability to sense each other's bodies through touch and massage.

Although this workshop will be of value to anyone interested in learning more about his/her body through direct experience, it may be of special interest and benefit to dancers, athletes, doctors, nurses, physical therapists, psychologists, health-care professionals, and elderly citizens who may discover new ways of moving with ease and increased flexibility – painlessly and immediately.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 40. $295

Week of June 18–23

Couples' Workshop

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

For workshop description see February 5-10.
$575

Mountains and Waves: Movement in Wilderness

Susan Harper & Steven Harper

Mountains and Waves is an invitation to explore natural movements inspired within the human organism by participation in nature. We listen to impulses within and to impulses of wilderness until "inner" and "outer" disappear. As we surrender to the intelligence which creates life in all its varied forms, we find ourselves moving in unexpected ways. Our awareness expands. We feel a larger sense of Self and wilderness and the creative wholeness of a greater dance.

The summer solstice occurs during this week, and we will take special time to create a ceremony in honor and celebration of our longest day. Sessions will be both indoors and outdoors. Evenings, some day sessions, and most meals will be at Esalen. We will also take short day hikes in Big Sur's backcountry. Participants need not have previous experience in hiking or dance. $575

A Workshop with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

If a proper reverence for the sanctity of the earth and the diversity of its people is the secret of peace and survival, then the adventure of self-discovery stands before us as the most practical of pleasures. – Theodore Roszak, Person/Planet

Laura DeNuccio writes: "Within nature's seasonal cycles, one can observe a deep biological intelligence at play. The rhythms and patterns of the seasons reflect what occurs in every aspect of life – from the pulsation of the cell, to the ebb and flow of the deepest emotions, to the movement and expansion of the universe itself. In this workshop, the natural world will be the group's teacher as they explore the 'inner' terrain of their physical and emotional bodies and the 'outer' terrain of Esalen and Big Sur.

"Participants will use Reichian gestalt awareness and breath work, sound, creative movement, and meditation to balance and transform energy blocks in the body. In addition, they will use music, dance, power of the Spoken Word, and ritual to express their relationship with the earth and each other.

"No previous experience is needed, only a willingness to explore this adventure of spirit and discover a deepened sense of the interconnectedness that is inherent in all life-forms. Learning about one's body, natural instincts, and responses can lead one back to the ancient wisdom of the earth – and a return to sacredness and wholeness."

Recommended reading: Fields et al., Chop Wood, Carry Water (Tarcher); Shakti Gawain, Creative Visualization (Whatever Publishing); Peter Russell, The Global Brain (Tarcher).

$575

Weekend of June 23–25

Looking Over Meaning's Edge

Terence McKenna

Once again we create a chance to travel a different path. We will use syntactical flair, literary allusions, and reflections on the psychedelic experience to place ourselves in context at history's climax. Expect to discuss the Timewave, the timeless vision, and the challenge of living in an evolving, thinking, fractal world. $295

Preparing for the 21st Century: The Teacher as Warrior

Betty Halpern, Patricia Monighan-Nourot, Lia Thompson-Clark & Janet Lederman

Essential issues to be considered in this weekend seminar on teacher development include: how to create an environment that supports confidence, competence, and compassion; the role of play in the curriculum (play and aggression; play and gender roles; play and age); how teachers can advocate for children (working with families and the community); the teacher as warrior or the teacher as wimp: developing leadership in your own setting; professionalism and relationships between staff and administrators.

Lectures, discussion, role playing, experiential exercises, and observation at Gazebo School (Esalen's children's center) will be some of the strategies used. This workshop is designed for teachers and administrators in any school setting. $295

Achieving Sustained High Performance

Jerry & Kathleen Fletcher

Everyone has had the experience of suddenly doing something much better than expected, yet, until recently, little has been understood about these high performance experiences. People assumed such times were lucky accidents. More significantly, even if they could perform at high levels for short times, they assumed there was no way to sustain such performance without stress, fatigue, and eventual burnout.

Eight years of research and testing make it clear that these times of exceptional performance are not capricious. Each individual has a unique set of conditions under which he or she performs surprisingly well. Once people learn their personal high performance patterns, they can deliberately create the conditions they need to sustain their high performance behavior. They do not need to subject themselves to the strain of short peak periods of high output followed by long recovery cycles.

This seminar presents a process for individuals to determine their high performance patterns and conditions. Developed through years of work with successful managers, executives, and professionals, it offers how to go from competent to exceptional performance in a way that can be sustained. $295

Week of June 25–30

Five Days with Janet Zuckerman

For workshop description see February 26-March 3. $575

Intermediate Cranial Workshop

Jim Asher & Jane Harrington

This Level Two cranial workshop will review the vertical and horizontal systems with alternate holds for each phase. Mouthwork practices that reduce strain and compression patterns as they relate to the maxilla, sphenoid, and ethmoid complex and to pituitary and sinus problems will be shown. Participants will practice balanced movement of the body to support themselves while working, as well as movement patterns which can be taught to their clients to support cranial changes.

Cranial work can be effective in shifting emotional holding patterns and draining accumulated stresses in the nervous system. Unwinding, a method which can release strains throughout the body at the somatic and emotional levels, will be emphasized in this workshop. Sphenobasilar strain patterns, whip lash, bulb compression, dural tube freedom, and the fluid system will also be covered. There will be time for questions about specific problems and case studies.

This workshop is for those who have taken a basic cranial workshop on the membrane/fluid systems. It will be hands-on. Much of the emphasis will be on the head, jaw, neck, pelvis, and diaphragm systems.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 40. $575

Playing the Edge

David Schiffman

In the early stages of growth, success seems to be its own reward. The excitement, the energy, the willingness to stand to it comes bubbling up in the mood of those who are involved in new and successful ventures. To keep this spirit alive is not easy. The enormous pressure, the grinding routines and demands of substantial involvement can dispirit even the healthiest people. To listen to one's heart and know what's real requires the courage to pause. In this willingness to stop and listen to the deeper self live the true resources that guide and protect us.

The purpose of this week is to create a mood of sanctuary for: people who are in transition and facing major changes in career, relationship, or matters of the spirit; those in need of a break from demanding, stressful responsibilities; individuals interested in breaking new ground in the areas of self-nurturance, intuitive functioning, and problem-solving.

The processes will be gently restorative, illuminating, and enlivening. The group intention will be to create a community based in trust and goodwill with maximum emphasis on individual freedom. Traditional methods of self-inquiry (gestalt practice, bioenergetics, psychosynthesis) will be combined with innovative methods using music, meditation, poetry, and prayer to foster this spirit of living fully and comfortably. $575

January 29–February 10
Advanced Training in
Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner

Shamanism is the most ancient system known for using the mind, heart, and spirit to heal oneself and others and to solve the problems of daily living. This two-week intensive course emphasizes the universal methods of classic, core shamanism, such as shamanic journeying, and their practical application to contemporary life. This is the most advanced training currently offered by Michael Harner in the United States or Europe.

Course prerequisite: a previous workshop with Michael Harner or an authorized faculty member of the Center for Shamanic Studies, either at Esalen or elsewhere. Such a workshop will be offered at Esalen immediately prior to this program. (See Esalen Seminars, January 27-29.)

Recommended reading: Michael Harner, The Way of the Shaman (Bantam) and Hallucinogens and Shamanism (Oxford).

For more information and to apply, please contact Michael Harner, Center for Shamanic Studies, Box 670–Belden Station, Norwalk, CT 06852; (203) 454-2825. Early application is recommended.

CYNTHIA JOHNSON BIANCHETTA

The integration of man-made structures with the pre-existing lines of nature was central to Selig Morgenrath's legacy. His maxim was: let the lay of the land determine the blueprint for development.

February 26–March 24
Massage Practitioner
Certification Program

Peggy Horan & George King

This month-long program offers, at a professional level, intensive instruction in massage practice, movement, and self-care. The emphasis will be on developing basic massage skills through daily lecture-demonstrations, hands-on practice sessions using each other as models, illustrated anatomy classes, and instruction in the basic principles of alignment. Meditation and gestalt awareness sessions will be scheduled regularly throughout the program for deeper, more integrative learning.

Body work will be studied as a tool for optimal well-being and stress reduction and as a valued aid to transpersonal growth. Workshop sessions will meet Sunday through Friday and on alternate weekends. Upon satisfactory completion of the program, and after giving 30 additional recorded massage sessions, a California state-approved certificate of completion will be issued. This is a professional program, with limited admission.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 40. $2300

March 5–17
Completion and Transformation

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

These two weeks will offer participants an intense journey to their center, where the child within lives. This inward journey will allow them to complete and transform how they feel about where they have been and where they are going.

The other side of suffering is coming to know and join the lover within and to bring this part of the self to all one's relationships in life. Relationships are the strongest mirrors we have. People are often attracted to those from whom they have the most to learn, those who reflect their strengths and weaknesses, consciousness and unconsciousness, darkness and light. Participants will explore the difference between intention and experience and may discover new ways to experience living in the moment as a lover of life.

The workshop will include body work, massage, dance, meditation, imagery, and play. $1425

March 5–17
Mind and Medicine

Jeanne Achterberg & Frank Lawlis

In this decade there has been renewed focus upon the mind's role in healing. The forces responsible for bringing about this interest represent a grand confluence of theology, psychology, medicine, and anthropology.

It is time, though, to take a serious and critical look at the mind's role in healing, to share experiences, evaluate the claims of psychosomatic research, and to thoughtfully and ethically create a medicine which embraces the role of the psyche and the essence of the human spirit.

The workshop presenters are psychologists who are bridging worlds of art and science, intellect and intuition in their research and healing practices. During the workshop, healing methods on the forefront of science will be experienced and explored. These include imagery practices for catastrophic disease prevention, modified shamanic methods which are currently practiced by the presenters in hospital settings, and energy balancing.

The material presented will be most pertinent to health care professionals and consumers who are seriously exploring the mind path to health.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 40. $1425

March 26–April 9
Two-Week Advanced
Massage Practitioner Program

Vicki Topp & Esalen Massage Practitioners

This is an opportunity for Esalen-certified massage practitioners to improve their skills, stimulate their creativity, and experience current trends in massage and body work. Some anatomy, movement, and meditation will be included. This workshop offers 75 hours of advanced massage training credit where applicable.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 40. $1595

March 26–April 9
Gestalt Practice:
An Intensive Program for People in the Helping Professions

Christine Stewart Price & Guest Leaders

Gestalt practice is an experiential form – nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental – evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. In this practice the quality of one's awareness is made primary, especially as focused on breath and physical sensation. For further information, see Gestalt Practice, January 22-27.

This intensive program is designed for people with established client-oriented practices, such as counselors, body workers, nurses, teachers, etc., who would like to integrate gestalt practice skills into their professional life and have concentrated time to attend to their personal growth as well. The curriculum will include sessions in which participants work with the leaders one at a time in a group setting (open seat work), and practicum sessions where group members work with each other in structured situations as practice "clients." Some sessions will be videotaped for discussion and review. Although gestalt practice is the primary focus, related approaches will be presented, especially those which enhance ability to focus awareness on breath and bodily sensations.

This program is by application only. To apply, send a brief letter describing your present work and how you imagine this experience would relate to your professional and personal growth. Priority will be given to participants who are currently involved in working with people in an ongoing way. Address applications and inquiries to Christine Price, Box 304, Wycombe, PA 18980.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Real People Press) and The Gestalt Approach and Eyewitness to Therapy (Science and Behavior); John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics Ltd.).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 40. $1595

April 9–21
Integrative Body Practice (IBP)
Professional Training Program

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

This will be a twelve-day residential training program in Integrative Body Practice. IBP emphasizes breathing as a vehicle for the integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit, and views the body as the foundation for psychological and transpersonal growth. Object relations developmental theory will be integrated with body work. This workshop is for licensed professionals and graduate students in related fields. The leaders will be assisted by Deane Juhan and the staff of the Rosenberg-Rand Institute of Venice, California.

Recommended reading: Jack Rosenberg et al., Body, Self, and Soul: Experiencing Integration (Humanics Ltd.) and Total Orgasm (Bookworks).

For information write or call: Marjorie Rand, Rosenberg-Rand Institute, 1107 W. Washington Blvd., Venice, CA 90291; (213) 394-0147.

$1425

April 9–21
The Art and Science
of Clinical Hypnosis

Marc Lehrer

For some, hypnosis is a method to help others, and for some it is a path of personal living. This program will cover traditional and Ericksonian hypnosis and neurolinguistic programming, emphasizing study of the underlying principles and practice with structured materials and methods. Participants will have practice sessions with each other and time for intensive self-exploration in the supportive Esalen environment.

Specific topics will include: habit disorders and symptom removal, reframing, age regression, pacing of experience, and Ericksonian linguistic patterns. Videotapes of Milton Erickson and other practitioners of hypnosis will be available. A unique part of this program will be on developing and enhancing the voice in inductions; there will be opportunities to construct hypnosis and subliminal tapes as well. Participants will explore the use of biofeedback and other mind-stimulating devices for inducing altered states of consciousness.

There will be guest presentations and individualized assignments, based upon participants' interests and previous levels of experience. Exercises drawn from Feldenkrais® training, t'ai chi, shamanic drumming, and other experiential disciplines will complement the program and will help participants become more attuned to their own trance abilities, thereby enabling them to work more effectively with others.

This program offers 40 hours of Board of Behavioral Science Examiners hypnosis course credits for M.F.C.C.s. For more information contact Marc Lehrer, P.O. Box 7, Davenport, CA 95017; (408) 426-3321.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 40. $1425

May 14–June 9
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

This course will synthesize neurolinguistics and Ericksonian hypnosis and will draw heavily from the pioneering work being done with the enneagram of personality and Stanislav Grof's "cartography of inner space." While satisfying the hypnosis coursework requirements for the M.F.C.C. and complying with the California state requirement for hypnosis certification, participants will go beyond what is required and explore the realms of the unknown.

While the use of hypnosis in habit control and symptom removal will be covered, a primary focus will be on hypnosis as a tool of spiritual emergence and sacred psychology. Starting with the presupposition that we already live in trance and that the goal is waking up, the roots of personality structure and the filters of perception in the creation and transformation of reality will be carefully explored. Participants will have the opportunity to directly experience the profound power of trance to transform their lives. These experiences will create a model for working with clients.

The structure of rapport, pacing and leading, and various hypnotic patterns of induction will be demonstrated and practiced along with a variety of clinical interventions, including reframing, change history, metaphors, and storytelling.

The group will watch videotapes of Erickson and other well-known leaders in the field of hypnosis. Participants will have daily practice with each other and the opportunity to be videotaped doing a hypnotic induction. Daily zazen, Taoist yoga, and transformational movement led by Antoinette Varner will also be a part of this program.

Certification is optional, but will be available from the American Council of Hypnotist Examiners for an additional fee. Upon completion of this course, participants who want to be certified must demonstrate a high level of professionalism as well as proficiency in technical skills to the satisfaction of the instructors before certification will be granted. Beyond certification, the opportunities for personal transformation and learning new tools for change can make this a valuable experience.

Required reading: J. Haley, Uncommon Therapy (Norton) and Strategies of Psychotherapy (Grune & Stratton); Grinder and Bandler, Trance-Formations (Real People Press), Frogs into Princes (Real People Press), and Reframing (Real People Press); S. Grof, Beyond the Brain (State University of N.Y.); Chogyam Trungpa, Shambhala (Shambhala); P.D. Ouspensky, In Search of the Miraculous (Harcourt, Brace & World); C. Castaneda, Tales of Power (Simon & Schuster); Joseph Campbell, Myths to Live By (Bantam).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 40.

$2300 (plus $300 fee for those wanting certification, paid to the Institute for Advanced Hypnosis)

CYNTHIA JOHNSON BIANCHETTA

A steep path and elegant bridge across Hot Springs Creek lead to the Big House and farm, and connect the north and south ends of the property.

May 14–July 7
The Modern Warrior:
A Certification Program
in Leonard Energy Training

George Leonard, Annie Styron Leonard & Consultants

This will be an intensive, rigorous, eight-week program leading to possible certification as a Leonard Energy Trainer. Leonard Energy Training (LET) is a comprehensive practice inspired by the Eastern art of aikido and Western psychology. LET teaches alternative ways of dealing with daily life problems and offers the possibility of high-level functioning appropriate to the ideal of the modern peaceful warrior.

In addition to learning how to present LET exercises, the participants in this course will receive training in movement (aikido and aikisword), meditation forms, written and oral communication skills, and state-of-the-art fitness work. The fitness training will be graduated to individual levels of readiness and will be comprehensive and holistic. Exercise and nutritional counseling, as well as mental training, will be included.

This program differs from the usual campus model of education. At times, the atmosphere might seem to resemble that of the training schools of the Japanese samurai. Training days can run up to sixteen hours in length and will weave together the mental, physical, psychological, and spiritual. Throughout, the program emphasizes personal authority, integrity, patience, discipline, paying attention, and taking calculated risks. Success requires unusually high dedication and commitment.

The number of candidates is limited to a total of ten men and women. Although the eight-week program carries no guarantee of certification, experience has shown that it is a transformative experience in any case. If you complete this course, you will be qualified to lead LET workshops.

For further information, write to: Energy Training Institute, P.O. Box 609, Mill Valley, CA 94942.

Children's Programs

Gazebo School: The Gazebo Program for children, ages 2-6, operates year round except for a week at Christmas. It is an outdoor-based program which encompasses the care of animals and the environment and supports the development of physical, cognitive, and psychosocial skills. It is for children of parents concurrently attending an Esalen seminar. For further information contact Lia Thompson-Clark, Esalen Institute. $150 per week

Gazebo Internship Program

Openings are now available at the Gazebo School for a one- to three-month intensive internship in early childhood education. The emphasis will be on an aesthetic approach to the development of physical, cognitive, and psychosocial skills. For an application, write to Bette Dingman, Gazebo Internship Program, Esalen Institute.

Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Esalen offers a California state-approved program. Upon completion of a four-week massage practitioner workshop (see Special Programs, February 26-March 24) and after giving 30 additional massages elsewhere, graduates will receive their certificates. This program provides at least 130 hours of instruction, supplemented by additional study in body-mind disciplines such as yoga, gestalt awareness work, and movement, fulfilling the state requirement.

Healthspring

The Healthspring Project encompasses outreach, education, referral services, and networking. It was created by the Esalen massage teachers and their associates and is an independent, service-oriented program.

This past year, Healthspring set up a global referral system which links people with body workers, counselors, and teachers from their home areas. There are ongoing programs at Esalen and a traveling workshop service in the U.S. and abroad. Instructors teach self-healing, Esalen body work, yoga, breath and body awareness, dance movement, and meditation. Many Healthspring instructors have experience in gestalt practice.

The Healthspring Library offers books on health and healing, body work, somatic studies, philosophy, yoga, nutrition, and organic gardening, which people may borrow for up to a two-week period while at Esalen. Donations of books or periodicals are greatly appreciated.

Access to the referral system and the traveling workshop program is available by writing to Laurie Lioness Parizek at Esalen, c/o Healthspring.

WILDERNESS PROGRAMS

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop, we require the following deposit:

1-3 days	$50
4-7 days	$100
Over 8 days	$200

The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your nonrefundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your deposit is forfeited.

April 21–29
Big Sur Wilderness Journey: From Esalen to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center

Steven Harper & Joyce Lyke

Nature can provide opportunities to stretch one's limits and explore one's inner wilderness. By living in a natural environment it is possible to expand one's sense of self and depth of being.

The group will spend a day and a night at Esalen, leaving the next morning to hike through the Ventana wilderness. Participants will travel "light," with instruction in minimum impact camping, ecology, geography, and cultural history of the area.

Wilderness will be a mirror and primary teacher as the group lives simply and in direct contact with nature. Participants will explore their inner world of dreams, feelings, and sensations as they emerge, using gestalt awareness practice and group process. Taking inspiration from natural and native purification practices, they will create a time of cleansing and contemplation, culminating in a 24-hour period alone. The group will hike on to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center, deep in a rugged wilderness valley with natural hot springs, for their last night together. There, meditation instruction will be available for those who wish it.

Backpacking experience is not necessary, though participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity. More information will be sent upon registration. $590

FUTURE PROGRAMS

Listed here is a sampling of programs planned for Fall 1989. This is not an invitation to register, but information to assist you in your long-range plans to participate in an Esalen workshop. More information will be available in the May-October catalog.

September 24, 1989–May 1991
Somatics Study Program for Health Professionals

Don Johnson (coordinator) & Faculty

For more information about this two-year program, please refer to "Esalen Notes," page 7.

October 1989
Personal Renaissance
Florence, Italy

Kathleen Riordan Speeth & Nancy Kaye Lunney

If you want to be considered for inclusion in this two-week intensive, please write to Nancy Kaye Lunney, Esalen Institute.

October 1989
In Search of the Healing Center: The Island of Bali

Patrick Douce & Others

For more information about this 17-day program, contact Esalen Institute, (408) 667-3000.

WORK STUDY PROGRAM

The Work Study Program is for those who are interested in total immersion in the Esalen environment. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically. Only rarely is it restful. Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and cabins. Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs. During the first month, assignments are made primarily in the kitchen and cabins. No participants will be accepted as work scholars in Gazebo or the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments.

Most evenings and two intensive weekends are spent together as a group exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who will be with the group throughout the month coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The program is usually divided into two sections each month: a general interest section which covers a variety of growth approaches, and a focused interest section which emphasizes one type of growth practice, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage or body work, etc. Participants in the focused programs must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program, assuming that they meet the standards of the Work Study Program.

Focused programs planned thus far for 1989 include:

January 8–February 5: Terry Hunt will lead a program in emotional sobriety for adult children of alcoholic and abusive parents.

February 5–March 5: Judith Brown will focus on connection and relationship with self, other, and nature, using primarily a gestalt approach.

March 5–April 2: David Schiffman's program for men will explore the nature and responsibilities of being a man, using inner work, mythology, movement, poetry, touch, music, ritual practice, and initiation.

March 5–April 2: Elliot Sobel's group will explore the expressive arts as healing force and spiritual path through movement, theater games, singing, writing, and painting.

April 2–30: Mary (Devarani) Goldenson's program of letting go and moving on will employ Reichian methods, Radix®, dance, imagery, gestalt, and meditation.

April 30–May 28: Janet Zuckerman will teach emotional release work using basic gestalt practices. This is a practicum, with emphasis on the participant as facilitator.

May 28–June 25: Mariah Fenton Gladis will focus on "complete gestalt work." This program will be didactic and experiential, including body work, spiritual development, and emotional clearing.

June 25–July 23: Janet Lederman will lead this internship in community-building for advanced students in the somatics program, who will participate in the daily work at Esalen.

July 23–August 20: See April 30-May 28.

In as much as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage, are available at staff rates.

Accommodations are shared, with up to four people to a room, usually at South Coast

APPLICATION TO THE WORK STUDY PROGRAM

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ ZIP _____

Date of Birth _____ Occupation _____ Place of Employment _____

Daytime Telephone (_____) _____ Date of Application _____

Evening Telephone (_____) _____ Male ☐ Female ☐

I prefer the general interest program: yes ☐ no ☐ I prefer the focused program in: _____

Participants in the focused programs must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program.

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning on a Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: _____ to _____ 2nd: _____ to _____ 3rd: _____ to _____

Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community.

Please indicate your availability should an invitation be extended. (Not applicable to focused program participants.)
☐ No extension ☐ One-month extension ☐ Two-month extension. Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs.

☐ Please check here if you have emergency medical skills (M.D., E.M.T., or R.N.) and are willing to make those skills available during your stay.

Please attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program. Include: applicable skills (gardening, kitchen, mechanical, etc.); medical difficulties which might affect your working in particular departments; previous Esalen workshops you have attended (please list program titles, group leaders, and dates). Note: Fluency in the English language is essential for participation in the program.

Center, a staff complex located 1½ miles north of Esalen.

A deposit of $350 in U.S. currency is required with your application. The cost of all 28-day Work Study Programs, except the three-month body work program, is $700 first month, $650 second month, $600 third month. Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month depending on space available and community needs. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

For more information contact Bette Dingman: (408) 667-3010.

Note: This application is not a registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is nonrefundable and may be transferred to other programs within one year of receipt. Please return this form with your deposit to:

Work Study Program, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

Available dates: January 8–February 5; February 5–March 5; March 5–April 2; April 2-30; April 30–May 28; May 28–June 25; June 25–July 23; July 23–August 20; August 20–September 17; September 17–October 15; October 15–November 12; November 12–December 10; etc.

STEVE BECK

The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of Continuing Education for registered nurses, provider number 01152. Only those programs specifically listed below offer continuing education credit. See workshop descriptions elsewhere in the catalog.

January 15–20
Craniosacral System: Basic Workshop
Jim Asher & Jane Harrington
30 hours

January 15–20
Imagination as Healer
Jeanne Achterberg & Frank Laulis
30 hours

January 22–27
Five-Day Massage Intensive
George King & Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

February 17–19
Minding the Body, Mending the Mind
Joan & Myrin Borysenko
10 hours

February 19–24
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Kathleen O'Shaughnessy & Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

February 24–26
Burnout: Causes and Cures
Elliot Waker Aronson & Ayala Pines
10 hours

February 26–March 24
Massage Practitioner Certification Program
Peggy Horan & George King
30 hours

March 5–17
Mind and Medicine
Jeanne Achterberg & Frank Laulis
30 hours

March 17–19
Understanding the Borderline and Narcissistic Personality
Burton Schaffner & Darlene Louise Beaver
10 hours

March 26–April 9
Two-Week Advanced Massage Practitioner Program
Vicki Topp & Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

March 26–April 9
Gestalt Practice: An Intensive Program for People in the Helping Professions
Christine Stewart Price & Guest Leaders
30 hours

April 9–21
The Art and Science of Clinical Hypnosis
Marc Lehrer
30 hours

April 16–21
Hypnosis and Body Work
Lila Daniels Klapman & David Robinette
30 hours

April 23–28
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Char Pias Brenner & Arthur Munyer
30 hours

May 5–7
Dance as an Ally in Healing Cancer
Anna Halprin & Rana Vassau
10 hours

May 14–June 9
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis
Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner
30 hours

June 11–16
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Robert Helm & Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

June 16–18
Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
Patrick Douce
10 hours

June 25–30
Intermediate Cranial Workshop
Jim Asher & Jane Harrington
30 hours

THE MEDIA CENTER

Videotapes

The Esalen Media Center is offering for rental or purchase a selection of videotapes. This series consists of unedited single camera recordings of informal talks made at Esalen, along with a descriptive tape of Esalen itself.

1. Jack Kornfield, On Meditation, November 1986. A longtime student and teacher of Vipassana meditation and Buddhism discusses these traditions with reference to his own experiences as a spiritual seeker in the Orient. (121 minutes)

2. Brother David Steindl-Rast, God, Spirituality, and the Senses, November 1984. A Benedictine monk and scholar discusses the spiritual journey and its relationship to mythology and transpersonal theory. (117 minutes)

3. Fritjof Capra, Characteristics of Systems Thinking, June 1985. The author of The Tao of Physics and The Turning Point discusses the evolution of scientific thinking, including current views and implications. (81 minutes)

4. Stanislav Grof, The New Scientific Paradigm, June 1985. An original member of the transpersonal psychology network and author on topics such as appropriate use of psycho-active substances, discusses his current view of consciousness. (117 minutes)

5. Rupert Sheldrake, Morphic Resonance and The New Science of Life, June 1985. A British geneticist relates his theories on biological and psychological development and discusses some empirical tests of these theories. (108 minutes)

6. Kenneth Ring, The Near-Death Experience, June 1985. The author of Life at Death and Heading Toward Omega discusses his research on the near-death experience and some of its implications for the future of the human race. (114 minutes)

7. Albert Hofmann, December 1984. The discoverer of LSD talks to Stanislav Grof about his early experiences with this and other psycho-active drugs. He also discusses some of the social, political, and scientific consequences of LSD. (92 minutes)

8. Anne Armstrong and Elizabeth Stratton, December 1984. Two longtime students, practitioners, and teachers of psychic work discuss with Nancy Knapp their practices and perspectives related to psychic counseling and healing. (56 minutes)

9. Terence McKenna, Fractal Perspectives on the Millenium, August 1985. The author of The Invisible Landscape gives his vision of the future, centering around the evolution of human consciousness. (72 minutes)

10. Jack Rosenberg, One Hour and Twenty-Nine Minutes with Jack Rosenberg and Integrative Body Practice, September 1985. The Venice, California, practitioner gives his view of personality development and some of the typical patterns of interaction in relationship. (89 minutes)

11. Esalen. This 18-minute videotape tells Esalen's story from its early history to the present. The visuals consist of 130 color slides featuring scenes of the Big Sur coast, Esalen's gardens, grounds, and various workshops and activities.

Ordering Information

Each speaker program costs $55 to purchase, $25 to rent. The Esalen tape costs $35 to purchase, $15 to rent. To order any of these tapes (VHS only), indicate: purchase or rental (one week), program #, and title. To your subtotal, add $5 shipping and handling ($12 for overseas orders) for each two tapes ordered. California residents add 6% tax for sales only. Include your name, address, and phone number. Please address your order (with a check payable to Esalen Institute) to the Esalen Media Center. Allow 30 days for delivery. Urgent orders may be handled by phone, (408) 667-3021.

FRIENDS OF ESALEN

We invite you to join us in our organization—the Friends of Esalen scholarship fund.

Friends of Esalen provides financial aid to people who are eager to attend our workshops but who cannot afford them.

We believe that one of our first priorities is to make our programs available on a broader basis. We have therefore decided to use membership contributions to fund such scholarships. Esalen will, in turn, match your contribution.

In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen, you will receive the Esalen Catalog for one year. We hope you feel your experience at Esalen was worth the sharing and that you will join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.

☐ I wish to become a Friend of Esalen and I enclose my check for the category marked.

☐ I wish to renew my membership in Friends of Esalen.

☐ One Year Student $15
☐ One Year Individual $25
☐ One Year Donor $50
☐ One Year Sponsor $100
☐ One Year Patron $500
(Contributions are tax-deductible)

Name _____ Student Affiliation _____

Address _____ City _____

State _____ ZIP _____ Date _____

Please mail to: Friends of Esalen, Big Sur, CA 93920.

AUDIO RECORDINGS

The Dolphin Tape Series

This tape list overlaps with others, but brings together more titles in the general fields of: the transpersonal, shamanism, psi phenomena, imagination, creativity, myth, and legend. A number of titles are from the month-long workshops through the years with Stanislav and Christina Grof, or from one of the International Transpersonal Association conferences held in such diverse locations as Boston or Bombay. Nearly all events were recorded in stereo. Tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hours.

Single-tape titles are $10:

Anne Armstrong: On Being a Psychic, 1971
Anne & Jim Armstrong: The Power of Intuition, 1987
Armstrong/Stratton: Psychic Abilities Interview, 1984
Gregory Bateson: Metaphors and Butterflies, 1975
Joseph Campbell: Freud, Jung, and Kundalini Yoga, 1967
Joseph Campbell: Hermes, Alchemy, & Voyage of Odysseus, 1971
Joseph Campbell: Kundalini Yoga and the Chakras, 1981
Joseph Campbell: The Hero's Journey (80th year celebration), 1984
Fritjof Capra: A New Vision of Reality (Bombay), 1982
Lew Carlino: Writing the Screenplay "Resurrection," 1987
Bhagavan Das: Singing Meditation, 1974
Prem Das: The Singing Earth (Huichol Chanting), 1980
Prem Das & Don Jose: Huichol Ceremony Chanting, 1977
Prem Das & Don Jose: Huichol Chant and The Deer Dance, 1977
Ram Dass & Tenney Kimmel: Chanting with Tamboura & Dulcimer, 1970
Jan Ehrenwald: Psi Experience and the Bergsonian Filter, 1984
Jule Eisenbud: Psi Experience in Psychotherapy, 1984
Fadiman/Hastings: Psychedelics & Paranormal Phenomena, 1971
George Freibott: Nikola Tesla, The Inventor, 1984
Father Bede Griffiths: Doctrine of New Creation (Bombay), 1982
Stanislav Grof: Journeys Beyond the Brain, 1979
Stanislav Grof: A New Paradigm for Psychotherapy, 1980
Stanislav Grof: Ancient Wisdom and Modern Science (Bombay), 1982
Stanislav Grof: Principles of Holotropic Therapy, 1985
Willis Harman: Alternative Futures, 1980
Arthur Hastings: Transpersonal Realities (Boston), 1979
Albert Hofmann: LSD and the Nature of Reality, 1978
Albert Hofmann: Interviewed by Stanislav Grof, 1984
Albert Hofmann: Transmitter/Receiver Concept of Reality, 1984
Aldous Huxley: Visionary Experience, 1960
Jack Kornfield: The Sword of Wisdom (Boston), 1979
Jack Kornfield: The Smile of the Buddha (Bombay), 1982
Stanley Krippner: Communes, Telepathy, and Dreams, 1971
John & Toni Lilly: Integrating Science and Mysticism, 1981
Abraham Maslow: Psychology of Religious Awareness, 1967
Terence McKenna: New and Old Maps of Hyperspace, 1982
Ralph Metzner: Symbolism of the Four Elements, 1979
Ralph Metzner: Maps, Models, and Metaphors (Boston), 1979
Henry Munn: Mushrooms and Culture, 1977
Henry Munn: Fable of the Vision Drink, 1977
Humphrey Osmond: Early Psychedelic History, 1976
Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance: Formative Causation (Bombay), 1982
Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance and Memory, 1985
Huston Smith: The Nature of Reality (Boston), 1979
Russel Targ: Parapsychology and Physics, 1972
Charles Tart: On the Paranormal, 1971
Charles Tart: Our Fear of Psychic Abilities, 1984
Andrew Weil: Psychoactive Drugs through Human History, 1983
Robert Anton Wilson: The I in the Triangle, 1984

Two-tape titles are $18:

Angeles Arrien: (2) The Story of Basque Mysticism, 1982
Angeles Arrien: (2) The Egyptian Tarot, 1982
Robert Bly: (2) An Evening at Esalen, 1982
Robert Bly: (2) Fairy Tales for Men and Women, 1982
Joseph Campbell: (2) Myths of Alienation and Rapture, 1970
Campbell/Keen: (2) The Dark Side of the Forest, 1985
Capra/Grof: (2) Beyond Time and Space, 1977
Prem Das: (2) The Huichol Cosmology (Creation and Return), 1977
Ram Dass: (2) One Man's Journey to the East, 1969
Ram Dass: (2) Creativity and Spirituality, 1987
Ram Dass: (2) The Heart of Compassion (SEVA), 1987
Stan & Christina Grof: (2) Holonomic Consciousness Paradigm, 1982
Stanislav Grof: (2) The Birth Trauma, 1981
Stanislav Grof: (2) Geometry of Psychopathology, 1984
Stanislav Grof: (2) The Cosmic Game, 1987
Michael Harner: (2) Shamanism, Songs, and Spirit Canoe, 1981
Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human (Boston), 1979
Timothy Leary: (2) The Power of Imprinting, 1982
Joseph Chilton Pearce: (2) The Magical Child, 1975
Kenneth Ring: (2) Near Death Experiences, 1985
Rupert Sheldrake: (2) A New Science of Life, 1982
Andrew Weil: (2) Use and Abuse of Beneficial Plants, 1982
Andrew Weil: (2) Interplay of Mind and Body Realities, 1982

Four-tape titles are $36:

Anne & Jim Armstrong: (4) A Workshop on Creativity and Spirituality, 1987
Joseph Campbell: (4) Imagery in the Novels of James Joyce, 1968
James Fadiman: (4) A Weekend of Stories, 1984
Roland Fischer: (4) Creative, Psychotic, & Ecstatic States, 1969
Buckminster Fuller: (4) Integrity Day (Marin), 1983
Jack Kornfield: (4) Buddhist Meditation and Practice, 1981
Timothy Leary: (4) A Day with Timothy Leary, 1982
Terence McKenna: (4) Psychedelics and a Free Society, 1984
Rupert Sheldrake: (4) Resonance and the Habits of Nature, 1987
Brother David Steindl-Rast: (4) Mysticism as a Frontier Experience, 1985

The Dolphin Vinyl Binder Tape Sets:

Robert Anton Wilson: (6) The 'Coincidance' of Joyce, 1985	$60
John C. Lilly: (6) Ego, Self, and Essence, 1971	$60
John C. Lilly: (6) The East Coast Workshop, 1973	$60
Rupert Sheldrake: (6) Seminar on the Presence of the Past, 1985	$60
UCSB Symposium: (6) Entheogens, The Spiritual Psychedelics, 1983	$60
Andrew Weil: (6) Integrated Consciousness and Health, 1976	$60
Robert Anton Wilson: (6) Seminar on the I in the Triangle, 1984	$60
Colin Wilson: (6) The New Analytic Philosophy, 1967	$60
Reb Anderson: (8) Zen is the Key, 1986	$72
Terence McKenna: (8) Lecture Series I (1982-83) or Series II (1983-86)	$72
Terence McKenna: (8) True Hallucinations (A Talking Book), 1984	$80
Joseph Campbell: (10) The World Mythology Series, 1969	$88
Gregory Bateson: (12) The Informal Esalen Lectures, 1975-80	$98

Please add $3 to your complete order for handling and mailing (add $3 more if you wish priority mail). Overseas orders add $1 per tape for mailing. California residents include 6% tax. (Institutional purchase orders please add 10% to tape cost for invoicing and deferred payment.) Allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery.

Please mail your order and your check payable to:
DOLPHIN TAPES, P.O. Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920

Advertisement: Dolphin Tapes is a private company independent of Esalen.

BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

A

Jeanne Achterberg,
author of Imagery in Healing, has a doctorate in psychology and physiology and is an internationally acclaimed pioneer in the study of the mind-body connection.
p. 13, 22, 35, 40

Stephen Aizenstat
is president of the Human Relations Institute and a core faculty member of its M.A. and Ph.D. programs in depth psychology.
p. 15, 22

Anne Armstrong
has been doing transpersonal counseling for over 24 years and has trained professionals to use their own intuitive abilities.
p. 27

Jim Armstrong,
a former engineer, is a lifelong student and teacher of esoteric studies.
p. 27

Elliot Waker Aronson,
professor of psychology at UC Santa Cruz, is the author of 14 books on interpersonal relations, including The Social Animal, The Handbook of Social Psychology, and Burnout.
p. 19, 20, 40

Jim Asher
has been practicing cranial work since 1973. He is a Rolfing® teacher and an advanced Rolfer, certified by Ida Rolf.
p. 13, 34, 40

B

Nancy Bacal,
novelist, lyricist, documentarian, screenwriter, has taught writing workshops for years. Student of meditation and aikido, her work includes the award-winning film, Raga, starring Ravi Shankar.
p. 15

Jamie Baraz
has taught Vipassana (insight) meditation retreats since 1977. He is on the Board of Directors of Insight Meditation West and the Dharma Foundation.
p. 18, 24

Vladimir Basilov
is head of the Central Asian and Kazakhstan Ethnography Department of the Institute of Ethnography, Academy of Sciences of the U.S.S.R., Moscow.
p. 17

Brit Broch Bathurst
is a Norwegian social worker and has spent many years observing cultures interact.
p. 14

Robert Bathurst
is a sailor, diplomat, and professor who has explored ways of explaining Russians to Americans and has created methods for revealing unconscious values.
p. 14

Darlene Louise Beaver
has conducted workshops at conferences and growth centers. Her interest is in integrating in life-enhancing ways the different modalities she studies.
p. 23, 40

Steve Beck
grew up on an 80-acre garden in North Dakota. He has been a resident at Esalen since 1974.
p. 33

Cynthia Johnson Bianchetta
is an artist, dancer, and photographer. She was the assistant director of the Museum of Photographic Arts and director of the Weston Photographic Gallery.
p. 28

Daniel Bianchetta,
longtime Esalen resident and workshop leader, is an intuitive counselor and also does body work. He is a student and teacher of meditation.
p. 28

Ed Bloch-Farrington,
instructor and counselor at Monterey Peninsula College, has been leading men's groups for many years. He has been in private practice since 1971.
p. 20

Robert Bly
is a poet. His most recent books are The Winged Life: Selected Poetry and Prose of Henry David Thoreau, A Little Book on the Human Shadow, and Selected Poems.
p. 24

Stephen Book
is an international/Off Broadway/regional theater director and teacher. On the faculty at USC after a long tenure at The Julliard School, he also heads his own professional studio in Hollywood.
p. 10

Sylvia Boorstein
is a clinical psychologist in private practice. In teaching Vipassana she emphasizes integrating meditation insights into daily life, especially with relationships.
p. 11

Joan Borysenko,
medical scientist and psychologist, is president of Mind/Body Health Sciences in Boston and authored Minding the Body, Mending the Mind.
p. 18, 40

Myrin Borysenko
is associate professor at Tufts Medical School. He is an immunologist and medical educator with a special interest in psychoneuroimmunology.
p. 18, 40

Julie Bowden,
co-author of Guide to Recovery and Genesis: A Spiritual Beginning, is a founding and current board member of the National Association for Children of Alcoholics.
p. 12

Char Pias Brenner,
dancer, singer, performing artist, massage teacher, and mother, is currently in residence at Esalen Institute.
p. 27, 40

Jessica Moore Britt
is a teacher of gestalt and Reichian work at Esalen. She is a member of the Ridhwan Work School, which is dedicated to understanding personality and essential development.
p. 10, 22, 29

Charles Brooks,
author of Sensory Awareness, the Rediscovery of Experiencing, has been a teacher of Sensory Awareness since 1963, often in conjunction with Charlotte Selver.
p. 27

Daniel Brown,
chief of psychology and director of behavioral medicine at Cambridge Hospital/Harvard Medical School, is co-author of Hypnosis and Behavioral Medicine.
p. 19

Judith Brown
has been a gestalt practitioner and trainer for 20 years. Her most recent book is I Only Want What's Best for You.
p. 39

C

John Caple
is a strategic planning consultant, worklife advisor to organizations, and writer with earlier careers as college professor and business executive.
p. 13

Fritjof Capra
is a physicist and systems theorist, founder of the Elmwood Institute, and author of The Tao of Physics, The Turning Point, and Uncommon Wisdom.
p. 31

Seymour Carter,
longtime gestalt teacher at Esalen and in Europe, combines studies in sensory awareness, Zen Buddhism, aikido, and other body-oriented practices.
p. 28

Michell Cassou
is the founder of an original approach to painting designed to stimulate and unblock creativity. She is director of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 10, 26

Keith Chapman
is a psychiatrist with Jungian, existential, and shamanic orientations.
p. 13

Rick Chelew
is a musician and music producer. He has worked with men's groups since 1984 and has studied extensively with Robert Bly, Michael Mead, and James Hillman.
p. 20

Jack Cirie,
certified Leonard Energy Trainer, aikidoist, and fitness expert, heads Development & Delivery of Training with SportsMind Inc. He has worked with corporate managers, Army Special Forces, athletes.
p. 29

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud
is the founder of Continuum. Her innovative approach to movement has enhanced the creativity of artists in many fields and has led to new insights into the healing process.
p. 18

Phil Cousineau,
a freelance writer, has taught screenwriting at the American Film Institute. He was co-writer and associate producer on The Hero's Journey: The World of Joseph Campbell.
p. 30

Stewart Cubley,
artist and scientist, is co-founder with Michell Cassou of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 10, 26

Dale Cummings,
certified Radix® teacher and counselor in private practice in West Los Angeles, is director of first-year training for the Radix Institute in Ojai.
p. 30

D

David Darling
is a master cellist, composer, conductor, and teacher whose many recordings include Journal October, Cycles, River Notes, and Amber.
p. 10, 12

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)
is a certified Radix® teacher on Esalen's gestalt staff, with over 15 years of experience combining Reichian body work, vision work, movement, ritual, and meditation.
p. 12, 28, 33

Patrick Douce,
a student of Moshe Feldenkrais, has been a resident at Esalen since 1972. Since 1986 he has lived half the year in Bali, where he studies Balinese healing practices.
p. 33, 38, 40

Rachael Dutton
is a sculptor, dreamer, and twice Visiting Artist at Claremont Graduate School. She wrote "Below the Threshold of Myth" for Psychological Perspectives (Spring/Summer 1988).
p. 33

E

Riane Eisler is the author of The Chalice & The Blade: Our History, Our Future, co-founder of the Center for Partnership Studies, and an internationally-known lecturer.
p. 28

F

Jerry Fletcher
is president and founder of High Performance Dynamics, Inc., a management consulting and training company based in San Anselmo, CA.
p. 34

Kathleen Fletcher
is a trainer and consultant in organizational development, working in both the profit and non-profit sectors.
p. 34

G

Mariah Fenton Gladis,
a gestalt practitioner and trainer, founded and directed the Bucks County Institute for 12 years. She is currently co-director of the Pennsylvania Gestalt Institute.
p. 21, 39

Bernard Glassman,
Zen priest, received dharma transmission from Taizan Maezumi roshi. He holds a doctorate in mathematics and worked in the aerospace industry for 15 years.
p. 20

Herbert Gold
has published over 20 books, most recently Lovers & Cohorts: Twenty-Seven Stories, and the novels A Girl of Forty and Dreaming.
p. 27

Mary Goldenson (Devarani),
a chiropractor, certified Radix® teacher, and doctoral candidate in clinical psychology, is in private practice in West Los Angeles.
p. 11, 18, 22, 35, 39

Harriet Goslins
is a Feldenkrais® practitioner and an Awareness Through Movement® teacher with a background in psychosynthesis and applied kinesiology.
p. 26

H

Robert Hall,
physician, psychiatrist, and teacher, has studied the mind-body process and meditation for 25 years. He is co-founder of the Lomi School and the Tomales School of Psychotherapy.
p. 30

Betty Halpern,
coordinator of Early Childhood Education, Sonoma State University, has extensive experience in a variety of school settings and grade levels with special interest in teacher development.
p. 34

Anna Halprin,
dance director of Tamalpa Institute and Steps Theater Company, works with people with life-threatening illnesses, is creator of Circle the Earth, and author of Movement Ritual.
p. 28, 40

Daria Halprin-Khalighi,
teacher and counselor, developed the Creative Process Method, integrating art and psychology to facilitate creative expression and growth. She is co-founder of Tamalpa Institute.
p. 25

Thomas Hanna
is director of the Novato Institute for Somatic Research and Training, editor of Somatics magazine, and author of The Body of Life and Bodies in Revolt.
p. 13

Michael Harner
has practiced shamanism for more than a quarter of a century and pioneered the teaching of shamanism in contemporary life. His books include The Way of the Shaman.
p. 15, 16, 35

Steven Harper
teaches for Colorado Outward Bound and the National Outdoor Leadership School, coordinates Esalen Wilderness Programs, and is director of Earthways Wilderness Journeys.
p. 27, 31, 32, 33, 38

Susan Harper
teaches Continuum Dance Meditation workshops in Los Angeles and San Francisco, leads Dance the River trips on wild rivers, and has presented at the Joy-Spangler Asilomar Conference.
p. 33

Jane Harrington
is a certified Rolfer and Rolf movement teacher with extensive craniosacral experience. She is in private practice in Boulder, CO.
p. 13, 34, 40

Richard A. Heckler
has practiced individual and family counseling for 10 years and teaches the Hakomi Method throughout the U.S. He is director of the Holistic Health Program at J.F.K. University.
p. 17, 28

John Heider,
a psychologist living in Lawrence, KS, is a group leader and teacher of group leaders. He was part of the Esalen Resident Program from 1967-71.
p. 23

Robert Helm,
an Esalen massage crew member, blends a broad range of body work methods with the sense of presence he feels is the heart of Esalen massage.
p. 33, 40

Michael Herrick
is a certified Hakomi practitioner and on the teaching staff of the Hakomi Institute. He has a private practice in Boulder, CO.
p. 17

Peggy Horan
has been practicing and teaching massage at Esalen for 18 years. She is a student of dance and movement.
p. 21, 35, 40

Chungliang Al Huang
is a tai ji dancer, artist-calligrapher, and philosophical entertainer. He is founder-president of Living Tao Foundation and director of the Lan Ting Institute, Wu Yi Mountain, China.
p. 10, 12, 13, 24, 25

Terry Hunt,
a licensed psychologist practicing bioenergetic analysis in Boston, directs a flotation tank center for amelioration of somatic and addictive disorders.
p. 39

J

Eli Jaxon-Bear
is a trainer in neurolinguistics and an examiner with the American Council of Hypnotist Examiners. He is the past-president of a Tibetan Buddhist meditation center.
p. 14, 29, 36, 40

Don Johnson,
author and somatic practitioner, is director of the graduate studies program in somatic psychology and education at Antioch University and coordinator of Esalen's program in somatic education.
p. 38

K

Sam Keen
is the author of 10 books, including The Passionate Life and, most recently, Faces of the Enemy.
p. 12, 26, 30

George King,
a massage practitioner for 27 years, specializes in massage of dancers and has toured with many companies.
p. 14, 21, 35, 40

Lila Daniels Klapman,
former longtime member of the Esalen massage staff, is a certified hypnosis practitioner and has a private practice in massage and hypnosis in Aptos, CA.
p. 26, 40

Paul Krassner
is the editor and publisher of Realist magazine and co-founder of the Yippies. A stand-up comic since 1953, he is the author of Impolite Interviews and Tales of Tongue Fu.
p. 25

Ron Kurtz
is the founder and director of the Hakomi Institute. He is the author of Hakomi Therapy and co-author of The Body Reveals.
p. 17, 28

L

Frank Lawlis,
psychologist and diplomate, is the founder of a behavioral medicine program and the director of 3 hospital-based pain clinics.
p. 13, 22, 35, 40

Dianne Lawrence
is a professional painter who has exhibited in L.A. and a performer, appearing in Henry Jaglom's "Someone to Love." Her current paintings are geometric abstractions.
p. 23

Patti Lawrence,
associate and student of Harriet Goslins, is a psychic healer, teacher, and counselor in private practice. She is a consultant to the John-David Learning Institute.
p. 26

Janet Lederman
is executive director and designer of Esalen's Gazebo School and Gazebo philosophy of learning.
p. 34, 39

Marc Lehrer
teaches clinical hypnosis and biofeedback nationally and internationally. He studied hypnosis with Milton Erickson and John Grinder, and resides in Santa Cruz, CA.
p. 26, 36, 40

Annie Styron Leonard
is a founder of the Energy Training Institute in Mill Valley, CA, and an aikido black belt.
p. 17, 20, 29, 32, 37

George Leonard
is a 3rd-degree aikido black belt, founder of Leonard Energy Training (LET), and author of The Silent Pulse, Adventures in Monogamy, and Walking on the Edge of the World.
p. 17, 29, 32, 37

Linda Leonard
is a Jungian analyst and author, whose books include The Wounded Woman, On the Way to the Wedding, and the forthcoming Witness to the Fire.
p. 13

Jean Liedloff,
author of The Continuum Concept, consults privately and leads training/discussions on non-adversarial child care.
p. 15

Elisa Lodge
trained in structural integration with Ida Rolf and is an advanced teacher of Rolf movement and integration.
p. 14, 31

Francis Lu
is an assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of California, San Francisco, with interests in film and transpersonal psychology.
p. 19

Nancy Kaye Lunney,
formerly a vocal coach and accompanist for well-known entertainers, is a gestalt practitioner, director of programming at Esalen, and a guest faculty member at Cornell University.
p. 16, 38

Joyce Lyke
is a photographer and gestalt practitioner.
p. 27, 38

M

Peller Marion,
psychologist and international career management consultant, is president of Peller Marion Associates, Inc., an executive outplacement and performance coaching corporation.
p. 22

Dean Marson
is a member of the Esalen massage crew. His interests include subtle body work and methods of self-care.
p. 24

Peter Muryo Matthiessen
is a Zen priest and senior instructor at Zen Community of New York. He is the winner of the National Book Award for The Snow Leopard.
p. 20

Terence McKenna
authored The Invisible Landscape and Psilocybin: Magic Mushroom Grower's Guide. He studied shamanism at UC Berkeley and has lived in tropical Asia and the Amazon.
p. 34

Deborah Anne Medow,
Esalen group leader and body work practitioner since 1969, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, gestalt awareness, and related healing disciplines throughout the U.S. and Europe.
p. 15, 22

Donald Michael,
professor emeritus of planning and public policy and professor of psychology at the University of Michigan,is the author of On Learning to Plan and Planning to Learn.
p. 30

Jane Miletich,
longtime Big Sur resident and Esalen masseuse, is an instructor of hatha yoga, t'ai chi, and transitional cleansing diets. She is a student of Ayurveda, the science of self-healing.
p. 10

Patricia Monighan-Nourot,
assistant professor of education, Sonoma State University, is co-author of Looking at Children Play. She's a former elementary school teacher and teacher-director of a parent cooperative preschool.
p. 34

Beverly Kitaen Morse
is a marriage and family counselor in private practice in Santa Monica and a senior instructor at the Rosenberg-Rand Institute for Integrative Body Psychotherapy.
p. 17, 26, 33, 36

Arthur Munyer,
a member of the Esalen massage crew, is a longtime body work practitioner trained by Dub Leigh, Lauren Berry, and Dick Price.
p. 27, 40

N

Wes "Scoop" Nisker
is considered the dean of new radio journalism and is the editor of Inquiring Mind, journal of the Vipassana Buddhist community. He is writing a book on crazy wisdom.
p. 25

O

Jay Ogilvy
is the author of Many Dimensional Man. He taught philosophy at Yale and Williams and is now directing Esalen's Dialogues on Philosophy program.
p. 12

Kathleen O'Shaughnessy,
an Esalen body worker since 1981, integrates multiple ways of viewing the body. She teaches Continuum movement, self-healing, and meditation in England, Canada, and the U.S.
p. 19, 40

Brita Ostrom,
a longtime Esalen massage practitioner, incorporates Trager℠ training and gestalt awareness work with the personal energetic connection of the Esalen massage.
p. 17

P

Karen Paine-Gernée,
co-author of Through the Eye of the Storm and co-founder of Recovery Associates, specializes in working with Adult Children of Alcoholics and people with catastrophic illness.
p. 27

Helen Palmer,
a practicing intuitive for 18 years, directs the Center for the Investigation and Training of Intuition and is a graduate faculty member of John F. Kennedy University.
p. 25, 32

Laurie Lioness Parizek,
a member of the Esalen massage crew and teaching staff since 1974, integrates traditional and innovative approaches to healing the body, mind, and spirit.
p. 24

Ayala Pines,
social psychologist at UC Berkeley and a psychologist in private practice, is author of Burnout in Love and Marriage and co-author of Career Burnout: Causes and Cures.
p. 17, 20, 40

Karl Pribram,
NIH professor of neuroscience, Depts. of Psychology and Psychiatry, Stanford, is a certified member of the American Board of Neurological Sciences and the Board of Medical Psychotherapists.
p. 25

Christine Stewart Price
is a teacher and ongoing student of gestalt practice and other approaches to developing awareness.
p. 14, 25, 36, 40

R

Paul Rebillot,
a group leader at Esalen for 16 years, combines gestalt methodology with theater and ritual. He divides his time between Europe and the U.S.
p. 18, 19, 24, 31

Devi Records
is a founding member and senior trainer for the Hakomi Institute. She has a private practice in Boulder, CO, and leads seminars throughout the U.S., Canada, and Germany.
p. 28

Stephen Rhinesmith
has spent 25 years in intercultural communications, international organization development, and citizen exchanges. He served 2 years as government coordinator for exchanges between the U.S. and U.S.S.R.
p. 22

Tracey Rich
has earned the title "Yoga Acharya" and is the associate director of White Lotus Foundation. She trains teachers and students and leads seminars nationally.
p. 29

Sogyal Rinpoche,
an incarnate lama, scholar, and meditation master from Tibet, prominent in the West, is an authority on the traditional knowledge of The Tibetan Book of the Dead.
p. 33

David Robinette,
head of the Hypnotherapy Certification Program at Twin Lakes College in Santa Cruz, has been an instructor at Cabrillo College in hypnosis-related courses since 1976.
p. 26, 40

William Pennell Rock
is founder-director of Origins, a workshop process for creating and performing contemporary myths. He has lectured, led workshops, and directed productions in Europe, Asia, and the U.S.
p. 28

William George Roll,
professor of parapsychology at West Georgia College and lay Zen monk with Dai Bosatsu Zendo, focuses on the development of methods for clinical parapsychology and spiritual awareness.
p. 10

Jack Rosenberg,
a psychologist and director of the Rosenberg-Rand Institute of Integrative Body Psychotherapy in Venice, CA, is the author of Body, Self, and Soul.
p. 17, 26, 33, 36

S

Stephano Sabetti,
founder of the Institute for Life Energy® and the Life Energy Process™, has a doctorate in psychology and is an acupuncturist. He is also an organizational consultant.
p. 16

Burton Schaffner
is in private practice in Los Angeles, has taught at UCLA, USC, and Pepperdine graduate school, and does post-graduate training of counselors.
p. 23, 40

David Schiffman,
a longtime group leader at Esalen, is involved in developing full expression of mental, physical, and spiritual states of being.
p. 12, 13, 20, 22, 25, 29, 32, 34, 39

Laurie Schutz,
longtime Esalen massage practitioner and teacher, incorporates varied approaches to allow for nurturing, balance, and integration of the body. She has also led parent-infant workshops.
p. 17

Will Schutz,
founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of The Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations. He is the author of Joy and Profound Simplicity.
p. 14, 28

Charlotte Selver,
student of Elsa Gindler, introduced Sensory Awareness to the U.S. and has been closely connected with Esalen and the San Francisco Zen Center since their beginnings.
p. 27

Phyllis Shankman
is a licensed counselor in private practice in West Los Angeles. She has been leading groups at Esalen for over 10 years.
p. 30

Cyndy Sheldon
is co-founder and current president of the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco and on the faculty of the Gestalt Education Network International in Frankfurt, Germany.
p. 28

Anne Nechama Simkin
trained in gestalt with Erv and Miriam Polster and Jim Simkin, and has conducted workshops internationally.
p. 17, 25

Edward Smith,
adjunct professor of psychology, Georgia State University, editor of The Growing Edge of Gestalt Therapy and Gestalt Voices, and author of Sexual Aliveness, has been a workshop leader since 1971.
p. 18

Elliot Sobel
was the editor of New Sun magazine, author of The Manual of Good Luck, and performer in the Mirrors Theatre and Dance Troupe.
p. 39

Bob Solomon
has taught philosophy at Harvard, Princeton, Michigan, and currently, Texas. He is the author of The Passions and Love.
p. 12

Gena Mayer Sorensen,
a marriage and family counselor, is in private practice in San Jose and San Francisco. She holds an adjunct certificate as a Radix® teacher.
p. 30

Carola Speads,
former co-worker of Elsa Gindler, is an authority on breathing in relation to movement. She has taught workshops throughout the U.S. and Europe and is the author of Ways to Better Breathing.
p. 25

Kathleen Riordan Speeth
is a psychologist interested in Bach, Rilke, renaissance humanism, mysticism, creativity, excellence, and human evolution. She edited The Essential Psychotherapies.
p. 12, 38

Brother David Steindl-Rast,
Benedictine monk, hermit, psychologist, and author, has lectured on five continents. He is concerned with the spiritual challenges of our time.
p. 16, 31

T

Keith Thompson
is a writer and video oral historian whose focus is preserving personal and family stories. His articles have appeared in Esquire, New Age Journal, and the San Francisco Sunday Chronicle.
p. 30

Lia Thompson-Clark
is the acting director of Esalen's Gazebo School and associate in the development of the Gazebo philosophy of learning.
p. 34

Gabriele Thomson
has conducted workshops for health professionals in Europe, Australia, and New Zealand. She supports individuals in healing childhood traumas and furthering spiritual development.
p. 19

Vicki Topp,
Esalen massage staff member since 1968, teaches soft and sensitive use of pressure points and deep tissue massage combined with emotional and transpersonal body practices.
p. 24, 36, 40

STEVE BECK

Eucalyptus leaves unfolding. The Big Sur coast is an ideal habitat for this aromatic evergreen.

V

Attila Vaas
has been a member of the Esalen massage staff since 1976. His skills include polarity, acupressure, and Esalen's free-form style of massage.
p. 28

Antoinette Varner
is an acupuncturist, herbalist, and movement teacher whose work integrates cognitive learning, the body, and spiritual experience. She has an acupuncture practice in Mill Valley, CA.
p. 14, 29, 36, 40

Rana Vassau,
California Institute of Integral Studies graduate, teaches "Dance as a Self-Healing Art" at Southwestern College and studies the relationship between the imaginal and feeling bodies.
p. 28, 40

W

Andrew Weil
is associate director of the Division of Social Perspectives in Medicine, College of Medicine, Univ. of Arizona. He teaches alternative medicine, mind-body interactions, and medical botany.
p. 21

Carl Whitaker,
professor emeritus at the University of Wisconsin, is a leading innovator in family communication and counseling. He is co-author of Roots of Psychotherapy and The Family Crucible.
p. 23

Barbara White
is a former executive director of the Association for Transpersonal Psychology, a counselor, and Feldenkrais® practitioner.
p. 19

Ganga White,
internationally-known teacher and master of yoga, is author of Double Yoga and has received the titles "Yoga Acharya" and "Yogiraj" in India.
p. 29

Nina Wise
creates and performs multi-media theater pieces, which have won 7 Bay Area Theater Critics' Circle awards in the past 5 years.
p. 27

Marion Woodman
received her training and Diplomate from the C.G. Institute in Zurich. She has authored books on eating disorders, the body, addictions, and the nature of the feminine.
p. 21

Z

Janet Zuckerman
is founder of the Feeling Center in Big Sur, CA. She has been teaching at Esalen for the past 14 years.
p. 13, 21, 27, 31, 34, 39

ESALEN INSTITUTE RESERVATIONS

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. In completing the form, please indicate the name, address, and telephone number of each person registering and clearly indicate the title of the workshop for which each person is reserving a place. A nonrefundable deposit for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (See General Information, page 50.)

(Please Print)

Name _____ Sex M ☐ F ☐

Address _____

City, State _____ ZIP _____

Telephone Number: Home: Area Code ( ) _____ Work: Area Code ( ) _____

Occasionally there are unexpected situations that require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you? _____. If you can't be reached, please call us before your scheduled arrival for final confirmation. Please indicate your second choice for a workshop, in case your first choice is canceled and we are unable to reach you.

(On additional paper please repeat the above information for every person in your party making a reservation.
Mail to: Reservations, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.)

☐ Check if you want housing as a couple.
☐ Check if you want the discounted bunkbed option (see page 9).
☐ Check if you want the discounted student sleeping bag option (see page 9).

All of our rooms are non-smoking.

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form. Please allow three weeks for scholarship processing. For further details, see Ways of Being at Esalen, page 9.

Bus Service: I want bus service from (check one):

☐ Monterey Greyhound Bus Station at approximately 3:45 PM
☐ Monterey Airport at approximately 4:00 PM

on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays & Sundays only).

The $25 per person charge is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the bus change after you submit this reservation, please notify us. The only departing bus service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM. Esalen bus service is not available at any time other than as listed.

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

We are unable to act as a banking service for our guests. Please bring adequate funds for your stay.

Name of Person Registering	Date(s)	Leader's Name/Title of Workshop	Deposit Enclosed

Total amount enclosed: $ _____

Please make checks payable to Esalen Institute, in U.S. currency only.
Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks.

Your reservation can be charged to:

☐ MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express

Card No. _____

Expiration Date _____

Authorizing Signature _____

All workshops require nonrefundable reservation fees. See page 50. The balance of program fees becomes payable at the time of check-in.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Our activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Esalen lies 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco, situated directly over the Pacific with the Santa Lucia Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was once the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esselen.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute – By Reservation Only.

Fees and Reservations: Pre-registration, either by mail or phone, is required prior to arrival. A registration form is provided on page 49. Workshops fill quickly, so it is advisable to sign up as early as possible, preferably one month in advance. In order to reserve a space in any workshop, we require the following reservation fees:

Weekend:	$50	Two-week:	$200
Five-day:	$100	Three-week:	$300
Seven-day:	$150	Month-long:	$400

Fees are payable in U.S. currency only. Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks. Balance of payment is due on arrival. These fees are not refundable but, with five days' notice, may be transferred to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year of receipt. Those who pay in full at the time they make their reservations will receive a $10 discount. Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is canceled and we are unable to reach you.

Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Rooms are shared by two or more workshop participants. Camping on the grounds is prohibited.

We know it can be difficult to get through by phone, so we encourage you to mail your reservations. Mail all reservations to:

Reservations
Esalen Institute
Big Sur, CA 93920

However, it is possible to make your reservations by phone. If you prefer this option, please have your MasterCard, Visa, or American Express credit card number ready when you call.

Phones
Reservations: (408) 667-3005
General Information: (408) 667-3000

To make a phone reservation, call the reservations number during the following office hours:

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday
10 AM to 3 PM
Wednesday 10 AM to 12 Noon
Friday 10 AM to 5 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 5 PM

If there is no answer during our regular business hours, and the phone company confirms that our phones are out of order, please call our alternate number, (408) 372-8719, for recorded up-to-date workshop, road, and transportation information.

Scholarships: For information on scholarships and other economical ways of staying at Esalen, see page 9.

Check-in and Meals: Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with lunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Sunday and end with lunch on Friday. Check-out time is noon of departure day. Rooms become available at 4 PM; however, guests are welcome to arrive any time after 2 PM.

Esalen's flourishing organic garden provides the kitchen with many of its vegetables and herbs. Our breads and pastries are baked at Esalen.

Seminarians as Volunteers: Seminarians in residence at Esalen are requested to contribute several hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out. A staff member will appear at your first workshop meeting to schedule volunteers.

Bus Service: On Fridays and Sundays we have bus service from the Monterey Greyhound station leaving approximately at 3:45 PM and from the Monterey Airport approximately at 4 PM. If you plan to use this service, please inform the Esalen office at least 24 hours prior to your arrival. The $25 one-way fee is payable to the Esalen office when you check in. Return reservations may be made at that time. The only departing bus service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM.

Gazebo School: Requests for child care should be sent at least one month in advance to Gazebo, c/o Esalen Institute.

Health Services: We are unable to provide medical supervision or pharmaceutical supplies. If you are on a health-care program and you plan to spend several weeks at Esalen, please arrive prepared to administer to your health-care needs.

Illegal Drugs: In accordance with state and federal laws, the possession or use of illegal drugs on Esalen grounds is strictly prohibited.

Lost and Found: To inquire about items left behind from your Esalen visit, call (408) 667-3019.

Conferences at Esalen: It is now possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We schedule approximately a year in advance for large groups (up to 100) on a space available basis. For further information, call or write the conference coordinator, (408) 667-3038.

Catalog Subscriptions: If you would like to receive the next three issues of the Esalen Catalog, please refer to the inside front cover for subscription rates and send your check or money order (U.S. currency) in the enclosed envelope, or mail it to Subscriptions, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

Although we're delighted to provide you with this issue of the Esalen Catalog, if you are not currently a subscriber we would appreciate your contribution to defray postage and production costs, which run approximately $4 per catalog.

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax-deductible. The expenses of attending Esalen, including travel, are deductible for federal income tax purposes as an educational expense if incurred to maintain or improve professional or work skills. (See Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5.)

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

Esalen Institute
Big Sur
California 93920

Address Correction Requested

Non Profit Organization
U.S. Postage Paid
Esalen Institute

THE ESALEN CATALOG

MAY–OCTOBER 1989

CONTENTS

Volume XXVIII, Number 2

Audio Recordings 39
Biographical Information 41–48
Children's Program 34
Conferences at Esalen 50
Esalen Notes 4
Esalen Seminars 6–31
Friends of Esalen 38
Future Programs 35
General Information 50
Invitational Conferences 4
Mail Order Books 40
Media Center 38
Medical Programs 34–35
Reservations Form 49
Scholarship Information 5
Special Programs 32–34
Ways of Being at Esalen 5
Wilderness Programs 37
Work Study Program and Application 36–37

Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920

Phones
Reservations: (408) 667-3005
General Information: (408) 667-3000

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday
& Saturday 10 AM to 3 PM
Wednesday 10 AM to 12 Noon
Friday 10 AM to 5 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 5 PM

Catalog Editor: Susan Stone
Graphic Design: Barbara Adamson
Photographic Coordination: Joyce Lyke

Consulting Editor: Nancy Kaye Lunney
Administrative Liaison: Patricia LeWine
Editorial Review: George Leonard

Cover Illustration: Carol-Renée Pierpoint

Esalen Board of Trustees:

Mark Dayton
Steve Donovan
Jack Downing
Victoria Elliot
Mary Ellen Klee
Bokara Legendre
George Leonard
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Michael Murphy
Christine Stewart Price
William Sechrest
Jeremy Tarcher

©1989 Esalen Institute
All Rights Reserved.

The Esalen Catalog is published triannually by the Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920. Subscription cost for one year is $15 for the United States, $17 for Canada and Mexico, $22 for Europe and South America, and $25 for all other countries. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available upon request.

JOYCE LYKE

Charlotte Selver, Don Johnson, and Charles Brooks

ESALEN NOTES

INSTITUTE OF NOETIC SCIENCES MEDITATION RESEARCH FUND

With a contribution from former Esalen Trustee Marius Robinson, the Institute of Noetic Sciences has established a small fund to support research on meditation. The Institute will use Robinson's contribution to fund meditation research based partly on the perspectives of the various meditation traditions themselves – giving serious consideration to why people meditate and what their experiences mean to them.

To begin exploring this field, Noetics co-sponsored a conference with Esalen in February 1988, which brought together people experienced in research, clinical application, and one or more meditation traditions. In addition to staff of the sponsoring institutions, the conference included Joan Borysenko, Daniel Brown, Greg Dubs, Elmer Green, Jon Kabat-Zinn, Stan Krippner, Michael Mahoney, David Orme-Johnson, Eleanor Rosch, Deane Shapiro, and Jim Spearly. These participants identified over two dozen topics worthy of detailed study, including the following broad areas:

- Health and Healing: including long-term studies of the relationship between meditation and psychoneuroimmunology.
- Psychobiology and Psychophysiology: including mapping the brain activity of meditators in different states of consciousness and at different levels of meditative skill.
- States of Consciousness: including description of subtle states both in terms of the physiological and cognitive processes involved, and in terms of the meditator's proficiency.
- Enhancing Performance: in sports, school, and psychotherapy.
- Field Effects of "Collective Meditation": including small-scale controlled studies of the hypothesis that a group of meditators positively influences the experience or action of others at a distance.

A second conference will be held at Esalen in October 1989.

Esalen Institute has recently published a review of contemporary meditation research, The Physical and Psychological Effects of Meditation. For more information and to order a copy, please turn to page 40.

INVITATIONAL CONFERENCES

In its continuing commitment to the fields of education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences, Esalen regularly sponsors invitational conferences that bring together experts who share their research and common points of inquiry. As host, Esalen covers room and board expenses for participants as a way of advancing these particular studies. These are invitational conferences only and are not open to the public.

The goal of these conferences is to engender the kind of creativity that comes from the collaborative work of people with similar interests but radically different approaches. We hope that the results will include expanded research projects, new writing, and more effective plans for the education of therapists. Currently scheduled programs and their conveners are listed here.

April 30-May 5
Aristocratic Democracy: Trying to Lead the Higher Life in America
Stuart Miller

What is the relevance of the well-known social images of aristocrats – the Greek Hero, the Roman Senator, the Medieval Knight, the Renaissance Courtier – to our present quests for transformation? This conference will focus, in part, on that question and will explore the democratic paradox: men are equal, but strive for excellence.

June 11-16
Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program

The Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program will host a small group of Soviets and Americans to discuss how current changes in the Soviet Union are affecting our relationship.

June 18-23
The Mobius-Esalen Invitational National Security Discussion Group
Stephan A. Schwartz

This discussion group is designed to help policy makers and advisors from both the Soviet and American sides achieve a more accurate understanding of one another's intentions and goals, independent of specific policy considerations or negotiations. It will be made up of seven Soviets and seven Americans, men and women drawn from the senior working level of policy development in each country. Representation will come from the foreign policy, military, economic, and scientific communities.

June 25-30
Esalen Conference for Practicing Intuitives
Helen Palmer

This conference will focus on the question of training business intuition. It will bring together practicing intuitives who have established a reputation for accuracy in the business community with corporate representatives who have expressed an interest in business intuition.

July 9-14
The Mobius-Esalen Invitational Conference on Psycho-Physical Issues
Stephan A. Schwartz

This year's conference will pick up a theme first developed in the 1987 meeting – experimental research in healing and therapeutic intent. Participants come from a wide range of disciplines in the medical, physical, and life sciences, their central commonality being their involvement in controlled research.

September 10-15
The Theory and Practice of Therapy in the Context of Social Control
Jay Haley & Bunn-McCullough and Associates

This is a forum for discussing collaboration between those who mandate therapy (the courts, social services, etc.) and those who practice therapy.

October 13-15
New Directions in Meditation Research
Sponsored by Esalen Institute and the Institute of Noetic Sciences; Convened by Thomas J. Hurley, III

This meeting will explore innovative approaches to meditation research.

WAYS OF BEING AT ESALEN

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from a tour of the garden on a Sunday afternoon to a long-term stay as a seminarian. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the various methods of personal growth available here. The Experiencing Esalen workshops, scheduled periodically, offer an introduction to practices such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, and meditation. From such a sampling, participants can then choose those approaches they are most attracted to and pursue them in subsequent seminars.

Another way of being at Esalen which allows a much greater involvement with the place and its community at a lower expense is the Work Study Program, described more fully elsewhere in this section and on pages 36-37. For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more, there are frequent long-term programs which involve didactic seminars or professional trainings as well as experiential workshops.

In addition, there are other events which enrich life at Esalen. There are frequent forums in which writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights there may be lectures, films, dance performances, choirs, or other forms of entertainment. On Sunday afternoons there are garden tours. Body work of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners. Finally, there is a community workshop program which goes on daily and provides opportunities for personal self-exploration.

Scholarship Information

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Allow at least three weeks for processing as we have many applications. If your application is approved, please make a reservation as soon as possible after receiving notice. Scholarship recipients are asked to bring a sleeping bag. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

We also offer several other options to help reduce the cost of attending a seminar. In addition to the prepayment discount of $10, you may choose one of the following:

Student Sleeping Bag Scholarships: We are now offering a discounted sleeping bag rate for fulltime college or university students who are enrolled for at least 12 credit hours during the time of their Esalen stay. Proof of student status is required. For more information and an application, contact the Esalen office.

Bunk Bed Rooms: Bunk bed rooms are available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three other people. Please call for current rates. There are a limited number of spaces, which are reserved on a first come, first served basis.

Sleeping Bag Accommodations: Sleeping bag spaces may be available for workshop participants. Please inquire when you make your reservations.

Senior Citizens' Discounts: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $25; for a five-day workshop it's $50. Discounts are available only when you make your reservations. Please present proof of age when you register. Senior discounts are not available for Wilderness Programs or the Work Study Program.

Room and Board

Occasionally, when beds aren't needed for seminarians, room and board is available. This gives visitors the opportunity to enjoy the grounds, the baths, massage, and good food without participating in a workshop. Accommodations are shared, and the rate is variable and subject to change. Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following day. We require that people pay in full when they make a reservation. This payment is not refundable.

Private rooms are sometimes available at an additional charge over the regular room and board rate. Special family rates are also available. Please call for specific information.

For a Sunday-Thursday night room and board stay, please call no sooner than the Thursday before for room availability. For a Friday-Saturday night stay, please call no sooner than the Sunday before.

Work Study Program

The Work Study Program is an intensive work-oriented program for individuals who want to make a directed, personal commitment to self-exploration and growth and a contribution to the Esalen community. Participants can enroll in the general interest track, which gives an overview of several disciplines, or choose a more specific course of study from the focused track, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage, etc.

Information regarding special interest sections may be obtained by writing Bette Dingman, c/o Esalen. For a full description of the Work Study Program, please turn to pages 36-37.

Accreditation

Undergraduate and graduate academic credit is available through the Esalen Somatics Study Program for Health Professionals. Many formal educational institutions recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum; check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Medical Programs

Some programs offered at Esalen qualify for continuing education credit with the California Board of Registered Nursing. For current C.E. listings, see pages 34-35.

Garden Tours

Esalen is now offering to the public, from April through September, tours of the garden, farm, and landscaping. These tours are on the first and third Sundays of the month, from 2-5 PM. The cost is $10 per person; group rates are available. A series of Saturday workshops is also being planned. For more information, please contact Steve Beck at the Esalen office, (408) 667-3000.

Week of April 30–May 5

We Are All Mystics

William Pennell Rock

William Pennell Rock writes: "I have always had the sense that human beings are essentially mystics, though few of us have rightly realized it. It seems that the lives we create are never really satisfying because they are a displacement from this fundamental human desire. This workshop is for those who sense the absence of this true engagement with the ultimate mystery within and are interested in exploring new opportunities for communion and restructuring their lives accordingly.

"Activities will include archetypal psychodrama, various meditations and exercises from yoga and tantra, and expressive movement. Group sharing and discussion will be an important part of the week as we discover how to access what is ultimately meaningful." $575

The Hakomi Method

Ron Kurtz, Richard A. Heckler & Devi Records

Hakomi is a body-centered practice based on the principles of mindfulness, unity, organicity, non-violence, and mind-body holism. Hakomi incorporates non-doing as a major methodological principle and trusts in every individual's inner wisdom and power for self-healing.

Using the body as a rich source of information about the unconscious mind, hakomi can assist people in turning inward to those special states of consciousness where change takes place, to explore core beliefs which determine the quality of experience.

Hakomi work embraces the body-mind unity, supports the client's resistance, and encourages respect for and awareness of inner processes. This can be used by counselors, health practitioners, educators, body workers, and anyone invested in personal growth. This workshop also serves as a prerequisite for the formal hakomi certification process. $575

A Week with Seymour Carter

Everyone has unused capacities for further personal development. When these capacities are recognized and given attention, a natural force is released which, like a tide, can carry the individual to a higher level of ability and action. Fritz Perls taught how to recognize the force of avoided issues in dealing with blocked energies. When unfinished issues are confronted and assimilated, it is possible to feel potent and in charge of one's life.

In this workshop, participants can deal with these issues by examining the influence of the inner dialogue on thoughts and the nature of impasse, as well as tendencies within themselves toward psychological completion and well-being. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, and aikido. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique. $575

A Week with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

Laura DeNuccio writes: "This workshop is for those individuals who sense an emerging consciousness that is making itself felt and heard personally and globally, and who are searching to fulfill both higher and deeper callings in their lives. The emphasis will be on learning how to meet and accept this evolutionary movement, exploring how to attend to the organic occurrences that life presents while continuing to move forward.

"There are traditions, both Western and Eastern, that suggest the microcosm of the body reflects the macrocosm of the world. If that is the case, a static body reflects a static world-view perhaps. In this workshop, participants may explore themselves as living, unfolding processes – physically, mentally, emotionally, sexually, and spiritually. They may find that through practices such as breath work, movement, and sound, aliveness and pulsation can be returned to the body, and that unconscious thoughts and feelings which reside in the body tissue can be brought to life. Careful attention will be given to the mental processes that shape the physical and emotional bodies, with special emphasis being given to personal issues that emerge. Through the creative use of the Spoken Word, the need for bridging one's personal growth and inner experience with outer involvement in the world will be addressed.

"Practices will be taught which encourage participants to listen, feel, sense, and become acquainted with their essential core selves, from which arise creativity, wisdom, joy, and healing."

Recommended reading: Rodegast, Emmanuel's Book (Friends' Press); John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics Ltd.); Fields et al., Chop Wood, Carry Water (Tarcher); Florence Shinn, The Game of Life and How to Play It (De Vorss); Louise Hay, You Can Heal Your Life (Coleman). $575

Weekend of May 5–7

Weekend Massage Intensive

Attila Vaas & Laurie Lioness Parizek

Massage is a practical approach to stress relief and greater sensory awareness. This weekend workshop will provide instruction in basic methods used in giving a massage, with additional work on quality of touch, breath awareness, centering, and sensitive rapport between partners.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $295

Introduction to Gestalt Practice

Cyndy Sheldon

Many of us were shamed into being as "they" wanted us to be. We know intuitively that there has to be more. We can't get there by ourselves; we need guides. Gestalt practice can guide us to new discoveries. $295

Sight/Insight: A Photographic Journey

Daniel Bianchetta & Cynthia Johnson Bianchetta

Like our dreams, photographic images can provide a rich resource for unearthing our true Self. With them, we may uncover and explore our personal culture and evolution. What we produce through visual imagery often reflects our innermost thoughts, how we view the world, how we manifest what we envision for our lives.

Through quiet meditative contact with our deeper Self, we are able to ask what these images may be revealing to us. And often as a result of this quiet contacting of insight, we begin the process of "listening through our eyes." Thus by "allowing the eyes to see" rather than "looking at," we invite observations and glimpses into the realm of true seeing, the power of insight.

In this workshop, movement, intuition, energy awareness, gestalt, and play will be our tools for exploring new awareness and experiences of our inner and outer imagery. It is open to anyone and is not about photographic technique. Some camera knowledge is helpful. Please bring a 35mm camera, black and white 35mm film, a journal, and your photographs. Some processing of film may be provided following a field exploration.

$295 (plus $10 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Dance as an Ally in Healing Cancer

Anna Halprin & Rana Vassau

Since illness reflects the breaking down of the natural functioning of the immune system, it makes sense to go to our deepest source, the body itself, to rebuild, renew, and rebirth to our natural state. This workshop will emphasize what participants can learn from paying attention to how they move, feel, and image.

Dance has been used as a healing art since the beginning of time, and Anna Halprin has bridged healing rituals of the past to healing rituals for the present. As a result of having had cancer herself, she has researched and pioneered an approach to dance called psychokinetic-visualizations, in which the feedback process between instinctive movement and deeply-buried feelings that evoke personal mythic images is utilized. She will guide participants to visualize their natural killer cells as vigorous and alert allies in the immune system, destroying, dissolving, or eliminating the diseased cell. The participants will then embody these visualizations and dramatize them through movement in their own creative dance-rituals. As one participant said, "No miracle drug, no surgeon's knife, no mega-vitamins or macro-diet, no crystal energy, no faith-healer's touch, no shaman's prayer . . . is of any value at all unless I am there, fully present, with it."

There will be guided movement meditations, movement exercises to promote deep relaxation, and movement energizers to enliven the life force. A slide show and videotape will present case studies and illustrate ways this approach has been applied. This workshop is designed for people with cancer, support persons, and health care professionals, and is suitable for people of varying levels of physical capacity. For more information contact Tamalpa Institute, P.O. Box 794, Kentfield, CA 94914; (415) 461-9479.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $295

JOYCE UPKE

Carl Whitaker with seminarian

Week of May 7–12

Esalen will be closed to the public for these five days.

Weekend of May 12–14

A Special Weekend at Esalen

This weekend is open to all those who would like to spend time at Esalen, enjoying the grounds, the baths, and the community, without participating in a group. Massage and other work offered by individual practitioners will be available as usual. $160

Week of May 14–19

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

This workshop is designed for people who have not previously been to Esalen. Its emphasis is on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for the individual participant. These may include: sensory awareness, gestalt practice, group process, guided fantasy, meditation, massage. There is also time to explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Real People Press). $575

A Week with David Schiffman

To make effective, creative choices requires courage, imagination, and the willingness to know one's heart and be true to the dreams that live inside it. Choosing this deeper wisdom can often involve the risk of breaking set—the choice to move against the powerful grain of old fears, habits, and the constant pressures of other people's expectations. To foster this spirit means contacting the elemental-instinctual parts of one's nature, befriending rather than suppressing or denying the sexuality and the power out of which initiative and enthusiasm spring.

In this week, participants will focus on how to develop those qualities that contribute to a more adventurous, resourceful, and bouyant way of living. In an atmosphere based on warmth and humor, they will explore their capacity for mutual tenderness, respect, and honesty. Traditional psychological practices such as gestalt, bioenergetics, and psychosynthesis will be used for intensive individual work, as well as non-traditional innovative approaches in body work, kinesthetic retraining, music, and guided imagery. $575

Yoga: A Week of Learning and Rejuvenation

Ganga White & Tracey Rich

Presenting East/West teachings in a way that is contemporary, humorous, and applicable to modern living, the leaders will offer a week of physical, mental, and spiritual rejuvenation. Days will begin with instruction in an ancient Hatha yoga movement series that is new to this country and which combines grace and flow with postures, pranayama (breath), and meditation. Participants will be shown a 45-minute balanced, aerobic yoga practice they can continue at home. Afternoons and evenings will be for group discussion and exploration into the teachings and principles of the art of enlightened living.

Topics will include diet and nutrition, how yoga works, aligning and restructuring the body, and awakening subtle energies. Through Jnana (the yoga of wisdom and perception), participants will begin observing the thought processes and patterns that dictate their lives. They will look at the areas of love, responsibility, relationship, freedom, and death.

Participants of all levels are welcome; no previous experience is necessary. For additional information, contact the leaders at: White Lotus, 2500 San Marcos Pass, Santa Barbara, CA 93105; (805) 964-1944. $575

Childhood Sexual Abuse: A Healing

Jessica Moore Britt

To guard against the hurts, fears, and confusion that sexual invasion of a child's physical and psychic boundaries can create, the child often abandons the place of conflict – the body. This withdrawal, though protective in nature, slowly begins to separate the child from her/his essential nature. This may be reflected in tension patterns, numbness, and oversensitivity and may further the child's sense of alienation from the world and self.

During this week, participants will move gently toward reintegrating their bodies and feelings with self. Participants will use gestalt practice, Reichian breath work, movement, touch, and meditation to re-enter their private world of memories and feelings. They may gain a deeper understanding that the learned idea of self as bad, based on the sexual abuse, is not the essential truth of who they are. The focus will be on allowing the hurt, negative feelings and doubts to be acknowledged, felt, and used as energetic seeds for reawakening a positive sense of self. Through the supportive group atmosphere, participants may discover that it is safe once again to embody beauty, life, and love.

Recommended reading: A.H. Almaas, Diamond Heart (Diamond Books); Alice Miller, Thou Shalt Not Be Aware (New American Library). $575

May 14–June 9

Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 32.

$2640 (plus $300 fee for those wanting certification, paid to the Institute for Advanced Hypnosis)

Weekend of May 19–21

The Modern Warrior: LET in Action

George Leonard & Jack Cirie

A man or woman with outward courage dares to die; A man or woman with inward courage dares to live. – Lao Tzu

The Modern Warrior is not one who goes to war but rather one who exhibits integrity in every aspect of living, one who seeks to attain control then act with abandon. For the Modern Warrior, life is vivid, immediate, and joyful. He or she lives each day to the full, and is fulfilled in serving others. This workshop is based on the premise that to achieve peace in the world and harmony in daily life, it might well be necessary for men and women to reown the warrior ideal.

Through the centering and movement exercises of LET (Leonard Energy Training) as well as through various new games, participants will be invited to get in touch with their own unacknowledged powers, and thus to discover the hidden warrior within. Guidance will be offered on how to apply the warrior ideal to daily life. This workshop will not be physically strenuous. All that is needed is a generous heart and a willingness to participate.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse (Dutton). $295

New Competences for an Age of Uncertainty

Donald Michael

A primary task that persons and organizations face in the next twenty years is that of learning to be better learners. This may sound obvious, but consider for a moment how much effort we expend disguising our uncertainty and ignorance and acting as if we really know what we are doing. There is a parallel between what happens when we pay close attention to the processes of the mind (in meditation, for instance) and when we study the vastly complex political, social, and economic processes and systems of the world. In both cases, it is possible to see how little we really know about ourselves as individuals and about the world. This recognition can be the starting point for embracing ignorance and vulnerability so that we can apply them to constructive engagement with our private and public worlds.

This seminar will introduce several skills, or what Donald Michael calls "new competences," that are necessary for making humane and effective decisions in situations where uncertainty can be the best occasion for learning – in organizational or independent work places and in interpersonal and family situations. These skills include: acknowledging high levels of uncertainty, error embracing, being future-responsive, boundary spanning, self-knowledge, and interpersonal competence.

The approach will be both cognitive and experiential. Participants will have the opportunity to learn to be more comfortable with their uncertainty, to reduce the need to act over-cautiously out of fear of making a mistake, and to minimize the need for those defensive posturings that make it so hard to act responsibly and compassionately. As a previous participant said, "This workshop is for those who are ready to move beyond the personal and want to effect change in public and private organizations." $295

Week of May 21–26

The Body is Spirit

Robert Hall

There is no difference between the bioenergetic streaming of daily body life and the divine spirit current or life force. We experience both as an on-going felt body sense. The human ego operates under the false assumption that it is somehow separate from that sense. So we spend our lives in constant negotiation and seeking: the so-called human condition. From this position, alienation is inevitable.

This workshop is designed to explore the possibility that we are that felt body sense, that spirit current, and we are constantly, by nature, in relationship to everyone and everything that exists. Hopefully, we'll laugh a lot, too. There will be time for gestalt, individual body work, meditation, and getting to know each other well in a short time. $575

Change and Self-Esteem

Phyllis Shankman

Change is an ever-present aspect of living which must be accepted and used creatively if one is to sustain a healthy, interesting, and exciting life. Many individuals talk about wanting change while actively or passively resisting it. Self-esteem, which includes self-acceptance, self-appreciation, and self-confidence, is the aspect of self which enables one to confront resistance and fear and which increases the willingness to change and take risks.

This workshop includes an in-depth process for finding and allowing self-acceptance and for creatively confronting opportunities for change and growth. Group activities include gestalt process work, discussion, massage, meditation, music, dance, art imagery exercises, and whatever else happens spontaneously. $575

The Hero's Journey in the Movies: Maps of Transformation

Phil Cousineau & Keith Thompson

One of the universal themes of mythology is the journey of the hero, a treasure map not just of exotic worlds but of the psyche. Although we may prefer to believe the hero is born a hero, the stories brought back by sojourners the world over tell us that wisdom and transformation are won through great trials.

Each session of this seminar will explore different hero maps as seen in the movies. Some of them are as old as antiquity, while others are as new as post-modern culture: the adventurer, the philosopher-king, the shaman-healer, the fool, the artist-inventor, the athlete and performer, the stranger in a strange land, and the anti-hero. This wide spectrum of archetypal journeys will be seen in film clips from such classics as The Lion in Winter, Resurrection, Lust for Life, This Sporting Life, Close Encounters, and Rebel without a Cause.

In addition, there will be film interviews with several leading writers and directors and the mythologist Joseph Campbell, guided imagery exercises, and group discussion.

Recommended reading: Joseph Campbell, The Hero with a Thousand Faces (Bollingen); James Hillman, Healing Fiction (Station Hill); Carol Pearson, The Hero Within (Harper & Row). $575

Weekend of May 26–28

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 14-19. $295

Understanding Men

Sam Keen

This seminar is for men and women who are looking for a new sense of what it means to be a man, or to be in relationship with a man. It is an exploration and celebration of the essence of masculinity. Please bring an assortment of photographs from childhood to the present of family, friends, heroes, and lovers. Topics we will consider include:

- Myths: contemporary types and stereotypes of men; the rites and rights of manhood; the obsession with power; the warrior psyche.
- Work: jobs, work, professions, and the burden of economics; corporate and professional domestication of masculinity; meaning, purpose, and vocation: who are we when we are not working, controlling, or fighting?
- Love: the wisdom and folly of the penis; how do we deal with women's anger? fathers, mothers, and sons; fathering, nurturing, husbanding; male friendship; the gypsy and the homesteader.
- Virility: what do men fear – the shadow of masculinity; the spiritual quest of the male. $295

Week of May 28–June 2

Opening the Feelings

Dale Cummings & Gena Mayer Sorensen

Participants will employ Radix® and neo-Reichian methods of emotional release, the most important of which is the Radix intensive, a period of individual work within a small group setting which can provide emotional support among participants. Grief, pain, fear, and rage that have been held in since childhood can emerge. As the participant accepts and works through these negative feelings, he or she may discover a new capacity for pleasure, trust, and love. In time, the sexual experience may change as feelings of tenderness and sexuality intensify and merge. $575

Sensuousness and Asceticism

Brother David Steindl-Rast

Asceticism is sometimes mistaken for a life-denying self-torture that blocks all joy in sensuous beauty. Sensuousness, in turn, is misunderstood as abandonment to crude pleasure. Yet, asceticism is a term derived from athletic practice. Its goal is to heighten aliveness by discipline and training. This heightened aliveness increases and enhances sensuous delight.

A Benedictine monk for more than thirty years, Brother David has been trained in an ascetical tradition which aims at "life in fullness" and cultivates beauty in art, literature, and music. He will draw on the wealth of monastic tradition to give participants in this workshop a first-hand experience of honing their senses for greater enjoyment of life. Where could one find a better setting for this task than at Esalen? $575

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. With this natural reserve as the primary teacher, the group will walk into the Los Padres National Forest. Drawing on various traditions, participants can develop the quality of their awareness and open to the natural world.

Week-long workshops will venture out on five hikes (4-10 miles in length). Weekend workshops will take two hikes (3-6 miles in length). Using Esalen as base camp, the group will explore different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each day-hike will begin after breakfast and will conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. Basic outdoor skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts will be practiced. Participants will be taught enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after these outings. More information will be sent upon registration. $575

Weekend of June 2–4

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman

For many people, feelings are something mysterious, something to keep to oneself, or something to think about. This workshop is about all the steps involved in learning to experience, respect, and honor one's feeling process in a way that can increase vitality and personal effectiveness. Participants may learn to separate feelings from thoughts, learn from their own body rhythms, learn to contact their own wisdom, and participate in the choice of expression or depression.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $295

New Ways of Thinking in Science and Theology

Fritjof Capra & Brother David Steindl-Rast

New ways of thinking are emerging in science and in theology. The new paradigms in these two areas show surprising parallels. Two great human enterprises of exploring reality are converging. But the new insights are not yet widely known.

In dialogue with each other and with participants, Fritjof Capra and Brother David will examine the evidence and probe its implications. The goal of this weekend workshop is twofold: to find through new ways of thinking new ways of responsible action in the world we share. $295

Week of June 4–9

Presence: Fluidity of Being

Elisa Lodge

Elisa Lodge writes: "Presence is a power that arises from a deep sense of self-worth and trust. It reflects a broadened vision and wholehearted acceptance of the varied facets of being. It is a state of dynamic balance where there is no unnecessary strain of self-defeating awkwardness. One is at home in oneself and at ease with the world.

"During this week, participants can gain a deepened appreciation of the elements in themselves that contribute to this timeless state of fluidity and ease. They will have an opportunity to experiment and explore how their bodies' shapes and forms, emotional histories, and self-images are intimately intertwined. This growing awareness is the basic grounding from which the creative experience of presence can be known. Movement patterns, the ways we walk and breathe, also reveal how we inhibit or allow our personal power. As we become more comfortable with ourselves, we transform not only the way we might carry our head or make contact with another, but our whole way of being in the world.

"This work is based on an approach woven from gestalt, psychosynthesis, Rolf movement, and performance art. Video feedback will be used." $575

The Hero's Journey

Paul Rebillot

Paul Rebillot writes: "Again and again in my work with people I have seen the suffering and confusion caused by our society's lack of significant rites of passage. Without shamans or ritual masters to guide them, modern women and men must find their own lonely and usually traumatic paths from one stage of life to another – whether it be a child's discovery that there is no Santa Claus, an adolescent's awkward approach to puberty, an adult's marriage or ending of one, or a change of career. Every such change requires a movement from one level of being to another.

"Seeing this need, I created a rite of passage universal enough to allow people to discover the pattern of change, whatever that change might be. That pattern is exemplified in the myth of the hero. The new stage of life that is to be reached calls forth a heroic action on the part of the person taking the journey. At the same time, as soon as a new goal begins to emerge, all of the resistance to that goal emerges as well. I call these two forces 'the hero' and 'the demon.' In order for the new state of being to be realized, these two forces must discover how to communicate with each other and how to work together. The old forms must fall away so that the new form can emerge.

"My purpose is to give people a chance to experience a rite of passage so that they can go into the changes in their lives with a sense of joy and greater context. My hope is that through this process people will awaken to their own creative genius and enter into the drama of their lives with imagination and delight."

Recommended reading: Joseph Campbell, The Hero with a Thousand Faces (Bollingen) and Myths to Live By (Bantam). $575

Advanced Enneagram Intensive

Helen Palmer

The enneagram is an ancient psychological typology that describes nine personality types and their interrelationships. Each type is defined by a chief mental and emotional preoccupation to which attention habitually returns. The types correlate well with the current categories of psychological practice, but can open us to the fact that the repeating preoccupations of heart and mind that we in the West tend to dismiss as merely neurotic can also be used as access points into states of awareness like empathy, omniscience, and love.

Beginning with a review of the nine types, this workshop will focus on advanced material that can best be understood through oral teaching methods. These include learning to recognize type by listening to the differences in people's stories, by learning to ask key questions, and by paying attention to one's own internal impressions when in the presence of the different types.

This program is for those who are already familiar with the nine personality types and who wish to broaden their understanding of the system. It is intended for anyone who is interested in: recognizing ways in which the nine types relate to each other in intimate partnership and in work-related settings; determining strategies for working with the types; developing competency with the patterns of attention that support each type; gaining an understanding of the higher human abilities that can develop from working with the issues of type.

This intensive can also be applied toward requirements for the enneagram teacher training program. It has been designed to support those who wish to use and teach the system within the scope of private practice, group work, or organizational development.

Recommended reading: Helen Palmer, The Enneagram: Understanding Yourself and the Others in Your Life (Harper & Row).

Recommended viewing: Nine Portraits, a videotape presentation of the nine personality types. Write to: 1442A Walnut St., Berkeley, CA 94709. $575

Weekend of June 9–11

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

For workshop description see May 28-June 2. $295

Glasnost, Perestroika, and Stalin

Vladimir Karpov, Yuri Afanasyev & Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program Staff

This workshop brings together two outstanding figures from the U.S.S.R. as well as staff members of the Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program. Vladimir Karpov, First Secretary of the powerful Union of Writers, and Yuri Afanasyev, the outspoken historian and director of the All-Union National Archive, will discuss glasnost, perestroika, and the ramifications of Stalin's legacy on Soviet culture today. They will talk about people who knew Stalin and speak frankly – regarding some issues for the first time ever – about the impact he had on Soviet culture and the world over the past fifty years. $295

Acts of Courage

David Schiffman

To take risks successfully requires courage, grit, and wisdom, knowing one's heart and being true to the dreams that live inside it, good timing, an adventuresome spirit, and the confidence to act. The focus of this week will be to fine-tune this creative risk-taking and to appreciate the "acts of courage" required for the undertaking. Elements such as mutual respect, honesty, and tenderness in the group situation will help participants deepen their appreciation of what is truly valuable in their lives. Time together will include traditional psychological practices as well as non-traditional, innovative approaches with music, movement, guided imagery, and structural repatterning. $295

The Further Reaches of Human Energy

George Leonard & Annie Styron Leonard

This workshop begins with a basic grounding in Leonard Energy Training (LET), in which problems can become opportunities, stress and pain can be transformed into gifts of energy, personal and social options can be multiplied, and the flow of vital energy enhanced. In addition to its practical applications, the workshop offers participants the possibility of experiencing their own latent powers of intuition and extraordinary sensing.

After their introduction to LET, participants move into experiments that push the limits of what are termed "normal" human capacities. Through such processes as scanning, tuning in to others' energy, focused surrender, and remote viewing, the group is given a chance to experience a crystalline state of intense aliveness without expectation and prejudgment. As George Leonard wrote in The Ultimate Athlete, "Simply by considering possibilities commonly ignored by our culture, we find ourselves in a far more fascinating universe. We discover adventures that do not require the burning of fuel or the rape of the planet: sensing the energy field of a friend or a tree, making connections that defy conventional space and time. . . . We realize, with the sorcerer, don Juan, that our world is awesome, mysterious, and unfathomable, and that our life is filled to the brim and altogether too short."

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse (Dutton), The Ultimate Athlete (Viking), and The Transformation (Tarcher/Houghton Mifflin). $295

Week of June 11–16

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Robert Helm & Vicki Topp

This course will teach gentle, fundamental approaches to full body massage and the refined art of touch as communication and awareness through movement and breath rhythms. It is a basic program for those interested in developing hands-on skills.

Demonstrations will be augmented by supervised practice. Verbal material will include information about various approaches to body work and how massage can relieve physical and emotional stress.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $575

Sculpture: Inner and Outer Visions

Rachael Dutton

The seat of the soul is where the inner and outer worlds meet. – Novalis

Rachael Dutton writes: "My work is based on interactions of images from my dreams with the animistic qualities of materials such as branches, earth, and grasses. These materials function as collaborators, mediating inner and outer worlds.

"Workshop participants will work individually with images gleaned from dreams, memory, or moments of presence, using low-tech methods of construction and the natural resources of the farm area at Esalen. Additive sculpture methods, such as bundling, tying, stacking, can be just as personal as imagery; ways of linking physical components mirror associative processes in the mind. Participants will explore a multi-dimensional awareness of self as process and self as internal landscape coming to meet external landscape, using natural materials and the raw beauty of the Big Sur coastline to embody their personal visions.

"The workshop is open to artists at all levels of experience. Bring sketchbook, scissors, string, rags, and a plastic bucket."

Recommended reading: Robert Bly, editor, News of the Universe (Sierra); Rainer Maria Rilke, Letters to a Young Poet (Norton). $575

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear–
And when used – is inexhaustible.
– Lao Tzu

Gestalt is as old as the world.
– Fritz Perls

Gestalt practice is a form – nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental – evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action,

FONG LEE

Paul Rebillot and the late Stanford Eugene Cates

gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. This form is similar to some Reichian work as well, in that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged.

The emphasis is *intra*personal rather than *inter*personal. It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment. Although open seat work is the primary form of this practice, guided fantasy, breath meditations, and movement sessions may be included.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Real People Press) and In and Out the Garbage Pail; John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics Ltd.).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $575

Weekend of June 16–18

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 14-19. $295

The Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program

Jim Garrison, Dulce Murphy, Claire Ryle & Visiting Soviet Colleagues

This weekend workshop will culminate seven days of intensive discussions with Soviets and Americans about current events in Soviet-American relations. The panel will include members of the Social and Economic Dialogues, a current project of the Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program (SAEP), members of the SAEP staff, and some outstanding Soviet economists, cultural figures, historians, and artists. $295

Healing, Meditation, and Dzogchen

Sogyal Rinpoche

In the stillness and presence of meditation we discover a pure awareness, beyond the ordinary thinking mind, and catch a glimpse of our true nature, something long lost to the busyness and turmoil of our lives. The core of meditation practice is the releasing of heart and mind in deep ease and relaxation, dissolving tensions, and connecting with that tremendous source of healing within. Health is a state where all aspects of body and mind are in balance. Through meditation practice, the mind's natural freedom begins to shine through whatever arises in everyday life, bringing us confidence and skillfulness in our action.

At the heart of the Buddha's teachings lie the ancient meditation practices of Dzogchen, taught by Sogyal Rinpoche, a master who is heir to the 2,500 years of wisdom of Buddha. This weekend he will talk about Dzogchen and the Buddhist perspective. Some meditation practice will be included. $295

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais* Approach

Patrick Douce

The work of Moshe Feldenkrais is based on the natural process by which we learned to move as children. During this workshop, soft, easy, gentle movements will be used to increase awareness of the body and to improve the ease and ability of movement. Special emphasis will be placed on the difficulties in movement that arise from chronic conditions such as lower back and neck pain, shoulder pain, tension in the neck and shoulders, and knee injuries. Such conditions can be improved by approaching the difficulties as problems in learning rather than as therapeutic troubles. Situations which were "incurable" become "re-educable." Workshop participants will also be introduced to methods to improve their ability to sense each other's bodies through touch and massage.

Although this workshop will be of value to anyone interested in learning more about his/her body through direct experience, it may be of special interest and benefit to dancers, athletes, doctors, nurses, physical therapists, psychologists, health-care professionals, and elderly citizens who may discover new ways of moving with ease and increased flexibility – painlessly and immediately.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $295

* The Feldenkrais Guild

Week of June 18–23

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 14-19. $575

Couples' Workshop

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

Most couples are reluctant to seek help in their relationships; instead, they wait, hoping that the relationship will improve. If couples approached medical help the same way they approach marriage counseling, many of them would only visit the doctor when they ought to be lining up the mortician.

Designed on a preventive model, this workshop will deal with the underlying structures and defenses in relationships before they surface as terminal problems. It will also examine the attitudes and beliefs about sexuality and how to make sex better.

Recommended reading: Jack Rosenberg, Total Orgasm and Body, Self, and Soul: Sustaining Integration. $575

Mountains and Waves: Movement in Wilderness

Susan Harper & Steven Harper

Mountains and Waves is an invitation to explore natural movements inspired within the human organism by participation in nature. We listen to impulses within and to impulses of wilderness until "inner" and "outer" disappear. As we surrender to the intelligence which creates life in all its varied forms, we find ourselves moving in unexpected ways. Our awareness expands. We feel a larger sense of Self and wilderness and the creative wholeness of a greater dance.

The summer solstice occurs during this week, and we will take special time to create a ceremony in honor and celebration of our longest day. Sessions will be both indoors and outdoors. Evenings, some day sessions, and most meals will be at Esalen. We will also take short day hikes in Big Sur's backcountry. Participants need not have previous experience in hiking or dance. $575

A Workshop with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

If a proper reverence for the sanctity of the earth and the diversity of its people is the secret of peace and survival, then the adventure of self-discovery stands before us as the most practical of pleasures.
–Theodore Roszak, Person/Planet

Laura DeNuccio writes: "Within nature's seasonal cycles, one can observe a deep biological intelligence at play. The rhythms and patterns of the seasons reflect what occurs in every aspect of life – from the pulsation of the cell, to the ebb and flow of the deepest emotions, to the movement and expansion of the universe itself. In this workshop, the natural world will be the group's teacher as they explore the 'inner' terrain of their physical and emotional bodies and the 'outer' terrain of Esalen and Big Sur.

"Participants will use Reichian gestalt awareness and breath work, sound, creative movement, and meditation to balance and transform energy blocks in the body. In addition, they will use music, dance, power of the Spoken Word, and ritual to express their relationship with the earth and each other.

"No previous experience is needed, only a willingness to explore this adventure of spirit and discover a deepened sense of the interconnectedness that is inherent in all life-forms. Learning about one's body, natural instincts, and responses can lead one back to the ancient wisdom of the earth – and a return to sacredness and wholeness."

Recommended reading: Fields et al., Chop Wood, Carry Water (Tarcher); Shakti Gawain, Creative Visualization (Whatever Publishing); Peter Russell, The Global Brain (Tarcher); Stanley Keleman, The Human Ground (Center Press). $575

Weekend of June 23–25

Looking Over Meaning's Edge

Terence McKenna

Once again we create a chance to travel a different path. We will use syntactical flair, literary allusions, and reflections on the psychedelic experience to place ourselves in context at history's climax. Expect to discuss the Timewave, the timeless vision, and the challenge of living in an evolving, thinking, fractal world. $295

Preparing for the 21st Century: The Teacher as Warrior

Betty Halpern, Patricia Monighan-Nourot, Lia Thompson-Clark & Janet Lederman

Essential issues to be considered in this weekend seminar on teacher development include: how to create an environment that supports confidence, competence, and compassion; the role of play in the curriculum (play and aggression; play and gender roles; play and age); how teachers can advocate for children (working with families and the community); the teacher as warrior or the teacher as wimp: developing leadership in your own setting; professionalism and relationships between staff and administrators.

Lectures, discussion, role playing, experiential exercises, and observation at Gazebo School (Esalen's children's center) will be some of the strategies used. This workshop is designed for teachers and administrators in any school setting. $295

Achieving Sustained High Performance

Jerry & Kathleen Fletcher

Everyone has had the experience of suddenly doing something much better than expected, yet, until recently, little has been understood about these high performance experiences. People assumed such times were lucky accidents. More significantly, even if they could perform at high levels for short times, they assumed there was no way to sustain such performance without stress, fatigue, and eventual burnout.

Eight years of research and testing make it clear that these times of exceptional performance are not capricious. Each individual has a unique set of conditions under which he or she performs surprisingly well. Once people learn their personal high performance patterns, they can deliberately create the conditions they need to sustain their high performance behavior. They do not need to subject themselves to the strain of short peak periods of high output followed by long recovery cycles.

This seminar presents a process for individuals to determine their high performance patterns and conditions. Developed through years of work with successful managers, executives, and professionals, it offers how to go from competent to exceptional performance in a way that can be sustained. $295

Children of Chaos: Recovery from the Aftermaths of Alcoholism

Mariah Fenton Gladis

The road to recovery for Adult Children of Alcoholics and others whose parents have been dysfunctional or abusive is challenging and can be deeply rewarding. It requires determination, lifelong commitment, and positive therapeutic experiences. This workshop offers participants an opportunity to take a major step toward health. Group members will work toward transforming their personal histories from one of liability to one of strength and wisdom, focusing on the promotion of healing in four fundamental relationships:

- With oneself: developing awareness, freedom from addictions, and healing of the body and soul from the residual effects of chronic trauma.
- With others: improving one's capacity for moving out of isolation and into direct, open communication and trust; expanding intimacy skills while securing healthy boundaries.
- In the world: moving away from chaos and deprivation toward stability and abundance.
- Spiritually: searching for the meaning of one's history and accessing that part of the self that can utilize universal blessings.

The workshop will be experiential and didactic, blending individual and group gestalt work, music, spiritual healing, body work, and personal metaphor. A step-by-step recovery process developed by the leader will be incorporated throughout the workshop. The atmosphere will be one of trust and mutual support. This workshop is also appropriate for professionals working with ACAs.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $295

Week of June 25–30

Five Days with Janet Zuckerman

This workshop continues Esalen's tradition of interpersonal and intrapersonal work on emotional process. It is based on these premises: that unfinished business is projected into current relationships, interfering with one's ability to be in the present, and that by emotional release one may cleanse the doors of perception. Tools for exploration will include the open seat, a tennis racket, pillows, and a sense of humor.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $575

Five Days with Claudio Naranjo

Widely known as a theorist of "the ways of growth," Chilean psychiatrist Claudio Naranjo is a teacher, therapist, and community builder with a background in psychoanalytic and psychedelic therapy. He came to California in the mid-60s, received gestalt training from Perls and Simkin, and later became a member of the first Esalen gestalt team. He has taught at UC and Nyingma Institute. Among his books are The One Quest and The Psychology of Meditation.

During these five days, he will offer spiritual and psychological exercises – such as doing nothing in silent immobility and being oneself among others – as well as time for talking about "what it is all about," for deepening self-insight, for contemplation, and for subtle sensing. $575

Intermediate Cranial Workshop

Jim Asher & Jane Harrington

This Level Two cranial workshop is for those who have taken a basic cranial workshop on the membrane/fluid systems. It will be hands-on and will review the vertical and horizontal systems with alternate holds for each phase. Much of the emphasis will be on the head, jaw, neck, pelvis, and diaphragm systems. Mouthwork practices that reduce strain and compression patterns as they relate to the maxilla, sphenoid, and ethmoid complex and to pituitary and sinus problems will be shown. Participants will practice balanced movement of the body to support themselves while working, as well as movement patterns which can be taught to their clients to support cranial changes.

Cranial work can be effective in shifting emotional holding patterns and draining accumulated stresses in the nervous system. Unwinding, a method which can release strains throughout the body at the somatic and emotional levels, will be emphasized in this workshop. Sphenobasilar strain patterns, whip lash, bulb compression, dural tube freedom, and the fluid system will also be covered. There will be time for case studies and questions about specific problems.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $575

Playing the Edge

David Schiffman

In the early stages of growth, success seems to be its own reward. The excitement, the energy, the willingness to stand to it comes bubbling up in the mood of those who are involved in new and successful ventures. To keep this spirit alive is not easy. The enormous pressure, the grinding routines and demands of substantial involvement can dispirit even the healthiest people. To listen to one's heart and know what's real requires the courage to pause. In this willingness to stop and listen to the deeper self live the true resources that guide and protect us.

The purpose of this week is to create a mood of sanctuary for: people who are in transition and facing major changes in career, relationship, or matters of the spirit; those in need of a break from demanding, stressful responsibilities; individuals interested in breaking new ground in the areas of self-nurturance, intuitive functioning, and problem-solving.

The processes will be gently restorative, illuminating, and enlivening. The group intention will be to create a community based in trust and goodwill with maximum emphasis on individual freedom. Traditional methods of self-inquiry (gestalt practice, bioenergetics, psychosynthesis) will be combined with innovative methods using music, meditation, poetry, and prayer to foster this spirit of living fully and comfortably. $575

Weekend of June 30–July 2

Writing and the Act of Creation

George Leonard

Participants will be encouraged to break through ego-barriers and cultural conditioning that inhibit expression. In so doing, they will have a chance to experience the creativity that is inherent in all of life. There will be little in the way of theoretical discussion and no critiques of past works. Simple movement exercises will serve to reduce stress, free the mind, and focus the will. Participants will have the opportunity to write furiously in the here and now and to get immediate feedback. Before the weekend has passed, they in all probability will have completed a short article or fictional work and will have experienced some of the joys and heartaches that accompany publication. Bring pencils, pens, or portable typewriters – and plenty of paper.

Recommended reading: Strunk and White, The Elements of Style (Macmillan); George Leonard, The Silent Pulse (Dutton) and Walking on the Edge of the World (Houghton Mifflin). $295

Language of the Drums: African Percussion, Chanting, and Dance

Babatunde Olatunji with Ijalu Akanbe, Yao Tamakloe & Gordy Ryan

Nigerian musician Babatunde Olatunji has been bridging the gap between American and African culture for thirty years. In this workshop he will show how drum sounds and rhythms communicate, stimulate, and pace the activities of traditional African life. He will teach the consonants of the Yoruba language, reproducing its sounds on drums and through chants, body percussion, and dance.

This workshop is for dancers, percussionists, musicians, and anyone who wants to speak the language of the drums. Drummers can experience the dance and dancers can experience the drums. Bring a drum if you have one.

(Note: Olatunji will extend his stay through the Fourth of July week. Please see his July 2-7 workshop description.) $295

Love and Work

Anne & John Caple

"Work is love made visible," wrote Kahlil Gibran. Work, like love, is a measure of our humanness and our capacity for living. Love and work, when made visible to ourselves and others, grow in potency and value.

Starting with the hero's journey as described by Joseph Campbell, participants will explore the relationship between love and work in the world and in their lives. They will build on the story of Psyche and Amor and engage mythic images as allies in understanding their past and creating their future. Both the head and the heart will be honored.

This workshop is for those in transition or in doubt about their life's direction. It is for those who want to make sense of their experience in order to make the most of their prospects. It is for those willing to consider a larger vision and commit to a personal action plan.

Recommended reading: John Caple, The Right Work (Dodd, Mead & Co.). $295

Week of July 2–7

Fourth of July Week with Babatunde Olatunji

and Ijalu Akanbe, Yao Tamakloe & Gordy Ryan

During this Fourth of July week, Babatunde Olatunji and his ensemble will continue their Language of the Drums workshop, offering participants the chance to become deeply immersed in the study and re-creation of African drum sounds and rhythms. Please see his June 30-July 2 workshop description for more information. $575

Personal Trance: Hypnotic Skills for the Everyday World

Norman Katz & Marc Lehrer

To become a master of personal trance requires a skillful interplay between the conscious and unconscious aspects of the self. Developing focused attention, relaxation skills, and the use of suggestion in everyday life is integral to this process. This seminar teaches how to use common shifts of consciousness to help with personal problems, habit patterns, sports and physical movement, creativity, and pain reduction, and to reinforce positive changes in these areas.

Participants will use structured inductions, humor, play, music, and storytelling to shift from one trance state to another, to recognize how others influence one's trance, and to reframe situations for optimum solutions and well-being. They will practice hypnotic skill-training, visualization, self-induction, regression, and communication methods in the Ericksonian tradition. $575

Five-Day Advanced Massage Workshop: Trigger Point

Arthur Maurer & David Streeter

Trigger point massage is the movement of myofascial tissue through soft, deep contact with various pressure points of the body. This method allows the practitioner to locate areas of muscular tension and skeletal restriction, and alleviate traumas and toxins in the body.

This workshop is suggested for body workers, holistic health care practitioners, nurses and physicians, physical therapists, chiropractors, and athletes who want to expand their hands-on skills. Anatomy and physiology, as they apply to this pressure point method, as well as structural alignment and movement, will be integrated into these five days. Through these tools, participants and their clients may achieve and enjoy a more fluid, focused, and integrated body.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $575

Psychology of Spiritual Essence: Introduction to Ridhwan Work

The Ridhwan Work School Faculty

Ridhwan, translated from Arabic, means contentment. The Ridhwan Work School is dedicated to the development of the human essence. It uses primarily the Diamond Approach, a modern, psychological method used as a spiritual practice, to guide students to a precise understanding of their personal experience. By understanding one's discontent, longing, emptiness, and life situations, it becomes possible to realize the innate aspects of love, awareness, will, and joy. Such precision offers psychological clarity and ultimately leads to spiritual presence.

This workshop will use conceptual presentations, interpersonal exercises, meditation, and personal emotional work to activate the essential aspects of presence and resolve the psychological barriers against them. It is for individuals who have done a lot of emotional and growth work, and speaks to the longing of the heart for what will truly fulfill it. In such a short time, participants may only get a taste of this essence, but they can go a long way in terms of awakening their sleeping potential. Private sessions will be available for an additional fee.

Recommended reading: A.H. Almaas, The Elixir of Enlightenment (Weiser), Essence (Weiser), The Void (Diamond Books), The Diamond Heart, vols. I & II (Diamond Books), and The Pearl Beyond Price (Diamond Books). $575

Weekend of July 7–9

Process-Oriented Movement and Psychology

Amy & Arnold Mindell

Movement is a non-verbal, cross-cultural method of accessing the psyche which can be used with children and adults in normal and extreme states. Movement, however, is only one channel in Process-Oriented Psychology, and although these two days will focus on movement exercises and intervention, participants will integrate the work with dreams, auditory experiences, relationships, body and symptom work, and the search for a meaningful or spiritual life. Saturday night will be an "open seat," allowing anyone to work on anything and to deviate from the otherwise linear training. (Please note: this will be a large seminar.)

Recommended reading: Arnold Mindell, Working with the Dreaming Body; The Dreambody in Relationships; River's Way; City Shadows (all: Routledge Press), and Dreambody (Sigo Press). $295

The Mobius Workshop in Expanded Human Performance

Stephan A. Schwartz

The phenomenon of expanded human performance in the realms of creativity, psychic archaeology, and healing will be the focus of this workshop, which will blend objective information with subjective experience. The workshop will open with video tapes of archaeological expeditions to Egypt, the Mediterranean, and the Caribbean, in which ordinary people used "remote viewing," or clairvoyance, to locate sunken ships and buried buildings. Participants will also be given information on the age-old phenomenon of healing. Actual experiments and what scientists have been able to learn from them will be the basis for discussion. The goal of this Friday evening presentation is to provide participants with a shared body of information to be used in understanding subsequent subjective events triggered by the workshop.

Saturday's sessions will be experiential. Participants will use methods grounded in laboratory research to experience expanded states of consciousness and will practice intuitive diagnosis and healing skills. Approaches to effective meditation and methods for producing substantive changes in life patterns will conclude the weekend. Participants will be given notebooks containing information for continuing practice after the workshop. $295

July 7–14

Painting Experience with Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

It is rare for most people to use painting for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to paint purely for the process of exploration, not for the result.

The purpose of this workshop is to provide a setting to explore the self through painting – to discover in form and color a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to emotional and spiritual expression. Participants are given the support and stimulation to develop a natural way of painting based directly upon feeling. The work takes place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, along with a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. The workshop may be of interest to persons involved in a wide variety of disciplines, including art, education, counseling, and meditative practices. No prior experience in painting is necessary.

For further information about this workshop, contact: The Painting Experience Studio, 2101 20th Avenue, San Francisco, CA 94116; (415) 564-8515.

$870 (plus $30 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Week of July 9–14

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 14-19. $575

Being Real

Seymour Carter & Abraham Levitsky

The process of self-realization is frightening. Self-discovery involves danger and risk. Each step in the process is laden with conflict: Do I dare? Shall I choose familiarity or fascination? Shall I risk something new and creative? How do I leave the safe and convenient habits I have formed and stride into the unknown and unformed future?

Participants will examine the possibility of choice, the myth of helplessness, and the conflicts and challenges evoked by the freedom to choose their own existence. Using gestalt methods of awareness enhancement and experimenting with new behavior, they will expand the range of their possibilities for being in the world. The workshop leaders are two long-time gestalt practitioners who wish to revive the existential roots of the gestalt approach. $575

Zero Balancing:
Beginning/Intermediate Workshop

Fritz Smith

Zero Balancing is a simple method for aligning the body structure and energy field. The structural-energetic interface of the body is beneath conscious awareness, and when imbalances occur at this level, the body tends to compensate around them rather than resolve them directly. This often leads to loss of vitality, chronic body pain, and lessened potential for vibrant health. Zero Balancing assists in overcoming these patterns of imbalance.

In this workshop, traditional anatomy, physiology, and kinesiology will be reviewed, and Eastern concepts of chi energy, its movement in the body, and the chakra system will be discussed. The system of Zero Balancing will then be presented, including specific guidelines for evaluating and balancing the structural-energetic interface in the body. The workshop will be both didactic and experiential, with the main emphasis on new skills in body handling. This is an accredited program toward Zero Balancing certification.

Recommended reading: Frederick Smith, Inner Bridges: A Guide to Energy Movement and Body Structure (Humanics Ltd.).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $575

Weekend of July 14–16

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 14-19. $295

Body Rejuvenation:
A Weekend with Dub Leigh

The goal of this seminar is to start to rejuvenate the body, mind, and spirit. A fast way to do this is to work the body. Transform the old, hard, short, nonresilient tissue into soft, lengthy, bouncy tissue free from trauma, stress, and pain. You will then have changed the despondent, hopeless, negative, grouchy person into an enthusiastic, positive, upbeat one.

The recipe for how to begin to rejuvenate a body in one session will be demonstrated to the group, and then experienced and performed by each participant.

This seminar is recommended for everyone. The older you are, the more stuff you have to work with. Class size is limited (two students per table). Bring a swimsuit – two-piece for women.

Recommended reading: William Leigh, A Zen Approach to Bodytherapy, From Rolf to Feldenkrais to Tanouye Roshi (University of Hawaii Press). $295

The Kabbalah:
Doorway to the Inner World

Edward Hoffman

For more than 2,000 years, adepts of the Kabbalah, the Jewish mystical tradition, have explored the nature of the human mind and its vast potential. They have addressed in considerable detail such intriguing topics as dreams, meditation, altered states of consciousness, the mind-body unity, and how to awaken one's higher capabilities. In recent years, a true renaissance of interest in the Kabbalah has occurred. Throughout the world, men and women are discovering the wisdom and power of this ancient system of knowledge.

This workshop will combine information and experiential methods to make personally relevant the Jewish mystical approach to the inner world. It will examine specific concepts and methods from the Kabbalah as they relate to the transformational paradigm emerging in Western psychology. The traditional Kabbalistic emphasis on developing "Kavvanah" (intentionality) and imagination will be highlighted. $295

Fighting and Loving:
On Conflict and Intimacy

Ofer Zur

This workshop is for individuals and couples to explore their psychic battlefields – sexual as well as political. It will shed light on how people create enemies, get attached to them, and ultimately either love, kill, or "dance" with them. Experiential work, personal myths, and visual imagery will be used to explore the following key issues:

- The role of conflict in sustaining intimacy
- Loving and fighting: dancing with one's shadows
- Intimate enemies, past and present
- Gender, sexuality, and aggression
- Style of fighting: overt and covert
- Violent relationships: rethinking aggression and victims
- The myth of the warrior and the beautiful soul
- Surviving the nuclear family and the nuclear era
- Men and war: is man the maker of war, or war the maker of man?
- Women and war: victims or co-contributors?

$295

Exploring the World of Lucid Dreaming

Stephen LaBerge

Lucid dreaming means dreaming while knowing that one is dreaming. The wakeful consciousness of this extraordinary state allows for creative responses to dreams and affords the opportunity to control them. This control gives the freedom to explore a remarkable range of possibilities, from indulging in one's wildest fantasies to following one's highest spiritual aspirations.

For most individuals, lucid dreams are as rare as the waking peak experiences to which they are analogous. This need not be so, and workshop participants will be shown how to develop the skill of lucid dreaming. They will have the opportunity to use a feedback device for the induction of lucid dreams. The device, called The Dreamlight™, consists of a sleep mask fitted with sensors and lights connected to a small box that causes the lights to flash during REM (dreaming) sleep. When the lights flash, the dreamer can remember that he/she is dreaming.

This workshop is intended for avid dreamers. It will include discussions and experiential demonstrations of the nature of consciousness and how individuals construct their perceptual worlds. Participants will be exposed to a variety of uses of lucid dreaming, including self-exploration, creative problem-solving, healing, adventure, and perhaps most important, a way of self-integration leading to the transpersonal realms.

Recommended reading: Stephen LaBerge, Lucid Dreaming (Ballantine).

$295 (plus $20 Dreamlight™ rental fee paid directly to the leader)

Week of July 16–21

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

For workshop description see May 28-June 2. $575

An Intimate Community

Joel Dueck, Anne Ruderman & Linda Rice-Mandigo

Feelings give us knowledge, depth, and pleasure, but only when they flow unobstructed into our lives. Relating to others is a function of being able to express those feelings openly and directly. In this workshop, participants will have opportunities to feel deep parts of themselves and translate their individual work into quality interactions. Collectively, the risks we take in revealing ourselves create an intimate community.

The workshop leaders have worked together for eight years. They are intrigued with community and see it as a central aspect to modern life. They are trained in various disciplines and may use Reichian emotional release, breathing sessions, group process, play, nurturing, confrontation, and spiritual healing while working with workshop participants. $575

The Body and Zen

Dub Leigh

The goal of this seminar is twofold: 1) to use body work methods and principles for releasing tension, trauma, and toxins from connective tissue; and 2) to circulate the vital energy in an aligned body. The group will draw from Rolfing* (structure), Feldenkrais* (function), and Zen (energy), to obtain these goals.

This is a hands-on workshop. Participants will give and receive body work and will learn methods to recognize, work with, and relieve some types of chronic muscle pain. The class will be limited in size (two people per table). Participants are asked to bring a swimsuit – two-piece for women.

Recommended reading: William Leigh, A Zen Approach to Bodytherapy, From Rolf to Feldenkrais to Tanouye Roshi (University of Hawaii Press).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $575

* Rolfing is a service mark of the Rolf Institute

The Many Faces of Meditation (Ancient and Contemporary Forms)

Kathleen O'Shaughnessy

Throughout history, the common denominator for accessing "The Wide Place" has been participation of the mind in an activity with the body in the present moment. Whether it is the shaman lost in drum and rattle rhythms, the yogi exploring the minute kinesthetic textures of posturing, the Tibetan chanter drowning mind and senses in a sea of mantra sounds, the zazen practitioner exploring the weavings of mind and breath, or the Christian in rich and heartful repetition of prayer, practice is based upon the joining of mind and body.

Through this commonality of intricate "taking part in," workshop participants will minutely examine:

- Japanese Soto Zen sitting practice
- Hatha Yoga
- Kum Nye (Tibetan Yoga)
- Continuum* movement/sound/breath dimensions (*developed by Emilie Conrad-Da'oud)
- Meditation through another human by touch, involving the poetics of the heart meridian and listening for the core pulse of the cerebro-spinal fluid

Maximum time will be spent in personal involvement with these modes. Enrollment will be limited to 12 persons. Participants are asked to wear layered, loose clothing and to bring a mat. $575

The Buddha, the Goddess, and N.L.P.

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

The Buddha is a model for compassionate emptiness. The Goddess is a model for passionate involvement in form. Neurolinguistic Programming (N.L.P.) is a structure for understanding, modeling, and changing human behavior and consciousness. It can be used for leaving behind old baggage and focusing or polishing the filters of perception. Set in the context of Buddhist psychology and practice, N.L.P. offers the choice to utilize gracefully the core issues of life as ally and teacher.

This workshop combines the power of hypnosis and N.L.P. within the context of a spiritual journey. Participants will use Zen meditation, Taoist yoga, movement, and trance work to invoke the perfected states of the Buddha and the Goddess already within.

Recommended reading: Chogyam Trungpa, Shambhala (Shambhala); W. Evans-Wentz, Tibetan Book of the Great Liberation (Oxford Univ. Press); Bandler and Grinder, Frogs into Princes (Real People Press); M. Zimmer Bradley, The Mists of Avalon (Knopf); Starhawk, Dreaming the Dark (Beacon Press). $575

Weekend of July 21–23

Weekend Massage Intensive

Laurie Schutz & Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see May 5-7. $295

Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

Each of us has unique capacities to feel and express tenderness and strength, anger and affection, autonomy and needfulness, as well as compassion, humor, and wisdom. The degree to which we allow the fullness and vibrance of each of these qualities determines how alive and gratified we are.

In this workshop, participants will focus on how they diminish or affirm these essential qualities as they are expressed through their bodies, sexuality, creativity, relationship to power, friendships, and expectations. In an atmosphere of tenderness and support, participants will clarify the nature of who they are and how they can best take care of themselves, both at Esalen and on returning home. The workshop will be grounded in gestalt, group process, guided fantasy, massage, and bioenergetics. $295

Imagery: Exploring the Body/Mind Bridge

Jeanne Achterberg & Frank Laulis

The imagination is a perennial, yet newly celebrated, healing resource. It is a bridge between body and mind, a manifestation of the human spirit. The image forms the creative juices and allows transcendence.

This workshop will explore, beyond the confines of modern medicine and psychology, the potent realm of imagination as healer. The potential for self- and transpersonal healing will be experienced through sound, image, meditation, and other tools to shift consciousness. A rationale for the use of mind in the crisis of illness will be given, using information on the forefront of science.

The presenters, pioneers in the study and practice of imagery, will introduce their ideas, practices, and visions for the future. The workshop may be of interest to persons who are working or studying in the health professions and to those who are confronted with chronic or catastrophic illness.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $295

Seeing with New Eyes: Developing Psychic Sight Through Compassion™

Elizabeth Stratton

As newborns we see the world "as it is." As we grow, we are taught by parents, education, and the media to see the world through preaccepted belief systems. Our natural psychic clarity dims, and we can no longer see the truth of who or what is right in front of us. Reclaiming and developing our natural psychic sight necessitates stripping away these veils of illusion and seeing the world and people in it through the eyes of compassion.

This training in psychic development teaches how to see with clarity and compassion. Participants will be shown how to reopen and trust their natural gifts of clairvoyance, clairsentience, clairaudience, and telepathy. Specially designed exercises will enable them to: communicate with someone mind-to-mind at a distance; see into a person's childhood, including the accompanying trauma, loss, or pain that creates who they are today; see and interpret symbols, images, colors and auras; use inner sight to scan the physical body for signs of stress and disease; tap into the unconscious for healing purposes.

Designed for everyone who would like to see life and others with more clarity and compassion, these two days are of special value to health professionals who would like to see beyond the labels and directly into the hearts of the people in their care.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $295

Week of July 23–28

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

For workshop description see June 11-16. $575

Women, Renewal, and the Earth: A Psychosynthesis Retreat

Lenore Lefer & Anne Yoemans

These five days will offer a retreat for women, integrating psychosynthesis process work, yoga, walking meditation, and dream work, in an environment that is nurturing, empowering, and renewing. It will be an opportunity for participants to share their concerns, which may range from the personal to the planetary. The schedule and focus will be flexible and will reflect the wishes and needs of the group members. Time will be available each day for solitude as well as for group process work.

The leaders will share their work in the areas of dreams and the unconscious, peace-making and non-violence. Participants are invited to bring those issues which are on their minds and in their hearts, a few recent dreams, and a piece of news that gives them hope. $575

The Subtle Self in Motion

Judy Blackstone

This workshop is for people who are ready for the subtle, concentrated work required to truly inhabit their bodies. Participants will use mind-breath-body exercises to awaken consciousness of the inner depths of the body, to attune to the emotional underpinnings of bodily tensions, and to release the bound energy of old pain.

The personal themes which emerge from this work will be explored verbally in a supportive group setting and in a free movement class for the expression of deeper, non-verbal experience. There will be daily meditation practice as well as sound and visualization exercises for penetrating to the core of the body-mind, to a level of unified awareness. Through this unbroken contact with the self, participants may discover the joy, health, and spontaneity of their essential nature. This workshop will not be physically taxing; participants should have previous experience with introspective work. $575

The Intelligent Body, The Sensuous Body

Thomas Hanna

Premise: Clarity of self-awareness and clarity of body control grow together or decline together. Participants will explore how greater sensitivity to the inner self enhances the body's ability to act and to relax and how this ability in turn enhances kinesthetic awareness.

The program will introduce gentle movements and use of imagery as well as instruction in the principles of many different kinds of body work and exercise systems – particularly that of Moshe Feldenkrais. There will also be demonstrations of how new sensory information can lead to dramatic changes in posture.

Those who wish advanced knowledge in systems of body work may find the weekend profitable, as may those who have habitual aches or have difficulty relaxing.

Recommended reading: Thomas Hanna, Somatics (Addison-Wesley). $575

Touching Spirit: Dimensions of Psychic Healing™

Elizabeth Stratton

Psychic healing bridges the physical and the spiritual. Touching as a healing act has been practiced through recorded history by practitioners of the sacred as well as the secular: healers, shamans, priests, doctors, and mothers. In the past ten years, physics and modern medicine have come to an acknowledgment of the radically relational nature of our universe. Nothing and no one functions in a void.

Human emotions affect the functioning of the body, and illness is often an outgrowth of this mind-body link. Semi-dissociative states that are induced by prayer, meditation, and trance have been found to provide a fertile ground for healing to take place. It has been discovered that "multiple personalities" exhibit different states of health in each personality. The placebo effect has become one of the most respected and well-studied issues in healing today.

A psychic healer is one who can help connect the physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual levels of another person's being with healing intention through the use of touch. This workshop will explore, both didactically and experientially, the sacred and secular uses of touch, modern theories of disease formation and healing mechanisms, the use of psychic sight in healing, forgiveness as transformational cleansing, and the channeling of healing energy through the laying on of hands.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $575

Weekend of July 28–30

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

For workshop description see May 28-June 2. $295

Adventures in Self-Exploration

Stanislav Grof

The process of self-exploration in this workshop will be based theoretically and practically on observations from modern consciousness research. The method of holonomic integration, developed by Stan and Christina Grof, combines evocative music, controlled breathing, facilitative body work, and mandala drawing. It uses a model of the psyche that includes the biographical-recollective level, the dynamics of the death-rebirth process, and the spectrum of transpersonal experiences. All participants will have the opportunity to be experiencers as well as facilitators or "sitters." Special emphasis will be placed on the relevance of this work for management of transpersonal crisis. $295

The Quantum Mechanics of Everyday Life

Nick Herbert

Quantum theory, our most up-to-date description of the physical world and the conceptual basis for computer chips, lasers, and superconductors, leads us to believe that atoms and other quantum entities dwell in a bizarre state of existence quite different from the stable world of the macrocosm. On the level of everyday life, quantum effects are imperceptibly small, but what of the world of the mind?

Reviewing basic quantum reality in a non-mathematical fashion, the leader and participants will explore the hypothesis that human consciousness is a quantum effect, reinterpreting familiar experiences and seeking new ones compatible with a quantum-based model of mind. Three key concepts to be examined in this context are freedom, ambiguity, and connectedness. $295

Therapeutic Touch: Theory and Practice

Janet Quinn

Therapeutic Touch (TT) is an approach to healing which can be learned by people who have the intent to help. It is a derivative of the laying on of hands, but need not be practiced within a religious framework. It is a powerful tool for actualizing the innate healing capacities of both recipient and provider. TT has been taught to over 20,000 nurses nationally and abroad, as well as to lay people with an interest in healing.

This workshop will explore the theoretical foundations and clinical applications of Therapeutic Touch, blending didactic and experiential materials into a grounded, balanced approach. The experiential aspects will allow for the exploration of the need to care and love. The practitioner of TT embarks on a journey to empower the healer and, in the process, to be healed. The work of remembering how to care, how to connect in unconditional love, and how to heal is seen as the only hope for personal, community, and planetary survival.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $295

Week of July 30–August 4

Creating Musical Theater—and Television!

Bradley Bernstein, Didi Conn, Nancy Kaye Lunney, David Shire & Kenneth Van Sickle

Creating Musical Theater is an experiential workshop in acting, singing, performing, and production. And for those who would rather be behind the camera, this year there will be an added new dimension: video and television! The group will come together through acting exercises, singing gestalt, Spolin theater games, and script construction, leading to the creation of an entirely original show presented to the Esalen community on the final evening of the workshop. Participants will combine video with live performance to create a truly mixed-media event.

The "all-star" staff includes a stage and screen actress, an Oscar-winning composer, a cinematographer (who doubles as a t'ai chi teacher), an accomplished vocal coach/accompanist, and a multi-faceted director. They will provide a lively pace and variety of experiences at each stage of preparation and production.

During the week, both inexperienced and experienced participants will be taught the basics of improvisational acting as well as how to heighten and focus energy, enhance communication skills, and extend powers of observation and concentration. It can be an enjoyable and educational experience in self-discovery culminating in the excitement of . . . Opening Night! $575

Risking Something Different

Alan Schwartz

The purpose of this week of developmental risk-taking is to effect meaningful change in the way we perceive ourselves through a process of understanding and experiment. The understanding evolves from both learning and wanting to learn about the biology of our behavior, i.e., what we are and how we got that way. The experiment will be learning to risk the truth on physical, emotional, and conceptual levels within the support structure of the group. One result may be healing the personality of the negative conditioning processes of a lifetime. Another may be learning what it feels like to be accepted as a no-frills human being. Neo-Reichian and gestalt models will be used in this workshop for both the timid and the courageous.

Recommended reading: Alan Schwartz, Life Force – Death Force: The Structure of Human Energy and the Biology of Greed (Vantage). $575

Vipassana Week

Sylvia Boorstein

Vipassana meditation develops direct and profound awareness of the impermanent nature of all experience. It is understood that suffering results from the struggle to resist change, to hold on to pleasant experience while resisting unpleasant experience. Vipassana practice cultivates the personal equanimity which allows for balance in the midst of change while promoting the calmness and energy that lead to personal contentment and compassionate social response.

The format for this contemplative week will alternate periods of sitting and walking meditation. Participants will use methods to calm the mind and body while developing a more focused attention. There will be guided movement sessions each day, instruction, and discussion periods in which theoretical explanations of the practice will be offered. Participants will be encouraged to maintain a spirit of silence throughout the week. $575

Introduction to Craniosacral Work

Hugh Milne

This workshop will introduce the theory and practice of craniosacral work, a subtle, careful, and delicate way of working with the body. It can be used to help people with a wide variety of symptoms, from cluster headaches to thoracic outlet syndrome to peripheral ischaemia. While very powerful, this is an inherently safe approach if it is studied from both analytical and intuitive models. To this end, the class will devote an equal portion of time to academic study and to practical, hands-on experience. Emphasis will be especially placed on visual and tactile diagnosis. In China, this way is called "the art of listening." Practice of the demonstrated methods will be encouraged from day one so that a high standard of individual experience can be gained as the class unfolds.

This workshop is for health practitioners who already have an extensive background in body work. A sound, basic knowledge of cranial anatomy is a prerequisite.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $575

Hypnotic Innovations: Investigations in Living, Using Ericksonian Hypnosis

Paul Lounsbury & Nancy Winston

In the moment before a new idea unfolds, our attention becomes so fully focused that time seems to disappear. Perhaps, without quite realizing it, we forget where we are and what's around us. These spontaneous states are the stuff out of which hypnotic experience unfolds and through which unconscious possibilities take form.

In this workshop, participants will investigate the hypnotic approaches developed by Milton Erickson and the systemic principles generated from Gregory Bateson's research in communication. They will explore how unconscious processes can be mobilized to creatively disrupt limiting life patterns, to organize innovative behaviors outside the range of normal conscious controls, and to more fully optimize their current living and work situations. Structured trance experiments and discussion will support the week's work.

This workshop may be of special interest to those in the helping professions as well as managers who want to expand their frames of reference and extend their understanding of Ericksonian hypnosis and communication skills. $575

Weekend of August 4–6

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach

Patrick Douce

For workshop description see June 16-18. $295

Rubenfeld Synergy®: Healing the Mind/Body Connection

Ilana Rubenfeld

This workshop will provide an introduction to the Rubenfeld Synergy® Method, a healing system that uses gentle touch, movement, gestalt practice, creative imagination, music, and humor.

The memories and emotions stored in the body can result in energy blocks and imbalances. Through exercises designed to contact, release, transform, and balance these cellular patterns, participants can freely explore their innate healing potential. The atmosphere is one of acceptance, caring, and laughter, encouraging participants to move toward integration, empowerment, freedom, and new possibilities.

Participation in this workshop will fulfill one of the requirements for acceptance into the Rubenfeld Synergy® Training Program. $295

Introduction to Vipassana Meditation

Jamie Baraz

Vipassana (insight) meditation practice is a systematic examination of the mind/body process through calm and focused awareness. Learning to observe experience from a place of stillness enables one to relate to life without fear or clinging. One begins to accept pleasure and pain, fear and joy, with increasing equanimity and balance. Life is seen as a constantly changing process. Insight is the deepening experience of the process itself, free of interpretation, leading to wisdom and compassion.

This seminar is designed for those who have had no previous meditation experience as well as for those who wish to deepen their practice. Meditation instruction, the philosophy behind the practice, group discussions, and actual practice periods will be offered. Special emphasis will be placed on how to integrate Vipassana practice in daily life after the workshop is over.

Recommended reading: Joseph Goldstein, The Experience of Insight (Shambhala). $295

Homeopathy: Medicine for the 21st Century

Dana Ullman

Medicine in the 21st century will be both high-tech and high-touch. Homeopathic medicine synthesizes these normally disparate characteristics. It is a medical science and art that integrates ancient principles of healing with a sophisticated and systematic method of using natural drugs which stimulate the body's immune and defense systems.

TOM GALLOWAY

Ram Dass

This seminar will discuss homeopathic medicine in the light of new developments in physiology, physics, and immunology and will integrate this information with insights from Jungian psychology, systems thinking, and "energy medicine." Ecological thinking as it directly relates to the homeopathic approach to infectious disease, including AIDS, will also be discussed. Participants will be shown how to use at least 15 homeopathic medicines for common sports injuries, women's health problems, pediatric conditions, and infectious diseases. Information for further studies in homeopathy, either for personal or professional interests, will be provided.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $295

The Re-emergence of the Goddess: A New Consciousness for Women and Men

Elinor Gadon

A new consciousness is growing among women and men, an awareness of the deep connectedness and relationship of all life. The Goddess has emerged as metaphor and symbol for the transformation of contemporary culture into a truly humanistic one. A feminine consciousness valuing insight, intuition, feeling, and emotion is replacing the dominant masculine one of hierarchy, competitiveness, and aggression. Women's bodies and human sexuality are being re-sacralized in the spirit of the Great Goddess, and with this awareness comes the understanding of eros as the life force, the source of creativity and human connection.

Gaia, the Earth Goddess, has given her name to the new hypothesis which sees our planet, Earth, as a living, self-generating organism. Goddess politics are Green, the grassroots movement which stands for earth wisdom, deep ecology, economic decentralization, and non-violence. Goddess healing is holistic, acknowledging the power of the esoteric. The new spirituality is one of immanence – the Goddess within both women and men.

This workshop will explore the role and meaning of the Goddess in past cultures and living tradition, using the visual arts to identify symbols and images which have shaped personal world view. Through dialogue and ritual, participants will connect the emerging new values to their own life experiences. $295

August 5–12

A Gentle Trip in the High Sierra

Maurica Anderson & Tom Newell

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 37. $570

Week of August 6–11

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 14-19. $575

The Art of Self-Care: Who Helps the Helper? Who Heals the Healer?

Ilana Rubenfeld

The leader, who developed the Rubenfeld Synergy® Method – a dynamic synthesis of the Alexander Technique, Feldenkrais® Method, and gestalt practice – offers this week for people who want to take better care of themselves in their personal and professional lives. She will help participants get in touch with messages stored in the body to free them from patterns which no longer serve them.

Sessions include one-to-one demonstrations, movement exercises, breathing patterns, and kinesthetic awareness experiences. Through play, laughter, work, and caring touch, participants will learn to honor and heal themselves while contributing to family, friends, and clients. This workshop fulfills one of the requirements for acceptance into the Rubenfeld Synergy® Training Program. $575

Healing the Wounded Heart: The Art of Re-bonding

George Kohlrieser

From cradle to grave, life involves a changing script of "affectional bonds." These bonds are different from dependency and are essential for growth, health, and happiness. Attachment theory is a way to conceptualize the tendency of humans (and other mammals) to make strong affectional bonds with particular others, a way to explain many forms of physical, emotional, and spiritual distress, including emotional detachment, depression, and burnout. Life energy is connected to the quality and depth of emotional bonding.

This experiential workshop will focus on the patterns of forming, maintaining, breaking, and renewing affectional bonds. Methods include guided affective imagery, emotional release, group process, and bonding work to understand, create, and celebrate positive emotional attachments.

Recommended reading: James Lynch, The Language of the Heart: The Body's Response to Human Dialogue (Basic Books); John Bowlby, Attachment and Loss, Volume 3: Loss, Sadness, and Depression (Basic Books); Brother David Steindl-Rast, Gratefulness, The Heart of Prayer (Paulist Press). $575

Dancing Myths and Rituals

Anna Halprin & Jamie McHugh

Dance, in early times, was a way for people to connect with the natural world, integrate as a community, and sustain tribal values. Dance was a primary secular and sacred expression of life. There was a dance for every occasion – to honor a birth, heal the sick, bury the dead, initiate the young, bring rain, mobilize strength for a hunt or courage for a battle, or evoke a higher spirit.

Through an approach Anna Halprin calls the Life/Art Process, participants will create dances from their own lives. Such dances have the purpose of bringing about life changes and therefore might become powerful rituals. They grow from a variety of themes: relationships, life and death, healing, peace. Dance rituals are born of the heart and reveal personal and collective myths. Participants will use movement, visualization, and group interaction.

Professionals and non-professionals are welcome. Potential students for the Tamalpa Trainings may find this a valuable orientation. For information on recommended reading and video tapes, contact Tamalpa Institute, P.O. Box 794, Kentfield, CA 94914. $575

Weekend of August 11–13

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 14-19. $295

Experiencing Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

This workshop is open to anyone interested in learning to recognize, trust, and use their psi abilities. The leaders will use exercises designed to aid participants in recognizing their perceptive styles and trusting the intuitive input they normally receive. Anne Armstrong will use her tracking abilities, acquired from over twenty years in this field, to assist participants in arriving at useful, accurate data.

One of the basic objectives of the workshop is to demystify the intuitive/psychic process and encourage participants to use it in all areas of their lives – personal, professional, and spiritual. The workshop will include personal psychic scans and practice on selected cases. $295

Creative Bonding: Changing Destructive Detachment

George Kohlrieser

Recent medical and psychological research validates the idea that "no man is an island" and that bonding behavior to people, pets, places, things, and goals is central to physical, psychological, and spiritual well-being. Disruption in the bonding-grieving cycle can lead to destructive detachment, victimization, and chronic loneliness which can shorten one's life and limit the quality of genuine aliveness.

Through presentations, guided imagery, emotional release, and group process, participants may explore, reinforce, or establish new and more effective ways to keep bonding alive.

Recommended reading: James Lynch, The Language of the Heart: The Body's Response to Human Dialogue (Basic Books); John Bowlby, Attachment and Loss, Volume 3: Loss, Sadness, and Depression (Basic Books); Brother David Steindl-Rast, Gratefulness, the Heart of Prayer (Paulist Press). $295

Building a Successful Career as Writer, Public Speaker, and Consultant to Business and Industry

Ken Dychtwald

Ken Dychtwald writes: "During the past 15 years, I have made nearly every mistake in the book as I endeavored to become a successful writer, public speaker, and consultant to business and industry. However, in spite of these blunders, I have managed to become: a Ph.D. psychologist and gerontologist; an advisor to the U.S. Congress, Time Inc., CBS, American Express, Blue Shield, and ITT; a special correspondent on aging for CBS News; a nationally-syndicated newspaper columnist; a well-paid public speaker; the founder and chairman of Age Wave, Inc.; the producer of several best-selling audio and video learning programs; and the author of eight books, including BODYMIND (1977) and AGE WAVE (1989), and more than 150 articles in professional journals and popular magazines.

"In this seminar, I will share many tips and strategies that I have learned about how to avoid mistakes and achieve some measure of inner and outer success and satisfaction in the writing, public speaking, and business consulting fields. Topics will include: the best way to get an article or book published and what to expect from the process; short-cuts to developing a rewarding career as a public speaker or consultant; methods for gaining access to broadcast media; strategies for effective self-promotion; tips for building a leveraged business around your energy and ideas."

(Note: The leader is donating his fee to the Esalen scholarship fund. Bring a friend!) $295

Week of August 13–18

A Week with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

For workshop description see April 30-May 5. $575

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

For workshop description see May 28-June 2. $575

Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

For workshop description see July 21-23. $575

T'ai Chi Ch'uan: An East/West Approach

Kenn Chase

This seminar will present a demonstration form of t'ai chi ch'uan, a shortened version derived from the classical Yang style, which contains 54 balanced, fluid, and graceful postures. Also included will be mind/body alignment methods, Chi Kung Taoist breathing methods, and hours of practice and refinement of the traditional t'ai chi movements. Practiced 5 to 10 minutes daily, this gentle martial art can calm the mind and aid the student in achieving a centered perspective for daily living in a busy world.

Recommended reading: Cheng Man Ch'ing, Cheng Tzu's Thirteen Treatises on T'ai Chi Ch'uan (North Atlantic Books). $575

Completion

Will Schutz

Incomplete actions, be they personal or social, result in many of humankind's troubles: emotional – replaying early stuck relations; physical – chronic tension from unfinished actions; health – blood poisoning from uneliminated waste products; aging – caused by incomplete events; ecology – waste disposal problems, especially nuclear; spiritual – karma, unfinished business; education – Montessori's insistence on putting toys away; sports – the concept of the killer instinct.

What are the resistances to completion? What must happen to a self-concept to propel it toward completing cycles? These and other questions will be explored via the following concepts: theory of energy cycles, life history completion, health through imagery. $575

Weekend of August 18–20

Weekend Massage Intensive

Brita Ostrom & Dean Marson

For workshop description see May 5-7. $295

Human Potential: Theory and Practice

John Heider

This workshop will consist of a synthesis of group process, gestalt, body work, and meditation. The purpose is to develop and educate the human potential, which refers to the ability people have to become more aware or conscious of themselves and of the world around them. While the workshop will be mostly experiential, there will be time for questions and answers and for discussion of the work. $295

Life's Two Beats

Robert Nadeau

Robert Nadeau writes: "To create the Universe two forces were necessary. They could be termed universal male and female, both different but equally beneficial and necessary. The problem enters in when we, being in the middle of these forces or movements, desire one and fear or distrust the other, thus creating an imbalance. For example, a female fearing power (thinking she'll wreak havoc if she allows it) or a male fearful of letting go or giving up (to the point of non-functioning or not accomplishing) are two misunderstandings of these forces.

"This workshop may help participants experience how these forces work and how to increase their level of harmony within. There will be simple body movement. Wear loose clothing." $295

Creative Writing Brainstorming

Herbert Gold

From feeling to expression to communication, this workshop will carry participants into the possibilities of making literature. Exploring an experience different for everyone, yet shared by all, they will probe for the riches within.

Participants should bring typewriter, word processor, pen, soft pencil, or clay tablets and stylus to the meetings. A situation will be called forth – love, death, ambition, pride, fear, hatred, jealousy – and after preparation in the discussion, participants will write. Then they will read and rewrite each other's work. They may expect to go from truth to lying: from recollection to art.

What may develop is a sense of style and control as a part of the mastery of experience. Participants will practice the freedom of imagination by giving shape to it. $295

Fun with the Violin: For Adults Who Always Wanted to Play a Musical Instrument and Never Have

Diane Egli

For the adult who would like to play a musical instrument, but never had lessons as a child, or who used to play, but hasn't since childhood, this workshop could be just the opportunity to learn to play the violin – and have fun doing it. This will be a time for participants to increase their awareness of how it feels to learn a new skill – the challenge, the excitement, the frustration, and the success of accomplishment. Included in the workshop will be various activities to enhance violin playing, such as movement, music, and rhythm exercises. Participants are asked to bring a tape recorder and tapes.

Recommended reading: Shinichi Suzuki, Nurtured by Love (Banner); John Holt, Never Too Late (Pinchpenny Press).

$295 (plus $10 violin rental fee paid directly to the leader)

Week of August 20–25

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Robert Helm & Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see June 11-16. $575

Human Potential: Theory and Practice

John Heider

For workshop description see August 18-20. $575

Introduction to Continuum

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud writes: "A human being can be seen as a living process of many activities: neuro-electrical-chemical-muscular, feeling, thinking, remembering, dreaming, and much more than we'll ever know. We sweepingly refer to all of this as 'My Life.' These activities can also be described as movements. What we call a 'body' can be seen as movements that flow, combine, and stabilize into 'muscle' or 'spine' or 'eyes.' I see movement as what we are rather than as something we do.

"Our time together will be to enhance our sensitivity to movement, whether we're experiencing it as moving 'muscle' or moving 'thoughts,' whether we're involved in the softness of a breath or the play of language, whether we're meandering through skin or feeling the wonder of meaningfulness as it shapes and colors the moment. For me, 'life' and movement are one." $575

Following the Thread, Revealing the Fabric

David Silverstein & Joyce Lyke

Many people go through life either ignoring, judging, or rejecting their inner experiences rather than allowing them to exist and unfold. Such conditioning can lead to a numbing of awareness or detachment from others. However, by attending to whatever is emerging in the moment, one can follow the thread of inner experience, unraveling life's conditioning to reveal that which is most essential, the fabric of one's Being.

This workshop will combine meditation, breath exercises, sound, massage, movement, and ritual for a week of inquiry. Through awareness practice, participants can work or play with whatever emerges. They will be invited to explore a range of possibilities, from emotional experiences to more subtle states of awareness.

Recommended reading: A.H. Almaas, Essence (Weiser) and The Diamond Heart (Diamond Books). $575

Chakra Psychology

Nancy Rosanoff

This course is designed for health professionals who want to incorporate a practical understanding of the chakra energy system in their work. This subtle system will be introduced, with the focus on useful ways the chakras can be applied to self-understanding and self-development.

Chakras are points where energy is assimilated into the whole system of body, mind, and spirit. Through the chakras it is possible to integrate and heal various aspects of the self and experience the spectrum of energy from spirit to physical reality. Working with the chakras is a step toward a spiritual psychology in which the unfolding of the self and one's life is understood as part of a greater whole.

Participants will explore how the chakras can be used to deepen their understanding of self-esteem, self-healing, past lives, behavior patterns, personal energy management, relationship patterns, goal-setting, their purpose in life, and more. $575

Weekend of August 25–27

A Workshop for Couples with David Schiffman

This workshop will focus on reawakening and developing positive, mutual supports that are at the root of satisfying couple relationships. The emphasis will be on creating clear and truthful expressions of loving and personal integrity. Participants will re-examine their beliefs and habits through the use of intuitional sensing, risk-taking structures, guided imagery, and gestalt awareness methods.

$295 per participant

Transitions

Elliot Waker Aronson
& Gabriele Hilberg-Thomson

Disorganization is a natural part of transition and facilitates reorganization. People are almost constantly in a state of transition—whether it be getting married, beginning a new career, becoming a parent, letting go of a relationship, or moving on to the next stage in the life cycle. These changes can be exciting and, at the same time, can evoke a loss of internal balance. The result can be loss of self-esteem, confusion about one's identity, and doubts about one's perceptions. New feelings and ideas are fragile during these periods of transition and require special nurturance.

The goal of this workshop is to gain perspective on the process of making transitions. Through guided fantasies, self-exploration, and didactic presentations, participants may develop ways of enhancing their understanding of themselves and increasing their overall effectiveness.

Recommended reading: Elliot Waker Aronson, The Social Animal (Freeman). $295

American Ritual Theater Lab

Gabrielle Roth

American—Rooted in a contemporary, vigorous, cathartic form of ecstatic dance, this work was created in the 4/4 beat of a modern, industrial society. Although the knowledge is ancient and the quest eternal, the work is "now."

Ritual—This work focuses the participants' attention on the essential processes of their development, sacred teachers, rites of passage, psychic wounds and blessings. Set to an urban-primitive pulse, the sessions dramatize the true meaning of being a tribal individual.

Theater—This is root theater, funky and ceremonial, searing and lighthearted. Its purpose is to catalyze and train the "holy actor" to develop the witness position that allows distance from one's ego and the characters it creates in the theater of one's life.

Lab—The workshop is an experiment, a shamanic context for personal research to enable each participant to break through the bonds of ego to the stillpoint of an ever-changing self. $295

Psychic Vision and the Creative Experience

Nancy Azara

This workshop is for those who want to know and expand their psychic visions and explore the magical power and healing properties inherent in artmaking. Using meditation and other exercises, participants will have the opportunity to open creative channels to find their visual language, bring vivid images to consciousness, and draw these experiences. They will focus on light and color through their bodies, practice reading auras, and experience the laying on of hands. These exercises allow individuals to discover their own creative healing symbols, ease energy blocks, look at hidden parts of themselves (including important emotional issues), identify and clarify important influences in their lives and, finally, move toward more fully owning their personal power.

Participants are asked to bring whatever they like of the following: acrylic or watercolor paint, collage materials, pastels, oil crayons, scissors, glue, and about 25 sheets or the equivalent in pads of good quality drawing paper (no newsprint). Size 11"×14" is ideal.

$295

Week of August 27–September 1

Five Days with Janet Zuckerman

For workshop description see June 25-30.

$575

TOM GALLOWAY

Arnold Mindell

Mirrors

Gabrielle Roth

I never dreamed of being Shakespeare or Goethe, and I never expected to hold the great mirror of truth up before the world; I dreamed only of being a little pocket mirror, . . . one that reflects small blemishes, and some great beauties, when held close enough to the heart. —Peter Altenberg

This ritual theater lab, a marriage of art and healing, is a way to "know thyself" in intense, honest, creative explorations of the psyche, its patterns, cycles, and movements. The theater and dance processes developed by the leader encourage participants to probe their own life experiences and to share and dramatize their insights in movement and performance. $575

Living Meditations

Judith Weaver

Meditation can be an important contribution to our daily lives, especially if it enhances understanding of our feelings, actions, and their options. In everything we do we have choices, but do we recognize them? We can perform the same activity in a stressful or a relaxed manner, wastefully or economically. We can hold on tightly or let go. We can have fun or suffer. The more in touch we are with our feelings and abilities, the more options are available to us.

This workshop will focus on rediscovering awareness of self—mentally, physically, and spiritually—to develop and integrate as many options as possible. It is through this awareness that one has the choice of how to live. The week will be a blending of active meditations to help move toward this awareness. Participants will work with deep sensing of their organisms, with gentle breathing methods for stress reduction, t'ai chi ch'uan for relaxed exercise, gestalt, movement, massage, and other living meditations. These explorations can lead to a sense of centered grounding and balance with which to develop and enhance an economic, energetic, pleasurable, and effective life. $575

Imagination as Healer

Jeanne Achterberg, Frank Laulis & Michael Samuels

This workshop is for health care professionals who include imagery/visualization in their practices and for health consumers who have integrated mental imagery of some form into their healing repertoire. The focus will be the reintegration of potent visionary processes into their rightful fold: the nurturance of life and all that implies for health and emotional well-being.

The presenters have stradled the worlds of science and healing for over a decade and have emerged with a new dimension in health. During this week they will offer their findings, provide tools for empowering the psyche, and serve as resource persons. Their expertise includes work with cancer, heart disease, immune and autoimmune conditions, AIDS, general stress disorders, and other chronic, disabling conditions.

Case studies will be shared, offering enlightenment that comes from persons who are examining their lives in the face of grave crises. The attendees will be guided through typical visualization and imagery exercises. Attendance is limited.

Recommended reading: Jeanne Achterberg, Imagery in Healing: Shamanism and Modern Medicine (Shambhala); Michael and Nancy Samuels, Seeing with the Mind's Eye (Random House).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $575

Weekend of September 1–3

After Summer Renewal at Esalen

Are you feeling tired and jaded from the summer doldrums? Are you ready for a change of pace from the usual hot dogs and beer of Labor Day weekend? Esalen offers a departure from the traditional celebration and suggests this weekend as a way for people to renew themselves in a tranquil and beautiful setting. It will not be a structured program, although several ongoing classes in the various practices offered here will be available for guests to choose from. These may include: sessions in gestalt, movement, meditation, massage, day hikes, singing gestalt, aerobics, stretching, and yoga. The swimming pool and natural hot baths will be available as usual.

The food will be specially prepared, with an emphasis on a healthy diet of fresh vegetables and grains. Much of the produce is picked daily from Esalen's own organic garden and farm.

Come and enjoy a weekend of reflection, physical movement, and relaxation while the rest of the country is stuck in traffic. $275

Week of September 3–8

Intermediate Massage Workshop

Deborah Anne Medow & Vicki Topp

This workshop is designed for those who already have some experience in massage and wish to improve their skills, enhance their sensitivity and awareness, and learn new massage methods. It will include individual instruction and supervision as well as illustrated lectures, demonstrations, and hands-on practice. Movement sessions, yoga, and a beach walk or mountain hike may be included.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $575

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Beliefs, fears, and emotions from the past can continue into present relationships and interfere with spontaneous feelings of trust, love, and joy. The goal of this workshop is to experience and let go of these defenses and create new ways to relate—in the moment—to ourselves, to our work, and to those we love.

The workshop includes periods of intense body work for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which are reflected in the body as armor and tension. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released, and positive feelings can be experienced more fully. By also using dream work, massage, dance, and group process, a new capacity for loving can emerge. $575

The Discipline of Harmony: Warrior Virtues Without War

Richard Strozzi Heckler

This seminar will examine the notions of aggression, initiation rites, courage, and risk-taking in the context of the warrior ideal. Does the discipline of harmony mean the taming of aggression? To live in peace do we also need to accept and understand violence? Is it possible to distinguish the warrior from war? Can the warrior virtues of courage, commitment, clarity, generosity, service, and skillful action be invoked without the catalyst of hostile fire?

These questions will be the starting point for a five-day workshop conducted in the warrior spirit of "life at stake." Exercises taken from aikido, along with introspection, sharing, and guided meditations, will allow participants to experience the possibilities of embodying warrior virtues without war.

Recommended reading: Richard Strozzi Heckler, The Anatomy of Change (Shambhala) and, editor, Aikido and the New Warrior (North Atlantic Books); J. Glenn Gray, The Warriors (Harper & Row). $575

September 3–10

Painting Experience with Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

For workshop description see July 7-14.

$870 (plus $30 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Weekend of September 8–10

A Gestalt Weekend

Lois Brien

This is an introductory workshop on the gestalt approach to personal development, focusing on (as Claudio Naranjo has said) the wakeful moment. The aim for participants will be to come into as full awareness as possible of their own existence so that they can experience their lives rather than fantasize about them. $295

Metamorphosis: A Trialogue

Rupert Sheldrake, Ralph Abraham & Terence McKenna

This experimental weekend will bring together three innovative thinkers: Rupert Sheldrake, biologist and controversial author of A New Science of Life and The Presence of the Past: Morphic Resonance and the Habits of Nature; Ralph

Abraham, mathematician and expert in chaos theory; and Terence McKenna, psychoactivist and author of True Hallucinations and Timewave Zero. They will share their viewpoints and perspectives on the intellectual revolution taking place in theoretical biology, the modeling of chaos, and the boundary of the mind/language interphase.

This event will be the culmination of a series of dialogues on the state of play in the only game in town: the entry of the human family into cultural hyperspace. Join them on an intellectual odyssey in search of guiding images for a truly human future. $295

Week of September 10–15

A Week with Seymour Carter

For workshop description see April 30-May 5. $575

Reclaiming Lost Passion: Powers of the Poetic Imagination

David Whyte

At critical points in their lives, many people feel that if only they had access to what is most precious, creative, and passionate in themselves, the next practical steps to take would be clear. In that sense, the task of poetry and the poetic imagination is to uncover that which is hidden or disowned, to shed new light on what is known and, just as importantly, to teach a way of living with the unknown and to understand its key place in the true life of feeling.

Participants in this workshop will work with the radical inner and outer journeys to the center of that creativity and power. Through the great poets and their poetry, through story, silence, time alone in the magnificent surroundings of Big Sur, and the willingness to look at their lives afresh, they will attempt to experience that center and the wisdom that springs from it. Writing ability or previous appreciation of poetry is helpful, but not in the least bit necessary. $575

Personal Mythology

Stanley Krippner & David Feinstein

Personal myths are the deep forces of the psyche that shape who we are, what we think, and what we do. Operating largely outside of conscious awareness, our personal myths nonetheless shape our journey through life, our place in society, and our relationship to the broader or spiritual context of existence.

Participants will be shown how to reach deeply into realms of unconscious mythological wisdom and speak to the need to find the visions that nourish and inspire. Drawing upon a range of systems, including Jungian psychology, gestalt, psychosynthesis, and cognitive psychology, the leaders will lead participants through a sequence of experiences that can rework a problematic area of personal mythology. These experiences can be used again later to identify and work with other personal myths. Participants are asked to bring a notebook or journal and are encouraged to record their dreams prior to the workshop.

Recommended reading: Feinstein and Krippner, Personal Mythology (Tarcher). $575

The Life Energy Process℠

Stephano Sabetti

The Life Energy Process workshop is a spiritually-oriented approach to body work and lifestyle which allows individuals direct contact with the spiritual self through energy vibrations. This method is facilitated by specific intensive and subtle movements, which participants may find open them to their own healing abilities, allowing them to release unfinished emotions, radiational and chemical toxins, and psychological disturbances. From that point of greater clarity, they may move to the next step in their personal development. Participants continue this energy work physically and verbally through process inquiry and dialogue with the leader as they examine the superficial trace problems of their everyday lives and explore their deeper energy disturbances through energy patterning.

Energetic forms of massage, dance, and theater may be included in this process. Some of the work will be individual, some will be hands-on with partners. The workshop may be of particular interest to professionals and laypersons alike who are excited by the integration of Eastern and Western methods with the new physics for personal, social, and organizational evolution.

Recommended reading: Stephano Sabetti, The Wholeness Principle; Manifestations of Energy; and Shinkido Massage (available from Life Energy Media, 14755 Ventura Blvd., Ste. 1908, Sherman Oaks, CA 91403; [213] 874-7100). $575

September 10–23

Path of the River: A Grand Canyon Journey

Steven Harper, Wendy Palmer, Bob Melville & Arizona Raft Adventures Staff (AZRA)

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 37. $1690

Weekend of September 15–17

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman

For workshop description see June 2-4. $295

Zero Balancing: Advanced Workshop

Fritz Smith

This workshop is open only to people who have completed at least one introductory Zero Balancing program. After reviewing basic concepts, the leader will answer specific questions and give individual instruction as needed. New work will include: direct perception and assessment of energy currents in the body; refinement of evaluating and balancing the foundation joints; and discussion of nonfoundation joints, including the small joints of the body. Theory will be clarified by demonstration and through individual practice, with participants using each other as models.

Recommended reading: Frederick Smith, Inner Bridges (Humanics Ltd.).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $295

Inner Sound and Voice

Jill Purce

This is a workshop of practical explorations with sound for healing and the transformation of consciousness. By liberating the voice, it is possible to make contact with deep levels of the Self and release an untapped source of energy.

Participants will work with the psycho-physical effects of breathing, chanting, mantric and sonic meditations, learning to tune and listen together, moving from the intuitive level into meditative states. Breath and sound will be developed so that different parts of the body-mind come into resonance, to give sonic massage, and to heal and tune the chakras and subtle body. Participants will be taught ways to find their own note and hear inner sound, entering directly into the subtle dimensions of sound by the magical voice practices of traditional cultures including trance music, Mongolian and Tibetan overtone chanting, and other methods. $295

The Yoga of Business

Tama Starr

Many people confront the same worldly dilemma: how to optimize success without betraying their ideals. This workshop suggests that, in a holistic universe, the same principles apply to walking the canyons of Wall Street as climbing the peaks of the Himalayas. Participants – whether artists, business professionals, blue or white collar workers – will see how to apply the tenets of yoga, t'ai chi, and gestalt to the workplace.

Themes to be explored include: the nature of Maya (business, wealth, and the American Dream); game theory (the win-win situation); success (how to deal with failure); the art of war (Krishna, Sun Tsu, Musashi, Machiavelli, Muhammad Ali); strategies and tactics (the art of survival). Practical studies and exercises will include: elementary mind-reading; "invisible yoga"; the use of myth and magic; methods of leadership (managing others through managing yourself); the uses of stress and conflict; developing "the path with heart."

Participants will emerge with usable tools for building a more fulfilling future. $295

Week of September 17–22

Sports Massage

David Streeter & Arthur Munver

This introductory workshop, designed for the established massage practitioner or serious student, will present many aspects of contemporary sports massage. Subjects to be covered include deep transverse friction, training massage, anatomy, muscle origin and insertion points, injury care and evaluation, and body dynamics (efficient use of the practitioner's body and preventing fatigue). Participants will be introduced to neuro-muscular methodology, which, until the advent of sports massage, had been limited to osteopathic medicine.

Sports massage is currently revolutionizing mainstream therapeutic massage and offers new and powerful tools to the health care practitioner.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $575

A Look Within

Jessica Moore Britt

This will be a week for participants to attend to and explore themselves away from their usual busy lives. As they settle into the grandeur of Big Sur and the quiet within, they can begin to penetrate through their conditioned views of themselves and the world.

The point of inquiry will be the relationship of the mind, body, and emotions and the essential nature of the self. Participants will focus on understanding who and what they are, especially as beings of compassion, strength, will, power, joy, and presence. They will explore how their past conditioning and present beliefs block their awareness of these qualities in themselves. The tools for self-discovery will be an interplay of Eastern and Western practices, including Sufi self-remembering exercises, meditation, touch, movement, and Reichian/gestalt work. This time, dedicated to being present and looking within, holds the possibility for participants to open their perceptions so they might obtain a deeper appreciation for who they are. $575

Dream Discovery

Joyce Frazee

A dream that is not understood is like a letter that is not opened. –The Talmud

This workshop will explore what is required to open one's dream and to open to the dreamer in oneself. The dream that seems so real, so tangible, is really a miracle of metaphor and disguised insight. It is a gift from the self. The opening to these insights and understandings can be taught and, once learned, allows the dreamer to draw nourishment and encouragement from the unconscious. Even the most frightening dreams may have gifts waiting to be learned.

Dreams are frequently forgotten, especially if one does not know how to draw value from them. Since many people forget dreams, exercises in dream recall will be offered in this workshop. Participants will be encouraged to keep dream journals, through which they may discover that dreams come in series, presenting and exploring a continuing theme. The group will work with feelings using gestalt and bioenergetics. Participants will draw dream mandalas and explore how to use them for insight and healing. Methods of dream control and lucid dreaming will be discussed. $575

Action Theater

Ruth Zaporah

The body/mind is capable of experiencing "un-nameable" states, states that connect us to our spirit ancestry, states that connect us to the earth. However, thoughts frequently undermine this phenomenon by naming, identifying, classifying, and conceptualizing. Action Theater is a training process that trusts the body as teacher. It opens channels for listening to and expressing information that the body/mind offers. This improvisational theater form moves the performer beyond personality and toward spokesperson and archetype.

Through the Action Theater process, participants create physical imagery and text from personal resources. The workshop addresses areas of performance such as: awareness of the body and its movement possibilities; development of a strong and viable voice; personal and imaginative use of language; interconnections between body, voice, and language; accessing material usually below the normal threshold of awareness; formal elements of composition; the mind of collaboration and ensemble.

Within each session there will be a physical and vocal warm-up, individual, small group, and ensemble explorations, and solo or collaborative presentations. $575

Weekend of September 22–24

A Weekend with David Schiffman

The purpose of this workshop is for participants to create a more positive and open-ended self-concept. Through structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role-playing, fantasy, and group process methods, they can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis is on searching out unique personality strengths, individual capacities, and latent powers as a means of achieving productive functioning. $295

Colliding and Emerging Myths

Brother David Steindl-Rast

Some people contend that the myths of the past have no more life for us, while new myths have yet to emerge. There may be some truth to this assessment, and yet the subconscious still resonates with the great themes of mythology as it gropes for its own mythic expression. All this has much to do with the love-hate relationship many people experience with their religious heritage.

By combining perspectives from anthropology and Christian spirituality, Brother David will try to help participants find what Joseph Campbell called "myths to live by." $295

Psychoneuroimmunology and its Implications

George Freeman Solomon & Margaret Kemeny

The rapidly developing field of psychoneuroimmunology (PNI) is concerned with the nature of complex bidirectional interactions between the central nervous system (CNS) and the immune system and their clinical and bioregulatory implications. The CNS mediates stress effects, coping, emotions, and other psychological processes that, via the immune system, affect the onset and course of many diseases.

This didactic but interactive course will describe the immune system, how it works and is regulated. The leaders will discuss human and animal research on the effects of stress and other experiential factors on immunity and on immunologically-resisted and mediated diseases, including bacterial and viral infections, cancer, autoimmune diseases, allergies, and AIDS. The as-yet poorly researched area of the impact of interventions, including psychotherapy, on immunity and disease will be discussed. Implications of PNI for understanding traditional and alternative healing systems and placebo effects will be explored. There will be ample opportunity for questions.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $295

Week of September 24–29

Playing the Edge

David Schiffman

For workshop description see June 25-30. $575

Living by Myths

Brother David Steindl-Rast

Brother David writes: "Myths speak with a soft voice. You have to listen with your heart. It helps to be in an environment such as Big Sur's that cradles and stills body and mind; it helps to have time. A week-long allows for good stretches of quiet time.

"Each day, we shall take one of the great myths – such as the story of Orpheus and Euridice or that of Eros and Psyche – and expose ourselves to its magic power. We shall listen to its echoes in Christian spirituality, wrestle, if necessary, with its implications, entrust ourselves to its guidance. Some may do this for the sheer joy of it. For others, the confrontation with myth may become a personal rite of passage. For all participants this week is meant to be a celebration of the beauty, goodness, and truth mirrored in myth." $575

September 24–October 1

A Somatics Study Program for Health Professionals

Faculty: Judith Aston, Charles Brooks & Charlotte Selver, Leonard & Bonnie Bainbridge Cohen, Emilie Conrad-Da'oud, Robert Hall & Don Johnson (coordinator)

This seminar is the first of seven in a two-year program (September 1989-May 1991). For more information see Special Programs, pages 32-33. $870

Weekend of September 29–October 1

Weekend Massage Intensive

Laurie Lioness Parizek & Attila Vaas

For workshop information see May 5-7. $295

The Eide Workshop

Akhter Ahsen

This imagery workshop is directed toward an extraordinary glimpse into new possibilities in the human mind. The Greeks pointed out a special type of image, which they called "the eide," in the psyche. They exalted eides as "friends of the Gods," citing their capacities to heal, illumine, enlighten, and transform. This image was later on named "the eidetic" in the field of psychology and became the object of experimental and clinical probes. Akhter Ahsen has continued t's research, developing methodologies that tap and harness this core of imagery phenomena. The eide workshop draws upon a wonderful flexibility in the center of the mind, is thoroughly practical in its orientation, and provides simple demonstrations which the participants can take home and practice. $295

Our Many Selves

James Fadiman

It is possible to gain a clearer understanding of the many selves who dance within, clamoring for attention and release. This weekend offers the opportunity for participants to better understand their situations, acknowledge their varied selves, and work toward personal harmony without denial, repression, ego inflation, or shame.

To know oneself is not difficult, yet it demands careful, observant work. This workshop will open with wisdom stories to ease participants' way into that sometimes disturbing realm. They will find support in a unified theory which accommodates the different positions of Jung, psychosynthesis, Buddha, Skinner, and shamans, and which will help them reevaluate the actual goals of therapy. $295

Week of October 1–6

Caretakers of Wonder: The Accuracy of Aesthetic Insight

Mel Bucholtz

An awareness of beauty, wonder, and enchantment restores purpose and direction for the creation of a meaningful life. It also addresses and helps resolve problematic and distressing issues in one's life.

This workshop will: 1) introduce participants to an experience of wonder as the animating element in life; and 2) offer ways in which one shepherds wonder into the world. Accepting the notion that it has been placed in their trust, each trustee, or caretaker, then ushers wonder into the world.

With such learnings, we re-inherit our sensibilities and are vitalized by the new meaning they bring to awareness. The quality of attention which unfolds is that of enriched being, animating all the communities that sustain and create life. $575

Self-Acceptance Training

Richard Olney & Mari Krieger

Self-acceptance training is a transpersonal practice that follows an educational model rather than a medical model. It is defined as "the experiencing of whatever I am in a given moment, without the inhibitions of self-judgment, self-criticism, or self-evaluation." The goal of this work is to reach the inner self, the inner teacher, and to feel alive and real. Although its practice includes devices drawn from gestalt, bioenergetics, mythic fantasy, eidetic imagery, and hypnosis, it is also a philosophy, a value system, and a view of the individual's relationship with the universe.

Self-acceptance training is a holistic approach which emphasizes body work and body awareness, emotional charge and discharge, as well as a cognitive examination of the individual's "pretends" and illusions that obstruct self-acceptance. $575

Golf in the Kingdom . . . an exploration of the inner game

Stephen Cohen, Fred Shoemaker & John Allen

You'll come away from the links with a new hold on life, that is certain if you play the game with all your heart. – Michael Murphy, (Shivas Irons) Golf in the Kingdom

The game of golf provides many opportunities to enhance the journey of self-discovery. It may be experienced not simply as an athletic endeavor, but also as a metaphor for the way one lives. Just as in life, issues of self-confidence, fear, trust, discipline, and awareness emerge in the conflict between the ego's desire for success and the inner self's ability to achieve.

In these five days, teaching methods gleaned from a study of the inner game will be utilized, as well as principles from psychosynthesis and gestalt, to explore the inner self and how one interferes with its emergence. Two of the days will be spent on field trips to the Monterey Peninsula where participants will practice and play in some of the most beautiful golf country in the world. On other days there will be time to relax and enjoy the natural pleasures of Esalen and Big Sur.

Recommended reading: Michael Murphy, Golf in the Kingdom (Dell); Timothy Gallwey, The Inner Game of Golf (Random House).

$575 (plus green fees paid directly to the leaders)

The Creative Body and Self

Daria Halprin-Khalighi

There are basic themes which follow us, like shadows, throughout our lives. They shape body, emotion, and thought, and affect our relationships and the choices we make. They can take unexpected turns, assume different forms, or result in changed life situations as we mature. If we look closely at our lives, however, we can recognize a thread of continuity in these personal themes. This thread includes those patterns which are experienced as roadblocks in the maturation process, inhibiting creativity, understanding, and the ability to enjoy life. Becoming aware of these themes may help unlock the door to deep inner resources, allowing for greater presence, connection, and creative expression.

Participants in this workshop will explore their personal life themes by listening to the messages and looking at the images of the body as the source of their "life script." Movement, drawing, and writing will be the modalities for expanding the creative self and tapping its wealth of information and wisdom.

Participants are asked to bring a box of craypas pastels, a medium- to large-size newsprint drawing pad, and a writing tablet. $575

The Long Body

William George Roll

To the Iroquois Indians, the lived body is the "long body" and the long body is the tribal body. The long body incorporates people and things individuals are emotionally close to, though they may be distant in time and space and though they may no longer exist in the usual way. The long body is the experienced realm of personal and transpersonal memory and contains the ingredients for psychic awareness, prophecy, and pre-cognition. Since the long body is a remembered body, memory defines both its reach and its limitations. By extending the range of memory, one can extend the reach of the long body into the past and future and across distance. When we remember, we connect with members of our long body and incorporate them into the present.

In this workshop, group members will explore the long body as metaphor for psychical interactions, healing, and growth, and the memory as an access to long body awareness. Practice sessions will be grounded in research findings in biology, psychology, and the transpersonal dimensions of parapsychological (psi) processes. Through sound and movement, psi sensing of persons and objects, psychic readings, and psychic healing, participants may experience themselves as members of a living, sensuous being that includes the physical universe and extends beyond birth and death. From there, a fresh, joyful, and healing consciousness of the world can unfold.

This tradition pays respect to the tribal visions of the planet. It is not contrary to Western ideology, but it can expand the Western perspective beyond the moribund technology that threatens the world. $575

Weekend of October 6–8

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

For workshop description see June 11-16. $295

Screenplay Structure

Syd Field

The Screenplay Structure workshop is designed to sharpen the skills of both the novice and experienced screenwriter. It includes methods for preparation and execution of screenwriting through the analysis of screenplay form, examination of the three-part dramatic paradigm, contemporary screenplay readings, exercises, and group discussion. By the end of the workshop, participants will be able to take any three-sentence idea and structure it into a dramatic narrative. This is a working session! Bring notebooks and pens. $295

What is Self?

Bernadette Roberts

In this workshop, Bernadette Roberts will present her insights into the question of self. She writes: "As long as we are living it, or are it, we cannot know the true nature of self. This disclosure can only be known when self falls away and becomes known by its absence or 'what was.' As it turns out, the knowing-feeling self is both an unconscious function of the mind and the profound experience of life and being. Together these give rise to every experience we call self or consciousness.

"Viewing human existence as a passage through consciousness, this workshop will explore the major milestones of the journey, with particular emphasis on the difference between the falling away of the ego-self and the much later falling away of the true self or the unitive, transcendental self. The criteria and validation for these milestones will be viewed in the light and experiences of Christ and Buddha, who manifested and articulated the journey for all who would come after." $295

Week of October 8–13

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

For workshop description see June 11-16. $575

Childhood Sexual Abuse: A Healing

Jessica Moore Britt

For workshop description see May 14-19. $575

Sculpture: Inner and Outer Visions

Rachael Dutton

For workshop description see June 11-16. $575

The Nature of Movement: Aikido and Wilderness

Steven Harper & Wendy Palmer

In this week-long workshop, participants will work indoors with energy awareness and principles derived from aikido, and outdoors on short day-hikes into Big Sur's backcountry to explore the movement that nature inspires. Both aikido and hiking are moving meditations which, when done well, require the individual to be in harmony with the natural world. There will be an opportunity to take what is learned on the aikido mat out into the natural world and bring what is learned from nature onto the aikido mat. Participants can then begin to integrate what they learn from aikido and from nature into their lives.

All evenings and most meals will be at Esalen. Participants need not have previous experience in aikido or hiking. $575

Death and Resurrection

Paul Rebillot

In some ways, we are all dying. To acknowledge, honor, and work with that opens us to a fuller life, for by looking at one's life as if it were coming to a close, it is possible to see more clearly what is of value and what is not.

In that spirit, this workshop offers the opportunity to confront, rather than avoid, death. On a wider scale, it explores ways to move creatively through life's many transitions, letting go of the old and welcoming the new. Participants will review their lives, completing unfinished business, and practice giving up attachments to persons, things, and self-images until, surrendering all to the ultimate unknown, they are able to experience the birth of the truly new.

Stanford Eugene Cates, who was Paul Rebillot's co-leader for this workshop for many years, died on September 19, 1988. This workshop is dedicated to his memory. $575

Weekend of October 13–15

A Weekend with Paul Rebillot

Paul Rebillot writes: "Within each of us there lives a demon – our own personal critic – whose greatest joy comes from criticizing, denigrating, and destroying every experience we have. We're either too early or too late, too old or too young, too fat or too thin, and when we fall in love, we're never good enough. This demon, who commands us to be who we aren't in order to satisfy someone we can never satisfy, is the demon that we will seek to exorcise during this workshop.

"Why not take the chance of looking inside ourselves and finding the completeness of who we are, instead of limiting ourselves with who we think we should be and who we hope we are not? When we find the truth about ourselves, our natural response is to want and to work for the best that we can be.

"People in the helping professions who have experienced this form have found it adaptable and useful in their own work." $295

The Mythic Image: A Performance Piece

Phil Cousineau, David Darling, John Densmore & Eric Lawton

Sacred stories reflect only one aspect of the mythic traditions of the world. Of equal importance and fascination is the non-verbal image, the mandalas or holy images used for deep contemplation. Their origins can be found in nature and the human imagination and through them we can approach the convergence of myth, dream, and art.

This live performance workshop will blend the oral tradition of storytelling with the silent stories of pictures and the narrative movement of improvisational music. Each session will be highlighted by the telling of tales by Phil Cousineau, co-writer of The Hero's Journey: The World of Joseph Campbell; a slide show by award-winning photographer Eric Lawton, using images from Ireland to India; and the synchronized music of David Darling, master cellist, and John Densmore, the drummer for The Doors. The themes will include myths of origins, myth and the body, myth and art, myth and ritual, and sacred lands.

Recommended reading: Joseph Campbell, The Mythic Image (Princeton). $295

Children and Anger: A Gestalt View

Violet Oaklander

The theme of this workshop is the anger of children and how parents, teachers, and therapists can help them express this least tolerated and most misunderstood emotion in healthy ways. Participants will discuss the various ways that young people express anger, the relationship of anger to negative introjects and self-esteem, and how to help children express angry feelings in healthy, safe, and satisfying ways.

This approach is based on the use of creative, expressive, and projective methods, with gestalt theory and practice as the underlying framework. The thrust of this work is to provide the child with a means for expressing his or her innermost feelings, to foster self-awareness and self-discovery, to enhance self-esteem and, in general, to promote emotional growth. Children thereby learn not only about themselves, but about their relationship to others and the world around them.

The workshop will include discussion, demonstration, examples of children's work and, particularly, direct experience of expressive methods used with children.

Recommended reading: Violet Oaklander, Windows to Our Children (The Gestalt Journal, P.O. Box 990, Highland, NY 12528). $295

Week of October 15–20

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 14-19. $575

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Laurie Schutz & Char Pias Brenner

Participants will be instructed in basic methods used in giving a pleasurable and beneficial full body massage. Fundamental elements of body work, such as breath awareness, grounding, movement, quality of touch, and stress reduction, will be introduced. This workshop is available to beginners as well as to those who wish to brush up on their massage skills.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $575

Creative Body Work

Lenore Grubinger

The premise of this workshop is that body states and feeling states are reflected in each other. It is based on Body-Mind Centering, the work of Bonnie Bainbridge Cohen, and will be an experiential study – through movement, touch, and process work – of some of the major body systems and developmental movement.

What is the quality of moving from one's organs, bones, or fluids? How can crawling or other "baby movements" give one insight into his/her adult life? What is the "mind" of each of these, and how do preferences of mind and body go hand-in-hand?

The more we come to know ourselves, the more we can resonate with others. Creative Body Work emphasizes empowerment of client and practitioner, actively involving both in the healing exchange. This is not a technique training, but a body-based language for responding to the moment. This week will include theory, demonstrations, hands-on practice, movement, and group process. It aims to facilitate repatterning, to honor where a person is, and to help him/her access a greater range of body-mind options. Body workers, counselors, educators, and artists interested in an advanced training are welcome. $575

Ways to Change: A Jungian Experience

John Nicholas

Meaninglessness inhibits the fullness of life and can, therefore, be equated with illness; meaningfulness makes a great many things endurable, perhaps everything. – C.G. Jung

People discover themselves through relationships – with others and within and beyond themselves – transcending the ordinary boundaries of time and space. The focus of this workshop will be the most central aspect of all transpersonal work: change. The basic concepts of C.G. Jung will be applied to practical problem-solving and conflict resolution of everyday issues and relationships. Participants will have the opportunity to discover, explore, and confront unconscious complexes that inhibit the fullness of life and block creativity. There will be time for individual work with dreams, active imagination, symbolic drawing and painting, storytelling, guided imagery, and journals. The week will be a voyage of discovery.

Recommended reading: C.G. Jung, Man and His Symbols (Doubleday) and Memories, Dreams, Reflections (Random House); June Singer, Boundaries of the Soul (Doubleday); Robert Johnson, Inner Work (Harper & Row); Anthony Storr, ed., The Essential Jung (Princeton University Press). $575

Dying to Live

Karen Paine-Gernee & Charles Steinberg

The leaders write: "Catastrophic illness is a shock to confront. It disrupts every aspect of our lives: our images of who we think we are and our ideas of where we're going, our relationships, our work. It awakens us to the proximity of death, presenting us with confusing choices about our lives in general and various medical treatments in specific. Serious illness is a time of both danger and opportunity. It touches us with despair and grieving. It can also be a time of opening into more love, greater personal power, and deeper spiritual work. It is a time for bringing forth our maximum healing capacities.

"This workshop builds a community to support each individual's healing. Through sharing, guided imagery, art, meditation, and healing circles, participants will see how to move from a life-threatening experience to a life-heartening one. They will explore the nature of healing at all levels and develop a personalized health plan which integrates both traditional and alternative approaches. One track will focus on the needs of the primary care-givers, exploring their issues of sadness and anger, exhaustion, helplessness, survivor's guilt, resentment, and the seemingly unacceptable wish that 'it was all over.'

"If you or a loved one has a life-threatening illness such as cancer, heart disease, or AIDS, if you live with a chronic health problem, or if you work with those with serious illness, this week of healing and love is for you. Your healing journey will be supported with healthy food, beautiful natural surroundings, and a compassionate community."

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $575

Weekend of October 20–22

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see September 3-8. $295

Personal Mythology: Tell Me Who You Are

Sam Keen

Human beings are storytelling animals, mythmakers, spinners of tales. We remain healthy and vital so long as we remember our past, celebrate our traditions, and keep alive the stories of our ancestors and heroes. It is only those who remember their stories who are able to hope. Dis-ease begins with forgetting. Freud showed that repressing painful and ecstatic memories is the source of neurosis. And healing takes place only when we allow the unconscious to become conscious. To find out who we are, each of us must ask what Jung called the most important question: What myth am I living?

In this seminar, participants will explore the myths by which they live. They will tell each other stories from their past about heroes and villains, visions and quests, sacred moments and places, gifts and wounds, obstacles and helpers. They will rekindle childhood dreams and project their fondest hopes into the future.

Participants are asked to bring a photograph album containing pictures from each stage of life, mementos, souvenirs, old magic objects, diaries, whatever will trigger the recollections of things past. (Please note: this will be a large seminar.) $295

From Victim to Victor

Harold Benjamin

In the last decade it has become commonly accepted in both the traditional and alternative medical communities that cancer patients' participation in the fight for recovery can improve their quality of life and may increase their chances for recovery. This premise is based upon recent medical advances in the field of psychoneuroimmunology. Although this workshop will examine those findings and how cancer patients can benefit from them, the primary focus will be upon the emotional, social, philosophical, and psychological components of wellness.

This workshop will be led by the founder of The Wellness Community (TWC) concept and will include guided imagery and methods used by trained TWC group facilitators. It is appropriate for cancer patients, their families and friends, health professionals, and psychologists.

Recommended reading: Harold Benjamin, From Victim to Victor; Herbert Benson, The Relaxation Response (Avon); Dennis Jaffe, Healing from Within (Fireside); Norman Cousins, Anatomy of an Illness (Bantam). $295

Week of October 22–27

Prescriptions, Rituals, and Metaphors

Joel Bergman

This workshop, which is for mental health professionals and graduate students in related fields only, will focus on various clinical road maps needed for prescribing rituals, tasks, and metaphors in psychotherapy with families, couples, and individuals. Systems theory combined with the therapist's use of self, humor, and playfulness will be emphasized. Consultations, edited videotapes, and role-playing will be used.

Thursday of this workshop will be devoted to watching narrated video training tapes. The workshop officially ends at the close of that afternoon session. However, participants are welcome to stay through Friday lunch.

Recommended reading: Joel Bergman, Fishing for Barracuda: Pragmatics of Brief Systemic Therapy (Norton). $575

Sacred Mask Experience: Honoring the Shaman Within

Elisa Lodge

Marvel at the ingenuity in which divinity hides itself in order to find itself. – Alan Watts

Sacred masks have long been used by tribal societies to liberate and transform, but they have all but disappeared from modern cultures. They are known to be an ancient form of catharsis and healing, originally used by shamans for their elemental power to reveal vital facets of the self and release long-held gifts, talents, and potential.

This week, participants will draw inspiration from a large, international collection of masks to reestablish their connection to this ancient artistic tradition. They will create a sacred practice-ground in which to honor the shaman within, involving movement, sound, trance-dancing, painting, ritual theater, and gestalt. They will embrace the masks that have covered their hearts and open to what is revealed – the beauty and power of essential human nature. $575

Recovery for Co-Dependents: A Workshop for Adult Children of Alcoholic and Other Unhealthy Homes

Karen Paine-Gernee & Rick Paine

Are you uncomfortable unless you are in control? Do you find it difficult to trust people and let them come close to you? Do you deny your feelings? Are you afraid of authority figures? Are you feeling lonely and isolated? Do others perceive you as confident and successful while you feel inadequate inside?

Such can be the effects of having grown up in an alcoholic or dysfunctional family. Alcoholism is often a disease of denial. ACAs often tell themselves that it really wasn't so bad, and they learn not to feel what they cannot tolerate. As they deny pain, they screen out joy, and their adult lives are often filled with depression and loneliness. Recovery is possible, though.

This program for emotional sobriety offers the opportunity to understand the dynamics of alcoholic and dysfunctional families and the co-dependent behavior they engender, to confront and heal painful childhood emotions, to learn basic tools for self-care, to make strides in letting go of control, to develop a sense of trust, and to foster a relationship with one's own spirituality.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35. $575

October 22–November 3

Integrative Body Practice (IBP) Professional Training Program

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 34. $1425

Weekend of October 27–29

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 14-19. $295

A Weekend with Seymour Carter

For workshop description see April 30-May 5. $295

A Workshop with Mia Segal

Moshe Feldenkrais was an extraordinary man with great insight into human function and movement. Perhaps his greatest contribution was the way he translated his philosophy into a workable method for everybody. This workshop will introduce that work: Awareness through Movement®, in which the participant is guided verbally through a movement process, and Functional Integration®, a nonverbal, hands-on method of re-educating the body. Both are meant to clarify how the participant uses his/her body to increase options for well-being. Feldenkrais believed that those options are oftentimes limited only by one's ideas.

Those who may benefit from this workshop include performers and artists, for whom it is vital to improve and who want to examine the way they function and move in their work, people with physical afflictions who wish to move with more ease and flexibility, and anyone who is motivated to improve their way of moving about in the world. $295

Noble Visions: Living a Committed Life

Bill Puka

This seminar is designed to affirm and enhance participants' commitments to high ideals, toward living inspired lives as inspiring people. It will look at ethical visions and ethical visionaries. Participants will reflect on the components of respecting and appreciating each other, of loving and caring. They will consider ways of practicing these arts more gracefully, drawing from humanistic counseling methods, yogic meditation, and the psychological research of Kohlberg and Gilligan on moral development and gender outlook. They will also consider the creative use of moral perception and imagination evolved by various spiritual traditions. In so doing, they will compose ethics-for-living that are self-expanding, spiritual, and aesthetic rather than judgmental and duty-bound, ethics which show a sense of wisdom and perspective and express the goodwill they prescribe. But they will also seek ethics which can solve concrete problems and use them to take up moral dilemmas members of the group may be facing. A main theme will concern how to align psychological growth and career progress with personal integrity, interpersonal responsiveness, and active social concern. $295

Week of October 29–November 3

Painting Experience with Michell Cassou

For workshop description see July 7-14.

$575 (plus $25 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Acting is Doing

Stephen Book

The art of acting is, like life, the art of doing. Through "doing" we remove the restrictions, both inner and outer, which suppress the spontaneity of any human being. Upon release, this spontaneity shows itself as artistic creativity.

This experiential workshop will reveal the various forms of "doing" available to the actor. Participants will learn the basics of improvisational acting, heighten and focus energy, increase communication skills, extend powers of observation and concentration, and discover new realities. This workshop is designed for the layperson. $575

The Art of Receiving

Elliot Waker Aronson & Gabriele Hilberg-Thomson

This culture makes it difficult to receive gracefully. Many of us learn early in life to equate receiving with weakness, helplessness, and dependency. One source of difficulty originates from a deep-seated belief that we do not deserve the love, attention, praise, or affection that is offered. Another stems from a fear of being obligated by the other person's expectations. Our willingness to receive brings greater honesty to our desire to give to others. The openness to receiving allows us to fully experience our relationship with another person, opens our hearts to the love and compassion of others and, in times of crisis, enables us to reach out for help.

Participants in this workshop will examine the beliefs and expectations that created their internal blockages and will learn new ways of receiving wisely, gracefully, and with dignity. $575

Trance Integrations: Advanced Workshop

Paul Carter

This workshop is for people who have previously worked with Paul Carter and wish to go deeper with the material. It will explore the principles of Ericksonian hypnosis, including trance as a natural and necessary part of health, and will develop the idea that people and their communication and problem-solving are paradoxical.

The focus of the week will be personal and interpersonal work inside the trance state. Milton Erickson believed that people have an intelligence obtained from their wholeness that goes far beyond the conscious mind. Accessing and integrating that intelligence will form the basis of this work. Through guided exercises and group process, participants will work with the hypnotic use of metaphor in movement, sound, image, and story, as well as age-regression, age-progression, lucid dreaming, dissociation, and deep-trance identification.

Additional topics may include: pain control, working with families, and the art of using all the system, including the bad, sick, crazy, and resistant parts. The leader will introduce an integrative approach to problem-solving and self-healing as described in his forthcoming book, The Whole-Parts Process: A Formula for Integrity. Participants are asked to bring an 18"×24" drawing pad and pastels.

Recommended reading: Grinder and Bandler, Trance-Formations (Real People Press); Michael Yapko, ed., "Parts Work: The Never Ending Story," Hypnotic and Strategic Interventions (Irvington). $575

May 14–June 9
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis
Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

This course will synthesize neurolinguistics and Ericksonian hypnosis, drawing heavily from the pioneering work being done with the enneagram of personality and Stanislav Grof's "cartography of inner space." While satisfying the hypnosis coursework requirements for the M.F.C.C. and complying with the California state requirement for hypnosis certification, participants will go beyond what is required and explore the realms of the unknown.

While the use of hypnosis in habit control and symptom removal will be covered, a primary focus will be on hypnosis as a tool of spiritual emergence and sacred psychology. Starting with the presupposition that we already live in trance and that the goal is waking up, the roots of personality structure and the filters of perception in the creation and transformation of reality will be carefully explored. Participants will have the opportunity to directly experience the profound power of trance to transform their lives. These experiences will create a model for working with clients.

The structure of rapport, pacing and leading, and various hypnotic patterns of induction will be demonstrated and practiced along with a variety of clinical interventions, including reframing, change history, metaphors, and storytelling. The group will watch videotapes of Erickson and other well-known leaders in the field of hypnosis. Participants will have daily practice with each other and the opportunity to be videotaped doing a hypnotic induction. Daily zazen, Taoist yoga, and transformational movement led by Antoinette Varner will also be a part of this program.

Upon completion of this course, participants who want to be certified must demonstrate a high level of professionalism as well as proficiency in technical skills to the satisfaction of the instructors before certification will be granted. After certification by the Institute for Advanced Hypnosis (testing and certification fee, $300) additional certifications are available from the American Council of Hypnotist Examiners ($125) and the Society of NeuroLinguistic Programming ($200). Beyond certification, the opportunities for personal transformation and learning new tools for change can make this a valuable experience.

Required reading: J. Haley, Uncommon Therapy (Norton) and Strategies of Psychotherapy (Grune & Stratton); Grinder and Bandler, Trance-Formations (Real People Press), Frogs into Princes (Real People Press), and Reframing (Real People Press); S. Grof, Beyond the Brain (State University of N.Y.); Chogyam Trungpa, Shambhala (Shambhala); P.D. Ouspensky, In Search of the Miraculous (Harcourt, Brace & World); C. Castaneda, Tales of Power (Simon & Schuster); Joseph Campbell, Myths to Live By (Bantam).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 34-35.

Registration is by application only, through the Institute of Advanced Hypnosis, P.O. Box 1311, Mill Valley, CA 94942; (415) 687-0200.

$2640 (plus $300 fee for those wanting certification, paid to the Institute for Advanced Hypnosis)

September 24–October 1
A Somatics Study Program for Health Professionals
[September 1989–May 1991]
Faculty: Judith Aston, Charles Brooks & Charlotte Selver, Leonard & Bonnie Bainbridge Cohen, Emilie Conrad-Da'oud, Robert Hall & Don Johnson (coordinator)

This is the second long-term program directed by this faculty. It provides an opportunity to study with pioneers in the somatics field who work together in a cooperative, educational effort, emphasizing the commonly held questions, principles, and organic learning processes which underlie their individual methodologies.

The first of the seven seminars will take place from the evening of Sunday, September 24th to Sunday noon, October 1, 1989. During this week, participants will have the opportunity to meet the faculty and participants who are completing the first two-year program. Subsequent meetings will occur approximately every three months, with faculty members rotating their schedule with the group.

The faculty's interest is not in teaching specific techniques for accomplishing predetermined results with people; there are many institutes and schools, including those directed by this faculty, where such trainings are already available. Rather, the emphasis, as articulated by Charlotte Selver, is an exploration of learning in a disciplined way "to be there for what is and for what one does," which might be: the precise way a man with bursitis who holds his right arm close to his side also has a characteristic sinking into his left hip and feels that he is stingy with his loved ones; the boredom I feel while I am touching this person's back; the tears that form in this woman's eyes as I move her ankle, and the slight shift in her breathing; the way I react to the intensity of felt emotion; how I hold myself when in contact with another; the spontaneous images and metaphors a person uses when I am moving his leg; the subtle new movement in the spinal tissues of a quadriplegic woman as she allows herself to sense more.

The faculty members do not think of study or exploration as unstructured inquiry, but as a highly specific learning experience for refining the most basic aspects of work with the body. These include the abilities to: see, touch, listen, and move; sense the subtleties of body image, movement patterns, and breath; facilitate self-healing; perceive the relationships among small bodily movements, feelings, images, thoughts, and memories and understand how they relate to one's emotional life and patterns of health and sickness.

The goal of this program is for participants to refine their contributions to the health field. The teachers will guide participants into closer contact with their inner resources, emphasizing how to move through the barriers that restrict their imaginations and which block them from fully expressing and organizing what they know. The goal is not to turn physical therapists into Reichians or Aston-Patterning practitioners, but to enable them to become more effective as physical therapists, with more sensitive touch, greater skill in manipulating joints, or more awareness of the emotional movements in their clients and a clearer sense of the larger vision that motivates their work. [When you are considering applying for the program, it would be useful to ask yourself if you want to learn a particular method of somatics work, or whether, feeling grounded in your work, you want to further develop your own style. If "yes" to the first question, this program is not what you want.]

Each of the faculty members has developed ways of facilitating people in their process of discovery, in gaining more intimate contact with their inner wisdom. However, this project is not based on a superficial eclecticism, an overview of the common elements in the various specific methods. Rather, it offers participants an arena in which to deepen what they already know and to realize their unique ways of perceiving reality.

Participants should expect to be deeply challenged to explore their own emotional, social, spiritual, and physical histories: how those histories both limit and contain clues to their capacities for healing. The faculty's shared interest is in working with men and women "who will not complain about going slowly." They challenge preconceived ideas about how to perceive and work with other people, as well as attitudes about "fixing" others, as expressed by Charlotte Selver: "Our purpose is not to improve, but to be open for what is." The various works developed by the faculty over several decades are based on the assumption that the most effective healing happens in moments Robert Hall calls "bare attention," or, in Emilie Conrad-Da'oud's words, "when I realize that the self is movement whose primary motion is love."

An important part of this project is concerned with communication: how to speak clearly and directly out of one's deepest experience, how to communicate directly with one's co-explorers, how to transcend fears that create alienation. During the intervals between seminars, participants will be asked to document their clinical work in whatever media seem appropriate – notebooks, recordings, videotapes, etc. This will enable them to detail exactly what they are doing and to present a clear picture of their perspective. The faculty will provide supervisory contact and assistance during those periods. By the end of the two years, the program intends to have generated a body of clinical research from participants applying what they've learned to specific kinds of problems among their patients and clients.

This program is part of a larger somatics education project at Esalen. Experts from many fields related to the body – medical anthropologists, biologists, brain scientists, teachers of meditation, body-oriented teachers from diverse cultures, psychologists, artists, social theorists, and experts in somatics – are being invited to participate in the development and refinement of the field.

Twenty people will be accepted for the program from applications made before June 1, 1989. Admission is restricted to people in the helping professions – nurses, social workers, osteopaths, physicians, psychotherapists, physical therapists, body workers, chiropractors, etc. – and registered students in these areas. Artists, musicians, and dancers interested in the health field are also welcome to apply. Only those who commit themselves to the whole program will be admitted to the individual seminars. Those selected will be asked to confirm their enrollment with a non-refundable deposit of $500, which will be applied to the cost of the final intensive. To apply, please write a lengthy letter describing your background and experience in your profession, and indicate why you would like to be in the program. Please include names and addresses of two references who are familiar with your professional work. Send your application to: Don Johnson, Ph.D., 650 Shotwell Street, San Francisco, CA 94110.

PAMA FIELDS

Will Schutz

The cost of the program is based on the usual fee for a seven-day Esalen workshop, payable at the beginning of each seminar. Fellowships are available for members of ethnic minorities; if you wish to apply for one, please indicate so on your application. Continuing education credit and up to 30 units of undergraduate and graduate academic credit at New College of California are available. In both cases, attendance at the seminars will be supplemented by directed readings and research papers.

If you would like more information about the program from someone who has participated in it, please write to: Dean Marson, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920. $870

SPECIAL PROGRAMS

October 22–November 3
Integrative Body Practice (IBP)
Professional Training Program

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

This will be a twelve-day residential training program in Integrative Body Practice. IBP emphasizes breathing as a vehicle for the integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit, and views the body as the foundation for psychological and transpersonal growth. Object relations developmental theory will be integrated with body work. This workshop is for licensed professionals and graduate students in related fields. The leaders will be assisted by Deane Juhan and the staff of the Rosenberg-Rand Institute of Venice, California.

Recommended reading: Jack Rosenberg et al., Body, Self, and Soul: Experiencing Integration (Humanics Ltd.) and Total Orgasm (Bookworks).

For information write or call: Marjorie Rand, Rosenberg-Rand Institute, 1107 W. Washington Blvd., Venice, CA 90291; (213) 394-0147.

$1425

The Gazebo Early Childhood Program

The Gazebo Program for Early Childhood is now available to seminarians. Please phone for your child's reservation so that we may provide the kinds of services you will require while attending your own workshops. Call "The Gazebo Farmhouse" between the hours of 9:30-11:30 AM for more information. Telephone: (408) 667-3026.

Gazebo Internship Program

Openings are now available at the Gazebo School for a one- to three-month intensive internship in early childhood education. The emphasis will be on an aesthetic approach to the development of physical, cognitive, and psychosocial skills. For an application, write to Bette Dingman, Gazebo Internship Program, Esalen Institute.

Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Esalen offers a California state-approved massage program. Upon completion of the two-month massage work study track (January 14-March 11, 1990; see pages 36-37 for more information), or a four-week massage practitioner workshop (the next scheduled program is November 12-December 10, 1989), and after giving 30 additional massages elsewhere, graduates will receive their certificates. This program provides at least 130 hours of instruction, including anatomy, supplemented by study in body-mind disciplines such as yoga, gestalt awareness work, and movement, fulfilling the state requirement.

Healthspring

The Healthspring Project encompasses outreach, education, referral services, and networking. It was created by the Esalen massage teachers and their associates and is an independent, service-oriented program.

This past year, Healthspring set up a global referral system which links people with body workers, counselors, and teachers from their home areas. There are ongoing programs at Esalen and a traveling workshop service in the U.S. and abroad. Instructors teach self-healing, Esalen body work, yoga, breath and body awareness, dance movement, and meditation. Many Healthspring instructors have experience in gestalt practice.

The Healthspring Library offers books on health and healing, body work, somatic studies, philosophy, yoga, nutrition, and organic gardening, which people may borrow for up to a two-week period while at Esalen. Donations of books or periodicals are greatly appreciated.

Access to the referral system and the traveling workshop program is available by writing to Laurie Lioness Parizek at Esalen, c/o Healthspring.

MEDICAL PROGRAMS

The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of Continuing Education for registered nurses, provider number 01152. Only those programs specifically listed below offer continuing education credit. See workshop descriptions elsewhere in the catalog.

May 5–7
Weekend Massage Intensive
Attila Vaas & Laurie Lioness Parizek
10 hours

May 5–7
Dance as an Ally in Healing Cancer
Anna Halprin & Rana Vassau
10 hours

May 14–June 9
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis
Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner
30 hours

June 2–4
The Feeling Process
Janet Zuckerman
10 hours

June 11–16
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Robert Helm & Vicki Topp
30 hours

June 11–16
Gestalt Practice
Christine Stewart Price
30 hours

June 16–18
Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
Patrick Douce
10 hours

June 23–25
Children of Chaos
Mariah Fenton Gladis
10 hours

June 25–30
Five Days with Janet Zuckerman
30 hours

June 25–30
Intermediate Cranial Workshop
Jim Asher & Jane Harrington
30 hours

July 2–7
Five-Day Advanced Massage Workshop: Trigger Point
Arthur Munyer & David Streeter
30 hours

July 9–14
Zero Balancing: Beginning/Intermediate Workshop
Fritz Smith
30 hours

July 16–21
The Body and Zen
Dub Leigh
30 hours

July 21–23
Weekend Massage Intensive
Laurie Schutz & Esalen Massage Practitioners
10 hours

July 21–23
Imagery: Exploring the Body/Mind Bridge
Jeanne Achterberg & Frank Laulis
10 hours

July 21–23
Seeing with New Eyes: Developing Psychic Sight Through Compassion™
Elizabeth Stratton
10 hours

July 23–28
Gestalt Practice
Christine Stewart Price
30 hours

July 23–28
Touching Spirit: Dimensions of Psychic Healing™
Elizabeth Stratton
30 hours

July 28–30
Therapeutic Touch: Theory and Practice
Janet Quinn
10 hours

July 30–August 4
Introduction to Craniosacral Work
Hugh Milne
30 hours

August 4–6
Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
Patrick Douce
10 hours

August 4–6
Homeopathy: Medicine for the 21st Century
Dana Ullman
10 hours

August 18–20
Weekend Massage Intensive
Brita Ostrom & Dean Marson
10 hours

August 20–25
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Robert Helm & Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

August 27–September 1
Five Days with Janet Zuckerman
30 hours

August 27–September 1
Imagination as Healer
Jeanne Achterberg, Frank Laulis & Michael Samuels
30 hours

September 3–8
Intermediate Massage Intensive
Deborah Anne Medow & Vicki Topp
30 hours

September 15–17
The Feeling Process
Janet Zuckerman
10 hours

September 15–17
Zero Balancing: Advanced Workshop
Fritz Smith
10 hours

September 17–22
Sports Massage
David Streeter & Arthur Munyer
30 hours

September 22–24
Psychoneuroimmunology and its Implications
George Freeman Solomon & Margaret Kemeny
10 hours

September 24–October 1
A Somatics Study Program for Health Professionals
Don Johnson, coordinator
30 hours

September 29–October 1
Weekend Massage Intensive
Laurie Lioness Partzek & Attila Vaas
10 hours

October 6–8
Gestalt Practice
Christine Stewart Price
10 hours

October 8–13
Gestalt Practice
Christine Stewart Price
30 hours

October 15–20
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Laurie Schutz & Char Pias Brenner
30 hours

October 15–20
Dying to Live
Karen Paine-Gernee & Charles Steinberg
30 hours

October 22–27
Recovery for Co-Dependents
Karen Paine-Gernee & Rick Paine
30 hours

FUTURE PROGRAMS

Listed here is a sampling of programs planned for Fall 1989. This is not an invitation to register, but information to assist you in your long-range plans to participate in an Esalen workshop. More information will be available in the September 1989-February 1990 catalog.

November 10-12
New Frontiers in Medicine
Coordinated by Andrew Weil & Dean Ornish
Consult the September 1989-February 1990 catalog for more information.

November 12-December 8
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis
Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner
For course description, see Special Programs, May 14-June 9, page 32.

November 12-December 10
Massage Practitioner Certification Program
Esalen Massage Practitioners
For more information about this program, see Special Programs, page 34.

WORK STUDY PROGRAM

The Work Study Program is for those who are interested in total immersion in the Esalen environment. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically. Only rarely is it restful. Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and cabins. Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs. During the first month, assignments are made primarily in the kitchen and cabins. No participants will be accepted as work students in Gazebo or the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments.

Most evenings and one intensive weekend are spent together as a group exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who will be with the group throughout the month coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The program is usually divided into two sections each month: a general interest section which covers a variety of growth approaches, and a focused interest section which emphasizes one type of growth practice, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage or body work, etc. Participants in the focused programs must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program, assuming that they meet the standards of the Work Study Program.

Focused programs planned thus far for 1989-90 include:

April 30–May 28: Janet Zuckerman will teach emotional release work using basic gestalt practices. This is a practicum, with emphasis on the participant as facilitator.

May 28–June 25: Mariah Fenton Gladis will focus on "complete gestalt work." This program will be didactic and experiential, including body work, spiritual development, and emotional clearing.

June 25–July 23: Janet Lederman will lead this internship in community-building for the Antioch–New College Somatics Program students, who will participate in the daily work at Esalen.

July 23–August 20: See April 30-May 28.

August 20–September 17: Elisa Lodge and Ellen Watson will facilitate a month of breath work, dance, yoga, mask-making, hypnosis, NLP, and Rolf movement.

September 17–October 15: Robert Helm and guest practitioners will present Esalen massage/body work fundamentals and their evolving synthesis with the somatic arts.

October 15–November 12: Steven Harper will inquire into human relationship to nature, using Big Sur's wilderness and various traditions that enhance personal awareness. More information will be sent upon registration.

November 12–December 10: Edward Maupin and James Stewart will integrate body work and dream work through movement, dreams, and other imaginal processes.

December 17–January 14, 1990: Paula Shaw offers a month of risky, outrageous self-expression and creativity employing acting, improvisation, and other tricks of the theatrical trade.

January 14–March 11, 1990: Robert Helm and other practitioners will lead a two-month program in body work, massage, movement, and self-care. For more information see Massage Practitioner Certification Program, Special Programs, page 34. The cost of this program is $1000 first month, $950 second month.

In as much as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage, are available at staff rates.

Accommodations are shared, with up to four people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff complex located 1½ miles north of Esalen.

A deposit of $350 in U.S. currency is required with your application. The cost of all 28-day

APPLICATION TO THE WORK STUDY PROGRAM

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ ZIP _____

Date of Birth _____ Occupation _____ Place of Employment _____

Daytime Telephone (_____) _____ Date of Application _____

Evening Telephone (_____) _____ Male ☐ Female ☐

I prefer the general interest program: yes ☐ no ☐ I prefer the focused program in: _____

Participants in the focused programs must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program.

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning on a Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: _____ to _____ 2nd: _____ to _____ 3rd: _____ to _____

Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community.

Please indicate your availability should an invitation be extended. (Not applicable to focused program participants.)
☐ No extension ☐ One-month extension ☐ Two-month extension. Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs.

☐ Please check here if you have emergency medical skills (M.D., E.M.T., or R.N.) and are willing to make those skills available during your stay.

Please attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program. Include: applicable skills (gardening, kitchen, mechanical, etc.); medical difficulties which might affect your working in particular departments; previous Esalen workshops you have attended (please list program titles, group leaders, and dates). Note: Fluency in the English language is essential for participation in the program.

Work Study Programs, except the two-month body work program, is $700 first month, $650 second month, $600 third month. Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month depending on space available and community needs. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

For more information contact Bette Dingman: (408) 667-3010.

Note: This application is not a registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is nonrefundable and may be transferred to other programs within one year of receipt. Please return this form with your deposit to:

Work Study Program, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

Available dates: April 30–May 28; May 28–June 25; June 25–July 23; July 23–August 20; August 20–September 17; September 17–October 15; October 15–November 12; November 12–December 10; December 17–January 14; January 14–February 11; February 11–March 11; March 11–April 8; April 8–May 6; May 6–June 3; etc.

WILDERNESS PROGRAMS

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered. To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop, we require a deposit of $200. The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your nonrefundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your deposit is forfeited.

August 5-12
A Gentle Trip In the High Sierra

Maurica Anderson & Tom Newell

During this seven-day workshop in wildflower season, the group will hike to a secluded mountain basin (alt. 10,000') off the main trails in the John Muir Wilderness area on the western side of the High Sierra. MULES WILL CARRY IN ALL OF THE PERSONAL GEAR AND FOOD, enabling participants to have outrageously good food (fresh fruits and vegetables, frozen chicken and steaks). Participants need carry nothing but lunch, rain gear, a jacket, and water. The area is off the main trails and is filled with lakes, grassy meadows, wildflowers, and cold streams fed by the surrounding snow fields. Drinking water will be supplied by a pure and icy spring.

The group will camp by a rushing waterfall for six nights, taking short day-hikes to other beautiful areas, swimming daily in the crystal lakes, working with body awareness, massage, psychodrama, meditation, and gentle encounter—and laughing a lot. During the week, participants will put up a sauna, take some strenuous but optional side hikes, and have some time for doing nothing. They can concentrate on the sights, sounds, and smells of the high country, on getting to know the mountains, one another, and themselves.

Mountaineering experience is not necessary and most people are in good enough shape for this trip, but participants should be capable of hiking uphill at altitudes up to 11,000' and must possess a good sense of humor. The hike in is six miles with an altitude gain of 2,700', but the pace will be leisurely and the group will take all day to reach the high meadow campsite.

For a detailed information sheet, contact Maurica Anderson, 1112 Curtis Street, Albany, CA 94706; (415) 526-5814. Participants will meet in the Sierra on August 5. The fee includes food, wine, permits, and pack mules in and out. $570

September 10-23
Path of the River:
A Grand Canyon Journey

Steven Harper, Wendy Palmer, Bob Melville & Arizona Raft Adventures Staff (AZRA)

The Grand Canyon and Colorado River provide an environment of dramatic variety which is intimate and awesome, soft and demanding, yet always rewarding for those who are open to all it has to offer. On this 14-day whitewater raft trip through the entire length of the Grand Canyon, participants can explore offerings of river, canyon, and natural world. The river is a teacher and primary metaphor. The group will draw from aikido, dance, energy awareness, meditation, and gestalt to enhance their experience of this majestic wilderness area.

Travel will be in paddle and oar rafts. Instruction will be offered in basic aspects of river life such as paddling and minimum-impact river camping. Group members will have time to discuss the Canyon's ecology, geology, natural and cultural history; to hike and explore side canyons; to sit quietly and reflect; to integrate learnings from this trip into their lives.

River experience is not necessary, though participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity and to participate fully. The workshop begins at 7 AM September 10 in Flagstaff, Arizona; there will be a pre-trip meeting at 6 PM the evening before. AZRA will supply all the necessary river rafting gear, food, and transportation between Flagstaff and the Canyon. Details and a personal equipment list will be sent upon registration. Enrollment is limited.

Due to Esalen's special arrangement with AZRA, the following cancellation policy is in effect for this workshop: A $200 nonrefundable deposit per person will confirm your reservation. Balance is due July 10, 1989. If you cancel prior to July 10, your nonrefundable deposit, less a $60 registration fee, may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. No refunds are available after July 10. $1690

THE MEDIA CENTER

Videotapes

The Esalen Media Center is offering for rental or purchase a selection of videotapes. This series consists of unedited single camera recordings of informal talks made at Esalen, along with a descriptive tape of Esalen itself.

1. Jack Kornfield, On Meditation, November 1986. A longtime student and teacher of Vipassana meditation and Buddhism discusses these traditions with reference to his own experiences as a spiritual seeker in the Orient. (121 minutes)

2. Brother David Steindl-Rast, God, Spirituality, and the Senses, November 1984. A Benedictine monk and scholar discusses the spiritual journey and its relationship to mythology and transpersonal theory. (117 minutes)

3. Fritjof Capra, Characteristics of Systems Thinking, June 1985. The author of The Tao of Physics and The Turning Point discusses the evolution of scientific thinking, including current views and implications. (81 minutes)

4. Stanislav Grof, The New Scientific Paradigm, June 1985. An original member of the transpersonal psychology network and author on topics such as appropriate use of psycho-active substances, discusses his current view of consciousness. (117 minutes)

5. Rupert Sheldrake, Morphic Resonance and The New Science of Life, June 1985. A British geneticist relates his theories on biological and psychological development and discusses some empirical tests of these theories. (108 minutes)

6. Kenneth Ring, The Near-Death Experience, June 1985. The author of Life at Death and Heading Toward Omega discusses his research on the near-death experience and some of its implications for the future of the human race. (114 minutes)

7. Albert Hofmann, December 1984. The discoverer of LSD talks to Stanislav Grof about his early experiences with this and other psycho-active drugs. He also discusses some of the social, political, and scientific consequences of LSD. (92 minutes)

8. Anne Armstrong and Elizabeth Stratton, December 1984. Two longtime students, practitioners, and teachers of psychic work discuss with Nancy Knapp their practices and perspectives related to psychic counseling and healing. (56 minutes)

9. Terence McKenna, Fractal Perspectives on the Millenium, August 1985. The author of The Invisible Landscape gives his vision of the future, centering around the evolution of human consciousness. (72 minutes)

10. Jack Rosenberg, One Hour and Twenty-Nine Minutes with Jack Rosenberg and Integrative Body Practice, September 1985. The Venice, California, practitioner gives his view of personality development and some of the typical patterns of interaction in relationship. (89 minutes)

11. Esalen. This 18-minute videotape tells Esalen's story from its early history to the present. The visuals consist of 130 color slides featuring scenes of the Big Sur coast, Esalen's gardens, grounds, and various workshops and activities.

Ordering Information

Each speaker program costs $55 to purchase, $25 to rent. The Esalen tape costs $35 to purchase, $15 to rent. To order any of these tapes (VHS only), indicate: purchase or rental (one week), program #, and title. To your subtotal, add $5 shipping and handling ($12 for overseas orders) for each two tapes ordered. California residents add 6% tax for sales only. Include your name, address, and phone number. Please address your order (with a check payable to Esalen Institute) to the Esalen Media Center. Allow 30 days for delivery. Urgent orders may be handled by phone, (408) 667-3021.

FRIENDS OF ESALEN

We invite you to join us in our organization—the Friends of Esalen scholarship fund.

Friends of Esalen provides financial aid to people who are eager to attend our workshops but who cannot afford them.

We believe that one of our first priorities is to make our programs available on a broader basis. We have therefore decided to use membership contributions to fund such scholarships. Esalen will, in turn, match your contribution.

In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen, you will receive the Esalen Catalog for one year. We hope you feel your experience at Esalen was worth the sharing and that you will join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.

☐ I wish to become a Friend of Esalen and I enclose my check for the category marked.

☐ I wish to renew my membership in Friends of Esalen.

☐ One Year Student $15
☐ One Year Individual $25
☐ One Year Donor $50
☐ One Year Sponsor $100
☐ One Year Patron $500
(Contributions are tax-deductible)

Name _____ Student Affiliation _____

Address _____ City _____

State _____ ZIP _____ Date _____

Please mail to: Friends of Esalen, Big Sur, CA 93920.

AUDIO RECORDINGS

The Dolphin Tape Series

This tape list overlaps with others, but brings together more titles in the general fields of: the transpersonal, shamanism, psi phenomena, imagination, creativity, myth, and legend. A number of titles are from the month-long workshops through the years with Stanislav and Christina Grof, or from one of the International Transpersonal Association conferences held in such diverse locations as Boston or Bombay. Nearly all events were recorded in stereo. Tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hours.

Single-tape titles are $10:

Anne Armstrong: On Being a Psychic, 1971
Anne & Jim Armstrong: The Power of Intuition, 1987
Armstrong/Stratton: Psychic Abilities Interview, 1984
Gregory Bateson: Metaphors and Butterflies, 1975
Joseph Campbell: Freud, Jung, and Kundalini Yoga, 1967
Joseph Campbell: Hermes, Alchemy, & Vintage of Odysseus, 1971
Joseph Campbell: Kundalini Yoga and the Chakras, 1981
Joseph Campbell: The Hero's Journey (80th year celebration), 1984
Fritjof Capra: A New Vision of Reality (Bombay), 1982
Lew Carlino: Writing the Screenplay "Resurrection," 1987
Bhagavan Das: Singing Meditation, 1974
Prem Das: The Singing Earth (Huichol Chanting), 1980
Prem Das & Don Jose: Huichol Ceremony Chanting, 1977
Prem Das & Don Jose: Huichol Chant and The Deer Dance, 1977
Ram Dass & Tenney Kimmel: Chanting with Tamboura & Dulcimer, 1970
Jan Ehrenwald: Psi Experience and the Bergonian Filter, 1984
Jule Eisenbud: Psi Experience in Psychotherapy, 1984
Fadiman/Hastings: Psychedelics & Paranormal Phenomena, 1971
George Freibott: Nikola Tesla, The Inventor, 1984
Father Bede Griffiths: Doctrine of New Creation (Bombay), 1982
Stanislav Grof: Journeys Beyond the Brain, 1979
Stanislav Grof: A New Paradigm for Psychotherapy, 1980
Stanislav Grof: Ancient Wisdom and Modern Science (Bombay), 1982
Stanislav Grof: Principles of Holotropic Therapy, 1985
Willis Harman: Alternative Futures, 1980
Arthur Hastings: Transpersonal Realities (Boston), 1979
Albert Hofmann: LSD and the Nature of Reality, 1978
Albert Hofmann: Interviewed by Stanislav Grof, 1984
Albert Hofmann: Transmitter Receiver Concept of Reality, 1984
Aldous Huxley: Visionary Experience, 1960
Jack Kornfield: The Sword of Wisdom (Boston), 1979
Jack Kornfield: The Smile of the Buddha (Bombay), 1982
Stanley Krippner: Communes, Telepathy, and Dreams, 1971
John & Toni Lilly: Integrating Science and Mysticism, 1981
Abraham Maslow: Psychology of Religious Awareness, 1967
Terence McKenna: New and Old Maps of Hyperspace, 1982
Ralph Metzner: Symbolism of the Four Elements, 1979
Ralph Metzner: Maps, Models, and Metaphors (Boston), 1979
Henry Munn: Mushrooms and Culture, 1977
Henry Munn: Fable of the Vision Drink, 1977
Humphrey Osmond: Early Psychedelic History, 1976
Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance: Formative Causation (Bombay), 1982
Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance and Memory, 1985
Huston Smith: The Nature of Reality (Boston), 1979
Russel Targ: Parapsychology and Physics, 1972
Charles Tart: On the Paranormal, 1971
Charles Tart: Our Fear of Psychic Abilities, 1984
Andrew Weil: Psychoactive Drugs through Human History, 1983
Robert Anton Wilson: The I in the Triangle, 1984

Two-tape titles are $18:

Angeles Arrien: (2) The Story of Basque Mysticism, 1982
Angeles Arrien: (2) The Egyptian Tarot, 1982
Robert Bly: (2) An Evening at Esalen, 1982
Robert Bly: (2) Fairy Tales for Men and Women, 1982
Joseph Campbell: (2) Myths of Alienation and Rapture, 1970
Campbell/Keen: (2) The Dark Side of the Forest, 1985
Capra/Grof: (2) Beyond Time and Space, 1977
Prem Das: (2) The Huichol Cosmology (Creation and Return), 1977
Ram Dass: (2) One Man's Journey to the East, 1969
Ram Dass: (2) Creativity and Spirituality, 1987
Ram Dass: (2) The Heart of Compassion (SEVA), 1987
Stan & Christina Grof: (2) Holonomic Consciousness Paradigm, 1982
Stanislav Grof: (2) The Birth Trauma, 1981
Stanislav Grof: (2) Geometry of Psychopathology, 1984
Stanislav Grof: (2) The Cosmic Game, 1987
Michael Harner: (2) Shamanism, Songs, and Spirit Canoe, 1981
Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human (Boston), 1979
Timothy Leary: (2) The Power of Imprinting, 1982
Joseph Chilton Pearce: (2) The Magical Child, 1975
Kenneth Ring: (2) Near Death Experiences, 1985
Rupert Sheldrake: (2) A New Science of Life, 1982
Andrew Weil: (2) Use and Abuse of Beneficial Plants, 1982
Andrew Weil: (2) Interplay of Mind and Body Realities, 1982

Four-tape titles are $36:

Anne & Jim Armstrong: (4) A Workshop on Creativity and Spirituality, 1987
Joseph Campbell: (4) Imagery in the Novels of James Joyce, 1968
James Fadiman: (4) A Weekend of Stories, 1984
Roland Fischer: (4) Creative, Psychotic, & Ecstatic States, 1969
Buckminster Fuller: (4) Integrity Day (Marin), 1983
Jack Kornfield: (4) Buddhist Meditation and Practice, 1981
Timothy Leary: (4) A Day with Timothy Leary, 1982
Terence McKenna: (4) Psychedelics and a Free Society, 1984
Rupert Sheldrake: (4) Resonance and the Habits of Nature, 1987
Brother David Steindl-Rast: (4) Mysticism as a Frontier Experience, 1985

The Dolphin Vinyl Binder Tape Sets:

Robert Anton Wilson: (6) The 'Coincidance' of Joyce, 1985	$60
John C. Lilly: (6) Ego, Self, and Essence, 1971	$60
John C. Lilly: (6) The East Coast Workshop, 1973	$60
Rupert Sheldrake: (6) Seminar on the Presence of the Past, 1985	$60
UCSB Symposium: (6) Entheogens, The Spiritual Psychedelics, 1983	$60
Andrew Weil: (6) Integrated Consciousness and Health, 1976	$60
Robert Anton Wilson: (6) Seminar on the I in the Triangle, 1984	$60
Colin Wilson: (6) The New Analytic Philosophy, 1967	$60
Reb Anderson: (8) Zen is the Key, 1986	$72
Terence McKenna: (8) Lecture Series I (1982-83) or Series II (1983-86)	$72
Terence McKenna: (8) True Hallucinations (A Talking Book), 1984	$80
Joseph Campbell: (10) The World Mythology Series, 1969	$88
Gregory Bateson: (12) The Informal Esalen Lectures, 1975-80	$98

Please add $3 to your complete order for handling and mailing (add $3 more if you wish priority mail). Overseas orders add $1 per tape for mailing. California residents include 6% tax. (Institutional purchase orders please add 10% to tape cost for invoicing and deferred payment.) Allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery.

Please mail your order and your check payable to:
DOLPHIN TAPES, P.O. Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920

Advertisement: Dolphin Tapes is a private company independent of Esalen.

MAIL ORDER BOOKS

The Tao of Leadership – John Heider $10.95
An adaption of the Tao Te Ching that provides simple and clear advice on how to be the best kind of leader.

Body, Self, and Soul: Sustaining Integration – Jack Rosenberg $14.95
Written for health professionals interested in developing a more holistic and integrative mind-body approach to their practice.

The Silent Pulse – George Leonard $8.95
A search for the perfect rhythm that exists in each of us.

The Adventure of Self-Discovery – Stanislav Grof $12.95
A further exploration by Dr. Grof of the dimensions of consciousness and new perspectives in psychotherapy and inner exploration.

Job's Body: A Handbook for Bodywork – Deane Juhan $29.95
An in-depth examination of the human body that has been called the first definitive book on body work.

The Physical and Psychological Effects of Meditation – $17.95
Michael Murphy and Steven Donovan
A review of contemporary meditation research from 1931-1988, with a comprehensive bibliography.

Golf in the Kingdom – Michael Murphy $9.95
Describes Murphy's encounter with Shivas Irons, the Scottish shaman-golf pro, on the Links of Burningbush in Scotland.

Jacob Atabet – Michael Murphy $8.95
A speculative fiction which explores the possibilities for bodily transformation produced by powers of the mind.

An End to Ordinary History – Michael Murphy $11.95
Vladimir Kirov, KGB agent and Sufi initiate, and Darwin Fall, an American scholar, join forces to explore the secrets of bodily transformation.

Imagery in Healing – Jeanne Achterberg $10.95
A landmark work in holistic medicine that explores the relationship between the mind, mental imagery, and healing.

Dreambody – Arnold Mindell $14.95
An exploration of the hidden significance of physical sensations and body experiences and their role in revealing the self.

Life Force-Death Force – Alan Schwartz $14.95
A study of the structure of human energy and the biology of greed.

Fritz Perls – Jack Gaines $12.95
An oral history of the father of gestalt therapy that traces Perls from Europe to the U.S. and documents his struggle to gain acceptance of gestalt therapy.

Food for the Senses – Christine Stewart Price, editor $5.95
Recipes and art work from the Esalen community.

Body – Don Johnson $13.95
An investigation of the mind/body split and its implications and a look at how we can reunite feeling and thought.

Body Process – James Kepner $28.50
A gestalt approach to working with the body in psychotherapy for those who consider that body phenomena form an intrinsic part of enduring life themes, emotional and existential dilemmas.

A Zen Approach to Bodytherapy – Dub Leigh $14.50
A moving record of one pilgrimage to seek the highest attainment in the practice of body therapy.

The Enneagram – Helen Palmer $16.95
Defines the nine basic personality types and relates them to practical guidelines that enable us to see life more fully and which invite personal healing.

Ordering Information

Please add $3.00 for the first book and $1.00 for each additional title for UPS shipping and handling. California residents add 6% sales tax. Allow 4-6 weeks for delivery. Continental U.S. only.

Please make out your check to Esalen Institute (sorry – no credit cards). Mail your order with your check and daytime phone number to:
Esalen Bookstore, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

An Esalen Institute Publication

THE PHYSICAL AND PSYCHOLOGICAL EFFECTS OF MEDITATION

A Review of Contemporary Meditation Research With a Comprehensive Bibliography: 1931–1988

• Michael Murphy and Steven Donovan •

Containing over 1,000 bibliographic entries and a review of 700 studies, this monograph outlines the scientific research on what happens, physiologically and psychologically, during and after meditation sessions. Various types of meditation are included in the study, including Buddhist Vipassana or mindfulness meditation, The Relaxation Response technique of Dr. Herbert Benson, Transcendental Meditation, and many others. This rich accumulation of evidence is designed to allow scientists and researchers to better understand the potentially profound effects of meditation upon the mind and body.

". . . the most complete survey of meditation research available." – Herbert Benson, MD, Harvard University

". . . a superb and splendid job, yeoman work that will help everyone in the field." – Daniel Goleman, New York Times

". . . a unique research study . . . the summaries are expertly done and provide an accessible guide to research difficult to obtain otherwise." – Norman Cousins, author of Anatomy of an Illness

Esalen Institute, 1988. 225 pages. $20.00

Please send me _____ copies of The Physical and Psychological Effects of Meditation. I enclose a check or money order for $20.00 made out to "Esalen Monograph."

Name _____

Address _____

_____

Send to:
Esalen Monograph: 230 Forbes Avenue, San Rafael, CA 94901

BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

A

Ralph Abraham,
a mathematician, is known for his work in dynamics and chaos theory. He is a professor of mathematics and founder of the Visual Math Project at UCSC, and author of Dynamics: The Geometry of Behavior.
p. 24

Jeanne Achterberg,
author of Imagery in Healing, has a doctorate in psychology and physiology and is an internationally acclaimed pioneer in the study of the mind-body connection.
p. 17, 24, 35

Yuri Afanasyev,
Soviet historian and director of the All-Union National Archive, is a well-known public figure who openly discusses perestroika, glasnost, Stalin, and the re-thinking of Soviet history.
p. 10

Akhter Ahsen
is a Fellow of the American Psychological Association, author of more than a dozen books, and editor of the "Journal of Mental Imagery."
p. 27

Ijalu Akanbe
has danced with Olatunji for 24 years and is dance captain of the Drums of Passion Dancers.
p. 14

John Allen,
class "A" PGA member and former tour player, has been a teaching golf professional for over 20 years and a serious student of the inner game for the past 5.
p. 27

Maurica Anderson
is studying the relationship between humor and mental health. She has led High Sierra wilderness trips for many years.
p. 20, 37

Anne Armstrong
has been doing transpersonal counseling for over 24 years and has trained professionals to use their own intuitive abilities.
p. 21

Jim Armstrong,
a former engineer, is a lifelong student and teacher of esoteric studies.
p. 21

Elliot Waker Aronson,
UCSC professor and president of the Western Psychological Association, is author of Career Burnout and The Handbook of Social Psychology. His work combines the humanistic with the scientific.
p. 23, 31

Jim Asher
has been practicing cranial work since 1973. He is a Rolfing® teacher and an advanced Rolfer, certified by Ida Rolf.
p. 13, 34

Judith Aston
is the creator of Aston-Patterning, which includes teaching through movement education, joint manipulation, deep tissue work, and the design of objects which support the body.
p. 27, 32

Nancy Azara
is a sculptor, painter, and psychic consultant specializing in the creative process. She is co-founder of the New York Feminist Art Institute (NYFAI) Women's Center for Learning.
p. 23

B

Jamie Baraz
has taught Vipassana (insight) meditation retreats since 1977. He is on the Board of Directors of Insight Meditation West and the Dharma Foundation.
p. 20

Harold Benjamin,
author of From Victim to Victor, is the Founder of The Wellness Community concept and the executive director of The Wellness-National.
p. 30

Joel Bergman
is on the senior faculty of the Ackerman Institute for Family Therapy, adjunct editor of "Family Process," author of Fishing for Barracuda, and in private practice in New York City.
p. 30

Bradley Bernstein
is a theater director and psychologist. He was the first director of improvisation at the Sundance Institute Playwrights' Lab and has traveled worldwide creating new theater in diverse settings.
p. 19

Cynthia Johnson Bianchetta
is an artist, dancer, and photographer. She was the assistant director of the Museum of Photographic Arts and director of the Weston Photographic Gallery.
p. 6

Daniel Bianchetta,
longtime Esalen resident and workshop leader, is an intuitive counselor and also does body work. He is a student and teacher of meditation.
p. 6

Judy Blackstone
is a dancer, meditation teacher, author, and counselor. She is the founder of The Subtle Self in Motion, a method for deepening experience through movement.
p. 18

Stephen Book
is an international/Off Broadway/regional theater director and teacher. On the faculty at USC after a long tenure at The Julliard School, he also heads his own professional studio in Hollywood.
p. 31

Sylvia Boorstein
is a clinical psychologist in private practice. In teaching Vipassana she emphasizes integrating meditation insights into daily life, especially with relationships.
p. 19

Char Pias Brenner,
dancer, singer, performing artist, massage teacher, and mother, is currently in residence at Esalen Institute.
p. 29, 35

Lois Brien
is dean of the School of Psychology and Human Behavior at National University in San Diego. She has spent many years training gestalt practitioners and writing about gestalt work.
p. 24

Jessica Moore Britt
is a teacher of gestalt and Reichian work at Esalen. She is a member of the Ridhwan Work School, which is dedicated to understanding personality and essential development.
p. 8, 26, 28

Charles Brooks,
author of Sensory Awareness, the Rediscovery of Experiencing, has been a teacher of Sensory Awareness since 1963, often in conjunction with Charlotte Selver.
p. 27, 32

Mel Bucholtz
trained with the late Milton Erickson in the use of hypnosis and has a private practice in Cambridge, MA. He is co-founder of Nomad University and the Returning to Earth Institute.
p. 27

C

Anne Caple
is an image and wardrobe consultant, technical editor, and student of mythology.
p. 14

John Caple
is a former businessman and college professor who consults with and counsels executives and others wishing to be more effective.
p. 14

Fritjof Capra
is a physicist and systems theorist, founder of the Elmwood Institute, and author of The Tao of Physics, The Turning Point, and Uncommon Wisdom.
p. 10

Paul Carter,
co-founder and director of Meta Education and Training Arts since 1976, leads workshops around the world on Whole/Parts Transformation, Ericksonian hypnosis, and creativity.
p. 31

Seymour Carter,
longtime gestalt teacher at Esalen and in Europe, combines studies in sensory awareness, Zen Buddhism, aikido, and other body-oriented practices.
p. 6, 15, 25, 31

Michell Cassou
is the founder of an original approach to painting designed to stimulate and unblock creativity. She is director of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 15, 24, 31

Kenn Chase,
teacher of traditional Yang style t'ai chi ch'uan for 20 years, combines body alignment, relaxation, and breathing methods. He has studied with masters of t'ai chi, kung fu, and chi kung.
p. 21

Jack Cirie,
certified Leonard Energy Trainer, aikidoist, and fitness expert, heads Development & Delivery of Training with SportsMind Inc. He has worked with corporate managers, Army Special Forces, athletes.
p. 8

Bonnie Bainbridge Cohen
is creator of the somatic educational and therapeutic system called Body-Mind Centering.
p. 27, 32

Leonard Cohen
is co-founder and administrative director of the School for Body-Mind Centering, a chiropractor, and longtime student of aikido.
p. 27, 32

Stephen Cohen,
an Esalen resident, gestalt practitioner, and Experiencing Esalen staff member, is a longtime golf hacker.
p. 27

Didi Conn
starred in the movies You Light Up My Life and Grease (I and II), and was featured regularly in the TV series, Benson.
p. 19

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud
is the founder of Continuum. Her innovative approach to movement has enhanced the creativity of artists in many fields and has led to new insights into the healing process.
p. 22, 27, 32

Phil Cousineau,
a freelance writer, has taught screenwriting at the American Film Institute. He was co-writer and associate producer on The Hero's Journey: The World of Joseph Campbell.
p. 9, 29

Stewart Cubley,
artist and scientist, is co-founder with Michell Cassou of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 15, 24

Dale Cummings,
certified Radix® teacher and counselor in private practice in West Los Angeles, is director of first-year training for the Radix Institute in Ojai.
p. 9

D

David Darling
is a master cellist, composer, conductor, and teacher whose many recordings include Journal October, Cycles, River Notes, and Amber.
p. 29

John Densmore
is a musician, actor, and writer. He was the drummer for The Doors and has just completed his autobiography, Riders on the Storm.
p. 29

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)
is a certified Radix® teacher on Esalen's gestalt staff, with over 15 years of experience combining Reichian body work, vision work, movement, ritual, and meditation.
p. 6, 12, 21

Patrick Douce,
a student of Moshe Feldenkrais, has been a resident at Esalen since 1972. Since 1986 he has lived half the year in Bali, where he studies Balinese healing practices.
p. 12, 19, 34, 35

Rachael Dutton
is a sculptor, dreamer, and twice Visiting Artist at Claremont Graduate School. She wrote "Below the Threshold of Myth" for Psychological Perspectives (Spring/Summer 1988).
p. 11, 28

Joel Dweck
is a Reichian practitioner in private practice in Los Angeles, where he also directs the Core Contact training program.
p. 16

Ken Dychtwald
is a psychologist and the founder of Age Wave, Inc. He has written extensively on the healthcare system in America and the problems facing an aging society.
p. 21

E

Diane Egli,
violinist and member of the Suzuki Association of America, teacher/performer, and Gazebo teacher at Esalen, was a California Arts Council "Artist in Residence." She has a master's degree in music.
p. 22

CAROLINE FRANCONI

Sydney Ocean, Eric Erickson, and Tom Brenner

Esalen Massage Practitioners:
Peggy Horan and George King.
p. 17, 22, 35

F

James Fadiman
is a psychologist, a consultant to industry, and a teacher of Sufi stories. His latest book is Unlimit Your Life.
p. 27

David Feinstein,
psychologist and director of Innersource, taught at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine and co-authored Personal Mythology: The Psychology of Your Evolving Self and Rituals for Living and Dying.
p. 25

Syd Field
is a screenwriter, producer, teacher, international lecturer, and author of Screenplay and The Screenwriter's Workbook.
p. 28

Jerry Fletcher
is president and founder of High Performance Dynamics, Inc., a management consulting and training company based in San Anselmo, CA.
p. 13

Kathleen Fletcher
is a trainer and consultant in organizational development, working in both the profit and non-profit sectors.
p. 13

Joyce Frazee,
gestalt and dream work practitioner for 15 years in Vancouver, Canada, has training in Jungian dream analysis, bioenergetics, and group process.
p. 26

G

Elinor Gadon
uses images and symbols from the visual arts and popular media for analysis of self in culture. She is the author of the forthcoming The Once and Future Goddess: A Symbol for Our Time.
p. 20

Jim Garrison,
executive director of the Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program, has recently initiated an economics and management training project for Soviet entrepreneurs.
p. 12

Mariah Fenton Gladis,
a gestalt practitioner and trainer, founded and directed the Bucks County Institute for 12 years. She is currently co-director of the Pennsylvania Gestalt Center.
p. 13, 34, 36

Herbert Gold
has published over 20 books, most recently Lovers & Cohorts: Twenty-Seven Stories, and the novels A Girl of Forty and Dreaming.
p. 22

Mary Goldenson (Devarani),
a chiropractor, certified Radix® teacher, and doctoral candidate in clinical psychology, is in private practice in West Los Angeles.
p. 24, 30

Stanislav Grof,
a psychiatrist who has extensive experience in consciousness research with and without psychedelics, is author of Realms of the Human Unconscious, LSD Psychotherapy, and Beyond the Brain.
p. 18

Lenore Grubinger,
founder of Creative Bodywork™, works with children and adults, tours internationally, and is on the staff of the school for Body-Mind Centering™ in Amherst, MA.
p. 29

H

Robert Hall,
physician, psychiatrist, and teacher, has studied the mind-body process and meditation for 25 years. He is co-founder of the Lomi School and the Tomales School of Psychotherapy.
p. 8, 27, 32

Betty Halpern,
coordinator of Early Childhood Education, Sonoma State University, has extensive experience in a variety of school settings and grade levels with special interest in teacher development.
p. 13

Anna Halprin,
dance director of Tamalpa Institute and Steps Theater Company, works with people with life-threatening illnesses, is creator of Circle the Earth, and author of Movement Ritual.
p. 7, 21, 34

Daria Halprin-Khalighi,
teacher and counselor, developed the Creative Process Method, integrating art and psychology to facilitate creative expression and growth. She is co-founder of Tamalpa Institute.
p. 28

Thomas Hanna
is director of the Novato Institute for Somatic Research and Training, editor of Somatics magazine, and author of The Body of Life, Bodies in Revolt, and Somatics.
p. 18

Steven Harper
teaches for Colorado Outward Bound and the National Outdoor Leadership School, coordinates Esalen Wilderness Programs, and is director of Earthways Wilderness Journeys.
p. 9, 10, 12, 16, 18, 21, 25, 28, 36, 37

Susan Harper
teaches Continuum Dance Meditation workshops in Los Angeles and San Francisco, leads Dance the River trips on wild rivers, and has presented at the Joy-Spangler Asilomar Conference.
p. 12

Jane Harrington
is a certified Rolfer and Rolf movement teacher with extensive craniosacral experience. She is in private practice in Boulder, CO.
p. 13, 34

Richard A. Heckler
has practiced individual and family counseling for 10 years and teaches the Hakomi Method throughout the U.S. He is director of the Holistic Health Program at J.F.K. University.
p. 6

Richard Strozzi Heckler,
psychologist and 4th-degree black belt in aikido, has worked with such diverse groups as the Army Special Forces, emotionally disturbed children, corporate executives, and inner city gangs.
p. 24

John Heider,
a psychologist living in Lawrence, KS, is a group leader and teacher of group leaders. He was part of the Esalen Resident Program from 1967-71.
p. 22

Robert Helm,
an Esalen massage crew member, blends a broad range of body work methods with the sense of presence he feels is the heart of Esalen massage.
p. 11, 22, 34, 35, 36

Nick Herbert
is the author of Quantum Reality: Beyond the New Physics and is currently working on a book about time travel.
p. 18

Gabriele Hilberg-Thomson
has conducted workshops for health professionals in Europe, Australia, and New Zealand. She supports individuals in healing childhood traumas and furthering spiritual development.
p. 23, 31

Edward Hoffman
is a licensed psychologist in New York City, is the author of several books on the Kabbalah, including The Way of Splendor and The Heavenly Ladder.
p. 16

J

Eli Jaxon-Bear
is a trainer in neurolinguistics and an examiner with the American Council of Hypnotist Examiners. He is the past-president of a Tibetan Buddhist meditation center.
p. 8, 17, 32, 34, 35

Don Johnson,
author and somatic practitioner, is director of the graduate studies program in somatic psychology and education at Antioch University and coordinator of Esalen's program in somatic education.
p. 27, 32, 35

K

Vladimir Karpov
is the First Secretary of the powerful Union of Writers of the U.S.S.R., a writer of novels and nonfiction about WWII, and a decorated war hero.
p. 10

Norman Katz
is director of the Milton Erickson Institute of Hypnosis and the Behavioral Sciences of New Mexico. He teaches in Albuquerque and Santa Fe.
p. 14

Sam Keen
is the author of 10 books, including The Passionate Life and, most recently, Faces of the Enemy.
p. 9, 30

Margaret Kemeny
is trained in behavioral science and immunology. She conducts psychoneuroimmunologic research at UCLA School of Medicine on individuals infected with the Human Immunodeficiency Virus.
p. 26, 35

George Kohlrieser,
a clinical psychologist with an international practice, researches and applies attachment and separation theory to relationships, psychosomatic illness, violence prevention, and hostage negotiations.
p. 21

Mari Krieger
is a counselor in full-time practice. She works with individuals, couples, groups, and organizations, and teaches at John F. Kennedy University.
p. 27

Stanley Krippner,
psychologist, researcher, and professor of psychology at Saybrook Institute, co-authored Personal Mythology: The Psychology of Your Evolving Self, Dreamworking, and Dream Telepathy.
p. 25

Ron Kurtz
is the founder and director of the Hakomi Institute. He is the author of Hakomi Therapy and co-author of The Body Reveals.
p. 6

L

Stephen LaBerge
is a scientist dedicated to the transformation of human consciousness. He teaches and researches conscious or "lucid" dreaming at Stanford University.
p. 16

Frank Lawlis,
psychology doctorate and diplomate, is the founder of a clinical behavioral medicine program and the director of three hospital-based pain clinics.
p. 17, 24, 35

Eric Lawton
is a lawyer and award-winning photographer who has traveled and exhibited all over the world. He performed his multi-media show at the Hollywood Bowl with the L.A. Philharmonic in 1986.
p. 29

Janet Lederman
is executive director and designer of Esalen's Gazebo School and Gazebo philosophy of learning.
p. 13, 36

Lenore Lefer
practices psychosynthesis as a counselor, teacher, trainer, and consultant in San Francisco and elsewhere.
p. 18

Marc Lehrer
teaches clinical hypnosis and biofeedback nationally and internationally. He studied hypnosis with Milton Erickson and John Grinder, and resides in Santa Cruz, CA.
p. 14

Dub Leigh,
longtime body work practitioner, was trained and certified by his friends Ida Rolf, Moshe Feldenkrais, and Tanouye roshi.
p. 16, 17, 35

Annie Styron Leonard
is a founder of the Energy Training Institute in Mill Valley, CA, and an aikido black belt.
p. 11

George Leonard
is a 3rd-degree aikido black belt, founder of Leonard Energy Training (LET), and author of The Silent Pulse, Adventures in Monogamy, and Walking on the Edge of the World.
p. 8, 11, 14

Abraham Levitsky
co-authored The Rules and Games of Gestalt Therapy with Fritz Perls. He is interested in the integration of gestalt practice with psychoanalysis.
p. 15

Elisa Lodge
comes from a professional acting background, is a certified Rolf movement teacher, and has a practice in shamanic counseling at Esalen Institute.
p. 10, 30, 36

Paul Lounsbury
has studied extensively with Milton Erickson and has conducted numerous training seminars on the use of hypnosis and strategic counseling. He is in private practice in New York.
p. 19

Nancy Kaye Lunney,
formerly a vocal coach and accompanist for well-known entertainers, is a gestalt practitioner, director of programming at Esalen, and a guest faculty member at Cornell University.
p. 19

Joyce Lyke,
gestalt practitioner and member of the Esalen gestalt staff, is a teacher in training in the Ridhwan Work School, which is dedicated to understanding personality and essential development.
p. 22

M

Dean Marson
is a member of the Esalen massage crew. His interests include subtle body work and methods of self-care.
p. 22, 35

Edward Maupin,
psychologist, has been a Rolfer for twenty years. An Esalen resident from 1966-70, he currently teaches at IPSB, a school of contemporary body work in San Diego.
p. 36

Jamie McHugh
is educational director of the Tamalpa Institute Dancer's Workshop. He is a performer and teacher.
p. 21

Terence McKenna
authored True Hallucinations and Timewave Zero. He is a psychoactivist and has argued for a reexamining of the role that hallucinogenic plants play in forming human languages and cultures.
p. 13, 24

Deborah Anne Medow,
Esalen group leader and body work practitioner since 1968, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, gestalt awareness, and related healing disciplines throughout the U.S. and Europe.
p. 24, 35

Bob Melville
is a veteran Grand Canyon river guide of 16 years. He shares the wonders of the Canyon through his knowledge and experience.
p. 25, 37

Donald Michael,
professor emeritus of planning and public policy and professor of psychology at the University of Michigan, is the author of On Learning to Plan and Planning to Learn.
p. 8

Hugh Milne,
third-generation Scottish osteopath with 20 years' experience, has practiced and taught cranial work, healing, and psychometry in England, India, Switzerland, and the U.S. He works in San Francisco.
p. 19, 35

Amy Mindell,
a graduate in Process-Oriented Psychology, is an artist and psychologist in private practice in Zurich. She has taught movement and process work all over the world.
p. 15

Arnold Mindell,
founder of Process-Oriented Psychology, is a Jungian analyst, resident of Zurich, part-time resident teacher at Esalen, and author of Dreambody, Coma, The Year 1, and Inner Work.
p. 15

Patricia Monighan-Nourot,
assistant professor of education, Sonoma State University, is co-author of Looking at Children Play. She's a former elementary school teacher and teacher-director of a parent cooperative preschool.
p. 13

Beverly Kitaen Morse
is a marriage and family counselor in private practice in Santa Monica and a senior instructor at the Rosenberg-Rand Institute for Integrative Body Psychotherapy.
p. 12, 31, 34

Arthur Munyer,
a member of the Esalen massage crew, is a longtime body work practitioner trained by Dub Leigh and Lauren Berry.
p. 15, 26, 34, 35

Dulce Murphy,
a founder of the Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program and director of SAEP's health promotion project, organized a 1988 conference in Moscow attended by 20 American and 200 Soviet scientists.
p. 12

N

Robert Nadeau,
an aikido master, has been one of the leading exponents of energy awareness at Esalen in the seventies and eighties.
p. 22

Claudio Naranjo,
theorist of growth disciplines and former Esalen resident, introduced meditation as a component of gestalt practice.
p. 13

Tom Newell
is a counselor at St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco and is in private practice in Sonoma County.
p. 20, 37

John Nicholas,
a graduate of the C.G. Jung Institute in Zurich, is a teacher, counselor, author, analyst, and international career management consultant.
p. 29

O

Violet Oaklander,
a psychologist in Santa Barbara, CA, is the author of Windows to Our Children: A Gestalt Therapy Approach to Children and Adolescents. She leads workshops thoughout the world.
p. 29

Babatunde Olatunji,
master percussionist from Nigeria, has performed internationally for over 30 years and is known for his album Drums of Passion. He is an authority on African religion.
p. 14

Richard Olney
has studied with Alan Watts, Fritz Perls, and Alexander Lowen, and has been influenced by the eidetic imagery work of Akhter Ahsen. He has led self-acceptance trainings in the U.S. and Europe.
p. 27

Kathleen O'Shaughnessy
has been involved for 20 years in body/mind disciplines and for 12 years with the major psychological practices, transpersonal crisis, and the shamanic outlook.
p. 17

Brita Ostrom,
a longtime Esalen massage practitioner, incorporates Trager℠ training and gestalt awareness work with the personal energetic connection of the Esalen massage.
p. 22, 35

P

Rick Paine,
psychologist, works with adult children of alcoholics and leads workshops for emerging men. He is on the faculties of the New York Open Center, Interface, and Spring Hill Institute.
p. 30, 35

Karen Paine-Gernée,
co-author of Emotional Healing: Overcoming the Wounds of Growing Up in Alcoholic and Other Unhealthy Families, leads workshops for ACAs and those with catastrophic illness.
p. 30, 35

Helen Palmer,
a practicing intuitive for 18 years, directs the Center for the Investigation and Training of Intuition and is a graduate faculty member of John F. Kennedy University.
p. 4, 10

Wendy Palmer,
faculty member of the Center for the Investigation and Training of Intuition, holds a 3rd-degree black belt in aikido and is co-founder of the Tamalpais Aikido and International Movement Arts Center.
p. 25, 28, 37

Laurie Lioness Parizek,
a member of the Esalen massage crew and teaching staff since 1974, integrates traditional and innovative approaches to healing the body, mind, and spirit.
p. 6, 27, 34, 35

Christine Stewart Price
is a teacher and ongoing student of gestalt practice and other approaches to developing awareness.
p. 11, 18, 28, 34, 35

Bill Puka,
ethics professor at Rensselaer and psychological researcher at Harvard's Center for Moral Development, practices meditation and yoga. He has formulated federal legislation on economic democracy.
p. 31

Jill Purce
is author of The Mystic Spiral. She investigated the mystical dimension of sound with Karlheinz Stockhausen and the magical use of the voice and overtone chanting with Tibetan lamas.
p. 25

Q

Janet Quinn
is an associate professor of nursing at the University of Colorado. She conducts Therapeutic Touch research and has given TT workshops throughout the U.S. and Canada since 1976.
p. 18, 35

R

Paul Rebillot,
a group leader at Esalen for 16 years, combines gestalt methodology with theater and ritual. He divides his time between Europe and the U.S.
p. 10, 28, 29

Devi Records
is a founding member and senior trainer for the Hakomi Institute. She has a private practice in Boulder, CO, and leads seminars throughout the U.S., Canada, and Germany.
p. 6

JOICE EVE

Sogyal Rinpoche

Linda Rice-Mandigo
is a psychologist in private practice in New York and a practitioner of the spiritual discipline Mahikari-No-Waza.
p. 16

Tracey Rich
has earned the title "Yoga Acharya" and is the associate director of White Lotus Foundation. She trains teachers and students and leads seminars nationally.
p. 8

Ridhwan Work School Faculty
The Ridhwan Work School is dedicated to the discovery, development, and preservation of the human essence.
p. 15

Sogyal Rinpoche,
an incarnate lama, scholar, and meditation master from Tibet, prominent in the West, is an authority on the traditional knowledge of the Tibetan Book of the Dead.
p. 12

Bernadette Roberts,
a lifelong Christian contemplative with a monastic background, is the author of The Experience of No-Self and The Path to No-Self, and most recently, What is Self?
p. 28

William Pennell Rock
is founder-director of Origins, a workshop process for creating and performing contemporary myths. He has lectured, led workshops, and directed productions in Europe, Asia, and the U.S.
p. 6

William George Roll,
professor of parapsychology at West Georgia College and lay Zen monk with Dai Bosatsu Zendo, focuses on the development of methods for clinical parapsychology and spiritual awareness.
p. 28

Nancy Rosanoff
is a psychic counselor who teaches and works in New York City.
p. 22

Jack Rosenberg,
a psychologist and director of the Rosenberg-Rand Institute of Integrative Body Psychotherapy in Venice, CA, is the author of Body, Self, and Soul.
p. 12, 31, 34

Gabrielle Roth
is an artist, teacher, and healer. She is the founder and artistic director of the American Ritual Theater Lab and its rock band and theater company, "The Mirrors."
p. 23

Ilana Rubenfeld,
pioneer of 25 years in the body-mind-spirit field and originator of the Rubenfeld Synergy Method®, is a certified teacher of the Alexander Technique and Feldenkrais® Method and is a gestalt practitioner.
p. 20

Anne Ruderman
is a Reichian practitioner and licensed clinical social worker in private practice in Los Angeles.
p. 16

Gordy Ryan
has roots in the Big Sur Primitive Jazz Society and has studied and performed with Olatunji for 16 years.
p. 14

Claire Ryle
is the project director of the Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program's Afghan-Vietnam veterans rehabilitation project.
p. 12

S

Stephano Sabetti,
founder of the Institute for Life Energy® and the Life Energy Process™, has a doctorate in psychology and is an acupuncturist. He is also an organizational consultant.
p. 25

Michael Samuels
is a physician, visionary, and co-author of many books on self-care, including Seeing with the Mind's Eye, The Well Body Book, The Well Baby Book, and The Well Pregnancy Book.
p. 24, 35

David Schiffman,
a longtime group leader at Esalen, is involved in developing full expression of mental, physical, and spiritual states of being.
p. 7, 11, 14, 17, 21, 23, 26, 27

Laurie Schutz,
longtime Esalen massage practitioner and teacher, incorporates varied approaches to allow for nurturing, balance, and integration of the body. She has also led parent-infant workshops.
p. 17, 29, 35

Will Schutz,
founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of The Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations. He is the author of Joy and Profound Simplicity.
p. 22

Alan Schwartz,
longtime Esalen group leader, college professor, and gestalt practitioner in NYC, is the author of Life Force–Death Force: The Structure of Human Energy and the Biology of Greed.
p. 19

Stephan A. Schwartz
is chairman and research director of The Mobius Society. For more than 20 years he has explored extraordinary human performance.
p. 4, 15

Mia Segal
was Moshe Feldenkrais' first assistant. She worked with him in Israel, Europe, and the U.S. She is now teaching in Switzerland, Holland, and England.
p. 31

Charlotte Selver,
student of Elsa Gindler, introduced Sensory Awareness to the U.S. and has been closely connected with Esalen and the San Francisco Zen Center since their beginnings.
p. 27, 32

Phyllis Shankman
is a licensed counselor in private practice in West Los Angeles. She has been leading groups at Esalen for over 10 years.
p. 9

Paula Shaw
has acted and taught professionally for over 20 years, most recently conducting in-house workshops for Esalen staff in the area of creative well-being.
p. 36

Cyndy Sheldon
is co-founder and current president of the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco and on the faculty of the Gestalt Education Network International in Frankfurt, Germany.
p. 6

Rupert Sheldrake
is a biologist. Formerly a research fellow of the Royal Society at Cambridge University, he is the controversial author of A New Science of Life and The Presence of the Past.
p. 24

David Shire
won an Oscar for his song "Norma Rae" and has written numerous film scores as well as the music for the Tony-nominated Broadway show, Baby.
p. 19

Fred Shoemaker,
an inner game teacher and golf professional, is a former golf coach at UCSB and has written about the inner game for Golf magazine.
p. 27

David Silverstein
is a Reichian practitioner and longtime Esalen group leader. He is currently a teacher in training with A. Hameed Ali from the Ridhwan Work School.
p. 22

Fritz Smith
is a physician, cranial osteopath, certified acupuncturist, and founder of Zero Balancing. He is the author of Inner Bridges: A Guide to Energy Movement and Body Structure.
p. 16, 25, 35

George Freeman Solomon, physician and professor of psychiatry at UCLA, is a pioneer in the field of psychoneuroimmunology, whose current research concerns psychoneuroimmunologic aspects of AIDS and of aging.
p. 26, 35

Gena Mayer Sorensen,
a marriage and family counselor, is in private practice in San Jose and San Francisco. She holds an adjunct certificate as a Radix® teacher.
p. 9

Tama Starr
is a businesswoman and community leader in New York City. She has practiced yoga and t'ai chi ch'uan since 1966, and was one of the founders of San Francisco's Inner Research Institute.
p. 25

Charles Steinberg
is a physician/healer. He founded Wellspring, Partners in Health, in Boulder, CO, a holistic primary care center where he works with people with AIDS and other life-threatening illnesses.
p. 30, 35

Brother David Steindl-Rast,
Benedictine monk, hermit, psychologist, and author, has lectured on five continents. He is concerned with the spiritual challenges of our time.
p. 9, 10, 26, 27

James Stewart
teaches body work at IPSB in San Diego and has co-led the Imaginal Seminars offered quarterly in San Diego since 1979.
p. 36

Elizabeth Stratton,
pastoral counselor and healer in private practice in New York City, leads workshops in self-healing and a two-year training program for healers entitled "Awakening the Healer Within You."
p. 17, 18, 35

David Streeter
is a certified sports massage practitioner on the Esalen massage staff. He has taught yoga and anatomy and has worked as an athletic trainer for many years.
p. 15, 26, 34, 35

T

Yao Tamakloe
studied African dance, music, and literature at the University of Ghana and at UCLA. He dances with the Drums of Passion Dancers.
p. 14

Keith Thompson
is a writer and video oral historian whose focus is preserving personal and family stories. His articles have appeared in Esquire, New Age Journal, and the San Francisco Sunday Chronicle.
p. 9

Lia Thompson-Clark
is the acting director of Esalen's Gazebo School and associate in the development of the Gazebo philosophy of learning.
p. 13

Vicki Topp,
Esalen massage staff member since 1968, teaches soft and sensitive use of pressure points and deep tissue massage combined with emotional and transpersonal body practices.
p. 11, 24, 34, 35

U

Dana Ullman
authored Homeopathy: Medicine for the 21st Century and co-authored Everybody's Guide to Homeopathic Medicines. He is president of the Foundation for Homeopathic Education and Research.
p. 20, 35

V

Attila Vaas
has been a member of the Esalen massage staff since 1976. His skills include polarity, acupressure, and Esalen's free-form style of massage.
p. 6, 27, 34, 35

Kenneth Van Sickle
studied painting in NYC and Paris in the 50s, was a still photographer in the 60s, and a cinematographer on documentaries and feature films in the 60s and 70s, including Marjoe and Hester Street.
p. 19

Antoinette Varner
is an acupuncturist, herbalist, and movement teacher whose work integrates cognitive learning, the body, and spiritual experience.
p. 8, 17, 32, 34, 35

Rana Vassau,
California Institute of Integral Studies graduate, teaches "Dance as a Self-Healing Art" at Southwestern College and studies the relationship between the imaginal and feeling bodies.
p. 7, 34

W

Ellen Watson
is a practitioner of hypnosis, massage, hatha and taoist yoga, and Grof holotropic integration.
p. 36

Judyth Weaver,
a Reichian counselor and teacher of t'ai chi ch'uan and sensory awareness, holds a doctorate in psychology. She is a longtime student of Buddhism and Taoism and studied in a Zen monastery in Japan.
p. 23

Ganga White,
internationally-known teacher and master of yoga, is author of Double Yoga and has received the titles "Yoga Acharya" and "Yogiraj" in India.
p. 8

David Whyte
is a poet and lecturer. He is the author of Songs for Coming Home and is currently at work on his second volume of poems, Where Many Rivers Meet. He leads workshops throughout the U.S.
p. 25

Nancy Winston
is a counselor in New York City who has studied with Milton Erickson and has taught and trained clinicians throughout North America in the use of hypnosis and counseling.
p. 19

Y

Anne Yeomans
has worked within the framework of psychosynthesis since 1971 as counselor, teacher, and trainer, now focusing on issues of inner and outer peacemaking, non-violence, and conflict resolution.
p. 18

Z

Ruth Zaporah,
performance artist and teacher, regularly presents her work throughout the U.S. and Europe. She is a recipient of a National Endowment for the Arts Choreographer's Fellowship.
p. 26

Janet Zuckerman
is founder of the Feeling Center in Big Sur, CA. She has been teaching at Esalen for the past 14 years.
p. 9, 13, 23, 25, 34, 35, 36

Ofer Zur
is a teacher, researcher, and writer in the area of the psychology of peace and war. He is on the faculty of the California Institute of Integral Studies in San Francisco.
p. 16

ESALEN INSTITUTE RESERVATIONS

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. In completing the form, please indicate the name, address, and telephone number of each person registering and clearly indicate the title of the workshop for which each person is reserving a place. A nonrefundable deposit for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (See General Information, page 50.)

(Please Print)

Name _____ Sex M ☐ F ☐

Address _____

City, State _____ ZIP _____

Telephone Number: Home: Area Code ( ) _____ Work: Area Code ( ) _____

Occasionally there are unexpected situations that require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you? _____. If you can't be reached, please call us before your scheduled arrival for final confirmation. Please indicate your second choice for a workshop, in case your first choice is canceled and we are unable to reach you.

(On additional paper please repeat the above information for every person in your party making a reservation.
Mail to: Reservations, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.)

☐ Check if you want housing as a couple.
☐ Check if you want the discounted bunkbed option (see page 5).
☐ Check if you want the discounted student sleeping bag option (see page 5).
☐ Check if you want the sleeping bag option (see page 5).

All of our rooms are non-smoking.

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form. Please allow three weeks for scholarship processing. For further details, see Ways of Being at Esalen, page 5.

Bus Service: I want bus service from (check one):

☐ Monterey Greyhound Bus Station at approximately 3:45 PM
☐ Monterey Airport at approximately 4:00 PM

on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays & Sundays only).

The $25 per person charge is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the bus change after you submit this reservation, please notify us. The only departing bus service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM. Esalen bus service is not available at any time other than as listed.

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

We are unable to act as a banking service for our guests. Please bring adequate funds for your stay.

Name of Person Registering	Date(s)	Leader's Name/Title of Workshop	Deposit Enclosed

Total amount enclosed: $ _____

Please make checks payable to Esalen Institute, in U.S. currency only.

Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks.

Your reservation can be charged to:

☐ MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express

Card No. _____

Expiration Date _____

Authorizing Signature _____

All workshops require nonrefundable reservation fees. See page 50. The balance of program fees becomes payable at the time of check-in.

Esalen Institute is a center to encourage work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. Its activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Esalen lies 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco, situated directly over the Pacific with the Santa Lucia Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was once the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esselen.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute – By Reservation Only.

Fees and Reservations: Pre-registration, either by mail or phone, is required prior to arrival. A registration form is provided on page 49. Workshops fill quickly, so it is advisable to sign up as early as possible, preferably one month in advance. In order to reserve a space in any workshop, we require the following reservation fees:

Weekend:	$50	Two-week:	$200
Five-Day:	$100	Three-week:	$300
Seven-Day:	$150	Month-long:	$400

Fees are payable in U.S. currency only. Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks. Balance of payment is due on arrival. These fees are not refundable but, with five days' notice, may be transferred to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year of receipt. Those who pay in full at the time they make their reservations will receive a $10 discount. Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is canceled and we are unable to reach you.

Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Rooms are shared by two or more workshop participants. Camping on the grounds is prohibited.

We know it can be difficult to get through by phone, so we encourage you to mail your reservations. Mail all reservations to:

Reservations
Esalen Institute
Big Sur, CA 93920

However, it is possible to make your reservations by phone. If you prefer this option, please have your MasterCard, Visa, or American Express credit card number ready when you call.

Phones
Reservations: (408) 667-3005
General Information: (408) 667-3000

To make a phone reservation, call the reservations number during the following office hours:

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday 10 AM to 3 PM
Wednesday 10 AM to 12 Noon
Friday 10 AM to 5 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 5 PM

If there is no answer during our regular business hours, and the phone company confirms that our phones are out of order, please call our alternate number, (408) 372-8719, for recorded up-to-date workshop, road, and transportation information.

Scholarships: For information on scholarships and other economical ways of staying at Esalen, see page 5.

Check-in and Meals: Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with lunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Sunday and end with lunch on Friday. Check-out time is noon of departure day. Rooms become available at 4 PM; however, guests are welcome to arrive any time after 2 PM.

Esalen's flourishing organic garden provides the kitchen with many of its vegetables and herbs. Our breads and pastries are baked at Esalen.

Seminarians as Volunteers: Seminarians in residence at Esalen are requested to contribute several hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out. A staff member will appear at your first workshop meeting to schedule volunteers.

Bus Service: On Fridays and Sundays we have bus service from the Monterey Greyhound station leaving approximately at 3:45 PM and from the Monterey Airport approximately at 4 PM. If you plan to use this service, please inform the Esalen office at least 24 hours prior to your arrival. The $25 one-way fee is payable to the Esalen office when you check in. Return reservations may be made at that time. The only departing bus service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM.

Gazebo School: Requests for child care should be sent at least one month in advance to Gazebo, c/o Esalen Institute.

Health Services: We are unable to provide medical supervision or pharmaceutical supplies. If you are on a health-care program and you plan to spend several weeks at Esalen, please arrive prepared to administer to your health-care needs.

Illegal Drugs: In accordance with state and federal laws, the possession or use of illegal drugs on Esalen grounds is strictly prohibited.

Lost and Found: To inquire about items left behind from your Esalen visit, call (408) 667-3019.

Conferences at Esalen: It is now possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We schedule approximately a year in advance for large groups (up to 100) on a space available basis. For further information, call or write the conference coordinator, (408) 667-3038.

Catalog Subscriptions: If you would like to receive the next three issues of the Esalen Catalog, please refer to the inside front cover for subscription rates and send your check or money order (U.S. currency) in the enclosed envelope, or mail it to Subscriptions, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

Although we're delighted to provide you with this issue of the Esalen Catalog, if you are not currently a subscriber we would appreciate your contribution to defray postage and production costs, which run approximately $4 per catalog.

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax-deductible. The expenses of attending Esalen, including travel, are deductible for federal income tax purposes as an educational expense if incurred to maintain or improve professional or work skills. (See Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5.)

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

JOSE LUIS

John Heider and Janet Zuckerman

Esalen Institute is a center to encourage work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. Its activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research and semi-autonomous projects.

Esalen Institute
Big Sur
California 93920

Address Correction Requested

Non-Profit Organization
U.S. Postage Paid
Esalen Institute

THE ESALEN CATALOG

SEPTEMBER 1989 – FEBRUARY 1990

■ CONTENTS

Volume XXVIII, Number 3

Audio Recordings 43
Biographical Information 45-51
Conferences at Esalen 52
Esalen Notes 4-9
Esalen Seminars 11-36
Friends of Esalen 42
Future Programs 40
Gazebo Early Childhood Program 38
General Information 52
Invitational Conferences 8-9
Mail Order Books 44
Medical Programs 39-40
Reservations Form 54
Scholarship Application Form 53
Scholarship Information 9
Special Programs 37-38
Ways of Being at Esalen 9-10
Wilderness Programs 39
Work Study Program and Application 41-42

Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920

Phones:
Reservations: (408) 667-3005
General Information: (408) 667-3000
Monday, Tuesday, Thursday
& Saturday 10 AM to 3 PM
Wednesday 10 AM to 12 Noon
Friday 10 AM to 5 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 5 PM

Catalog Editor: Susan Stone
Graphic Design: Barbara Adamson
Art & Photography Editor:
Cynthia Johnson Bianchetta

Consulting Editor: Nancy Kaye Lunney
Administrative Liaison: Patricia LeWine
Editorial Review: George Leonard

Esalen Board of Trustees:

Mark Dayton
Steve Donovan
Jack Downing
Victoria Elliot
Mary Ellen Klee
Bokara Legendre
George Leonard
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Michael Murphy
Christine Stewart Price
William Sechrest
Jeremy Tarcher

© 1989 Esalen Institute
All Rights Reserved.

The Esalen Catalog is published triannually by the Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920. Subscription cost for one year is $15 for the United States, $17 for Canada and Mexico, $22 for Europe and South America, and $25 for all other countries. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available upon request.

Although we're delighted to provide you with this issue of the catalog, if you are not currently a subscriber we would appreciate a $5 contribution to defray postage and production costs.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. Its activities consist of public seminars, residential work study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

COURTESY MICHAEL MURPHY

This catalog is dedicated to Dr. Henry Murphy, who in 1910 bought the property upon which Esalen's Big Sur facility now stands in order to build a spa.

SOME EARLY STEPS IN MEDICAL REFORM: THE ESALEN INFLUENCE, 1962-1990

COURTESY MICHAEL MURPHY

Dr. Murphy making visits to his Salinas patients sometime during the 1890s.

By Joe Flower

Since 1962, nearly 100,000 people have attended seminars and workshops at Esalen. Of these, a high proportion – as many as half – have come from the helping professions. These thousands of doctors, nurses, psychiatrists, psychologists, and health counselors have been influenced, personally and professionally, by the different views of health and sickness they encountered at the Institute. Through such influence, Esalen has contributed to the widespread changes in American health care practices during the past two and a half decades.

According to Ken Pelletier, associate clinical professor in the department of medicine at UC San Francisco:

"Esalen has had a number of effects on health care. It has created a forum for experts in different disciplines to come together and learn from each other in a relaxed and stimulating atmosphere. It has helped raise public and professional awareness of the effect of the mind and emotions on health and disease. It has broadened the paradigm and practice of health care by promoting the idea that health is more than a matter of biochemistry. It has provided a respected, prominent, national and international forum for the discussion of ideas that have emerged later in mainstream inquiry."

Indeed, Esalen began as a dream of promoting health. In 1910, Dr. Henry Murphy of Salinas bought "Slate's Hot Springs" where the Institute now has its headquarters. The prominent local physician had toured Weisbaden, Baden-Baden, and other European spas with his wife Vinnie, and was inspired to create his own healing center combining mineral waters, medical treatment, good food, and rest. In 1914, he had enameled tubs hauled up the seaside cliffs to the hot springs from a fishing boat, and eventually, in 1939, he built the Big House, the Lodge, and a bath house. But he was already 80, and his dream never materialized. It took a back seat to his other duties, to advancing age, and to another World War, which closed the Coast Highway. On his deathbed in 1948, Dr. Murphy told his wife, "Never sell the property. Turn it into a spa."

Michael Murphy grew up with respect for his grandfather's vision of a place for healing, and with an interest of his own in the relationship between body and mind. In 1960 he met Richard Price, who shared that interest, but from a different perspective. Four years before, Price had experienced a psychological crisis which for him had been a spiritual initiation and renewal, but which was regarded by his family and doctors to be a psychosis requiring insulin therapy. The shock treatments he received had left one side of his body numb and had created a lasting interest in the nature of psychosis, the abuse of medicine, and the humanization of health care. Price was convinced that medical intervention had damaged him physically, aborting an important process of self-realization.

Out of their separate experiences, Murphy and Price had come to share a belief in the unity of the human organism as opposed to the mind/body split commonly assumed by modern medicine. In 1962, the two of them founded Esalen to pursue their interests in meditative practice, philosophical inquiry, and new directions in psychology. A colorful group of thinkers concerned with the mind/body connection were invited to the Institute, among them Aldous Huxley, Gerald Heard, and Alan Watts, who helped introduce Eastern philosophy to the Western world and helped advance Western thinking about neglected human potentials; Abraham Maslow, Carl Rogers, and Rollo May, who pioneered humanistic psychology; Arnold Toynbee, Paul Tillich, Lancelot White, and others who believed modern life needed new perspectives upon the meaning and purpose of life; Fritz Perls, Will Schutz, and other pioneers in the field of psychotherapy; Ida Rolf, Moshe Feldenkrais, Alexander Lowen, John Pierrakos, Charlotte Selver, and other innovators in somatic education; and writers such as George Leonard, Linus Pauling, and Price Cobbs, who focused attention upon the need for social changes to promote personal, ethnic, and cultural health.

Two principal themes emerged in the Sixties that set the direction for Esalen's involvement with health care. The first was the unity of mind and body. The second was the unity of social and personal transformation. The Esalen group came to believe that you can't change institutions, policies, or social dynamics without changing individuals. Programs that Esalen initiated in the years that followed to introduce medical practitioners to new health care approaches all flowed from these basic principles. They included:

- the Agnews Project (1968-72);
- the Program in Humanistic Medicine (1972-75), which became the Institute for the Study of Humanistic Medicine (1975-77);
- the Esalen Sports Center (1973-79);
- programs for health professionals (1977-present);
- the Somatics Study Program for Health Professionals (1986-present);
- the Soviet-American Health Promotion Project (1983-present);
- World Health Organization health-promotion conferences (1983-present).

The Agnews Project

Price's brutal medical treatment led to a 1968 Esalen conference on madness as a symbolic, mystical, and possibly creative experience, which led in turn to experiments with new methods for healing psychosis and a scientific study of such methods. Price teamed up with Julian Silverman, an innovative young psychopharmacological researcher at the National Institute of Mental Health; Dr. Loren Mosher, director of the Center for Schizophrenia Studies at NIMH; Dr. John Perry; and Dr. Maurice Rappaport, chief of research at Agnews State Hospital, to design a therapeutic program to explore "the growth potential of psychosis in a treatment setting" in an experimental ward at Agnews in 1969. The ward became a research vehicle, where an elaborate two-year research program showed that although patients who undertook this unusual treatment recovered more slowly than patients who were simply given drugs, their recovery was longer-lasting and more profound. The Project's research also showed that testing could differentiate the patients who would do best with growth methods from those who would do best on drugs.

(continues)

Esalen and Changes in American Health Care

Health care has gone through rapid changes over the last 20 years. Directly or indirectly, Esalen has influenced a number of these changes, including:

- the empowerment of patients, making them partners with their caregivers;
- a growing emphasis upon prevention and wellness, on diet and exercise, on removing the environmental and lifestyle-related causes of disease;
- the increasing acceptance of such non-traditional or non-Western forms of treatment as acupuncture, body work, meditation, visualization, and breath control (especially in giving birth);
- the proliferation of "alternative birthing centers," hospices, self-help, and support groups;
- a new emphasis on using the lowest appropriate intensity of care, on shortening hospital stays, and encouraging home care;
- many new forms of psychotherapy.

The need to deal with increasing health costs powers many of these changes; most new ways are cheaper than the old ways. But there needs to be a recognition that the new ways work, that they provide viable alternatives to established practice. Through its ongoing seminars and special programs, Esalen has contributed to such recognition.

—Joe Flower

PAUL HERBERT

Esalen, 1967. From left to right, psychiatrists Stan Grof, John Perry, and Claudio Naranjo; research psychologist Julian Silverman; and philosopher John Lilly discussing the pioneering theories of psychosis-treatment which led to the Agnews Project.

The Program In Humanistic Medicine

In 1972, Sukie and Stuart Miller initiated a program to promote humanistic concerns for medical patients and non-traditional approaches to health. They advertised their intentions among Bay Area health professionals, and over 200 applications came in. The Millers selected eight doctors from a variety of disciplines and practices, two lay counselors, three nurses, and a health educator. These fourteen worked their way through an intensive program of workshops in many Esalen disciplines, including Rolfing, encounter groups, gestalt, psychosynthesis, meditation, yoga, and t'ai chi. They studied acupuncture and other alternative health practices. They spent long sessions finding how to apply such approaches to their personal and professional lives, and each year created one project in their practice that would advance humanistic medicine. The program became part of the Mount Zion Hospital and Medical Center in San Francisco and in 1975 became fully independent as the Institute for the Study of Humanistic Medicine (ISHM).

Besides its programs for individual professionals, ISHM made a bold attempt to change American health care as a whole. It secured federal funding and took its programs into the National Institutes of Health, a number of medical schools, universities such as Stanford and Miami, hospitals such as Kaiser and Marshall Hale, the American Medical Student Association, Blue Cross and Blue Shield of America, and the Senate and House subcommittees on health. As a result of ISHM's congressional testimony, the 1976 Health Professions Educational Assistance Act called for more "humanism in health care," using the Institute's own definition of humanistic medicine. ISHM maintained:

- that the patient is more than a body;
- that health care must involve the feelings, the spirit, and the mind;
- that the patient is a partner in any good care;
- that the health professional is more than a technically trained mind, since all his or her faculties and sympathies are useful in health care;
- that illness can move beyond a disaster; that it can lead to a healthier lifestyle and even to greater understanding of grave questions of life and death;
- that the health professional can help the patient find positive meanings in disease.

Many of these ideas are now commonplace in American health care and form the backbone of a massive move toward prevention, wellness, and lifestyle change. As then-Secretary of Health Phillip Lee commented years later, "ISHM was the first group to bring these ideas into the heart of the medical establishment in a meaningful way."

The Sports Center

In 1972, Robert Kriegel, a former All-American swimmer, joined David Meggyesy, a former NFL linebacker and author of Out of Their League, and running coach Mike Spino, to invite coaches, Olympic athletes, and a number of innovative thinkers to a Sports Symposium that focused on the mental approaches to athletic performance. The New York Times commented afterward that Esalen was "spurring a sporting revolution." The original symposium led to a Sports Center in San Francisco directed by Kriegel and Meggyesy, which organized workshops and seminars that built upon the original symposium. It worked with the Outward Bound program to promote psychological understanding among sports people. It held summer camps that exposed sports professionals to visualization, yoga, t'ai chi, aikido, and various Esalen body disciplines. Kriegel remembers,

"Esalen helped pioneer psychological understanding in wilderness programs. It helped inspire Stewart Brand's New Games Tournament. It sparked a number of books that got more Americans involved with sports, including Timothy Gallwey's The Inner Game of Tennis, Gallwey's Inner Skiing, (which I co-authored with him), George Leonard's The Ultimate Athlete, and Mike Spino's books. At the Sports Center, we wanted to reorient sports toward health and fitness rather than to mere success. People don't remember that in the early Seventies you didn't see Americans out there running, walking, and biking. There has been a major change, and Esalen has been part of it."

Health Care Programs for Health Professionals

From 1977 to 1981, under the direction of Julian Silverman and a team of family practice educators from UC Davis and Stanford Medical School, Esalen put on an annual five-day program for health professionals. The seminars focused on such topics as "Attitudes, belief systems, and stress tolerance," and "Body awareness, biofeedback, and attention." The California Medical Association and the California Nursing Association gave doctors and nurses credit toward their continuing education requirements for attending this annual program. Nurses can receive similar credits today for several Esalen programs.

The Somatics Study Program for Health Professionals

In 1986, Don Johnson began the Esalen Somatics Research and Education Project, which gathered together leading teachers of somatics, biological scientists, philosophers, and educational researchers. Building on Esalen's long history as a center of innovative approaches to the body, the Project had as its goals the development of somatics as a collaborative field, scientific investigation of various somatic methods, and an examination of the educational efficacy of the various schools of somatics. An ongoing project has been a two-year study program for health professionals. The somatics faculty and their advisors meet regularly and are in the process of developing new programs for the public.

The Soviet-American Health Promotion Project

Throughout the 1980s, the subject of health has played a major role in Esalen's Soviet-American Exchange Program. In 1983, Dulce Murphy, who in 1979-80 had been vice-chair of California Governor Jerry Brown's "Council on Wellness and Physical Fitness," founded the Esalen Soviet-American Health Promotion Project. She signed a protocol with Soviet officials in 1984 that led to a 1985 Moscow book exhibit on health promotion. Some 250 American publishers sent books to be exhibited in Moscow, and 5000 Soviets a day came to see them. The exhibit moved on to the Siberian city of Novosibirsk, and to the Moscow Book Fair, after which the books were donated to special Soviet libraries. That same year, Soviets sent books to be exhibited in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

In September 1987, American and Soviet medical experts met at Esalen-Big Sur to discuss recent scientific findings regarding health promotion and the mind-body relationship. Researchers from both countries, working independently, had discovered traceable links between the central nervous system and the immune system, between how we think and how we feel, between how we live and how well we live.

In September 1988, there was another gathering, this time in Moscow, which joined 22 American health professionals and 200 of their Soviet counterparts, co-sponsored by the Moscow Psychiatric Research Institute. The meeting dealt with the same progressive, humanistic attitudes and modalities which had been present in embryo at Esalen two and a half decades before.

In the spring of 1989, Esalen negotiated a new agreement with the Soviet Ministry of Health that calls for further cooperation, and the Institute continues to nurture its contacts with the National Institute for Preventive Medicine in Moscow, the Clinic for Preventive Cardiology in Leningrad, and the Institute for Experimental Medicine in Leningrad, once home to Pavlov's experimental work and the sponsor today of the Soviet Union's leading psychoneuroimmunologist, Helen Korneyva. Projects in preparation include an important gathering in late 1990 of prominent Soviet and American psychoneuroimmunologists at Esalen-Big Sur, followed by a week in which the Soviet scientists will work with their American counterparts in labs across the United States.

World Health Organization Conferences

From its Soviet experience, the Health Promotion Project has expanded to other countries. In cooperation with the World Health Organization, for example, Esalen put on conferences on alternative birthing practices in Big Sur in 1985 and Berlin in 1986, and participated in WHO Health Promotion Conferences in Ottowa in 1986 and Australia in 1988. The Project has since negotiated a new agreement with WHO for expanded cooperation.

It is difficult to predict Esalen's future, but medicine and health care remain among its central concerns. Potentials of the body/mind will be key themes of Esalen programs in the 1990s, just as they were in the three preceding decades.

Joe Flower is a Marin County, California, writer and the coauthor, with Ken Dychtwald, of Age Wave (Tarcher, 1989).

COURTESY STUART AND SUKIE MILLER

Stuart and Sukie Miller, directors of the Program in Humanistic Medicine, with an Indian medical leader at the "First World Congress on the Other Medicine," in San Remo, Italy, 1973.

ESALEN NOTES

AN OPEN LETTER TO OUR FRIENDS

There are some things we'd like you to know about what we've been doing and are planning to do in relation to our facilities and our programming. What follows is a progress report and statement of intention as we approach the 1990s.

For the past few years we have been working to improve our facilities and raise what we believe is the already high quality of our programming. We have introduced many new seminar leaders to Esalen while continuing to schedule those who are popular with so many. Our intention is to weave a blend of the known and unknown while searching out those who are making important new contributions to human development and convincing them to come to Esalen. In this catalog, as in the past, there is a commitment to a balanced and integrated approach to self-knowledge and personal growth. We will continue to offer experiential seminars, such as gestalt practice, dream work, painting, and martial arts, as well as classes in massage and other body-oriented approaches, while also exploring the world of ideas in more didactic seminars.

We have recently completed construction of four new staff housing units and remodeled and refurnished the interiors of the Maslow and Motel Row rooms. This year we intend to refurnish Fritz's house and the Rolf rooms while planning a major rehabilitation of the bath house to begin either this Fall or next Spring. We are also planning to remodel the Round House (our meditation center) and the Big House, with special attention to increasing the number of bathrooms and improving the functional utility of its kitchen.

The housekeeping department is working to limit or eliminate the use of as many chemical compounds as possible while maintaining acceptable standards of cleanliness and hygiene. Our ideal is to provide safe and attractive accommodations while protecting our guests, our staff, and our environment. We welcome your comments and suggestions, especially in regards to alternative cleaning compounds or procedures.

During April 1989, the grassy oval in front of the office and the lower lawn beside the garden became sites for our expanded leach field, which temporarily resembled an archeological dig. These areas are now regaining their attractive appearance, and we have a vastly improved septic and sewage system.

Elsewhere on the grounds we are improving the night lighting so that people can safely find their way around after dark, but we don't want to overdo it. Nature in Big Sur, even at night, has a beauty that too much light destroys. We urge you to bring a flashlight.

As time goes on we will be cutting down some of the pine trees that have grown beyond their original purpose of screening the parking lots. These trees now shade buildings and large areas of the lawn, keeping rooms cold and grass from growing. Steve Beck and Sydney Ocean, who manage the grounds, garden, and farm, continue to maintain their commitment to organic, chemical-free vegetables and beautiful landscaping with native plants.

We are also committed to moving in the direction of serving only organically grown food. Steve Cohen, the kitchen manager, purchases produce elsewhere to supplement what is grown here and is working hard with the very obvious constraints of cost and availability to ensure that what comes from our kitchen is of the highest quality.

Beginning in January 1990, we will be adjusting our rates to keep up with the increased costs of doing business. Price increases are never popular, but we hope to mitigate their negative effects by offering housing options with a wider range of comfort and cost. Starting sometime in the Spring of 1990, we will be introducing another level of accommodation priced between the bunk bed option and the standard rate. When that new level is available, other rates will be adjusted with some going up and others going down.

We want to emphasize that we do not want cost to be a reason for not coming to Esalen. We encourage you to consider applying for a scholarship. We understand that not everyone has the means to travel a long distance and spend a week at Esalen, and we are aware that for many others this poses no problem. Scholarship is our way of evening things out. Every year we budget a generous amount for scholarship, often more than is actually requested. In this catalog we have included a scholarship application form for your convenience.

You will also notice a new tear-out registration form which urges you to register by mail. Many of you have told us how frustrating it is to reach us by phone. Although we have a new phone system, our office staff cannot always handle the volume of phone and over-the-counter business. If you do call for reservations, to save time please have your completed registration form in hand. We know that all calls to Esalen are long distance, and we want to give you complete information and our best service, so please be patient with our reservations staff.

Finally, our intention is to remember who we are and what we're about, to acknowledge the gifts of nature that sustain us here, and to respect the mutuality of our partnership with you. Our purpose is to be of service, to embody as much as we can the values implicit in this catalog of seminars, and to offer an environment in which we can all explore, with as little judgment and as much freedom as possible, the mystery of what it means to be a human being.

We thank you for your participation, and we look forward to seeing you here soon.

Sincerely,

The Esalen Staff

INVITATIONAL CONFERENCES

In its continuing commitment to the fields of education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences, Esalen regularly sponsors invitational conferences that bring together experts who share their research and common points of inquiry. As host, Esalen covers room and board expenses for participants as a way of advancing these particular studies. These are invitational conferences only and are not open to the public.

The goal of these conferences is to engender the kind of creativity that comes from the collaborative work of people with similar interests but radically different approaches. We hope that the results will include expanded research projects, new writing, and more effective plans for the education of therapists. Currently scheduled programs and their conveners are listed here.

September 10–15
The Theory and Practice of Therapy in the Context of Social Control
Jay Haley & Bunn-McCullough and Associates
This is a forum for discussing collaboration between those who mandate therapy (the courts, social services, etc.) and those who practice therapy.

October 13–15
New Directions in Meditation Research
Sponsored by Esalen Institute and the Institute of Noetic Sciences; Convened by Thomas J. Hurley, III
This meeting will explore innovative approaches to meditation research.

November 5–10
Vietnam and Afghanistan: Healing the Wounds of War
Claire Ryle
Combat veterans from the Vietnam and Afghan wars join with specialists in psychological trauma. They will share their experiences and discuss treatment programs to assist not only veterans but also survivors of the Armenian earthquake.

■ CALL FOR PHOTOGRAPHS

Esalen has an extensive file of photographs of leaders, workshops, and the grounds from the past 27 years, but we would like to expand our collection. Some of these we use for the catalog, others are currently on display in the Big House. The older historical images are now going into a photo archive for proper storage. If you have visited Esalen over the years and have photographs that might be of interest to us, please submit them to Cynthia Johnson Bianchetta, art and photography editor.

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from a tour of the garden on a Sunday afternoon to a long-term stay as a seminarian. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the methods of personal growth available here. The Experiencing Esalen workshops, scheduled periodically, offer an introduction to practices such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, and meditation. From such a sampling, participants can then choose those approaches they are most attracted to and pursue them in subsequent seminars.

Another way of being at Esalen which allows a much greater involvement with the place and its community at a lower expense is the Work Study Program, described more fully elsewhere in this section and on pages 41-42. For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more, there are frequent long-term programs which involve didactic seminars or professional trainings as well as experiential workshops.

In addition, there are other events which enrich life at Esalen. There are frequent forums in which writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights there may be lectures, films, dance performances, choirs, or other forms of entertainment. Body work of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners. Finally, there is a community workshop program which goes on daily and provides opportunities for personal growth.

Scholarship Information

If you would like scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, please complete the application on page 53 and send it to us along with appropriate deposits and your completed reservations form. If your application is approved, the amount of assistance granted will be deducted from your balance due on arrival. (See Fees and Reservations, page 52.)

The maximum amount of scholarship awarded is 50% of the total fee. In most cases it will be less. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

Reduced Rate Options and Discounts

If you pay in full at the time you make your reservations, you will receive a $10 pre-payment discount per workshop and be eligible for express check-in upon arrival. This discount does not apply to sleeping bag accommodations or scholarship recipients.

Senior Citizen Discount: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $25; for a five-day or longer workshop, it's $50. This discount is available only when you make your reservations, not when you check in. When you complete the reservations form on page 54, please indicate the discounts for which you qualify. If you qualify, and you make your reservations by phone, be sure to ask for this discount. (Please note: senior discounts are not available for Wilderness Programs or the Work Study Program.)

Family Rates: A family of three or more may be accommodated in one double room at the regular rate for two, or in a triple at the regular rate for three. The only additional charges per person beyond the two or three full-paying occupants are meal costs. If the non-full-paying family members are enrolled in Gazebo or in an Esalen workshop, additional fees are required. Meal rates are:

	Up to 1 Year	1 to 5	6 and Older
Breakfast	free	$2	$5
Lunch	free	$3	$6
Dinner	free	$4	$8

Housing Options and Rates

(Beginning December 31, 1989)

Standard Accommodations: This is shared housing with two or more per room. In some cases, bathrooms are shared, as in the Big House. Couples will always be housed in doubles. See above for scholarship information.

■ WAYS OF BEING AT ESALEN

	5-Day Rate, per person	Weekend Rate, per person
	$630	$325
Single with private bath (rarely available):	$880	$425

Bunk Bed Rooms: Bunk beds are available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three or more persons. There are a limited number of these spaces, which are reserved on a first come, first served basis.

$465 $260

Sleeping Bags: Sleeping bag spaces may be available for workshop participants. Please inquire when you make your reservations.

$350 $185

Middle Point House: This is a comfortably-furnished suite situated on the cliff west of the garden, overlooking the ocean. It has a bedroom with a queen-size bed, a living room with a wood stove and convertible queen-size couch, and a small loft with a double bed. There is a kitchenette, private deck, and bathroom.

	5-Day Rate	Weekend Rate
1 person	$1200	$ 600
2 persons	$1800	$ 900
3 persons	$2400	$1200
4 persons	$2800	$1400

Please note: The Middle Point House, standard singles, and sleeping bag spaces are limited to a 7-day maximum stay.

Room and Board

Occasionally, when beds aren't needed for seminarians, room and board is available. This gives visitors the opportunity to enjoy the grounds, the baths, massage, and good food without participating in a workshop. Accommodations are standard (2 or 3 per room) or bunk bed (4 or more per room). Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following day. We require full payment at the time of reservation. This payment is not refundable.

For a room and board stay between Sunday and Thursday, please call us no sooner than the Thursday before for room availability. For a Friday or Saturday night stay, please call no sooner than the Sunday before. The rates below are per person, per day. Private rooms are sometimes available at an additional charge of $50 per day.

	Weekday	(2 or more days)	Weekend
Standard Accommodation (2 or 3 per room):	$85	($75)	$105
Bunk Bed (4 or more per room):	$65	($60)	$ 70

COURTESY STUART PILLER

In 1971, this group of doctors and nurses constituted Esalen's Humanistic Medicine Program, which pioneered work in holistic health, wellness, and behavioral medicine. Here they stand germ-free on the edge of the continent.

Work Study Program

The Work Study Program is an intensive work-oriented program for individuals who want to make a directed, personal commitment to self-exploration and growth and a contribution to the Esalen community. Participants can enroll in the general interest track, which gives an overview of several disciplines, or choose a more specific course of study from the focused track, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage, etc.

Information regarding special interest sections may be obtained by writing Bette Dingman, c/o Esalen. For a full description of the Work Study Program, please turn to pages 41-42.

Accreditation

Many formal educational institutions recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum; check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Medical Programs

Some programs offered at Esalen qualify for continuing education credit with the California Board of Registered Nursing. For current C.E. listings, see pages 39-40.

Garden Tours

Tours of the garden, farm, and landscaping are available from April through September, on the first and third Sundays of the month, from 2-5 PM. The cost is $10 per person; group rates are available. No reservations are necessary.

■ ESALEN SEMINARS

Weekend of September 1–3

After Summer Renewal at Esalen

Are you feeling tired and jaded from the summer doldrums? Are you ready for a change of pace from the usual hot dogs and beer of Labor Day weekend? Esalen offers a departure from the traditional celebration and suggests this weekend as a way for people to renew themselves in a tranquil and beautiful setting. It will not be a structured program, although several ongoing classes in the various practices offered here will be available for guests to choose from. These may include: sessions in gestalt, movement, meditation, massage, day hikes, singing gestalt, aerobics, stretching, and yoga. The swimming pool and natural hot baths will be available as usual.

The food will be specially prepared, with an emphasis on a healthy diet of fresh vegetables and grains. Much of the produce is picked daily from Esalen's own organic garden and farm.

Come and enjoy a weekend of reflection, physical movement, and relaxation while the rest of the country is stuck in traffic.

89090101 $275

Week of September 3–8

Intermediate Massage Workshop

Deborah Anne Medow & Vicki Topp

This workshop is designed for those who already have some experience in massage and wish to improve their skills, enhance their sensitivity and awareness, and learn new massage methods. It will include individual instruction and supervision as well as illustrated lectures, demonstrations, and hands-on practice. Movement sessions, yoga, and a beach walk or mountain hike may be included.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89090302 $575

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Beliefs, fears, and emotions from the past can continue into present relationships and interfere with spontaneous feelings of trust, love, and joy. The goal of this workshop is to experience and let go of these defenses and create new ways to relate – in the moment – to ourselves, to our work, and to those we love.

The workshop includes periods of intense body work for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which are reflected in the body as armor and tension. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released, and positive feelings can be experienced more fully. By also using dream work, massage, dance, and group process, a new capacity for loving can emerge.

89090303 $575

The Discipline of Harmony: Warrior Virtues Without War

Richard Strozzi Heckler

This seminar will examine the notions of aggression, initiation rites, courage, and risk-taking in the context of the warrior ideal. Does the discipline of harmony mean the taming of aggression? To live in peace do we also need to accept and understand violence? Is it possible to distinguish the warrior from war? Can the warrior virtues of courage, commitment, clarity, generosity, service, and skillful action be invoked without the catalyst of hostile fire?

These questions will be the starting point for a five-day workshop conducted in the warrior spirit of "life at stake." Exercises taken from aikido, along with introspection, sharing, and guided meditations, will allow participants to experience the possibilities of embodying warrior virtues without war.

Recommended reading: Richard Strozzi Heckler, The Anatomy of Change (Shambhala) and, editor, Aikido and the New Warrior (North Atlantic Books); J. Glenn Gray, The Warriors (Harper & Row).

89090301 $575

September 3-10

Painting Experience with Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

It is rare for most people to use painting for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to paint purely for the process of exploration, not for the result.

The purpose of this workshop is to provide a setting to explore the self through painting – to discover in form and color a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to emotional and spiritual expression. Participants are given the support and stimulation to develop a natural way of painting based directly upon feeling. The work takes place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, along with a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. The workshop may be of interest to persons involved in a wide variety of disciplines, including art, education, counseling, and meditative practices. No prior experience in painting is necessary.

For further information about this workshop, contact: The Painting Experience Studio, 2101 20th Avenue, San Francisco, CA 94116; (415) 564-8515.

$870 (plus $30 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

89090304

Weekend of September 8–10

A Gestalt Weekend

Lois Brien

This is an introductory workshop on the gestalt approach to personal development, focusing on (as Claudio Naranjo has said) the wakeful moment. The aim for participants will be to come into as full awareness as possible of their own existence so that they can experience their lives rather than fantasize about them.

89090802 $295

Metamorphosis: A Trialogue

Rupert Sheldrake, Ralph Abraham & Terence McKenna

This experimental weekend will bring together three innovative thinkers: Rupert Sheldrake, biologist and controversial author of A New Science of Life and The Presence of the Past: Morphic Resonance and the Habits of Nature; Ralph Abraham, mathematician and expert in chaos theory; and Terence McKenna, psychoactivist and author of True Hallucinations and Timewave Zero. They will share their viewpoints and perspectives on the intellectual revolution taking place in theoretical biology, the modeling of chaos, and the boundary of the mind/language interphase.

This event will be the culmination of a series of dialogues on the state of play in the only game in town: the entry of the human family into cultural hyperspace. Join them on an intellectual odyssey in search of guiding images for a truly human future.

89090801 $295

Week of September 10–15

A Week with Seymour Carter

Everyone has unused capacities for further personal development. When these capacities are recognized and given attention, a natural force is released which, like a tide, can carry the individual to a higher level of ability and action. Fritz Perls taught how to recognize the force of avoided issues in dealing with blocked energies. When unfinished issues are confronted and assimilated, it is possible to feel potent and in charge of one's life.

In this workshop, participants can deal with these issues by examining the influence of the inner dialogue on thoughts and the nature of impasse, as well as tendencies within themselves toward psychological completion and well-being. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, and aikido. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

89091004 $575

The Intimate Imagination: Poetry, Creativity, and Personal Passion

David Whyte

Those powers most central to human fulfillment seem to arise out of deeply felt experiences of creativity which give life meaning, purpose, and direction. In a mythological sense they represent profound matters of life and death, ignored only at the expense of one's greater health and vitality. At critical points in their lives, many have felt that if only they had access to what is most creative and passionate in themselves, the next practical steps to take would be clear. A task of poetry and the poetic imagination is to uncover that which is hidden or disowned, to shed new light on what is already known and, just as importantly, to teach a way of living with the unknown and to understand its key place in the true life of feeling.

CYNTHIA JOHNSON BANCHETTA

Esalen, 1988. A Soviet-American conference on health. From left to right, medical researcher Janet Quinn, World Health Organization representative Helmut Schmidt, Project director Dulce Murphy, and Washington Business Group for Health founder Willis Goldbeck, listening to research psychiatrist George Solomon present his pioneering theories about relations between behavior, the brain, and the immune system.

Participants in this seminar will work with the radical inner and outer journeys that lead to their central passions and creativity. Through the great poets and their poetry, through myth and story, silence, time alone in the magnificent surroundings of Big Sur, and the willingness to view their lives afresh, they will look to that center and the wisdom that springs from it.

89091003 $575

Your Evolving Mythology

Stanley Krippner & David Feinstein

Human beings live a personal mythology, an inner drama whose plot they enact in the world. The theme of this mythology is usually outside of awareness, yet people unerringly find the characters and create the scenes that allow their stories to unfold.

This workshop speaks to the need to find the inner visions that nourish and inspire, and shows participants how to reach deeply into their own realms of unconscious mythological material. Through a series of step-by-step exercises drawn from a spectrum of systems, including Jungian psychology, gestalt, and psychosynthesis, participants will examine their personal mythologies and rework problematic areas. This program offers tools and methods for continuing to cultivate a personal mythology that is inspiring and empowering.

89091002 $575

The Life Energy Process℠

Stephano Sabetti

The Life Energy Process workshop is a spiritually-oriented approach to body work and lifestyle which allows individuals direct contact with the spiritual self through energy vibrations. This method is facilitated by specific intensive and subtle movements, which participants may find open them to their own healing abilities, allowing them to release unfinished emotions, radiational and chemical toxins, and psychological disturbances. From that point of greater clarity, they may move to the next step in their personal development. Participants continue this energy work physically and verbally through process inquiry and dialogue with the leader as they examine the superficial trace problems of their everyday lives and explore their deeper energy disturbances through energy patterning.

Energetic forms of massage, dance, and theater may be included in this process. Some of the work will be individual, some will be hands-on with partners. The workshop may be of particular interest to professionals and laypersons alike who are excited by the integration of Eastern and Western methods with the new physics for personal, social, and organizational evolution.

Recommended reading: Stephano Sabetti, The Wholeness Principle; Manifestations of Energy; and Shinkido Massage (available from Life Energy Media, 14755 Ventura Blvd., Ste. 1908, Sherman Oaks, CA 91403; [213] 874-7100).

89091001 $575

September 10–23

Path of the River: A Grand Canyon Journey

Steven Harper, Wendy Palmer, Bob Melville & Arizona Raft Adventures Staff (AZRA)

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 39.

89091005 $1690

Weekend of September 15–17

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman

For many people, feelings are something mysterious, something to keep to oneself, or something to think about. This workshop is about all the steps involved in learning to experience, respect, and honor one's feeling process in a way that can increase vitality and personal effectiveness. Participants may learn to separate feelings from thoughts, learn from their own body rhythms, learn to contact their own wisdom, and participate in the choice of expression or depression.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89091502 $295

Zero Balancing: Advanced Workshop

Fritz Smith

This workshop is open only to people who have completed at least one introductory Zero Balancing program. After reviewing basic concepts, the leader will answer specific questions and give individual instruction as needed. New work will include: direct perception and assessment of energy currents in the body; refinement of evaluating and balancing the foundation joints; and discussion of nonfoundation joints, including the small joints of the body. Theory will be clarified by demonstration and through individual practice, with participants using each other as models.

Recommended reading: Frederick Smith, Inner Bridges (Humanics Ltd.).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89091503 $295

Inner Sound and Voice

Jill Purce

This is a workshop of practical explorations with sound for healing and the transformation of consciousness. By liberating the voice, it is possible to make contact with deep levels of the Self and release an untapped source of energy.

Participants will work with the psycho-physical effects of breathing, chanting, mantric and sonic meditations, learning to tune and listen together, moving from the intuitive level into meditative states. Breath and sound will be developed so that different parts of the body-mind come into resonance, to give sonic massage, and to heal and tune the chakras and subtle body. Participants will be taught ways to find their own note and hear inner sound, entering directly into the subtle dimensions of sound by the magical voice practices of traditional cultures including trance music, Mongolian and Tibetan overtone chanting, and other methods.

89091501 $295

The Yoga of Business

Tama Starr

Many people confront the same worldly dilemma: how to optimize success without betraying their ideals. This workshop suggests that, in a holistic universe, the same principles apply to walking the canyons of Wall Street as climbing the peaks of the Himalayas. Participants—whether artists, business professionals, blue or white collar workers—will see how to apply the tenets of yoga, t'ai chi, and gestalt to the workplace.

Themes to be explored include: the nature of Maya (business, wealth, and the American Dream); game theory (the win-win situation); success (how to deal with failure); the art of war (Krishna, Sun Tsu, Musashi, Machiavelli, Muhammad Ali); strategies and tactics (the art of survival). Practical studies and exercises will include: elementary mind-reading; "invisible yoga"; the use of myth and magic; methods of leadership (managing others through managing yourself); the uses of stress and conflict; developing "the path with heart."

Participants will emerge with usable tools for building a more fulfilling future.

89091504 $295

Week of September 17–22

Sports Massage

David Streeter & Arthur Munyer

This introductory workshop, designed for the established massage practitioner or serious student, will present many aspects of contemporary sports massage. Subjects to be covered include deep transverse friction, training massage, anatomy, muscle origin and insertion points, injury care and evaluation, and body dynamics (efficient use of the practitioner's body and preventing fatigue). Participants will be introduced to neuro-muscular methodology, which, until the advent of sports massage, had been limited to osteopathic medicine.

Sports massage is currently revolutionizing mainstream therapeutic massage and offers new and powerful tools to the health care practitioner.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89091702 $575

A Look Within

Jessica Moore Britt

This will be a week for participants to attend to and explore themselves away from their usual busy lives. As they settle into the grandeur of Big Sur and the quiet within, they can begin to penetrate through their conditioned views of themselves and the world.

The point of inquiry will be the relationship of the mind, body, and emotions and the essential nature of the self. Participants will focus on understanding who and what they are, especially as beings of compassion, strength, will, power, joy, and presence. They will explore how their past conditioning and present beliefs block their awareness of these qualities in themselves. The tools for self-discovery will be an interplay of Eastern and Western practices, including Sufi self-remembering exercises, meditation, touch, movement, and Reichian/gestalt work. This time, dedicated to being present and looking within, holds the possibility for participants to open their perceptions so they might obtain a deeper appreciation for who they are.

Recommended reading: A.H. Almaas, Diamond Heart (Diamond Books).

89091704 $575

Dream Discovery

Joyce Frazee

Each night the Self disappears below the surface of the psyche, and what is remembered from the journey is a dream. In this workshop, participants will use their dreams for emotional and spiritual growth and to connect with alienated parts of the Self. They will have the opportunity to explore the multidimensional aspects of a single dream, noticing the most immediate, pressing, unfinished business of their lives, and uncover personal symbols.

Since many people forget dreams, exercises in dream recall will be offered. By keeping a dream journal, some people recognize that dreams come in series, presenting and exploring a continuing theme. Participants will draw dream mandalas to be used for insight and healing. Feelings will be explored using gestalt and bioenergetics. Methods of dream control and lucid dreaming will be discussed.

89091703 $575

Action Theater

Ruth Zaporah

The body/mind is capable of experiencing "unnameable" states, states that connect us to our spirit ancestry, states that connect us to the earth. However, thoughts frequently undermine this phenomenon by naming, identifying, classifying, and conceptualizing. Action Theater is a training process that trusts the body as teacher. It opens channels for listening to and expressing information that the body/mind offers. This improvisational theater form moves the performer beyond personality and toward spokesperson and archetype.

Through the Action Theater process, participants create physical imagery and text from personal resources. The workshop addresses areas of performance such as: awareness of the body and its movement possibilities; development of a strong and viable voice; personal and imaginative use of language; interconnections between body, voice, and language; accessing material usually below the normal threshold of awareness; formal elements of composition; the mind of collaboration and ensemble.

Within each session there will be a physical and vocal warm-up, individual, small group, and ensemble explorations, and solo or collaborative presentations.

89091701 $575

Weekend of September 22–24

A Weekend with David Schiffman

The purpose of this workshop is for participants to create a more positive and open-ended self-concept. Through structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role-playing, fantasy, and group process methods, they can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis is on searching out personality strengths, individual capacities, and latent powers as a means of achieving productive functioning.

89092203 $295

Colliding and Emerging Myths

Brother David Steindl-Rast

Some people contend that the myths of the past have no more life for us, while new myths have yet to emerge. There may be some truth to this assessment, and yet the subconscious still resonates with the great themes of mythology as it gropes for its own mythic expression. All this has much to do with the love-hate relationship many people experience with their religious heritage.

By combining perspectives from anthropology and Christian spirituality, Brother David will try to help participants find what Joseph Campbell called "myths to live by."

89092202 $295

Psychoneuroimmunology and its Implications

George Freeman Solomon & Margaret Kemeny

The rapidly developing field of psychoneuroimmunology (PNI) is concerned with the nature of complex bidirectional interactions between the central nervous system (CNS) and the immune system and their clinical and bioregulatory implications. The CNS mediates stress effects, coping, emotions, and other psychological processes that, via the immune system, affect the onset and course of many diseases.

This didactic but interactive course will describe the immune system, how it works and is regulated. The leaders will discuss human and animal research on the effects of stress and other experiential factors on immunity and on immunologically-resisted and mediated diseases, including bacterial and viral infections, cancer, autoimmune diseases, allergies, and AIDS. The as-yet poorly researched area of the impact of interventions, including psychotherapy, on immunity and disease will be discussed. Implications of PNI for understanding traditional and alternative healing systems and placebo effects will be explored. There will be ample opportunity for questions.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89092201 $295

Week of September 24-29

Living by Myths

Brother David Steindl-Rast

Brother David writes: "Myths speak with a soft voice. You have to listen with your heart. It helps to be in an environment such as Big Sur's that cradles and stills body and mind; it helps to have time. A week-long allows for good stretches of quiet time.

"Each day, we shall take one of the great myths – such as the story of Orpheus and Euridice or that of Eros and Psyche – and expose ourselves to its magic power. We shall listen to its echoes in Christian spirituality, wrestle, if necessary, with its implications, entrust ourselves to its guidance. Some may do this for the sheer joy of it. For others, the confrontation with myth may become a personal rite of passage. For all participants this week is meant to be a celebration of the beauty, goodness, and truth mirrored in myth."

89092401 $575

Playing the Edge

David Schiffman

In the early stages of growth, success seems to be its own reward. The excitement, the energy, the willingness to stand to it comes bubbling up in the mood of those who are involved in new and successful ventures. To keep this spirit alive is not easy. The enormous pressure, the grinding routines and demands of substantial involvement can dispirit even the healthiest people. To listen to one's heart and know what's real requires the courage to pause. In this willingness to stop and listen to the deeper self live the true resources that guide and protect us.

The purpose of this week is to create a mood of sanctuary for: people who are in transition and facing major changes in career, relationship, or matters of the spirit; those in need of a break from demanding, stressful responsibilities; individuals interested in breaking new ground in the areas of self-nurturance, intuitive functioning, and problem-solving.

The processes will be gently restorative, illuminating, and enlivening. The group intention will be to create a community based in trust and goodwill with maximum emphasis on individual freedom. Traditional methods of self-inquiry (gestalt practice, bioenergetics, psychosynthesis) will be combined with innovative methods using music, meditation, poetry, and prayer to foster this spirit of living fully and comfortably.

89092402 $575

CYNTHIA JOHNSON BANCHETTA

Esalen, 1988. A Soviet-American conference on health. From left to right, research psychiatrist Stan Grof, Soviet psychiatrist Aaron Belkin, and American physician Robert Gale discussing psychoneuroimmunology and other themes of the Esalen Soviet-American Health Project.

Weekend of September 29–October 1

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

This workshop is designed for people who have not previously been to Esalen. Its emphasis is on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for the individual participant. These may include: sensory awareness, gestalt practice, group process, guided fantasy, meditation, massage. There is also time to explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Real People Press).

89092904 $295

Weekend Massage Intensive

Attila Vaas & Laurie Lioness Parizek

Massage is a practical approach to stress relief and greater sensory awareness. This weekend workshop will provide instruction in basic methods used in giving a massage, with additional work on quality of touch, breath awareness, centering, and sensitive rapport between partners.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89092902 $295

Our Many Selves

James Fadiman

It is possible to gain a clearer understanding of the many selves who dance within, clamoring for attention and release. This weekend offers the opportunity for participants to better understand their situations, acknowledge their varied selves, and work toward personal harmony without denial, repression, ego inflation, or shame.

To know oneself is not difficult, yet it demands careful, observant work. This workshop will open with wisdom stories to ease participants' way into that sometimes disturbing realm. They will find support in a unified theory which accommodates the different positions of Jung, psychosynthesis, Buddha, Skinner, and shamans, and which will help them reevaluate the actual goals of therapy.

89092901 $295

The Eide Workshop

Akhter Ahsen

This imagery workshop is directed toward an extraordinary glimpse into new possibilities in the human mind. The Greeks pointed out a special type of image, which they called "the eide," in the psyche. They exalted eides as "friends of the Gods," citing their capacities to heal, illumine, enlighten, and transform. This image was later on named "the eidetic" in the field of psychology and became the object of experimental and clinical probes. Akhter Ahsen has continued this research, developing methodologies that tap and harness this core of imagery phenomena. The eide workshop draws upon a wonderful flexibility in the center of the mind, is thoroughly practical in its orientation, and provides simple demonstrations which the participants can take home and practice.

89092903 $295

Week of October 1-6

Caretakers of Wonder: The Accuracy of Aesthetic Insight

Mel Bucholtz

An awareness of beauty, wonder, and enchantment restores purpose and direction for the creation of a meaningful life. It also addresses and helps resolve problematic and distressing issues in one's life.

This workshop will: 1) introduce participants to an experience of wonder as the animating element in life; and 2) practice ways in which one shepherds wonder into the world. Accepting the notion that it has been placed in their trust, each trustee, or caretaker, then ushers wonder into the world.

With such learnings, we re-inherit our sensibilities and are vitalized by the new meaning they bring to awareness. The quality of attention which unfolds is that of enriched being, animating all the communities that sustain and create life.

89100103 $575

Self-Acceptance Training

Richard Olney & Mari Krieger

Self-acceptance training is a transpersonal practice that follows an educational model rather than a medical model. It is defined as "the experiencing of whatever I am in a given moment, without the inhibitions of self-judgment, self-criticism, or self-evaluation." The goal of this work is to reach the inner self, the inner teacher, and to feel alive and real. Although its practice includes devices drawn from gestalt, bioenergetics, mythic fantasy, eidetic imagery, and hypnosis, it is also a philosophy, a value system, and a view of the individual's relationship with the universe.

Self-acceptance training is a holistic approach which emphasizes body work and body awareness, emotional charge and discharge, as well as a cognitive examination of the individual's "pretends" and illusions that obstruct self-acceptance.

89100104 $575

Golf in the Kingdom . . . an exploration of the inner game

Stephen Cohen, Fred Shoemaker & John Allen

Ye'll come away from the links with a new hold on life, that is certain if ye play the game with all your heart. – Michael Murphy, (Shivas Irons) Golf in the Kingdom

The game of golf provides many opportunities to enhance the journey of self-discovery. It may be experienced not simply as an athletic endeavor, but also as a metaphor for the way one lives. Just as in life, issues of self-confidence, fear, trust, discipline, and awareness emerge in the conflict between the ego's desire for success and the inner self's ability to achieve.

In these five days, teaching methods gleaned from a study of the inner game will be utilized, as well as principles from psychosynthesis and gestalt, to explore the inner self and how one interferes with its emergence. Two of the days will be spent on field trips to the Monterey Peninsula where participants will practice and play in some of the most beautiful golf country in the world. On other days there will be time to relax and enjoy the natural pleasures of Esalen and Big Sur.

Recommended reading: Michael Murphy, Golf in the Kingdom (Dell); Timothy Gallwey, The Inner Game of Golf (Random House).

$575 (plus green fees paid directly to the leaders)

89100101

The Creative Body and Self

Daria Halprin-Khalighi

There are basic themes which follow us, like shadows, throughout our lives. They shape body, emotion, and thought, and affect our relationships and the choices we make. They can take unexpected turns, assume different forms, or result in changed life situations as we mature. If we look closely at our lives, however, we can recognize a thread of continuity in these personal themes. This thread includes those patterns which are experienced as roadblocks in the maturation process, inhibiting creativity, understanding, and the ability to enjoy life. Becoming aware of these themes may help unlock the door to deep inner resources, allowing for greater presence, connection, and creative expression.

Participants in this workshop will explore their personal life themes by listening to the messages and looking at the images of the body as the source of their "life script." Movement, drawing, and writing will be the modalities for expanding the creative self and tapping its wealth of information and wisdom.

Participants are asked to bring a box of craypas pastels, a medium- to large-size newsprint drawing pad, and a writing tablet.

89100102 $575

The Long Body

William George Roll

To the Iroquois Indians, the lived body is the "long body" and the long body is the tribal body. The long body incorporates people and things individuals are emotionally close to, though they may be distant in time and space and though they may no longer exist in the usual way. The long body is the experienced realm of personal and transpersonal memory and contains the ingredients for psychic awareness, prophecy, and pre-cognition. Since the long body is a remembered body, memory defines both its reach and its limitations. By extending the range of memory, one can extend the reach of the long body into the past and future and across distance. When we remember, we connect with members of our long body and incorporate them into the present.

In this workshop, group members will explore the long body as metaphor for psychical interactions, healing, and growth, and the memory as an access to long body awareness. Practice sessions will be grounded in research findings in biology, psychology, and the transpersonal dimensions of parapsychological (psi) processes. Through sound and movement, psi sensing of persons and objects, psychic readings, and psychic healing, participants may experience themselves as members of a living, sensuous being that includes the physical universe and extends beyond birth and death. From there, a fresh, joyful, and healing consciousness of the world can unfold.

This tradition pays respect to the tribal visions of the planet. It is not contrary to Western ideology, but it can expand the Western perspective beyond the moribund technology that threatens the world.

89100105 $575

Weekend of October 6–8

Introduction to Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear–
And when used – is inexhaustible.
– Lao Tzu

Gestalt practice is a form – nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental – evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. This form is similar to some Reichian work as well, in that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged.

The emphasis is *intra*personal rather than *inter*personal. It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment. Through group exercises, meditations, and open seat work, this workshop will introduce participants to the gestalt practice approach.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Real People Press); John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics); Ram Dass and Paul Gorman, How Can I Help? (Knopf).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89100603 $295

Screenplay Structure

Syd Field

The Screenplay Structure workshop is designed to sharpen the skills of both the novice and experienced screenwriter. It includes methods for preparation and execution of screenwriting through the analysis of screenplay form, examination of the three-part dramatic paradigm, contemporary screenplay readings, exercises, and group discussion. By the end of the workshop, participants will be able to take any three-sentence idea and structure it into a dramatic narrative. This is a working session! Bring notebooks and pens.

89100602 $295

What is Self?

Bernadette Roberts

In this workshop, Bernadette Roberts will present her insights into the question of self. She writes: "As long as we are living it, or are it, we cannot know the true nature of self. This disclosure can only be known when self falls away and becomes known by its absence or 'what was. As it turns out, the knowing-feeling self is both an unconscious function of the mind and the profound experience of life and being. Together these give rise to every experience we call self or consciousness.

"Viewing human existence as a passage through consciousness, this workshop will explore the major milestones of the journey, with particular emphasis on the difference between the falling away of the ego-self and the much later falling away of the true self or the unitive, transcendental self. The criteria and validation for these milestones will be viewed in the light and experiences of Christ and Buddha, who manifested and articulated the journey for all who would come after."

89100601 $295

Week of October 8–13

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

For workshop description see October 6-8.

89100803 $575

The Nature of Movement: Aikido and Wilderness

Steven Harper & Wendy Palmer

In this week-long workshop, participants will work indoors with energy awareness and principles derived from aikido, and outdoors on short day-hikes into Big Sur's backcountry to explore the movement that nature inspires. Both aikido and hiking are moving meditations which, when done well, require the individual to be in harmony with the natural world. There will be an opportunity to take what is learned on the aikido mat out into the natural world and bring what is learned from nature onto the aikido mat. Participants can then begin to integrate what they learn from aikido and from nature into their lives.

All evenings and most meals will be at Esalen. Participants need not have previous experience in aikido or hiking.

89100801 $575

Death and Resurrection

Paul Rebillot

In some ways, we are all dying. To acknowledge, honor, and work with that opens us to a fuller life, for by looking at one's life as if it were coming to a close, it is possible to see more clearly what is of value and what is not.

In that spirit, this workshop offers the opportunity to confront, rather than avoid, death. On a wider scale, it explores ways to move creatively through life's many transitions, letting go of the old and welcoming the new. Participants will review their lives, completing unfinished business, and practice giving up attachments to persons, things, and self-images until, surrendering all to the ultimate unknown, they are able to experience the birth of the truly new.

Stanford Eugene Cates, who was Paul Rebillot's co-leader for this workshop for many years, died on September 19, 1988. This workshop is dedicated to his memory.

89100802 $575

Childhood Sexual Abuse: A Healing

Jessica Moore Britt

To guard against the hurts, fears, and confusion that sexual invasion of a child's physical and psychic boundaries can create, the child often abandons the place of conflict – the body. This withdrawal, though protective in nature, slowly begins to separate the child from her/his essential nature. This may be reflected in tension patterns, numbness, and oversensitivity and may further the child's sense of alienation from the world and self.

During this week, participants will move gently toward reintegrating their bodies and feelings with self. They will use gestalt practice, Reichian breath work, movement, touch, and meditation to re-enter their private world of memories and feelings. They may gain a deeper understanding that the learned idea of self as bad, based on the sexual abuse, is not the essential truth of who they are. The focus will be on allowing the hurt, negative feelings and doubts to be acknowledged, felt, and used as energetic seeds for reawakening a positive sense of self. Through the supportive group atmosphere, participants may discover that it is safe once again to embody beauty, life, and love.

Recommended reading: A.H. Almaas, Diamond Heart (Diamond Books); Alice Miller, Thou Shalt Not Be Aware (New American Library).

89100805 $575

Sculpture: Inner and Outer Visions

Rachael Dutton

The seat of the soul is where the inner and outer worlds meet. – Novalis

Rachael Dutton writes: "My work is based on interactions of images from my dreams with the animism of materials such as branches, earth, and grasses. These materials function as collaborators, mediating between inner and outer worlds.

"Workshop participants will work individually with images gleaned from dreams, memory, or moments of presence, using low-tech methods of construction and the natural resources of the farm area at Esalen. Additive sculpture methods, such as bundling, tying, stacking, can be just as personal as imagery; ways of linking physical components mirror associative processes in the mind. Participants will explore a multi-dimensional awareness of self as process and self as internal landscape coming to meet external landscape, using natural materials and the raw beauty of the Big Sur coastline to embody their personal visions.

"The workshop is open to artists at all levels of experience. Bring sketchbook, scissors, string, rags, and a plastic bucket."

Recommended reading: Robert Bly, editor, News of the Universe (Sierra); Rainer Maria Rilke, Letters to a Young Poet (Norton).

89100804 $575

Weekend of October 13-15

A Weekend with Paul Rebillot

Paul Rebillot writes: "Within each of us there lives a demon – our own personal critic – whose greatest joy comes from criticizing, denigrating, and destroying every experience we have. We're either too early or too late, too old or too young, too fat or too thin, and when we fall in love, we're never good enough. This demon, who commands us to be who we aren't in order to satisfy someone we can never satisfy, is the demon that we will seek to exorcise during this workshop.

"Why not take the chance of looking inside ourselves and finding the completeness of who we are, instead of limiting ourselves with who we think we should be and who we hope we are not? When we find the truth about ourselves, our natural response is to want and to work for the best that we can be.

"People in the helping professions who have experienced this form have found it adaptable and useful in their own work."

89101302 $295

The Mythic Image: A Performance Piece

Phil Cousineau, David Darling, John Densmore & Eric Lauton

Sacred stories reflect only one aspect of the mythic traditions of the world. Of equal importance and fascination is the non-verbal image, the mandalas or holy images used for deep contemplation. Their origins can be found in nature and the human imagination and through them we can approach the convergence of myth, dream, and art.

Judith Aston demonstrates sensitive touch with Jocelyn Olivier, director of a massage school and participant in the Somatics Study Program for Health Professionals.

This live performance workshop will blend the oral tradition of storytelling with the silent stories of pictures and the narrative movement of improvisational music. Each session will be highlighted by the telling of tales by Phil Cousineau, co-writer of The Hero's Journey: The World of Joseph Campbell; a slide show by award-winning photographer Eric Lawton, using images from Ireland to India; and the synchronized music of David Darling, master cellist, and John Densmore, the drummer for The Doors. The themes will include myths of origins, myth and the body, myth and art, myth and ritual, and sacred lands.

Recommended reading: Joseph Campbell, The Mythic Image (Princeton).

89101301 $295

Children and Anger: A Gestalt View

Violet Oaklander

The theme of this workshop is the anger of children and how parents, teachers, and therapists can help them express in healthy ways this least tolerated and most misunderstood emotion. Participants will discuss the various ways that young people express anger, the relationship of anger to negative introjects and self-esteem, and how to help children express angry feelings in healthy, safe, and satisfying ways.

This approach is based on the use of creative, expressive, and projective methods, with gestalt theory and practice as the underlying framework. The thrust of this work is to provide the child with a means for expressing his or her innermost feelings, to foster self-awareness and self-discovery, to enhance self-esteem and, in general, to promote emotional growth. Children thereby learn not only about themselves, but about their relationship to others and the world around them.

The workshop will include discussion, demonstration, examples of children's work and, particularly, direct experience of expressive methods used with children.

Recommended reading: Violet Oaklander, Windows to Our Children (The Gestalt Journal, P.O. Box 990, Highland, NY 12528).

89101303 $295

Week of October 15–20

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see September 29-October 1.

89101504 $575

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Laurie Schutz & Char Pias Brenner

Participants will be instructed in basic methods used in giving a pleasurable and beneficial full body massage. Fundamental elements of body work, such as breath awareness, grounding, movement, quality of touch, and stress reduction, will be introduced. This workshop is available to beginners as well as to those who wish to brush up on their massage skills.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89101502 $575

Creative Body Work

Lenore Grubinger

The premise of this workshop is that body states and feeling states are reflected in each other. It is based on Body-Mind Centering™, the work of Bonnie Bainbridge Cohen, and will be an experiential study – through movement, touch, and process work – of some of the major body systems and developmental movement.

What is the quality of moving from one's organs, bones, or fluids? How can crawling or other "baby movements" give one insight into his/her adult life? What is the "mind" of each of these, and how do preferences of mind and body go hand-in-hand?

The more we come to know ourselves, the more we can resonate with others. Creative Body Work emphasizes empowerment of client and practitioner, actively involving both in the healing exchange. This is not a technique training, but a body-based language for responding to the moment. This week will include theory, demonstrations, hands-on practice, movement, and group process. It aims to facilitate repatterning, to honor where a person is, and to help him/her access a greater range of body-mind options. Body workers, counselors, educators, and artists interested in an advanced training are welcome.

Recommended reading: Kapit and Elson, The Anatomy Coloring Book (Harper and Row).

89101501 $575

Ways to Change: A Jungian Experience

John Nicholas

Meaninglessness inhibits the fullness of life and can, therefore, be equated with illness; meaningfulness makes a great many things endurable, perhaps everything. – C.G. Jung

People discover themselves through relationships – with others and within and beyond themselves – transcending the ordinary boundaries of time and space. The focus of this workshop will be the most central aspect of all transpersonal work: change. The basic concepts of C.G. Jung will be applied to practical problem-solving and conflict resolution of everyday issues and relationships. Participants will have the opportunity to discover, explore, and confront unconscious complexes that inhibit the fullness of life and block creativity. There will be time for individual work with dreams, active imagination, symbolic drawing and painting, storytelling, guided imagery, and journals. The week will be a voyage of discovery.

Recommended reading: C.G. Jung, Man and His Symbols (Doubleday) and Memories, Dreams, Reflections (Random House); June Singer, Boundaries of the Soul (Doubleday); Robert Johnson, Inner Work (Harper & Row); Anthony Storr, ed., The Essential Jung (Princeton University Press).

89101503 $575

Dying to Live

Karen Paine-Gernée & Charles Steinberg

The leaders write: "Catastrophic illness is a shock to confront. It disrupts every aspect of our lives: our images of who we think we are and our ideas of where we're going, our relationships, our work. It awakens us to the proximity of death, presenting us with confusing choices about our lives in general and various medical treatments in specific. Serious illness is a time of both danger and opportunity. It touches us with despair and grieving. It can also be a time of opening into more love, greater personal power, and deeper spiritual work. It is a time for bringing forth our maximum healing capacities.

"This workshop builds a community to support each individual's healing. Through sharing, guided imagery, art, meditation, and healing circles, participants will see how to move from a life-threatening experience to a life-heartening one. They will explore the nature of healing at all levels and develop a personalized health plan which integrates both traditional and alternative approaches. One track will focus on the needs of the primary care-givers, exploring their issues of sadness and anger, exhaustion, helplessness, survivor's guilt, resentment, and the seemingly unacceptable wish that 'it was all over.'

"If you or a loved one has a life-threatening illness such as cancer, heart disease, or AIDS, if you live with a chronic health problem, or if you work with those with serious illness, this week of healing and love is for you. Your healing journey will be supported with healthy food, beautiful natural surroundings, and a compassionate community."

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89101505 $575

Weekend of October 20–22

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see September 3-8.

89102002 $295

From Victim to Victor

Harold Benjamin

In the last decade it has become commonly accepted in both the traditional and alternative medical communities that cancer patients' participation in the fight for recovery can improve their quality of life and may increase their chances for recovery. This premise is based upon recent medical advances in the field of psychoneuroimmunology. Although this workshop will examine those findings and how cancer patients can benefit from them, the primary focus will be upon the emotional, social, philosophical, and psychological components of wellness.

This workshop will be led by the founder of The Wellness Community (TWC) concept and will include guided imagery and methods used by trained TWC group facilitators. It is appropriate for cancer patients, their families and friends, health professionals, and psychologists.

Recommended reading: Harold Benjamin, From Victim to Victor; Herbert Benson, The Relaxation Response (Avon); Dennis Jaffe, Healing from Within (Fireside); Norman Cousins, Anatomy of an Illness (Bantam).

89102003 $295

Personal Mythology: Tell Me Who You Are

Sam Keen

Human beings are storytelling animals, myth-makers, spinners of tales. We remain healthy and vital so long as we remember our past, celebrate our traditions, and keep alive the stories of our ancestors and heroes. It is only those who remember their stories who are able to hope. Dis-ease begins with forgetting. Freud showed that repressing painful and ecstatic memories is the source of neurosis. And healing takes place only when we allow the unconscious to become conscious. To find out who we are, each of us must ask what Jung called the most important question: What myth am I living?

In this seminar, participants will explore the myths by which they live. They will tell each other stories from their past about heroes and villains, visions and quests, sacred moments and places, gifts and wounds, obstacles and helpers. They will rekindle childhood dreams and project their fondest hopes into the future.

Participants are asked to bring a photograph album containing pictures from each stage of life, mementos, souvenirs, old magic objects, diaries, whatever will trigger the recollections of things past. (Please note: this will be a large seminar.)

89102001 $295

Week of October 22–27

Prescriptions, Rituals, and Metaphors

Joel Bergman

This workshop, which is for mental health professionals and graduate students in related fields only, will focus on various clinical road maps needed for prescribing rituals, tasks, and metaphors in psychotherapy with families, couples, and individuals. Systems theory combined with the therapist's use of self, humor, and playfulness will be emphasized. Consultations, edited videotapes, and role-playing will be used.

Thursday of this workshop will be devoted to watching narrated video training tapes. The workshop officially ends at the close of that afternoon session. However, participants are welcome to stay through Friday lunch.

Recommended reading: Joel Bergman, Fishing for Barracuda: Pragmatics of Brief Systemic Therapy (Norton).

89102202 $575

Sacred Mask Experience: Honoring the Shaman Within

Elisa Lodge

Marvel at the ingenuity in which divinity hides itself in order to find itself. – Alan Watts

Sacred masks have long been used by tribal societies to liberate and transform, but they have all but disappeared from modern cultures. They are known to be an ancient form of catharsis and healing, originally used by shamans for their elemental power to reveal vital facets of the self and release long-held gifts, talents, and potential.

This week, participants will draw inspiration from a large, international collection of masks to reestablish their connection to this ancient artistic tradition. They will create a sacred practice-ground in which to honor the shaman within, involving mask-making, movement, sound, trance-dancing, painting, and ritual theater. They will embrace the masks that have covered their hearts and open to what is revealed – the beauty and power of essential human nature.

89102201 $575

Recovery for Co-Dependents: A Workshop for Adult Children of Alcoholic and Other Unhealthy Homes

Karen Paine-Gernee & Rick Paine

Are you uncomfortable unless you are in control? Do you find it difficult to trust people and let them come close to you? Do you deny your feelings? Are you afraid of authority figures? Are you feeling lonely and isolated? Do others perceive you as confident and successful while you feel inadequate inside?

Such can be the effects of having grown up in an alcoholic or dysfunctional family. Alcoholism is often a disease of denial. ACAs often tell themselves that it really wasn't so bad, and they learn not to feel what they cannot tolerate. As they deny pain, they screen out joy, and their adult lives are often filled with depression and loneliness. Recovery is possible, though.

This program for emotional sobriety offers the opportunity to understand the dynamics of alcoholic and dysfunctional families and the co-dependent behavior they engender, to confront and heal painful childhood emotions, to learn basic tools for self-care, to make strides in letting go of control, to develop a sense of trust, and to foster a relationship with one's own spirituality.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89102204 $575

October 22–November 3

Integrative Body Practice (IBP) Professional Training Program

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 37.

89102203 $1425

Weekend of October 27–29

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see September 29-October 1.

89102704 $295

A Weekend with Seymour Carter

For workshop description see September 10-15.

89102703 $295

A Workshop with Mia Segal

Moshe Feldenkrais was an extraordinary man with great insight into human function and movement. Perhaps his greatest contribution was the way he translated his philosophy into a workable method for everybody. This workshop will introduce that work: Awareness through Movement®, in which the participant is guided verbally through a movement process, and Functional Integration®, a non-verbal, hands-on method of re-educating the body. Both are meant to clarify how the participant uses his/her body to increase options for well-being. Feldenkrais believed that those options are oftentimes limited only by one's ideas.

Those who may benefit from this workshop include performers and artists, for whom it is vital to improve and who want to examine the way they function and move in their work, people with physical afflictions who wish to move with more ease and flexibility, and anyone who is motivated to improve their way of moving about in the world.

89102701 $295

Noble Visions: Living a Committed Life

Bill Puka

This seminar is designed to affirm and enhance participants' commitments to high ideals, toward living inspired lives as inspiring people. It will look at ethical visions and ethical visionaries. Participants will reflect on the components of respecting and appreciating each other, of loving and caring. They will consider ways of practicing these arts more gracefully, drawing from humanistic counseling methods, yogic meditation, and the psychological research of Kohlberg and Gilligan on moral development and gender outlook. They will also consider the creative use of moral perception and imagination evolved by various spiritual traditions. In so doing, they will compose ethics-for-living that are self-expanding, spiritual, and aesthetic rather than judgmental and duty-bound, ethics which show a sense of wisdom and perspective and express the goodwill they prescribe. But they will also seek ethics which can solve concrete problems and use them to take up moral dilemmas members of the group may be facing. A main theme will concern how to align psychological growth and career progress with personal integrity, interpersonal responsiveness, and active social concern.

89102702 $295

Week of October 29–November 3

Painting Experience with Michell Cassou

For workshop description see September 3-10.

$575 (plus $25 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

89102902

Acting is Doing

Stephen Book

Remove the restrictions, both inner and outer, which suppress the spontaneity of any human being, and his/her natural spontaneity will show itself as artistic creativeness. In this workshop, complicated theater techniques are transformed into simple game forms which produce spontaneous behavior through playing. True playing is spontaneous and requires focus – the absorption in what one is doing, to the exclusion of other thoughts.

This experiential workshop, which is designed for the layperson, emphasizes playing and focus- ing. Participants will heighten and focus energy, increase communication skills, extend powers of observation and concentration, and improvise imagined realities.

89102901 $575

The Art of Receiving

Elliot Waker Aronson
& Gabriele Hilberg-Thomson

This culture makes it difficult to receive gracefully. Many of us learn early in life to equate receiving with weakness, helplessness, and dependency. One source of difficulty originates from a deep-seated belief that we do not deserve the love, attention, praise, or affection that is offered. Another stems from a fear of being obligated by the other person's expectations. Our willingness to receive brings greater honesty to our desire to give to others. The openness to receiving allows us to fully experience our relationship with another person, opens our hearts to the love and compassion of others and, in times of crisis, enables us to reach out for help.

Participants in this workshop will examine the beliefs and expectations that created their internal blockages and will learn new ways of receiving wisely, gracefully, and with dignity.

89102903 $575

Trance Integrations: Advanced Workshop

Paul Carter

This workshop is for people who have previously worked with Paul Carter and wish to go deeper with the material. It will explore the principles of Ericksonian hypnosis, including trance as a natural and necessary part of health, and will develop the idea that people and their communication and problem-solving are paradoxical.

The focus of the week will be personal and interpersonal work inside the trance state. Milton Erickson believed that people have an intelligence obtained from their wholeness that goes far beyond the conscious mind. Accessing and integrating that intelligence will form the basis of this work. Through guided exercises and group process, participants will work with the hypnotic use of metaphor in movement, sound, image, and story, as well as age-regression, age-progression, lucid dreaming, dissociation, and deep-trance identification.

Additional topics may include: pain control, working with families, and the art of using all the system, including the bad, sick, crazy, and resistant parts. The leader will introduce an integrative approach to problem-solving and self-healing as described in his forthcoming book, The Whole-Parts Process: A Formula for Integrity. Participants are asked to bring an 18" x 24" drawing pad and pastels.

Recommended reading: Grinder and Bandler, Trance-Formations (Real People Press); Michael Yapko, ed., "Parts Work: The Never Ending Story," Hypnotic and Strategic Interventions (Irvington).

89102904 $575

Weekend of November 3–5

Dream Discovery

Joyce Frazee

For workshop description see September 17-22.

89110302 $295

Weekend Gathering for Massage Practitioners

Brita Ostrom & Peggy Morrison Horan

This weekend will be an opportunity for massage professionals to come together at the Esalen hot springs for relaxation and regeneration. The open format will allow for quiet meditation, sharing, trading sessions, and time to enjoy the healing environment of the ocean and Esalen grounds.

89110301 $295

How to Change Your Work Without Changing Your Job

Cynthia Scott & Dennis Jaffe

Many people are searching for a place to make a commitment, and all they are offered is a job. What this workshop offers is an opportunity for participants to learn how to change their work without changing their job, to transform their work from the inside, to create a greater connection between their values and their work. Such an approach allows people to take greater control over their work, leading to greater satisfaction and meaning.

During this weekend, the leaders will coach participants through structured exercises and open exploration of topics such as: defining new work, dealing with business transitions (becoming a change master), mission and vision (harnessing one's dreams), breakthrough thinking, inspired performance, creating a job enhancement strategy, building personal power, creating support links, balancing one's work and personal worlds. This process is an alternative to burnout and exhaustion. Emphasis will be on the practical application of what the participant does on Monday.

89110303 $295

The Modern Warrior: LET in Action

George Leonard & Annie Styron Leonard

A man or woman with outward courage dares to die;
A man or woman with inward courage dares to live. – Lao Tzu

The Modern Warrior is not one who goes to war but rather one who exhibits integrity in every aspect of living, one who seeks to attain control then act with abandon. For the Modern Warrior, life is vivid, immediate, and joyful. He or she lives each day to the full, and is fulfilled in serving others. This workshop is based on the premise that to achieve peace in the world and harmony in daily life, it might well be necessary for men and women to reown the warrior ideal.

Through the centering and movement exercises of LET (Leonard Energy Training) as well as through various new games, participants will be invited to get in touch with their own unacknowledged powers, and thus to discover the hidden warrior within. Guidance will be offered on how to apply the warrior ideal to daily life. This workshop will not be physically strenuous. All that is needed is a generous heart and a willingness to participate.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse (Dutton).

89110304 $295

Week of November 5–10

The Heart of the Matter

Ronald Alexander

This workshop offers ways to assist participants in their personal healing process, through emotional and physical release and by changing unhealthy patterns of living, loving, and relating. The goals of this work are simple: telling the truth, making choices, enhancing awareness, becoming quiet, cultivating compassion.

The tools for this week will include gestalt practice, which teaches awareness of one's process, micro-analysis, which is the process of healing and revitalizing self-esteem, and meditation, which cultivates mindfulness, insight, and wisdom. This integrated view activates the psyche's calming and self-healing abilities whereby the process of repairing and revitalizing can begin.

Recommended reading: Thich Nhat Hanh, Being Peace; John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics); R.L. Wing, The Tao of Power (Doubleday).

89110503 $575

Change and Self-Esteem

Phyllis Shankman

Change is an ever-present aspect of living which must be accepted and used creatively if one is to sustain a healthy, interesting, and exciting life. Many individuals talk about wanting change while actively or passively resisting it. Self-esteem, which includes self-acceptance, self-appreciation, and self-confidence, is the aspect of self which enables one to confront resistance and fear and which increases the willingness to change and take risks.

This workshop includes an in-depth process for finding and allowing self-acceptance and for creatively confronting opportunities for change and growth. Group activities include gestalt process work, discussion, massage, meditation, music, dance, art imagery exercises, and whatever else happens spontaneously.

89110502 $575

The Hakomi Method

Ron Kurtz

Hakomi is a body-centered practice based on the principles of mindfulness, unity, organicity, non-violence, and body-mind holism. Hakomi incorporates non-doing as a major methodological principle and trusts in every individual's inner wisdom and power for self-healing. Using the body as a rich source of information about the unconscious mind, hakomi can assist people in turning inward to those special states of consciousness where change takes place, to explore core beliefs which determine the quality of experience.

Hakomi work embraces the body-mind unity, supports the client's resistance, and encourages respect for and awareness of inner processes. This can be used by counselors, health practitioners, educators, body workers, and anyone invested in personal growth. This workshop also serves as a prerequisite for the formal hakomi certification process.

89110501 $575

Word Magic: A Personal Adventure through Writing

Nancy Bacal

We all have stories and the ability to tell them. But when asked to translate them onto the page, many of us are inhibited by self-judgment. Through a series of exercises designed to bypass blockages, participants will be encouraged to move beyond the controlling arm of the critic and tap their reservoirs of personal experience. These exercises will provide an opportunity to turn the burdens in our lives into stories, the unwanted voices into characters, the failures and successes into material. They are specific enough to excite the imagination yet loose enough for the writer inside to experiment with form and images and remain open to surprise.

This writing workshop offers a supportive and stimulating environment for the non-writer, the would-be writer, and the professional. The schedule will include writing in and out of the group, walks, meditation as it relates to creative process, reading and discussion of pertinent material. The intention will be to coax the mind out of its cycle of expectation and disappointment into a positive, functioning relationship with one's work.

Recommended reading: Carla Needleman, Work of Craft (Avon); Joseph Goldstein, The Experience of Insight (Unity).

89110504 $575

Glasnost and Perestroika: Soviet and American Poets in Dialogue

Sponsored by the Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program

During the first two weeks in November, two poets from the Soviet Union and two poets from the United States will gather at Esalen to study, reflect, and write about current Soviet and American trends in poetry and about the state of the world. It will be the first of a series of such seminars at Esalen and in the Soviet Union. A collection of work written during each of these seminars will be published.

This weekend workshop is being held during this two-week seminar, giving participants an opportunity to talk with the poets on issues current to both cultures.

89111002 $295

Weekend of November 10–12

Advanced Massage Intensive

Arthur Munyer & Esalen Massage Practitioners

This program offers massage practitioners advanced body work methods for working with chronic tension, and skills for enhancing their creativity in their work. Anatomy and movement will be included.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89111003 $295

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see September 3-8.

89111004 $295

Self-Expression through Music for Everyone

David Darling

This workshop will help soothe and heal the inner self by directing energy into sound-making, rhythmic grooving, chant-shouting, poem- and sculpture-designing, group productions, breath perception, meditation, smiling, clowning, chamber music inspiration, instrument-inventing, and humor.

Participants are asked to bring instruments that they want to learn to play or that they can play now. Percussion instruments will be provided. The voice will be, of course, the center of the entire process: where it is, how it is, what to do with it.

89111001 $295

Week of November 12–17

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see September 29-October 1.

89111203 $575

Five Days with Janet Zuckerman

This workshop continues Esalen's tradition of interpersonal and intrapersonal work on emotional process. It is based on these premises: that unfinished business is projected into current relationships, interfering with one's ability to be in the present, and that by emotional release one may cleanse the doors of perception. Tools for exploration will include the open seat, a tennis racket, pillows, and a sense of humor.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89111202 $575

November 12–December 8

Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Deborah Anne Medow & Perry Holloman

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 37.

89111201 $2640

Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 37.

89111204 $2640

Weekend of November 17–19

Close Yet Free: A Workshop for Couples

Angeles Arrien & Gerald Smith

For most partners in a relationship there is a tension between being close and vulnerable yet remaining autonomous to grow as separate persons. This dilemma is seldom resolved.

Angeles Arrien will draw from her knowledge of how couples from other cultures live successfully with this dilemma, and Gerald Smith will draw from his clinical and workshop experience with couples during the past twenty-five years. Couples will spend time with the whole group, time with their partner separate from other couples, and time with other couples. This workshop is intended for couples who believe they already have a good relationship, yet are open to adding more to what they have built together.

89111702 $295

The Delight of Immediacy

Charlotte Selver & Charles Brooks

Much as we may wish to live in the present, we are often preoccupied with images and ideas of how it ought to be. Instead of responding to the situation at hand with the innumerable nerves, muscles, and interweavings of consciousness which are we, much of us is immobilized by early conditioning, acute emotional problems, or by habit, and much is held back until the inner board of review gives the OK.

But children and sages have a different way of functioning. For them the world flows into their consciousness as the air into their lungs, and their responses are organismic and direct, bypassing the evaluation center which is the educated mind of the adult. It is our lack of immediacy which is usually felt as tedium and which necessitates ever stronger stimuli in the search for joy, or self-disciplines in the search for peace. By giving up these preconceptions and gradually coming to follow our sense of reality, we begin to respond not to what should be but to what is, and the world catches fire for us.

This workshop will explore direct experience which, as it becomes clearer and stronger, tends to burn away the mist of concepts and restrictions which our conditioning has interposed between ourselves and living.

Recommended reading: Charles Brooks, Sensory Awareness (Viking; Felix Morrow).

89111701 $295

Week of November 19–24

Thanksgiving Week at Esalen

There will be limited space available at Esalen this week for those who would like to spend time enjoying the grounds, the baths, and the community without participating in a group. Guests may stay for just part of the week, although priority will be given to those who sign up for the full five-day period.

89111903 $350

A Week with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

Laura DeNuccio writes: "This is an invitation to those individuals who are aware of an emerging consciousness that is making itself felt and heard personally and globally, and who are searching to fulfill both higher and deeper callings in their lives.

"The emphasis of this workshop will be on learning how to embody this new awareness, bridging one's personal growth and inner experience with outer involvement in the world. Inquiry will be made into the beliefs and assumptions that shape somatic reality, with special attention given to personal issues. The group will draw from breath, movement, sound, gestalt practice, imagery, and meditation to enliven, balance, and transform energy blocks and patterns in the body. For some individuals, unconscious thoughts and feelings that reside in the body tissue may come to life, which can then be consciously integrated into a new level of wholeness and well-being—physically, mentally, sexually, and spiritually.

"Through attunement with the Earth and each other, individuals can deepen their capacity to listen to the innate wisdom and intelligence of the body. This will be encouraged through music, dance, creative use of the Spoken Word, and ritual. Practices that cultivate sensitivity, compassion, honesty, and kindness toward oneself and others will be included. In this way, the group can co-create an environment of trust and acceptance in which to explore the ever-unfolding adventure of spirit and discover a deepened sense of the interconnectedness that is inherent in all life-forms."

Recommended reading: John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics); Fields et al., Chop Wood, Carry Water (Tarcher); Florence Shinn, The Game of Life and How to Play It (De Vorss).

89111902 $575

November 19–26

The Feldenkrais® Method and Cortical ReEducation

Harriet Goslins & John Dudley

The habitual way a person sits, stands, or moves reflects patterns that are "wired in" to the nervous system. This information can be erased or changed. By reeducating the brain/muscle connection, restrictions in movement are freed, freeing also the lifetime habits that have organized around that movement.

This work is a relearning of the ease and fluidity that was taken for granted as a child and lost somewhere along the way. Physical injury, emotional trauma, or ongoing stress all evoke a protective response from the body. These patterns, necessary at the time, remain when no longer needed, outside of awareness, and continue to cause discomfort and unnecessary limitation. Freeing them results in relief of chronic pain or tightness, a more restful sleep, and a higher energy level. By changing muscular holding patterns, the entire protective posture is altered, deeply affecting the body's habitual defense system. Thus, new movement possibilities mean new self-image possibilities.

Fears and anxieties have corresponding muscular habits. Verbal information, no matter how brilliant, or spiritual practice that fails to extinguish these muscular habits, will fail to totally eliminate the toxic behavior.

This workshop is for those who are physically active and fit and want to increase their skills while learning to reduce risk of injury; for the sedentary or those dealing with after-effects of injuries; for the athlete, the dancer, and those who "live in their heads"; and for the average person who feels chronically tired and stressed and wants to learn how to take better care of his/her neck, shoulders, and back, to improve his/her posture and breathing, and to live and move with more flexibility and comfort.

This course is provider approved by the California Board of Dental Examiners, number 2586.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89111901 $870

Weekend of November 24–26

Thanksgiving Weekend at Esalen

For those who wish to stay, this weekend is a continuation of the preceding week (see November 19-24) or is suitable for those who just have time to visit Esalen for a few days. Massage and other work offered by individual practitioners will be available.

89112410 $160

Week of November 26–December 1

Spiritual Healing: Laying On of Hands

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman

This workshop will present practical methods of using the hands as instruments for physical and spiritual healing. The emphasis will be on intentionality and personal clarity as fundamental tools in any healing art.

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman lives in Brazil where she studies with healers of "spiritism" (espiritismo). She combines her healing work with the art of cranial manipulation.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see pages 39-40.

89112601 $575

Completion

Will Schutz

Incomplete actions, be they personal or social, result in many of humankind's troubles: emotional – replaying early stuck relations; physical – chronic tension from unfinished actions; health – blood poisoning from uneliminated waste products; aging – caused by incomplete events; ecology – waste disposal problems, especially nuclear; spiritual – karma, unfinished business; education – Montessori's insistence on putting toys away; sports – the concept of the killer instinct.

What are the resistances to completion? What must happen to a self-concept to propel it toward completing cycles? These and other questions will be explored via the following concepts: theory of energy cycles, life history completion, health through imagery.

89112603 $575

Help for Adult Children of "Normal" Parents: The Continuum Concept

Jean Liedloff

Jean Liedloff has developed a set of principles that guides clients toward an understanding of the beliefs and expectations formed in baby- and childhood that chronically undermine their capacity to act from accurate, adult perception of Self and Other. In her years of living in the South American jungle with Stone Age Indians, Liedloff observed a norm of human well-being that offers a reliable paradigm of mental and emotional health that has been missing from our attempts to attain individual and social fulfillment. Her work with clients is based on principles extrapolated from these observations. Normalcy, as we know it, is viewed as a pathology and new (ancient) criteria suddenly make sense of many of our problems.

This workshop will present methods that can change a client's self-defeating beliefs, at his or her own optimum pace, which participants will experience from both the client's and guide's points of view. It is for professionals and nonprofessionals. Please see page 40 to arrange for child care at the Gazebo.

Recommended reading: Jean Liedloff, The Continuum Concept (Addison-Wesley, U.S.; Penguin, U.K.), German edition, Auf Der Suche Nach Dem Verlorenen Gluck (CH Beck, Germany).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89112602 $575

Weekend of December 1–3

"We Thought We Had All the Answers"

Judith Brown

Knowing "the answers" has limited value when engaging with another. This workshop, designed for singles and couples, offers the opportunity to focus on the experience of relating. Participants will practice skills that make relationship possible: awareness of self and other and the ability to use this awareness in a lively way. Self-disclosure and self-expression will be to the degree participants choose.

89120103 $295

Transitions

Elliot Waker Aronson & Gabriele Hilberg-Thomson

Disorganization is a natural part of transition and facilitates reorganization. People are almost constantly in a state of transition – whether it be getting married, beginning a new career, becoming a parent, letting go of a relationship, or moving on to the next stage in the life cycle. These changes can be exciting and, at the same time, can evoke a loss of internal balance. The result can be loss of self-esteem, confusion about one's identity, and doubts about one's perceptions. New feelings and ideas are fragile during these periods of transition and require special nurturance.

The goal of this workshop is to gain perspective on the process of making transitions. Through guided fantasies, self-exploration, and didactic presentations, participants may develop ways of enhancing their understanding of themselves and increasing their overall effectiveness.

Recommended reading: Elliot Waker Aronson, The Social Animal (Freeman).

89120101 $295

Learning the Craft of Dream Work

Stephen Aizenstat

Dreams can be imagined as looking-glass parables, each a complex story that reflects the personality and soul of the dreamer. This weekend's program will bring emphasis to the healing potential of dream work. In so doing, the leader will review methods of dream work which consider the personal and collective unconscious.

In addition, new methods of dream work which take into account the world unconscious will be described. The world unconscious is seen as a deeper and broader dimension of the psyche and is imagined to contain the subjective inner natures (the subtle body) of all phenomena. It is believed that these inner subjective properties are reflected in the images of dreams and are, at an essential level, interrelated. It is at this level of the psyche that dream images provide access to an interconnected source of healing energy. This view, grounded in modern research and ancient wisdom, has practical implications for the use of dreams in physical and psychological healing.

Participants will be shown how to employ specific methods of dream work which honor and actualize the healing potential of the psyche. In this regard, common dream themes, nightmares, lucid dreaming, archetypal imagery, and the recurring dream will be discussed.

89120102 $295

Week of December 3–8

The Practice of Trusting Process

Christine Stewart Price

Gestalt practice is based on the premise that the human organism instinctively moves toward balance and well-being at all times. This process of self-regulation functions beautifully when left to itself. Most often, though, we interfere with this natural balancing through habitual patterns of physical tension, mental attitude, and emotional blocking. Through awareness and self-listening, especially as focused on physical sensation and breath, gestalt practice offers a form for noticing and exploring these habitual interferences. It provides an opportunity to discover what happens when one's process is trusted, experienced fully, and allowed expression.

This group is structured to provide a safe place for individuals to explore their experience, one at a time, with the support of the leader and other group members. There will also be meditations and group exercises designed to increase and facilitate awareness and expression. Participants are encouraged to bring patience, tolerance, and a sense of humor with them. The leader promises to provide the same.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Real People Press); John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics); Ram Dass and Paul Gorman, How Can I Help? (Knopf).

89120301 $575

Friends of Esalen Week

The Friends of Esalen are those people who provide financial support through contributions which fund Esalen scholarships, invitational conferences, and special programs. In appreciation of their support, Esalen is offering this five-day program to current and new Friends of Esalen at a special rate of $425 ($325 for the bunk bed rate). Space will be available for 40 to 50 members, who may choose from an assortment of events including meditation, massage, yoga, gestalt, movement, and creative arts.

Specific information will be provided in a mailing to all Friends of Esalen. If you would like to register now, send in the catalog reservation form with your deposit of $150 ($100 for the bunk bed rate). If you have additional questions, please call Deborah Miller, Coordinator, Friends of Esalen, (415) 453-1687.

89120302 $425

Weekend of December 8–10

Introduction to Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

For workshop description see October 6-8.

89120802 $295

The Heart of the Soul

Rabbi Zalman Schachter-Shalomi & Eve Ilsen

There is a rich Jewish mystical tradition concerning the journey of the soul which parallels the Book of the Dead of many cultures. This is an invitation for participants to pay a midwinter visit to their journeying soul, touch the esoteric world of the Kabbalah, and re-emerge into their lives touched by the teachings. The group will celebrate the Sabbath amidst the songs and dances of Hassidism and a richness of tales and legends.

89120803 $295

The Archaic Revival: Inner Visions, Future Vectors

Terence McKenna

This age of archaic revival is a time of responsibility and opportunity, a rare confluence of traditional forms such as shamanism and vision-questing with a planetary and post-historical mega-future. Can archaic values give meaning to the now apparently inevitable dissolution of our ages-long link to this green and watery world? How can we facilitate our departure from the cave of forgetting and our immersion into the real politic of membership in the galactic collectivity of mind? We will discuss who we are, where we came from, and where we are headed as a species. This seminar will explore a universe that is stranger than we can suppose.

89120801 $295

December 10–15

Esalen will be closed to the public for these five days.

Weekend of December 15–17

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see September 29-October 1.

89121502 $295

A Workshop for Couples with David Schiffman

This workshop will focus on reawakening and developing positive, mutual supports that are at the root of satisfying couple relationships. The emphasis will be on creating clear and truthful expressions of loving and personal integrity. Participants will re-examine their beliefs and habits through the use of intuitional sensing, risk-taking structures, guided imagery, and gestalt awareness methods.

89121504 $295 per participant

The Whole Image: Imagery and Morphology

Gerald Epstein

Imagery is essentially the mind thinking in pictures, an activity which prompts an internal healing response. Morphology is the expression of the inner being as reflected in the face. This face-picture offers individuals direction for finding their proper diet, exercise, mate, and overall path of health.

This weekend course will provide a comprehensive exploration of these two complementary aspects of the image. Participants will learn how to access imagery as a way of healing. They will also practice reading the outer reality of the face through morphology to better understand themselves and others. These two functions, imagery and morphology, are main pillars upon which Western spiritual and therapeutic traditions are built.

89121503 $295

Recovery for Adult Children of Alcoholics and Other Trauma

Julie Bowden

The children of alcoholics movement is officially only six years old (the National Association for Children of Alcoholics was founded in 1983), yet already treatment providers are being called to address depth issues and late stage recovery. Survivors of childhood traumas other than alcoholism have also begun to appreciate the healing power of the adult child message and are entering the movement seeking recognition.

In this workshop, specific focus will be given to the child within, to the practice of being oneself vs. codependence, and to the stages and spiritual dimension of recovery. Recovery requires courage and commitment and is possible only for those willing to undertake the "hero's journey."

This workshop is for children of alcoholics, children of trauma, and also for the professionals who work with them and need time for their own renewal.

Recommended reading: Gravitz and Bowden, Recovery: A Guide for Adult Children of Alcoholics (Simon & Schuster); Bowden and Gravitz, Genesis: Spirituality in Recovery from Childhood Traumas (Health Communications Inc.).

89121501 $295

Week of December 17–22

Playing the Edge

David Schiffman

For workshop description see September 24-29.

89121704 $575

Recovery for Adult Children of Alcoholics and Other Trauma

Julie Bowden

For workshop description see December 15-17.

89121702 $575

Reflections of Self: A Reichian/Gestalt Workshop

Jessica Moore Britt

This will be an introduction to intensive intrapsychic inquiry using Reichian breath work and gestalt practice. Reichian breath work utilizes breath and sound to energize and deepen the process of self-awareness by softening the body's patterns of physical tension and emotional holding. Gestalt practice is an awareness approach focusing on physical sensation, image, thought, and emotion. By emphasizing a person's experience in the present moment, gestalt moves toward developing a more conscious sense of self. In a supportive group atmosphere, participants will have the opportunity to explore thoughts and feelings formed by past experiences. With this exploration, the possibility is opened to respond in the present.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Real People Press); Nick Totton and Em Edmondson, Reichian Growth Work (Prism Press).

89121703 $575

The Body and Zen

Dub Leigh & Audrey Nakamura

The goal of this seminar is twofold: 1) to use body work methods and principles for releasing tension, trauma, and toxins from connective tissue; and 2) to circulate the vital energy in an aligned body. The group will draw from Rolfing® (structure), Feldenkrais® (function), and Zen (energy), to obtain these goals.

This is a hands-on workshop. Participants will give and receive body work and will learn methods to recognize, work with, and relieve some types of chronic muscle pain. The class will be limited in size (two people per table). Participants are asked to bring a swimsuit – two-piece for women.

Recommended reading: William Leigh, A Zen Approach to Bodytherapy, From Rolf to Feldenkrais to Tanouye Roshi (University of Hawaii Press).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89121701 $575

® Rolfing is a service mark of the Rolf Institute

Weekend of December 22–24

Reinventing Love

Robert Solomon

Reinventing Love is a personal probe into the most highly valued of all emotions, its promise, its disappointments, its dangers. It will explore such problems as: Why we sometimes find it difficult to love, to admit our love, to express our love; Why love goes wrong, why we choose the wrong partners, why we fail to make it work with the right partner; Why love must be invented – and reinvented – by each generation and by every couple.

89122204 $295

Experiencing Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

This workshop is open to anyone interested in learning to recognize, trust, and use their psi abilities. The leaders will use exercises designed to aid participants in recognizing their perceptive styles and trusting the intuitive input they normally receive. Anne Armstrong will use her tracking abilities, acquired from over twenty years in this field, to assist participants in arriving at useful, accurate data.

One of the basic objectives of the workshop is to demystify the intuitive/psychic process and encourage participants to use it in all areas of their lives – personal, professional, and spiritual. The workshop will include personal psychic scans and practice on selected cases.

89122205 $295

Fun with the Violin: For Adults Who Always Wanted to Play a Musical Instrument and Never Have

Diane Egli

For the adult who would like to play a musical instrument, but never had lessons as a child, or who used to play, but hasn't since childhood, this workshop could be just the opportunity to learn to play the violin – and have fun doing it. This will be a time for participants to increase their awareness of how it feels to learn a new skill – the challenge, the excitement, the frustration, and the success of accomplishment. Included in the workshop will be various activities to enhance violin playing, such as movement, music, and rhythm exercises. Participants are asked to bring a tape recorder and tapes.

Recommended reading: Shinichi Suzuki, Nurtured by Love (Banner); John Holt, Never Too Late (Pinchpenny Press).

$295 (plus $10 violin rental fee paid directly to the leader)

89122203

Body Rejuvenation

Dub Leigh & Audrey Nakamura

The goal of this seminar is to start to rejuvenate the body, mind, and spirit. A fast way to do this is to work the body. Transform the old, hard, short, nonresilient tissue into soft, lengthy, bouncy tissue free from trauma, stress, and pain. You will then have changed the despondent, hopeless, negative, grouchy person into an enthusiastic, positive, upbeat one.

The recipe for how to begin to rejuvenate a body in one session will be demonstrated to the group, and then experienced and performed by each participant.

This seminar is recommended for everyone. The older you are, the more stuff you have to work with. Class size is limited (two students per table). Bring a swimsuit – two-piece for women.

Recommended reading: William Leigh, A Zen Approach to Bodytherapy, From Rolf to Feldenkrais to Tanouye Roshi (University of Hawaii Press).

89122201 $295

Rituals of Transformation

Paul Rebillot

People continually approach thresholds, transition points from one state-of-being to another. To live is to change. The tendency, however, is to resist change, to cling to the familiar, to remain stuck at the threshold. This tendency is the source of much of the stress and pain that people experience in life.

A ritual does not make a change happen; rather, it awakens within the psyche the archetypal pattern of change. By acting out the ritual, people learn the process of transformation not only in their minds, but in their hearts and bodies as well. Rituals can prepare people for change and help heal incomplete passages from the past.

During this workshop, group members will look at what they want to heal and transform in their lives, what they need to say goodbye to, and what new step they need to take to cross their present threshold. Sub-groups will design and enact individual rituals to support this process.

Joseph Campbell said that when someone can discover his or her authentic path, the way seems to be blessed by magic. To find this way is the work of Rituals of Transformation.

89122202 $295

Week of December 24–29

Five-Day Massage Intensive

George King & Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see October 15-20.

89122404 $575

Acting is Doing

Stephen Book

For workshop description see October 29-November 3.

89122401 $575

Awakening Inner Power

Deborah Anne Medow, Mary Tesoro & Judith Roth

Operating from the assumption that one's innate energies lie largely untapped, this group will explore alternative means of gathering inner power. Leonard Energy Training, a comprehensive system offering tools to meet the problems, pressures, and pain of everyday life situations, will be combined with gestalt to provide a foundation for personal growth and change. Yoga and massage will be interwoven with elements of the martial art of aikido to increase the flow of vital energy through the body, mind, and spirit.

89122405 $575

The Birth of the Sun

Paul Rebillot

The winter solstice is a time for restful introspection as the earth's outer darkness allows the inner sun of the soul to regenerate and find expression. Traditional cultures the world over have rested, fasted, and feasted during this time of the year in celebration of the turning point, the cyclic return of the light.

Despondency, disillusionment, and regrets often weigh on people at this time of year, manifesting as depression or flight into frantic cheerfulness. This workshop offers an opportunity to work through past regrets as well as unfulfilled ideals, promises, and fairy tales of childhood. Participants will seek, through ritual, gestalt, guided fantasy, music, and play, an inner solstice, their own turning point from past regret and future fantasy to the divine simplicity of their own present being.

89122402 $575

BONNIE FRIZER

Moshe Feldenkrais, inventor of the Feldenkrais Method, gave his first American training seminar at Esalen in 1970.

Weekend of December 29–31

Year End Renewal at Esalen

This will be a weekend for people to renew themselves in the tranquil and beautiful setting of Esalen. It will not be a structured program, although several ongoing classes in the various practices offered here will be available for guests to choose from. These may include: sessions in gestalt, movement, meditation, massage, day hikes, singing gestalt, aerobics, stretching, and yoga. The swimming pool and natural hot baths will be available as usual.

The food will be specially prepared, with an emphasis on a healthy diet of fresh vegetables and grains. Much of the produce is picked daily from Esalen's own organic garden and farm.

Come and enjoy a weekend of inner reflection, physical movement, and personal renewal as the year draws to a close.

89122901 $295

Week of December 31–January 5

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see September 3-8.

89123103 $630

Craniosacral System: Basic Workshop

Jim Asher & Jane Harrington

This workshop will offer an opportunity to learn and practice gentle yet powerful skills to bring the craniosacral system into balance. The class will combine lectures and slides on functional anatomy of the membrane system and cerebrospinal fluid movement. There will be hands-on demonstrations of a variety of methods for tapping into bone and membrane motion, rhythm, amplitude quality, restriction, and interference. Demonstrations will be followed by supervised practice. Time will also be spent evoking and developing palpatory sensitivity and fine-tuning the quality of touch.

This workshop is for people with a strong interest in developing hands-on skills and for those already practicing body work or counseling. Much of the focus will be on the head, jaw, neck, pelvis, and diaphragm systems. Cranial work can be effective in shifting emotional holding patterns and draining accumulated stresses in the nervous system.

Recommended reading: John Upledger and Jon Vredevoogd, Craniosacral Therapy (Eastland).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see pages 39-40.

89123101 $630

Touching Spirit: Dimensions of Psychic Healing™

Elizabeth Stratton

Psychic healing bridges the physical and the spiritual. Touching as a healing act has been practiced through recorded history by practitioners of the sacred as well as the secular: healers, shamans, priests, doctors, and mothers. In the past ten years, physics and modern medicine have come to an acknowledgment of the radically relational nature of our universe. Nothing and no one functions in a void.

Human emotions affect the functioning of the body, and illness is often an outgrowth of this mind-body link. Semi-dissociative states that are induced by prayer, meditation, and trance have been found to provide a fertile ground for healing to take place. It has been discovered that "multiple personalities" exhibit different states of health in each personality. The placebo effect has become one of the most respected and well-studied issues in healing today.

A psychic healer is one who can help connect the physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual levels of another person's being with healing intention through the use of touch. This workshop will explore, both didactically and experientially, the sacred and secular uses of touch, modern theories of disease formation and healing mechanisms, the use of psychic sight in healing, forgiveness as transformational cleansing, and the channeling of healing energy through the laying on of hands.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89123104 $630

Choices and Changes Using Gestalt

Anne Nechama Simkin

Gestalt practice is a noninterpretive, existentially-based system in which awareness of one's feelings in the present moment is the primary focus. Human beings are born with the innate capacity to cope with life. As we mature, this process – and our excitement, creativity, self-expression, and self-acceptance – at times may be interrupted or suppressed.

Most gestalt communications deal primarily with the immediate interactions of those present. Explanations, interpretations, and assumptions are discouraged. Concentrating on what is rather than on what could or should be encourages a person to take responsibility for his or her own actions. By becoming aware of what is potentially nourishing and what is toxic, it is possible to learn to make choices and to achieve integration.

This workshop is for persons seeking a new perspective, growth, and change and who want to reown those aspects of their lives that are nourishing. Participants will share experiences, explore new ways of coping with ongoing situations, search for the existential messages of their dreams, and learn to communicate with each other and significant others. The content of the workshop will evolve out of the needs and wishes of the group members.

Recommended reading: Corsini et al., Current Psychotherapies, Chapter 8, 3rd edition, (Peacock); J. Simkin, Mini-Lectures in Gestalt Therapy; Kutash and Wolf, editors, Psychotherapist's Casebook (Jossey-Bass).

89123105 $630

December 31–January 7

Painting Experience with Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

For workshop description see September 3-10.

$955 (plus $30 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

89123102

Weekend of January 5–7

A Celebration with Paul Horn & Chungliang Al Huang

Paul Horn and Chungliang Al Huang will celebrate and share their joyous collaboration in music, dance, tai ji, jazz improvisation, meditation, philosophy, and world travel experiences.

Recommended reading: Chungliang Al Huang, Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (E.P. Dutton; Tao Wetter-Sphinx Verlag, Basel) and Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Celestial Arts); Alan Watts with Chungliang Al Huang, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon).

Recommended listening: Paul Horn, Inside, Inside the Great Pyramid, China, Traveller, Altitude of the Sun, and A Special Edition.

90010501 $355

Forgiveness and Letting Go of Judgment

Elizabeth Stratton

Elizabeth Stratton writes: "The training of the Western mind, both spiritually and intellectually, is oriented toward judgment. We are taught to induce, deduce, analyze, dissect, defend, debate. We are taught to feel guilty, to get sick, to engage in self-punishment and the punishment of others. We are encouraged to rebuke ourselves into perfection.

"We do not know the healing quality of true remorse or how to let go of that which we should never have held onto in the first place, which is the real meaning of forgiveness. In studies of people who have died and come back to talk about it, the most unifying element of their experiences was the meeting with a Being of white light who stood by with unconditional love, no judgment, and humor as they watched their lives roll before them like movies. The only judge was the person watching his/her own life.

"This workshop will be experiential. You are invited to observe the judgmental prison of your own mind, to feel the cleansing power of remorse, and to allow your heart to open to the freedom and healing that comes from forgiving yourself and others."

90010502 $325

Week of January 7–12

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

For workshop description see October 6-8.

90010703 $630

The Life Energy Process℠

Stephano Sabetti

For workshop description see September 10-15.

90010702 $630

A Celebration with Paul Horn & Chungliang Al Huang

For workshop description see January 5-7.

90010701 $660

Seeds of Singing

Susan Osborn, David Densmore & Donna Laslo

Our culture considers singing a valid expression only for those gifted individuals called singers, which, by omission, leaves the rest as non-singers. Music as a whole is then tossed into the realm of the extra-curricular. However, the voice is a gift inherent to every human and a feedback mechanism to aid in the development and expression of the individual.

Simply breathing, sighing, and extending that sound into song has opened up worlds within and without for those willing to trust their bodies and creatively use the waves of emotion that arise. It is possible to transform the tremendous energy of fear, love, grief, joy, and anger into a non-verbal, penetrating song of one's humanity. With or without words, song is communication. In this workshop, participants will have the opportunity to explore their voices, to form a circle of singers and listeners, to honor and explore the ancient tool of Song.

90010704 $630

Weekend of January 12–14

Introduction to Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

For workshop description see October 6-8.

90011202 $325

Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Tai Ji Intensive)

Chungliang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

This workshop offers New Year renewal with the fundamentals of tai ji practice. Chungliang Al Huang will share the crystallization of his most essential learnings. He will lead participants in sunrise movement meditation, five-elements form, Chinese Qi Gong breathing, and life-force revitalization exercises with Taoist philosophical and aesthetic dialogues and discourses. Join the music, dancing, and celebration!

Recommended reading: Chungliang Al Huang, Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (Dutton) and Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Celestial Arts); Alan Watts with Chungliang Al Huang, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon).

90011201 $325

Introduction to Vipassana Meditation

Jamie Baraz

Vipassana (insight) meditation practice is a systematic examination of the mind/body process through calm and focused awareness. Learning to observe experience from a place of stillness enables one to relate to life without fear or clinging. One begins to accept pleasure and pain, fear and joy, with increasing equanimity and balance. Life is seen as a constantly changing process. Insight is the deepening experience of the process itself, free of interpretation, leading to wisdom and compassion.

This seminar is designed for those who have had no previous meditation experience as well as for those who wish to deepen their practice. Meditation instruction, the philosophy behind the practice, group discussions, and actual practice periods will be offered. Special emphasis will be placed on how to integrate Vipassana practice in daily life after the workshop is over.

Recommended reading: Joseph Goldstein, The Experience of Insight (Shambhala).

90011203 $325

Minding the Body, Mending the Mind and the Soul

Joan & Myrin Borysenko

We are at an emerging crossroads where science, medicine, and spirituality are coming together as a new force for healing, where mending the soul is recognized as integral to minding the body and mending the mind. Physical illness, addiction, anxiety, depression, loneliness, and guilt are all opportunities for learning to embrace life with gratitude and enthusiasm, learning the skills of psychospiritual growth, and remembering our connection to the spirit, or Source of life, that we all share.

Exploring medicine, science, psychology, and the perennial philosophy of the ages, we will share a weekend of soul-mending that includes practical methods of breathing, meditation, imagery, prayer, dream work, and poetry. The underlying philosophy of the group work will be that we are already whole and that we can learn to pay gentle attention to the messages from mind and body that call us to remember our deeper unity and identity with spirit.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see pages 39-40.

90011204 $325

Week of January 14–19

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Brita Ostrom & Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see October 15-20.

90011404 $630

A Look Within

Jessica Moore Britt

For workshop description see September 17-22.

90011402 $630

Imagery and Healing: Shamanism and Modern Medicine

Jeanne Achterberg & Frank Lawlis

The image is an ancient and potent healing tool, a source of creative ideas, and the basis for rituals performed since the beginning of time. It is a midwife or interface between inner experience and conscious expression.

This workshop will examine ways to integrate the power of the imagination back into our culture, giving balance to the art and science of healing self, others, and community. Material will include scientific validation, studies of persons with catastrophic and chronic disease, and ways to integrate imagery and related psychospiritual modalities into daily life and into the helping/healing professions (counseling, medicine, nursing, and other fields of health care.) Guided imagery, music, and traditional shamanic tools will be used for journeys into the self.

90011405 $630

Delicious Movement Workshop

Eiko & Koma

The Delicious Movement Workshop is designed for people who love to move and who want to move with delicious feelings. Eiko and Koma encourage each participant to develop a lifelong pleasure in dancing anytime, anywhere, professionally or nonprofessionally. Raised in Japan but imbued with Western aesthetic concepts, the leaders build on Eastern awareness of physical nuance and time, and a Western recognition of the individualistic creative act.

A movement vocabulary which employs images, body articulation, and floor work is provided as the common ground for this workshop. However, the aim is not to teach this vocabulary. Rather, the participants, through their personal digestion of the material and the improvisational partnership which supports it, are encouraged to acquire personal taste and flexible discipline to suit their own moving bodies.

90011401 $630

How Hungry Am I and For What

Mariah Fenton Gladis

The road to recovery for adult children of alcoholics and others whose parents have been dysfunctional or abusive is challenging and can be deeply rewarding. It requires determina-

COURTESY EMIL WHITE

Henry Miller at the hot springs in 1950. Miller was enthusiastic about the baths' healing powers and visited them almost daily for 20 years.

tion, lifelong commitment, and positive experiences. This workshop offers participants an opportunity to take a major step toward health. Group members will work toward transforming their personal histories from one of liability to one of strength and wisdom, focusing on the promotion of healing in four fundamental relationships:

- With oneself: developing awareness, freedom from addictions, and healing of the body and soul from the residual effects of chronic trauma.
- With others: improving one's capacity for moving out of isolation and into direct, open communication and trust; expanding intimacy skills while securing healthy boundaries.
- In the world: moving away from chaos and deprivation toward stability and abundance.
- Spiritually: searching for the meaning of one's history and accessing that part of the self that can utilize universal blessings.

The workshop will be experiential and didactic, blending individual and group gestalt work, music, spiritual healing, body work, and personal metaphor. A step-by-step recovery process developed by the leader will be incorporated throughout the workshop. The atmosphere will be one of trust and mutual support. This workshop is also appropriate for professionals working with ACAs.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

90011403 $630

Weekend of January 19-21

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see September 29-October 1.

90011902 $325

Hands of Light: Introduction to Healing and High Sense Perception

Barbara Brennan

Barbara Brennan writes: "An important fact of existence is that we create our own experience of reality. The physical body exists within a larger body, a human energy field or aura, which is the vehicle through which we create that reality, including illness and health. It is through this energy field that we have the power to heal ourselves. It is also through this energy field that 'high sense perception' takes place. High sense perception is the ability to sense reality beyond the normal ranges of human sensing, commonly referred to as psychic sensing."

This workshop will emphasize simple healing methods and the development of high sense perception. It will include lectures, guidance, and healing by the leader, and hands-on practice by participants. Barbara Brennan, a former research scientist for NASA, will draw on her work with the human energy field. She will be accompanied by harpist Marjorie Valerie, who improvises music for meditation and healing.

90011901 $325

How Do I Love Thee, Let Me Count the Ways

Mariah Fenton Gladis

Creating stable and fulfilling relationships is a challenge that everyone faces. To be successful, human relating must be understood and accepted as an activity, an ability that requires movement, purpose, emotional capacity, and extensive contact skills. People often believe that good relating evolves naturally, but they discover in the routine of living with families, friends, and lovers that, in truth, they have not been adequately prepared – by their family backgrounds or society – to meet the demands of loving relationships.

This workshop will focus on the nature and basic requirements of healthy relationships. It will offer participants opportunities to assess their abilities and disabilities, to develop awareness, and to practice risking positive action with others. It is for anyone who has "hit the wall" in a relationship or who has experienced being stuck at some seemingly impenetrable contact boundary, and who wants to break through. Particularly helpful for adult children of dysfunctional families, ACAs, and human relations professionals, this experiential and didactic workshop will blend individual and group gestalt work, spiritual healing, body work, and personal metaphor.

90011903 $325

Week of January 21–26

Dimensions of Health and Healing: Traditional Approaches to Well-Being

Al Drucker

This workshop is for people who want to remain well and be in a position to help others remain well. Wellness here is defined as the direct experience of freedom, whether physical, emotional, mental, or spiritual.

Participants will be introduced to and experience various healing tools. One day each will be spent on: the traditional Chinese system of acupuncture, homeopathic philosophy and practice, Bach flower remedies, food – the best medicine, Rolfing and deep tissue work. A short, morning t'ai chi practice will be taught. There will be chanting and meditation, an afternoon herb bath, and evening talks on spirituality.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

90012102 $630

Freedom to Act

Paula Sholachman Shaw

It is oftentimes difficult to express something on the outside as strongly as it is felt on the inside. People sit in dark theaters, spectators to those who can play out what's locked inside, from villain to hero, spanning the full spectrum of human emotion. Participants in this course will do just that, exploring the full range of the actor's instrument – themselves.

Even those who thought they could never perform in front of an audience will perhaps amaze themselves with how powerfully expressive they can be. There will be exercises in personal presentation, performance, emotional expression, and improvisation. Requirement: a one-to-three minute memorized performance piece of any kind. The leader requests: "Leave your performing standards behind and bring your risky fears along."

90012101 $630

Women's Wisdom: Celebrating Sacred Dimensions of the Feminine

Jean Shinoda Bolen & Jan Lovett-Keen

By tapping intuitive sources of wisdom, creativity, and spirituality, life takes on deeper meaning. We are nourished by what we feel and know and dream and express. In the outer world, change and transitions are inevitable. What we often miss is time to reflect upon the meaning of events and to take stock of who we are becoming.

This retreat invites women to take time for inner reflection in the nurturing company of other women in an environment of natural beauty. Jean Shinoda Bolen, author of Goddesses in Everywoman, will lead participants inward through myths and meditation to their personal symbols and to the truth in their dreams. Jan Lovett-Keen, a musician and body worker, will teach participants to care for their bodies and to be attuned to their vulnerabilities, pain, trust, and strengths. Through music, participants will touch sources of inspiration and creativity and be reminded of the profound connection between women's nature and Mother Nature, between music and body knowledge.

These five days will provide women with an opportunity to experience their inner trusting child, the grown woman choicemaker, and the wisewoman aware of the sacred dimension of ordinary life.

90012104 $630

On Being a Man

David Schiffman

Many men today have sought to honor and embrace the emergence of the feminine principle in their own natures. As a result of this emphasis, the right to celebrate and honor the masculine has become a thorny and difficult dilemma.

A man's sense of his uniqueness and value is critical. During this week participants will examine those elements in their own natures which comprise the deeper dimensions of manhood, and how they might enhance the freedom to be men with simplicity, clarity, tenderness, strength, and dignity. They will explore the following questions:

- What does a man need to know and accept about his own nature to feel himself fully as a man?
- Can men come together to create an atmosphere of trust and good will, where the masculine aspects that they have in common can be honored and appreciated in the pleasure of each other's company?
- Are there ways that men can mark and celebrate the cycles that season them, their victories, and defeats? How might they reveal themselves emotionally without unnecessary shame or remorse?
- Can the "wild man" within be befriended and reliability and respectability still survive? Can fierceness and aggression be used constructively in realizing spiritual aspirations, intimate relationships, family and community concerns?

A variety of experiential processes will illuminate these and similar issues. Traditional initiation rituals and purification ceremonies using drumming, chanting, and a sweat lodge will be incorporated in this journey as well.

90012103 $630

Weekend of January 26–28

The Right Work

John Caple

What is work? And what is not work?
–The Bhagavad Gita

In this workshop participants will rediscover work-related dreams, draw power from life experiences, and clarify their vision of what they want their worklife to be. They will refine their sense of what is work and what is play, and what is right for them.

The approach will be practical, though grounded in the longings of the soul, and worldly, though enriched by the resources and culture of Esalen. There will be concepts to stimulate the intellect, processes to awaken intuitive wisdom, and a chance to bring it all together in a personal life plan. Participants will learn eleven steps to determine what work is right for them and specific strategies for getting that work, whether it involves a shift in responsibilities, a new job, or a complete career change. Some time will be available for individual work.

Recommended reading: John Caple, The Right Work (Dodd, Mead).

90012602 $325

The Shadow of Love

Ayala Pines

Whatever the essence of the love that binds two people will be the essence of the shadow this love will cast when threatened. Jealousy, envy, anger, fear, and other powerful emotions are all part of the shadow of love. In most cases, they are not a result of individual pathology, but of a certain dynamic in the relationship.

KATHLEEN TINGEWOOD CARR

The hot springs, 1988.

They are useful signals that partners can interpret and take advantage of to improve themselves and the relationship.

Through group discussion, role-playing, and guided fantasy, participants will learn to identify the threat triggered by the shadow of love and how to protect their relationships in positive and constructive ways. This workshop is for anyone who seeks better understanding of love and the emotions in its shadow, including issues related to love and jealousy. It may also be interesting for counselors who work with people for whom these issues are important.

90012603 $325

The Shamanic Journey, Power, and Healing

Michael Harner

Shamanism is an ancient human strategy for personal learning and for acting on that learning, using normally neglected or hidden potentialities of the heart, mind, and spirit. Shamanic methods can contribute to virtually any aspect of living, as they have for tens of thousands of years, and are especially useful for problem-solving, well-being, and healing.

In this experiential workshop, participants will be introduced to basic methods of the shaman (a specific type of medicine man or woman) and initiated into the classic shamanic journey. Otherwise known through myth and accounts of great spiritual experiences, this visionary method can be used to enter nonordinary reality to obtain knowledge, to answer personal questions, to maximize power to achieve personal goals, and to contribute to the health of oneself, others, and the Planet. Participants will be aided by traditional drumming and movement and will be provided with methods for journeying to discover and study with their individual spiritual teachers in nonordinary reality, a classic step in shamanic practice.

The shamanic journey can be utilized to help restore spiritual power and health and has practical applications to contemporary daily life. Practices this weekend will include comparison of discoveries and work on personal problem-solving and wellness.

Please bring a bandanna to cover your eyes, a pen and notebook to record your journeys and, if you have them, a drum and/or a rattle. Wear comfortable clothing.

Recommended reading: Michael Harner, The Way of the Shaman (Bantam) and Hallucinogens and Shamanism (Oxford).

90012601 $325

Week of January 28–February 2

On Being Good Enough

Heather Maycock-Ogilvy

Being a good enough parent, a good enough therapist, a good enough teacher, or a good enough spouse is an art not a science, a creative endeavor that must be entered into with an open mind and an open heart. This workshop offers no detailed instructions or rules but rather encouragement to develop an empathy with those with whom we would be – not perfect – but good enough.

Problem situations in love or work, childhood memories, dreams, and guided imagery will serve as material for the work. Psychodrama will be part of the process as will discussion, massage, play, and meditation.

Recommended reading: Bruno Bettelheim, A Good Enough Parent (Random House); D.W. Winnicott, Playing and Reality (Methuen).

90012801 $630

Yoga, Body Work, and Somatic Awareness Practices

Deborah Anne Medow & Til Luchau

A strong relationship exists between the inner sense of the body and the way we do what we do in the outer world. It could be said that inner somatic experience shapes outer activity. When learning yoga and massage together, this inner/outer relationship becomes apparent. The inner practice – yoga – gives a clear, proprioceptive sense of what it is like to be a body. This inner sense naturally informs the outer practice of giving a massage with a knowing authenticity and sense of presence.

In this workshop, participants will be given instruction in massage and gentle forms of ashtanga yoga, with awareness practices designed to integrate the somatic lessons gained from each. It is appropriate for both beginners and those with yoga or massage experience. Bring loose, comfortable clothing.

90012803 $630

Exploring Trance and Developing Self-Hypnotic Potentials

Marc Lehrer

Hypnosis, autogenics, Jacobsonian relaxation, computerized biofeedback, and other trance-enhancing tools for the mega-brain form the core of this experiential program. Goals for the week include: developing trance states to enhance everyday living; altering physiology to warm the hands and feet for stress relief (such as indicated for Reynaud's disease and hypertension); increasing or reducing sensation awareness to enhance sensuality or to alleviate pain; creating a communication strategy for working with the unconscious mind; and applying these learnings to habit patterns that have been difficult to change in the past.

Participants will practice methods for deepening, individual and group inductions, and trance awareness in movement and exercise. There will be time to discuss personal experiences and to enjoy the Esalen environment. Bring a small tape recorder with headphones or a pillow speaker if you are interested in working on sleep suggestions, and a favorite percussive soundmaker (small drum, shaker, bell, sticks or rocks) for daily rhythm practice.

90012802 $630

January 28–February 9

Advanced Training in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 38.

90012804

Weekend of February 2–4

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman

For workshop description see September 15-17.

90020201 $325

Men and Their Fathers: Unfinished Business

Samuel Osherson

Fathers are immensely important figures in men's lives, yet they often are shrouded in mystery and silence. Career goals, relationships with women, other men, their children, even men's attitudes toward spirituality are often linked to unfinished business with their fathers.

This workshop, open to both men and women, will explore the origins of the wounded father/son relationship and the paths to healing. Participants will consider current research and theory on the role of the father and mother in men's psychological development and discuss the changing place of the father in modern families. Using group and individual exercises, case studies, and contemporary poetry and music, they will explore the following themes:

- the key role of fathers in men's identities
- ways men try to complete their relationships with their fathers through children, wives, and mentors
- normal dilemmas of the father/son bond
- what happens when fathers are deceased or absent
- ways of letting go of past battles
- women's roles in the father-son relationship

The process will include ample time for discussion and personal reflection.

90020203 $325

Achieving Sustained High Performance

Jerry & Kathleen Fletcher

Everyone has had the experience of suddenly doing something much better than expected, yet, until recently, little has been understood about these high performance experiences. People assumed such times were lucky accidents. More significantly, even if they could perform at high levels for short times, they assumed there was no way to sustain such performance without stress, fatigue, and eventual burnout.

Eight years of research and testing make it clear that these times of exceptional performance are not capricious. Each individual has a unique set of conditions under which he or she performs surprisingly well. Once people learn their personal high performance patterns, they can deliberately create the conditions they need to sustain their high performance behavior. They do not need to subject themselves to the strain of short peak periods of high output followed by long recovery cycles.

This seminar presents a process for individuals to determine their high performance patterns and conditions. Developed through years of work with successful managers, executives, and professionals, it offers how to go from competent to exceptional performance in a way that can be sustained.

90020202 $325

Week of February 4–9

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see September 3-8.

90020404 $630

Embodied Gestalt Practice: Training for Professionals

Edward Smith

Embodied gestalt practice is a way of personal growth which focuses on the embodiment of experience, the living out of that embodied experience, and the choice for change. This is applied existential phenomenology, and it is applied Taoism. Personhood is highly respected as the subtle and tender process of awareness unfolding in the here-and-now. Edward Smith has developed embodied gestalt practice from gestalt, Reichian and neo-Reichian work, and Eastern body-oriented growth methods. The format is experiential.

Recommended reading: Edward W.L. Smith, The Body in Psychotherapy (McFarland).

90020403 $630

Intimate Relationships: Keeping the Spark Alive

Ayala Pines

When two people are in love, it seems like the magical spark between them is going to last forever. Unfortunately, more often than not, with the dampening effects of everyday pressures and stresses, the love is eroded and eventually burns out. Burnout is not caused by individual pathology or inadequacy, and it is not caused by major dramatic events. It is caused by a buildup of petty annoyances, minor dissatisfactions, and a gradual increase in boredom. How can this insidious process of love's erosion be prevented? How can a couple in love keep the romantic spark alive?

Participants will be encouraged to find their own romantic schemata and to rekindle the romantic images they shared at the beginning of their relationships. This workshop is recommended especially for couples committed to keeping the spark alive in their relationships and for marriage and family counselors. It may also be helpful for individuals who are trying to figure out what went wrong in a relationship that burned out.

Recommended reading: Ayala Pines, Keeping the Spark Alive (St. Martin's Press).

90020401 $630

A Basic Course in Healthy Eating

Andrew Weil

This workshop will cover principles of nutrition, including information about calories, cholesterol, protein, carbohydrates, and fat. How much protein do you really need? Can vegetarian food be totally nourishing and satisfying? Should you use olive oil or safflower oil, margarine or butter? Is pasta the perfect food? Do you need to drink milk, and where can you get your calcium if you don't?

These and other questions will be answered as participants prepare innovative dishes and meals that they will be able to duplicate at home. Group members will cook and eat together as they discuss aspects of diet and health, including vitamins and supplements, culinary and medicinal herbs and spices, and special diets for particular needs. The role of healthy eating as an aspect of preventive medicine will be stressed.

Andrew Weil draws on his experience as a physician, botanist, food lover, and cook in leading this workshop, as well as his association with Canyon Ranch Spa in Tucson, Arizona, where he directs the Natural Healing Program. This is an opportunity for participants to learn facts and methods not easy to find elsewhere while having fun, being creative, and doing something good for themselves in the bargain.

90020402 $630

Weekend of February 9–11

Help for Adult Children of "Normal" Parents: The Continuum Concept

Jean Liedloff

For workshop description see November 26-December 1.

90020903 $325

The Radiance of Life: How it is Perceived in Health and Illness

John Pierrakos & Siegmar Gerken

This seminar will focus on states-of-being that enhance life energy, examining their importance to well-being and to the evolution of the person. Participants will explore such questions as: What happens to life energy in crisis? In joy? In pleasure? In ecstasy? In connection with one's greater consciousness? What relationship does this energy have to one's functioning? To character structure? To the phenomenon of the aura? To the manifestation of the divine spirit?

This workshop will be experiential and didactic. Participants should bring comfortable clothes, including a swimsuit or leotard.

90020902 $325

Contemporary Challenges in Buddhist/Christian Perspective

Abbot Tenshin Reb Anderson, Richard Baker-roshi & Brother David Steindl-Rast

Alan Watts expected the relevant voices at the end of the 20th century to come out of (Zen) Buddhism and (Catholic) Christianity. Spokespersons of these two traditions will address themselves this weekend to some of the challenging issues of our time, such as the search for values, peacemaking, social responsibility, environmental stewardship, and the implications of planethood. In conversation with one another and the participants, they will also probe areas such as relationships, communication, integrity, and similar personal concerns which those present might want to bring up. There will be periods of meditation with Buddhist and Christian chanting.

90020901 $325

Interspecies Touch and Healing

Linda Tellington-Jones

This course will provide hands-on practice of the Tellington Touch, a method which has been used successfully for healing and communicating with an intriguing variety of animals. Tellington Touch releases tension, fear, and pain and enhances cellular function and overall well-being. The benefits to the toucher are as great as to the touched.

Participants will learn how to use this method to treat shock, to release chronic and acute pain, and to alleviate allergies in both humans and animals. Eleven "touches" will be taught, with participants practicing on each other and working with live animals in the Gazebo.

90020904 $325

Week of February 11–16

Sacred Mask Experience: Honoring the Shaman Within

Elisa Lodge

For workshop description see October 22-27.

90021104 $630

The Modern Warrior: LET in Action

George Leonard

For workshop description see November 3-5.

90021101 $630

A Week with Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

For workshop description see November 19-24.

90021102 $630

Transitions

Elliot Waker Aronson & Gabriele Hilberg-Thomson

For workshop description see December 1-3.

90021103 $630

Intermediate Craniosacral Workshop

Hugh Milne

This workshop provides a deeper and broader understanding of craniosacral work to those who have completed an introductory class. It offers several models for understanding how the head, spine, and pelvis act as an intimately reciprocal unit throughout life, and how subtle alterations of osseous rhythm or dural tension can produce remarkable effects on the function of the body/mind/spirit.

Participants will expand their range of technical cranial expertise and refine the arts of both deductive and intuitive diagnosis. The sacro-iliac, spheno-basilar, and tempero-mandibular joints will be examined in detail. The class will also include a review of the reciprocal tension membrane system and an analysis of known brain and chord function as related to craniosacral work.

The relationship between meditation, perception, and the still point will be explored as a foundation, with emphasis placed on the daily practice of demonstrated techniques so that a high standard of individual consciousness in this work can be attained.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

90021105 $630

Weekend of February 16–18

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see September 29-October 1.

90021604 $325

Talking to Russians

Robert Bathurst & Brit Broch Bathurst

When Americans are too nice, Russians become suspicious; if a business contract is too elaborate, Russians assume deception. Peace between the superpowers is the problem and communication is the key, but it is very difficult to say what you mean cross-culturally.

This is a workshop for citizen diplomats and those concerned with constructive approaches to this cross-cultural problem. Participants will talk with Russians, practice bargaining and negotiating for peace, learn about hidden language and cultural differences. In doing so, they will become more aware of unconscious values and more effective, perhaps, in finding strategies for peace.

90021603 $325

Singing Gestalt

Nancy Kaye Lunney

Singing gestalt is singing about yourself, who you are, what you feel, who you'd like to be. Singing gestalt is about being yourself in front of other people without judging how well you sing. Singing gestalt is not about performance. It is about feeling and expressing.

If the idea of getting up and singing in front of other people terrifies you more than anything you can think of, this workshop is for you. If you love to sing in front of other people and want to stretch yourself further, this workshop is for you. If you've been too shy to try, this is your chance.

Some guided imagery and gestalt may be used. Accompaniment and lots of music are provided. Video feedback may be incorporated. But the workshop is really about you – singing.

90021602 $325

A Weekend Workshop for Couples

Daniel Brown & Marushka Glissen

This workshop is for couples who want to improve their communication skills and increase their understanding of each other. Ways for resolving conflict and practical methods for becoming self-assertive and self-transcending in a partnership will be taught. Some of the work will address how the family-of-origin and past conditioning contribute to the bonding as well as the conflicts. Time will also be spent on how to find satisfaction, mutual support, relaxation, solitude, and play in day-to-day living as partners. Helping couples discover the wider purpose of being together through a sharing of values, love, and perhaps a spiritual vision will be emphasized.

90021605 $325

Experiencing Aikido

Annie Styron Leonard

To experience aikido is to feel both energized and relaxed, to be stronger and at the same time more gentle. To learn this sophisticated martial art takes many years, but some of its mysterious powers can be sampled over the course of this weekend.

Participants will practice enhancing the flow of vital energy through and around the body, relaxing under pressure, moving from the hara, or center, and extending inner force. They will be introduced to and have the chance to practice a few basic aikido moves and learn alternative, nonaggressive ways of dealing with attacks. This weekend is designed for those who simply wish to get in touch with and use their own latent powers as well as those who are planning to begin practicing a martial art.

Recommended reading: John Stevens, Abundant Peace (Shambhala).

90021601 $325

Week of February 18–23

Self-Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman

Each of us has unique capacities to feel and express tenderness and strength, anger and affection, autonomy and needfulness, as well as compassion, humor, and wisdom. The degree to which we allow the fullness and vibrance of each of these qualities determines how alive and gratified we are.

In this workshop, participants will focus on how they diminish or affirm these essential qualities as they are expressed through their bodies, sexuality, creativity, relationship to power, friendships, and expectations. In an atmosphere of tenderness and support, participants will clarify the nature of who they are and how they can best take care of themselves, both at Esalen and on returning home. The workshop will be grounded in gestalt, group process, guided fantasy, massage, and bioenergetics.

90021803 $630

Introduction to Continuum

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud writes: "A human being can be seen as a living process of many activities: neuro-electrical-chemical-muscular, feeling, thinking, remembering, dreaming, and much more than we'll ever know. We sweepingly refer to all of this as 'My Life.' These activities can also be described as movements. What we call a 'body' can be seen as movements that flow, combine, and stabilize into 'muscle' or 'spine' or 'eyes.' I see movement as what we are rather than as something we do. "Our time together will be to enhance our sensitivity to movement, whether we're experiencing it as moving 'muscle' or moving 'thoughts,' whether we're involved in the softness of a breath or the play of language, whether we're meandering through skin or feeling the wonder of meaningfulness as it shapes and colors the moment. For me, 'life' and movement are one."

90021801 $630

Wellness and Well-Being

Daniel Brown & Marushka Glissen

Current understanding of what contributes to physical wellness and psychological well-being will be the focus of this workshop. Participants will look at how illness develops, how it can be prevented, and how to work toward optimal physical health (wellness). They will also consider how psychological problems develop and how to promote optimal psychological health (well-being).

The following topics will be explored: stress (life change, daily hassles, environmental stress); thinking, attitude, and outlook on life; intimate relationships and social networks; personality; patterns of emotional expression; self and self-esteem; daily routines, healthy and unhealthy habits, and other lifestyle issues. The week will blend didactic presentations reviewing scientific research in behavioral medicine and psychoneuroimmunology with experiential sessions in role playing, guided imagery, visualizations, and meditation.

Recommended reading: Daniel Brown and Erika Fromm, Hypnosis and Behavioral Medicine (Erlbaum).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

90021804 $630

Advanced Enneagram Intensive

Helen Palmer

The enneagram is an ancient psychological typology that describes nine personality types and their interrelationships. Each type is defined by a chief mental and emotional preoccupation to which attention habitually returns. The types correlate well with the current categories of psychological practice, but can open us to the fact that the repeating preoccupations of heart and mind that we in the West tend to dismiss as merely neurotic can also be used as access points into states of awareness like empathy, omniscience, and love.

Beginning with a review of the nine types, this workshop will focus on advanced material that can best be understood through oral teaching methods. These include learning to recognize type by listening to the differences in people's stories, by learning to ask key questions, and by paying attention to one's own internal impressions when in the presence of the different types.

This program is for those who are already familiar with the nine personality types and who wish to broaden their understanding of the system. It is intended for anyone who is interested in: recognizing ways in which the nine types relate to each other in intimate partnership and in work-related settings; determining strategies for working with the types; developing competency with the patterns of attention that support each type; gaining an understanding of the higher human abilities that can develop from working with the issues of type. This intensive can also be applied toward requirements for the enneagram teacher training program.

Recommended reading: Helen Palmer, The Enneagram: Understanding Yourself and the Others in Your Life (Harper & Row).

90021802 $630

Weekend of February 23–25

Weekend Massage Intensive

Brita Ostrom & Laurie Lioness Parizek

For workshop description see September 29-October 1.

90022302 $325

A Weekend with Paul Rebillot

Combining gestalt, guided meditation, gentle movement, and play with the needs of the participants, this group will create their own weekend of self-discovery and expression.

90022304 $325

Zen Practice in a Work and Social Action Environment

Bernard Glassman-sensei & Helen Yuho Glassman

The dharma is abundantly inherent in each person. It is not manifested without practice; it is not attained without realization. – Dogen Zenji, Japanese Zen master (d. 1252)

Practice in the everyday life of giving and receiving will be the heart of this beginning meditation class. There will be talks on the five traditional approaches to Zen practice; on practice and enlightenment; on faith, doubt, and determination; on cause and effect. The leaders will talk about Zen as it is practiced in everyday work at the Greyston Bakery and in social action at the Greyston Family Inn, both of which are part of the Greyston Community Network created by the Zen Community of New York in Yonkers. Participants' questions and concerns will be an important part of the program.

90022303 $325

Generativity

Kathleen Riordan Speeth

Erik Erikson called the crucial issue of maturity "generativity versus stagnation." Generativity erupts at midlife, when certain people feel the wish to make beauty, not just money. The urge to immortality, to make a body of work, arises when a healthy individual begins to measure time remaining rather than time passed.

Given enough freedom from neurotic problems to function more or less effectively in love and work, what regularly emerges is a generative impulse – the urge to give of oneself. No longer desperately self-preoccupied, we wake up to ourselves and our world. Theory has it that there is energy left over that was previously bound up with inner conflicts. When the brittle false self no longer needs full-time vindication, and when the sense of being over the hill has its impact, the real self seeks expression. Mortal happiness begins to look around for something to create.

This workshop is designed, not for the Ruskins and Tolstoys, the Schweitzers and Dickinsons, whose lives were oriented early toward creative work, but to contemporary men and women who have awakened only in midlife to the desire to contribute. "Someday the sluice gates will open!" cried E.M. Forster in Howard's End. For each person who comes into psychological maturity without a lifetime of committed expressivity, the heartfelt reply is, "Yes, but how?"

But how? Life habits, patterns of relationship, and self-perceptions that developed without the generative urge often act as hindrances. We have something to express but don't know exactly what it is nor, often, by what means to bring it forth. Using discussion, interaction, meditation, and experiential exercises, participants will grapple with the issues they confront when, dissatisfied with the level of meaning in their lives, they feel they must make a creative contribution.

90022301 $325

Week of February 25–March 2

Couples' Workshop

Jack Rosenberg
& Beverly Kitaen Morse

Most couples are reluctant to seek help in their relationships; instead, they wait, hoping that the relationship will improve. If couples approached medical help the same way they approach marriage counseling, many of them would only visit the doctor when they ought to be lining up the mortician.

Designed on a preventive model, this workshop will deal with the underlying structures and defenses in relationships before they surface as terminal problems. It will also examine the attitudes and beliefs about sexuality and how to make sex better.

Recommended reading: Jack Rosenberg, Total Orgasm and Body, Self, and Soul: Sustaining Integration.

90022503 $630

Dream Drawing

Rachael Dutton

Under the archetypes, below the threshold of myth, are simple, sensory fragments of experience common to both primal and personal memory: the rolling motion of a hip joint as weight is shifted from one leg to another, the coolness of shadow on skin, the heat of day radiating from earth underfoot at twilight. These are details out of which symbols in dreams are constructed. They give the images value, an emotional valence that enables the dreamer to touch and respond to the mystery beyond.

Workshop participants will draw images from their dreams, using rhythms of line, color, and shape as vital, enlivening details that communicate with the non-verbal roots of dreaming, working with images in such a way that the mystery is enhanced, not erased, by giving it form. Dream Drawing is open to experienced and occasional dreamers, experienced and occasional drawers. Bring one tablet large-size drawing paper, one tablet similar-size tracing paper, soft pencils, erasers, oil pastels, and dreams.

90022501 $630

The Art of Saying Goodbye

Paul Rebillot

The loss of a loved one, whether through death or separation, is a huge rent in the fabric of one's life. It is difficult to get on with other relationships until that rent is attended to. The pain of the loss needs to be released, and the difficulty of day-to-day existence after the loss needs to be acknowledged.

To learn something from suffering makes it worthwhile; to create something makes it bearable. Using open seat and emotional release, workshop participants will deal with their losses – not just in anguish, not only in pain – but artistically, musically, creatively. They will seek to give birth to new life, to create an artwork, a ritual both of letting go and of gathering within themselves the strength and the love which they have felt from those who have gone.

This workshop gives participants the opportunity to say goodbye, to experience the tears, the grief, and the potential for emotional renewal, and most importantly, to reconnect with the source of their own lives.

90022504 $630

February 25–March 4

Gestalt Practicum: A Seven-Day Intensive

Christine Stewart Price

This workshop is open only to people who have previously participated in a gestalt practice workshop and who would like to further explore this form in theory as well as through personal experience. It is especially appropriate for those in the helping professions, such as counselors, body workers, and teachers, who are interested in integrating this approach into their current practice. The format will include open seat sessions with the leader, structured exercises where participants work with each other, didactic presentation, and discussion. Persons without previous experience in gestalt are referred to the October 8-13, December 3-8, or January 7-12 Gestalt Practice workshops.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Real People Press); John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics); Ram Dass and Paul Gorman, How Can I Help? (Knopf).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

90022502 $955

February 25–March 23

Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 38.

90022505 $2760

October 22-November 3
Integrative Body Practice (IBP)
Professional Training Program

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

This will be a twelve-day residential training program in Integrative Body Practice. IBP emphasizes breathing as a vehicle for the integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit, and views the body as the foundation for psychological and transpersonal growth. Object relations developmental theory will be integrated with body work. This workshop is for licensed professionals and graduate students in related fields. The leaders will be assisted by Deane Juhan and the staff of the Rosenberg-Rand Institute of Venice, California.

Recommended reading: Jack Rosenberg et al., Body, Self, and Soul: Experiencing Integration (Humanics) and Total Orgasm (Bookworks).

For information write or call: Marjorie Rand, Rosenberg-Rand Institute, 1107 W. Washington Blvd., Venice, CA 90291; (213) 394-0147.

89102203 $1425

CYNTHIA JOHNSON BIANCHETTA

Faculty and advisors of the Somatics Research and Education Project. Left to right: Michael Marsh, Don Johnson, Bonnie Bainbridge Cohen, Leonard Cohen, Charlotte Selver, Seymour (Gig) Levine, Robert Hall. Missing: Judith Aston, Charles Brooks, Emilie Conrad-Da'oud.

November 12-December 8
Massage Practitioner
Certification Program

Deborah Anne Medow & Perry Holloman

This month-long program offers, at a professional level, intensive instruction in massage practice, movement, and self-care. The emphasis will be on developing basic massage skills through daily lecture-demonstrations, hands-on practice sessions using each other as models, illustrated anatomy classes, and instruction in basic principles of alignment. Meditation and gestalt awareness sessions will be scheduled regularly throughout the program for deeper, more integrative learning.

Body work will be studied as a tool for optimal well-being and stress reduction and as a valued aid to transpersonal growth. Workshop sessions will meet Sunday through Friday and on alternate weekends. Upon satisfactory completion of the program, and after giving 30 additional recorded massage sessions, a California state-approved certificate of completion will be issued. This is a professional program, with limited admission.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see pages 39-40.

89111201 $2640

November 12-December 8
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner

This course will synthesize neurolinguistics and Ericksonian hypnosis, drawing heavily from the enneagram of character fixation. It satisfies the hypnosis coursework requirements for the M.F.C.C. and complies with the California state requirement for hypnosis certification.

While the use of hypnosis in habit control and symptom removal will be covered, a primary focus will be on hypnosis as a tool of spiritual emergence. Starting with the presupposition that we already live in trance and that the goal is waking up, the roots of personality structure and the filters of perception in the creation and transformation of reality will be carefully explored. Participants will have the opportunity to experience the power of trance to transform their lives, which will create a model for working with clients.

The structure of rapport, pacing and leading, and various hypnotic patterns of induction will be demonstrated and practiced along with a variety of clinical interventions, including reframing, change history, metaphors, and storytelling. There will be videotapes of Erickson and other well-known leaders in the field of hypnosis. Participants will have daily practice with each other and the opportunity to be videotaped doing a hypnotic induction. Daily zazen, Taoist yoga, and movement led by Antoinette Varner will also be a part of this program.

Upon completion of this course, participants who want to be certified must demonstrate a high level of professionalism as well as proficiency in technical skills to the satisfaction of the instructors before certification will be granted. After certification by the Institute for Advanced Hypnosis (testing and certification fee, $300) additional certifications are available from the American Council of Hypnotist Examiners ($125) and the Society of NeuroLinguistic Programming ($200).

Required reading: J. Haley, Uncommon Therapy (Norton); Grinder and Bandler, Trance-Formations (Real People Press), Frogs into Princes (Real People Press), and Reframing (Real People Press); Chogyam Trungpa, Shambhala (Shambhala); P.D. Ouspensky, In Search of the Miraculous (Harcourt, Brace & World); C. Castaneda, Tales of Power (Simon & Schuster); Joseph Campbell, Myths to Live By (Bantam).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

Registration is by application only, through the Institute of Advanced Hypnosis, P.O. Box 1311, Mill Valley, CA 94942; (415) 687-0200.

$2640 (plus $300 fee for those wanting certification, paid to the Institute for Advanced Hypnosis)

89111204

January 28-February 9
Advanced Training in
Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner

Shamanism is the most ancient system known for using the mind, heart, and spirit to heal oneself and others and to solve the problems of daily living. This two-week intensive course emphasizes the universal methods of classic, core shamanism, such as shamanic journeying, and their practical application to contemporary life.

Course prerequisite: a previous workshop with Michael Harner or an authorized faculty member of the Foundation for Shamanic Studies, either at Esalen or elsewhere. Such a workshop will be offered at Esalen immediately prior to this program. (See Esalen Seminars, January 26-28.)

Recommended reading: Michael Harner, The Way of the Shaman (Bantam) and Hallucinogens and Shamanism (Oxford).

For more information and to apply, please contact Michael Harner, Foundation for Shamanic Studies, Box 670 – Belden Station, Norwalk, CT 06852; (203) 454-2825. Early application is recommended.

90012804

February 25-March 23
Massage Practitioner
Certification Program

Esalen Massage Practitioners
For workshop description see Special Programs, November 12-December 8.

90022505 $2760

The Gazebo Early Childhood Program

The Gazebo Program for Early Childhood is now available to seminarians. Please phone for your child's reservation so that we may provide the kinds of services you will require while attending your own workshops. Call the Gazebo Farmhouse, (408) 667-3026, between the hours of 9:30-11:30 AM for more information.

Massage Practitioner
Certification Program

Esalen offers a California state-approved massage program. Upon completion of the two-month massage work study track (January 14-March 11, 1990; see page 41 for more information), or a four-week massage practitioner workshop (November 12-December 8, 1989 and February 25-March 23, 1990), and after giving 30 additional massages elsewhere, graduates will receive their certificates. This program provides at least 130 hours of instruction, including anatomy, supplemented by study in body-mind disciplines such as yoga, gestalt awareness work, and movement, fulfilling the state requirement.

Healthspring Outreach and Education

The Healthspring Project offers outreach, education, and referrals that extend Esalen's work in the healing arts and sciences to the outside world. It is an independent, service-oriented program of Esalen teachers and their associates.

Healthspring operates a global referral system, linking visitors to Esalen with body workers, counselors, and teachers from their home areas. There are ongoing programs at Esalen and a traveling workshop service in the U.S. and abroad. Instructors teach self-healing, Esalen body work, yoga, breath and body awareness, dance and centering movement, and meditation. Many instructors have experience in gestalt practice and movement continuum.

The Healthspring Library offers books on health and healing, body work, somatic studies, philosophy, yoga, nutrition, and organic gardening which may be borrowed by seminarians for a two-week period while at Esalen. Donations of books or periodicals are greatly appreciated.

Access to the referral system and the traveling workshop program is available by writing to Laurie Lioness Parizek at Esalen, c/o Healthspring.

JOYCE LYKE

Bonnie Bainbridge Cohen (right), faculty member of the Somatics Study Program for Health Professionals, works with an infant, Cassie, and her mother, Judy Orloff.

■ MEDICAL PROGRAMS

The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of Continuing Education for registered nurses, provider number 01152. Only those programs specifically listed below offer continuing education credit. See workshop descriptions elsewhere in the catalog.

September 3–8
Intermediate Massage Intensive
Deborah Anne Medow & Vicki Topp
30 hours

September 15–17
The Feeling Process
Janet Zuckerman
10 hours

September 15–17
Zero Balancing: Advanced Workshop
Fritz Smith
10 hours

September 17–22
Sports Massage
David Streeter & Arthur Munyer
30 hours

September 22–24
Psychoneuroimmunology and its Implications
George Freeman Solomon & Margaret Kemeny
10 hours

September 29–October 1
Weekend Massage Intensive
Attila Vaas & Laurie Lioness Partzek
10 hours

October 6–8
Introduction to Gestalt Practice
Christine Stewart Price
10 hours

October 8–13
Gestalt Practice
Christine Stewart Price
30 hours

October 15–20
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Laurie Schutz & Char Pias Brenner
30 hours

October 15–20
Dying to Live
Karen Paine-Gernee & Charles Steinberg
30 hours

October 22–27
Recovery for Co-Dependents
Karen Paine-Gernee & Rick Paine
30 hours

November 10–12
Advanced Massage Intensive
Arthur Munyer & Esalen Massage Practitioners
10 hours

November 12–17
Five Days with Janet Zuckerman
30 hours

November 12–December 8
Massage Practitioner Certification Program
Deborah Anne Medow & Perry Holloman
30 hours

November 12–December 8
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis
Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner
30 hours

November 19–26
The Feldenkrais® Method and Cortical ReEducation
Harriet Goslins & John Dudley
30 hours

November 26–December 1
Spiritual Healing: Laying On of Hands
Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman
30 hours

■ WILDERNESS PROGRAMS

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered. To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop, we require a deposit of $200. The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your nonrefundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your deposit is forfeited.

September 10-23
Path of the River: A Grand Canyon Journey
Steven Harper, Wendy Palmer, Bob Melville & Arizona Raft Adventures Staff (AZRA)

The Grand Canyon and Colorado River provide an environment of dramatic variety which is intimate and awesome, soft and demanding, yet always rewarding for those who are open to all it has to offer. On this 14-day whitewater raft trip through the entire length of the Grand Canyon, participants can explore offerings of river, canyon, and natural world. The river is a teacher and primary metaphor. The group will draw from aikido, dance, energy awareness, meditation, and gestalt to enhance their experience of this majestic wilderness area.

Travel will be in paddle and oar rafts. Instruction will be offered in basic aspects of river life such as paddling and minimum-impact river camping. Group members will have time to discuss the Canyon's ecology, geology, natural and cultural history; to hike and explore side canyons; to sit quietly and reflect; to integrate learnings from this trip into their lives.

River experience is not necessary, though participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity and to participate fully. The workshop begins at 7 AM September 10 in Flagstaff, Arizona; there will be a pre-trip meeting at 6 PM the evening before. AZRA will supply all the necessary river rafting gear, food, and transportation between Flagstaff and the Canyon. Details and a personal equipment list will be sent upon registration. Enrollment is limited.

Due to Esalen's special arrangement with AZRA, the following cancellation policy is in effect for this workshop: A $200 nonrefundable deposit per person will confirm your reservation. Balance is due July 10, 1989. If you cancel prior to July 10, your nonrefundable deposit, less a $60 registration fee, may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. No refunds are available after July 10.

89091005 $1690

November 26–December 1
Help for Adult Children of "Normal" Parents: The Continuum Concept
Jean Liedloff
30 hours

December 8–10
Introduction to Gestalt Practice
Christine Stewart Price
10 hours

December 17–22
The Body and Zen
Dub Leigh & Audrey Nakamura
30 hours

December 24–29
Five-Day Massage Intensive
George King & Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

December 31–January 5
Craniosacral System: Basic Workshop
Jim Asher & Jane Harrington
30 hours

December 31–January 5
Touching Spirit: Dimensions of Psychic Healing™
Elizabeth Stratton
30 hours

January 7–12
Gestalt Practice
Christine Stewart Price
30 hours

January 12–14
Introduction to Gestalt Practice
Christine Stewart Price
10 hours

January 12–14
Minding the Body, Mending the Mind and the Soul
Joan & Myrin Borysenko
10 hours

January 14–19
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Brita Ostrom & Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

January 14–19
How Hungry Am I and For What
Mariah Fenton Gladis
30 hours

January 21–26
Dimensions of Health and Healing: Traditional Approaches to Well-Being Al Drucker
30 hours

COURTESY ESALEN INSTITUTE

Ida Rolf with young friend at Esalen.

February 2–4
The Feeling Process
Janet Zuckerman
10 hours

February 9–11
Help for Adult Children of "Normal" Parents: The Continuum Concept
Jean Liedloff
10 hours

February 11–16
Intermediate Craniosacral Workshop
Hugh Milne
30 hours

February 18–23
Wellness and Well-Being
Daniel Brown & Marushka Glissen
30 hours

February 23–25
Weekend Massage Intensive
Brita Ostrom & Laurie Lioness Parizek
10 hours

February 25–March 4
Gestalt Practicum: A Seven-Day Intensive
Christine Stewart Price
30 hours

February 25–March 23
Massage Practitioner Certification Program
Esalen Massage Practitioners
30 hours

FUTURE PROGRAMS

Listed here is a sampling of programs planned for Spring 1990. This is not an invitation to register, but information to assist you in your long-range plans to participate in an Esalen workshop. More information will be available in the January-June 1990 catalog.

March 11-23
From Co-Dependency to Aliveness
Karen Paine-Gernee & Terry Hunt

April 15-27
Integrative Body Practice
Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse
For course description, see Special Programs, October 22-November 3, page 37.

April 29-May 25
The Inner Road to Health
Al Drucker

May 27-June 22
Certification in Clinical Hypnosis
Eli Jaxon-Bear & Antoinette Varner
For course description, see Special Programs, November 12-December 8, page 37.

■ WORK STUDY PROGRAM

The Work Study Program is for those who are interested in total immersion in the Esalen environment. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically. Only rarely is it restful. Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and cabins. Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs. During the first month, assignments are made primarily in the kitchen and cabins. No participants will be accepted as work students in Gazebo or the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments.

Most evenings and one intensive weekend are spent together as a group exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who will be with the group throughout the month coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The program is usually divided into two sections each month: a general interest section which covers a variety of growth approaches, and a focused interest section which emphasizes one type of growth practice, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage or body work, etc. Participants in the focused programs must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program, assuming that they meet the standards of the Work Study Program.

Focused programs planned thus far for 1989-90 include:

August 20–September 17: Elisa Lodge and Ellen Watson will facilitate a month of dance, yoga, mask-making, hypnosis, NLP, and Rolf movement.

September 17–October 15: Robert Helm and guest practitioners will present Esalen massage/body work fundamentals and their evolving synthesis with the somatic arts.

October 15–November 12: Steven Harper will inquire into human relationship to nature, using Big Sur's wilderness and various traditions that enhance personal awareness. More information will be sent upon registration.

November 12–December 10: Edward Maupin and James Stewart will integrate body work and dream work through movement, dreams, and other imaginal processes.

December 17–January 14, 1990: Paula Sholachman Shaw offers an arena for risky, outrageous self-expression and creativity using acting, improvisation, and other tools and tricks of the theatrical trade.

January 14–March 11: Robert Helm and other practitioners will lead a two-month program in body work, massage, movement, and self-care. For more information see Massage Practitioner Certification Program, Special Programs, page 38. The cost of this program is $1000 the first month, $950 the second month.

March 11–April 8: Mary (Devarani) Goldenson's program of letting go and moving on will employ Reichian methods, Radix®, dance, imagery, gestalt, and meditation.

April 8–May 6: David Streeter will focus on the art and discipline of contemplation, combining yoga, gestalt, and meditation.

May 6–June 3: Julie Bowden's program for adult children of alcoholics and trauma will provide time to look back, grieve, and go on, drawing from guided imagery, age regression, and other approaches.

June 3–July 1: New concepts in gestalt practice will be incorporated in Anne Nechama Simkin's program. Massage will also be offered.

July 1–29: See December 17, 1989–January 14, 1990.

July 29–August 26: See March 11–April 8.

July 29–August 26: Focus on learning: the what, how, when, and where. Janet Lederman will lead this program for professionals involved in public education today.

August 26–September 23: Karuna Licht offers women a month of healing and recovery. Emotional work, meditation, art, dance, and ritual will be the modalities.

September 23–October 21: Janet Zuckerman will teach emotional release work using basic gestalt practices. This is a practicum, with emphasis on the participant as facilitator.

In as much as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage, are available at staff rates.

Accommodations are shared, with up to four people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff complex located 1½ miles north of Esalen.

A deposit of $350 in U.S. currency is required with your application. The cost of all 28-day Work Study Programs, except the two-month body work program, is $700 the first month, $650 the second month, $600 the third month. Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month depending on space available and community needs. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

For more information contact Bette Dingman: (408) 667-3010.

Note: Application is not a registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is nonrefundable and may be transferred to other programs within one year of receipt. Please return the application form (see page 42) with your deposit to:

Work Study Program, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

Available dates: August 20–September 17; September 17–October 15; October 15–November 12; November 12–December 10; December 17–January 14; January 14–February 11; February 11–March 11; March 11–April 8; April 8–May 6; May 6–June 3; June 3–July 1; July 1–29; July 29–August 26; August 26–September 23; September 23–October 21; etc.

No chemical pesticides or fertilizers are used in Esalen's organic gardens.

APPLICATION TO THE WORK STUDY PROGRAM

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ ZIP _____

Date of Birth _____ Occupation _____ Place of Employment _____

Daytime Telephone (_____) _____ Date of Application _____

Evening Telephone (_____) _____ Male ☐ Female ☐

I prefer the general interest program: yes ☐ no ☐ I prefer the focused program in: _____

Participants in the focused programs must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program.

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning on a Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: _____ to _____ 2nd: _____ to _____ 3rd: _____ to _____

Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community.

Please indicate your availability should an invitation be extended. (Not applicable to focused program participants.)
☐ No extension ☐ One-month extension ☐ Two-month extension. Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs.

☐ Please check here if you have emergency medical skills (M.D., E.M.T., or R.N.) and are willing to make those skills available during your stay.

Please attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program. Include: applicable skills (gardening, kitchen, mechanical, etc.); medical difficulties which might affect your working in particular departments; previous Esalen workshops you have attended (please list program titles, group leaders, and dates). Note: Fluency in the English language is essential for participation in the program.

FRIENDS OF ESALEN

We invite you to join us in our organization—
the Friends of Esalen scholarship fund.

Friends of Esalen provides financial aid to people who are eager to attend our workshops but who cannot afford them. We believe that one of our first priorities is to make our programs available on a broader basis. We have therefore decided to use membership contributions to fund such scholarships. Esalen will, in turn, match your contribution.

In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen, you will receive the Esalen Catalog for one year. We hope you feel your experience at Esalen was worth the sharing and that you will join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.

☐ I wish to become a Friend of Esalen and I enclose my check for the category marked.

☐ I wish to renew my membership in Friends of Esalen.

☐ One Year Student ..... $15 ☐ One Year Donor ..... $50 ☐ One Year Patron $500
☐ One Year Individual ..... $25 ☐ One Year Sponsor ..... $100 (Contributions are tax-deductible)

Name _____ Student Affiliation _____

Address _____ City _____

State _____ ZIP _____ Date _____

Please mail to: Friends of Esalen, Big Sur, CA 93920.

AUDIO RECORDINGS

The Dolphin Tape Series

Intermingled with favorites from past tape lists, here are more titles on the phenomenon of the paradigm shift – from new science and new philosophy to a blending of objective and subjective, matter and meaning, head and heart, intellect and intuition – opening to deeper landscapes and wider horizons. Nearly all titles were recorded in stereo. Tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hours.

Single-tape titles are $10:

Reb Anderson: Zen, 1980
Anne & Jim Armstrong: The Power of Intuition, 1987
Gregory Bateson: Metaphors and Butterflies, 1975
David Brower: Breaking the Species Barrier, 1971
Joseph Campbell: The Hero's Journey (80th year), 1984
Barry Commoner: Human Meaning of Environmental Crisis, 1971
Fritjof Capra: Shifting Paradigms and Social Change, 1980
Fritjof Capra: Ecological Vision, 1984
Fritjof Capra: Characteristics of Systems Thinking, 1985
Richard Feynman: Quantum Mechanical View of Reality, 1983
Stanislav Grof: A New Paradigm for Psychotherapy, 1980
Willis Harman: New Consciousness in a New Society, 1972
Arthur Hastings: Transpersonal Realities (Boston), 1979
Hazel Henderson: The Politics of Reconceptualization (Boston), 1979
Albert Hoffman: The Transmitter-Receiver Concept of Reality, 1984
Aldous Huxley: Human Potentialities/Visionary Experience, 1960
Donald Keys: Choosing a New World (Maui), 1982
Jack Kornfield: The Sword of Wisdom (Boston), 1979
Jack Kornfield: The Smile of the Buddha (Bombay), 1982
George Leonard: Steps Toward Utopia, 1966
George Leonard: Ecstasy and Education, 1970
Robert Muller: The Language of Happiness, 1983
Robert Muller: Toward a Global Community, 1983
Abraham Maslow: Self-Actualization, 1966
Terence McKenna: New and Old Maps of Hyperspace, 1982
Brendan O'Regan: Decision-Making in the Global Village, 1972
Robert Ornstein: On the Psychology of Meditation, 1971
Karl Pribram: Preface to the Holographic Mind, 1978
Carl Rogers: The Person of Tomorrow, 1970
Carl Rogers: My Philosophy and How It Grew (AHP), 1972
Bob Schwartz/Peter Schwartz: Consciousness Evolution (Boston), 1979
Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance (Bombay), 1982
Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance and Memory, 1985
Rupert Sheldrake: Resonance and Myths of Nations, 1987
Julian Silverman: A Light-Hearted Course in Miracles, 1984
Huston Smith: No Wasted Journey, 1968
Huston Smith: The Nature of Reality (Boston), 1979
Russel Targ: Parapsychology and Physics, 1972
Charles Tart: On the Paranormal, 1971
Alan Watts: Divine Madness, 1968
Robert Anton Wilson: The Prism Lecture (Santa Cruz), 1982
Robert Anton Wilson: The I in the Triangle, 1984
Arthur M. Young: The Bacon/Shakespeare Controversy, 1983

Two-tape titles are $18:

Walt Anderson/Ted Roszak: (2) The Upstart Spring (Esalen), 1984
Angeles Arrien: (2) The Story of Basque Mysticism, 1982
Robert Bly: (2) Fairy Stories for Men and Women, 1982
Joseph Campbell: (2) Myths of Alienation and Rapture, 1979
Campbell/Keen: (2) The Dark Side of the Forest, 1985
Capra/Grof: (2) Beyond Time and Space, 1977
Ram Dass: (2) One Man's Journey to the East, 1969
Ram Dass: (2) Creativity and Spirituality, 1987
David Finkelstein: (2) Ancient, Medieval, and Classical Physics, 1984
Buckminster Fuller: (2) The Critical Path (Maui), 1982
Stan & Christina Grof: (2) Holonomic Consciousness Paradigm, 1982
Stanislav Grof: (2) The Cosmic Game, 1987
Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human (Boston), 1979
Robinson Jeffers: (2) A Dramatic Presentation (Carmel), 1972
Timothy Leary: (2) The Power of Imprinting, 1982
Abraham Maslow: (2) The Further Reaches of Human Nature, 1968
Karl Pribram: (2) The Holographic Model Today, 1985
Kenneth Ring: (2) Near-Death Experiences, 1985
Bob Schwartz: (2) Entrepreneurship and Human Potential, 1980
Brother David Steindl-Rast: (2) Healing Starts from the Heart, 1984
Andrew Weil: (2) Interplay of Mind and Body Realities, 1982
Lynn White & Alan Watts: (2) Ecological Crisis, 1972

Four-tape titles are $36:

Joseph Campbell: (4) Imagery in the Novels of James Joyce, 1968
James Fadiman: (4) A Weekend of Stories, 1984
David Finkelstein: (4) Indeterminacy and Undecidability, 1968
Roland Fischer: (4) Creative, Psychotic, and Ecstatic States, 1969
Buckminster Fuller: (4) Integrity Day (Marin), 1983
Jack Rosenberg: (4) A New Understanding of Relationships, 1982
Rupert Sheldrake: (4) Resonance and the Habits of Nature, 1987
Brother David Steindl-Rast: (4) Mysticism as a Frontier Experience, 1985
Colin Wilson: (4) Human Evolution and a New Psychology, 1968
Arthur M. Young: (4) Interviews on the Reflexive Universe, 1983

The Dolphin Vinyl Album Tape Sets:

Angeles Arrien/Robert Bly: (6) Love in the Western World, 1984	$60
Joseph Campbell: (6) Mysteries of the Great Goddess, 1983	$60
Joseph Campbell: (6) Courtly Love and the Grail, 1983	$60
Jack Kornfield: (6) The Spiritual Practice of Meditation, 1981-83	$60
Abraham Maslow: (6) The Eupsychian Ethic, 1969	$60
Rupert Sheldrake: (6) The Presence of the Past, 1985	$60
Robert Anton Wilson: (6) Seminar on the I in the Triangle, 1984	$60
Robert Anton Wilson: (6) The 'Coincidance' of Joyce, 1985	$60
Andrew Weil: (6) Integrated Consciousness & Health, 1976	$60
Reb Anderson: (8) Zen is the Key to the Teachings, 1986	$72
Esalen Series: (8) Physics and Consciousness, 1975-76	$72
Esalen/UCB/Tarrytown: (8) Faces of the Enemy (Symposium), 1983	$72
Buckminster Fuller: (8) The Pajaro Dunes Tapes (A Weekend Seminar), 1977	$72
Terence McKenna: (8) Lecture Series I (1982-3) or Series II (1983-86),	$72
Jack Rosenberg: (8) Sustained Integration: Body, Self & Soul, 1981	$72
Julian Silverman: (8) Commentaries on A Course in Miracles, 1980	$72
Colin Wilson: (8) The New Analytic Psychology, 1967	$72
Joseph Campbell: (10) World Mythology Series, 1969 (Library/Archives)	$88
Gregory Bateson: (10) The Informal Esalen Lectures, 1975-80 (Library)	$88

Please add $3 to your complete order for handling and mailing (add $3 more if you wish priority mail). Overseas orders add $1 per tape for mailing. California residents include 6% tax. (Institutional purchase orders please add 10% to tape cost for invoicing and deferred payment.) Allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery.

Please mail your order and your check payable to:
DOLPHIN TAPES, P.O. Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920

Advertisement: Dolphin Tapes is a private company independent of Esalen.

The Tao of Leadership – John Heider $10.95
An adaption of the Tao Te Ching that provides simple and clear advice on how to be the best kind of leader.

Body, Self, and Soul: Sustaining Integration – Jack Rosenberg $14.95
Written for health professionals interested in developing a more holistic and integrative mind-body approach to their practice.

The Silent Pulse – George Leonard $8.95
A search for the perfect rhythm that exists in each of us.

The Adventure of Self-Discovery – Stanislav Grof $12.95
A further exploration by Dr. Grof of the dimensions of consciousness and new perspectives in psychotherapy and inner exploration.

Job's Body: A Handbook for Bodywork – Deane Juhan $29.95
An in-depth examination of the human body that has been called the first definitive book on body work.

Golf in the Kingdom – Michael Murphy $9.95
Describes Murphy's encounter with Shivas Irons, the Scottish shaman-golf pro on the Links of Burningbush in Scotland.

Jacob Atabet – Michael Murphy $8.95
A speculative fiction which explores the possibilities for bodily transformation produced by powers of the mind.

An End to Ordinary History – Michael Murphy $11.95
Vladimir Kirov, KGB agent and Sufi initiate, and Darwin Fall, an American scholar, join forces to explore the secrets of bodily transformation.

Imagery in Healing – Jeanne Achterberg $10.95
A landmark work in holistic medicine that explores the relationship between the mind, mental imagery, and healing.

Food for the Senses – Christine Stewart Price, editor $5.95
Recipes and art work from the Esalen community.

Gratefulness, the Heart of Prayer – Brother David Steindl-Rast $7.95
A book about prayer, gratitude, awareness, and the grace that awaits us in everyday life.

Chop Wood, Carry Water – Rick Fields et al. $11.95
A handbook of ancient wisdom and contemporary perceptions, offering ways to integrate modern life with the quest for spiritual fulfillment.

The Passionate Life – Sam Keen $7.95
Breathes new life into our thinking about love, sexuality, and their connection to the whole web of our lives.

Career Burnout: Causes and Cures – Ayala Pines and Elliot Waker Aronson $17.95
A new look at this syndrome with a guide for using burnout as a means for personal growth and a sense of fulfillment.

The Continuum Concept – Jean Liedloff $8.95
A classic in child development for those concerned with restoring self-reliance and well-being in our children and ourselves.

The Wholeness Principle – Stephano Sabetti $12.95
An exploration from old Egypt to modern times of what Dr. Sabetti calls the Life Energy Process and its relation to physical, psychological, organizational, and spiritual wholeness.

The Enneagram – Helen Palmer $16.95
Defines the nine basic personality types and relates them to practical guidelines that enable us to see life more fully and which invite personal healing.

Ordering Information

Please add to your order $3 for the first book and $1 for each additional title for shipping and handling. California residents add 6% tax. Allow 4-6 weeks for delivery. Continental U.S. only. Please make your check payable to Esalen Institute (sorry – no credit cards). Mail your order with your check and daytime phone number to: Esalen Bookstore, Big Sur, CA 93920.

An Esalen Institute Publication

THE PHYSICAL AND PSYCHOLOGICAL EFFECTS OF MEDITATION

A Review of Contemporary Meditation Research With a Comprehensive Bibliography: 1931–1988

• Michael Murphy and Steven Donovan •

Containing over 1,000 bibliographic entries and a review of 700 studies, this monograph outlines the scientific research on what happens, physiologically and psychologically, during and after meditation sessions. Various types of meditation are included in the study, including Buddhist Vipassana or mindfulness meditation, The Relaxation Response technique of Dr. Herbert Benson, Transcendental Meditation, and many others. This rich accumulation of evidence is designed to allow scientists and researchers to better understand the potentially profound effects of meditation upon the mind and body.

". . . the most complete survey of meditation research available." – Herbert Benson, MD, Harvard University

". . . a superb and splendid job, yeoman work that will help everyone in the field." – Daniel Goleman, New York Times

". . . a unique research study . . . the summaries are expertly done and provide an accessible guide to research difficult to obtain otherwise." – Norman Cousins, author of Anatomy of an Illness

Esalen Institute, 1988. 225 pages. $20.00

Please send me _____ copies of The Physical and Psychological Effects of Meditation. I enclose a check or money order for $20.00 made out to "Esalen Monograph."

Name _____

Address _____

_____

Send to:
Esalen Monograph: 230 Forbes Avenue, San Rafael, CA 94901

■ BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

A

Ralph Abraham,
a mathematician, is known for his work in dynamics and chaos theory. He is a professor of mathematics and founder of the Visual Math Project at UCSC.
p. 11

Jeanne Achterberg,
psychologist, is a professor at the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology and a pioneer in the study of the mind/body connection. She is the author of Imagery and Healing.
p. 29

Akhter Ahsen
is a Fellow of the American Psychological Association, author of more than a dozen books, and editor of the "Journal of Mental Imagery."
p. 15

Stephen Aizenstat
is president of the Human Relations Institute and a core faculty member of its M.A. and Ph.D. programs in depth psychology.
p. 24

Ronald Alexander
is a group leader and trainer of gestalt practitioners. He is director of clinical training at Ryokan College, teaches meditation, and is a creativity consultant.
p. 21

John Allen,
class "A" PGA member and former tour player, has been a teaching golf professional for over 20 years and a serious student of the inner game for the past 5.
p. 16

Abbot Tenshin Reb Anderson has been practicing and teaching at Zen Center for over 20 years and has been abbot of Zen Center since 1986.
p. 34

Anne Armstrong
has been doing transpersonal counseling for over 24 years and has trained professionals to use their intuitive abilities.
p. 26

Jim Armstrong,
a former engineer, is a lifelong student and teacher of esoteric studies.
p. 26

Elliot Waker Aronson,
UCSC professor and president of the Western Psychological Association, is the author of Career Burnout. His work combines the humanistic with the scientific.
p. 21, 24, 34

Angeles Arrien
is an anthropologist and author who specializes in cross-cultural values and ethics. She teaches at the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology and is a corporate trainer.
p. 23

Jim Asher
has been practicing cranial work since 1973. He is a Rolfing® teacher and an advanced Rolfer, certified by Ida Rolf.
p. 27, 40

B

Nancy Bacal,
novelist, lyricist, documentarian, screenwriter, has taught writing workshops for years. Student of meditation and aikido, her work includes the award-winning film, Raga, starring Ravi Shankar.
p. 22

Richard Baker-roshi, head teacher and abbot of Dharma Sangha Western Zen Center in Santa Fe and Crestone, was co-founder with Suzuki-roshi and second abbot of SF Zen Center, Tassajara Zen Monastery, and Green Gulch.
p. 34

Jamie Baraz
has taught Vipassana (insight) meditation retreats since 1977. He is on the Board of Directors of Insight Meditation West and the Dharma Foundation.
p. 29

Brit Broch Bathurst
is a Norwegian social worker and has spent many years observing cultures interact.
p. 34

Robert Bathurst
is a sailor, diplomat, and professor who has explored ways of explaining Russians to Americans and has created methods for revealing unconscious values.
p. 34

Harold Benjamin,
author of From Victim to Victor, is the founder of The Wellness Community concept and the executive director of The Wellness-National.
p. 19

Joel Bergman
is on the senior faculty of the Ackerman Institute for Family Therapy, adjunct editor of "Family Process," author of Fishing for Barracuda, and in private practice in New York City.
p. 19

Jean Shinoda Bolen
is a psychiatrist, Jungian analyst, and author of Goddesses in Everywoman, Gods in Everyman, and The Tao of Psychology.
p. 31

Stephen Book
is an international/Off Broadway/regional theater director and teacher. On the faculty at USC after a long tenure at The Julliard School, he also heads his own professional studio in Hollywood.
p. 20, 27

Joan Borysenko
is a medical scientist and psychologist. Author of Minding the Body, Mending the Mind, her second book, Minding the Spirit, Mending the Soul, will be released in Spring 1990.
p. 29, 40

Myrin Borysenko
is a medical scientist and medical educator. Executive director of Mind/Body Health Sciences, Inc., he is working on a book about male spirituality.
p. 29, 40

Julie Bowden,
pioneer in the children of alcoholics (COA) field, is cofounder of the National Association for COAs. She coauthored Recovery: A Guide for Adult COAs and Genesis: Spirituality in Recovery.
p. 25, 26, 41

Barbara Brennan,
author of Hands of Light, has been trained in Bioenergetics and The Core Energetic Process. A former research scientist for NASA, she combines her scientific background with the healing arts.
p. 30

Char Pias Brenner,
dancer, singer, performing artist, massage teacher, and mother, is currently in residence at Esalen Institute.
p. 18, 39

Lois Brien
is dean of the School of Psychology and Human Behavior at National University in San Diego. She has spent many years training gestalt practitioners and writing about gestalt work.
p. 11

Jessica Moore Britt,
gestalt and Reichian work practitioner in the Bay Area, is a teacher of the Ridhwan Work School, which is dedicated to understanding personality and spiritual development.
p. 13, 17, 26, 29

Charles Brooks,
author of Sensory Awareness, the Rediscovery of Experiencing, has been a teacher of Sensory Awareness since 1963, often in conjunction with Charlotte Selver.
p. 23

Daniel Brown
is chief psychologist at the Cambridge Hospital and assistant professor of psychology at Harvard Medical School. He has spent nearly two decades studying the great meditative traditions.
p. 34, 35, 40

Judith Brown
has been a gestalt practitioner and trainer for 20 years. Her most recent book is I Only Want What's Best for You.
p. 24

Mel Bucholtz
trained with the late Milton Erickson in the use of hypnosis and has a private practice in Cambridge, MA. He is co-founder of Nomad University and the Returning to Earth Institute.
p. 15

C

John Caple
is a consultant, writer, and worklife advisor to company presidents. In two earlier careers he was a business executive and college professor.
p. 31

Paul Carter,
co-founder and director of Meta Education and Training Arts since 1976, leads workshops around the world on Whole/Parts Transformation, Ericksonian hypnosis, and creativity.
p. 21

Seymour Carter,
longtime gestalt teacher at Esalen and in Europe, combines studies in sensory awareness, Zen Buddhism, aikido, and other body-oriented practices.
p. 12, 20

Michell Cassou
is the founder of an original approach to painting designed to stimulate and unblock creativity. She is director of the Painting Experience Studio in San Francisco.
p. 11, 20, 28

Stephen Cohen,
an Esalen resident, gestalt practitioner, and Experiencing Esalen staff member, is a longtime golf hacker.
p. 16

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud
is the founder of Continuum. Her innovative approach to movement has enhanced the creativity of artists in many fields and has led to new insights into the healing process.
p. 35

Phil Cousineau,
a freelance writer, has taught screenwriting at the American Film Institute. He was co-writer and associate producer on The Hero's Journey: The World of Joseph Campbell.
p. 17

Stewart Cubley,
artist and scientist, is co-founder with Michell Cassou of the Painting Experience Studio in San Francisco.
p. 11, 28

D

David Darling
is a master cellist, composer, conductor, and teacher whose many recordings include Journal October, Cycles, River Notes, and Amber.
p. 17, 22

David Densmore
is an artist and writer and has been co-facilitator of Seeds of Singing for the past 5 years.
p. 28

John Densmore
is a musician, actor, and writer. He was the drummer for The Doors and has just completed his autobiography, Riders on the Storm.
p. 17

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)
is a certified Radix® teacher on Esalen's gestalt staff, with over 15 years of experience combining Reichian body work, vision work, movement, ritual, and meditation.
p. 23, 34

Al Drucker,
a Rolfer, acupuncturist, and homeopath, was a resident teacher at Esalen for 15 years. His last 8 years have been spent in India with Sathya Sai Baba.
p. 30, 40

John Dudley
is a certified practitioner of Cortical ReEducation and a movement teacher with a background in native American healing traditions.
p. 23, 39

Rachael Dutton
is a sculptor, dreamer, and twice Visiting Artist at Claremont Graduate School. She wrote "Below the Threshold of Myth" for Psychological Perspectives (Spring/Summer 1988).
p. 17, 36

E

Diane Egli,
violinist and member of the Suzuki Association of America, teacher/performer, and Gazebo teacher at Esalen, was a California Arts Council "Artist in Residence." She has a master's degree in music.
p. 26

Eiko and Koma
studied under Tatsumi Hijikata and Kazuo Ohno, central figures in the Japanese avant-garde theatrical movement of the 70s, and with Manja Chmiel of the German modern dance movement.
p. 29

Gerald Epstein
has taught and published extensively in imagination and morphology. His recent book, Healing Visualizations, was published by Bantam in August 1989.
p. 25

F

James Fadiman
is a psychologist, a consultant to industry, and a teacher of Sufi stories. His latest book is Unlimit Your Life.
p. 15

David Feinstein,
psychologist and director of Innersource, taught at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine and co-authored Personal Mythology: The Psychology of Your Evolving Self.
p. 12

Syd Field
is a screenwriter, producer, teacher, international lecturer, and author of Screenplay and The Screenwriter's Workbook.
p. 16

Jerry Fletcher
is president and founder of High Performance Dynamics, Inc., a management consulting and training company based in San Anselmo, CA.
p. 33

Kathleen Fletcher
is a trainer and consultant in organizational development, working in both the profit and non-profit sectors.
p. 33

Joyce Frazee,
gestalt and dream work practitioner in private practice for 17 years, is a teacher at the Gestalt Training Institute in Vancouver, Canada.
p. 13, 21

G

Siegmar Gerken,
an educator, is director of the International Institute of Core Energetics in West Germany and of Core Energetic Evolution in California. He is active in establishing alternative schools.
p. 33

Mariah Fenton Gladis,
a gestalt practitioner and trainer, founded and directed the Bucks County Institute for 12 years. She is currently the director of the Pennsylvania Gestalt Center for Psychotherapy and Training.
p. 29, 30, 40

Bernard Glassman-sensei,
Zen priest, received dharma transmission from Taizan Maezumi roshi. He holds a doctorate in mathematics and worked in the aerospace industry for 15 years.
p. 35

Helen Yuho Glassman
is vice-abbot of the Zen Community of New York, director of parenting and childcare programs of the Greyston Family Inn, and former manager of ZCNY's Greyston Bakery.
p. 35

Marushka Glissen
is a family and couples counselor in Cambridge. She has worked with children for the past 10 years.
p. 34, 35, 40

Mary Goldenson (Devarani),
a chiropractor, certified Radix® teacher, and doctoral candidate in clinical psychology, is in private practice in West Los Angeles.
p. 11, 19, 22, 27, 33, 41

Harriet Goslins
is the founder of Cortical ReEducation. She is a certified Feldenkrais practitioner with a background in psychosynthesis and kinesiology.
p. 23, 39

Lenore Grubinger,
founder of Creative Bodywork™, works with children and adults, tours internationally, and is on the staff of the school for Body-Mind Centering™ in Amherst, MA.
p. 18

H

Daria Halprin-Khalighi,
teacher and counselor, developed the Creative Process Method, integrating art and psychology to facilitate creative expression and growth. She is co-founder of Tamalpa Institute.
p. 16

Michael Harner
has practiced shamanism for more than a quarter of a century; he pioneered the teaching of shamanism in contemporary life. His books include The Way of the Shaman.
p. 32, 38

Steven Harper
teaches for Colorado Outward Bound and the National Outdoor Leadership School, coordinates Esalen Wilderness Programs, and is director of Earthways Wilderness Journeys.
p. 13, 17, 39, 41

Jane Harrington
is a certified Rolfer and Rolf movement teacher with extensive craniosacral experience. She is in private practice in Boulder, CO.
p. 27, 40

Richard Strozzi Heckler,
psychologist and 4th-degree black belt in aikido, has worked with such diverse groups as the Army Special Forces, emotionally disturbed children, corporate executives, and inner city gangs.
p. 11

Robert Helm,
an Esalen massage crew member, blends a broad range of body work methods with the sense of presence he feels is the heart of Esalen massage.
p. 41

Gabriele Hilberg-Thomson
has conducted workshops for health professionals in Europe, Australia, and New Zealand. She supports individuals in healing childhood traumas and furthering spiritual development.
p. 21, 24, 34

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman
has been a seminar teacher since 1982 in Brazil and the U.S.
p. 24, 39

Perry Holloman
has been a resident teacher and body work practitioner at Esalen since 1981. He integrates emotional and somatic modalities into his practice.
p. 22, 37, 39

Peggy Morrison Horan has been practicing and teaching massage at Esalen for 20 years. She is a student of childbirth, dance, and movement.
p. 21

Paul Horn
is a flutist, jazz musician, creator of the Inside albums, world traveler, a philosopher, and teacher of meditation.
p. 28

Chungliang Al Huang
is a tai ji dancer, artist-calligrapher, and philosophical entertainer. He is founder/president of Living Tao Foundation and director of the Lan Ting Institute, Wu Yi Mountain, China.
p. 28, 29

I

Eve Ilsen,
a counselor and teacher, has studied with master teachers in mythology, psychology, and the body. She uses imaginal exercises, humor, story, song, and movement in her work.
p. 25

J

Dennis Jaffe
is past-president of the Association for Humanistic Psychology and director of the Center for Health Studies at Saybrook Institute. His books include Healing from Within, Stress Map, and TM.
p. 21

Eli Jaxon-Bear
is a trainer in neurolinguistics and an examiner with the American Council of Hypnotist Examiners. He is the past-president of a Tibetan Buddhist meditation center.
p. 22, 37, 39, 40

K

Sam Keen
is the author of 10 books, including The Passionate Life and, most recently, Faces of the Enemy.
p. 19

Margaret Kemeny
is trained in behavioral science and immunology. She conducts psychoneuroimmunologic research at UCLA School of Medicine on individuals infected with the Human Immunodeficiency Virus.
p. 14, 39

George King,
a massage practitioner for 27 years, specializes in massage of dancers and has toured with many companies.
p. 27, 40

Mari Krieger
is a counselor in full-time practice. She works with individuals, couples, groups, and organizations, and teaches at John F. Kennedy University.
p. 15

Stanley Krippner,
psychologist, researcher, and professor of psychology at Saybrook Institute, co-authored Personal Mythology: The Psychology of Your Evolving Self, Dreamworking, and Dream Telepathy.
p. 12

Ron Kurtz
is the founder and director of the Hakomi Institute. He is the author of Hakomi Therapy and co-author of The Body Reveals.
p. 22

L

Donna Laslo
is a body worker, dancer, and singer. For 7 years she was head biofeedback counselor at Columbia Presbyterian's Center for pain and stress-related disorders.
p. 28

Frank Lawlis,
psychologist and diplomate, is president of the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. He has established a behavioral medicine program and directed 6 hospital pain clinics.
p. 29

Eric Lawton
is a lawyer and award-winning photographer who has traveled and exhibited all over the world. He performed his multi-media show at the Hollywood Bowl with the L.A. Philharmonic in 1986.
p. 17

Janet Lederman
is executive director and designer of Esalen's Gazebo School and Gazebo philosophy of learning.
p. 41

Marc Lehrer
teaches clinical hypnosis and biofeedback nationally and internationally. He studied hypnosis with Milton Erickson and John Grinder, and resides in Santa Cruz, CA.
p. 32

Dub Leigh,
longtime body work practitioner, was trained and certified by his friends Ida Rolf, Moshe Feldenkrais, and Tanouye roshi.
p. 26, 40

Annie Styron Leonard
is a founder of the Energy Training Institute in Mill Valley, CA, and an aikido black belt.
p. 21, 34

George Leonard
is a 3rd-degree aikido black belt, founder of Leonard Energy Training (LET), and author of The Silent Pulse, Adventures in Monogamy, and Walking on the Edge of the World.
p. 21, 34

Karuna Licht
is a counselor who focuses on women's issues and relationships. She is a watercolor artist and potter, and designed and built her own home. She has lived on the Big Sur coast for 23 years.
p. 41

Jean Liedloff,
author of The Continuum Concept, consults privately and leads training discussions on non-adversarial child care.
p. 24, 33, 40

Elisa Lodge
comes from a professional acting background, is a certified Rolf movement teacher, and has a practice in shamanic counseling at Esalen Institute.
p. 20, 34, 41

Jan Lovett-Keen
is a musician and body worker with a private practice for women called "Care for the Caretakers."
p. 31

Til Luchau
teaches massage and yoga. He is a certified Rolfer and an instructor for the Colorado Outward Bound School Health Services Program.
p. 32

Nancy Kaye Lunney,
formerly a vocal coach and accompanist for well-known entertainers, is a gestalt practitioner, director of programming at Esalen, and a guest faculty member at Cornell University.
p. 34

M

Edward Maupin,
psychologist, has been a Rolfer for 20 years. An Esalen resident from 1966-70, he currently teaches at IPSB, a school of contemporary body work in San Diego.
p. 41

Heather Maycock-Ogilvy
is a licensed psychologist in private practice in Menlo Park, CA. She does longterm psychodynamic counseling and has a background in body work.
p. 32

Terence McKenna
authored True Hallucinations and Timewave Zero. He is a psychoactivist interested in the role that hallucinogenic plants play in forming human languages and cultures.
p. 11, 25

Deborah Anne Medow,
Esalen leader and body work practitioner since 1969, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, gestalt awareness, and related healing disciplines throughout the U.S. and Europe.
p. 11, 22, 27, 32, 37, 39

Bob Melville
is a veteran Grand Canyon river guide of 16 years. He shares the wonders of the Canyon through his knowledge and experience.
p. 13, 39

Hugh Milne,
third-generation Scottish osteopath with 20 years' experience, has practiced and taught cranial work, healing, and psychometry abroad and in the U.S. He works in San Francisco.
p. 34, 40

Beverly Kitaen Morse
is a marriage and family counselor in private practice in Santa Monica and a senior instructor at the Rosenberg-Rand Institute for Integrative Body Psychotherapy.
p. 20, 36, 37, 40

Arthur Munyer,
a member of the Esalen massage crew, is a trigger-point specialist and longtime body work practitioner trained by Dub Leigh and Lauren Berry.
p. 13, 22, 39

N

Audrey Nakamura
was trained by Hawayo Takata, Dub Leigh, and Tanouye Tenshin roshi. She has been a practitioner for 16 years.
p. 26, 40

John Nicholas,
a graduate of the C.G. Jung Institute in Zurich, is a teacher, counselor, author, analyst, and international career management consultant.
p. 19

O

Violet Oaklander,
a psychologist in Santa Barbara, CA, is the author of Windows to Our Children: A Gestalt Therapy Approach to Children and Adolescents. She leads workshops thoughout the world.
p. 18

Richard Olney
has studied with Alan Watts, Fritz Perls, and Alexander Lowen, and has been influenced by the eidetic imagery work of Akhter Ahsen. He has led self-acceptance trainings in the U.S. and Europe.
p. 15

Susan Osborn
was the lead vocalist for the Paul Winter Consort for 10 years. She has a 20-year career of concerts, recordings, and song-writing and has been teaching Seeds of Singing for the past 8.
p. 28

Samuel Osherson
is the author of Finding Our Fathers. He is a psychologist at Harvard University Health Services and teaches at the Fielding Institute.
p. 32

Brita Ostrom,
a longtime Esalen massage practitioner, incorporates Trager™ training and gestalt awareness work with the personal energetic connection of the Esalen massage.
p. 21, 29, 35, 40

P

Rick Paine,
psychologist, works with adult children of alcoholics and leads workshops for emerging men. He is on the faculties of the New York Open Center, Interface, and Spring Hill Institute.
p. 20, 39

Karen Paine-Gernée,
co-author of Emotional Healing: Overcoming the Wounds of Growing Up in Alcoholic and Other Unhealthy Families, leads workshops for ACAs and those with catastrophic illness.
p. 19, 20, 39, 40

Helen Palmer,
a practicing intuitive for 18 years, directs the Center for the Investigation and Training of Intuition and is a graduate faculty member of John F. Kennedy University.
p. 35

Wendy Palmer,
faculty member of the Center for the Investigation and Training of Intuition, holds a 3rd-degree black belt in aikido and is co-founder of the Tamalpais Aikido and International Movement Arts Center.
p. 13, 17, 39

Laurie Lioness Parizek,
a member of the Esalen massage crew and teaching staff since 1974, integrates traditional and innovative approaches to healing the body, mind, and spirit.
p. 15, 35, 38, 39, 40

John Pierrakos,
former student and colleague of Wilhelm Reich, is the co-founder (with Alexander Lowen) of Bioenergetic Therapy. He developed Core Energetic Therapy and founded the Institute for the New Age.
p. 33

Ayala Pines
is author of Keeping the Spark Alive and co-author of Career Burnout: Causes and Cures. Her new book, Jealousy: The Shadow of Love, will be published in 1990.
p. 31, 33

Christine Stewart Price
is a teacher and ongoing student of gestalt practice and other approaches to developing awareness.
p. 16, 17, 24, 25, 28, 29, 36, 39, 40

Bill Puka,
ethics professor at Rensselaer and psychological researcher at Harvard's Center for Moral Development, practices meditation and yoga. He has formulated federal legislation on economic democracy.
p. 20

Jill Purce
is author of The Mystic Spiral. She investigated the mystical dimension of sound with Karlheinz Stockhausen and the magical use of the voice and overtone chanting with Tibetan lamas.
p. 13

R

Paul Rebillot,
a group leader at Esalen for 16 years, combines gestalt methodology with theater and ritual. He divides his time between Europe and the U.S.
p. 17, 26, 27, 35, 36

Bernadette Roberts,
a lifelong Christian contemplative with a monastic background, is the author of The Experience of No-Self and The Path to No-Self, and most recently, What is Self?
p. 16

William George Roll,
professor of parapsychology at West Georgia College and lay Zen monk with Dai Bosatsu Zendo, focuses on the development of methods for clinical parapsychology and spiritual awareness.
p. 16

Jack Rosenberg,
a psychologist and director of the Rosenberg-Rand Institute of Integrative Body Psychotherapy in Venice, CA, is the author of Body, Self, and Soul.
p. 20, 36, 37, 40

Judith Roth
leads groups, emphasizing body, spirit, and emotional integration. She holds an aikido black belt and teaches Model Mugging Self-Defense and Empowerment.
p. 27

S

Stephano Sabetti,
founder of the Institute for Life Energy® and the Life Energy Process™, has a doctorate in psychology and is an acupuncturist. He is also an organizational consultant.
p. 12, 28

Rabbi Zalman Schachter-Shalomi
integrates the common threads of Sufism, Buddhism, Christianity, native American traditions, and Hinduism into his teachings.
p. 25

David Schiffman,
a longtime group leader at Esalen, is involved in developing full expression of mental, physical, and spiritual states of being.
p. 14, 25, 26, 31, 35

Laurie Schutz,
longtime Esalen massage practitioner and teacher, incorporates varied approaches to allow for nurturing, balance, and integration of the body. She has also led parent-infant workshops.
p. 18, 39

Will Schutz,
founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of The Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations. He is the author of Joy and Profound Simplicity.
p. 24

Cynthia Scott,
psychologist and organizational consultant in mastering change and career development, authored Heal Thyself, From Burnout to Balance, StressMap, and Take This Job and Love It!
p. 21

Mia Segal
was Moshe Feldenkrais' first assistant. She worked with him in Israel, Europe, and the U.S. She is now teaching in Switzerland, Holland, and England.
p. 20

Charlotte Selver,
student of Elsa Gindler, introduced Sensory Awareness to the U.S. and has been closely connected with Esalen and the San Francisco Zen Center since their beginnings.
p. 23

Phyllis Shankman
is a licensed counselor in private practice in West Los Angeles. She has been leading groups at Esalen for over 10 years.
p. 22

Paula Scholachman Shaw
has been a professional actress and teacher for over 20 years. She currently conducts in-house programs for Esalen staff and work students in creativity, well-being, and self-expression.
p. 31, 41

Rupert Sheldrake
is a biologist. Formerly a research fellow of the Royal Society at Cambridge University, he is the controversial author of A New Science of Life and The Presence of the Past.
p. 11

Fred Shoemaker,
an inner game teacher and golf professional, is a former golf coach at UCSB and has written about the inner game for Golf magazine.
p. 16

Anne Nechama Simkin
trained in gestalt with Erv and Miriam Polster and Jim Simkin. She has conducted workshops internationally, most recently at Findhorn.
p. 28, 41

Edward Smith,
adjunct professor of psychology, Georgia State University, editor of The Growing Edge of Gestalt Therapy and author of Sexual Aliveness, has been a workshop leader since 1971.
p. 33

Fritz Smith
is a physician, cranial osteopath, certified acupuncturist, and founder of Zero Balancing. He is the author of Inner Bridges: A Guide to Energy Movement and Body Structure.
p. 13, 39

Gerald Smith
is a licensed psychologist in private practice in Belmont, CA. He has led couples workshops at Esalen since 1966 and is the author of Hidden Meanings and Couple Therapy.
p. 23

George Freeman Solomon, physician and professor of psychiatry at UCLA, is a pioneer in the field of psychoneuroimmunology, whose current research concerns psychoneuroimmunologic aspects of AIDS and of aging.
p. 14, 39

Robert Solomon
is a professor at the University of Texas at Austin and has been leading Esalen seminars for 8 years. His books include The Passions and About Love.
p. 26

Kathleen Riordan Speeth
is a psychologist in private practice in New York and California. Her interests include the psychodynamics of creativity and transcendence and the conduct of life as a work of art.
p. 36

Tama Starr
is a businesswoman and community leader in New York City. She has practiced yoga and t'ai chi ch'uan since 1966, and was one of the founders of San Francisco's Inner Research Institute.
p. 13

Charles Steinberg
is a physician/healer. He founded Wellspring, Partners in Health, in Boulder, CO, a holistic primary care center where he works with people with AIDS and other life-threatening illnesses.
p. 19, 39

Brother David Steindl-Rast,
Benedictine monk, hermit, psychologist, and author, has lectured on five continents. He is concerned with the spiritual challenges of our time.
p. 14, 34

James Stewart
teaches body work at IPSB in San Diego and has co-led the Imaginal Seminars offered quarterly in San Diego since 1979.
p. 41

Elizabeth Stratton,
pastoral counselor and healer in private practice in New York City, leads workshops in self-healing and a two-year training program for healers entitled "Awakening the Healer Within You."
p. 28, 40

David Streeter
is a certified sports massage practitioner on the Esalen massage staff. He has taught yoga and anatomy and has worked as an athletic trainer for many years.
p. 13, 39, 41

T

Linda Tellington-Jones,
former project director for Esalen's Soviet-American Exchange Program and a Feldenkrais practitioner, has made 10 trips to the Soviet Union to work with Olympic horses, riders, and veterinarians.
p. 34

Mary Tesoro
is a certified Leonard Energy Training instructor, women's self-defense teacher, aikido practitioner, and writer whose work embraces issues of human health, potential, and peak performance.
p. 27

Vicki Topp,
Esalen massage staff member since 1968, teaches soft and sensitive use of pressure points and deep tissue massage combined with emotional and transpersonal body practices.
p. 11, 39

V

Attila Vaas
has been a member of the Esalen massage staff since 1976. His skills include polarity, acupressure, and Esalen's free-form style of massage.
p. 15, 39

Antoinette Varner
is an acupuncturist, herbalist, and movement teacher whose work integrates cognitive learning, the body, and spiritual experience.
p. 22, 37, 39, 40

W

Ellen Watson
is a practitioner of hypnosis, massage, Hatha and taoist yoga, and Grof holotropic integration.
p. 41

KATHLEEN THORNOO CARR

A view from the Big House.

Andrew Weil
is associate director of the Division of Social Perspectives in Medicine, the College of Medicine, University of Arizona. He teaches alternative medicine, mind/body interactions, medical botany.
p. 33

David Whyte
is a poet and lecturer. He is the author of Songs for Coming Home and is currently at work on his second volume of poems, Where Many Rivers Meet. He leads workshops throughout the U.S.
p. 12

Z

Ruth Zaporah,
performance artist and teacher, regularly presents her work throughout the U.S. and Europe. She is a recipient of a National Endowment for the Arts Choreographer's Fellowship.
p. 14

Janet Zuckerman
is founder of the Feeling Center in Big Sur, CA. She has been teaching at Esalen for the past 14 years.
p. 13, 22, 32, 39, 40, 41

GENERAL INFORMATION

Esalen lies 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco, situated directly over the Pacific with the Santa Lucia Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot springs, was once the home of a native American tribe known as Esselen.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute, By Reservation Only.

Fees and Reservations: Pre-registration, by mail or phone, is required prior to arrival. A registration form is provided on page 54. Since workshops fill quickly, it is advisable to sign up as early as possible, preferably a month in advance. In order to reserve a space in any workshop, we require the following deposits:

Weekend:	$100	19 to 21 days:	$400
5 to 7 days:	$200	Month-long:	$500
12 to 14 days:	$300

Deposits are payable in U.S. currency only. Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks or use a credit card. Balance of payment is due on arrival. (Please see pages 9-10 for information on discounts and reduced rate options.)

Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is canceled and we are unable to reach you.

Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Rooms are shared by two or more persons. Camping on the grounds is prohibited.

Making Contact with Us: Since it can be difficult to get through by phone, we encourage you to read the catalog and mail your reservations. For your convenience we also have a fax line for reservations and scholarship applications. That number is (408) 667-2724. If you prefer to make your reservations by phone, please be prepared with your completed reservations form and your charge card when you call. We know that all calls to Esalen are long distance; we will be as efficient as possible. Please be patient so that we can give you complete information and our best service. NOTE: Room and Board reservations must be made by phone, not by fax machine.

Please see inside front cover for mailing address, phone numbers, and reservations hours.

Cancellation and Refund Policy: If you cancel at least five full days before the start of your workshop, your deposit, less a $20 processing fee, will be transferred to a credit account to be used within one year. If you cancel with less than five days' notice, you forfeit your entire deposit. If you have prepaid your entire reservations fee, we will retain the deposit, as above, less the $20 processing fee, and return the balance to you. (Please note: Wilderness Programs has a different cancellation and refund policy. Please see page 39 for that information.)

If you have applied for a scholarship and we are unable to give you any assistance, we will, at your request, refund your deposit in full if you cancel your reservations at least five full days prior to the start of your workshop. If we are able to give you assistance and you cancel your reservations as above, we will return your deposit, less a $20 processing fee, unless you wish to transfer that deposit, less the processing fee, to a credit account to be used within the next year. If you cancel with less than five days' notice, you forfeit your entire deposit.

Scholarships: For information on scholarships and other economical ways of staying at Esalen, see pages 9-10.

Check-in and Meals: Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with lunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Sunday and end with lunch on Friday. Check-out time is noon of departure day. Rooms become available at 4 PM; however, guests are welcome to arrive any time after 2 PM.

Esalen's flourishing organic garden provides the kitchen with many of its vegetables and herbs. Our breads and pastries are baked at Esalen.

Seminarians as Volunteers: Seminarians in residence at Esalen are requested to contribute several hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out. A staff member will appear at your first workshop meeting to schedule volunteers.

Bus Service: On Fridays and Sundays we have bus service from the Monterey Greyhound station leaving approximately at 3:45 PM and from the Monterey Airport approximately at 4 PM. If you plan to use this service, please inform the Esalen office at least 24 hours prior to your arrival. The $25 one-way fee is payable to the Esalen office when you check in. Return reservations may be made at that time. The only departing bus service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM.

Gazebo School: Requests for child care should be sent at least one month in advance to Gazebo, c/o Esalen Institute.

Health Services: We are unable to provide medical supervision or pharmaceutical supplies. If you are on a health-care program and you plan to spend several weeks at Esalen, please arrive prepared to administer to your health-care needs.

Illegal Drugs: In accordance with state and federal laws, the possession or use of illegal drugs on Esalen grounds is strictly prohibited.

Lost and Found: To inquire about items left behind from your Esalen visit, call (408) 667-3019.

Conferences at Esalen: It is now possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We schedule approximately a year in advance for large groups (up to 100) on a space available basis. For further information, call or write the conference coordinator, (408) 667-3038.

Catalog Subscriptions: If you would like to receive the next three issues of the Esalen Catalog, please refer to the inside front cover for subscription rates and send your check or money order (U.S. currency) in the enclosed envelope, or mail it to Subscriptions, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax-deductible. The expenses of attending Esalen, including travel, are deductible for federal income tax purposes as an educational expense if incurred to maintain or improve professional or work skills. (See Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5.)

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

■ ESALEN SCHOLARSHIP APPLICATION

Today's Date _____ Home Phone _____ Work Phone _____

Name _____ Sex ☐ M ☐ F

Address _____

City/State _____ Zip _____

Age _____ Marital Status _____ Occupation _____

Place of employment and position held. If self-employed, please describe the nature of your work. _____

Income last year _____ Current monthly income _____

Number of dependents whom you claim on your tax forms or for whom you are financially responsible _____

Have you received scholarships for other Esalen workshops within the past 18 months?
If so, please give the information requested below.

Date	Program Title	Scholarship Received

Workshop information for this application:

Workshop No.	Date	Title	Scholarship Amount Requested

(We may approve your application without being able to give you the full amount you request.)

Please make a personal statement about your interest in this workshop.

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

Note: This application does not reserve you space in a workshop. Reservations are made only after receipt of your full deposit by our reservations desk. You may make a reservation prior to approval of this application by making the required deposit (see General Information, page 52). If your application is approved, the amount of assistance will be credited against your balance due on arrival. If your application is not approved, for whatever reason, and you cancel your reservation at least five full days before the start of the workshop, your deposit will be returned at your request unless you wish to leave it in a credit account to be used within the next year. If you cancel with less than five full days' notice, you will forfeit your deposit.

Only those denied any scholarship assistance may request a refund of deposit.

Scholarship recipients may be asked to bring a sleeping bag during peak attendance times.

In exchange for scholarship assistance, there is a work requirement in the community labor pool which will not conflict with your seminar meetings. For every $50 worth of assistance, recipients will be expected to work about two hours. The maximum scholarship given in any case will not exceed 50% of the standard workshop price. Depending on the number of requests we receive, it may be less.

ESALEN INSTITUTE RESERVATIONS FORM

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. If you wish to make reservations for more than one person, please photocopy this form so that each registrant has his/her own form, unless you are registering as a couple with the same address and phone number. A non-refundable deposit for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (Please see General Information, page 52, under Reservations and Fees, Making Contact with Us, and Cancellation and Refund Policy.)

If you would like scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, please see Scholarship Information on page 9 and complete the scholarship application form on page 53.

Name of Registrant (Please print) _____ Sex M ☐ F ☐

Address _____

City, State _____ ZIP _____

Telephone Number: Home: Area Code (____) _____ Work: Area Code (____) _____

Occasionally there are unexpected situations that require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you? _____
If you can't be reached, please call us before your scheduled arrival for final confirmation. Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is canceled and we are unable to reach you.

Please check below the housing option you prefer after referring to pages 9-10 for accommodation descriptions and rates. Total cost includes workshop fees, lodging, and food. All of our rooms are non-smoking. If you smoke, please plan to do so outside.

☐ Check for standard accommodation, if available.
☐ Check for a single with private bath, if available.
☐ Check for bunk bed room, if available.
☐ Check for sleeping bag space, if available.
☐ Check for the Middle Point House, if available.

If your first selection is not available, please indicate your second and third choices here as well as the name(s) of any person(s) with whom you wish to room.

(2) _____

(3) _____

_____

Passenger Van Service: I want transportation from (check one):

☐ Monterey Greyhound Bus Station at approximately 3:45 PM on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays and Sundays only).

☐ Monterey Airport at approximately 4:00 PM on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays and Sundays only).

The $25 per person charge is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the passenger van service change after you have made your reservation, please notify us. The only departing van service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM. Passenger van service is not available at any other time.

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

We are unable to act as a banking service for our guests. Please bring adequate funds for your st y.

Workshop No.	Date	Leader's Name/Workshop Title	Fee

I enclose payment for the following contributions:

☐ $5 Catalog Contribution

☐ Friends of Esalen (See page 42)
- ☐ Student $15
- ☐ Individual $25
- ☐ Donor $50
- ☐ Sponsor $100
- ☐ Patron $500

Total Deposits Enclosed: _____

$5 Catalog Contribution: _____

Friends of Esalen: _____

Subtotal: _____

Less any discount (Prepayment or Senior, see page 9): _____

Total Amount Enclosed: _____

Please make checks payable to Esalen Institute, in U.S. currency only. Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks or with one of the charge cards below.

Your reservations can be charged to:
☐ Mastercard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express

Card No. _____

Expiration Date _____

Authorizing Signature

_____

All workshops require non-refundable deposits. See page 52. The balance of program fees becomes payable at time of check-in.

Thank you for your reservation. As soon as it is processed you will receive by return mail a receipt for your deposit and a notice of confirmation.

CYNTHIA JOHNSON BIANCHETTA

Participants in the 1988 Big Sur conference sponsored by Esalen's Soviet-American health project, which discussed Soviet and American work in health promotion, psychoneuroimmunology, and behavioral medicine. Its members included representatives of the USSR Ministry of Health, the American National Institutes of Health, and the World Health Organization.

Esalen Institute is a center to encourage work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. Its activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research and semi-autonomous projects.

Esalen Institute
Big Sur
California 93920

Address Correction Requested

Non-Profit Organization
U.S. Postage Paid
Esalen Institute

THE ESALEN CATALOG

JANUARY – JUNE 1990

■ CONTENTS

Volume XXIX, Number 1

Audio Recordings 43
Biographical Information 45–51
Conferences at Esalen 52
Esalen Notes 7
Esalen Seminars 10–36
Friends of Esalen 42
Future Programs 40
Gazebo Early Childhood Program 38
General Information 52
Invitational Conferences 7
Mail Order Books 44
Medical Programs 39–40
Reservations Form 54
Scholarship Application Form 53
Scholarship Information 8
Special Programs 37–38
Ways of Being at Esalen 8–9
Wilderness Programs 40
Work Study Program and Application 41–42

Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920

Phones:
Reservations: (408) 667-3005
General Information: (408) 667-3000
Monday, Tuesday, Thursday
& Saturday 10 AM to 3 PM
Wednesday 10 AM to 12 Noon
Friday 10 AM to 5 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 5 PM

Catalog Editor: Susan Stone
Graphic Design: Barbara Adamson
Art & Photography Editor:
Cynthia Johnson Bianchetta

Consulting Editor: Nancy Kaye Lunney
Administrative Liaison: Patricia LeWine
Editorial Review: George Leonard

Cover Photograph: Carol-Renée Pierpoint

Esalen Board of Trustees:

Mark Dayton
Steve Donovan
Jack Downing
Victoria Elliot
Mary Ellen Klee
Bokara Legendre
George Leonard
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Michael Murphy
Christine Stewart Price
William Sechrest
Jeremy Tarcher

© 1990 Esalen Institute
All Rights Reserved.

Cover photograph: Zachary Schiffman working a computer in the Gazebo Farmhouse.

The Esalen Catalog is published triannually by the Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920. Subscription cost for one year is $15 for the United States, $17 for Canada and Mexico, $22 for Europe and South America, and $25 for all other countries. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available upon request.

Although we're delighted to provide you with this issue of the catalog, if you are not currently a subscriber we would appreciate a $5 contribution to defray postage and production costs.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. Its activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

TOM GALLOWAY

Janet Lederman, creator and founder of Esalen's Gazebo School, with her students.

ESALEN AND EDUCATION

by Judith Brown

Among those who came to Esalen in its formative years were three educators who have helped integrate principles of experiential learning into places where children learn. George Leonard is a writer and popular workshop leader. Through books and articles he has disseminated innovative educational ideas throughout the world. Janet Lederman is director of Esalen's Gazebo school, where she encourages "full-bodied" learning for little children. George I. Brown created a graduate program in confluent education at the University of California at Santa Barbara, through which some 80 doctoral degrees and 300 master's degrees have been awarded to teachers and other professionals who, in turn, have taken Esalen's influence into the classroom and community.

LOOK MAGAZINE PHOTO COURTESY GEORGE LEONARD

Leonard spent weeks sitting with children in the classrooms. 1961.

George Leonard presented us with an apparent oxymoron with the title of his far-sighted book, Education and Ecstasy, published in 1968. At the time he wrote it, (Education and Ecstasy has since been translated into German, Japanese, Spanish, Portuguese, Hebrew, and Farsi), Leonard had undertaken an unusual study of American schools. His subject matter was not educational theory, it was the schools themselves: their students, teachers, curricula, administrators, and buildings. He had come to his study "totally blank," as he says, as a journalist for Look magazine in the mid-fifties. "I would fold my 6'4" frame into a little child's desk and sit there," he wrote, "not just for an hour, but for weeks." The tremendous success and popularity of his award-winning story, "What Is a Teacher?" was followed by a series of award-winning stories: "What Is a School?", "What Is a School Superintendent?", "Who Runs Our Schools?", and "Testing vs. Your Child."

Rather than reading education journals, Leonard got his ideas and information from sitting with kids. "There were a lot of wonderful things happening in the classroom," he wrote. "But I also began seeing there was a profound waste of human potential—the greatest tragedy on this planet. We see that waste in prejudice, social injustice, starvation. But the area where it's perhaps most pervasive is education." As a "non-expert" he could see that although teachers and administrators made heroic efforts to teach our children, the system was in many respects outmoded. If learning is using one's potential, then the schools, as he experienced them, were often doing just the opposite.

Criticizing schools is easy. Leonard did more than that; in Education and Ecstasy he devoted two chapters to Esalen's influence in creating what he called a "new domain" for education. "The new domain," he explains, "is not bound by the conceptual, the factual, the symbolic, but includes every aspect of human existence that's relevant to a new age."

Many people remember the book for its vision of a school of the year 2001 and its high-tech "Basic Dome," where children as young as three sit at computer keyboards playing with verbal and mathematical concepts. But if Leonard has pushed hard for the imaginative use of technology in giving students individualized, self-paced access to academic knowledge, he has pushed just as hard for what he calls the integrative curriculum: music, dance, art, drama, the body, the senses. "If you use art, dance, and drama, that pulls everything together, gives meaning to otherwise unconnected data. If you bring the body into the educational equation, you discover the most powerful teacher of all. The body is fully instrumented. It has millions of feedback circuits. And the feedback is practically instantaneous. You don't have to wait for a printout."

The body, for Leonard, includes the affect associated with thought. "There is no thought apart from feeling," he says. In all his writings, Leonard stresses the creation of a "total environment"—the interrelation of everything within the educational setting.

Leonard has been a watchdog of public education in our country, not afraid to speak up in public debate. His article, "The Great School Reform Hoax" (Esquire, April 1984), included a passionate denunciation of the "Nation at Risk" report which launched a national education reform movement in April 1983. "It was all more of the same: longer school day, longer school year, more homework. No systemic change. A longer bad school day? A longer bad school year? That would only increase the number of dropouts, which is exactly what has happened. Over at least a hundred years, through all kinds of changes in our society, our schools have remained essentially the same. And now in the space-age, we still have an educational horse-and-buggy. . . ."

The picture is not entirely dark, however. Educators and learning technologists are listening. In recent years both AT&T and MCI have acknowledged the influence of Education and Ecstasy on their pilot computer education programs in schools. Dr. Alfred Bork, head of the Educational Technology Center at UC Irvine, wrote: "Many of the features that Leonard describes seem to me likely to characterize almost any school of the future that uses computers effectively as tools for learning." Leonard, in addition to offering his Leonard Energy Training (LET) workshops, continues to consult on the reform of education with groups as diverse as the Washington Governors' Conference and Lucasfilm Learning Systems. And the futuristic "Jefferson School" in his Esquire article serves as the inspiration for an ambitious current school reform program sponsored by a consortium including the public schools of Dade, Broward, and Monroe counties in southern Florida. "The current phony reform movement has just about run its course," he says. "It's now becoming clear, as noted in a recent Newsweek cover piece, that mindless testing and relentless pressure just won't do it in this diverse society. I think we're already seeing a turn toward self-pacing, self-esteem, and the integration of feeling with thought in our schools, especially in the early grades. Learning can be hard work. It can also be great fun."

Of the five thousand visitors who come to Esalen every year, a good many make their way through the garden and across the bridge to see the Gazebo. Here the offspring of Esalen parents and of other Big Sur families come to learn by playing. "Everybody is interested in seeing this place," says Janet Lederman, who established Gazebo twelve years ago. "They wish this is where they were little, or where their kids could come. We've had Russians, and they whisper to one another, 'If only my grandchildren could have this. The freedom!'"

Twenty years ago in her book, Anger and the Rocking Chair, Lederman put forth her approach to helping children learn: "I'm not going to do anything for you that you can do for yourself." Other basic gestalt concepts, such as personal responsibility and the importance of the context for imparting meaning, are evident at Gazebo as they were in Lederman's early work. "Only then I didn't know you could expand out of those four walls," she explains. No walls at Gazebo, no cooks or janitors, so what is there? An environment that fosters competence, personal responsibility, and a desire to find out about life. That is the essence of Gazebo. Lederman believes the first five years to be of greatest importance, and that children develop best in a natural environment. The little ones, who come as young as nine months, take their first steps in the mini-wilderness of uneven earth, grass, trees, and animals. It is a "full-bodied experience," as Lederman describes it. "With all the high-tech places, you have to put in high-touch. They learn to climb and run, and they're filled with self-esteem."

These children follow their natural inclination to find out about their world and to test themselves in it, to use their imagination as they interact with the shifting population of children and the changing seasons. They are given the opportunity to struggle and to enjoy their successes. "We are putting some wonderful citizens into the world," Lederman says with obvious pride. "Gazebo alumni enter elementary school with all their exuberance and curiosity for life intact; they are successful in public school. They are wonderful teenagers. They know how to communicate, and they are self-sufficient."

Lederman makes a clear distinction between learning and education. "If learning doesn't come before education, then what you get is totalitarianism or fascism. Our children never have any trouble saying no. Never. They get to participate in decisions, so they learn what they like rather than what someone else thinks they should like. They learn to trust their judgment and intuition." This trust on the part of the children reflects a fundamental attitude of Gazebo's participating adults: children are trustworthy.

Lederman suggests that we have lost the concept of what play really is, that adults forget how necessary it is to "play out behind Grandmother's barn and in secret places." There aren't many barns around anymore in our urban centers, and open land is quickly disappearing. So Gazebo's existence takes on a poignancy that extends beyond the experiences of the lucky ones who climb the trees there, play in the boat, and attend the birth of a kid goat. It also integrates the Leonard vision of three-year-olds at their computer keyboards. A visitor to the "Computer Bus" finds only a steering wheel left of the original interior. Where passengers once occupied seats, computers now sit on tables. Every boat, of course, needs a computer and the Gazebo boat is no exception. Another one is found in the farmhouse.

With Gazebo, Esalen provides a model of corporate child care, where the corporation pays the salaries and donates the land, and the parents pay for the operating costs. Through its existence, Gazebo forces a comparison with what our communities are now providing in the way of early childhood education. We need to ask questions about our existing pre-school and kindergarten environments: What do they teach our children about themselves and their world? Do they contribute to the children's integration of their bodies, their feelings of esteem for themselves and others, their curiosity and ability to learn? Are we willing to use the funds necessary to make necessary changes in early education?

In the 1960s, George Brown found himself with one foot in Esalen and the other in the University of California at Santa Barbara. Brown described the history of his Esalen involvement and the conception of what has become a graduate program in confluent education: "Around the mid-sixties I began working at Esalen giving creativity workshops. I became involved with the residential program, helping design it, assessing people who were to be admitted, participating as a trainer and that sort of thing. At the same time, I was a professor at the university."

Brown's confluent education joins the cognitive and affective dimensions of learning. This means putting thinking and feeling together. A purely cognitive lesson teaches that Columbus visited the New World in 1492; this was the beginning of the "Modern Age." The affective component, the emotional content, comes into the lesson when the teacher presents the students with questions that make the lesson personally meaningful. What makes people seek the unknown? What have you discovered about yourself? Brown made a direct connection between the role of emotions in the classroom and the blocking or facilitating of learning. With just a little training, teachers, he felt, could get students more involved with their learning. As examples he mentions two interventions, "simple additions," that he believes can increase significantly the effectiveness of learning in the classroom. The first is helping kids to meta-communicate, i.e., to process their own learning. Based on Gregory Bateson's work, this concerns learning how to learn and equips students with skills they can apply to different areas of study. The second is training teachers in the concept and appropriate use of descriptive feedback. Contrary to evaluative feedback, which is widely used and often counterproductive (e.g., "You play this all wrong; it sounds bad and isn't what the composer intended—"), descriptive feedback encourages awareness and responsibility on the part of the student ("Can you hear, as you play these passages, how the notes run into each other? How does this sound to you?").

COURTESY GEORGE AND JUDITH BROWN

George Brown, founder of UC Santa Barbara's Confluent Education Program, and Judith Brown, author and longtime Esalen seminar leader.

Brown's interest in applying Esalen approaches to classroom learning was shared by Mario Fantini, at that time a program officer at the Ford Foundation. Through him Brown received a small grant from the Fund for Advancement of Education, which was related to the Ford Foundation. The money supported a project, the only one of its kind, in which a small group of classroom teachers from elementary and secondary schools spent one weekend a month for a year at Esalen. The idea was to train teachers to use the "non-verbal humanities" in the classroom. Among people on the Esalen staff who worked with the group were Fritz Perls, Virginia Satir, Charlotte Selver, and Janet Lederman. Brown remembers that Perls was enthusiastic and supportive of applying gestalt concepts to education. "These weekends were powerful experiences for all of us. Our aim was to combine the affective domain, the realm of emotions, attitudes, and values, with more traditional classroom subject matter. We applied what we were learning to the classroom, to enrich the climate and curriculum, with the intention of making learning personally meaningful for each child."

The time at Esalen proved highly fruitful. Brown's group published a monograph, "Now the Human Dimension," which described theoretical aspects and practical uses of the affective domain. The many creative lessons and units eventually became part of the book, Human Teaching for Human Learning: An Introduction to Confluent Education, published by Viking as part of the Esalen series in 1969. In the introduction to the book, Brown wrote: "(Our approach) confronts the educational scene as it exists and demonstrates how teaching and learning can at once become both more human and productive within that context."

Fantini was impressed with the original project and in 1971 volunteered another grant to continue Brown's work at the elementary, secondary, community college, and university levels. Projects for medical doctors and school administrators were also included. This Ford-Esalen project was called DRICE: Development and Research in Confluent Education. It continued for over four years into 1975, by which time the Confluent Education Program at the University of California at Santa Barbara was well established. From the DRICE project came innovative curriculum material with special training for a variety of professional groups: lawyers, health professionals, industrial trainers, etc. A second book was published, The Live Classroom: Innovations Through Confluent Education and Gestalt, which, along with Human Teaching for Human Learning, was translated into Japanese, German, and Dutch. Both titles were republished in this country by The Gestalt Journal Press in late 1989. As a result of these books, students have come to the Confluent Education Program from many countries.

Brown cites the widespread influence of the program: "There is a confluent education program in Norway, a related program in Holland for training physicians and nurses, and an active center in Japan. Work is going on in Germany under the name 'Gestalt Pedagogic.'" The program also expanded its scope to include the training of executives in industry. A recent research project involving executive training for CEOs proved highly successful in increasing their effectiveness in dealing with human factors in their organizations.

Esalen's influence has reached around the world through the efforts of Brown, Lederman, and Leonard. These three educators have broadened the concept and practice of education.

Judith Brown, who earned a Ph.D. in confluent education, has been a gestalt practitioner and trainer, here and abroad, for 20 years. Her most recent book is I Only Want What's Best For You.

ESALEN NOTES

MEMORIAL FOR DICK PRICE

Friends and family of Dick Price, co-founder with Michael Murphy of Esalen Institute, have met to plan a permanent commemoration to his life. The memorial will center on Dick's lifelong dedication to personal evolution through meditation and the observation of nature.

On the bank of Hot Springs Creek just above the waterfall, an inconspicuous rock bench backed by a foliage-covered retaining wall will replace a flourishing growth of poison oak. In the background will be the creek and the Round House, which is being converted to a meditation center. In the foreground, a bronze cauldron, modeled on Chinese tomb bronzes found in the graves of significant ancestors, will continually overflow with the waters of the creek. The cauldron, or "ting," expresses the love Dick had for the rich wisdom and culture of China, as stated here by Richard Wilhelm and Carl Jung in their introduction to the I Ching:

> The ting, as a utensil pertaining to a refined civilization, suggests the fostering and [spiritual] nourishing of able men, which redounded to the benefit of the state. . . . Here we see civilization as it reaches its culmination in religion. The ting serves in offering sacrifice to God. . . .

The setting will be designed and executed by Esalen staff members who have guarded and polished the beauty of the hot springs property from the beginning. The ting is being designed in the simplicity and directness of Dick Price by John Horler, longtime artist in residence at Esalen and friend of Dick. John will also direct the foundrymen in the complex moulding and casting of the bronze. At the suggestion of Christine Stewart Price, you are invited to bring or send a rock to be placed in the retaining wall, symbolizing your love for Dick and the quiet widespread influence he has had around the globe.

The memorial will be rather costly; the cauldron alone will weigh 400 pounds and approach $10,000 by the time it is placed on its flood-proof footings. If you can, send a contribution along with your rock. They both will go to the same good purpose.

INVITATIONAL CONFERENCES

In its continuing commitment to the fields of education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences, Esalen regularly sponsors invitational conferences that bring together experts who share their research and points of inquiry. As host, Esalen covers room and board expenses for participants as a way of advancing these particular studies. These are invitational conferences only and are not open to the public. Currently scheduled programs and their conveners are listed here.

March 4–9
Citizen Diplomacy
Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program
1990 marks the 10th anniversary of the Exchange Program. This conference will gather citizen diplomats from around the country.

March 18–23
Appropriate Governance
Donald Michael
What are the mythic, psycho-dynamic, organizational, and operational characteristics of governance appropriate for a world too complex, interdependent, and fractious to be guided by the modes of education, economics, child-rearing, and government now available or anticipated? This ninth annual meeting will focus on multi-nation governments.

April 1–6
Stalin and Hitler: The Psychology of Tyranny
Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program
This conference continues SAEP's June 1989 public seminar, Glasnost, Perestroika, and Stalin. It brings together Soviets and Germans who knew Stalin and Hitler, with scholars from the Soviet Union, Germany, and the United States.

April 22–27
Tropical Ethno-Medicine
Esalen Institute & Botanical Dimensions
This will be a gathering of botanists, phytochemists, ethnologists, and ecologists who are working to preserve and understand rain forest plants with healing and psychotherapeutic potential.

April 27–29
Weekend Conference on the Rain Forest
Esalen Institute & Botanical Dimensions
Rain forest activists will discuss goals and strategies and coordinate efforts for tropical rain forest conservation. As many are now realizing, survival of the rain forest is central to any plan to maintain the balance of nature on Earth while securing a viable future for humanity.

June 24–29
Dialogues
Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program
A multi-disciplinary group from the Soviet Union and the United States will discuss the social and economic transformation affecting both nations.

COURTESY GEORGE LEONARD

Leonard's articles on education won national awards and sold millions of copies in reprint form.

■ WAYS OF BEING AT ESALEN

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from a tour of the garden on a Sunday afternoon to a long-term stay as a seminarian. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the methods of personal growth available here. The Experiencing Esalen workshops, scheduled periodically, offer an introduction to practices such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, and meditation. From such a sampling, participants can then choose those approaches they are most attracted to and pursue them in subsequent seminars.

Another way of being at Esalen which allows a much greater involvement with the place and its community at a lower expense is the Work Study Program, described more fully elsewhere in this section and on page 41. For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more, there are frequent long-term programs which involve didactic seminars or professional trainings as well as experiential workshops.

In addition, there are other events which enrich life at Esalen. There are frequent forums in which writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights there may be lectures, films, dance performances, choirs, or other forms of entertainment. Body work of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners. Finally, there is a community workshop program which goes on daily and provides opportunities for personal growth.

Scholarship Information

If you would like scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, please complete the application on page 53 and send it to us along with appropriate deposits and your completed reservations form. If your application is approved, the amount of assistance granted will be deducted from your balance due on arrival. (See Fees and Reservations, page 52.)

The maximum amount of scholarship awarded is 50% of the total fee. In most cases it will be less. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

Reduced Rate Options and Discounts

If you pay in full at the time you make your reservations, you will receive a $10 pre-payment discount per workshop and be eligible for express check-in upon arrival. This discount does not apply to sleeping bag accommodations or scholarship recipients.

Senior Citizen Discount: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $25; for a five-day or longer workshop, it's $50. This discount is available only when you make your reservations, not when you check in. When you complete the reservations form on page 54, please indicate the discounts for which you qualify. If you qualify, and you make your reservations by phone, be sure to ask for this discount. (Please note: senior discounts are not available for Wilderness Programs or the Work Study Program.)

Family Rates: A family of three or more may be accommodated in one double room at the regular rate for two, or in a triple at the regular rate for three. The only additional charges per person beyond the two or three full-paying occupants are meal costs. If the non-full-paying family members are enrolled in Gazebo or in an Esalen workshop, additional fees are required. Meal rates are:

	Up to 1 Year	1 to 5	6 and Older
Breakfast	free	$2	$5
Lunch	free	$3	$6
Dinner	free	$4	$8

Housing Options and Rates

Standard Accommodations: This is shared housing with two or more per room. In some cases, bathrooms are shared, as in the Big House. Couples will always be housed in doubles. See above for scholarship information.

	5-Day Rate, per person	Weekend Rate, per person
	$630	$325
Single with private bath (rarely available):	$880	$425

Bunk Bed Rooms: Bunk beds are available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three or more persons. There are a limited number of these spaces, which are reserved on a first come, first served basis.

$465	$260

DANIEL BIANCHETTA

Children and animals interact in Gazebo's natural environment.

Sleeping Bags: Sleeping bag spaces may be available for workshop participants. Please inquire when you make your reservations.

$350	$185

Middle Point House: This is a comfortably-furnished suite situated on the cliff west of the garden overlooking the ocean. It has a bedroom with a queen-size bed, a living room with a wood stove and convertible queen-size couch, and a small loft with a double bed. There is a kitchenette, private deck, and bathroom.

	5-Day Rate	Weekend Rate
1 person	$1200	$600
2 persons	$1800	$900
3 persons	$2400	$1200
4 persons	$2800	$1400

Please note: The Middle Point House, standard singles, and sleeping bag spaces are limited to a 7-day maximum stay.

DANIEL BIANCHETTA

Music is an integral part of Gazebo's program.

Room and Board

Occasionally, when beds aren't needed for seminarians, room and board is available. This gives visitors the opportunity to enjoy the grounds, the baths, massage, and good food without participating in a workshop. Accommodations are standard (2 or 3 per room) or bunk bed (4 or more per room). Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following day. We require full payment at the time of reservation. This payment is not refundable.

For a room and board stay between Sunday and Thursday, please call us no sooner than the Thursday before for room availability. For a Friday or Saturday night stay, please call no sooner than the Sunday before. The rates below are per person, per day. Private rooms are sometimes available at an additional charge of $50 per day.

Weekday	(2 or more days)	Weekend
Standard Accommodation (2 or 3 per room)
$85	($75)	$105
Bunk Bed (4 or more per room)
$65	($60)	$70

Work Study Program

The Work Study Program is an intensive work-oriented program for individuals who want to make a directed, personal commitment to self-exploration and growth and a contribution to the Esalen community. Participants can enroll in the general interest track, which gives an overview of several disciplines, or choose a more specific course of study from the focused track, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage, etc.

Information regarding special interest sections may be obtained by writing Bette Dingman, c/o Esalen. For a full description of the Work Study Program, please turn to page 41.

Accreditation

Many formal educational institutions recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum; check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Medical Programs

Some programs offered at Esalen qualify for continuing education credit with the California Board of Registered Nursing. For current C.E. listings, see pages 39-40.

Mail Order Books

Most books listed as recommended reading for workshops are available through Esalen's bookstore. Please see page 44 for mail order information.

Garden Tours

Tours of the garden, farm, and landscaping are available from April through September, on the first and third Sundays of the month, from 2-5 PM. The cost is $10 per person; group rates are available. No reservations are necessary.

Week of December 31–January 5

Letting Go – Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Beliefs, fears, and emotions from the past can continue into present relationships and interfere with spontaneous feelings of trust, love, and joy. The goal of this workshop is to experience and let go of these defenses and create new ways to relate—in the moment—to ourselves, to our work, and to those we love.

The workshop includes periods of intense body work for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which are reflected in the body as armor and tension. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released, and positive feelings can be experienced more fully. By also using dream work, massage, dance, and group process, a new capacity for loving can emerge.

89123103 $630

Craniosacral System: Basic Workshop

Jim Asher & Jane Harrington

This workshop will offer an opportunity to learn and practice gentle yet powerful skills to bring the craniosacral system into balance. The class will combine lectures and slides on functional anatomy of the membrane system and cerebrospinal fluid movement. There will be hands-on demonstrations of a variety of methods for tapping into bone and membrane motion, rhythm, amplitude quality, restriction, and interference. Demonstrations will be followed by supervised practice. Time will also be spent evoking and developing palpatory sensitivity and fine-tuning the quality of touch.

This workshop is for people with a strong interest in developing hands-on skills and for those already practicing body work or counseling. Much of the focus will be on the head, jaw, neck, pelvis, and diaphragm systems. Cranial work can be effective in shifting emotional holding patterns and draining accumulated stresses in the nervous system.

Recommended reading: John Upledger and Jon Vredevoogd, Craniosacral Therapy (Eastland).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89123101 $630

Touching Spirit: Dimensions of Psychic Healing™

Elizabeth Stratton

Psychic healing bridges the physical and the spiritual. Touching as a healing act has been practiced through recorded history by practitioners of the sacred as well as the secular: healers, shamans, priests, doctors, and mothers. In the past ten years, physics and modern medicine have come to an acknowledgment of the radically relational nature of our universe. Nothing and no one functions in a void.

Human emotions affect the functioning of the body, and illness is often an outgrowth of this mind-body link. Semi-dissociative states that are induced by prayer, meditation, and trance have been found to provide a fertile ground for healing to take place. It has been discovered that "multiple personalities" exhibit different states of health in each personality. The placebo effect has become one of the most respected and well-studied issues in healing today.

A psychic healer is one who can help connect the physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual levels of another person's being with healing intention through the use of touch. This workshop will explore, both didactically and experientially, the sacred and secular uses of touch, modern theories of disease formation and healing mechanisms, the use of psychic sight in healing, forgiveness as transformational cleansing, and the channeling of healing energy through the laying on of hands.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

89123104 $630

Choices and Changes Using Gestalt

Anne Nechama Simkin

Gestalt practice is a noninterpretive, existentially-based system in which awareness of one's feelings in the present moment is the primary focus. Human beings are born with the innate capacity to cope with life. As we mature, this process—and our excitement, creativity, self-expression, and self-acceptance—at times may be interrupted or suppressed. Most gestalt communications deal primarily with the immediate interactions of those present. Explanations, interpretations, and assumptions are discouraged. Concentrating on what is rather than on what could or should be encourages a person to take responsibility for his or her own actions. By becoming aware of what is potentially nourishing and what is toxic, it is possible to learn to make choices and to achieve integration.

This workshop is for persons seeking a new perspective, growth, and change and who want to reown those aspects of their lives that are nourishing. Participants will share experiences, explore new ways of coping with ongoing situations, search for the existential messages of their dreams, and learn to communicate with each other and significant others. The content of the workshop will evolve out of the needs and wishes of the group members.

Recommended reading: Corsini et al., Current Psychotherapies, Chapter 8, 3rd edition, (Peacock); J. Simkin, Mini-Lectures in Gestalt Therapy (available through the Esalen bookstore); Kutash and Wolf, editors, Psychotherapist's Casebook (Jossey-Bass).

89123105 $630

December 31–January 7

Painting Experience with Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

It is rare for most people to use painting for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to paint purely for the process of exploration, not for the result.

The purpose of this workshop is to provide a setting to explore the self through painting—to discover in form and color a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to emotional and spiritual expression. Participants are given the support and stimulation to develop a natural way of painting based directly upon feeling. The work takes place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, along with a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. The workshop may be of interest to persons involved in a wide variety of disciplines, including art, education, counseling, and meditative practices. No prior experience in painting is necessary.

CYNTHIA JOHNSON BIANCHETTA

A licensed first aid staff member with students.

For further information about this workshop, contact: The Painting Experience Studio, 2101 20th Avenue, San Francisco, CA 94116; (415) 564-8515.

$955 (plus $30 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

89123102

Weekend of January 5–7

A Celebration with Paul Horn & Chungliang Al Huang

Paul Horn and Chungliang Al Huang will celebrate and share their joyous collaboration in music, dance, tai ji, jazz improvisation, meditation, philosophy, and world travel experiences.

Recommended reading: Chungliang Al Huang, Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (Dutton; Tao Wetter-Sphinx Verlag, Basel) and Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Celestial Arts); Alan Watts with Chungliang Al Huang, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon).

Recommended listening: Paul Horn, Inside, Inside the Great Pyramid, China, Traveller, Altitude of the Sun, and A Special Edition.

90010501 $355

Forgiveness and Letting Go of Judgment

Elizabeth Stratton

Elizabeth Stratton writes: "The training of the Western mind, both spiritually and intellectually, is oriented toward judgment. We are taught to induce, deduce, analyze, dissect, defend, debate. We are taught to feel guilty, to get sick, to engage in self-punishment and the punishment of others. We are encouraged to rebuke ourselves into perfection.

"We do not know the healing quality of true remorse or how to let go of that which we should never have held onto in the first place, which is the real meaning of forgiveness. In studies of people who have died and come back to talk about it, the most unifying element of their experiences was the meeting with a Being of white light who stood by with unconditional love, no judgment, and humor as they watched their lives roll before them like movies. The only judge was the person watching his/her own life.

"This workshop will be experiential. You are invited to observe the judgmental prison of your own mind, to feel the cleansing power of remorse, and to allow your heart to open to the freedom and healing that comes from forgiving yourself and others."

90010502 $325

Week of January 7–12

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—
And when used—is inexhaustible.
—Lao Tzu

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. This form is similar to some Reichian work as well, in that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged.

The emphasis is *intra*personal rather than *inter*personal. It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment. Through group exercises, meditations, and open seat work, this workshop will introduce participants to the gestalt practice approach.

Recommended reading: Fritz Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Real People Press); John Heider, The Tao of Leadership (Humanics); Ram Dass and Paul Gorman, How Can I Help? (Knopf).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for more information see pages 39-40.

90010703 $630

The Life Energy Process℠

Stephano Sabetti

The Life Energy Process workshop is a spiritually-oriented approach to body work and lifestyle which allows individuals direct contact with the spiritual self through energy vibrations. This method is facilitated by specific intensive and subtle movements, which participants may find open them to their own healing abilities, allowing them to release unfinished emotions, radiational and chemical toxins, and psychological disturbances. From that point of greater clarity, they may move to the next step in their personal development. Participants continue this energy work physically and verbally through process inquiry and dialogue with the leader as they examine the superficial trace problems of their everyday lives and explore their deeper energy disturbances through energy patterning.

Energetic forms of massage, dance, and theater may be included in this process. Some of the work will be individual, some will be hands-on with partners. The workshop may be of particular interest to professionals and laypersons alike who are excited by the integration of Eastern and Western methods with the new physics for personal, social, and organizational evolution.

Recommended reading: Stephano Sabetti, The Wholeness Principle; Manifestations of Energy; and Shinkido Massage (available from Life Energy Media, 14755 Ventura Blvd., Ste. 1908, Sherman Oaks, CA 91403; [213] 874-7100).

90010702 $630

A Celebration with Paul Horn & Chungliang Al Huang

For workshop description see January 5-7.

90010701 $660

Seeds of Singing

Susan Osborn, David Densmore & Donna Laslo

Our culture considers singing a valid expression only for those gifted individuals called singers, which, by omission, leaves the rest as non-singers. Music as a whole is then tossed into the realm of the extracurricular. However, the voice is a gift inherent to every human and a feedback mechanism to aid in the development and expression of the individual.

Simply breathing, sighing, and extending that sound into song has opened up worlds within and without for those willing to trust their bodies and creatively use the waves of emotion that arise. It is possible to transform the tremendous energy of fear, love, grief, joy, and anger into a nonverbal, penetrating song of one's humanity. With or without words, song is communication. In this workshop, participants will have the opportunity to explore their voices, to form a circle of singers and listeners, to honor and explore the ancient tool of Song.

90010704 $630

Weekend of January 12–14

Introduction to Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

For workshop description see January 7-12.

90011202 $325

Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Tai Ji Intensive)

Chungliang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

This workshop offers New Year renewal with the fundamentals of tai ji practice. Chungliang Al Huang will share the crystallization of his most essential learnings. He will lead participants in sunrise movement meditation, five-elements form, Chinese Qi Gong breathing, and life-force revitalization exercises with Taoist philosophical and aesthetic dialogues and discourses. Join the music, dancing, and celebration!

Recommended reading: Chungliang Al Huang, Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (Dutton) and Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Celestial Arts); Alan Watts with Chungliang Al Huang, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon).

90011201 $325

Introduction to Vipassana Meditation

James Baraz

